George-Anne to Sponsor Straw-Vote Election

'Girl Of The Week'

VILA BROWNE, junior elementary major from Brunswick, is The George-Anne's Girl of the Week. Vila is a member of the Associated Childhood Education, and was vice-president of the East Hall House Council at one time. This vivacious brunette is now a resident of Lewis Hall, but refuses to believe in the dormitory's nickname, "Old Maids' Home."

Masquers Announce Committee Members

Baptist Students Organize Choir

A new organization and one which is looking forward to a big future has been inaugurated on our campus. It is the B.S.U. choir. This choir is under the direction of Duward Whelchel, a music major at G.T.C. Its membership is composed of Baptist students and rehearsals are held in the music building every Saturday at 9:30 a. m.

Plans are afoot for the choir to perform at the First Baptist Church on prayer meeting nights, to conduct vesper services at Twilight here on campus, and if the membership grows enough, to sing at the state B.S.U. convention in Eatonton in November. The request is made that all Baptist students make a special effort to promote this new organization by being at rehearsal each Saturday morning at 9:30 o'clock.

The new effective schedule for taking the 1957 Reflector pictures has proven to be a great success, according to this year's staff.

The co-editors, Mickey Webb and Emory Cartrett, announced this week that the cooperation has been amazing and the students are to be commended for

House Councils To Be Installed

This Monday, October 29, at 6:45 there will be a public installation of the House Councils of the women's dormitories. Council members are to report to the stage by 6:30 p.m.

The attendance of all women residents is required. Other persons who wish to come are invited to attend. It is requested that everyone be prompt. The sooner everyone is there, the sooner the service may start.

Nancy Smith Named Vocalist

Nancy Smith talented pops singer, has just been chosen dance band vocalist for this year after careful study of tryout performances by a number of G.T.C. students.

According to Dana M. King Jr., band director and sponsor for the dance band, all the auditioners were so good, that the outfit hopes to incorporate them all in a special singing group later on.

The dance band this year is an almost all-new group, according to Mr. King. Graduation last spring claimed almost the entire group of steady members, leaving Jimmy Tidwell, drummer, as the only experienced player.

Other members of the band include Milton Norris, Ralph Bailey, Mel Kelly, Bob Priesley, James Jones, Stanley Brobston, Earl Smith, Loren Hatfield, freshman from Augusta, and Jack Willis, freshman from Cordele. Kitty Kelly is pianist for the band this year.

According to Mr. King, the dance band is performing under a new plan this year by which the group will play four numbers with very brief breaks, then have the host play records, during an interlude, after this, the band will begin the cycle again, giving almost continuous music throughout the evening.

Ballots Include Candidates From Major Parties

A straw-vote election to see "which way the wind blows" politic-wise at Georgia Teachers College will be sponsored next week by The George-Anne.

The election is a type also held on campus in previous years according to officials. It is planned to see how the majority of G.T.C. students feel about the candidates and to stir up interest in actual voting in the November national election.

Ballots, to be found on page six of this paper, list both Democratic and Republican nominees for president and vice-president. The forms also allow space for a write-in vote for either of these offices. Students are also asked to indicate whether they prefer at present to support the entire Republican or Democratic ticket, or vote a mixed choice.

Special boxes will be available for depositing the ballots in the Ad. Building and in the Little Store on Monday and Tuesday of next week. Students can vote by simply signing their name to a sheet located by either of the voting boxes and dropping his ballot in. Voting will be from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday and Tuesday of next week.

Ballots will be counted by the George-Anne staff members and results will be announced in next week's edition of this paper.

All students are urged to take part, and are reminded that only by full participation can this straw-vote reveal any true facts.

HOME EC. HAYRIDE

The Home Economics Club is sponsoring a hayride for its members this Friday, October 26. Their destination is Cypress Lake, where they will have a weiner roast. There will also be dancing and other recreation for the enjoyment of everyone.

applications at any Selective Service Local Board and to mail them before the October 30 deadline.

For additional information, students should consult any Selective Service Board.

