Library Displays Russell's Choice

As a result of the latest project at the library, G.T.C. students now have the benefit of faculty recommendations for "extra-curricular reading."

Featured this week are the favorites of Dr. Fielding D. Russell, chairman of the language division. "War and Peace" and "Thou Art of Teaching" are among the books he recommends. Included in his list of other reading are Life Magazine, The New York Times Book Review, Newsweek, and the Georgia Historical Review.

Mrs. Helen Legette, serials librarian, is in charge of the project and announces that the displays will be changed each week. Book recommendations may be found in the main library; recommendations for periodical reading will be on display on the lower floor.

PROMISE OF G.T.C. BASKETBALL GREATNESS in teams for years to come. Shown here is Richie Belton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Belton, formerly of Eustis, Florida, but who now live in Statesboro. The dad of the lad is a member of this year's Professors squad. Richie seems to be all for the sport; a chip off the old block.

Home-coming Plans Nearing Completion; Set for Feb. 8 and 9

Homecoming plans are nearing completion. The official date is now set as February 8 and 9. Highlighting the weekend will be the Beauty Revue, the float parade, and the basketball game with Rollins.

The 1956-57 Homecoming will be the fourth annual one held during the winter quarter with the combination of the Beauty Revue and basketball.

Chairman Named

The Home-coming committee chairman has been named and are as follows:

General chairman, Kirbylene Stephens; registration, Ellen Blizzard, Kappa Delta Pi; parade, Tully Pennington; barbecue, Mrs. Lois Melton; Alumni meeting, Max Lockwood; dance Student Council; publicity, Roy Powell; dorm decorations, house directors; bands, Dana King; ball game, J. B. Searce; parade guests, President Zach S. Henderson; float judges, Frieda Gernant.

All clubs which wish to enter a float in the parade should sign up in the guidance office. The line-up of floats in the parade will be determined by the order of registration. Any club which has a float in the parade will automatically receive $5.00 from the Alumni. Clubs are urged to give thought to the matter of construction. As those clubs entering in previous years will perhaps remember unpleasantly the matter of wind. Stronger materials than formerly used are not expensive, and a little extra time in nailing the materials down will keep the float from tearing up.

There is no specific theme set for the floats. As the idea to be presented by the float is left to the individual clubs, there is no need to register the theme of the float in the guidance office, just the club.

No Dormitory Displays

The dormitories will not have specific displays as in previous years. Consideration of time and money have necessitated this. However, dorms will be decorated elaborately inside and out welcoming the returning students.

Classes will be dismissed at 11:30 on Friday. This is to give ample time for students to complete the floats and prepare for the guests.

The general Home-coming activities will start with the Beauty Revue on Friday night. Sponsored by Alpha Rho Tau, Art Club, the Beauty Revue presents the women students nominated by the various clubs to compete for the title of Miss G.T.C. of 1957.

On Saturday morning at 11 o'clock, there will be a board of directors meeting. Registration of all former students will be in the East hall lobby from 9:00 to 1:00. The registration will be conducted by Kappa Delta Pi. At 12 o'clock there is a barbecue for alumni and their families, faculty members and their families, and all students. General alumni meeting will be held in the McCroan Auditorium at 1 o'clock. All members of the class of 1957 are urged to attend.

Parade of Floats

The parade of floats, under the supervision of Tully Pennington, will begin at 2:30. Mr. Pennington is in charge of the parade and will make further announcements concerning the floats.

Quarterly practice teaching assignments sent forty-three seniors into thirteen schools this week for three months internship work.

Nineteen of the practice teachers remain on campus to do their work at the Marvin Pittman School while the remaining twenty-four go to twelve off-campus schools designated as practice teaching centers.

The winter quarter program is set up at high schools in Savannah, Brunswick, Savannah, Claxton, Glennville, Hazlehurst, Millen, Soperton, Springfield and Statesboro.

