28 Students Selected For Honors Day

Annual Program Held Monday In Auditorium

Monday GTC will honor 28 of its students who have excelled for at least five quarters. It is an annual program where students are recognized for constructive leadership, unselfish service, and excellent scholarship.

The faculty chose the persons who they considered outstanding in leadership and service, while those being given recognition for scholarship must have maintained a grade point ration of at least five over the past five quarters.

Eleven individuals will be honored for their leadership and service. The 11 are: Tommie Jean Corbett, Vidalia; Marilu H. Mills, Avondale Estates; Rose Mary Ammons, Brunswick; Janice Chastain, Albany; Morris Davis, Tifton; Mary Flanders, Rockledge; Mike Genevrino, Newark, N. J.; Yvonne Jones, Jesup; Fred Pierce, Savannah; Gene Roberts, Wadley; and Christy Trowell, Oliver.

The remaining 19 will be honored for their scholarship records over the past five quarters. Those include: Mary Helen Altman, Waycross; Mrs. Betty Clary, Savannah; Vivien Cowart, Savannah; Al Crumpler, Hagin; Bobby Gene Kingery, Pulaski; Mrs. Ruth Knowlton, Statesboro; Marie McKendree, St. Simons Island; Pat Meeks, Nichols; Barry Owens, Brunswick.

Special speaker for the occasion will be Dr. William L. Pressley, president of Westminster School in Atlanta.

BSU Students Leave Soon On Missionary Work

Peggy Saturday, Collins, will leave for Jamaica, June 10th for ten weeks of mission work.

She will go with 32 students from the Baptist Student Convention to teach Vacation Bible School. This is the first time the Georgia BSU has sent a member to a foreign mission field.

Every BSU member in Georgia was eligible to apply for this appointment. Peggy was chosen on qualities of leadership, experience, and talent.

MARILU MILLS, Avondale Estates, will reign over the May Court today. Marilu is a senior who has excelled in many activities during her four years at GTC. Yvonne Jones, Jesup, will serve as her maid of honor. Others serving on the May Court are Mrs. Bettye Fabris, Metter; Mrs. Barbara Voight, Savannah; and Doris and Dorothy Ford, Sylvester.

Lunstford and DeNitto Present Joint Recital

Two Georgia Teachers College seniors will be presented in a joint recital Thursday at 8:15 p. m. in the college auditorium.

Miss Faye Lunstford, Richland, will play organ and Johnny DeNitto, Brooklet, will play piano.

Faye will present numbers by Bach, Mendelssohn, Buvtehude, Bingham, and others. Some of Johnny's selections are from Bach, McDowell, Chopin, Leuona and others.

Miss Lunstford has been a member of the concert and band, dance orchestra, accompanist for Philharmonic Choir, dean of the Organ Guild, president of En Melodie. She was the 1954 recipient of Statesboro Music Club award to be presented on Honors Day, May 10.

Johnny has been a member of the concert band, marching band, dance orchestra, Philharmonic Choir, secretary-treasurer of the Organ Guild, and president of the Music Education Club.

Both students have attended GTC for four years and are music majors.

'Festival of Nations' is Theme Of Yearly Celebrations at GTC

Mrs. Marilu Mills, Avondale Estates, will be honored as May Queen through a series of activities that starts today at 3:30. Yvonne Jones, Jesup, will be maid of honor. Other members of the May Court are Doris and Dorothy Ford, Sylvester; Mrs. Bettye Hendrix Fabris, Metter; Mrs. Barbara Jacobs Voight, Savannah Beach; Nancy Armstrong, Decatur; and Betty Roan, Fitzgerald.

The activities, taking place back of the gym on the amphitheater, will begin with dances representing the "Festival of Nations." This first series of dances will be presented by a group of Laboratory School students. Concluding dances around the May Pole will be performed by the freshman girls.

Marilu will be crowned May Queen by Jo Starr, a graduate of GTC, and last year's May Queen.

At 6:30 Student Council will sponsor a formal dinner in the college dining hall, honoring the May Queen, May Court and escorts. Others invited are Student Council members and dates, and some of the faculty members.

Fred Lenfesty, education professor, is to be guest speaker for the event and President Zack Henderson will give the invocation. Peggy Kilpatrick will provide a type of dining music.