Apple-Bobbing, Hall of Horror, Fortune Telling

A Halloween Carnival to entertain G.T.C.'s spook-minded students is set for Wednesday night October 31 in the old gym. Sponsored by the "T" Club, the festivities will run from 7:15 to 9:30 p.m.

Special attractions of the event will include apple-bobbing, a fish pond, a fortune teller (Madam Alicia), dart throwing, a Hall of Horror, a side show, a cake walk, and concession stands.

Tickets may be obtained from any member of the "T" club at a cost of 10c each.

BURKE SPEAKS MON.

Colonel Eugene Burke, Georgia State Patrolman in charge of school patrols, will speak in assembly Monday morning. Colonel Burke will talk to G.T.C. students about safety.

The band plans to entertain the students in assembly Monday, November 5.

College students interested in taking the Selective Service College Qualification Test have until midnight, Tuesday, October 30 to submit application, it was announced today by Dean Carroll, test supervisor. The test center in this area is Georgia Teachers College (Library).

To be eligible to apply for the test, scheduled to be given to college students throughout the United States, November 15, a student must intend to request deferment as a student, be satisfactorily pursuing a full-time course of instruction, and must not have previously taken the Selective Service Qualification test. The purpose of the testing program is to provide evidence for the use of local boards in considering deferment of a registrant from military service as a student.

The test was developed by Science Research Associates of Chicago and New York, one of the nation's leading publishers of educational testing, reading-improvement, and guidance materials.

Qualified students interested in taking this test to qualify for possible draft deferment in order to continue their college education, are urged to get their

Standards Committee Holds First Meeting

The first meeting of the Standards Committee was called by President Henderson Thursday, October 18. Those present were Dewayne Dutton, Student Council President, Bob Byrd, Student Council Vice-President, Ellen Blizzard, George-Anne Editor, Shirley Ledbetter, Lewis Hall President, Jane Jackson, West Hall President, Edith Williams, representative from East Hall, Diana Bair, Masquers President, Sue Whaley, religious representative, Ralph Walton, Senior Class President, Star Woodard, Louis "Doc" Green, Dr. T. A. Alexander, President Henderson, Dean Paul Carroll, Dean Helen Duncan.

Dean Duncan summarized briefly the spring meeting of faculty-student groups which discussed campus problems and recommended solutions. She explained that at that time both students and faculty members had expressed the view that such a committee in the fall would be desirable.

A general discussion of the nature of the committee and its functions was led by President Henderson. He indicated that the preparation of a code of conduct for G.T.C. students might conceivably be one accomplishment of the group. This might include the definition of desirable conduct in such areas as dormitories, classrooms, dining hall, on campus, and so on.

Other possible functions of the committee were suggested. One was that the group might help to reflect and form public opinion. Another was that it might study problems as they arise and suggest possible solutions. The current problem of speeding on campus and better study conditions in the dormitories were cited as examples.

The President stressed that this group is not to set up regulations or serve in any way as a disciplinary body. Further, he stated that he would prefer that he be only a participating member and not the chairman.

The method for selecting those present was explained. The President together with Dean Duncan and Dewayne Dutton selected students who had been elected or nominated to high office in representative campus organizations. There was a brief discussion of the establishment of some permanent policy for membership selection for this committee. The President appointed a sub-committee to study this problem and call the next meeting when it was ready to report. Those appointed were Dr. Alexander, Dean Duncan, Ellen Blizzard, and Dewayne Dutton.

Plans Start For New Building

The Dining Hall-Student Union Planning Committee named by President Zach S. Henderson and Dewayne Dutton, Student Council President, has met twice to discuss various ideas concerning this program. This committee was set up because the need has become urgent that plans be formed for the construction of this building. As the complete planning will take quite a while, work has already begun.

The committee this week joined the Association of College Unions. This association provides any and all types of information concerning the set-up of such a building. Through this association, the committee will receive advice concerning the planning of a union, operation once the building is erected, interior furnishing ideas, exterior planning, and photographic displays, plus many other construction suggestions.

