DEAR CONFERENCE ATTENDEES,

On behalf of the Planning Council and our sponsors, we welcome you to the 21st Annual National Youth-At-Risk Conference. Over the years, the conference has grown tremendously and so have the needs of the youth we serve. We remain dedicated to providing up-to-date comprehensive professional training to all adults who serve youth. This year, over 100 nationally and internationally recognized presenters share successful programs and strategies for creating safe, healthy, caring, and intellectually empowering environments to reduce at-risk conditions and promote the well-being of all our young people. We hope you find the conference presentations both useful and stimulating and that you have several opportunities to network with like-minded professionals. Thank you for helping make the conference a resounding success again this 21st year!

Best regards,

Dan Rea and Denise Weems-White
Georgia Southern University, College of Education,
Co-Chairs of the Conference Planning Council

CONFERENCE MISSION
The conference trains adults who serve youth to create safe, healthy, caring, and intellectually empowering educational environments that foster the well-being of all children and adolescents.
Conference Mission

The conference trains adults who serve youth to create safe, healthy, caring, and intellectually empowering educational environments that foster the well-being of all children and adolescents. To accomplish this mission, it offers over 100 presentations by nationally and internationally recognized presenters to over 1200 conference participants from across the United States. In these presentations, participants learn about current research-based educational programs and strategies, which empower young people to overcome at-risk conditions that may threaten their safety, health, emotional needs, or academic achievement. Participants also gain knowledge of proactive solutions and best practices for meeting the serious challenges faced by many of our youth today such as school violence, poverty, learning difficulties, underachievement, achievement gaps, illiteracy, boredom, apathy, low expectations, misbehavior, dropout, drugs, bullying, gangs, teen pregnancy, sexual harassment, racism, and dysfunctional families. Furthermore, participants gain effective educational tools to build strong caring schools, communities, and families, which can meet the diverse needs of all our young people. Illustrative of the conference mission, the conference logo—consisting of three overlapping circles—represents the well-trained collaborative efforts of schools, families, and communities in fostering the well-being of our youth.

FIVE CONFERENCE STRANDS

I. ACADEMIC ACHIEVEMENT & SCHOOL LEADERSHIP
Closing the achievement gaps and promoting learning for all students.

II. SOCIAL & EMOTIONAL SKILLS
Fostering social and emotional skills of all children and youth and enhancing the social climate.

III. SAFETY & VIOLENCE PREVENTION
Preventing violence and ensuring safety for all children and youth.

IV. MENTAL & PHYSICAL HEALTH
Promoting the mental and physical health of all children and youth.

V. FAMILY & COMMUNITY
Developing and enhancing family and community support for all children and youth.

Professional Learning Units

Participants of the 21st Annual National Youth-At-Risk Conference who hold a valid Georgia Teaching Certificate or Paraprofessional License or who are working towards a Paraprofessional License, will be eligible for one (1) PLU credit hour. One (1) Professional Development Unit (PLU) credit is available for participants who attend 10 hours of the conference. Recipients must successfully complete a short written examination of the material covered. Successful PLU candidates will receive their PLU credit forms within 4-8 weeks following the conclusion of the conference. These forms may be submitted to employing GA public school systems for 1 credit toward certification renewal. PLU credit is used by employees of Georgia public school systems who currently hold certificates in an approved field (certified teachers, school counselors, administrators, etc.) as credit toward RENEWING their existing certificates.

Please Note: All professional development forms are available at the Professional Development Table in the Registration Area. These forms must be completed and returned to the Professional Development Table by the specified time. You, the participant, are responsible for signing, completing, and returning all forms in order to receive these credits. You must turn in your Prior Approval Form no later than 10 AM on Monday, March 1. Those who have turned in a completed PLU Prior Approval Form will then be given a copy of the conference’s objectives to review while attending the conference. The Mastery Test will be given on Tuesday, March 2 at 4:30 PM for those who have already attended 10 hours of the conference. Report to the conference registration desk for directions to the testing room. Please allow at least 30 minutes to take the test. The test will also be given on Wednesday, but only during times when presentations are not in session. Information about the Wednesday testing times and locations will be available at the conference registration area.

Continuing Education Units

ALL PARTICIPANTS
Conference participants will be awarded 1.50 Continuing Education Units (CEUs) for 15 hours of participation through the Division of Continuing Education and Public Service at Georgia Southern University. Certificates will be mailed after the conference upon request via the online conference evaluation form.

GIVING A FISH A BATH: THE UNTOLD STORY OF THE ADOLESCENT MIND
FEATURED SPEAKER: Frank Kros, M. S. W., J. D., The Upside Down Organization, Baltimore, MD

Recent discoveries in neuroscience offer exciting insights into how the brains of our teens really work and the special "brain-based" challenges facing adolescents as they mature. This workshop reveals why teens are especially vulnerable to drug use, high-risk peer influences, depression and suicide as well as the proactive measures adults can take to minimize a teen's exposure to these dangers. This seminar also addresses the often mystifying role of hormones on adolescent development and focuses on the key roles that stress and sleep have on teen learning processes. In addition, the workshop offers strategies compatible with the many strengths and opportunities available during this miraculous developmental period, including helping teens to develop positive character traits. If you've ever thought that the adolescent mind could not be understood, this workshop will arm you with the latest insights and information on knowing and empowering the teenage brain.

WHY CULTURE COUNTS: TEACHING CHILDREN OF POVERTY
FEATURED SPEAKER: Donna Walker Tileston, Founder and President, Strategic Teaching and Learning, Dallas, TX

After more than 50 years since landmark Supreme Court cases promised students equality in education we are still struggling with this issue. Why do we have so much disparity in funding nationwide between high poverty schools and schools in which the poverty rate is low? Why do we have so many children from poverty and cultures outside the dominant culture who are placed in special education, especially as specific learning disabled? And, what can we do about it? Prepare to be surprised by some of the answers as you attend this pre-conference training based on the award-winning book written by this presenter.

Raising Expectations and Closing Achievement Gaps
Larry Bell, Motivational Speaker & Teacher, Multicultural America, Inc, Manassas, VA

Sponsored in part by the Magnolia Coastlands Area Health Education Center.

Learn how you can reach and teach any child by using “high expectations” to transcend all barriers. In today’s schools, teachers are challenged to raise students’ standardized test scores, involve parents in their children’s academic success, help students deal with real-life issues that get in the way of their learning, and much, much more. Using personal success stories and relevant research, Bell inspires participants to feel the true greatness that lies within all of us and to experience the power to make a positive difference.

What is a High Flying School?

A High Flying School demonstrates outstanding success in the following areas:

1. The school ranks in its state at the 67th percentile or higher in at least one academic subject in at least one grade level, and/or meets high standards for achievement on other state academic accountability data, and/or is recognized in its state for closing achievement gaps among student racial groups and subgroups.

2. The school’s student population is comprised of at least 50% of students living at or below poverty level.

3. The school’s student population is comprised of 50% or more minority students.

4. The school demonstrates high levels of collaboration with community and/or university in addressing youth-at-risk issues within the school and community.

5. The school provides extra-curricular opportunities for students to develop citizenship skills.

6. The school curriculum includes activities related to the growth of students as individuals who are successful members of a democratic society.

WHY TRY? MOTIVATING DIFFICULT STUDENTS • PRESENTATION REPEATS AT 1:15 PM

FEATURED SPEAKER: Christian Moore, Youth Advocate & Founder, WhyTry, Inc., Orem, UT

Students don’t listen! “At-risk” students literally have a hard time processing auditory information. This workshop emphasizes a strength-based approach to helping youth overcome their challenges using multi-sensory intervention, including pictures, music, video and physical activities. The WhyTry program presented is proven to increase graduation rates, reduce truancy, and improve school climate.

RIGOROUS SCHOOLS AND CLASSROOMS: LEADING THE WAY

FEATURED SPEAKERS: Ron Williamson, Professor, Leadership and Counseling, Eastern Michigan University, Ypsilanti, MI and Barbara R. Blackburn, Assistant Professor, University of North Carolina-Charlotte, Charlotte, NC

With the public demands for increased rigor in schools, how should a school leader respond? In this session, we’ll look at a directional COMPASS for leaders, focusing on practical strategies to effect school-wide change. Specific areas of emphasis include culture, ownership and shared vision, managing data, professional development, advocacy, shared accountability, and sustaining success.

POVERTY AND THE BRAIN: APPLYING THE POWER OF NEUROSCIENCE TO ENHANCE LEARNING AND LIFE

• PRESENTATION REPEATS AT 1:15 PM

FEATURED SPEAKER: Frank Kros, MSW, JD, President, The Upside Down Organization, Baltimore, MD

This workshop shares discoveries from cutting-edge brain research about the impact of poverty on the brain and practical methods for overcoming that impact. Targeted for all professionals serving impoverished youth, this workshop provides a solid foundation of knowledge on how poverty changes the brain; empowers professionals with “take home” tools to counter these negative changes; and equips organizations with a practical model for combating the long-term effects of poverty in the youth they serve.

Rock Island Elementary, Fort Lauderdale, FL; Langston Chapel Elementary School, Statesboro, GA; Attucks Middle School, Hollywood, FL; Martha Gaskins Middle School, Birmingham, AL; Bethune-Bowman Middle High School, Rowesville, SC

Teachers and principals from five “High Flying Schools” showcase how they closed achievement gaps and raised achievement for all students in their schools. The audience is invited to view their posters and ask questions. “High Flying Schools” meet six criteria: (1) high achievement, (2) high poverty, (3) high diversity, (4) community collaboration, (5) citizenship development, and (6) democratic education.

DRIVE THRU CLOSED/DINE IN ONLY • THIS PRESENTATION REPEATS AT 1:15 PM

FEATURED SPEAKER: Keith L. Brown, “Motivator of the Millennium,” 20/20 Enterprise, Fayetteville, GA

In this age of menus which promote “Denim over Diplomas,” “Ringtones over Reading,” “Text Messages over Textbooks” and “Bling Bling over Graduation Rings” Keith empowers “change agents” to release the “drive thru” mentality of simply being in the lives of youth temporarily, going through an assembly line, giving and getting orders and then departing without ever becoming involved in the hearts, heads, and headquarters of our youth. Those who are willing to dine in [go above job title and description and interact with youth] will learn firsthand how to ignite the flames of creativity and excellence that lie within our youth and is often channeled in the wrong areas due to an ever increasing pessimism and lack of innovative practices among those of us who work with youth daily. Those who are willing to dine in will be able to take youth who are going nowhere and transform them. This will be a buffet of ideas and strategies that will leave you thirsting for more!!!

