Excerpt: City’s Homeless Shelters Work Together to Reach At-Risk and Young in Brutal Weather
Alissa Zhu

CHICAGO — With the polar vortex marking this winter season as one of Chicago’s coldest in recent memory, the city’s homeless youth are up against life-threatening conditions. Kids under the age of 18 are wards of the state, but as soon as youth become legal adults, they’re expected to fend for themselves on the streets. Weather emergencies have brought homeless agencies and city officials together to prevent tragedy, but as public funds for homeless aid dwindle in the face of statewide financial hardship, resources are stretched thin when need is greatest.

Youth Today is the only national publication focused entirely on the news, best practices, and latest information surrounding youth and those who work with them, releasing new articles and information on a daily basis.

Excerpt: The Special Challenges of LGBTQ Youth in Rural America
Joan Whitely

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — Being in the minority is tough in any locale, but LGBTQ youth in rural America face challenges their urban counterparts do not.

They have fewer local role models of adults who are out and successful. They are less likely to have a nearby agency that specializes in their needs. It’s harder to get transportation to get to organizations and events. And, some rural areas of the United States still do not have Internet access, which means that not all rural LGBTQ teens can get information or make friends online.

DEAR CONFERENCE ATTENDEES,

On behalf of the Planning Council and our sponsors, we welcome you to the 25th anniversary of the National Youth-At-Risk (NYAR) Conference. This special commemorative conference showcases dynamic keynote presenters and entertainment. Join us in celebrating 25 years of dedication to successfully training educators who serve youth! Choose from over 120 training sessions featuring research-based programs and best practices for creating safe, healthy, caring, and intellectually empowering educational environments that foster the well-being of all children and adolescents. Participate in our Monday evening Idol & Mixer and visit our Tuesday afternoon Poster Reception. Also, take time to see the Exhibitor Expo, network with colleagues, and enjoy historic Savannah. At the back of the conference program, read the good news about how the recent founding of the NYAR Center and its online NYAR Journal can help provide year-round support for your service to youth.

Dan Rea and Eric Landers, Co-Directors of the NYAR Center, College of Education, Georgia Southern University

Conference Mission

The conference trains adults who serve youth to create safe, healthy, caring, and intellectually empowering educational environments that foster the well-being of all children and adolescents. To accomplish this mission, it offers over 120 presentations by nationally and internationally recognized presenters to over 1200 conference participants from across the United States. In these presentations, participants learn about current research-based educational programs and strategies, which empower young people to overcome at-risk conditions that may threaten their safety, health, emotional needs, and academic achievement. Participants also gain knowledge of proactive solutions and best practices for meeting the serious challenges faced by youth today such as school violence, poverty, learning difficulties, underachievement, achievement gaps, illiteracy, boredom, apathy, low expectations, misbehavior, dropout, drugs, bullying, gangs, teen pregnancy, sexual harassment, racism, and dysfunctional families. Furthermore, participants gain effective educational tools to build strong caring schools, communities, and families, which can meet the diverse needs of all our young people.

This Year’s Conference Provides an Array of Learning Opportunities

CONCURRENT SESSIONS: Presentations of successful practices, programs or issues with our featured and highlighted speakers are provided in a lecture style format.

PANELS: Panels feature a group of experts chosen to discuss an important topic and allow for an audience question and answer period. This year’s panel topics are: Bullying, Meeting the Challenges of Rural Education and Educating Mean Girls.

TOWN HALL MEETING: Our Town Hall Meeting, How to Help Boys of Color Succeed, is the ninth in this annual series of discussions. It will be a double session with ample time for audience participation.

POSTER SESSIONS: This year’s Poster Sessions will be held in Ballroom A. Poster Sessions provide an opportunity for interaction and consultation with highly respected professionals with expertise in specific areas. These sessions feature visual aids and handouts.

NAME BADGES MUST BE WORN: To be admitted to the banquet on Sunday, March 2 and the breakfast each day you must wear your name badge, which will indicate that you are registered for these events.

PLEASE RESPECT THE SESSION: Please turn off Cell Phones during each presentation. Do not enter any session late. Thank you!

CONFERENCE EVALUATION FORMS: Evaluation forms will be distributed by our Room Monitors at the first Concurrent Session at each day of the conference. Please turn in your completed evaluations at the end of each session to a Room Monitor. For your convenience evaluation collection boxes will be in the hotel’s public areas. An evaluation of the conference’s general sessions will be accessible via nationalyouthatrisk.org or via an email announcement following the conference.

PROFESSIONAL LEARNING UNIT (PLU) MASTERY TEST: Georgia educators who will be earning a PLU at the conference should report to SCARBROUGH 1 on Tuesday at 4:30 p.m. or Wednesday at 12:45 p.m. to take the short essay Mastery Test. Please allow 30 minutes to complete your test.

SEATING CAPACITIES: The smaller presentation rooms fill quickly. Please arrive early for presentations in those rooms and be prepared with a second choice.
OVERVIEW

In March, 2013, Georgia Southern University President Brooks Keel approved the National Youth-At-Risk (NYAR) Center founded and located in the College of Education. The NYAR Center, co-directed by Dr. Dan Rea and Dr. Eric Lander, is a publication of the National Youth-At-Risk (NYAR) Center in the College of Education at Georgia Southern University.

MISSION

The NYAR Center develops and coordinates educational initiatives to foster the intellectual, social, emotional, and physical well-being of youth placed at risk by providing professional development, research support, and resource assistance for adults serving youth within Georgia and throughout the USA.

HOLISTIC VIEW

The Center promotes the well-being of the whole child by educating the “whole village” of stakeholders including school personnel, community service providers, and family members. The Center takes an interdisciplinary approach to youth development fostering the “SH” protective factors: “Head” for intellectual achievement and talents, “Heart” for social and emotional skills, “Hands” for safety and protection, “Health” for physical and mental health, and “Home” for family and community support.

EDUCATIONAL INITIATIVES

- NYAR Conference in Savannah
- NYAR Conference in Las Vegas
- PBIS Conference presently in Savannah
- Closing the Gap for Educators Website
- Researcher and Practitioner Awards (Mini-grants)
- Center Affiliation Support
- Open-Access NYAR Journal
- Research support for Gulfstream’s Student Leadership Program
FIVE CONFERENCE STRANDS

I. ACADEMIC ACHIEVEMENT & SCHOOL LEADERSHIP
Closing the achievement gaps and promoting learning for all students.

II. SOCIAL & EMOTIONAL SKILLS
Fostering social and emotional skills of all children and youth and enhancing the social climate.

III. SAFETY & VIOLENCE PREVENTION
Preventing violence and ensuring safety for all children and youth.

IV. MENTAL & PHYSICAL HEALTH
Promoting the mental and physical health of all children and youth.

V. FAMILY & COMMUNITY
Developing and enhancing family and community support for all children and youth.

Professional Learning Units
Participants of the 25th Annual National Youth-At-Risk Conference who hold a valid Georgia Teaching Certificate or Paraprofessional License or who are working towards a Paraprofessional License will be eligible for one (1) PLU credit hour. One (1) Professional Development Unit (PLU) credit is available for participants who attend 10 hours of the conference. Recipients must successfully complete a short written examination of the material covered. Successful PLU candidates will receive their PLU credit forms within 4-8 weeks following the conclusion of the conference. These forms may be submitted to employing GA public school systems for 1 credit toward certification renewal. PLU credit is used by employees of Georgia public school systems who currently hold certificates in an approved field (certified teachers, school counselors, administrators, etc.) as credit toward RENEWING their existing certificates.

Please Note: You must turn in your Prior Approval Form no later than 10 a.m. on Monday, March 3. Those who have turned in a completed PLU Prior Approval Form will be given a copy of the conference’s objectives to review while attending the conference (you will need this form to receive access to the Mastery Test). The Mastery Test will be given on Tuesday at 4:30 p.m. and Wednesday at 12:45 p.m. for those who have already attended 10 hours of the conference. Report to SCARBROUGH 1 for testing. Please allow at least 30 minutes to take the test.