Plans have not jelled in any fashion. First, the committee must receive the preferences and needs of the student body. Certain "musts" that the building should contain is a larger dining hall, public address system, telephones, rest rooms, post office, and some type of store. Ideas about other items the building might include are dancing area, reading room, conference room, terrace, faculty lounge, student lounge, record room, check rooms.

A questionnaire is now being prepared to present to the student body. The students are asked to carefully consider this questionnaire and answer all questions to the best of their ability.

To have a Dining Hall-Student Union that meets the needs and wants of the students, the committee must have their ideas.

To give the students ideas on what might be included in such a building, the committee has set up a table in the library. Downstairs, students will find numerous articles and pictures of other student unions; exterior, interiors, furnishings types of rooms, names of rooms, combination of rooms, kinds of snack bars, building material, floor plans, and anything else that might conceivably be in a building meeting the social needs of a student body. To get ideas and gain information about such a program, the students are asked to go by in their spare time and glance at these articles. Read those carefully that interest you and give your ideas to the committee.

This committee for planning the building is not a closed one. Students should feel free to pass along to the members any ideas or suggestions.

If an idea pops up after the questionnaire has been handed in, don't discard the idea. Give it to a committee member anyway. It might work in or it might be just what the committee is looking for.

The Dining Hall-Student Union will be planned according to the needs and preferences of the student body and what the school can afford. It is to be a student planned building; thus each student is asked to take part.

"No Smoking"

As a student enters the old gym, and if the lights are bright enough, the large notice on the wall just in front of him reads, "No Smoking."

This notice has been there for quite some time and with good reason. Those people who have attended the dances on Saturday night will remember the huge numbers that have come. With men smoking in a group so large, it would be a very simple matter to catch some clothes or crepe paper on fire. The result would be disastrous. Not only that, but with a number of any size smoking, the air would soon be so irritating no one could remain at the dance.

The sign must be enforced for safety's sake. If there are men guests, they should be reminded by their host to leave the fire unlit. The men students should remember to check their matches at the door.

If these two courtesies are observed, it will save the embarrassment of a chaperon having to walk up and quietly ask, "Would you mind smoking that outside?"

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

by Dick Bibler

Little Smokey Sez:

By BOB MITCHELL

Recently on our campus, I heard the remark that Georgia was a poor example for a state. Upon hearing this, I decided that someone needed to enlighten those poor ignorant souls on some of the virtues of this great state. Of course Georgia isn't the biggest state nor is it the richest but neither is it the smallest nor poorest. Obviously these native sons have never taken the time to explore and find out some of the attributes of this fine state.

In the field of education, it was the first state to charter a state university and it was the first state to charter a degree-conferring college for women. Also, the first orphanage, the girl scouts, the P.T.A., the first Indian newspaper, and the first state department of agriculture were instituted here. Too, we had the first woman U.S. Senator. I am not saying that these firsts make Georgia the greatest state in the union but I do say they could only have come from a state that is progressive and far reaching in its ideals and purposes.

Our state has also produced such notables as Sidney Lanier, Martha Berry, Joel Chandler Harris, Margaret Mitchell, Crawford W. Long and Pogo.

One must take pride in his state, one must be a true native son who is willing to say with conviction, "I'm proud to be a Georgian." If you aren't, there are 47 other states around and I know of no state low prohibiting immigration. If you're afraid to stay and help mold our state into one of the greatest in the union and to help push it on to greater heights and prosperity, I have only two words for you. Good riddance.

Letter To Editor

Dear Editor:

The whole campus is wondering what G.T.C. is coming to with washing hanging in the windows of the Freshmen girls dormitory.

East Hall girls have been promised a new washing machine and dryer since the first week they were on the campus. Since then they have been put off with first one excuse and then another.

First, they were told the machines weren't connected, which is a very understandable reason not to wash. Then, the girls were told they would have to wait until the machines were demonstrated.

There has still been no demonstration of the washers but a third reason has been given. No coin boxes are attached to the machines so they still cannot be used.

The East Hall girls did not complain too loudly until complaints were thrown at them for hanging washing in the rooms which could be seen from outside.

Now, what all this comes to is: When do East Hall Freshmen girls get the promised machines, or do we wait and have them promised again next year?