WORKING WITH RELUCTANT LEARNERS: TIPS FROM THE RESERVATIONS AND THE GHETTOS

FEATURED SPEAKER: Stephen R. Sroka, Ph.D., President, Health Education Consultants, Lakewood, OH

On Indian Reservations and in urban ghettos, over half of the students drop out of school. Many are not motivated and are bored with the “drill and kill” approach of many educators. Many educators and researchers believe that listening to the whole child, not just the academic child, is the most effective way to reach and teach all students, especially reluctant learners who are at risk for dropping out or who need alternative approaches to help them learn more and live better. This is a high-energy, motivational, multimedia, presentation that is research-driven and reality-based. It integrates cutting-edge research and humor and inspiring real-life stories to facilitate learning about the whole child and the students’ mental, emotional, social, spiritual, and physical health needs and their relationship to academic and life success. The program is filled with real life strategies and “tips from the trenches” for everyone who works with reluctant learners, especially Native American and urban youth.

YOU GOTTA REACH ‘EM IN ORDER TO TEACH ‘EM: RE-CONNECTING THE LINK BETWEEN KNOWLEDGE AND POWER

Hotep, Founder, Hustle University, Stone Mountain, GA

A multi-media presentation that completely revolutionizes the way educators and students view school and education! Reach ‘em/Teach ‘em completely destroys common misconceptions teachers and mentors have about education and how to get youth to perform their best. This workshop also demonstrates the most overlooked missing ingredients in “education”, and definitively explains why Black students (especially boys) have a difficult time in school. Most importantly though, this presentation provides SOLUTIONS! It shows how to shift students’ perception of school and illustrates its direct link to them achieving their wildest dreams!

Rigor is Not a Four-Letter Word • Presentation Repeats at 3 PM
FEATURED SPEAKER: Barbara R. Blackburn, Assistant Professor, University of North Carolina-Charlotte, Charlotte, NC

In a time of higher expectations for student achievement, there is a call for increasing rigor in today’s classrooms. Rigor is more than simply increasing the amount of work for students. It includes addressing student motivation and engagement. In this session, participants will discuss how to increase rigor in classroom activities as well as how to provide appropriate support for students. Participants will learn practical, immediate examples which are applicable for all grade levels and content areas.

Poverty and the Brain: Applying the Power of Neuroscience to Enhance Learning and Life

Whose “Bad”? Breaking Down Communication Barriers to Build Productive Partnerships
Denise Weems-White, Assistant Professor, Department of Teaching and Learning, Georgia Southern University, Statesboro, GA

Communication is a barrier that holds back parent-teacher partnerships. This presentation will discuss with teachers and administrators what causes this barrier and what changes can be made in order to build productive partnerships. Although educators cannot directly change the attitudes of parents, they can, as professionals, identify and eliminate behaviors that may serve as roadblocks to communication with families.

SCIENCE OF BRAIN CHEMISTRY AND YOUTH BEHAVIORS • PRESENTATION REPEATS AT 3 PM

FEATURED SPEAKER: Elizabeth Koller, Executive Director, Perspectives on Growth and Development, Inc., Hickory, NC

Understand the role of five key brain chemicals and their interrelationships that define a youth’s physiological make-up with an appreciation of how imbalances can result in different behaviors and moods. Explanation of the impact of controllable influencers such as: diet, nutrition, exercise—or lack of exercise, and activities that result in less than optimal brain chemistry levels driving unwanted behaviors such as: aggression, violence, depression and suicide. Current advances in behavioral neuroscience represent the most riveting insights about youth, in the last century, regarding some root causes of behaviors and moods that contribute to, or transcend the sole impact of peer pressure, and social and home environments.
KICKING UP THE GRADUATE RATE
Kim Perry Barham, School Improvement Specialist, Dree Davis, Graduation Coach, Dublin High School, and Jennifer Claxton, Special Education Director, Dublin City Schools, Dublin, GA

Information will be shared on the success of Dublin High School’s “Irish Time.” Using Irish Time, the high school has improved their graduation rate from 59% to 82% over the course of three years. Irish Time is a daily 30 minute period that is used for intense remediation for Georgia High School Graduation Test (GHSGT), credit recovery, and relationship building.

AT RISK ON GILLIGAN’S ISLAND
Courtney L. Teague, Special Educator, Consultant, Motivational Speaker, Hiram, GA

Do you feel that you are on a ship to nowhere? Do you have one or all seven characters of Gilligan’s Island as students? Each character on Gilligan’s Island represented various learning styles. Do you wonder how you are supposed to reach these students? This session will share research and brain-based strategies founded on Howard Gardner’s seven Multiple Intelligences.

CLOSING THE ACHIEVEMENT AND LEADERSHIP GAPS FOR POTENTIAL HIGH SCHOOL DROPOUTS USING RECONNECTING YOUTH
Wallace V. Eggert, Vice President and Owner, Reconnecting Youth, Inc., Victoria, British Columbia, Canada; Leona L. Eggert, President and Owner and Beth McNamara, Director of Programs and Training, Reconnecting Youth, Inc., Redmond, WA

This presentation demonstrates the school-based Reconnecting Youth (RY) approach to preventing high-school dropout. Learning objectives/topics are to: understand the unique RY curriculum; experience interactive learning strategies/leadership activities; and appreciate the supporting evidence that RY works! Potential high school dropouts increased school retention and achievement, personal control and school bonding, and decreased drug involvement, aggression/depression and suicidal behaviors.

CHANGING KNOWLEDGE AND ATTITUDES ABOUT MENTAL ILLNESSES WITH “BREAKING THE SILENCE” LESSON PLANS
Janet Susin, President, Educational Outreach, National Alliance on Mental Illness: Queens/Nassau, Lake Success, NY; Otto Wahl, Professor and Dayne Zatina, Graduate Research Assistant, University of Hartford, West Hartford, CT

Before age fourteen, half of those who will go on to develop a mental illness are already showing symptoms. This workshop will help educators identify “at-risk” students and teach how to approach this sensitive topic by encouraging tolerance and promoting help-seeking behavior. Results of a National Institute of Mental Health (NIMH) study showing the effectiveness of the “Breaking the Silence” educational materials will be shared.

An evaluation of the conference’s general sessions will be accessible via nationalyouthatrisk.com or via an email announcement following the conference.
GRASSROOTS EFFORT TO REDUCE CHILDHOOD OBESITY: BULLOCH COUNTY C.H.I.L.D. COALITION
Starla McCollum, Associate Professor and Tony Pritchard, Assistant Professor, Georgia Southern University, Statesboro, GA

The Bulloch County Children’s Health Improvement and Lifestyle Development (C.H.I.L.D.) Coalition was created to develop community partnerships in Bulloch County to address the growing epidemic of childhood obesity and physical inactivity. The C.H.I.L.D. Coalition was organized by a collaborative effort initiated by the College of Health and Human Sciences at Georgia Southern University, the Bulloch County Health Department, and the Southeast Health District.

IMPROVING EDUCATIONAL OUTCOMES OF YOUTH IN FOSTER CARE ONE CHILD AT A TIME
Roshelle D. Hudson, Educational Specialist/Advocate and Corey L. Tiggs, Educational Specialist/Advocate, Dekalb County DFCS ILP Department, Atlanta, GA

In 2007, the Department of Family & Children of DeKalb County, Georgia launched an innovative educational program whose mission was to improve graduation rates and improve educational outcomes for children in foster care through its Independent Living Program. Through the efforts of two educational advocates, there has been a 46% increase in the number of youth graduating in DeKalb County. Our presentation describes methods for working with case managers, school and social workers, mental health and educational services, independent living services, and extra curricula activities available to youth.

THE BOY FACTOR: CAN SINGLE-SEX SCHOOLING EFFECT THE OVER-REPRESENTATION OF BOYS IN SPECIAL EDUCATION
Kathy Piechura-Couture, Professor of Education; Elizabeth Heins, Professor of Education, Stetson University, DeLand, FL

Can gender-responsive classrooms reduce the number of boys in special education? This presentation highlights developmental and structural sex differences in the brain and how these differences contribute to the over-identification of boys in special education. Males schooled in single-sex classrooms report doing better in school as a result of being in a single-sex classroom as well as exhibiting higher participation in class work and homework. Surveys of parents and teachers also revealed positive results.

KEYS TO DEVELOPING COMMUNITY INVOLVEMENT IN MILITARY FAMILY DAYS
Casey Mull, Extension 4-H Specialist-Military Programs and Jenny Jordan, Extension 4-H Specialist-Volunteer & Teen Programs, University of Georgia Cooperative Extension, Athens, GA

Unlock the doors to a successful community collaboration using a military family day as a model and stepping stone. Using examples of successful programs, the session engages participants in resource identification, success principles, community youth and adult support, and volunteer recruitment. Modeled like an actual family day, the session will immerse participants in the keys of education, support, and relaxation.

THE MEDIA SEXUALIZATION OF CHILDREN AND YOUTH
Mary Natividad, Professor of Counseling and Marie Stern Plemons, Professor in Curriculum and Instruction, University of Houston-Victoria, Victoria, TX

Media messages to children are not about Teddy Bears and Holding Hands. Instead, the messages are about sex and sexiness. There is evidence that shows sexualization has negative effects on the developmental domains. The presentation is designed to create an awareness of this problem, enhance communication skills, and empower children and youth to better understand the media messages. Participation encouraged.
PARTICIPANTS VERSUS SPECTATORS: GEORGIA CTSOS PROMOTE LEADERS, BUILD CONFIDENCE, AND ENCOURAGE SUCCESS!
Julie H. Kenny, Career Technical Student Organization Coordinator and Scott M. Carey, Program Manager, Division of Career, Technical and Agricultural Education, Georgia Department of Education, Atlanta, GA

Participants will leave this poster presentation knowing how to effectively implement a state produced Career Technical Student Organization (CTSO) specifically designed for special or high-risk populations. Participants will also gain insight into the benefits of other student organizations and how research shows their proven effectiveness and success. Participants will take away material ready to implement in their state.

SCRILLA, STEEZY, & SWARMING: MILLENNIAL YOUTH CULTURE 2010 AND WHAT YOU MUST KNOW ABOUT THIS GENERATION
Eric Rowles, President/CEO and Aidil Ortiz-Collins, Training Associate, Leading to Change, Charlotte, NC

How familiar are you with TODAY’s youth culture? In this very hands-on session, new and veteran practitioners will identify some of the current and future trends that are having a critical impact on the environments that young people navigate—including career outlooks, work ethic, volunteer trends, and pop culture influences. Participants will also be introduced to recent research and findings from the work of Neil Howe and Williams Strauss, authors of “Millennials Rising,” “Generations,” and “13th Gen” as well as emerging trends that risk and prevention professionals will likely experience with this changing generation!

LEADING UNDERACHIEVING CHILDREN LIVING IN POVERTY TO SUCCESS
FEATURED SPEAKERS: William Parrett, Director, Center for School Improvement & Policy Studies and Professor of Education and Kathleen Budge, Coordinator, Educational Leadership Development Program, Boise State University, Boise, ID

Participants will examine recent research on high-performing, high-poverty (HP/HP) schools and explore how courageous leadership builds capacity to achieve and sustain improvements in student and professional learning. Specifically this session will address tough questions for tough times, how leaders of HP/HP schools raise achievement first by asking the right questions. This interactive, multimedia session presents how schools create safe, supportive, and healthy learning environments built on caring relationships, high expectations and a commitment to action. Cases from urban, suburban, and rural schools will highlight specific approaches used to improve instruction and eliminate educational practices that manufacture low achievement.