Continuing Education Units
ALL PARTICIPANTS
Conference participants will be awarded 1.50 Continuing Education Units (CEUs) for 15.0 hours of participation through the Division of Continuing Education and Public Service at Georgia Southern University. Certificates will be mailed after the conference upon request via the online conference evaluation form.

This program has been approved by the following:

Counselors: Licensed Professional Counselors Association of Georgia (LPCA).

Marriage and Family Therapists: Georgia Association of Marriage and Family Therapy (GAMFT).

Social Workers: National Association of Social Workers (NASW).

Preventionists: Prevention Credentialing Consortium of Georgia (PCCG).

THE NERVE OF YOU: HAVE THE NERVE TO SERVE

Keith Brown, “Mr. I’m Possible,” 20/20 Enterprises, Fayetteville, GA

In this highly engaging, interactive presentation, Keith Brown, takes participants on a thought provoking journey that causes them to look inward and re-examine their levels of commitment versus convenience. He gives keen insight on why we should take it personal, related to youth we serve and their outcome, and why taking it personal takes more than nurturing, it takes NERVE (Never Ending Resilience that Validates Everyone). This insightful presentation shifts the focus from “how” to “why” in our daily example as genuine change agents.

THE RON CLARK STORY
Ron Clark, Founder, The Ron Clark Academy, Atlanta, GA

Ron Clark shares his personal experiences teaching in North Carolina, Harlem, and at the Ron Clark Academy in Atlanta to illustrate his methods for insuring success for every child: Educators must use vibrant, innovative techniques to keep the attention of students and make the curriculum come alive for them. It is important to insist on civility in the classroom to create an environment that is conducive to learning. Ron will talk about—“The End of Molasses Classes” and “The Essential 55”—innovative ways proven to improve America’s classroom as well as simple classroom rules and procedures that instill manners and respect. Educators must provide opportunities where students learn that the world is bigger than their own backyard and create a global awareness. Ron’s presentation is animated, humorous, and leaves the audience inspired to make a difference.

Child Sex Trafficking in Georgia: Can This Really Be Happening to Our Kids?
Amber McKeen, Child Abuse Prevention Trainer, Stephanie V. Blank Center for Safe and Healthy Children, Atlanta, GA

Participants will learn about the realities of the systematic sexual exploitation of children and teens in Georgia. We will define child sex trafficking or Commercial Sexual Exploitation of Children (CSEC) and discuss appropriate terminology; as well as identify and debunk common myths surrounding the exploitation of children. You will learn about risk factors for victims, pathways of entry into “the life” of sexual exploitation, and ways to recognize potential victims and perpetrators in schools. Finally, we will discuss proper channels of reporting and action steps to help “at-risk” and victimized children and teens.

Ballroom E
Monday 10:30 -11:45 a.m.

Building a Culture of Hope for “At-Risk” Students
Robert Barr, Professor & Senior Analyst, Boise State University, Boise, ID, and Emily Gibson, Instructional Coach, Konocti School District, Kelseyville, CA

This session will document the essential social/emotional needs of “at-risk” students that must be addressed for them to have success in school and later life; it will also describe effective social/emotional school strategies that combat the “learned helplessness” associated with poverty. Participants will use tools for assessing school culture and students attitudes and learn effective strategies for developing the social/emotional need of students. This session is for K-12 teachers/administrators.

Ballroom F
Monday 10:30 -11:45 a.m.

“I Drew the Short Straw”
Featured Speaker: Jemelleh Coes, 2014 Georgia Teacher of the Year, Special Education Teacher, Langston Chapel Middle School, Statesboro, GA

This interactive presentation serves as a self-reflection for educators so that they may continue to provide guidance and set high academic and behavioral expectations for all students, including those who may have met great challenges. Be prepared to move around and interact with other educators and supporters of education.

Monday 10:30 -11:45 a.m.

RISK: “REAL INSIGHTFUL SOUL KIDS” FACE CHALLENGES WITH BYSTANDING
FEATURED SPEAKER: Joshua Sanders, Academic Advisor, Tucson School District 1, Marana, AZ

The session is derived from the perceptions of the stakeholders facing the challenges of bullying bystanding. As adults, we often discuss the problem and solutions amongst ourselves, but we forget to include the important people in the discussions, which are the actual bystanders. What are they really saying when the cameras are off? This session will share the reasons students say bystanding continues.

SCARBROUGH 4
Monday 10:30 -11:45 a.m.

“HIGH FLYING SCHOOL” SHOWCASE
HIGH FLYING SCHOOLS: Northington Elementary School, Tuscaloosa, AL, North Vista Elementary School, Florence, SC, and Loris Elementary School, Loris, SC

Teachers and principals from three “High Flying Schools” showcase how they closed achievement gaps and raised achievement for all students in their schools. The audience is invited to hear their stories and ask questions. “High Flying Schools” meet six criteria: (1) high achievement, (2) high poverty, (3) high diversity, (4) community collaboration, (5) citizenship development, and (6) democratic education.

Monday 10:30 -11:45 a.m.

BEYOND SURVIVAL: HOW TO THRIVE IN AN AT-RISK ENVIRONMENT
Aviva Goelman Rice, Professional Learning Coach, and Jacqueline Smart, Teacher, Savannah Chatham County School System, Savannah, GA

This session is for teachers who work in the learning environments of youth at risk. You will gain an understanding of resilience and how to increase it in yourself as you provide high quality educational programming for your students. You will learn to empower yourself to avoid burnout so that you continue to be there for those who need your very best you!

PERCIVAL
Monday 10:30 -11:45 a.m.

MOTIVATING THE UNMOTIVATED: CONNECTING DISCONNECTED STUDENTS
Christian Rauch, Senior Instructor, Quantum Learning, Houston, TX

All of us make choices based on our experiences, our life lessons and our schemas of the world. We can create new experiences, life lessons and schemas with troubled youth by implementing breakthroughs in brain science and teaching strategies that motivate, build confidence and self-efficacy, accelerate the learning process and promote positive self-direction. We cannot change the past, but we can definitely change the future. Feel the excitement, experience the motivation, and walk away with powerful new ideas for creating shifts in how youth offenders view their world and their future. Learn proven tools and strategies for teaching them to make new choices and to realize who they really are and can be.

“REAL GIRLS”
Kiana Battle, School Social Worker, and Jessica Traylor, School Psychologist, Lamar County Board of Education, Barnesville, GA

Real Girls is an eight-session group counseling program, which is designed to assist middle and high school age girls to develop a realistic self-concept, media literacy skills, and communication skills, while also learning about healthy behaviors and positive relationships. As each participant goes through the program their identity begins to be shaped, as their perceptions about self-concept, media, and relationships are slowly shifted to more realistic, positive frameworks.

VERELST
Monday 10:30 -11:45 a.m.

“I’LL CARE WHEN YOU CARE”
Crystal Ruffin, Teacher, and Cartillia Young, Teacher, Richmond County School System, Richmond, GA

We know that we care as educators but, when students and their parents know that we care, the changes experienced in student motivation and achievement are phenomenal. We will discuss strategies for maximizing instruction in your class by minimizing behavior issues. Also, strategies for administrators to celebrate the success of their students and teachers will be provided. When teachers, students and parents know that you care, they will go the extra mile, and collaboratively everyone experiences great success.

Room Monitors will be collecting MONDAY evaluations at the end of each session.

USING POPULAR CULTURE TEXTS TO REACH AND TEACH DISENGAGED STUDENTS
Crystal LaVoulle, Executive Director, Precious Cargo Educational Services, Atlanta, GA

This “literacy through the arts” presentation provides a detailed account of a literacy project that served as both an afterschool tutorial program and as a professional learning initiative for secondary educators. As an afterschool tutorial program, the project was designed to connect English/language Arts, Math, Science and Social Studies content with various forms of popular culture. As a professional learning initiative, teachers were able to develop interdisciplinary lessons centered on various themes such as love, hope, and fear. In this presentation, participants learn how core subject areas were grouped together to address curriculum standards and themes. The design, planning and implementation of the project are outlined. Viewing this presentation may assist teachers with implementing effective planning and collaboration for enhancing literacy and thematic learning.

