'Masquers' name fall quarter play

Masquers, T. C.'s dramatics club, held its first meeting Monday night in the Lab School auditorium. From all indications this will really be a fine year for drama on our campus. Fifty-two pledges who attended the meeting promise new talent to our campus.

Masquers is planning to sponsor the Barter Theatre group here in the winter quarter. They will present a fine play with elaborate sets. This Barter production will be given on the college stage, now undergoing repairs and modernization.

Miss Few, new speech instructor and play director, announced that "Ladies of the Jury," a comedy in three acts, had been selected as the Masquers production for this quarter. This play was selected because of the fine characters in it. It requires twelve men and nine women, all of which are good roles.

Election Rules

Election for class officers of all three classes, senior, junior, and sophomore, will be held Tuesday, October 13.

2. If no candidate receives a majority, those candidates polling a minimum of 25 per cent of the votes cast for that office will compete in a run off election.

3. If no candidate receives a majority of the votes cast for that office and only one candidate or none of the candidates receives 25 per cent or more of the vote cast for that office, the run off shall be between the two candidates receiving the highest number of votes.

FRED PIERCE, President of Student Council, Georgia Teachers College.

1954 selections for Who's Who slated next week

The nominations of candidates for Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities will be held next week, commencing at twelve noon on Thursday. Each division and student organization will be given a list of seniors from which they may nominate as many candidates as they think worthy of the honor. According to rule, each nominee's name is placed on a 3 x 5 card and the reasons why he or she should be so honored.

The campus nominations will be submitted to the Registrar's office by Thursday at twelve noon so as to allow the Honors Day committee to select from the nominees, the ten most worthy seniors.

The Honors Day committee decision will be reached by Monday, October 20.

Alyce McCord Awarded $1,000 Scholarship

Alyce McCord, Worth county freshman is the recipient of the Veterans of Foreign Wars $1,000 college scholarship for this year.

Alyce, a rat, is planning to become an English teacher.

The first honor graduate of the 1953 senior class of the Sylvester High School, Miss McCord won over a field of contestants as honor graduates all over Worth county were eligible to enter the contest.

The scholarship, given this year for the first time, will become an annual award. Contributed by the local V.F.W. Post No. 4825, the award also carries this honor selection as "the most outstanding and deserving graduate of the Worth county schools for the year 1953."

Miss McCord's activity and scholastic record during high school is suggestive of a successful college career. With a 95.61 average she also found time for participation in a well rounded school and church program. She was senior representative on the student council, president of the Tri-Hi-Y, member of the McPhallian Staff, member of the Future Teachers of America, Future Homemakers of America, Beta Club, Thespians Dramatic Society, Eagles Nest and choral club. DON KING

Don King is personality for this week

This weeks "personality" is usually flanked by two beauties and very often both of them at the same time. One of the above mentioned is Marie, the other is a flashy, red, Chevy convertible. Guess who? Don King, of course!

Don is a junior from Wrens, Georgia, and is majoring in industrial arts. He has been very active in campus activities in his past two years, including treasurer of the sophomore class and vice president of the Art Club. His magnetic personality and friendliness toward once influenced everyone have more than once influenced the life of the campus. We salute Don King for these and many more of his outstanding qualities which have helped us hold the title, "The Friendly Campus."

Dear Joe,
The following may be of interest to you:

—SPECIAL—

Effective September 21, 1953, the reactivation of the 24th G.T.C. Battalion under the command of Colonel Henderson will commence training. The old 23rd Battalion has been deactivated and will for the following years be known as the 24th G.T.C. Battalion.

The same rules and regulations as set forth in General Orders /1, 15, and 78 will be followed and executed by the officers and men.

The W. R. will comply with General Orders 105 and 203.
By order of:
COLONEL HENDERSON.

Joe, I would send you this as a present, but it's not the original orders of our activation but a close resemblance of them.

Buddy, it doesn't take long for the spokes to break. Already one enlisted man has taken the bull by the horns. We may as well forget about boot camp. This certain individual seems to think the boots have taken over. I am waiting to see the surprise that he is going to get. The recruits just don't know what the old salts know.

We still have censorship so this note might arrive in pieces. Anyway, it won't be long before I am on my way home. Then I can tell you everything that will have taken place.

Your buddy,
JOHN.

Socially Speaking...

By CATHY HOLT

Socially speaking T. C. campus was on the ball this week, and your Cousin Cathy has a few juicy tidbits for you. Ye Olde George Anne cave was graced by the presence of "his highness, Phil," and upon leaving he wanted none other than rose petals thrown in his path! Some class, huh! Oh yes, I saw a strange sight the other night. A twin with a twin. "Who? Ford and Bowen. Which Ford it was I don't know.

About this mail—Some pretty special letters seem to make Mary Alice Jones mighty happy! But some of us still seem to find empty boxes, but the circulars do help!

Attention! T. C. students are right in vogue doing the Bunny Hop—Yours truly observed a picture of Mitzi Gaynor and Jerry Colona doing "the" dance (?) in a ballroom. Horray for T. C.!

