OPINION: Beaches shouldn't be reopened during shelter-in-place

The hands that we're in seem to care more about pointless beach exercise than the well being of us as people. Please stay home and stay safe.

In case you missed it: Gov. Kemp's shelter-in-place order: What it means

Governor Brian Kemp issued a shelter-in-place order for Georgia. The order will go into effect tonight at 6 p.m. and will continue until April 13. Here's what that means.

In case you missed it: Bulloch County establishes nightly curfew in response to COVID-19

The Bulloch County Board of Commissioners adopted a temporary ordinance Tuesday establishing a nightly curfew that starts at 10 p.m. and ends at 6 a.m., with exemptions for people carrying out essential activities.

THE LATEST IN SPORTS

Calvin Wishart transfers to the University of California Santa Barbara

“After very careful consideration and after discussing all of the great options with my family and the people within my circle. I am extremely excited to announce my commitment to the University of California Santa Barbara. Go Gauchos! Ready to get to work.”

‘I will not let you down. We will win’: Brian Burg speaks at first press conference as head coach

“I’m a guy that wrote letters, day-after-day, to break into the industry for a coaching job. I’ve also traveled across the country with no money...just to beg a coach for an opportunity until he’d hire me. I’m a guy that’s been counted out many times.”

Georgia Southern’s First 500: Bernice Banks Shares Her Story

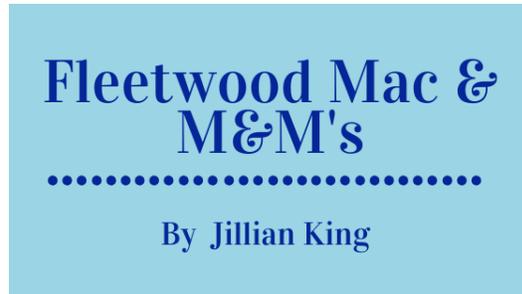

"I was just conscious of where the country was at the time, having just come out of desegregation, I was very conscious of the attitudes that people had about race and minorities...For me, logically, I didn't want to have a question about my race or education. I just wanted to cut that obstacle out."