“MAN…WHY CAN’T I HAVE A BLACK TEACHER?” EMPOWERING WHITE FEMALE TEACHERS TO WORK WITH BLACK MALE STUDENTS
Breyan Haizlip, LLC, Licensed Professional Counselor, and Adam Haizlip, Certified Cultural Responsivity Trainer for Educators, The Haizlip Group, LLC, Statesboro, GA

One of the most prevalent educational issues in American schools is the underachievement of African American males. Relevant to this issue, research reveals that African American males will have white female educators for over 78% of their P-12 experience. While scholars and educators have overly emphasized the impact of race, we have failed to investigate the impact of both gender and race simultaneously in our classrooms. Co-founders of The Haizlip Group, LLC, will discuss research and data-driven strategies that address the intersection of gender and race in schools and introduce participants to their Cultural Responsivity Training for Educators (CRTE) curriculum. In this interactive and candid presentation, participants are invited to engage in a courageous conversation forum for “cracking the codes” that create barriers between white female teachers and black male students.

MAKING CONTENT STICKY: WHAT TO DO WHEN STUDENTS DON’T GET IT OR CAN’T REMEMBER IT
FEATURED SPEAKER: Joanne Billingsley, Educational Consultant, San Antonio, TX

Participants will explore the biology of learning to enrich the practice of teaching. Discover three research-based techniques that make content more relevant, more comprehensible, and more memorable, particularly with underachieving students. Tap into the power of music, communication, and imagery to enhance student learning, especially vocabulary development and literacy skills! Find out how to create brain-friendly, language-rich, interactive learning environments, where classrooms are alive and students thrive.

Cheryl Quarles-Gaston, Principal, Kathleen Adkins, Assistant Principal, Jamey Burns, Educational Program Coordinator, Carter G. Woodson Elementary School, Jacksonville, FL
Instead of looking outside of your school for the latest software or learning strategy, focus within your school on equity awareness and highly effective teaching to raise student achievement. Use equity audit activities to help teachers reflect on their belief systems and change their way of teaching and interacting with students. Carter G. Woodson Elementary School, a high-poverty Title I school, was once a failing school but is now an “A” school after addressing the inequities in their classrooms. This is a must-see for audiences of teachers, principals, and policymakers as this session reveals the realities of “leading with equity” for positive change. |

| WE HEARD YOU! INTEGRATING STRATEGIES TO ADDRESS HIV/AIDS AND INTIMATE PARTNER VIOLENCE IN SCHOOLS AND COMMUNITIES
SPONSORED BY the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services’ Office on Women’s Health (OWH)
Quinn Gentry, President & CEO, Social and Behavioral Scientist, Messages of Empowerment Productions, LLC, Atlanta, GA; Beck Dunn, Development Manager, ENSYNC Diversified Management Services, Inc., Lake Mary, FL; Susan Spencer, Founder & President, Susan Spencer, Inc., Glenside, PA; and Amelia Cobb, Founder & President, The Wright Group, LLC, Washington, DC
We invite you to come listen to the summative findings and implications for “Integrating Strategies to Address HIV/AIDS and Violence in School and Community Settings for Youth at Greater Risk.” During the 2013 National Youth-At-Risk Conference, the Department of Health and Human Services’ Office on Women’s Health (OWH) commissioned four HIV/AIDS and Intimate Partner Violence (IPV) Integrated Services teams to plan and implement listening sessions. These sessions aimed to engage diverse youth development stakeholders, as well as young people themselves, in structured discussions about the feasibility of integrating prevention education on HIV/AIDS and IPV against young women and girls in educational and other settings. This workshop will provide diverse feedback gathered from 180 participants in 12 listening sessions. Discussions will center on: (1) how HIV/AIDS and IPV currently are conceptualized among young people and youth development agents, (2) the current state of HIV/AIDS and IPV programming at schools, colleges and related organizations serving young people, (3) challenges in addressing HIV/AIDS and IPV within the school environment, (4) perspectives on whether or not HIV/AIDS and IPV should be addressed in an integrated manner or separately when engaging adolescents and college students on the topics, and (5) recommendations on strategies for appropriate approaches to linking discussion on HIV/AIDS and IPV for unique sub-populations of young people. The findings are being further analyzed to inform the next generation of practical and effective approaches to integrating prevention education on HIV/AIDS and violence against young women and girls in schools and community settings. |

| “SEE, EXPERIENCE, TELL”: USING BRAIN SCIENCE TO CREATE LESSONS THAT BOOST STUDENT ACHIEVEMENT
FEATURED SPEAKER: Frank Kros, President, The Upside Down Organization, Baltimore, MD
Want to know quick and straightforward ways to structure your lessons, presentations or group meetings for powerful results? “See, Experience, Tell” is a classroom-tested model for reaching all the unique brains in your audience. This model provides a planning rubric to engage and impact diverse learning styles, helping you to be aware of your own teaching style while responding to the learning preferences of every brain in your audience. You will participate in an actual lesson to see how the model works for you and your students. Practice the discipline of connecting your classroom lessons to the real world every time! Based on research-supported, brain-friendly strategies, this workshop provides a practical, useable framework for differentiating instruction for the variety of unique brains in every classroom, group session and audience. You can apply it to virtually any academic subject to powerfully boost both student engagement in your lessons and student retention of your learning targets. The model adapts easily to non-academic lessons facilitated by counselors, administrators and professional developers; you will learn how to help any audience remember more of what you want them to remember! |

FROM CHAOS TO CONNECTION: CHANGING CLASSROOM CULTURE BY RETHINKING CLASSROOM DISCIPLINE

Cheryl Smith Turner, Lead Trainer and Assistant Project Director, Best Practices Training Initiative, Department of Early Childhood Education, Georgia State University, Atlanta, GA

The educational climate of our time is more intense than ever, placing a high priority on increasing academic excellence nationwide. Educators are continuously faced with ever-changing standards for learning, revolving curriculums that promise to deliver and increased accountability for teachers as they balance skillful planning with high stakes assessment. Classroom teachers do not have a moment to lose. Yet the compromise and loss of valuable teaching and learning time is exactly what happens each and every day in classrooms where ongoing, pesky, disruptive student behavior undermines the learning climate. The struggle to recruit, train, and retain excellent teachers with classroom management skills creates yet another difficult dilemma as we strive to create excellent educational systems.

"MAN….WHY CAN’T I HAVE A BLACK TEACHER?": EMPOWERING WHITE FEMALE TEACHERS TO WORK WITH BLACK MALE STUDENTS
Breyan Haizlip, LLC, Licensed Professional Counselor, and Adam Haizlip, Certified Cultural Responsivity Trainer for Educators, The Haizlip Group, LLC, Statesboro, GA

One of the most prevalent educational issues in American schools is the underachievement of African American males. Relevant to this issue, research reveals that African American males will have white female educators for over 78% of their P-12 experience. While scholars and educators have overly emphasized the impact of race, we have failed to investigate the impact of both gender and race simultaneously in our classrooms. Co-founders of The Haizlip Group, LLC, will discuss research and data-driven strategies that address the intersection of gender and race in schools and introduce participants to their Cultural Responsivity Training for Educators (CRTE) curriculum. In this interactive and candid presentation, participants are invited to engage in a courageous conversation forum for “cracking the codes” that create barriers between white female teachers and black male students.

SUPPORTING STUDENTS OF COLOR: INCREASING CLASSROOM ENGAGEMENT, RETENTION & GRADUATION RATES WITH AN INNOVATIVE ADVISING/MENTORING PROGRAM CONCEPT
FEATURED SPEAKER: Já Hon Vance, Vice President of Teaching and Learning, JV Educational Consultants Firm, Owings Mills, MD

It is urgent that the K-12 institutions understand how to best support students of color. Administrators, counselors and teachers who make an effort to help students of colors succeed in school and life will experience higher retention and graduation rates throughout their local school districts. This user-friendly workshop will demonstrate how to create an educational environment that is conducive to student success for students of color. The facilitator will showcase a successful program that is increasing engagement, academic achievement, retention, and graduation rates for students of color at the K-12 level. More so, participants will learn important concepts such as student classification levels, student accountability/ownership, success coaching techniques, internal/external engagement, and collaborative usage of their campus activities and resources. The facilitator will also share holistic strategies based on data with the goal of inspiring similar success at other educational institutions across the country. Thus, the facilitator will discuss ways to achieve growth in academic performance, increased connection with faculty and staff, and increased participation in the learning process, as well as, in school related activities.