Since members of the student body and faculty have worked so well in the past on existing problems, I would like to suggest to Dean Carroll that he select another committee to work on the long line that exist during the dining hours.

Have you bought your ticket to the T-Club Halloween Party? This big event, advertised as the first of its kind ever to be held on the G.T.C. campus, will be held in the old gym Wednesday night. One of the things that you will not want to miss will be the fortune teller. This person "Knows all and sees all."

I personally think that if you miss this party, you will be missing a chance to have a grand time. You still have a chance to purchase a ticket from any T-Club member and tickets will be on sale at the door. If you have trouble identifying members of the T-Club, look for the young men with the "Funny faces." They all have them.

Perhaps some of you are wondering why the T-Club needs to raise money. A person that wins a Block "T" in either of the two major sports at Georgia Teachers College, is given a sweater and a "T" pin. These sweaters and pins are financed and given by the T-Club and in order for the T-Club to continue doing this as they have in the past, they must raise money. When you go to a social function sponsored by the T-Club or any other campus organization, you are not only going to have a good time, but you are helping that organization. I don't think that it would be such a bad idea if the physical education department would provide a small fund to help the T-Club which is connected directly with them.

One woman told the truth when she said to her sweetheart, "You are the only man in the world who thrills me." That woman was Eve....

Women In Moslem World

Perhaps I should warn you at the outset that I do not claim to be an authority on this topic — Women in the Moslem world.

It would take many more years and much fuller application than I can afford to become a specialist in such a field.

The reason for that is that the Moslem world is neither a confined nor a homeogenous entity. Its lands are spread over the three large continents of Europe, Asia, and Africa; its peoples belong to a variety of economic and cultural backgrounds, political status, social structures; and living conditions of Moslem communities vary greatly as one travels east from Albania or Yugoslavia through Turkey and Iran to Pakistan or the Philippines.

In a very few years and by a succession of decisive blows Islam succeeded in destroying this order of affairs. It first recognized women as an independent being and gave her a most liberal bill of rights and responsibilities. It established her legal personality and allowed her to keep her family name after marriage. It granted her the right to possess property and to dispose of it freely as she wished without the intermediary of a husband or a male guardian. It went further to allow her to become herself a guardian over minors. It also granted her the right to undertake trades and professions and to sue others in courts without having to secure the husband's approval.

While it is true that Islam legislated that a woman inherits from her parents the equivalent of only half her brother's share, this was a liberal innovation at the time. Prior to this Islamic law there, women had enjoyed no right of inheritance at all. Moreover, the Moslem woman is not required to spend a penny of her personal income in support of household or children.

The man bears full financial responsibility in the family.

Moreover, the fair and objective analyst cannot but admire the exalted position in social relations to which Islam meant to elevate women.

The Koran speaks of the relationship between men and women in uncompromising terms.

It portrays this relationship as one of mutual confidence, affection and compassion. Mohammed the prophet is quoted as having said on one occasion, "The most perfect among the believers are those who are kinest to their womenfolk." And on another, "Paradise lies at the feet of mothers."

Futhermore, one of the earliest injunctions of Islam was to make it the duty of every Moslem man and woman to seek knowledge and acquire an education.

What I want to emphasize here is the definite change in the general attitude of the people towards women's rights and wrongs. Thirty years ago a conservative man was shocked every time another woman cast away her veil. Today our Moslem women are rubbing shoulders and competing with men in almost all fields of work and recreation. Without meeting objections or causing any eyebrows to be raised they have won several national championships in sports like swimming, horseback riding, and marksmanship. Some of their tennis and basketball teams are competing favorably in international tournaments.

Other societies have sprung up in the wake of our national movement. First among these is the feminist union which I have already mentioned.

In addition to its intellectual feminist activities, the union developed various social projects, the present president of the feminist union, Madame Sirry, is now touring the United States.

It is evident from the foregoing that women in a Moslem as in any other world have to face and do grapple with the problems that challenge their communities.

