DR. CARL WEINRICK

Dr. Weinrick To Present Concert Next Thursday

Next Thursday night Carl Weinrick will present an organ concert at 8:15 in the auditorium. He will be sponsored by the organ guild.

This is not a concert on the artist series. Special organ equipment will be transported from Augusta, Georgia. Tickets for adults are $1.00 and students 50 cents.

Carl Weinrick achieved a very rapid rise to fame. His appointment in 1930, while he was still a very young man, to succeed his teacher, the late Lynwood Farnan, at the Church of the Holy Communion in New York, brought his name to the attention of organists everywhere. On his first tour, shortly thereafter, he was hailed as one of the great performers on the organ. Over the years, the quality of his programs and of his playing have won for him a distinctive reputation among musicians.

His first recording, released in 1937, created a sensation—critics and the record-buying public received them with enthusiasm. He has held various important positions, and is now director of music in the chapel of Princeton University, and teacher of organ at Columbia University.

Beauty Review Actors Selected

Charles Mobley and Carlton Humphrey will appear as snowmen featured in the first act of the Beauty Review. Gene Roberts will pantomime the part of a doorman in the second and third acts, and Frank Willis will be the Herald. Mr. Roy F. Powell, director of public relations is master of ceremonies for the affair.

T.C.'s Seven Past Beauty Queens Are Invited to Homecoming Event; Miss T.C. to Participate In Parade

T. C.'s seven past beauty queens, Mrs. Quillan Roberson, the former Miss Dean Howard, Waycross, '47; Jean Hodges of Glennville, '48; Betty Fuller of McRae, '49; Lonadine Morgan of Egypt, '50; Jo Starr of Greenville, '51; Mrs. Bettye Hendrix Fabris of Metter, '52; and Yvonne Jones of Jesus, '53; have all been invited to attend the Beauty Review and Homecoming celebration. Plans are being made for these "Miss T. C.'s" to participate in the Homecoming parade on the morning of February 13.

Miss T.C. of '54 and her court, who will be chosen the night before at the Eighth Annual Beauty Review, "Winter Wonderland," will ride in the parade on a special, out-of-competition float, created by the Art Club.

Since the Beauty Review has been postponed to February 12, the day before the Homecoming festivities, this will be a gala weekend; all alumni are especially invited to arrive early enough to attend the review.

The Beauty Review will be at 8:15 p. m. in the College Auditorium on Friday night, February 12; but Homecoming will officially begin with registration from 9:00 to 10:30 in the parlors of East Hall. Kappa Delta Pi will be in charge of this. At 11:00 the parade of bands, queens and floats created by campus clubs will begin. First, second and third place prizes for floats and for dormitory decorations will be awarded on the basis of originality and clearness of theme. These prizes will be awarded at the half of the basketball game that night.

At 12:30 the president's barbecue will be given for alumni and their families, faculty members and their families and students. This will be at the college.

The afternoon schedule will be filled by an alumni meeting in the college auditorium at 2:00 and an entertainment by each of the divisions for their returning majors.

At 4:00 Howell Cone Hall will be dedicated, followed by open house and a tea.

Supper will be at 5:30 in the dining hall and at 7:00 a fireworks extravaganza will be exploded on the front campus.

The highlight of the evening will be a basketball game between North Georgia and T. C. will begin at 8:30. Featured during the half will be a show by the basketball band and majorettes. Following the game will be a dance sponsored by the senior class of '54. Music will be provided by the Professors, college dance band.

ANNGENE CULBRETH, Junior from Edison, has been chosen the "Sweetheart of B.S.U." She will be honored at the annual Sweetheart Banquet for all Baptist students at the Baptist Church, Friday, February 5. In the selection of the "Sweetheart of B.S.U.," such things as loyalty to certain principals, faith, and personality are considered. "Call to Love" is the theme of this year's banquet over which Annogene will reign.

Auditorium Was Ready For Use Last Wednesday

By IDA WHITTLE

Can you stand it? At last it has happened, that which everyone has been eagerly watching and waiting for! The auditorium in the Ad Building has undergone a long and strenuous face-lifting and the results are absolutely remarkable, as everyone can see. All of us are proud of the changes that have been made—especially the group of people who have observed the day-by-day progress as religiously as they have read the bulletin board each day.

Speaking of the seats, have you noticed the strange new arrangement. At first glance it seems quite normal but take another look and you will see that the seats have been staggered to ensure against the uncomfortable disadvantage of craning and stretching the neck to see around the people in front of you. Also some of the seats are wide and others narrow, nothing like having the personalized touch.

The color scheme sounds ghastly to describe, green and that the particular shades used blue. However, it so happens blend quite harmonious to produce an extremely attractive interior.