SAFE SCHOOLS: UTILIZING YOUTH DEVELOPMENT STRATEGIES TO ADDRESS RACISM, GANGS, VIOLENCE, AND BULLYING
Featured Speaker: John Vandenburgh, Author, PLUS Program (Peer Leaders Uniting Students), Murrieta, CA

One of the many goals of the presentation is for participants to develop a strong understanding of the impact group identity has on individual adolescent behavior, particularly with racism, gangs, violence, and bullying. Educators must understand the importance of developing programs that foster relationships among youth and developing a sense of belonging for youth to a group. Our youth are simply growing up in a violent culture that invests itself in a code of silence. As educators we must counter this and develop a culture of communication, where students feel connected to one another and responsible for the outcomes of their campus culture.

PARENT UNIVERSITY: BOLDLY GOING INTO THE SECOND DECADE OF SERVICE TO FAMILIES
FEATURED SPEAKER: Michael O’Neal, Executive Director, Parent University, Savannah-Chatham County Public School System, Savannah, GA

This presentation explains the history and the continued success of the Parent University program in Savannah, Georgia. For more than a decade, this program has been successful in getting hundreds of parents to come out to various schools and other places in the community in order to learn and get training on scores of subjects. This approach proves that parents can and want to be very engaged in learning how to find better ways to reach goals. Now other systems, local, in state and out of state bodies are making use of Parent University’s ability to attract and engage parents.

USING QUESTIONS TO TEACH AND LEARN: STRATEGIES FOR STUDENT SUCCESS
FEATURED SPEAKER: Carol Jenkins, Strategies for Student Success Trainer, American Federation of Teachers, Jacksonville, FL

One stated goal of schools is to promote critical thinking. Usually to attain this goal teachers use questioning. Student responses to questions help teachers assess how well students understand the content. Responses also reveal students’ critical and metacognitive thinking patterns. Findings of research encourage teachers; even mandate them, to teach how to think. However several researchers have established the fact that teaching students to think is a very complex process and caution that students must have domain knowledge (content that is related to the subject matter) to demonstrate their ability to think when responding questions. Cattell (1987) maintains that thinking is an innate ability and teachers can foster critical thinking. This is done by giving students questioning strategies that automatically ignite the thinking process required to “understand” and “answer the question.”

THE FAMILY SOLUTIONS PROGRAM FOR JUVENILE FIRST OFFENDERS AND AT-RISK STUDENTS
William Quinn, Executive Director, Families4Change, Inc., Athens, GA

The Family Solutions Program (FSP) is a successful 10-session multiple-family group intervention for juvenile first offenders and “at-risk” students who are truant or engaged in school behavior problems. School personnel and juvenile justice staff will learn about an intervention program with a successful track record for curbing problem behaviors and reducing school suspensions and juvenile crime. Participants will become familiar with the goals and activities of FSP, methods for collaboration, and data on effectiveness, as well as observe families engaged in program activities.
FROM CHARITY TO SOLIDARITY: BUILDING RELATIONSHIPS WITH “AT-RISK” STUDENTS
Lucy Bush, Assistant Professor, Mercer University, Atlanta, GA and Polly Stewart Holder, Graduate Student, Georgia Southern University, Statesboro, GA

This presentation begins with a brief theoretical background regarding the movement from a charity to a solidarity mindset when working with disadvantaged youth. We then discuss techniques to build relationships with “at-risk” students. By drawing on their words and experiences, we offer solutions to practitioners about strategies they can use in their classrooms.

ACADEMIC SUCCESS AND SOCIAL INTEGRATION IN REFUGEE STUDENTS
Franco Zengaro, Assistant Professor, Armstrong Atlantic State University, Savannah, GA and Sally Zengaro, University of Alabama, Pooler, GA

This presentation discusses research into the struggles of two groups of high school students from refugee communities, where gang violence has recently become a problem. The students discuss the challenges they face at school and at home, as they strive to identify with the people and the institutions around them.

ALTERNATE STUDENTS SPEAK ABOUT LEADERSHIP
Nicole Joron, Graduate Student, University of Northern British Columbia, Prince George, British Columbia, Canada

This presentation provides an overview of the findings of a study that explores the personal experiences with and perceptions of leadership from the perspective of five young women enrolled in an alternate education program. The key concepts of adolescent identity development, empowerment, and youth leadership development are also explored.

GENDER-SPECIFIC PROGRAMMING AND “AT-RISK” TEENAGE GIRLS
Kathleen Carroll McDermott, Ninth Grade Facilitator, Metro Alternative High School, Cedar Rapids, IA

Gender-specific programming for “at-risk” teenage girls allows facilitators/teachers and teen participants to get to the heart of many of the factors that create a risky environment for these young women. Our two main goals in the Metro Alternative High School Women’s Issues Program are: (1) To encourage “at-risk” teen girls to build positive, healthy female relationships; and (2) To provide “at-risk” teen girls with information to make informed, healthy decisions.

TAPPING INTO THE TEACHER CANDIDATE RESOURCE
Sarah Beall, Adjunct Professor; Don Livingston, Associate Professor and Chair; Vicki Pheil, Field Placement Director, Education Department, LaGrange College, LaGrange, GA

Tapping into the Teacher Candidate Resource to Prepare Preschoolers for Learning offers community organizations ideas about how to use local teacher preparation programs as a viable resource to prepare pre-school children for learning. This initiative also illuminates how community-based educational programs are instrumental for meeting required standards for Early Childhood teaching certification.

COACHES AS YOUTH DEVELOPMENT LEADERS: BUILDING, IMPLEMENTING, AND EVALUATING A COMMUNITY BASED COACH TRAINING PROGRAM
Robert J. Barcelona, Assistant Professor of Youth Development, Clemson University, Clemson, SC

Sport coaches often have a significant impact on the lives of youth. Yet the question of whether this impact is positive or negative remains. Do coaches recognize their role as youth development leaders, and are they prepared to play that role? This presentation will provide sport administrators with the steps for building, implementing, and evaluating a successful coach training model.

TOWARD THE DAYLIGHT: PROVEN SUCCESS FOR YOUTH AT PROMISE IN STUDENT-CENTERED THEMATIC INTEGRATED SETTINGS
Linda Ann Hollis McCall, Assistant Professor, and Elizabeth Crawford, Assistant Professor, Armstrong Atlantic State University, Savannah, GA

The Toward the Daylight Student-Centered Thematic Integrated Setting showcases an award-winning teaching/learning model for youth at promise. This interactive presentation offers a blueprint for success for all children, especially those labeled “at risk.”

STUDENT VOICE THAT PROMOTES CONFIDENCE, MOTIVATION, AND LEARNING
Nicole Vagle, Educator and Consultant, Lighthouse Learning Community, Bogart, GA and Yaquia Walker, Emmanuel Praise Church, Watkinsville, GA

The power of student voice is an untapped ally in making schools a place where learning is desirable and achievable by all students. This session describes student insights on learning, grading, homework, assessment, and school life. Participants will learn how student voice informs school and classroom communities and inspires motivation and confidence. Concrete tools will help practitioners apply these ideas.

ALTERNATIVE HIGH SCHOOL SUCCESS WITH “AT-RISK” YOUTH THROUGH LEADERSHIP CLASS
Marcia Nelson and Mike Reeder, Teacher, Crossroads Alternative High School, Coon Rapids, MN

This Leadership Class is designed to challenge “at-risk” youth to improve themselves by becoming leaders in their own lives, in their schools, and in their communities through self-exploration, team building activities, physical challenges, and service learning projects. The class could be replicated or portions could be adapted for daily use in English, physical education, social studies, special education and (most) other areas.

STRATEGIES FOR SUPPORTING PREGNANT AND PARENTING TEENS: EXAMINING POLICY FROM A CRITICAL THEORY PERSPECTIVE
Sheila Denise Spaulding, Principal, Glynn County Board of Education, Brunswick, GA

I know the reality of teen pregnancy and mothering, and what this population of students will face from firsthand experience: I was a sixteen year old pregnant teenager and what kept me inspired was to overcome the destiny that was predicted for me many years ago. To improve the dropout rate among pregnant and parenting teens, schools should develop and implement a plan to serve pregnant and parenting teens, with educational programs and support services tailored to meet the needs of this population of students. Additionally, educators and policy makers can work with local public and private agencies to combine resources.

PARTNERING WITH FAMILIES FOR STUDENTS’ SUCCESS
Jaracus Copes, President/CEO, New Destiny, LLC, Laurel, MD

Partnering with Families for Students’ Success is a comprehensive and innovative workshop developed to assist participants in developing a holistic understanding of “parental involvement,” provide participants with leadership strategies and professional tools to increase parental involvement and to assist participants in creating more appealing, effective, and result-oriented programs.
Point Your Students in the Right Direction

For 28 years, Positive Action has been helping students find the “positive way” in their lives. The PreK–12 curriculum features engaging lessons with activities, stories, and games that teach students how and why to choose the positive action in any situation.

Lessons build intrinsic motivation for positive behaviors, and then help students develop essential life skills, such as self-management, self-improvement, and getting along with others. Additional tools help build a positive school-wide climate and connect schools, families, and communities.

This approach works with all students, especially those at risk. The U.S. Department of Education What Works Clearinghouse found that Positive Action is the only program to have “positive effects” on either academics or behavior out of 41 character education programs.

A recent study showed a 10% increase in national standardized test scores in reading and math, and a 50% reduction in substance abuse, violence, and sexual activity.

Alfreda Love, Administrator, Waco Independent School District, Waco, TX

Are you tired of hearing the word “almost,” or “we did not make it because of this subpopulation”? This interactive presentation provides strategies that I used my first year as an assistant principal to help a school reach the title of Recognized. This presentation is geared toward administrators, superintendents, and teachers. It provides strategies and helps the learner understand how to effectively create strategic plans and interventions for challenging students. Although there may be a slight difference in schools, it has worked in Title I schools and areas of low poverty. The creative aspect about the workshop is that it can meet the needs of a diverse group of students.

KEEPING OUR EYES ON THE PRIZE: ENGAGING BOYS OF COLOR • THIS PRESENTATION REPEATS AT 10:15 AM
FEATURED SPEAKERS: David Miller, Chief Visionary Officer & Co-Founder and LaMarr Darnell Shields, President & Co-Founder, Urban Leadership Institute, Baltimore, MD

Many schools see teaching African American and Latino boys as their biggest challenge. The primary focus of these children and youths’ educational experience is maintaining order and discipline. By the time black and brown boys reach the 3rd or 4th grade they are no longer treated like the children they are, but rather like men. Boys of color who repeatedly experience rejection from many societal agencies, in the form of excessive punishment for a “crime,” are in need of intervention by culturally competent educators and youth service providers. This interactive workshop will focus on youth service providers, who work with boys of color, understand their cultural and developmental identities, expressions, and behaviors in order to reduce conflicts between the boys. We will discuss the history and current rationales to understand why some boys perceive violence as the only way to react to stress and life challenge.