Their participation in intellectual, social, economic, or political activities is in no sense governed or restricted by religious injunctions. If that participation varies in degree or quality between two Moslem countries or between a Moslem and Christian community, the explanation must be sought and will be found in historical and social evolution rather than in the teachings of Christianity or Islam.

The impact of liberation movements, the spread of mass education, and the concomitant social developments in the Moslem world over the last two or three generations have more and more been opening new avenues for our women to join in creative work.

At this stage in the international struggle of ideologies where time seems to be running short, it is becoming mandatory that men and women alike co-ordinate their efforts nationally and internationally to improve depressed social and economic conditions, the underlying cause of unrest and instability.

Only in this way can world freedom be preserved and a better life be assured for all.

King of Keyboard

Pianist Jack Broucek Was Once G.T.C. Band Director

By JOYCE KIRKLAND

"You're nobody in music unless you've studied in Europe" may have been the general trend of thought in the 1930's, but G.T.C.'s music department raises a dispute by pointing out Jack W. Broucek, associate professor of music, who, along with Dan Hooley, is preparing his fifth duo-piano appearance on this campus.

The depression changed his plans to study abroad, and he began work at Baldwin-Wallace, a Methodist liberal arts college, in Berea, Ohio. Now this small college is a nationally known conservatory of music.

The head of the music education department there interested him in teaching music rather than just playing concert performances.

After graduation he served on the University of Connecticut staff as head director for five years, two years were spent in the army on leave of absence.

In the summer of 1944, he came to GTC as band director, and served in that capacity for four years.

Because of difficulties in finding a teacher in 1948, Mr. Broucek began teaching piano, organ, and theory, which includes harmony, counterpoint, and form and analysis.

Mr. Broucek did his master's work at the University of Michigan in music education and now has finished half of the courses in his doctorate at the Teachers College, Columbia University.

He has held teaching positions in the preparatory piano department at Baldwin-Wallace, and in the piano department of Columbia Teachers College for two summers.

By the time he was in the ninth grade in high school, he was already playing the piano for church services and became church organist during his freshman year at college. In Connecticut he was chapel organist.

"I devote many hours of preparation to the two-piano program with Mr. Hooley because of its musical contribution to the campus. It's a rare type of program and a very unique musical medium. It requires split-second teamwork just as does the best of basketball."

His wife, who was Emily Kupferschmid, was a student in one of his classes at the University of Connecticut. She was a native of Rockville (near Hartford) and is a graduate of the University of Connecticut and New York State Teachers College. The Brouceks have three children, Danny 12, Billy 6, and Sylvia 2.

Mr. Broucek's organizational activities include:

National piano committee for the Music Educators' National Conference for two years; Business manager of state music magazine for four years and a two-year term as state piano chairman of the Georgia Music Educators' Association; member of the Phi Mu Alpha—national professional musical fraternity; member of the Pi Kappa Lambda—national honorary music fraternity; past dean of Savannah chapter of American Guild of Organists; and inactive deacon in the Presbyterian Church.

"It has been gratifying to see how much G.T.C. has grown, how much finer advantages students have now than in 1944. I have faith in the continued growth of G.T.C.'s music department; even these last two years have shown a much greater increase of music majors enrolled here."

Library Offers Magazines, Sets Keep-Off Policy

The Library has received duplicates of several magazines and is offering these duplicates to any student who wishes to come by and pick them up.

Some of these magazines are particularly beneficial for supplementary material in various classes. Others have good fiction and non-fiction articles.

These magazines will be found down stairs this week on a special book case. Others may be found there later in the quarter. On the book case are Saturday Evening Post, Newsweek, Country Gentleman, Redbook, and a broken file of Reader's Digest from 1930 to date.

The Library staff asks also that the students not walk on the grass in front of the library nor deposit their trash there. This grass was planted last year in an effort to help beautify the outside appearance of the building.

Football Winners Are Announced

Scores for the football games are in, the contest sheets have been checked, and this week's football contest comes in with four people tying.

Two women and two men each had 12 right and 8 wrong for this week. Nan Lee and Joyce Powell were the women and Stanley Brobston and Emory Cartrett the men.

The most missed games this week were the three ties and North Carolina over Maryland, Duke over Pitt and TCU over Texas A. and M.