Panelists: Kiana Battle, School Social Worker and Jessica Traynor, School Psychologist, Lamar County Board of Education, Barnesville, GA; Evelyn Gamble-Hilton, Principal, Langston Chapel Middle School, Statesboro, GA
This featured panel discusses the prevalence of female juvenile violence, reported incidences of this violence, the life pathways that lead girls to violence, the factors associated with desistance from violent behavior, and implications for families, schools, and communities for ending violent school-girl crime. |
| SCARBROUGH 2        | Monday    | Great Leaps In The Precision Teaching Of Basic Skills                 | Featured Speaker: Kenneth Campbell, Author, Gainesville, FL
Dr. Ogden Lindsley began a revolution in American education in the early 1970’s. His method of teaching was called precision assessment and it became more commonly known as precision teaching. Mr. Campbell began his career in applied behavior analysis in 1972 as a research assistant with the Drug Project. He then took his behavioral skills into classroom academics to develop students’ literacy and math fluency. With years of experience in working with “at risk” students, Mr. Campbell has developed a wide variety of precision assessment/teaching oriented materials for every student of need. |
| SCARBROUGH 3        | Monday    | Parents and Teens Together At Last: Parent Education, Life Skills Development, or Both! | Michael Popkin, Founder and Director, Active Parenting Publisher, Marietta, GA
Parent education makes a difference. Life skills education for teens makes a difference. Using a combination of brief video vignettes, experiential activities, and group discussion, participants will learn how to combine these two powerful strategies so that parents and teens learn separately and together for a synergistic affect. |

Discover ways to implement a successful letter-writing campaign within your community to support, motivate, and encourage students to develop their literacy and social studies skills. Let’s tell our children how absolutely incredible they are! For “absolutely incredible” teachers, student life and Title I offices, family connection coordinators, and volunteer, civic, and parent organizations. |
| SAVANNAH             | Monday    | Resisting the Marginalization of Test-Practice Pedagogy With Elementary Student Voice | Martin Wasserberg, Assistant Professor, Department of Early Childhood, Elementary, Middle, Literacy and Special Education, University of North Carolina – Wilmington, Wilmington, NC
In efforts to increase scores on end-of-year standardized tests, elementary schools in marginalized communities often enact test-preparation pedagogies. The omnipresence of test-practice makes societal stereotypes salient, which negatively affects students’ academic performance. At the same time, opportunities for more engaging pedagogies and meaningful student-teacher relationship development are inherently minimized. This presentation presents both quantitative and qualitative data underscoring this problem, and makes a recommendation for classroom-level intervention for the enhancement of meaningful learning. |

ENGAGE ME OR ENRAGE ME: SAVING OUR SONS FROM ACADEMIC AND SOCIAL HOMICIDE

FEATURED SPEAKER: LaMarr Darnell Shields, President & Co-Founder, Senior Director of Education and Innovation, The Cambio Group, Baltimore, MD

The numbers tell an unmistakable story: African-American and Latino boys are in trouble. Black and Brown boys are three times as likely as White ones to grow up in poverty, and 10 times as likely to attend a high-poverty secondary school. Their test scores lag, they are disproportionately likely to repeat a grade, and they are punished more harshly than other children for school infractions. If current trends hold, one-third of the Black and Brown boys born in 2001 will spend time in prison. During this interactive workshop, we look at ways to insure that we teach all children, particularly Black and Brown boys, in intellectually, socially, and culturally appropriate ways. In addition, we will focus on helping educators who work with African American boys to understand their cultural and developmental identities, learning styles, expressions, and behaviors to reduce conflicts between boys, and increase the educational stamina of teachers.

Charlie Alston, Zone Sergeant, and Earl Eubanks Sr., Police Officer, Public Safety/Gang Task Force, Richmond County Board of Education, Augusta, GA

This presentation will demonstrate the significance of graffiti through the eyes of a gang member. Graffiti is used to show gang membership, gang superiority, territory, rivals, and revenge. Older gang members recruit students to commit criminal acts. The topics will include all aspects of basic gang graffiti. My objective is to educate instructors and the community in recognizing gang graffiti, and its influence in our schools and the community. My professional experience includes recognition as “officer of the quarter” based on leadership skills and over 150 educational workshops for group’s faculty, students, and parents.

“YOUTH CAN MAKE A DIFFERENCE”, CHANGING ATTITUDES, CHANGES BEHAVIORS

Sharon D. Sims, Executive Assistant/Senior Trainer, FTC Prevention Services, LLC, Pearl, MS

This session was developed for the sole purpose of arming youth and adults who serve this population with information considered instrumental in providing young people the opportunity to develop skills and identify tools to apply a behavioral approach to preventing and/reducing incidences of violence and choices that produce negative outcomes. Incidents are more likely when a person is hijacked by anger, the series of components contained in our curriculum entitled “Changing Attitudes, Changes Behaviors” (CACB) attempt to “arrest” anger and share creative ways to resolve conflict. Built on the foundational premise that “YOU” (persons who work with the youth population) have the influential power to effectuate change in the lives of young people simply by the way they are addressed, treated, included, approached, and respected along with realistic expectations being outlined and/or explained to them allows the adults to examine self in the process of expecting behavior modifications from youth exhibiting less than desirable traits. The “Youth” part of the session focuses on building character, identifying strengths and weaknesses, building resiliency, exercising talents, and exploring other options in the areas of creative thinking, positive thinking, and attitude adjustments.

<td>This workshop is designed to “motivate mentors” via a formal discussion of 10 fundamental principles for “mentoring other people’s children.” It is imperative that mentors explore ways to enhance the overall mentoring experience, thereby increasing opportunities to achieve miracles we know can happen through effective mentoring. Dr. Gentry’s approach to practice-based principles for bridging the gap between “methods and miracles” of mentoring is based on her work as a community-based program developer, and most importantly, her own journey from growing up at risk in the inner-city of Atlanta, Georgia. These principles include: (1) examining one’s “reasons” for mentoring; (2) building “rapport” and “relationships” over time; (3) “relating” to youths’ everyday “reality”; (4) “recalibrating” when needed; (5) “resolving” conflicts in partnership with other important stakeholders; (6) “respecting” boundaries; (7) establishing “responsibilites” for the mentee; (8) understanding the significance of “role modeling”; (9) distinguishing between “rewards” and “results”; and (10) having the courage to “reconnect.” The workshop will include real life case studies to help workshop participants adapt effective approaches to mentoring called “situational mentoring.” Collectively, these principles have implications for transforming mentoring programs into life-long relationships where youth are supported over longer periods of time and through major life changes and challenges.</td>