Did you hear what I heard about a certain freshman girl, Billie Kinchen, who put a nickle in the Coke machine and upon receiving her Coke said, "Thank you, Sir?" Remember, Rat Kinchen, the coke machine isn't an upperclassman. I also see where Melba Prosser no longer claims Statesboro as her home. At any rate, she sat on the Lyons side at the football game Friday night. And what's this I hear about Jerry Silverman having curtains made for his room? and by T.C. coeds, too. By way of the grapevine comes the news that Joe Sullivan is getting mysterious mail from West Hall, I wonder...

I hear Dot Brown has been having trouble translating her letters lately. It seems parts of them were in French. The last one was an exception—no French. Says Dot, I sure am glad. Now Shirley (Hansens, that is) won't have to read them, to translate them."

When yours truly went to the Little Store last Wednesday night she saw many "steadies"—Betty and "Ace," Morris and Laurien, Faye and Joe, were among them. The gang from the George Anne enjoyed muchly the treat supplied by our editor!

I guess that's all from here this time. See you next week.

— 'Round About T. C. —

All students wishing to try out for the varsity squad or the freshman (B) team should report to the gym at 3:30 Monday afternoon.

Vespers are held every night at 10:30, in Sanford Hall lounge.

For the past two weeks the gym floor has been in the refinishing business. It was sanded three times and the third and last coat of finish will be applied tomorrow morning.

On Tuesday night Phi Mu Alpha celebrated Founders Day with a rush party in the form of a weiner roast.

All men music majors and all other men interested in music were invited.

Phi Mu Alpha is affiliated with a national music fraternity; Rudy Mills is president of the local chapter.

A reception for the new home economics club members and officers was held Monday night in the parlor of East Hall. Yvonne Jones greeted the guests at the door and introduced them to the receiving line which was composed of Miss Wingo, Miss Bolton, Mrs. Moore, Miss Meadows, and Mary Flanders, president. The guests were served punch, individual cakes, and nuts. Those assisting were June Miller, Sara Fletcher, Etta Ann Atkins, Bertie Franklin, Dot Brown, and Mary Jo Jackson.

Mr. Peacock writes stories for children

Meldrim Peacock, who transferred from Armstrong Junior College in Savannah last year, is really quite a distinguished individual, not only to us at T.C. but to several magazines which have published his articles and stories. Mr. Peacock is an English major and history minor here, but a music teacher in Savannah on the weekends. He is also an ardent animal lover and has a grand sense of humor; so, you can see, that he wheels a versatile pen. The articles that he has written with an historical background are not just factual data but deal with the unusual instead. Since Mr. Peacock's arrival on our campus he has been an asset to its life in plays and scholastic ability and though he is older than some students here, he is as young in heart as any. His stories have appeared in, "The Young People," "Good Business," "Laugh Book Magazine," "Popular Dogs," and "Our Dumb Animals." Another will appear in a future edition of "Etude."

Night Avengers

It was midnight by the clock. Dark as pitch with only one star in the sky. Out of the dreadful darkness, with death like silence, came the avengers. With a carefully planned attack the victims were swept from their homes.

Struck with fear, they were forced into the vicious shadows that moved in and out like a mad cobra.

Dragged along a familiar trail, they found themselves in torture chamber number one. This delay was only to give the public a chance to size up the hated group. The public glared at the unfortunates with savage satisfaction.

The avengers hesitated only for a few precious seconds and the victims were forced to proceed to torture chamber number two. What happened in chamber number two is too furious and shameful to tell. Only the avengers and the victims passed through the gates.

Having satisfied their lust for revenge and torture the upperclassmen rushed the "female rats" back to a nice comfortable bed, which could be found in the middle of the floor.

Make A Wise Choice

Next week when class elections are held, do you know whom you are going to vote for? Probably some good friend or maybe someone that has happened to catch the public's eye during the quarter. But is this what makes a good class officer? Will your friend be able and willing to sacrifice when the moment comes to lead your class on some project and will he be able to carry it to summess?

The most able person for the job is the person that you want. Look back over the candidates record and see what he has done. A person's capabilities are not all you want in a class officer either. The willingness to work equals capability.

This year when you decide whom you are going to vote for, support him. If you have not enough faith in your candidate to support him you really don't think he's a good candidate, or you are not a good class member.

The class is an important part of your college life, so let's go all out to have them strong, well-organized, and with some objectives to accomplish this year. Class elections are the first steps in supporting your class. Don't allow it to slip by.

We Congratulate

The George-Anne would like to say thanks to a person who has been very active in planning and supporting extra-curricular activities on the campus this year. She has not only been active this year, but dedicated much time and effort during the summer, planning and advising so as to make this a successful year at T. C.

SHE is no other than our Dean of Women, Miss Ida Long Rogers.

Some Sound Advice

"Why do we have to go to classes, it interferes with my sack time?" This was a grumbling sophomore trudging sleepily to an eight o'clock class. Other statements heard on campus; I wish Mr. Knowlton had to do all that reading himself; I wish that old witch would ease up on us; Dr. Russell is on the ball, but he really puts you through.

Are these statements justifiable?