MOTIVATING UNMOTIVATED STUDENTS • PRESENTATION REPEATS AT 10:15 AM
FEATURED SPEAKER: Ron Glodoski, Speaker and Author, Turn Around Publishing, Inc, Milwaukee, WI

Ron Glodoski offers a fresh, new perspective on how to effectively connect with unmotivated students and encourage and inspire them to take charge of their learning and their lives. He identifies the issues confronting and hindering students from doing their best, and provides practical solutions. Learn five responses to intervention strategies and ten concrete steps you can practice in your classroom to effectively reach students. Students act out learned, often self-defeating patterns of emotion, behavior, and thought. They may not stop to reflect about how they can choose to feel, act, and think differently. Unless motivated, they normally do not take the time to evaluate, probe, or consider their behavior. They simply accept their experience without question. Ron introduces you to methods that work.

PANEL: BUILDING PEACE IN OUR SCHOOLS AND COMMUNITIES
Moderator:
Rosemarie Stallworth-Clark, Professor Emerita, Georgia Southern University, Statesboro, GA

Panel Members:
Candice C. Carter, Associate Professor, University of North Florida, Jacksonville, FL
David Levine, Founder and Director, In Care of Students, Accord, NY
Susan Armoni, Executive Director, paxUnited, Richardson, TX
Eric Schaps, President, Developmental Studies Center, Oakland, CA
Lucas S. Ngote, Plant Services Coordinator, It’s All for the Children Consultants, Stone Mountain, GA
Lee Mun Wah, Director and Diversity Trainer, StirFry Seminars and Consulting, Berkeley, CA

The panel presentation discusses how to go beyond merely “keeping peace” in our schools and communities. In an era preoccupied with negative zero tolerance policies and tight surveillance for strict security, we have neglected the positive student needs for peace, hope, caring, service, unity, and well-being that make living and learning meaningful and worthwhile. Panel members share successful programs, strategies, and techniques for fostering cultures of peace and well-being to enhance classroom and schools for all students.

SWINE FLU (H1N1) AND YOUTH AT RISK
FEATURED SPEAKER: Stephen R. Sroka, Ph.D., President, Health Education Consultants, Lakewood, OH

Pandemic Swine Flu (H1N1) is one of the biggest issues in the world for schools and communities. Youth at risk are at increased risk of getting H1N1. Educating reluctant learners to prevent and respond appropriately to H1N1 will present new challenges for educators and service providers. This session will address the classical four approaches to diseases for H1N1: Prevention, Preparedness, Response, and Recovery. The critical areas of Communication, Coordination, Collaboration, Culture and Caring will be presented with real life “tips from the trenches” to help you protect yourself and others right now. Dr. Sroka recently keynoted the First International Swine Flu Conference in Washington, DC featured on C-SPAN worldwide.

MOTIVATING THE RELUCTANT LEARNER: ACTIVE ENGAGEMENT IN THE CLASSROOM
FEATURED SPEAKER: Dawn Odum, National Board Certified Teacher, Auburndale, FL

Want to engage students? Want to raise test scores? Want teacher-friendly strategies to implement tomorrow? You experience cutting edge teaching structures to create classroom success now and forever! In addition, you learn management tips, strategies for creating a cooperative class through teambuilding and classbuilding, and why cooperative learning produces gains and group work often fails. Finally, a class that has practical, hands-on ideas grounded in sound research and theory.
KEEPING HOMELESS CHILDREN CONNECTED TO EDUCATION

Audrey Coaston-Shelton, School Psychologist; Karen Fessler, Director of Project Connect; Rebeka Beach, Adolescent Manager, Project Connect, Cincinnati Public Schools, Cincinnati, OH

This presentation will focus on the unique needs of homeless children and youth, the barriers to education they face, and a model for delivery services to ensure these students remain connected to the educational process. The goal will be to enlighten participants about the needs and the barriers to education that homeless students face and ways to increase their options for success.

RIO ALTERNATIVES (REINVESTING IN OURSELVES): I KNOW I CAN, BECAUSE I KNOW I AM

Shawn Mannix, Executive Director and Frank McCraw, Sr., Program Coordinator, Guardians Investing in Generations, Atlanta, GA

Many youth in our communities are struggling due to the accumulation of mental, emotional, and social struggles (MESS) in their lives. The majority are not taught to discard their “MESS,” and as a result carry it into adulthood, causing academic deficiencies and “at risk” behaviors, that lead to the downfall of many youth today. This workshop will explore various new concepts that identify and address the “MESS.” Participants will discuss innovative, affirmative, cognitive, and motivational enhancement techniques, delivered through strategies that are familiar to youth and get their attention. By putting them in a more receptive state and motivating them to pursue learning opportunities, we can help youth, as well as ourselves bypass peer pressures, overcome fears, rise above ego and emancipate from the mental bondage that results in the “MESS.” Participants will learn strategies to help youth identify, develop and reconnect to their innate true sense of self, enhance their quality of life, and prepare for independent living.

CULTURAL INFLUENCES OF THE DIGITAL MEDIA THAT ARE UNDERMINING THE DEVELOPMENT OF GENERATION “Y”

Rosemary A. Thompson, Associate Professor and Danny Holland, Graduate Student, Regent University, Virginia Beach, VA

America’s new generation “Y” has grown up around various digital phenomena: the Internet with online chatting, YouTube and its numerous informational resources, various social networks, digital video and music, iPods, which have consumed them with the glorification of underage drinking, gratuitous risky sexual behavior and violence. Generation “Y” has grown up in a world with diverse Internet resources. Today’s youth are heavily immersed in a digital world, and most of the adults around them are unaware of the devastating effects the digital world can have on their well-being. This workshop will give you the skills and tools to connect with this emerging generation.

TEEN MAZE: CHOICES DETERMINE DESTINY

Kathy Garwood, Executive Director/Family Connection Coordinator, Crisp County Community Council; Lisa Simpson, School Social Worker, Crisp County School System; Robin James, Project Leader, Turner County Family Connection, Ashburn, GA

The TEEN MAZE is a life-size game board where teenagers are the game pieces, and life’s choices are the dice. It is designed to help youth understand potential outcomes to some of life’s decisions concerning substance abuse, sex, and careers without the real-life finality of their choices. Realistic scenarios help teens navigate their way through the maze and find out about potential consequences of their decisions and behavior. Each student’s experience in the Maze is different based upon the random drawing of a life choice. The interactive “game” provides information on topics that include sexual abstinence, contraceptives, sexually transmitted diseases, peer and media pressure, tobacco, drugs, alcohol, rehabilitation, legal consequences, labor and delivery, teen parenting, HIV/AIDS, and post-graduation career and educational choices. The TEEN MAZE stimulates teens to think about the potential ramifications of their choices should this be a real-life experience.
ASSESSING BULLYING AMONG INTELLECTUALLY LIMITED STUDENTS: ADDRESSING THE CHALLENGE
Colin C. Quillivan, Graduate Student; R. Steve McCallum, Professor and Head, Department of Education Psychology; David F. Cihak, Assistant Professor, Department of Theory and Practice of Teacher Education, University of Tennessee, Knoxville, TN

The goal of the presentation is to describe the rationale, development, administration procedures, and pilot data for an innovative bullying instrument. Because of the limitations of intellectually limited children, we developed an administration format that requires only a nonverbal pointing response to pictures to indicate whether they have been a victim. Data are triangulated with information from teachers and parents.

SCRUBS PROGRAM: HELPING YOUNG ADULTS CHOOSE NURSING AS A CAREER
Marian Tabi, SCRBUs Program Director and Associate Professor, Georgia Southern University and Mary-Kate Pung, Director, Magnolia Coast Area Health Education Center, Statesboro, GA

SCRUBS Program, a workforce diversity project, is aimed at middle and high school students interested in pursuing nursing as a career, and to increase retention and graduation rates of the students enrolled in the program. This program works primarily with schools in Bulloch County and its surrounding counties in the state of Georgia.

EXAMINING THE EFFECTIVENESS OF ADOLESCENT THERAPEUTIC GROUP HOME PROGRAMS
David A. Scott, Clinical Mental Health Counseling Program Coordinator, Clemson University, Clemson, SC

The effectiveness of therapeutic group homes has been questioned as an effective form of treatment for “at-risk” youth. This presentation will examine the recidivism rates of “at-risk” youth who participated in an established residential group home program, and what the author found that works in this treatment modality.

EARLY READING SUCCESS WITH MULTI-SENSORY INSTRUCTION
Corine P. Alt, Program Specialist, Georgia Learning Resources System, South Center, Lenox, GA; Gail Melton, Principal; Amanda Barnett, Kindergarten Teacher, and Nicole Cornelius, Kindergarten Teacher, Berrien Primary School, Nashville, GA

“At-risk” students face challenges entering school. Often they lack concept of print or have limited sound symbol associations and they fall behind in language/reading skills. With the use of multisensory sound production and classification of sounds along with visual imagery to learn sight words, two kindergarten classrooms with “at-risk” and Students with Disabilities (SWD) raised reading achievement to grade level and beyond.

I AM ME PROGRAM: FOSTERING POSITIVE SELF-ESTEEM THROUGH SELF-REALIZATION AND DISCOVERY
Karen Donaldson, Motivational Speaker, Community Development Consultant, Event Specialist, founder and President of Panache Life Inc., Ontario, Canada

Learn the strategies used in the I Am Me Program, which serves to not “build,” but to foster and encourage positive self-esteem and self-image of children and youth. Learn new self-discovery techniques, practical and engaging exercises, and challenges that allow for the realization of self-worth that can help make a lifelong impact in the lives of young people.

THE INCARCERATED YOUTH: SUCCESS IN LIFE AFTER DETENTION
Michelle Perkins-Uelligate, Founder/Program Director, Perkins Youth Development Services, Inc., Pooler, GA and William “Bill Blade” Pollard, Jr., “W.I.L.L. Power” (Institute for Life-long Learning), Savannah, GA

This workshop provides an up-close and personal look at how incarcerated youth are affected mentally, physically, and emotionally. We will discuss the historical relevance of slavery and the current impact of hip-hop culture on the mindset of incarcerated youth. Subtopics include: The Mind of the Incarcerated Youth; “7 Deadly Sins” (juvenile law & school policy); and Returning to the Community.

TRANSFORMATIONAL LEADERSHIP: PROMOTING SUCCESSES WITH INNER-CITY PUBLIC SCHOOLS WITH PREDOMINATELY HISPANIC STUDENTS
Lorenzo Flores, Professor, Governors State University, Oak Forest, IL

This power-point presentation will examine that instructional and visionary leadership disposition that is utilized successfully within select inner-city Public and Charter Schools. The target audience hopefully will range from school superintendents to parents who will gain insight on exemplary school cultures, responsive and challenging instruction, especially for English Language Learners (ELLs). Also, services of student mentorship for at-risk students that promote resiliency training and high expectation will be addressed.