This presentation will demonstrate the impact of scheduling interventions on standardized achievement test scores of students identified as being “at-risk” in the content areas of English and mathematics. Students in this scheduling intervention were enrolled in a yearlong, alternating content-day block scheduling model. The target audience is administrators and educators who are hoping to achieve increased standard testing results. |
| Ballroom F | THE AXIX MIDDLE SCHOOL PROGRAM: MAKING THE TURNAROUND
Melissa Cooper-Barone, School Counselor and Nicole Hawkins, Teacher, Osceola County School District, Kissimmee, FL
AXIS Middle School Program is an 8th grade program designed for students who were overage and in middle school. This alternative program allows for smaller classroom size, STEM component for electives, incentives that encourage hard work, and high school, college, and career preparation. This setting provides more support, better communication with parents, and encourages confidence and academic growth in each student. |
| Scarborough 1 | HOW TO TEACH STUDENTS TO “GO HARD” TO “GET OVER IT!” AND BECOME ACADEMICALLY SUCCESSFUL
Adair White-Johnson, Associate Professor, Georgia Southern University, Statesboro, GA
The objective of this session is to describe the “GO HARD” curriculum used to teach middle and high school students how to “Get Over It!” in order to be academically successful. Participants will learn the key components of the GO HARD program that is aligned with the National Common Core Standards, American School Counselor National Model and addresses the parental involvement provisions in Title I. |
| Scarborough 2&3 | A TOWN HALL MEETING: HOW TO HELP BOYS OF COLOR SUCCEED
MODERATOR: Joseph Washington, President and CEO, The Joseph Washington Group Inc., Atlanta, GA
PANELISTS: Timothy Allen, Urban Lecturer, Gilead Group Consulting, Dorchester, MA; Daryl Macaluso, Corporal, Gang Resistance Education and Training, Durham Police Department, Durham, NC; Michelle Allen, Doctoral Candidate and Andrea Glover, Graduate Assistant, Georgia Southern University; Adam Haizlip, Certified Cultural Responsivity Trainer, The Haizlip Group LLC, Statesboro, GA; Frank Lucido, Professor & Associate Dean and Carmen Tejada-Delcado, Assistant Professor, Texas A&M University, Corpus Christi, TX
Traditional approaches to increasing achievement and success of young African American and Hispanic males are not working. We must change the pattern where finishing high school is the exception and prison is almost routine. A panel of expert educators and parents discuss how to raise and educate academically successful African American and Hispanic males. Come join our town hall meeting on this important topic. This town hall meeting will begin with a video followed by a panel discussion after which participants break down into small groups to discuss the panel presentations as well as their particular innovation or intervention related to boys of color. Participants may bring with them 50 copies of a one-page summary of their innovation regarding boys of color. Summaries will be discussed and shared at the second half of the town hall meeting. |
| Scarborough 4 | EFFECTIVE CLASSROOM MANAGEMENT STRATEGIES FOR “AT-RISK” LEARNERS
Aviva Goelman Rice, Professional Learning Coach, Savannah Chatham County Public Schools System, Savannah, GA
This session will provide three big ideas with specific strategies that teachers can implement that will make a difference in their effectiveness with “at-risk” learners. Teachers will learn why these three big ideas are essential to the success of students and how to incorporate these ideas into their everyday instruction. Opportunities will be given for discussion and group interaction and teachers will leave with a toolkit of ideas to enhance their classroom management program. |

PANEL: BULLYING

MODERATOR: Ivan Watts, Associate Professor, Auburn University, AL

PANELISTS: Kem Cazier, Principal, Star Valley Middle School, Afton, WY; Anita Sanders, Assistant Professor, Gardner-Webb University, Boiling Springs, North Carolina; Joshua Sanders, Academic Advisor, Tucson School District 1, Marana, AZ and Rick Shaw, President, Awareity Inc., Lincoln, NE

This panel is set to push the boundaries of typical bullying prevention and propose fresh ideas for solutions in schools. Bullying prevention is one of the most pressing topics in education today. With many instances of school violence linked to bullying, schools are actively seeking practical solutions that can curtail this epidemic. This panel invites conference attendees to participate in a discussion with four very different and unique professionals.

THE POWER OF THE DREAM: SERVICE LEARNING FOR PEACE BUILDING IN SCHOOLS AND COMMUNITIES

Rosemarie Stallworth-Clark, Professor, Emerita, Georgia Southern University and Heath Cobb, Community Engagement Director, American Red Cross Southeast Region, Statesboro, GA

In this presentation, participants will have opportunities to examine and adapt current service-learning projects and resources available for youth designed to heal and to transform the critical socio-emotional issues of apathy, alienation, and disengagement facing America’s students and school communities. The objective of the presentation will be to assist participants to adapt and to create personally relevant, peaceful, safe, nonviolent service-learning projects whereby youth learn to serve the human needs around them. By integrating community service-learning projects with classroom learning activities and peace-building strategies for creating safe, nonviolent learning environments in our schools and communities, participants will engage in and design activities that have potential to provide significant impact on the psychosocial and emotional health of America’s youth in schools and communities throughout the nation.

HOW MALADAPTIVE COPING STRATEGIES TO RACISM AFFECT THE EDUCATIONAL ATTAINMENT OF AFRICAN AMERICAN MALES AT PREDOMINATELY WHITE INSTITUTIONS

Toya Roberts, Doctoral Student, University of Houston College, Education Department and Educational Psychology, Houston, TX

As the number of African Americans enrolling into postsecondary institutions of higher education continues to increase, it is important to note that the majority of these students will attend institutions that are considered predominately White (PWI). Research has found that on these campuses African Americans are experiencing significantly negative side effects associated with social isolation and alienation. Furthermore, research has paid little attention to the aspects of these students’ schooling experiences as they relate to prejudice and racism; therefore, this proposal aims to uncover how African American males cope with the stresses at PWI’s.

INCREASING AFRICAN AMERICAN AND LATINO PARENTAL INVOLVEMENT IN SCHOOL

FEATURED SPEAKER: Timothy Allen, Urban Lecturer, Gilead Group Consulting, Dorchester, MA

Parental involvement is one of the leading indicators of students’ academic achievement. The lack of parental support often found within the African American and Latino communities has often contributed to suspensions, expulsions and truancy. This interactive seminar will provide participants with useful strategies that can be used to increase the level of parental involvement and also help parents understand the importance of their role in their children’s academic success.

SIGNS AND SOLUTIONS: ADDRESSING GANG ACTIVITY IN OUR SCHOOLS

FEATURED SPEAKER: Daryl Macaluso, Corporal, Gang Resistance Education and Training, Durham Police Department, Durham, NC

This program was specifically designed for school professionals, law enforcement and parents involved or interested in school safety. Participants will gain insight into the criminal gang cultures. You will understand some of the cultural differences and community dynamics that shape modern street gangs. Understanding these differences is key to creating change within gang related and “at-risk” youth. This presentation focuses the gang mindset giving the participant tools to begin to reach and teach youth touched by gang violence and culture. Participants will analyze school board gang policy, discuss school safety concerns, bullying, and learn the importance of a threat assessment. Participants will be able to identify clothing, signs, and symbols associated with gang activity. Proven national practices and suggestions for intervention and prevention programs will be provided. This presentation contains graphic images of gang violence and strong language.

Room Monitors will be collecting TUESDAY evaluations at the end of each session.

Luella Rhodes, Program Director, Brittany James, Program Manager, Sheila Leonard, BART Peer Educator, Victoria Reels, BART Peer Educator, and Michael Ellison, Program Coordinator, Columbus Wellness Center Outreach & Prevention Project, Inc., Columbus, GA

The Swagga and Lace Initiative utilizes an evidence-based curriculum called BART (Becoming A Responsible Teen), which gives teens skills to delay sexual involvement, reduce their exposure to HIV/AIDS and reduce teen pregnancy promoting a healthy teen experience during their special years. Trained Peer Educators actively serve as facilitators delivering the BART curriculum with fidelity to their peers. The targeted audience for this workshop includes leaders representing community-based programs, afterschool programs, and other youth serving agencies. This workshop will share recruitment strategies, training implementation, report unintended pregnancies among BART graduates, community, partners and parental involvement and tips from peer educators on skills to educate and encourage their peers to delay sexual involvement encouraging healthy teen years. Participants will first-hand experience activities in the BART curriculum.

CULTURAL DIVERSITY AND CONFLICT RESOLUTION
Mary Jane Kirby, Contributing Faculty, Walden University, Fayetteville, NC

There is increasing interest in creating and improving conflict resolution approaches in public schools in the United States. Conflict resolution refers to the process of communication between two or more groups that are resolving a dispute with the help of a mediator. The mediator seeks to terminate the conflict and restore social relations between the groups to some level of legitimacy. Attempts are made to help people refrain from assigning blame and instead to focus on understanding the origins of the dispute and to find common ground for consensus.