Average students pay money in exchange for an education, but try to get least for their money. Everyone tries to get the full value of money elsewhere, but just put him in college and he tries to get a limited amount.

working, and because their parents insist they come. Which are you?

Some sound advice is for you to have a pow-wow with yourself. Decide whether or not you are fulfilling your purpose in college, and if your purpose will

Many students cannot give you one good solid reason for attending college; many can. A variety of reasons, whether solid or not, bring individuals to college. Among these, are, to get an education, and to become prepared for life, as draft dodgers, for the social environment, to acquire the privilege to say, "I am going to college," just to pass time and prevent be a benefit in the future.

Concert Band elects officers

The concert band elected new officers Thursday, October 8. Elected were: president, Frank Willis; secretary, Carol Thomas; tour chairman, Carlos Hand; publicity chairman, Tim Carson. Representatives for classes are: senior class, Morris Davis; juniors, Eugene Frazier; sophomores, Haywood Gmann; freshmen, Melvin Siedel.

Martin, Powell suffer initiation

Tonight the boom is being lowered on the "T" Club pledges, Muff Martin and Kelly Powell. The mortuary column was filled in the past years from this event, but this year there is expected to be only a few injuries. Muff and Kelly were outstanding last year on the baseball team and the time has come for them to join with the lettermen of T. C.

The masterminds behind this torture include the new "T" Club officers, Joe Ed Green, president; Dave Harris, vice-president; Jim Harley, secretary; and "Ace" Little, treasurer.

WRA is planning a big new year

The W. R. A. held its first meeting of the year Tuesday evening at the gymnasium. Approximately eighty girls were present.

Games were played and then a short business meeting was held. Carolyn Tally was elected as temporary chairman and Weita Wall was elected treasurer. Sara Fletcher, vice president, was the only officer to return.

Refreshments were served and the girls signed up for the color teams.

Seats staggered for good vision

T. C. students will be staggered by the first assembly programs which will be held after the remodeling of the auditorium. This prediction is made today after the release of some information about changes and improvements which are being made in the ad. building.

The varied sizes of the seats will create a staggered effect which enable every student to

Boys Football Begins A Brand New Season

The first round of intramural football will get underway Monday afternoon at 4:00 o'clock down on the T.C. football field behind the new dormitory. Sammie Lamb's team and Lard Thornton's team will clash in the first contest. The teams have been divided up as evenly as possible. This year we have four teams consisting of about 15 men to the team. The other two team captains are Mike Genevrino and "Fat" Allen.

There is some good talent here on the campus that will be participating in these games, and I'm sure everyone will enjoy them. We'll have such former stars as Lamar Wynn, former Fitzgerald and South Carolina football star; Sammie Lamb, the "mighty mite" from middle Georgia College and Louisville High gridiron glory; George McCloud, former South Georgia College standout.

see the stage clearly. The widths of the seats may vary from one to four inches. Another improvement is that the seats will be upholstered.

These are just a few of the stars we have, so take time every Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday afternoons to see these men in action. A complete list of all the players will be given at a later date.

We are going to try and have a well rounded intramural program this year and make it the best ever at T. C., so give us a little help and come on down Monday.

P. E. Ruling

This week the physical education department handed down the following ruling:

People have been wearing school clothing for so many occasions other than school athletic activities that from now on anyone wearing athletic clothing belonging to Georgia Teachers College for any purpose other than school sponsored practices and otherwise officially approved events, will have a charge made against them in the business office equal to the replacement costs of such equipment.

Mr. James Hart likes first views

High school students are pretty much the same in the United States as they are in England, according to James A. Hart, English exchange teacher in the Laboratory High School. "They think a great deal alike and have approximately the same interests," explains the teacher of English and history who is here under the Fulbright Teacher's Exchange program.

In discussing the educational set-up in England, Mr. Hart related that education operates there on a primary, secondary, and college level. Differing from our system is the manner in which students entering secondary school are classified. These are divided into three groups: grammar, modern, and practical secondary. Students enter the secondary school at about the age of thirteen and complete the equivalent of our high school at fifteen or sixteen. The grammar secondary school is for the potential college student; modern secondary, for the average child; practical secondary, for the student wishing to specialize or learn a trade.

Apprenticeship in business customarily follows graduation from the modern and practical schools.

As in our own colleges, athletics arouse close competition among the various schools. Rugby, soccer, tennis, track, and other sports are cultivated in most schools. Soccer, according to Mr. Hart, is the most professionalized sport—the better soccer players being recruited from the universities.

Concerning his country's political situation, the Lab High instructor states that some of the better aspects of socialization—socialized medicine, pensions, and social security—are still in existence. Industry, however, is gradually retroacting to private ownership and operation.

Although he has been in America only since September 15, Mr. Hart admits he has had little opportunity to be homesick. Teaching four classes in the high school and indulging in the sport he likes best—tennis—occupy most of his time. The climate here he finds warmer and not so windy as England's.

Mr. Hart attended St. Michael's School, Leeds, and the King's School, Potentfract. He taught four years in England before coming to the United States. He expressed appreciation for the southern hospitality and friendly spirit at T.C., which he says, have helped him to feel more at home in the short time he has been here.