To bring this annual affair to a climax tonight a formal dance will begin at 8:30 in the gym sponsored by the Student Council. The theme of the dance will be a continuation of the "Festival of Nations."

Acting master of ceremonies for the day affairs will be Phil Norton, Griffin, and vice president of Student Council.

All single male students who plan to attend summer school and enter school fall quarter are requested by Miss Sophie Johnson, dean of men, to come by her office and fill out the proper application blanks.

Orders for class rings and pins will be taken at the "Blue Tide" in the future, according to an announcement released this week by Don McDougald, comptroller, and Eliot Battle, salesman for the Herff-Jones Company.

The five dollar deposit will still be required and the rings will be sent to the store; not to individuals purchasing them.

FRED LENFESTY, professor of education, will be the guest speaker at a formal dinner sponsored by Student Council tonight at 6:30.

Tyson's Type

As I was laboring in the Cave last Wednesday night, a lead was presented to me with a question by a fellow worker. He wanted to know if the statement would arouse interest. There was a third person in on this weekly outing and as this question was presented to me he sleepily chimed in, "would anything arouse interest on campus?" I immediately agreed with him that he had just stated the statement of the year.

WOULD ANYTHING AROUSE INTEREST AT GTC? If it did it would have to be something lurid that has not been experienced this year. Nothing short of a sensation would wake up the students and make them interested in their surrounding environment. Student activities are attended like a movie theatre without a movie. In athletics a few of the students are interested in what is taking place and are behind the Professors all the way, but the huge per cent not interested is killing all possible hope for a superb school spirit which is essential for all fighting teams. In the field of music many fine recitals and concerts have been presented free, but will they bother to go to the trouble to dress for such an occasion? In activities outside classes there has been a minute few who have participated. In fact some have hardly been interested enough to attend classes.

This student body on a whole is undoubtedly the most unobservable, lagiest, nonconforming, and has the least interest in things about them of any institution of its size and reputation. They can be heard grumbling and complaining over anything from why do classes exist in college, to why didn't a story appear in the George-Anne, that was never handed in, and was not of importance to anyone but the individual who was complaining.

Getting back to the school spirit I mention the support of athletics. Many of you will disagree extremely with me on this point, but if you attended very many basketball games you could see my point. Sure, more students turned out for this sport than any other phase at GTC, but the spirit and backing was lacking even though the students were there in numbers. As a matter of fact there was a certain decrease in the number of students attending the ball games.

In the field of music there has been a very poor attendance. Good money was paid out in order to procure the excellent concert entertainment that has been provided this year. Also, the student recitals excell in many ways. First they are presented in a manner of which we can be proud and another is, many hours are spent by the students who stage the recitals, in preparing these events which have been ignored almost completely by students outside the field of music.

Outside activities—great guns! There is an outlandish number who belong to clubs and different organizations. You would think everyone would be fighting to get a job if you observe the rolls of these various organizations, but it is a sure thing that something will come up lacking if a major event has to be handled.

Why don't you wake up and think about something other than going home on the weekend, sleeping and eating. It might surprise you.

Everyone And Dien Bien Phu

This week is a significant one in our lives if we only realize it. The Geneva Conference is in session and that muddy little hell in Indo China continues to hold.

Dien Bien Phu can change our lives. As young people we should realize that the responsibility of making or breaking the world of tomorrow lies in our hands. If Dien Bien Phu falls and the French evacuate the fruitless struggle in Indo-China, we must take up the fight. The position of Indo-China makes it a springboard to all of south-east Asia, including India. The loss of Indo-China would also mean a psychological victory for the Communists. In this cold war that could be disastrous.

Most male college students are classified as 2-S by the Selective Service, but do any of you remember Korea? Classifications were changed overnight. They could be changed again. If you're planning to work this summer, or get married, or to go to school next year, or especially if you've got your eye on a peacetime military career, look at what's happening in the world around you and you might think more seriously about your plans.

Dien Bien Phu might mean a complete change of plans, or it might mean that you can go ahead and make even bigger plans than you already have. It could mean the stepping-stone to a time of peace if the French hold, or it could mean, if we must enter the struggle in an all-out effort, WORLD WAR III.