Certainly everyone of us has well founded reasons to take pride in the very latest improvement at T.C. and should be willing to do our part to help keep it in its present excellent condition.

Don't skip assembly next time because you simply must try out one of those mighty comfortable seats.

In the double digit column for T.C. as Webb sank 28 to lead, followed by Warren with 21, Phillips with 18, and Harley with 12. Vancho led the Rollins effort with 16 markers.

The Professors will take on the Piedmont five from Demorest Saturday night in the gym. The teachers hold an 88 to 69 early season victory over the Piedmont team.

Construction Of Annual Is Well Underway

The T. C. annual is well under construction according to editors, Doris and Dorothy Ford, Sylvester.

Make-up has advanced through the junior class pictures and proofs have been returned on the advertisements. The cover for the reflector is expected back soon. It will consist of the traditional white and blue colors. All the copy will be sent to press by February 1, 1954.

Although much progress has been accomplished there are a few loose ends that have to be knitted together, such as getting the winter quarter pictures drawn up, plus some few clubs.

The editors urge all clubs to pay for their club page as soon as possible.

Feiderlson Speaks To Students In Assembly

A former assistant to the Secretary of Labor in Washington will speak at the Georgia Teachers College assembly Monday and will then be available for special class lectures.

He is Judge Charles N. Feiderlson, who has recently returned to his native Savannah to practice law after a long career with the State Department.

Arrangements are now being made by the college faculty to have Judge Feiderlson deliver special lectures to individual classes in history and literature. The schedules are being arranged over several days next week.

A graduate of the University of Georgia, Judge Feiderlson was once a college teacher, a newspaper editor, and a book reviewer. His most recent assignment with the State Department was as an information officer. Before being assigned

Hooley Publishes Music Article

"Put Music to Work" is the title of an article in the current issue of the Georgia Education Journal by Asst. Prof. Daniel S. Hooley, of the Georgia Teachers College music faculty.

Mr. Hooley urges the practical application of music in elementary and secondary schools, and emphasizes the psychological value of music instruction.

to the office of Secretary of Labor in Washington, he was regional director of the Atlanta office of the National Labor Relations Board.

Professors Split On Florida Trip

The cagers of G.T.C. annexed the final game of a two-game road trip into Florida at the expense of the Rollins quintet from Winter Park by an 83 to 63 score. The Professors had lost to the towering team from Stetson the night before, by a 82 to 60 margin.

In the game against Stetson Friday night the Florida team gained a 17 to 13 first quarter lead and led from there on out with the halftime score being 40 to 28. Young led the first half showing of the Stetson squad with a 10 point first half effort. Imgrund was high man for the night though as he sank 26 points for the Stetson team. The Professors who had a disadvantage in height were led by Chester Webb, center, who scored 18 points. He was followed by Horace Belflower who had 13.

In the Rollins game Saturday night the Professors were hard pressed the first three quarters but came back in the latter part of the third quarter to win going away. The Professors got off to a slow start with the Rollins squad holding a 21 to 16 point advantage at the end of the first quarter. Horace Belflower, guard, was taken out of the game with a sprained ankle early in this first quarter. The Professors started rolling in the second quarter and by half time had built up a 38 to 34 lead.

The picture changed somewhat at the beginning of the third quarter as the Rollins team threw up a zone defense at the Professors, and by the middle of the third quarter held a 6 point lead. At this point the teachers seemed to have solved the zone and they came up with one of their hottest streaks of the season, scoring 14 points while the Rollins team could only salvage 2. From this point on out the T.C. squad had easy going and they came out winning by an 83 to 63 margin. Four men hit

Time Draws Near

Homecoming is drawing near. Five hundred alumni are expected to return to T.C.'s campus.

During the time they are here there are many activities taking place. From the time of registration until the weekend is over a few students will be doing things on a 24 hour schedule, while others will be living the life of a lazy bum.

The students who will see that the work is done are doing it to provide a decent homecoming for the alumni.

The largest job will be constructing the floats. Last year the floats were beautiful, as they probably will be this year, but the work done on the floats were by just a few select people. Many of them worked for days at the time, excluding all other work, just to have a float that would represent their club and T.C. justly.

On the other hand the larger per cent of the students went out on a spree, having a good time and forgetting that T.C. and its guests existed.

Homecoming can be made better in many respects this year if the students will really take an interest in the affairs.

All it takes is a little hard, efficient work and the objective in mind to have the best of homecomings.

The Editor Speaks

Several weeks ago I was asked to "put something" in the George-Anne about girls having to sacrifice a night out to attend an intramural basketball game.

After receiving this request at many different intervals, I wandered into Miss Ida Long Rogers' office to really get the low down on the problem.