RESDLIENCY IN ACTION! A PERSONAL STORY OF TRIUMPH OVER TRAGEDY
Yolanda Tucker, President/CEO, GHM Productions, Inc., Jacksonville, FL

The target audience for this session is: teachers, principals, assistant principals, school counselors, psychologists, business and community leaders and volunteer service providers. The topics covered are: resilience, building caring relationships, communicating high expectations, and encouraging meaningful participation. The objectives for this session include: identifying strategies that create safe, healthy, caring, and intellectually empowering educational environments.

ACT PREP FOR AT-RISK STUDENTS
Robin Gibson, Teacher and SAT Coach, Hephzibah High School, Augusta, GA

The ACT Prep for At-Risk Students program meets after school, twice a week, for two hours. There are a total of 8 sessions. Two teachers work in the program. One teacher focuses on reading and language arts and the other teacher works on math and science. The students take a pre test, and based on the results, a program is designed for each of them. The sessions are made up of cooperative learning, small groups and a computer based program. Students are given “Fun Money” at the end of each session, when they have met the day’s standards. At the end of the week, students may purchase snacks and supplies at the ACT COMPANY STORE. Students do take an actual ACT, which the program pays for, when the students have completed the 8 sessions. This program meets with different schools throughout Richmond County.
DRIVE ALIVE: TEEN SEAT BELT SURVEY PROGRAM AS PART OF THE RURAL ROADS INITIATIVE OF THE GOVERNOR’S OFFICE OF HIGHWAY SAFETY
Katie Burkett, Program Consultant, Georgia Dept. of Community Health, Division of Emergency Preparedness & Response, Injury Prevention Program, Jesup, GA

The research objective of Drive Alive is to implement Drive Alive’s theory driven program amongst rural area high school teenagers and to use highway safety best practices to increase teen seat belt use; therefore, decreasing the risk for injuries and deaths resulting from motor vehicle collisions. The study design is community-based participatory research, and the populations studied are high school teenagers in rural Georgia (as defined by the Rural Roads Initiative grant of the Governor’s Office of Highway Safety).

ASPIRATION AND ACHIEVEMENT: SHORT- AND LONG-TERM IMPACTS OF A SUMMER PROGRAM FOR ENGLISH-LEARNING HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS
Paula J. Mellom, Assistant Research Scientist, Center for Latino Achievement & Success in Education, University of Georgia, Athens, GA

This presentation describes and reports short-term and long-term outcomes from 3 years of implementation of a summer program for Latino and English-learning high school students in Georgia. Transcript, questionnaire, and interview data demonstrate that participation positively impacted participants’ knowledge of “what it takes” to get into college, aspirations to post-secondary study, and concrete steps to prepare themselves academically for that track.

‘A SECOND CHANCE’: A GROUND BREAKING APPROACH TO RESHAPING THE LIVES OF IMMIGRANT YOUNG OFFENDERS.
Sara Cohen, National Director of Social Services, Ministry of Immigrant Absorption; Ruthie Saragosti and Miri Rossman, Director of “Second Chance” Program, Beit Hadfus, Givat Shaul, Jerusalem

The presentation will aim to grapple with the research question that was at the heart of the study conducted by Dr. Arnon Edelstein - Does participation in this program indeed succeed to reduce the rate of repeated criminal activity of its participants and/or to what extent does it lessen the gravity of the pursuant criminal activity? Through an in-depth analysis of the study, the presenter will share with the attendees the findings of the study and the insights it sheds on immigration and criminality as well as on the integration process of immigrants into host societies. We will also highlight the components of the program that seemed to be most central and significant in producing positive results. The presentation will be most relevant to field workers, management and policy makers in the realm of juvenile delinquency, with a particular emphasis on immigrant integration and criminal activity.

A.L.I.G.N.: ALIGNING WHO YOU ARE, WITH WHERE YOU ARE
Clarence Brown, Speaker, Trainer and Author, The Talking Bout, LLC, Bristow, VA

This presentation is designed for administrators, educators, family advocacy agencies, supplemental education agencies, parents and students who desire to understand the connection between purpose and performance. The speaker will outline 5 simple steps for bringing purpose, activities, decisions and influencers into full alignment. Using the word A-L-I-G-N the audience will learn how to make daily choices to keep them moving in a positive direction.

HELPING STUDENTS BECOME RELEVANT
FEATURED SPEAKER: Nelson Beaudoin, Educational Consultant, Speaker & Author, Poland, ME

This workshop will show that in spite of the many difficult challenges we face, the formula for school success really lies within each individual student. Learn ways that your school can change its focus from “all” students to “each” student and experience greater success. Possibilities abound when schools can connect with the skills and interests of “each” student and create a supportive climate that makes each student relevant. Tap into students’ inner resources and empower them to learn. Yes, the magic is in them!

8 IS GREAT
FEATURED SPEAKER: MK Mueller, CEO, CCO, International Trainer, Coach and Author, Insight, Inc., Omaha, NE

Have you heard about the course that “at-risk” students across the country are saying “should be required for graduation”? 8 to Great is changing lives because it offers a proven process for success—practical skills that can be taught to 5th-12th graders using engaging 20-minute activities. At this session you’ll learn how to make the best decision EVERY time, why successful people make 20 times as many mistakes as unsuccessful people, how to get out of BC—Blaming and Complaining, and move into AD—Acting and Dreaming, how to use the FGH Positive Attitude formula to feel good no matter what, and how to “think outside the box” to solve even the toughest problems. This nationally acclaimed curriculum can be taught in one day or as a full semester course. Come enjoy as author MK Mueller gets you pumped and prepared to empower your kids!

Believe in the Power of a Teacher: How Turnaround Teachers Promote Student Resiliency
Featured Speaker: Theresa Martin, Ed.D., Public Information Director and Response to Intervention Coordinator, Ware County Schools, Waycross, GA

Research shows that youth who beat the odds and succeed despite great adversity have a relationship with at least one caring adult, often a teacher. These teachers, who make a positive difference in students’ lives, are called Turnaround Teachers. In this session, Theresa Martin shows how fostering individual caring relationships is crucial for helping students build resilience and overcome adversity. Learn what teachers—nominated by students as Turnaround Teachers—believe about intelligence, expectations, and caring relationships, and discover practical ways to enhance student resiliency and become a Turnaround Teacher.

Blending Behaviorist and Humanistic Approaches in Rehabilitating Troubled Youth
Featured Speaker: Bryce Barnhart, Director of Professional Development, Associated Marine Institutes (AMI), Tampa, FL

By the time youth have traveled through the legal system and end up at the doorstep of a juvenile justice program, they have a large repertoire of anti-social behaviors that they practice daily. It is critical that these behaviors are stopped immediately and replaced with behaviors that allow them to grow and develop in a pro-social manner. The primary objectives of this workshop are: (a) To explain how AMI implements both a Behaviorist and Humanistic approach when working with troubled youth, (b) To provide the participants with resources they can utilize to implement a similar program at their location, and (c) To illustrate how the behaviorist and humanistic approaches are used with a typical youth entering one of our programs.

MAKING A DIFFERENCE COACHING ONE ATHLETE AT A TIME
Franco Zengaro, Assistant Professor, Armstrong Atlantic State University, Savannah, GA

This presentation discusses one coach’s involvement in the physical, tactical training for competition as well as his emphasis on personal, academic, and psychological growth. The presentation reports on a case study of a successful high school football coach. It explores the connection created by the coach between academics, athletics, and community service.

"Don’t try to fix the students, fix ourselves first. The good teacher makes the poor student good and the good student superior. When our students fail, we, as teachers, too, have failed.”

A SHARED VISION FOR IMPROVED LITERACY FOR ALL IS A SHARED RESPONSIBILITY
Roben Taylor, Debbie Weingarth, Nina King, Larry Beard, Lynetta Owens, Celia Hilber, Jacksonville State University, Jacksonville, AL

The objectives of this session include demystifying the model of Team Teaching while at the same time increasing knowledge of effective literacy strategies. Participants will leave this session with a shared vision for improved literacy and the knowledge to implement this model in their own classrooms.

ACHEIVING SUCCESS WITH DIFFICULT STUDENTS
Brenda C. Weitman, Lead Teacher/Coordinator, Teen-Age Parent Program, Savannah-Chatham County Public School System, Savannah, GA

This poster presentation focuses on defining the difficult (“at-risk”) students in your classroom and school, and building working relationships, instead of walls, with them; examining how to make effective proactive responses based on a realistic view of these students; identifying characteristics these students are lacking and their primary needs; and teaching appropriate behaviors. Materials will be shared on the topics of teaching methods, learning strategies, intervention, and behavior management.

COMMUNITY-BASED PARTICIPATORY RESEARCH (CBPR) AND THE ISSUE OF YOUTH VIOLENCE IN SAVANNAH
Anees Fardan, Community Educator, Harambee House Inc. / Citizens for Environmental Justice, Savannah, GA

Research has shown us that a correlation exists between the presence of environmental pollutants and violence in youth. Is this just another excuse for belligerent behaviors? What is being said about where low-income schools are located? Can youth successfully engage in a process of research that will also teach them leadership skills and violence prevention strategies? What time is it??

PROMOTING EMERGENT LITERACY IN YOUNG CHILDREN
Marc Osborn, Robert Gentry, and Byron Livermore, Students, Georgia College and State University, Milledgeville, GA

Emergent literacy in reading serves as a gateway to future skills in preschool years. This literacy study focuses on the impact that literature exposure has on lower income children between the ages three and four. Children’s preferences for books were tested following a reading program. The implications of early exposure to books will be addressed in depth at the presentation.

THE IMPACT OF SINGLE-PARENTING ON EARLY CHILDHOOD AGGRESSION
Tsu-Ming Chiang, Professor; Andrea Borders, Robert Gentry, Courtney Hansen, Byron Livermore, Marc Osborn, Zack Stubblefield, Jennifer Teubi, and Lydia Combs, Students, Georgia College and State University, Milledgeville, GA

The objective is to provide exposure to the significance of the role that the parents play in the development of their child’s social-emotional development, in particular the regulation of aggressive behaviors. This presentation focuses on topics such as: parenting strategies, aggressive behaviors, and emotional coping skills. The information is directed toward parents, educators, and social workers.

STUDENTs, WE HAVE A PROBLEM
Sarah Mayberry, Media Specialist, After School Site Manager, Morgan Elementary, Macon, GA

During the presentation, we would like to introduce participants to the Problem-Based Learning (PBL) approach to instruction. In addition, we would like to help them understand the benefits of PBL, including motivation and critical thinking, through an interactive, hands-on session. Finally, we would like to demonstrate the various ways that the PBL approach can be implemented throughout their curriculum.