TOPS IN POPS

By KENNY GIDDENS

Our hats are off to the student council for providing a "matinee dance" every Wednesday night for the enjoyment of the students of the college. Also the movie and Saturday night dances, sponsored by the various clubs and organizations on the campus, brings life to students who love to dance.

The previous rains this week have helped to make Johnnie Ray's, "Walking In The Rain," top song of the week around the campus. It seems that Johnnie Ray and Elvis Presley are running a close race. Presley's latest release, "Love Me Tender," has dazzled the teen-agers into thinking his voice is changing. Is this really true, Elvis?

Little Richard has been giving radio listeners his latest release, "Tough Lover," although this recording hasn't given him much attention. "Reddy Teddy" and other previous recordings give him a spotlight on the Hit Parade as compiled by the bill board.

The George Anne SPORTS

By

Britt Fayssoux
SPORTS EDITOR

Last basketball season I wrote an article for The George Anne entitled "A Typical Searce Practice." This past Saturday morning I attended the first scrimmage session of this year's Profs, and except for a galore of new faces on the court, this Searce practice session looked the same. The stress is on fundamentals, well-conditioned men, and that all-important must for the modern day type of basketball play, a deadly eye for the basket.

When one of his boys is really hot and throwing the ball in from all angles, the Littlest Professor can be heard to shout, "That's what you're out there for." As far as sharpeyed boys are concerned the G.T.C. gym is the proverbial land flowing with milk and honey. Campbell, Cook, Corry, Curry, Warren, Wallen, Massey, Vanover, and Belton, just to name a few, hit often and from many angles.

Last year's returning starters (Campbell, Corry, Warren, and Wallen) looked surprisingly good for a first scrimmage. Alternating with Avery, Rush, and Long at the center position the boys clicked with regular season-like precision.

On the freshmen unit Bill Crisillis and Chester Curry show plenty of basketball know-how. Joe Waters, the 6' 6" freshman center from Statesboro could be a big surprise for the Profs, although he has a lot to learn. He is a hustler with a good eye for the basket, but has an as yet unperfected hook shot. Reminds us of a guy named Webb who came here with an unperfected hook shot. He perfected it and went on to become the first all-american in G.T.C. history. I don't want to appear to be indulging in wishful thinking, but you can never tell.

Jack Miller, former coach of football and track, at Commercial High in Savannah, is taking care of the bumps and bruises for the Profs this year. The new trainer is a senior major in physical education. He attended Troy State College at Troy Alabama for three years where he played tackle on the football team. Jack left Troy State before graduating for the job at Commercial. He decided to come to G.T.C. this year and complete the work for his degree in P.E. The Profs are fortunate, for with his experience in the field of athletics, Jack should make a top notch mender of aching muscles.

I was having a short milk in the "Little Store" the other day and Coach Searce had just finished asking the bartender for a tall 7-Up, or was it an Orange, anyway he wanted it straight. The coach sees me standing there and says, "Drop by and see me sometime I have something I would like to talk to you about." It sounded important so I dropped by the other day. I caught the coach in the midst of a very intense practice session, but he took time out to talk and what he said was sincere and forceful. This is the gist of it. The Athletic Department doesn't close regular weekly practice sessions just to be doing it. Coach Searce pointed out, what I think are some very good reasons why these sessions are closed to the general public, as are basketball practices in other colleges. Practice sessions are a period of intense and concentrated training, probably more so than any class on campus. The coaches like to correct mistakes on the spot. The boys on the squad are more receptive and less nervous if their isn't a large crowd present. These are the big reasons why the regular weekly sessions aren't open to the students. Scrimmage games are open to the students. I had been talking to the coach about five minutes and was both convinced and impressed.

As a member of the press I was invited to stay and see how the boys were coming along. I decided it might be better if I left and came back for the scrimmage sessions.

The "Big Thursday" game which finds the Clemson Tigers going against South Carolina and the homecoming games for Georgia and Tech seem to be drawing top billing in this area.

The winner of the South Carolina-Clemson game will probably enjoy New Year's day in the Orange Bowl. It should be close, but I'll have to go along with Clemson.