IMPROVING SCHOOL PERFORMANCE WITH LIMITED RESOURCES IN LOW-PERFORMING SCHOOLS
Tabathia Baldy, Exceptional Children’s Director, Durham Public Schools, Durham, NC; Megan Lyons, Career Technology Intervention Coordinator, Langston Hughes High School, Atlanta, GA; Ronny Green, Associate Professor; Rudo Tsemunhu, Assistant Professor; Simmie Raiford, Assistant Professor, Valdosta State University, Valdosta, GA

This poster presentation will highlight the practices low-performing school can apply to significantly improve student achievement when limited resources are available for school improvement. Participants may be surprised to find practices that provide the greatest impact have little to do with financial resources, and more to do with how schools use and organize the resources they have.

ASSISTIVE TECHNOLOGY: PROMOTING LEARNING FOR ALL STUDENTS IN A DEMOCRATICE SOCIETY
Larry Beard, Professor, Jacksonville State University and Joseph Akpan, Professor, Jacksonville, AL; Linda Johnston, Director, School of Education, University of Tennessee at Chattanooga, Chattanooga, TN; Laura Carpenter, Professor and Department Chair, Auburn University at Montgomery, Montgomery, AL; Valerie Rutledge, Dean, College of Health, Education and Professional Studies, University of Tennessee at Chattanooga, Chattanooga, TN

This poster presentation will help give teachers and students some concrete ideas on how to incorporate assistive technologies in their classrooms to better help students interact with the curriculum. Inexpensive AT devices will be available with which teachers can interact.

TEACHING METHODS TO INCREASE MATHEMATICS FLUENCY FOR STUDENTS AT RISK
Toni Franklin, Assistant Professor, Armstrong Atlantic State University, Savannah, GA and Vanessa Hinton, Lecturer, Auburn University, Auburn, AL

This poster presentation will provide an overview of CRA (Concrete-to-Representational-to-Abstract) Instruction with explicit directions and demonstrations of how to implement it. The overview will briefly discuss the research behind CRA and explicit instruction. The demonstration will show how CRA can be used to help students at risk build fluency and achieve grade level standards in addition, subtraction, and multiplication.

DROPOUTS AND PUSHOUTS: UNDERSTANDING THE TIPPING POINT
Karen Joest, Associate Professor, Department of Human Ecology, Child and Family Studies, State University of New York, College at Oneonta, Oneonta, NY

This poster presentation illustrates how two key issues increase high school dropouts. The “Tipping Point” and “Pushouts” are key issues that increase dropout rates for “at risk” youth. We have developed a number of workshops and training sessions for faculty and staff to enhance a sense of community in classrooms, while developing programs for youth to decrease risk factors.

GENERATION Z: CONNECTING WITH THE YOUNGEST GENERATION OF YOUTH AT RISK
Daniel Czech, Professor, Drew Zwald, Professor, Willie Burden, Professor and Trey Burdette, Professor, College of Health and Human Sciences, Georgia Southern University, Statesboro, GA

The purpose of this poster presentation is to describe Generation Z and discuss ways we can better teach, coach and connect with the youngest generation of youth at risk. Based on theoretical frameworks of past research, the presenters will discuss strategies that teachers, coaches, and parents can utilize to enhance learning and achievement.

| HARBORSIDE CENTER EAST & WEST Tuesday 4 - 5:30 p.m. | REACHING AND TEACHING LITERACY SKILLS TO “AT- RISK” UNDERACHIEVING STUDENTS THROUGH MUSIC
Paulette Harris, Professor and Director, Literacy Center, Georgia Regents University, and Audie Holmes, Assistant Professor, Paine College, Augusta, GA
This poster presentation will show how a university literacy center service-learning project combines musical experiences with literacy learning for at-risk youth. As youth listen to music, sing, dance, and play instruments, they expand literacy skills. This practice provides a proactive solution to empowering youth to build literacy expertise. The target audience will include: college professors and schoolteachers at all levels. |
| HARBORSIDE CENTER EAST & WEST Tuesday 4 - 5:30 p.m. | FACTORS INFLUENCING GRADUATION RATES AMONG BLACK MALES
Rhonda Jeffries, Associate Professor, Department of Instruction & Teacher Education, University of South Carolina, and Sherry Eppelsheimer, Wando High School, Mt. Pleasant, SC
This qualitative comparative case study examined perceptions of Black male students in a large South Carolina high school regarding intrinsic and extrinsic factors that impact their successful high school on-time graduation rates with respect to No Child Left Behind requirements. The presentation is of interest to high school classroom instructors, guidance personnel and administrators. |
| HARBORSIDE CENTER EAST & WEST Tuesday 4 - 5:30 p.m. | UNDERAGE DRINKING: IDENTIFYING ADOLESCENTS AT GREAT RISK, PROBLEMS ACCOMPANYING ALCOHOL USE, AND EFFECTIVE INTERVENTION APPROACHES
Daniel Czech, Professor, Drew Zwald, Professor, Willie Burden, Professor and Trey Burdette, Professor, College of Health and Human Sciences, Georgia Southern University, Statesboro, GA
The objective of this presentation will be to discuss strategies that school, after school, and community-based youth professionals could utilize to prevent or reduce youth experimentation with alcohol. Also, the problems that stem from alcohol use and underage drinking will be discussed. Innovative and comprehensive approaches to prevention will be discussion topics and will include establishing tasks forces that encourage parental involvement, establishing clear policies against drinking, enforcing those policies, monitoring youth behavior, and raising youth and adults awareness of violations penalties and sanctions. |
| HARBORSIDE CENTER EAST & WEST Tuesday 4 - 5:30 p.m. | THE INFLUENCE OF SINGLE-PARENTING ON HEAD START CHILDREN’S SOCIAL-EMOTIONAL COMPETENCE
Tsu-Ming Chiang, Professor, Department of Psychological Science, Anastasia Kerr, Student and Sarah Flowers, Student, Georgia College & State University, Milledgeville, GA
The study examines parental belief system in relation to “at-risk” children’s social-emotional development. It explores the influence of single parenting on the development of their child’s social-emotional competence. Specifically, it contrasts two parents’ versus single parent’s families in parental disciplinary strategies and its relation to children’s social-emotional characteristics rated by schoolteachers. It is designed to inform professionals and communities with knowledge to work with families with “at-risk” children. |
| HARBORSIDE CENTER EAST & WEST Tuesday 4 - 5:30 p.m. | OBESITY AMONG ADOLESCENTS IN AMERICA: IS SUGAR THE CULPRIT?
Padmini Shankar, Professor, Georgia Southern University, Statesboro, GA; Shannon Cearley and Alexandra Tracchio, Students, Georgia Southern University, Statesboro, GA; Saman Ahuja, Assistant Professor, Lincoln University, Jefferson City, MO
Today’s youth consume the majority of their sugar-sweetened products within the home—regardless of gender or ethnicity. The CDC found that 54.4% of sugar-sweetened beverages and 65.8% of sugar-sweetened foods were consumed at home. Educating youth and their families on choosing how to eat healthy and nutrient dense foods is vital if we are to win the war on obesity. |
| HARBORSIDE CENTER EAST & WEST Tuesday 4 - 5:30 p.m. | AT @ UTC
Linda Johnston, Director, School of Education, Valerie Rutledge, Dean, College of Health, Education and Professional Studies, University of Tennessee at Chattanooga, Chattanooga, TN; Larry Beard, Professor and Joseph Akpan, Professor, Jacksonville State University, Jacksonville, AL
Today’s diverse classrooms include students with a wide range of abilities. This session describes steps one university teacher education program takes to ensure their graduates are equipped with the skills needed to make instruction effective for all students. |

Room Monitors will be collecting TUESDAY evaluations at the end of each session.

<td>Finding Success in Numbers</td>
<td>Anissa Johnson, Principal, Fowler Drive Elementary School, Athens, GA; Beth Tolley, Clinical Assistant Professor, Department of Educational Theory &amp; Practice, Athens, GA</td>
<td>Vital in the success of a professional development school are the clear initiatives set forth by all stakeholders in the partnership. A top priority for university-based participants is the idea of facilitating sustained clinical experiences for teacher candidates. The traditional notion of field experience becomes completely redefined and opportunities for creative ways of thinking and doing are limitless. What results is a win-win-win situation for children, classroom teachers, and teacher candidates.</td>

| HARBOURSIDE CENTER EAST & WEST | ALTERNATIVE SCHOOL PRINCIPALS’ AND TEACHERS’ PERCEPTIONS OF THEIR SCHOOL SETTING
Vincent Jackson, Principal, Washington County Alternative School, Sandersville, GA, and Gregory Chamblee, Professor, Georgia Southern University, Statesboro, GA
This session will present principal and teacher survey responses from a Georgia service area to show the level of existence of 40 effective alternative school characteristics and the importance of these same characteristics in their respective alternative schools. Principal and teacher interview data will be presented. Implications of the data will be discussed. |
| Tuesday 4 - 5:30 p.m. | HOW A FOUR-DAY SCHOOL WEEK PROVIDES INCREASED INSTRUCTION TO “AT-RISK” STUDENTS
Steve Smith, Superintendent and Julie Childers, Assistant Superintendent, Wilcox County Schools, Abbeville, GA
Facing state budget cuts, leaders in a rural Georgia school district devised a plan to insure “at-risk” students would not be short-changed, focusing on a unique use of a federal grant to drive the school calendar, increase student achievement, and provide enrichment activities that most of these students had never experienced. Target audience includes school personnel, grant writers, and 21st Century Learning Community grant recipients. |
| Poster Session Reception | STUDENTS WITH A MISSION AND PURPOSE
Christine White, Program Manager and Lauren Gibbs, Project Manager, College of Education, University of Florida, Jacksonville, FL
Looking for a way to bring out the best in your student leaders? Andrew Jackson’s Swamp Academy does just that! Join us to find out practical ways to start an effective high school leadership academy that will empower your students to positively transform your school and community. |
|  | BULLYCIDE: IDENTIFYING “AT-RISK” YOUTH AND EFFECTIVE STRATEGIES FOR PROACTIVE INTERVENTION
Rick Shaw, President, Awareity Inc., Lincoln, NE
Bullying, truancy, drug/alcohol abuse, and suicide are associated with students everywhere who are begging for help. This poster presentation will share lessons learned from both rural and large school districts and cost-effective strategies for identifying “at-risk” youth before it is too late. Real steps for prevention and intervention and ensuring all key players (students, parents, teachers, staff, community members, etc.) understand the roles they play in creating a safe environment. |
|  | WHAT IMPACT DOES PRINCIPAL TURNOVER HAVE ON STUDENT ACHIEVEMENT AT SIX MIDDLE SCHOOLS IN AN URBAN SCHOOL DISTRICT
Sidney Brown, Associate Professor and Sharron Chambless, Student, Auburn University at Montgomery, Montgomery, AL
The six middle schools with the lowest non-proficiency test scores and highest poverty levels were selected for the study. In addition, changes in principals’ assignments between the years August 2007–August 2012 were examined. As a result of this study, we found that each of six schools selected for the study had two or more principals in a three-year span. |
|  | NETWORKING: MAKING THE CONNECTION
Toye Johnson-Vincent, Employment Trainer and Corporate Recruiter, Riverview, FL
We will define “networking” and specifically discuss the details of how and why students and adults can benefit from this tool usually associated with career objectives. We will discuss steps in the process of how to get started networking, personal and professional networking goals and personal responsibility to follow through on networking tasks. |
|  | TANANA 4-H: BREAK THE SILENCE, NO MORE VIOLENCE, A YOUTH INITIATIVE FOR SUICIDE PREVENTION
Mara Bacsujlaky, Community Development Agent, Cooperative Extension Services, University of Alaska at Fairbanks, Fairbanks, AK
This poster highlights a youth mentoring program in Alaska that successfully addressed a lack of local resources, created a safe place for youth to build self-esteem, and empowered them to publicly speak about their personal experiences with abuse and suicide. Developed in a remote tribal village, the Tanana 4-H model may be applicable to other communities that are socially isolated. |
HOW PHYSICAL ACTIVITY AFFECTS STRESS LEVELS IN ELEMENTARY STUDENTS
Courtney Allen, Student, Helen Bland and Bridget Melton, Professors, Jiann-Ping Hsu College of Public Health, Georgia Southern University, Statesboro, GA

The objective of this presentation is to disseminate practical information on lowering stress levels of elementary students. A study was conducted to ascertain if playing sports would affect the stress level of elementary school students.

“KIDS THESE DAYS!” PREPARING “AT-RISK” YOUTH FOR THE WORKPLACE
Steve Parese, Founder, SBP Consulting, Inc., Danbury, NC

Troubled youth often have difficulty with peers and authority figures - difficulties sure to cause problems when they transition to the adult world of work. This highly interactive workshop explains why “at-risk” youth have trouble adjusting to the culture of the workplace, explains employers’ unspoken expectations, and offers two specific cognitive behavioral strategies for teaching youth how to work through workplace problems.

EFFECTS OF PARENTAL FEEDING STYLES ON CHILDHOOD OBESITY
Jessica Holmes, Student; Mechelle Lockhart, Student and Helen Bland, Professor and Bridget Melton, Professor, Jiann-Ping Hsu College of Public Health, Georgia Southern University, Statesboro, GA

The objective of this presentation is to disseminate practical information for adults on ways to appropriately influence feeding patterns in children. A study was conducted to ascertain if parental feeding styles influenced their child’s likelihood of being obese.

WIN-WIN DISCIPLINE: PUTTING “DISRUPTIVE” STUDENTS BACK ON TRACK
Jeff Dane, International Certified Trainer, Kagan Publishing & Professional Development, San Clemente, CA

Win-Win Discipline is not something we do to students. It is something we help students acquire! Win-Win Discipline is a set of simple, step-by-step strategies to prevent disruptions, to deal with disruptions in the moment and to follow up. It is Win-Win: "Disruptive" students learn to meet their needs responsibly and the teacher is free to teach.

COLLEGE READINESS FOR ALL: LOOKS LIKE A JOB FOR AVID!
Mary Childress, Program Manager and Mervin Jenkins, Assistant Director, AVID Center, Atlanta, GA

AVID’s (Advancement Via Individual Determination) mission is to close the achievement gap by preparing all students for success in higher education. Participants will explore evidence-based strategies and methodologies that enable students to develop the habits of mind necessary for success in rigorous courses, postsecondary academics, and in the future workplace. Research on AVID graduates will be shared, focusing on student success and retention.

BUILDING RESILIENCE AMONG “AT-RISK” YOUTH
Emily Burnsed, Student and Helen Bland, Professor and Bridget Melton, Professor, Jiann-Ping Hsu College of Public Health, Georgia Southern University, Statesboro, GA

This poster session will highlight the lessons learned from implementing a coping skill program with a rural Boys and Girls Club. This intervention was found to be a promising intervention to build a children’s resilience to negative peer interaction by strengthening coping skills.

GREAT PROMISE PARTNERSHIP: COMMUNITY COLLABORATIONS FOR COLLEGE AND CAREER READINESS
Laurie Murrah-Hanson, 4-H & Youth program Coordinator, UGA, Athens, GA

Designed to overcome barriers that prevent at-risk youth from participating in positive youth development activities and to increase high school graduation rates, Great Promise Partnership (GPP) strives to prepare students for college and career. Collaborating with public and private partners, GPP programs reach a diverse population of youth who learn valuable leadership and citizenship skills through weekend conferences, service projects, bi-weekly educational programs and entry-level employment with community partners.

THE REPUBLIC OF CREATIVE THOUGHT: HOW TO INCORPORATE CREATIVITY IN YOUR WORK AND EVERYDAY LIFE
Brian Phillips, Assistant Professor, Fayetteville State University, Fayetteville, NC

Creativity is often misunderstood. We are all, it seems, destined to be creative. It might take the right culture, the right environment, the right sunset, or the right person to ask the right question to enhance our creativity. It can be said that the capability to be creative has given humans and adaptive mechanism for a constantly changing world. The poster session attempt to provide techniques and strategies to look at the day in a different way and how that change effects those around them.
The Boys of Baraka is a 2005 documentary film produced and directed by filmmakers Heidi Ewing and Rachel Grady. Twenty “at-risk boys” from Baltimore attend the seventh and eighth grades at a boarding school in Kenya. The documentary follows them in Kenya and in Baltimore, before and after attending the Baraka School in Kenya.

The Boys of Baraka reveals the human faces of a tragic statistic: 61 percent of Baltimore’s African-American boys fail to graduate from high school and 50 percent of them go straight on to jail. Behind these figures lies the grimmer realities of streets ruled by drug dealers, families fractured by addiction and prison and a public school system seemingly surrendered to uncontrollable chaos. As simply portrayed in Heidi Ewing and Rachel Grady’s award-winning documentary, which has its national broadcast premiere on public television’s POV, a generation of inner-city children faces dilemmas that would undo most adults. In this case, they are told early on that they face three stark “dress” options by their 18th birthdays: prison orange, a suit in a box, or a high school cap and gown.

The four young boys featured in The Boys of Baraka, despite individual talents and considerable personal charms, cannot escape the common fate expressed by those dress options. But fate, as documented in this film, comes to them with a remarkable and fickle twist, an experimental boarding school in rural Kenya.

Teens deal with lots of pressures and challenges. These pressures bring up lots of questions. WhoYouWant2Be.org is an online resource created to help teens, parents and educators face tough issues. By providing interactive tools, videos and medically accurate information, we can help you help overcome these challenges. Together, we can help teens answer the question “Who do you want to be?”

Centerstone’s Prevention Services are provided by local, state or federal funding and at no cost to the recipient.

POVERTY SIMULATION: COULD YOU SERVE A MONTH IN POVERTY?
Facilitated by the Savannah-Chatham County School District, Savannah, GA

As you wrap up your time at this year’s conference, please join us for a rare opportunity to better understand what many of our youth living in poverty face on a daily basis (Space is limited to 80 participants; please register ahead). Approximately 32.9 million Americans, 11.7 million of whom are children under the age of 18, live in poverty every day. Many more have incomes above the poverty line, but their incomes are still low enough to qualify for programs like Food Stamps and Medicaid. The recent economic downturn has seen unemployment rates rise and the use of emergency food pantries increase. It is difficult for those of us who have enough to truly understand the situations that families living in poverty experience every day; the decisions they have to make, and the fears and frustrations they feel. That is why we are inviting you to walk a mile in the shoes of those facing poverty by participating in the Community Action Poverty Simulation (CAPS). The CAPS provides participants with the opportunity to assume the role of a low-income family member living on a limited budget. The experience is divided into four 15-minute sessions, each of which represents one week in which you must provide for your family and maintain your home. As one participant commented, “This simulation dramatically demonstrates how much time and energy many families have to give just to survive from day to day. It quickly dispels the myth that people would do fine if they would only go out and get a job!”

* Space is limited to 80 participants; please register ahead.

| Scarbrough 2 | DEVELOPING A PROFESSIONAL LEARNING COMMUNITY (PLC) USING SOCIAL NETWORKING
Jason LaFrance, Assistant Professor, Georgia Southern University, Statesboro, GA
By now most educators are familiar with the acronym PLC, but have not considered how they can use widely available free digital tools to expand their social network beyond their geographic boundaries. In this presentation, I share models of success and resources for joining these communities. Through this process, educators in any role can differentiate their own learning and access ideas connected to their professional interests. For example, school leaders and teachers in Title I schools can connect to other educators to share successful strategies for improving students’ behavioral and academic outcomes in their setting. Research suggests that digital opportunities to connect with new content and communities can accelerate learning for every student, but only after teachers become efficient digital learners too. |

FACILITATING CRITICAL THINKING SKILLS OF YOUNG ADULT READERS UTILIZING BLOG BOOK REVIEWS AND LITERACY WEBSITES

Anne Katz, Assistant Professor, College of Education and Amy Phillips-Williams, Student, Armstrong Atlantic State University, Savannah, GA

This literacy initiative focused on motivating young adult readers through the creation of blog book reviews and student-generated literacy websites at East Broad Street School in the Savannah-Chatham County School District. Working with individual 6th, 7th and 8th grade students, we guided students to select independent reading books on their reading levels, engaged in critical discussion around the text using Bloom’s Taxonomy as a framework, facilitated journal writing on insights gleaned while reading, researched new vocabulary terms, and helped students synthesize their ideas in writing. Students created original profiles of themselves as readers and personal book reviews on a Wix template. This interactive blog site served as a platform for encouraging peers to participate in summer reading endeavors.

TRANSITIONING AND RELATIONSHIP BUILDING AMONG HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS AND MENTORS: AN EXAMINATION ON THE BICS PROGRAM

Frankie Bell, Math Teacher, Chambers County Board of Education, Lafayette, AL

The program in this study was created to enable potential dropouts to successfully complete high school. The specific aim of the program was to provide services to enhance student engagement and successful high school completion while focusing on the strengths and interests of the students involved. By the completion of the BICS program, approximately 200 students will be involved. BICS will offer opportunities to learn and apply lessons in leadership development, service learning, action research, global awareness, and mentoring. BICS is designed to enable program participants to develop the appropriate skills and dispositions for success in high school and beyond. This study examined the degree to which there were differences in the academic performance and the number of tardies, discipline referrals, and absences between students who engaged in the BICS program and those that did not.

INTERESTING MATERIALS FOR IMPROVING K-12 STRUGGLING READERS’ FLUENCY

Lucia Lu, Associate Professor, Early Childhood and Special Education, Valdosta State University, Valdosta, GA

In a graduate level reading course, the K-12 in-service teachers used Common Core Georgia Performance Standards (CCGPS) to examine their struggling students’ reading fluency and designed interesting strategies to improve the struggling readers’ fluency toward comprehension. Come learn about these interesting instructional strategies for improving K-12 struggling readers’ fluency.

COMPUTER-AIDED INSTRUCTION: USING VYGOTSKY’S TECHNICAL TOOLS TO CLOSE A GAP IN MATHEMATICS

Jackie Hee-Young Kim, Assistant Professor, College of Education, Armstrong Atlantic State University, Savannah, GA

This presentation will discuss computer-aided instruction (CAI), which has been scientifically proven to close achievement gaps for “at-risk” students. This mode of instruction used an online instructional tool and a graphics tablet. This presentation will detail how these technology tools can perform Vygotsky’s constructs of scaffolding by analyzing the relative effectiveness of different hinting styles, learning styles, and cognitive development levels.

NEWCOMER CENTERS: HOPE FOR NEW ARRIVAL ENGLISH LEARNERS

Frank Lucido, Professor & Associate Dean and Carmen Tejada-Delcoado, Assistant Professor, Texas A&M University, Corpus Christi, TX

This presentation will focus on the Newcomer Program for newly arrived English Language Learners. Emphasis will focus on the best practices that were observed by visiting nine Newcomer Programs. Practical suggestions for implementation of this model will be presented.

MEDIA TODAY….GONE TOMORROW!

Ashleigh Hall, Team Leader, and Camille Lashlee, Manager, Prevention Services, Centerstone of Tennessee, Tennessee Ridge, TN

During this workshop we will discuss ever-changing media sources that influence youth, including an emphasis on areas of misinformation (i.e., media, music, social networking, etc.). Participants will gain knowledge on how we as educators and counselors can combat this message with positive media messaging and influences. Participants will gain resources and activities to help them educate students.

This year’s conference offers two strands of training.

TRACT 1. Foundations of PBIS

We welcome participants at our kick-off session on June 8 beginning at 6:30 p.m. Participants will also receive electronic materials to take back to their school so that plans for positive change can be established. The most important goal of this conference is to positively change the educational environment for as many students as possible.

Registration is capped at 350 people and filling quickly with regional, national and international attendees, so secure your seat today!