GIFTED YOUTH AT RISK
Paulette P. Harris, Director and Professor, Augusta State University, Augusta, GA and Audie Holmes, Professor, Paine College, August, GA

The poster session will allow the presenters to dismiss the stereotypes in our society about gifted youth as the presenters talk to the participants at the conference and explain how to convince gifted youth that stereotypes are just that—stereotypes.

KEEP YOUR FEET MOVIN’, YOUR ONE STEP AWAY FROM POSITIVE CHANGE
Alvin S. Perry, CEO, Alvin Perry Worldwide, Educational Consultant, Rockaway, NJ

This workshop is designed for administrators, educators, family advocacy agencies, supplemental education agencies, parents, and students who desire to understand the importance of developing life skills and goal setting. The workshop is extremely interactive and all information can be applied to daily lessons, classroom management, team building, and leadership. Innovative Teaching Strategies using the Five Principles of the Critical Zone Program are given throughout the workshop designed to increase academic success and student motivation—all of which lead to the reduction of the dropout rate and ultimate career success!

IT TAKES THE WHOLE VILLAGE: HOPE ACADEMY’S 21ST CENTURY METAMORPHOSIS
Sylvia Hooker, Assistant Superintendent Curriculum & Instruction; Janet Greer, Director, CTAE; Garfield Duckett, Behavior Specialist, HOPE Academy, Troup County Schools, LaGrange, GA

Novice and veteran alternative education leaders will gain knowledge on how to transform their existing facilities using the assistance of: Base School administrators: Career, Technical and Agricultural Education Department, Behavior Specialist, Ex Ed Dept, Graduation Coaches, Counselors, Faith Community, Mini Grants for “at-risk” children (edweek grants), Communities in Schools, Family Connections, Title I (funds for Professional Learning), and on-line curricular opportunities.
FOCUS: IDENTIFYING REASONS FOR STUDENT UNDERACHIEVEMENT, AN ESSENTIAL STEP TO REDUCING THE DROPOUT RATE
Carolyn Berger, Assistant Professor, Nova Southeastern University, Center for Psychological Studies, Ft. Lauderdale, FL

Many high school dropouts do not fail because they are unintelligent, but instead because they started to underachieve and were never able to end that cycle. A synthesis of the current literature on underachievement in addition to the presenter’s own research findings will be introduced. Recommendations will be made for educators to help underachieving students succeed in school.

WHAT ABOUT THE “AT-RISK” TEACHER? HOLISTIC STRATEGIES FOR EMPOWERING EDUCATIONAL PRACTITIONERS TO EMPOWER “AT-RISK” STUDENTS • PRESENTATION REPEATS AT 2:45 PM
FEATURED SPEAKER: Anthony E. Outler, COO, Co-Founder, Epic Empowerment Consulting, Atlanta, GA

The personal habits, values, attitudes, and cultural competency of educational practitioners are some of the primary determinants in the success or failure of “at-risk” students. Practitioners expend a tremendous amount of mental and physical energy in their quest to transform the students they serve. The demands they encounter not only make it difficult for them to critically assess the effectiveness of their practice, but it also prevents them from taking the necessary time to re-center, re-focus, or re-energize themselves. From proper diet and exercise to studying the dynamics of culture and poverty, this practical workshop will provide holistic strategies on how educational practitioners can personally transform themselves to be more effective with “at-risk” populations.

CASASTARTSM: STRIVING TOGETHER TO ACHIEVE REWARDING TOMORROWS
Emily Lopez, Deputy Director of Youth Programs, The National Center on Addiction and Substance Abuse, New York, NY

CASASTARTSM (Striving Together to Achieve Rewarding Tomorrows) combines teachers, police, social service and health-care workers under one umbrella to provide comprehensive services to 8-13 year old “high-risk” children and their families. The basic principle of the CASASTARTSM model is to enhance the capacity of communities to serve “high-risk” youth through formal partnerships. The goal of these partnerships is to reduce both the students’ use of controlled substances and their involvement in the juvenile justice system while promoting their overall positive development and academic achievement.

YOUNG, GIFTED AND BLACK: TRANSFORMING THE MINDS OF “AT-RISK,” AFRICAN AMERICAN YOUTH
Mildred McClain, Co-Founder and Executive Director and Abdul Dollar, Project Coordinator, The Harambee House/Citizens for Environmental Justice, Savannah, GA

This poster presentation is a learning experience for youth workers interested in utilizing leadership development, youth organizing and cultural competency techniques as intentional practices in their youth development work with “at-risk,” African American youth. Our presentation will feature specific best practice strategies on ways to energize and re-engage “at-risk” African American youth.

THE RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN ACCULTURATION AND PERCEPTIONS OF COUNSELING HELD BY SOMALI REFUGEE ADOLESCENTS
Mary S. Lacy, Certified School Counselor, DeKalb County School System, Decatur, GA

This poster session will explore the relationship between acculturation and perceptions of counseling held by Somali refugee adolescents. The study draws on data collected in 2007 utilizing the Birman and Trickett, 2001, Language, Identity, Behavioral Scale. Findings from this multidimensional measure of acculturation provide educators new insight into both American and Somali cultures as it relates to psychological adjustment, peer interaction, school environment, family, and attitudes toward counseling.

SCHOOLS: BLUE RIBBON, EXCELLENCE, AND DISTINCTION
Maryjane Kirby, Mentor, Walden University, Fayetteville, NC

Schools that have previously identified as “Blue Ribbon Schools,” “Schools of Distinction,” “Schools of Excellence,” in many cases have been categorically described as “failing schools,” based on new language in No Child Left Behind (NCLB). Elucidate how a school considered successful could be labeled as failing by NCLB standards.

INSURING THAT NO CHILD IS LEFT BEHIND
Jerry Dale Jones, Distinguished Professor in Educational Leadership, University of North Carolina-Pembroke, Pembroke, NC

This presentation shares a guide to describe how principals, counselors, and teachers can jointly plan and conduct a Mentor-Mentee program that is wonderful in its simplicity and effectiveness. Students who participate in the program work through planned activities discover how to be more responsible and involved in their own learning.

VIDEO GAME ADDICTION: A 21ST CENTURY YOUTH PROBLEM
Bernard Davidson, Associate Professor of Psychiatry and Health Behavior and Anil Saini, Doctor of Osteopathic Medicine, The Medical College of Georgia, Augusta, GA

This presentation is intended to educate those who work with youth, particularly school counselors and psychologists, as well as Marriage and Family Therapists and other counselors to the incidence and prevalence of “video game addiction.” This topic is receiving increased attention in the mental health field as it parallels other addictions in significant aspects. Ways of working with youth and families to decrease this preoccupation and resulting effects will be presented and discussed.

T.E.A.M.S: TEACHING ENCOURAGING AND MOTIVATING STUDENTS
Chantrise D. Sims, 9th Grade Academy Coordinator and 9th Grade ELA Teacher, Westlake High School, Atlanta, GA

Being a teacher is challenging enough, but trying to teach a class full of unmotivated teenagers is an entirely different story! As educators, we want all our students to arrive to class enthusiastic and motivated to learn. Unfortunately, many do not. Let T.E.A.M.S (Teaching, Encouraging, And Motivating Students) show you simple yet effective strategies and techniques to help you get the best out of your high school students!

APPLYING AND TEACHING THE “LAWS OF LEADERSHIP” TO GROUPS LEADING YOUTH PROGRAMS
Chris Anderson, 4-H Youth Development Specialist, Animal Science, University of Maryland Extension and Lisa Dennis, Henson Center UMES, Princess Anne, MD

Strong leaders are highly accessible, have a clearly defined vision, and are transparent about their expectations. Maxwell’s “21 Laws of Leadership” can help professionals grow their own leadership ability as well as the leadership ability of youth and adults with which they work.

ASSISTIVE TECHNOLOGY AND ASSESSMENT: A WAY TO ENSURE A CARING CURRICULUM
Larry Beard, Associate Professor, Roben W. Taylor, Nina King, Celia Billescas Hilber, Charles E. Notar, Lynetta Owens, Patricia K. Lowry, Debra Weingarth, Jacksonville State University, Jacksonville, AL

The objectives of this session will be to introduce participants to a model of assessment for Assistive Technology (AT) and include some concrete ways AT can be used to help “at-risk” students successfully interact with the curriculum, including speech to text applications, and some innovative ways to present information.
IMPACTING “AT-RISK” MALES’ COLLEGE ASPIRATIONS AND SCIENCE MOTIVATION VIA MENTORING AND A COLLEGE VISIT

Mai Yin Tsoi, Assistant Professor of Chemistry/Science Education, Georgia Gwinnett College, Lawrenceville, GA

African-American adolescent males enrolled in a community mentoring program “Real Talk,” experienced a “College Day” of informative college and science experiences that influenced their preconceived ideas of science and college. Results from questionnaires and interviews indicate that the students’ beliefs were positively affected and will be discussed. Ways in which the mentoring process enhanced these changes will also be presented.

BRINGING THE COMMUNITY INTO THE CLASSROOM: PRODUCTIVE PEER TUTORING

Theresa Jacobs, Alternative Education Instructor; Ursula Andrews, Assistant Superintendent, Tri-Creek School Corporation, Lowell, IN

With the assistance of the Learn and Serve Indiana grant, students in the Lowell Learning Center developed and implemented a peer tutoring program where students from the alternative learning program tutored “at-risk” 6th grade students in a variety of core courses.

NARRATED PERCEPTIONS OF SCHOOLING AMONG PERFORMANCE LEARNING CENTER STUDENTS

Adair F. White-Johnson, Associate Professor & Professional School Counselor, Argosy University & Marietta City Schools, Powder Springs, GA

Although the Performance Learning Center (PLC) has been in existence in Marietta City Schools since August 2003, there had not been a single study conducted to explore the perceptions of the students regarding the effect of the program on their daily lives. In an effort to continue closing the achievement gap within Marietta City Schools, the findings will be used to provide crucial student insight about the positive and negative components of the program. These practices within the alternative environment may be transferable to the traditional classroom setting, and this session will focus on the key findings of the study in an effort to engage school administrators, teachers and counselors in programmatic discourse about “alternative education.” In addition, the main tenets of the PLC program will be shared.
Room Monitors will be collecting TUESDAY evaluations at 4 PM.

Creating Emotionally Safe Schools
Jane Bluestein, President, Instructional Support Services, Inc., Albuquerque, NM

Emotional safety is critical to learning and achievement, and a key component of an atmosphere that discourages passivity, aggression or acting out for revenge or self-protection. The issue goes beyond threats, bullying, and violence, however, and also includes school policies, power dynamics and teacher-student relationships, academic priorities, and instructional practices. We’ll examine the effect of threat and stress on the brain, and its impact on learning and student behavior. The program also offers dozens of practical and effective alternatives to build a positive school culture and maximize achievement, commitment and cooperation. Topics include discipline and power issues, accommodating a wide range of academic abilities and learner preferences, preventing failure, encouragement and positivity, improving the social culture and dealing with mistakes and misbehavior, with practical strategies participants can use to use to build a climate of emotional safety in their classrooms and schools, as well as at home.