The impressive showing that the Bulldogs made against Miami last week should help fill Sanford Stadium for their homecoming game against Kentucky.

Most of the fans in this area are picking Kentucky by at least two touchdowns. Louis "Dr." Green, a native of the blue grass state, has this to say about Saturday's game: On a dry field Kentucky should win by a score of 28 to 7 and on a wet field by a 21 to 7 score.

Being a loyal Bulldog fan I cannot let Mr. Green's prediction change my mind. I predict that Georgia will beat Kentucky by a field goal by Ken Cooper. The score should read Kentucky 7 Georgia 10 or the Bulldogs 17 and the Wildcats of Kentucky 14.

Tulane should give Tevh a good ball game but the Yellow Jackets will still win by 3 touchdowns.

Wednesday Playnight Activities Are Success

IM Units Named; Flyers, Toppers Lead Leagues

To avoid much confusion, Mr. Jess White, director of school recreation announced that each intramural unit had been named.

This will allow students to know each unit better and will not have so many numbers to confuse you. For boy's intramural football the names were as follows: Flyers (first floor, West Cone), Cardinals (second floor east Cone), Clodhoppers (third floor west Sanford), Eagles (off campus students), Wildcats (second floor west Cone), Black Stallions (third floor west Sanford), Rams (second floor Sanford), and Colts (first floor Sanford).

Mens' intramural standings through Tuesday of this week are as follows: Flyers 3-0, Cardinals 2-1, Eagles 2-1, Wildcats 1-1, Black Stallions 1-1, Colts 2-1, Rams 1-2 and Clodhoppers 0-2.

According to Whit Reeves, assistant to Mr. White, the girls have gotten off to a fine start in their voley ball league. Standings find the Lewis Hall Toppers leaders of the league with a two wins and no loss record. Complete statistics for women's play will be in next week's George-Anne.

In a rugged game last Wednesday the Eagles overpowered the Cardinals by the score of 21 to 0. The Eagles opened the scoring by trapping Ben Lee of the Cardinals in the end zone for a safety. C. P. Claxton found Curt Browning in the end zone for a T.D. a few plays later. The P.A.T. was no good.

In the third period the same combination of Claxton and Browning scored a T.D. and the extra point for the Eagles making the score 15-0. Then early in the fourth period Claxton hit Glenn Mathis with a touchdown pass. The extra point was no

Recreation For All Non-Dancers

Playnight has gotten off to a good start, according to Mr. Jess White, director of school recreation. Three weeks ago when the first official playnight was held, attendance was small but the enjoyment was great said Mr. White. Everyone who was there had what seemed to be a ball.

Playnight was designed for our students to give them some activity during the week. Although the Matinee dances are held at the same time, there needs be no conflict because we have numbers of students who don't dance or who are too timid to ask for dances. These people are those who have not been coming who shall be coming to playnight.

There was good increase in attendance from the first to the second week and an even bigger increase from the second to the third week with much more enthusiasm shown each time.

Ping pong, paddle tennis, badminton, shuffleboard, handball, and bridge are the usual planned activities.

Playnight is held each Wednesday night from 6:45 to 8:15 and everybody is invited to come.

good and the final score read 21-0.

Monday found the Eagles pitted against the Flyers in a very interesting contest which ended 8-2 in favor of the Flyers.

Tuesday, in perhaps the best game of the season, the Cardinals slipped by the Wildcats in a thriller 7-6. The "Cats" scored early in the second quarter missing the P.A.T. The "Cards" came back late in the same period and scored as Ben Lee gave a handoff to "Skeeter" Griffin who threw to Jeff Davis for the score. Lee made the conversion good on a plunge through the line.

G.T.C. Students, Faculty Star In Little Theater

According to an announcement made this week by the directors of The Statesboro Little Theater fall production, Mrs. Les Witte and Mrs. Earl Allen, several members of the G.T.C. faculty and student body have parts.

The play is scheduled for December 7 in McCraon Auditorium. It is a modern comedy written by the present U.S. Ambassador to Italy, Mrs. Claire Booth Luce. The play is entitled "The Women" and has 44 women and no men in the cast. It has been generally regarded by the critics and the public as one of the wittiest productions ever to hit Broadway.

Faculty members who have roles are Miss Frieda Gernant, Miss Jane Martin, Miss Betty Lane, and Mrs. J. B. Johnson. Mrs. Sylvia Powell, wife of the G.T.C. publicity director, also has a part in the play.

With the cooperation of Miss Dorothy Few, speech director, and The Masquers, the following G.T.C. students have accepted roles in the play: Mary Henderson, Sue Whaley, Barbara Faulk, Jane Durham, Joyce Kirkland, Jean Holmes, Barbara Williams, Bobbie Butler, Ann Water, Jean Hightower, Judith Rittenhouse, Glenda Smith, Jan Epps, Martha Rawls Parrish, Joyce Ragan, Virginia Morrison, Charlotte Owens, Charlene Usry, and Martha

Hi, fellow students, The college was very quiet and damp this weekend, but the few who remained on campus enjoyed the movie "Mr. Belvedere Goes to College" Friday night, and the record dance sponsored by En Melodie Saturday night.

A little fellow with a bow and arrow must have visited some of our students this weekend 'cause Bobbie Gene Corley returned to campus and announced that she is now Mrs. Warner Faglier. We are glad that Bobbie Gene is going to continue her schooling at G.T.C. while her husband is at Georgia Tech night school. This is one way to get out of wearing a rat cap, freshmen.

Elinor Morris also has a "sparkler" that she received this weekend from Charles Knight, her "feller" back home in Hazlehurst. Plans for the wedding are indefinite.

Several of our students enjoyed the opera "Madame Butterfly" in Savannah Sunday. Those who went report a wonderful time.

At the F.T.A. meeting Monday night, "oh's" and "ah's" were heard when the members saw our own Miss Jane Martin in the film that was being shown for the program. We didn't know we had a movie star on campus!

I hear that two girls in Lewis Hall are having turtle trouble. I think it was a dirty trick for one girl to send them home to her brother when she thought they were about to die.

The commotion in East Hall late one night wasn't caused by the invasion of the Shriners, as it seemed—it was only the entrance of a tiny rat—the kind that runs on four legs.

The "T" Club members are now selling tickets for the Halloween Carnival, so be sure to buy one and go. Don't forget the movie next Friday night, and the dance sponsored by the Big Sisters Saturday night. I'll be seeing you.

Ross. Margaret Dekle, and August graduate, has a role also.

Band Room Gets Face-Lifting; Instrument Cabinets Are Built

The G.T.C. band room has at least reached an ultimatum in its latest program of improvement. According to Dana M. King Jr., band director, it "fulfills all needs of this and every future band that this college might have."

Walls of this room were torn out this past summer, and replaced by instruments cabinets for 100 musical instruments. The cabinets were built into the space behind the walls, once used as extra storage room.

The new cabinets have perforated doors with locks to be supplied by the students. The holes in the doors not only allow air to circulate, but improve tone by allowing sound through the compartments. The sound is then absorbed breaking many of the echoing effects of the room.

Work on this project was done by the band director himself, assisted by Mr. "17" Humphrey, G.T.C. "Blue Goose" bus driver. Completion of this project takes about six weeks.

According to Mr. King, the present band room grew from and elementary cafeteria five years ago to a well equipped rehearsal hall that easily accommodates the 60 concert band members.

The next step in modernizing the music department is set for the next few weeks, when a new room will be built for storing band uniforms and choir robes. Up to the present time, robes have been stored in the rehearsal hall, but it was felt that a new sealed room would pay for itself in protecting the music outfits.

G.T.C. Professor Is Reelected To BYU Committee

Dr. Clark S. Knowlton, associate professor of social science, has been recently re-elected as a member of the Executive Committee of the University Archaeological Society of the Brigham Young University.

According to Dr. Knowlton, this committee charts the policies for the society and determines the expeditions to be carried out. The exploring trips are usually conducted in Mexico and related areas. After this, the university publishes the results of these trips.