If you're a person that plans, this is significant. Consider this little perimeter of blood and guts, mud and steel, men and machines, which holds against the overwhelming hoards of Vietnam rebels which are constantly attacking these men who have nothing to gain and everything to lose. Consideration is necessary, it is vital for your future. Tomorrow may depend on these men.

Classroom Peeks

In Dr. Rogers' social studies 104 section the other day, we had a debate on whether or not a girl can stop her neighbor across the hall from throwing lighted matches in her waste paper basket. It seems that he was trying to explain Metternich's policy of intervention.

Mr. Moye can keep everyone in his class amused simply by the way he talks.

We're all sorry for our elementary games to be over in physical education. We were having such fun being first and second graders again.

One day we were even permitted to stop our games and go out to witness the laying of eggs by a turtle. She had selected a place by the swimming pool fence to deposit them.

Dr. Russell is the joker on the campus. When he puts his mind to it he can make his class roar. Recently he told one of his classes why Mr. Moye had never gotten married. He said that after Mr. Moye had gone with this girl for quite a number of years, he decided to pop the question. After much consideration he said, "Why don't you and I get married?" She quickly replied, "Who would have us?"

Way of Fate

By CARLTON HUMPHRY

"One ship goes east, another west

By the selfsame winds that blow.

'Tis the set of the sail, and not the gale

That determines the way they go.

Like the ships of the sea

Are the ways of fate, as we voyage through life—

'Tis the set of the soul that decides the goal,

And not the calm nor strife.

How true these words. With a driving purpose in life man seems to be able to surmount seemingly unconquerable odds and accomplish his goal.

The reverse of this is also true. Without a purpose, man always seems to be in the midst of strife and misfortune. Nothing good seems to come his way.

We all need to reevaluate our purpose in pursuing education at GTC. As prospective teachers, we should ask ourselves the question: Do I really want to teach, more than anything else. If the answer to this question is yes, we are in the right field, and can look forward to a worthwhile life in teaching.

But, if the answer is no, our time will be spent in agony. Nothing could be worse, I think, than to be placed in an occupation in which each day seemed like an eternity, and each evening ended too soon.

For any of us who answer no to the above question, it would be wise to change our profession before time and expenses have gone too far.

Personally, I can think of nothing else that offers the opportunities found in teaching. Nothing could be more enjoyable to me than to have a part in quenching the thirst of knowledge in the children of America. No higher goal could be set for me than to spread the ideas of democracy and fellowship on to posterity.

Fortunately, everyone doesn't hold this opinion. The human mind is not made for one pattern by mass production. Everyone is an individual with individual tastes, preferences, and goals.

These tastes preferences, and goals should be carried out in an individual manner, but they should be carried out in the way they naturally lead. No restriction should be placed on them. Everyone wanting to teach should teach; everyone not earnestly looking forward to teaching should get out of the profession.

Only when happiness and peace of mind prevail can any man accomplish most. Happiness and peace of mind are the direct result of a wise choice of vocation, and only in this way can they be maintained.

So We Think It's Bad

So we think our education system is bad. I'll grant you that it could be improved, but in comparison to some educational programs it is superb.

In Kashmir the government sends out mobile schools to shepherds may grasp a small portion of education. As the goats and sheep graze from place to place the mobile follows, even when they climb peaks that are as much as 10,000 feet in height.

Think how little time the youths will have to spend studying in comparison to ours; how inadequate his facilities are, and the few persons in Kashmir that are equally qualified as our instructors. With these elements along with many others think how much better our educational provisions and programs are when compared.

With the much superior facilities and opportunities we are far advanced in the field of education with our younger generation, but this above example demonstrates that the world is dependent upon the future generation for survival and even the smaller nations realize this situation, therefore they strive to provide the best and most substantive education possible.

Gene's Gab

By GENE MEADOWS

The interest in intramural sports has been given a big boost lately by the softball games that are being played each evening at 6:00 o'clock between the different classes. There has been a large number of students attending the games as well as taking part in them. So far the freshmen seem to be holding the edge but the seniors are close behind. Let's try to see some of the few games remaining on the schedule and show the ones who take part that we appreciate their competitive sport.

The TC Professors seem to be on the upgrade now after a losing streak that was extended for five games. In two of the best games of the year, last Thursday and Friday, the Professors split a series with the Marines from Paris Island. The professional studded Marine nine was handed a 5 to 4 defeat Thursday and were hard pressed in winning 1 to 0 over the Professors Friday.