PROVIDING POSSIBLE SOLUTIONS FOR OUR NATION’S SCHOOL DROPOUT PROBLEM

FEATURED SPEAKER: Franklin P. Schargel, President, The Schargel Consulting Group, Albuquerque, NM

Nationwide, nearly one in three U.S. high school students fails to graduate. In total, approximately 1.3 million students drop out each year—averaging 7,200 every school day. Among minority students, the problem is even more severe with nearly 50 percent of African American and Hispanic students not completing high school on time. Experts say that dropping out of high school affects not just students and their families, but the country overall—including businesses, government, and communities. Those who drop out are more likely to be incarcerated, rely on public programs and social services, and go without health insurance than those who graduate from high school. America’s Promise Alliance plans on holding 50 State Dropout Summits and 50 summits for “cities in crisis.” Surveys have already been administered in several Dropout Summits to business people, political leaders, parents, students, and school personnel. Based on the recent findings of these summit surveys, workshop attendees will be given a variety of practical suggestions for preventing and reducing school dropout.

MY BRAIN DOESN’T WORK LIKE THAT! CREATING SUCCESS WITH NON-TRADITIONAL LEARNERS BY ACCOMMODATING LEARNING DIFFERENCES • PRESENTATION REPEATS AT 11:15 AM

FEATURED SPEAKER: Jane Bluestein, President, Instructional Support Services, Inc. Albuquerque, NM

We all have individual preferences and needs when it comes to learning. Some of us like it quiet, while others need music to concentrate. Some need a nice, neat desk while others sprawl out on the floor. Some of us like working alone while others prefer working in teams or with a partner. Some understand best when we hear information, others when we can touch it or see it. It’s not the differences that are a problem, however. It’s our tendency to be most comfortable with our own styles and assume that everyone learns best the same way we do! This is why it can be so hard to understand kids who actually learn and perform better when their preferences look very different from our own. Trying to force kids into a picture of learning or attending that is unnatural for them can create stress for them, result in behaviors that create stress for us, and ultimately interfere with the goals of learning and achievement! This program will explore a number of ways individuals learn. In addition to presenting dozens of practical strategies for accommodating a variety of learner preferences, we’ll also look at ways to teach children how to take responsibility for their own learning needs. Great ideas for teachers and parents, especially those working with non-traditional learners.

THE REWARDS OF TEACHING “AT-RISK” KIDS

FEATURED SPEAKER: Gwen Desselle, 2009–2010 Georgia Teacher of the Year, Social Studies Teacher, Colquitt County High School, Moultrie, GA

Gwen Desselle shares her story of teaching “at-risk” kids. She discusses the changes she has seen in attitudes about these students and the new strategies and programs designed to help “at-risk” kids learn and stay in school. She explains how helping these kids succeed has restored her joy in being a classroom teacher.

 LEARNING DISABILITIES AND ADD: A NEW APPROACH

David S. Admire, Assistant Professor, Southern Utah University, Cedar City, UT

This program will discuss learning disabilities, ADD, and addiction within the criminal justice system. Furthermore it will explain a program that reduces recidivism in this population by 40% and a means to treat this population appropriately for addiction which increases treatment success. This program would be appropriate for any individuals working with this population.

Gangs: National Trends and the Changing Roles of Girls • Presentation Repeats at 11:15 AM

Featured Speaker: Wayne Sakamoto, Director of School Safety, Murrieta Valley Unified School District, Murrieta, CA

Gangs and hate-motivated behaviors in schools have become national issues tied to bullying and harassment, narcotics use and trafficking, fights and aggression, higher behavior referrals, assaults on school teachers and school staff, lower attendance, and lower test scores. This training will provide participants with information on national trends including the changing roles of girls in gangs. The session will include early warning signs to quickly recognize potential involvement with gangs and hate groups. Sound strategies for school-based prevention, intervention and suppression will be provided. Topics will include assessing your school, development of policies and administrative regulations, identifying your “players,” and capacity building for your school. Whole school approaches and classroom strategies will be discussed. This session is applicable to schools that are focusing on proactive and preventative strategies and for schools that have entrenched gangs and hate groups. Participants will be able to go back to their school sites and begin implementing appropriate and research-based approaches.

Staying Ahead of the Curve: Six Pillars of Dynamic Schools • Presentation Repeats at 11:15 AM

Featured Speaker: Steven W. Edwards, Professor, The George Washington University, Washington, DC

Visionary leaders are constantly challenging themselves and their organizations to move forward and stay ahead of the curve. By applying the six fundamental processes—pillars—participants will learn a framework for creating the foundation for successful and sustainable organizational growth.

Five Conference Strands

I. Academic Achievement & School Leadership
   Closing the achievement gaps and promoting learning for all students.

II. Social & Emotional Skills
   Fostering social and emotional skills of all children and youth and enhancing the social climate.

III. Safety & Violence Prevention
   Preventing violence and ensuring safety for all children and youth.

IV. Mental & Physical Health
   Promoting the mental and physical health of all children and youth.

V. Family & Community
   Developing and enhancing family and community support for all children and youth.
A Town Hall Meeting

The town hall meeting will begin with a panel discussion followed by participants breaking into small groups to discuss the panel presentations as well as their own particular innovations or interventions related to African American males. Participants are encouraged to bring 50 copies of a one-page summary of their own interventions regarding African American males to be shared during the second half of the town hall meeting.

A TOWN HALL MEETING: HOW TO REACH YOUNG AFRICAN AMERICAN MALES

Moderator:
Evelyn Dandy, Professor Emerita, Armstrong Atlantic State University, Savannah, GA

Panelists:
David Miller, Chief Visionary Officer & Co-Founder, Urban Leadership Institute, Baltimore, MD
LaMarr Darnell Shields President & Co-Founder, Urban Leadership Institute, Baltimore, MD
Michael O’Neal, Executive Director, Parent University, Savannah-Chatham Public School System, Savannah, GA
Kevin Foard, Instructor, Savannah Regional Youth Detention Center, Savannah, GA
Jimmie Cave, Teacher, DeRenne Middle School, Savannah, GA

Traditional approaches to increasing achievement and success of young Black males are not working. We must change the current pattern where finishing high school is the exception and prison is like a routine. A panel of expert educators and parents discuss how to raise and educate academically successful African American males. Come join our town hall meeting on this important topic.

THIS DOUBLE-SESSION TOWN HALL MEETING CONTINUES UNTIL 12:30 PM

An evaluation of the conference’s general sessions will be accessible via nationalyouthatrisk.com or via an email announcement following the conference.
BRIDGING THE GAP: A LOOK AT EFFECTIVE COLLABORATIONS BETWEEN SOCIAL WORKERS AND PSYCHOLOGISTS
Kiana Clayborn, School Social Worker and Jessica Traylor, School Psychologist, Lamar County Schools, Barnesville, GA

This poster presentation integrates the combined efforts of the School Social Worker and School Psychologist in bridging the achievement gap between student populations, with the use of diverse program planning, student outreach, professional development, parent involvement, and community engagement. Each of these collaborative efforts produces great success for students, both the social work and psychological disciplines, and the school system. This presentation is designed for School Social Workers, School Psychologists, School Counselors, Principals, and all parties interested in implementing effective partnerships and collaborations.

CREATIVE INTERVENTION: INFUSING THE MUSICAL VOICES OF CHILDREN INTO BIBLIOTHERAPY
Donna Gwyn Wiggins, Associate Professor of Music, Winston-Salem State University, Winston-Salem, NC

This hands-on, active session is designed for persons responsible for providing intervention for children in pre-K–5th grades who are in need of social and emotional counseling. Participants will learn how to combine music and children’s literature into an engaging, therapeutic tool while encouraging a love for reading. Resource exhibits and handouts will be available.

YOUTH LEADERSHIP: AGENTS OF CHANGE THROUGH CLUB COURAGEOUS
Richard Frederick, Safe and Drug Free Schools District Coordinator, Orange County Public Schools, Orlando, FL

This workshop will provide educators (grades 4-12) the motivation, materials, and knowledge to implement a Club Courageous at their schools. Take a tour of the training received by students, which includes the knowledge and proven effective strategies needed to prevent or reduce violence, bullying, harassment and alcohol, tobacco, and other drugs on their campuses and in their communities. Learn "how to" establish and sustain this prevention club.

PARENTS AS PRIMARY PREVENTION AGENTS IN THEIR CHILDREN’S LIVES
Donetta Bracey, Senior Certified FAST Trainer, Families and Schools Together, Inc., Madison, WI

This workshop introduces participants to Middle School FAST, a family-based model prevention program designed to build protective factors and reduce risk factors that lead to substance abuse, juvenile delinquency, and school failure. Participants will learn how to recruit parents and youth, and empower parents to be in charge of their children. This workshop is ideal for professionals looking to find new ways of interacting with parents.

“The test of the morality of a society is what it does for its children.”
Dietrich Bonhoeffer
WHAT YOU NEED TO KNOW ABOUT CLASSROOM MANAGEMENT
Brenda E. Logan, Associate Professor and Interim Department Head, Middle and Secondary Education, Armstrong Atlantic State University, Savannah, GA
Targeted for principals, teachers, and college faculty teaching in preparatory programs for pre-service teachers, this presentation will engage participants in a lively discourse on the essentials for understanding novice teachers and classroom management. The presenter will culminate with the results of a qualitative survey of 25 urban principals who describe the characteristics of effective classroom managers for their schools. The survey indicated that urban administrators valued characteristics, such as, being organized and having high expectations for students.

SECRETS OF SUCCESSFUL ALTERNATIVE SCHOOL ANTHOLOGIES: THERAPEUTIC ART AND WRITING AT ITS BEST
Mary Hollowell, Associate Professor, Clayton State University, Morrow, GA
The objective is to showcase dramatic examples of “at-risk” student art and writing. The work was compiled, over several years, in a collection of alternative school anthologies. Prominent patterns were monsters, prisoners, and warrior/heroes. Some students remained mired in monsters while others evolved into accurate self-portraiture. Student anthologies can be very therapeutic, and the presenter will share lessons learned.

SO MANY WORDS, SO LITTLE TIME TO LEARN THEM!
Kara Krohn, Consultant for Diverse Learners, Iowa Department of Education, Des Moines, IA
The objective of this session is to provide a tool that you can walk away with and use in your classroom tomorrow. The Vocabulary LINCing Routine uses auditory and visual memory devices to help students learn and remember the meaning of complex terms. The LINCing steps guide the teacher through the routine. This is appropriate for fourth grade and beyond.