When I entered the office I personally couldn't see why it should count as a night out. After a very friendly debate with Miss Rogers I began to see the objective she had in mind when she administered this rule and before the discussion came to a close she had converted me to her point of view. All this time I was aware of the position Miss Rogers holds as a psychology teacher.

Miss Rogers directs her objective toward more freedom for the girls when she thinks they can assume the responsibility.

The common belief that the girls attending the University of Georgia have much more freedom than they do at T.C. is false. This point can be proven by comparing the manuals that state the rules of each institution.

The purpose of giving the freshmen girls limited amount of nights out is to help them form a better habit of studying. In this way the freshmen girls will acquire a better education than if they were allowed to roam free every night.

This rule concerning intramurals may seem stiff and rugged but I term it justifiable.

Typical College Atmosphere

The recreation room in Cone Hall Monday and Wednesday evenings was filled with what we call a typical collegiate atmosphere. Boys and girls dancing, talking and just generally enjoying themselves with the music of our own Combo filling the air, provided an air for which we have been searching since coming to T.C.

We believe everyone thoroughly enjoys these recreation periods. It is a shame we don't have a student center here at T.C., but one has been planned for the future and if these students of the future enjoy it every night as much as we do bi-weekly, it certainly will be a great boost to campus life here.

Plans have been made for adding cards and checkers to the facilities in Cone. We hope the students will continue patronizing and enjoying this activity. The musicians furnishing the music are rendering a great service to students here.

This paper extends a hearty congratulation to the music students furnishing the music and the Student Council for making it possible. Each little spark does its part in making the fire brighter, as T.C. continues to improve.

Concert Appreciated

We students did our part toward providing a full house for Wednesday nights' concert artist in the newly decorated college auditorium. Students swarmed from all the dormitories to take advantage of a great cultural opportunity. Such interest on the part of the students should certainly be encouraging to the administration in their planning for future events. We do enjoy and appreciate seeing and hearing the various artists as was shown by the large number of students attending Wednesday's concert.

Wednesday Night Public Opinion Poll...

Was the Night Of Many Sounds

It was the night of many sounds last Wednesday night. Joseph Battista was giving a concert and as usual in a performance of this type everything sounds off.

In the gym a basketball game was underway. The shrill whistle of the referee was as constant as the notes coming from the piano. The referee was supplemented by cheers of victory during the concert.

Then out of the clear night everything was quite for a spell, and right in the middle of the "Minute Waltz" a sound came in with a clang. The 10:00 o'clock bell sounds off at the same time drawing everyone's attention from Mr. Battista's number to the assumed fire alarm.

After the bell ceased its ringing, attention was again focused on the music and the program was concluded in peace.

Florida's Fruit At Collegeboro

They brought them back ripe.

After the Florida basketball trip it seems as though T. C. has turned from a college to a fruit growing institution.

Upon their return the players brought fruit back in anything that would hold the elements.

A person could have easily been frightened stiff if he had seen the various forms dragging what seemed like bodies across the front campus the weird night of the team's return. If a closer examination of the object they were dragging was made it would have proven to be fruit in warm-up pants.

Next day the dormitories appeared to have been a fruit store displaying the best Florida fruit in Collegeboro, Georgia.

Faculty Dames Treats Husbands

Faculty Dames Club will entertain their husbands next Wednesday night at the community house in Statesboro.

Masquer's will present "Overtones," a one act play that has been perfected by the club. Betty Lott, stage manager, will manage the play.

The President of the United States has brought up the issue on lowering the national voting age limit to 18 years of age. He has stated that he is in favor of the change.

Georgia is one of the very few states that maintains the voting age at 18 years and with this aspect in mind the George-Anne would like for you to give your opinion on the current debate, including both advantages and disadvantages that exist within the realm of this problem.

Phil Norton: "The success of allowing 18 years olds to vote has, without a doubt been proven here in Georgia. Most young people, when they reach 18 have recently studied civics and the importance of voting. They eagerly and intelligently cast their ballot. I would like to see 18 year olds all over the nation be allowed to vote. I do not, however, believe that the federal government is the place it should be decided. Control of voting is a state operation and should be left to the state."

Harry Clark: "It is my opinion that a person at the age of 18 is old enough to vote. This idea that a man or woman isn't educated or mature enough to vote by the time they are 19 years of age is obsolete. In this day and time the majority of the population has finished high school or had some training in government affairs.

"Being a veteran, I also am of the opinion that if a man is old enough to be called upon to serve his country involuntarily, he should have the right to vote for the representation that has called upon him.

"The power of setting up the procedure for voting is invested within the individual states. I don't believe the federal government should over rule the states on this issue. They should propose the issue to the states and let them take the necessary action if they so desire."