Following up our brief sketch of the members of the baseball squad; this week we will take Kelly Powell and Jimmy Ford. Kelly is seeing his second year of action for the TC nine. Last year Kelly wound up the season with a .346 average, second only to his brother Hollis, who had a .347 average. This season Kelly switched from 3rd base to left field. Although he is doing a good job afield, he has not yet reached his hitting stride. Kelly is a sophomore from Wrightsville. Jimmy Ford, freshman from Augusta, has been one of the bright spots on the squad this spring. Jimmy's batting average is in the neighborhood of .350. He plays the first base position and is a very good prospect for future teams.

Have you noticed those round multicolored objects on the lawn back of the gym? It seems that archery is gaining prominence as a sport on the GTC campus. Maybe it's because it is being taught in physical education 306 this quarter. Anyway, it looks like there are several candidates for the title of Robin Hood on the campus.

Teachers Split With Parris Island Marines

Righthander Joe Ed Green pitched and batter his team to a 5-4 victory over the Parris Island Marines in the first of the two games series Thursday and Friday. The Marines came back to take the second game from Hall (GTC starting pitcher) 1-0.

The GTC nine collected a total of ten hits to help them produce five runs. Their big inning came in the seventh inning. A hit and two walks loaded the bases, with no one out, Evens popped out, Perry went down swinging, Green lined one into the left field for a triple scoring 3 runs. Making the score 5-2.

Greene gave up a total of 8 hits and racked up a total of seven strike outs. His record now stands 2-2.

Paris Island scored 2 runs in the third and 2 in the eighth inning.

Vondall Hall took credit for the loss Friday as he pitched a 4 hit ball game. He gave up three walks while cutting down 7 at the plate on strikes. This was his second defeat against 4 wins.

The Marine's run came in the third inning, when the first batter singled and the second batter hit what looked to be a double play ball to Wallen. He dropped the ball and then trying to get the runner, he threw over the first baseman's head. The runners ended up at second and third with no one out. The third batter hit to Potts who threw home and nailed the runner at the plate, and the runner on second moved over to third base. The next batter hit to Perry. His only play was to first base and the runner scored. Hall struck out the next batter to retire the side.

Jimmy Ford lead the GTC nine in the hitting department with 2 hits for 3 times at the plate.

Sparks Continues To Lead Batting

Ferrell Sparks, Canton, continues to lead the Professors at bat despite a 33 point drop which brought his average down from .388 to .355.

Jimmy Ford, Augusta, remains in the number two spot with a solid .333 per cent. Ford has dropped from an average of .350.

Dr. Russell's Filing Setup Proves Efficient

Upon entering the office of Mrs. Guardia of the English division and Dr. Russell, chairman of the English division, the first thing you see is Mrs. Guardia's desk, neat as a pin and possessing only a few articles. Then as you turn around, you are struck with a full view of Dr. Russell's desk (or rather the articles on his desk). Unable to comment at first, you can only stare and wonder how anyone could possibly find anything in that mass of papers, envelopes, books and magazines. (Maybe even those last year's Christmas cards he forgot to mail). It's about a foot deep without any available space.

When asked how he manages to find anything, Dr. Russell informed that he has the material arranged in layers which he calls "decade layers" of which there are already two principal ones and the beginning of the third. He stated that if he could remember the decade in which the material occurred, he has little difficulty in finding about 90 per cent of what he wants, and the other 10 per cent is probably not worth the bother anyway.

One would think that with so much material on a desk the office would become cluttered and crowded, but Dr. Russell announced that his system saves space up to a point (when the articles begin to overrun the desk and pile on the floor and chairs). This way there is no need for bulky filing cabinets that take up space.

Dr. Russell admits that his desk could stand a great deal of straightening and hopes that someday he will yet get around to doing some "house cleaning."

When asked to comment on his desk as a filing system Dr. Russell concluded, "Being a strong believer in keeping everything in the open and aboard, and resting in the truth that what is eternally in the eye is always readily to be seen, I evolve this system of filing which I designate by the term desk-piling."

If anyone is searching for a system of filing (or piling) to use when they begin teaching, they might visit Dr. Russell's office and inspect his method. Maybe it's the one they've been looking for.