CONNECTING FAMILIES WITH THE COMMUNITY OF THE SCHOOL TO INCREASE STUDENT SUCCESS IN SCHOOL
Nora Molinero and Natalie Hughes, LMSW Social Workers, Fort Smith Public Schools, Fort Smith, AR
We will describe the process of working with families to increase school connectedness and school success, including issues regarding attendance and behavior. Participants will engage in practical discussions of home visits and dealing with difficult families. The target participants are those who work with parents and children in the school setting including social workers, counselors, truancy officers, school administration, nurses, and mental-health providers.

BODMIND INITIATIVE
Sara Smock and Stephanie Rushing, TTU, Center for Prevention and Resiliency, Lubbock, TX
This presentation will inform practitioners and educators on a new integrative systemic approach to preventing childhood obesity and disordered eating in youth. Attendees will gain tools to implement an integrated prevention program consisting of resilience development and wellness promotion. Preliminary data will show the early effectiveness of this family centered program.

PREVENTING BULLYING AT SCHOOLS: FOSTERING SOCIAL EMOTIONAL COMPETENCE FROM YOUNG AGES
Tsu-Ming Chiang, Professor of Psychology, Georgia College & State University (GCSU); Marc Osborn, Lydia Combs, Andrea Borders, Courtney Hansen, Jennifer Teubl, Robert Gentry, and Byron Livermore, GSU Students, Milledgeville, GA
Bullies often lack social and emotional competence that is fundamental to successful interpersonal relations. This presentation discusses the building blocks in preventing bullying at schools by coaching children’s social emotional competence from younger ages. By enhancing these skills, the youth are prepared to deal with daily stress and learn to regulate their emotions and behaviors, subsequently reducing bullying behaviors.

ACADEMIC SUCCESS PROGRAM (ASP)
Chuck Cancilla and Karen Talley, School Psychologist, Gwinnett County Public Schools; Michele Cancilla, Clinical Psychologist and Instructor, Academic Success Program, Buford, GA
The ASP is a research-based after-school intervention for at-risk students. It is geared toward scholastic improvement and enlists dynamic community involvement in helping families and schools exercise more effective strategies. The key component is augmenting parent-teacher-student communication, expectation, and accountability. We believe that success in life is all about choices and the only thing you don’t have a choice in – is not making a choice.

IN THEIR OWN WORDS: A QUALITATIVE EVALUATION OF A STUDENT-ATHLETE LEADERSHIP PROGRAM
Kelly O’Brien, Springfield College, Springfield, MA
This presentation describes the experiences of participants in an activity-based leadership program called the Springfield Leaders of Tomorrow (SLT). SLT is a two week summer leadership program for city youth ages 11-16 which fosters school and community engagement and enhances participants’ skills related to academic success, problem solving, and communication.

EXAMINING RESIDENTIAL TREATMENT FOR REACTIVE ATTACHMENT DISORDER: DO RISK FACTORS MATTER?
Brooke Sponger, Developmental Psychologist, Miami University of Ohio, Oxford, OH
Archival data on 35 children (4-12), whom completed treatment for reactive attachment disorder, was used to evaluate a treatment program. Behavioral and outcome measures were completed and risk factors for children and parents were examined. Treatment showed an overall decrease in maladaptive behaviors for attachment-related problems. Findings are beneficial for caregivers and clinicians working with children with RAD.

AMBER ALERT! - HOW TO BUILD A COLLABORATIVE EMERGENCY RESPONSE TEAM TO SAVE AT-RISK YOUTH
Tony Lowden, Executive Director, Campus Clubs Incorporated, Macon, Georgia and Lisa Herring, Director of Student Support Services, Bibb County School District, Macon, Georgia
Innovative After School Programs, Community Collaboratives, Engaging Science, Technology, Engineering & Math (STEM) Based Curricula, and Athletic Programs create the blueprint for developing successful community partnerships between school districts, corporate and nonprofit entities. Learn how to implement these initiatives to assist in galvanizing your entire community in the search for and the safe recovery of America’s “lost” at-risk youth. (60 words) The ideal target audience participants for this participation include the following: Principals, Teachers at all levels, School Counselors, Social Workers, Business and Community Leaders, School District Administrators, Volunteer Service Providers, and Criminal Justice Providers.

ILLUMINATING THE DARK SIDE OF THE MOON: HOPE FOR SCHOOLS SERVING HIGH POVERTY COMMUNITIES

FEATURED SPEAKER: Lisa Niedbala Ammons, School Improvement Specialist, First District RESA, Brooklet, GA

What are the relationships among our personal actions, attitudes, and assumptions regarding academic achievement for Economically Disadvantaged students? How can our beliefs, attitudes, and assumptions illuminate our thinking about Economically Disadvantaged students and their potential to achieve academic success? Even our best intentions, interventions, and instructional resources may not provide the optimum solutions for our students who are Economically Disadvantaged. We already have the solutions at hand, but they need to be illuminated!

DROPOUT PREVENTION ON A SHOESTRING BUDGET

Annie P. Wimbish, Superintendent, and Danette Blackwell-McAlexander, Dropout Prevention Specialist, Hattiesburg Public School District, Hattiesburg, MS

Dropout Prevention on a Shoestring Budget is an engaging, interactive presentation that tells the story of how a high-poverty urban school district of approximately 4550 students decreased its dropout rate from 27.8% in 2006-07 to 11.2% in 2007-08. We did this by using practical, research-based programs and strategies. After forming a well-rounded dropout prevention team comprised of various civic, community and business leaders with various school personnel, and researching, developing and implementing our Accelerating Students with Prevention, Intervention & Recovery Efforts (ASPIRE) Plan, we found that the strategies that made the most difference were the ones that cost little or no money! We desire to share what we’ve learned by educating and empowering teachers, administrators, counselors, community volunteers, business leaders, etc. with practical methods, strategies, and tips to increase graduation rates, and reduce dropout and truancy rates in school districts.

PARENTS ARE TEACHERS, TOO! WORKING WITH PARENTS TO INCREASE ACHIEVEMENT FOR CHILDREN WITH DISABILITIES

Jael McLemore, Family and Community Liaison, Savannah-Chatham Public School System, Savannah, GA

There is no greater advocate for a child with special needs than his or her parent. And research shows that students are most likely to succeed when parents are fully involved in their education. Learn how educators, administrators and other caregivers can foster collaborative partnerships with parents so as to maximize learning and growth opportunities for exceptional students.
HOW TO KEEP THEM WANTING MORE!
Sameea Belle, Counselor and Lecturer, and Sharlina Goveia, Student Support Services, York College, Jamaica, NY

You’re a good teacher. As you lecture, you watch the faces of your students for clues and wonder, ‘Do they get it?’ You stop and ask, ‘Are there any questions?’ No one raises a hand, no one has a question. We will share with you a device to verify if students ‘really got it’ and help increase your class participation.

METHODS TO RECRUITING VOLUNTEERS: CONSIDER THE GENERATION GAP
Lisa M Dennis, 4-H Youth and Adult Leadership Specialist, University of Maryland, Princess Anne, MD

Finding new volunteers is becoming difficult for non-profit organizations. A method of recruitment directly tied to factors that motivate individuals to serve as volunteers is targeted marketing. Research shows that individuals from different demographic groups expect and want diverse roles and assignments when they volunteer. This workshop will provide strategies for using targeted marketing to increase a non-profit’s volunteer base.

CRITICAL THINKING STRATEGIES/ARTS PROGRAMS FOR AT-RISK YOUTH
Laura Victoria and Lloyd Harold, Teacher Specialist in Visual Arts/Art Teacher, Savannah Chatham County Public Schools, Savannah, GA

Teachers, principals, and community leaders will gain knowledge of current research in the area of arts programs that can implement in their own school or community. The Critical Think Strategies used by artists and designers can be practiced (by young people) in tasks required in making art and performing. If we provide arts programs, we create safe havens for children to develop both cultural identity and self-awareness.

CONSTRUCTING EFFECTIVE FAMILY-SCHOOL PARTNERSHIPS
Barbara C. Jentleson, Assistant Professor of the Practice, Duke University, Durham, NC and Carolyn B. Ericson, Assistant Professor and Department Chair of Social Work, Christopher Newport University, Newport News, VA

Family involvement is an important factor in a child’s ability to learn in the classroom setting. This presentation, by a clinical social worker and educator, provides family assessment and practical strategies that promote positive family engagement in the school setting. It is intended for educators, social workers, counselors, or administrators at an introductory or intermediate level.

TEEN ANGER: A COMPREHENSIVE APPROACH TO TEACHING ADOLESCENTS TO EFFECTIVELY CONTROL THEIR ANGER
Raychelle Cassada Lohmann, Author and Professional School Counselor, Hilton Head High School, Bluffton, SC

With the problem of teen anger growing at middle and high schools across the nation, it is more important than ever before that teens learn to cope and channel their anger in appropriate ways. This poster session will examine anger management and incorporate coping skills and strategies in both individual and group counseling. The presenter will provide handouts and practical resources to help any practitioner working with adolescents teach effective and healthy ways express anger.

EDUCATIONAL JUSTICE: A CALL TO ACTION
Monique Harrison-Henderson, Education Writer and Consultant, Lone Star College, The Woodlands, TX and Marina Gillmore, Social Worker and Co-author, Stockbridge, GA

Our poster presentation will make the case that the achievement gap can continue to narrow and the youth at risk within our communities be more effectively served when decision-makers and other stakeholders approach education and learning from a perspective of social and educational justice that includes a focus on the principles of equity, equality, and access to resources.

UTILIZING THE HIP HOP CULTURE AS A THERAPEUTIC TOOL TO ADDRESS “AT-RISK” YOUTH: TWENTY-FIRST CENTURY STUDENTS
Irma J. Gibson, Assistant Professor of Social Work, Savannah State University, Savannah, GA; Todd Williams, Street Reporter, Inc., Warner Robins, GA

This session entails a personal narration about a hip hop recording artist’s childhood experiences with foster care, the obstacles encountered as an “at-risk” youth, and the resources and means utilized to beat the odds. Included are statistical data and therapeutic avenues by which the hip hop culture can be positively used by advocates to assist underprivileged youth via Hip Hop Therapy.

adolescent mental health
Lisa Rosario, Director of Social Work and Social Services, Public Health Solutions, New York City, NY

The focus of this workshop will be to define and assess the variables involved in providing successful mental health programs to youth and adolescents. By building collaborative relationships to promote, develop, and implement these programs, we seek to enhance healthy emotional and psychological growth. This, in turn, will be used to reduce barriers to learning in several different areas of overall development.

BULLYING PREVENTION IN THE K12 SCHOOL ENVIRONMENT
Kelli Jette, Instructor of Human Development/Educational Psychology, University of Cincinnati, Cincinnati, OH

The Department of Education, in accordance with No Child Left Behind (NCLB), has issued a mandate that all public schools implement an in-school anti-bullying/anti-peer victimization program by 2012. The attitudes, identification of incidences, and response to this overwhelming problem vary among individual schools, districts, and states. The development of a cohesive, yet dynamic, anti-bullying campaign is necessary to meet the requirements mandated by federal and state governments.
