Walking tour via zoom Oct. 23

October 13, 2020

The poster features a cartoon eagle mascot wearing a dark blue tank top with the word "EAGLES" in white. The eagle is holding a black sign with "FOLLOW ME!" in yellow. The background is a stylized city map with green squares representing parks and various colored buildings. To the right, the text reads "SAVANNAH HISTORY REMIX" in large blue letters, with "walking tours" in a smaller, orange, cursive font below it. The date and time "OCT 23 6 p.m." are prominently displayed in blue and orange. Below this, it says "Join Us! For a Zoom meet-and-greet!". A paragraph of text describes the event: "Come learn how our intrepid researchers found new stories and created these tours. Stay for a lively discussion on future projects and where Savannah's history is going next." At the bottom, it states "Open to the public". The footer contains logos for the Savannah Archaeological Alliance, Georgia Humanities, and Georgia Southern University, along with a note about funding from the Georgia Department of Economic Development.

Hear about the Savannah History Remix self-guided walking tours, a Georgia Humanities funded project, Friday, Oct. 23, at 6 p.m. via Zoom.

Presenters will talk about their research process, their resources, and how they were able to transform their in-person walking tours into self-guided digital tours in light of COVID-19.

This is a great opportunity to learn about what is new in Savannah's history, the resources available, and how Public History projects are reshaping during COVID-19.

Zoom meeting link, and more information about the project can be found at:
