The GTC Concert Band (Above) under the direction of Dana M. King, will begin its annual tour March 22. The tour, which will last four days, will tour 7 middle and North Georgia towns. The band will present a varied program of concert and popular music.

I-A Meets To Elect Officers

The Industrial Arts Club elected their officers for spring quarter in a called meeting March 8, at the home of Dr. John Erickson, associate professor of industrial arts.

Amendments to the club constitution were made and plans for the construction of the proposed signs at the entrance of our campus were discussed.

The club invites all interested persons, both boys and girls, to join them in their activities.

Amherst Opens GTC Schedule

Amherst College of Massachusetts will furnish the opposition for the Georgia Teachers College baseball team in the first official game of the season Monday and Tuesday, March 21 and 22.

Amherst is considered a strong contender in the sport of baseball. They are currently on a southern trip playing several southern college baseball teams.

Admission for the ball-games this year will be 10 cents for students, 35 cents for high school students and faculty, and 50 cents for civilian adults.

Game time for home games will be 3:15 p. m.

GTC Band Will Make Tour From March 22 to 26

The GTC Concert Band, under the direction of Dana M. King, will go on tour from March 22 to March 26. The following concerts are announced by tour director, Carlos Hand, junior, Hazelhurst: March 22, night concert, Waynesboro; March 23, day concert, Sandersville, night concert, Commerce; March 24, day concert, Elberton, night concert, Griffin; March 25, day concert, Jonesboro, night concert, Decatur.

The band will take 38 members, announcer, and director. The program will be varied from Fauchet's "Symphony in Bb" to "A Tribute to Glenn Miller," and will feature clarinet soloist, Milton Norras, freshman, Albany, playing the the Rimsky-Korsakov "Concerto for Clarinet and Band." Also featured will be Darwin Humphrey's freshman, Vidalia, a concert announcer and narrator for "The Man Who Invented Music."

Before leaving on tour the band will rehearse all day Monday, and leave campus Tuesday after classes. They will return to campus Saturday, March 26.

Mental Health Study Planned

Fred T. Lenfesty, associate professor of education, is beginning a study "The Mental Health of Beginning Teachers," and needs some volunteers from the senior class to take some psychological tests.

Mr. Lenfesty says, "The success of the study depends upon every senior's co-operation."

"The criticism of past studies of this type is that only the well-balanced ones agree to take this test."

"My theory is the vast majority of our students are well-balanced people."

Assignments Made for 40 Student Teachers

Student teaching assignments for spring quarter were announced this week by Dr. Marshall Hamilton, associate professor of education. Forty students, all seniors in the GTC education division, will practice teach in six schools in this area.

Staff Changes Are Announced

Gene Meadows, sophomore, Register, will replace Carlton Humphrey as GEORGE-ANNE editor for spring quarter, according to an announcement by the faculty committee on publications.

Meadows served as news editor of the paper fall quarter, and is now managing editor. Besides work on the paper, Meadows is a member of the Student Council, secretary of Sanford Hall house council, and vice president of the sophomore class.

Carolyn Pierce, junior, Eastman, will serve as managing editor for the coming quarter. For the past quarter she occupied the position of news editor.

Occupying the position of news editor, will be Roger Brown, junior, Sycamore. Larry Hyde, freshman, Walhalla, S. C., will move up to sports editor, replacing Brown.

Lewis Strickland, junior, Hinesville, will again serve as Business manager, and Joanne Hill, sophomore, Hawkinsville, will edit the society column.

Other staff members will be announced next quarter. All interested students may apply for work on the paper.

Night Class In French Planned

A meeting to discuss plans for a night class in elementary French 101 next quarter, will be held on Tuesday evening, March 15, at 7 p. m. The meeting will be held in room 33 of the administration building.

The meeting will be to determine the meeting time of the class, tuition, and course credits to be received for the course.

The class will be open only to seniors and those not regularly enrolled in college. Anyone who is interested in this beginning French class should contact Dean Carroll and be at the meeting on Tuesday night.

Holt is Chosen 'T' Book Editor

Cathy Holt, junior, Albany, was selected to edit the 1955-56 "T" Book. Miss Holt, who was chosen by the Student Council, succeeds Cherrell Williams, senior, Perry, who has been editor for the past two years.

Spring quarter practice teaching will be done in Hazelhurst, Sylvania, Savannah, Glennville, Claxton, and the GTC Laboratory School. The student teachers, working under the supervision of regular classroom teachers to whom they are assigned, will work in every field taught in the state elementary and high schools except foreign languages and agriculture.

Of the 40 student teachers, 14 will teach in the elementary grades with the remaining 26 teaching in the secondary grades. The schools, student assignments, home town, and subject taught are as follows:

Glennville: Annette Brock, Folkston, English; Gene Collins, Collegeboro, physical education; and Daphen Watson, Reidsville, business education.

Claxton: Wendell Bowen, Thomasville, business education, and Ronald Luke, Collegeboro, physical education.

Hazelhurst: Rita Harper, Savannah, English; Sammy Zipperer, Rincon, physical education; and Laurien Seanor, Fitzgerald, science.

Savannah: Bernard Barnard, Patterson, social studies; Joyce Mason, Smyrna, business education, and Loretta Roach, Statesboro, social studies.

Sylvania: Kenneth Halmkay, Carrolton, physical education; Herschel Thompson, Perry, science, and Harold Wynn, Brooklet, industrial arts.

GTC Laboratory High School: Lynwood Mock, Blakely, physical education; Abner Dykes, Cochran, physical education; Joe Smith, Claxton, social studies; Al Rogers, Claxton, social studies; Mrs. Ruth Knowlton, Statesboro, music; Mary Alice Jones, Hazelhurst, music; Annegene Culbreth, Edison, English; Melba Prosser, Statesboro, business education; Latham Faulk, Brunswick, industrial arts; George Kemp, Bowden, industrial arts; Eugene Drury, Nahunta, science; and Jimmy Johnson, Augusta, social studies.

Claxton Elementary School: Betty Harden, Stilson, and Betty Roan, Fitzgerald, first grade. Leona Newman, Stilson, second grade.

Pleasant, fifth grade; Bobbie Hooks, Savannah, fifth grade; Grace Wilson, Jesup, sixth grade; and Fayrene Sturgis, Statesboro, seventh grade.

EDITORIAL

An Inward Look

Page two of this week's GEORGE-ANNE is nearly filled with letters to the editor prompted by an editorial in last week's issue.

As usual, these comments vary widely, ranging from comments directly related to the editorial to the situation at GTC in general. Some take one side of the issue; others advocate the opposite opinion. However, these student comments indicate that some friction between students and personnel is present, and such indications should serve as evidence that something should be done to end these strained relations.

The GEORGE-ANNE staff has tried to maintain the practice of keeping personalities out of editorials, in the belief that this practice fosters better journalism. However, the staff feels that any problem or issue affecting a large part of the student body is worthy of consideration.

Personalities among students, faculty, and personnel in all departments are no doubt responsible for strained relations. Trivial problems can often build up to the point of sudden explosion at the slightest provocation. This is only human, and as such is expected in all of us.

If students and personnel would accept this trait as a human failing and learn to disregard outbursts as being outweighed by worthy attributes, opinions of others might change.

LETTERS to the EDITOR...

(The editor reserves the right to omit names of persons writing letters to the paper. However, all letters must be signed before they will be considered for publication. All letters are appreciated by the staff, but students are asked to please limit letters to 150 words).

Editor, George-Anne:

Your recent editorial, "Who Isn't Considerate" has caused much contemplation in my mind. I think that the editorial dealt with a group when it should have dealt with an individual. This topic is very touchy, since, at one time or another, many of us are not as considerate of others as we should be. However, this does not justify the behavior of one whose main purpose is to serve us, the students at Georgia Teachers College.

I feel that the Periodical Department of the Library could serve its purpose to a greater degree if the students and the one who is in charge, could only strike a medium and work together for a common achievement. The Library, at Georgia Teachers College serves the students and has in the past proven itself to be a guiding hand in the needs of the mind—therefore, I hope that the personnel of this department and the students will find the "happy medium" and work toward a better working environment and a better understanding of each other.

Editor, George-Anne:

Last week's editorial concerning the lack of courtesy on the part of some members of the library staff prompts this letter about a number of things at TC which I personally do not believe are indications of an outstanding academic institution.

The recent announcement pertaining to the special tests for sophomores was not handled, in my opinion, in a way to reflect great credit upon those responsible for the program. To be bluntly informed by a notice on a bulletin board that one must spend from six to eight hours during the week before finals taking tests, without explanation, is not my idea of courtesy. Nor does it help to be told, upon asking about the possibilities of being excused from the tests, that you will take them, period. I never particularly cared for the Army's brand of courtesy; I don't especially like TC's either, if this is an example.

A few weeks ago a dental appointment caused me to be three minutes late entering the dining hall. I was refused food, with a smile which didn't make me feel less hungry. The sight of two students eating at a special table in the kitchen didn't help either.

Perhaps it might be a good idea for someone in a position to be heard to remind the members of the staff of TC that but for the students there would be no staff.

Another thing which I consider a glaring weakness in our school is the conflict in philosophies. But with TC the type institution it is, it seems logical that those employed here would reach some sort of agreement about education. As a future teacher, what shall I do when taught in a professional education course how to conduct a class, and then enter a class I'm required to take and witness a performance by the instructor who is exactly opposite to what I've just been taught is the preferred method?

Our state says that the majority of our students are old enough to vote and are therefore considered responsible enough to influence the laws under which we live. But our school says that our girls aren't old enough nor responsible enough to know when to study, nor when to go to bed, nor when to empty their wastebaskets. This seems rather inconsistent to me.

To date we have no record of a group having attained the perfect society. So long as students rush into the dining hall like animals, make the obnoxious practice of stealing a place in line, a common, everyday habit, and are unable to sit quietly and attentively for 30 minutes during assembly (however boring the speaker may be), we cannot say too much about an assistant in the library who makes us be quiet because of the preposterous idea that someone present might want to study! There are weaknesses all around. I've an idea they will remain with us until both students and staff decide they should go.

Editor, George-Anne:

I consider your editorial of last week, "Who Isn't Considerate" as slightly too harsh. I believe that, on the whole, the personnel in the library are very courteous.

(Name withheld.)

Editor, George-Anne:

On page two of the last issue of the George-Anne, there was an editorial concerning the overbearing attitude of "Personnel of the library." I personally feel that this is rather a too-sweeping condemnation of a group of people who do an exemplary job of making our library a pleasant place to work and study.

As a student, realizing that the George-Anne is the voice of the students on campus, I stoutly defend the paper's right to say this, but I have my reservations as to the rightness of what has been said.

In the first place, the complaint is made against the whole staff. I feel that it is simply too sweeping an indictment.

In the second place, the library staff seems to have been unjustly singled out for criticism. I will not feel satisfied unless you follow up this article with others directed at divisions of the faculty equally, or more deserving of criticism on this count.

Editor, George-Anne:

Concerning your editorial which appeared in last week's George-Anne, I would like to make a comment. It seems as if several people were confused as to which part of the library the article "Who Isn't Considerate?" was referring. It is agreed almost unanimously by the students that the upstairs staff is quite sympathetic and efficient, but for the downstairs part, this isn't always true.

If the teachers would like for more library work to be done downstairs, something needs to be done about this situation.

I hope that this article clears up the confusion and that everyone feels better over it all. Thank you.

***

Editor, George-Anne:

I would like to comment on the editorial in last week's George-Anne entitled, "Who Isn't Considerate?" I feel that since the George-Anne is a student paper, it should have the freedom to criticize. However,

I do not think this editorial was completely justified in saying library personnel are more guilty than others. The library must contend with more students than any other facility on the campus and surely many students give the librarians reason to be "overbearing." The library is the one refuge on the campus where one can study in complete peace.

So I say, "Good work," to the library and its staff and hope they continue to be "overbearing."

Last week's George-Anne printed an editorial entitled "Who isn't Considerate?" in which the author stated: "Most of the complaints we have heard come from students whose feelings have been hurt by seemingly overbearing personnel in the library." Although I agree wholeheartedly with the editorial, I thought this was an unnecessary slam against the library staff as a whole. Several friends and I talked the situation over and all came up with the unanimous decision that perhaps the editorial was not intended for all the library staff. In our experiences with the library, we all agreed that the upstairs or main part was always considerate, very helpful, and understanding; however, we cannot say the same for the other part. This problem had been discussed in the dormitory often even before the article was written and we are glad that someone else has recognized the conflict.

On The Clothesline...

By HARRIET WOODARD

With the warm spring weather we were having last week, shorts, T shirts, and tennis shoes were the favorite outfits. Girls were beginning to blossom out in sleeveless blouses and dresses, and of course the fellows, not to be outdone, went into the deep, dark depths of their closets and dug out those ever popular sleeveless T shirts. But—and there always is a but—Old Man Winter wasn't quite ready to make his final exit, so back to the moth balls we went.

I 'spect we'll be seeing lots of new hair-cuts on campus 'fore long. Most of us just can't fight this wind-blown look that can't be avoided lately, so off to the beauty shop we go. Foot fashions are more colorful than ever this spring. Shoe manufacturers are making hose to match the shoes and they really look snazzy. Sandals will be more popular than ever, so you gals better start pedicuring your footsies.

Don't forget the Old South Ball Saturday night and even if you haven't had time to dig up a costume, come ahead in anything you happen to have handy and we'll have a great time giving the confederate yell and sipping mint juleps!

Till time to preview bathing suits—
Bye, now.

Miller is Named FTA President

Clarence Miller, freshman, Portal, was named president of the Future Teachers of America at their meeting last Wednesday night. Miller is president of the freshman class.

Other officers elected are Myrna Robson, junior, Townsend, vice president; Nancy McIntosh, junior, Waycross, secretary; Bertie Franklin, junior, Townsend, treasurer; Careen Hatcher, freshman, Albany, reporter; and Lewis Strickland, junior, Hinesville, publicity.

Miller, along with the other officers will serve through the winter quarter of next term.

'Profs' Cage Record Number 30 for Year

The Georgia Teachers College Professors set 30 new records on the hardwood during the 1954-55 basketball season.

In all probability, this is the most records set by a GTC team in the history of the college.

One record which is practically unheard of (except at GTC) is in the double-figure scoring of the starting five, Chester Webb, Doug Corry, Don Wallen, "Bo" Warren, and Garland Campbell.

Records broken in the rebound department numbered five; shooting, six; individual career, four; season records, eight; and one game records, seven.

These records along with some others are listed below. Those statistics were compiled by Joe Axelson, sports columnist for the George-Anne and publicity director for the athletic department.

INDIVIDUAL

Rebounds—

One game, Chester Webb, 32, against the University of Tampa, 1955; season, Chester Webb, 388, 1955; best average, Chester Webb, 13.9, 1955; most assists in one game, Don Wallen, 14 against Mercer, 1955; most assists in one season, Don Wallen, 223, 1955.

Shooting—

Best field goal percentage for one season, Jim Duncan, .460, in 1952 (191 of 415); best free throw percentage one season, Horace Belflower, .820 (made 82 of 100), 1953; most points in one season, Chester Webb, 792, 1955; most field goals in one season, Chester Webb, 281, 1955. Most free throws one season, Chester Webb, 230, 1955; most free throws attempted in one season, Chester Webb, 318, 1955; most field goal attempts in one season, Chester Webb, 699, 1955; and highest average points per game in one season, Chester Webb, 28.3, 1955.

INDIVIDUAL CAREER (Two or More Years)

Most points scored, Chester Webb, 1657, 1953-1955; highest scoring average per game, Chester Webb, 21.5 (games—77, points—1657), 1953-1955; most field goals, Chester Webb, 592, 1953-1955; most free throws, Chester Webb, 475, 1953-1955; best free throw average, Horace Belflower, .796, (attempted 147, made 117), 1953-1954.

TEAM

Season—

Most points, 2511, 1955; highest game average, 89.7, 1955; most field goals, 970, 1952; most shots attempted, 2533, 1955; highest season shooting percentage, .399, 1952; most free throws made, 627, 1955; most free throws attempted, 787, 1955; highest free throw percentage, 673, 1955; Most assists, 614, 1955; longest winning streak, 20, 1950; highest winning percentage, .900, 1950, won 27, lost 3; most personal fouls, 590, 1952; most rebounds for one season, 1427, 1955.

One Game—

Most points in one game, 135, scored against Piedmont College, 1955; most field goals in one game, 53, scored against the University of Georgia, Atlanta Division, 1951; most field goal attempts, 117, against Piedmont College, 1955; most

The Veterans basketball team captured the Bulloch county Men's Recreation League tournament Monday night by defeating the National Guard unit 51-37.

The Harry W. Smith Trophy was awarded the Veterans. Portal held the trophy last year.

free throws made, 38, against the University of Georgia, Atlanta Division, 1955; most free throws attempted, 58, University of Georgia, Atlanta Division, 1955; largest combined score, 244, 1955 (GTC 135-109).

Most personal fouls, 33 against the University of Georgia, Atlanta Division, 1955; fewest points scored, 13, against Middle Georgia College (lost 13-32), 1931; fewest points scored by opponents, 16, by North Georgia, 1933 (GTC 35, North Georgia 16); largest victory margin, 90, 1951, (GTC 135, University of Georgia, Atlanta Division, 45); largest defeat margin, 28, 1941, (Middle Georgia 60, GTC 32); most rebounds, 74, against University of Tampa, 1955.

GTC Scoring Statistics Give Webb Trophy

Individual scoring statistics and other information has been compiled for each member of the Georgia Teachers College basketball team.

These statistics are seasonal averages and totals are figured individually.

Chester Webb edged out Doug Corry in the free throw shooting to win the trophy given by W. S. Hanner. The trophy was given by Hanner to the player with the best four shooting percentages for the year, providing 50 attempts had been made. Webb's percentage is .723.

Away Next Week

Miss Helen Duncan, dean of women, will be in Gainesville, Florida this weekend.

Julian A. Pafford, principal of the Laboratory School, will be in Atlanta next week attending the GEA convention.

Dr. Fielding D. Russell, chairman of the division of languages, will speak to a Tri-Hi-Y group Saturday night at Statesboro High School.

Dr. Leland L. Wilson, professor of physics, will attend the national convention of National Science Teachers Association, Cincinnati, Ohio, March 24-26. Dr. Leland will serve as a consultant on "More Realistic Planning Toward Improved Articulation Between High School and College Science Courses."

Delegates to Georgia Education Association convention in Atlanta March 16-19 from GTC are Dr. James D. Park, Dr. Marshall Hamilton, Dr. Georgia B. Watson, and Miss Roxie Remley. Alternates are Shelby Monroe and Miss Frieda Gernant.

Dr. Watson will be in charge of the Alumni Luncheon for Alumni of GTC attending the convention, Friday, March 18, at 12:30 in the Belmont Restaurant.

Dr. Zach S. Henderson will appear on the program March 18 at 2 p. m.

At the evening meeting on that date, tribute will be paid to Georgia NEA Life members. NEA Life members at GTC are Dr. Henderson and Mr. Monroe.

There will be various departmental meetings and affiliated association meeting held in connection with the GEA convention which will be attended by GTC faculty members.

Miss Bertha Freeman, associate professor of education, will attend the Association of Childhood Education meeting March 18. Going with Miss Freeman will be Shirley Hanson and Nancy Armstrong who will appear in a skit, "Fashions in Georgia Branches of ACE."

Dr. Ronald J. Neil, Jack W. Broucek, Daniel S. Hooley, and Dana M. King Jr., will attend the Georgia Music Education Association meeting March 16-17-18. The theme will be "Recruitment and a State-Wide Music Education Program."

On Thursday, March 17, Dr. Neil will appear on a panel discussion of the theme. Dr. Neil will speak on "Elementary Instrumental."

On the same date, Mr. Hooley will also appear on the program for elementary classrooms and music teachers when he will serve as clinician for "Correlation of Music and Social Studies in the Upper Elementary Grades."

Dr. Neil will also serve as a conductor for the Lobby Sing of the GEA meeting on Friday night at the Piedmont Hotel.

Miss Viola Perry, registrar, will attend the Georgia Association of College Registrars and Admission Officers March 17, and will be on a panel discussing "Transfer of Credit and the Evaluation of Credentials."

Mrs. Miriam Moore of the home economics department will be in Lyons March 12 attending the FHA meeting.

GTC Students In Panel Discussion

Three students formed a panel which spoke to the Delta Kappa Gamma Sorority last Wednesday afternoon at the home of Miss Hassie M. McElveen, librarian.

The three students were Shirley Hanson, senior, Avondale Estates; Marguerite Dye, senior, Elberton; and Jean Wall, senior, Atlanta. They spoke on "Why I Want to Teach" and told of their student teaching experiences. Mrs. Marjorie T. Guardia, associate professor of English, is the president.

All dorms will close March 16, 3:30 p. m. for the spring holidays and will reopen at 1 p. m., March 20.