Dan Hutchins: "To vote when one is just 18 seems to me a bit far-fetched in that a boy is not mature enough, nor is he well versed enough on parliamentary procedures, to know enough about a political party or the chief executive of his nation.

"Most boys at eighteen are just out of high school and if he has been in vogue he has not studied, nor learned the things he should have about government; this being the age of fools and folly, and not just study.

"The greatest defense of young people is that, if I am old enough to fight and possibly to die for my country, I am surely old enough to vote for the man who sends me to the front lines. To any mature person, this is obviously a juvenescent statement and should show the public that this age has all the earmarks of children, and have no place in electing leaders.

"I think the facts should be weighed well before any law is passed giving the youth the right to vote unless the latter prove themselves capable. This is a patriotic duty and should be as such."

Tommie Jean Corbitt: "Since our schools should send out thinking boys and girls who are able to participate in our democracy, the age of eighteen years seems to me to be a good point to start voting. Maturity is a quality of mind as well as the body and, therefore, if the voting age is to be set at eighteen then the home, the community, and the school should give every possible aid to develop among the young voters the ability to judge candidates and issues for themselves. Of course we say hats off to Georgia for this progressive step which we have already taken."

Clark S. Knowlton: "Advantages: Enlarges electorate; makes it more difficult to control by faction. Youngsters are more idealistic and are therefore more inclined to vote as he sees it and not for his individual profit. Disadvantages: Perhaps young people may be affected more by personality than the issue at stake."

Mike Genevrino: "Who started all this business about 18 year olds voting and why? Down through the years it has been the American custom for voters to have reached the age of 21. It seems that through political influence that certain individuals may benefit by having 18 year olds vote. If it is honestly felt that they know enough about government to vote at this age then there is nothing wrong in it. It is said that people mature at 21, physically, mentally, and what have you. Of course some mature earlier, some later. If it is a change for the better interest of the government, then there is no reason why it should not be given the green light."

Highlifters Win First Basketball game 87-55

A new twist has been turned by a group of men at T.C. on the viewpoint of basketball.

They have formed a cage team called the Highlifters. It is a select group of athletes coming together to form an athletic term to permit an outlet for their physical energies.

In the win-lost column the Highlifters have racked up a 1-1 record.

Last Saturday night they romped over Soperton 87-55. The Highlifters commanded the play all during the game, and were leading 40-33 at the half time.

George McLeod lead the scoring for the T.C. squad with 23 points. Heath and West follow with 15 and 13 respectively. Hollis Ray Powell's excellent rebounding was a major factor in the win.

Monday night the Highlifters took on a strong Quonset Steeler club. The Steeler's eased out a 62-60 victory in a game where most of the points were scored from 20 or more feet from the basket.

Highlifter's were behind three points at the end of the first quarter, but pulled a reverse in the second period, gaining six points on the Steeler's to lead 33-30 at half the way mark. At one interval during the third quarter the Highlifters lead 48 to 38, but the last quarter spurt of Glen Wilkes, an ex-Mercer University great, overrode the "Lifers."

Again Hollis Ray Powell was of much value on the backboards. West sank 13 points to lead the hoopsters from Collegeboro. Heath hit 12 and McLeod was close on their heels with 10 points.

Next Thursday the Highlifters will battle a Glyneo five in Darian and Saturday night they will take on a team from Soperton. A tentative game is being planned with Stilson Athletic club.

Sanford Hall Elects House Council; Powell Selected for President

Sanford Hall men elected house council members last week.

Those selected were: Kelly Powell, president; John Kennedy, vice president; Ivy Chance, secretary; and Charlton Humphrey, treasurer.

New monitors and proctors were also selected. Bobby Lasseter was chosen as monitor on first floor and Harry Clark was picked for second floor. Mike Genevino was retained as proctor for the first floor and Jimmy Johnson was selected for the upper.

These officials were introduced to the Sanford residents at a house meeting called by Miss Franklin, Sanford Hall house director.

Mrs. Franklin stated the purpose of the house council was to make Sanford a better place to live. She continued, "I want the boys to feel at home and not cramped, but there are certain things that a person must abide by."

At the present time the two occupied floors are waging a contest. The flood that has the highest average on room checks will receive a party sponsored by the floor with the lower

Teachers Lose To Bears 63 to 48

A dribble crazy Mercer basketball team slowed down the high scoring professors last night 63-48.

Using the slow game tactics against the usually pace setting Teachers the Bears got off to a good start and were in hot water only one time during the game. They lead the T.C. five 34 to 26 at half time.

The Teachers fired the boiler for a few minutes in the third quarter and forged ahead 35 to 34, but the Mercer squad took command of the play and were never headed from that point.