All but fifteen of the students are doing their practice teaching in the secondary field. The fifteen elementary majors are assigned to the Marvin Pittman School. The students do their work under supervising teachers. A full quarter of internship is required of each

Religious Week To Start Jan. 28

The week of January 28 through February 1, Religious Emphasis Week will be observed at Georgia Teachers College. The visiting pastor who will be the featured speaker is Dr. Monroe Swiley. Dr. Swiley is pastor of the Second Ponce DeLeon Baptist Church of Atlanta, Ga. Besides serving as pastor, he is also on the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board.

On Monday, January 28, assembly attendance will not be required. However, on Tuesday, the 29th, and on Thursday, the 31st, all students are required to attend assembly.

It is hoped by the organizations supporting this week of religious emphasis that as many students as possible attend the sessions that have been planned.

After the parade will be a general open house in all the dormitories. The ball game will be G.T.C. against Rollins 8 p. m. After the ball game will be a dance sponsored by the Student Council for all students, alumni, and faculty.

Alumni may buy tickets in advance for the game by contacting the athletic office.

Two-Way Traffic Given By Street Renovation

Dates and Lights Are Topics For S. C. Discussion

Dates and lighting for dances were among the topics brought up for discussion by Student Council Monday night of this week.

The Council operated under a new system for planning dances this quarter, with each organization receiving a special letter suggesting a date and the type of dance that group might sponsor this quarter. According to Bob Byrd, veep and social chairman, all suggestions have been accepted and plans are lined up each week.

Lighting during dances was also up for consideration, as a result of numerous complaints over it being too dark.

Other Topics Discussed

Other topics discussed at the meeting included the telephone problem in the dorms, seating at basketball games, orientation for new students this quarter, closing time for dorms on the day before holidays, and formation of a public announcement committee for the dining hall.

Ralph Walden heads a phone committee designed to work on the problem of overcrowded telephones in the dorms. Walden has met with both the president of the phone company and the administration, and was slated to present his information and possible suggestions at a committee meeting Wednesday.

The problem of student seating at basketball games was once again considered. It seems that officials were observing results of requests for student cooperation in this matter last quarter before taking definite steps. In was found that the situation was fairly well under control for the first two games, but that there was some laxity on the part of students as to sitting in the allotted section during the third game.

A committee studying the issue, is considering recommendations that the students be requested to fill only the student section during the first few

Parking on Both Sides Permitted

Work on the project of widening the traffic circle on front campus is currently underway and will provide for two-way traffic around the circle and parking on both sides of the street. This plan is in accordance with the recommendation of the faculty-student committee on parking with Dr. Zach S. Henderson at its head.

Sixteen and a half feet of pavement will be added completely around the circle. This necessitated the moving of the curbing and lamp posts and the removal of six trees.

The majority of the work was done during the Christmas holidays by Bulloch County, but the actual surfacing of the road will be done by the Georgia State Highway Department.

In addition to widening of the traffic circle, two parking lots are also under construction, one located between West Hall and the old gym and a faculty parking lot behind the gym.

Further campus improvement plans will include the cultivation, fertilization, and re-seeding of the front campus next spring.

games, then, when attendance falls slightly, be allowed to use both the whole student section plus an area on the right end of the gym. The problem of married students buying extra tickets was also brought up.

Orientation Talks

Another project taken over by Student Council included orientation talks to new students just arriving this quarter. On Tuesday, a committee composed of Dewayne Dutton, Ed Brown, Jane Jackson, and Liz Morgan talked to one group, while Ralph Walden, Rose Watkins, and Dutton led a second group in a discussion of various rules and adjustment problems at college, on Wednesday of last week.

Such things as dating, finances, clubs, social functions, and clothes were among the topics brought up, with a different student Council member speaking briefly about each subject.

A Warm Welcome

The George-Anne staff would like to say "Welcome to our college," to all the new students and transfers. We believe that after a brief stay here you will come to like G.T.C. as much as we students who have been here for a long time. We want you to feel it is your college too.

If you join some of the campus activities, as many as you have time for, you will enrich your life on campus as well as your life after you leave. The responsibilities that you accept in your clubs will better prepare you to solve problems that you will be faced with after you leave college.

G.T.C. began in 1908 under the name of First Agricultural and Mechanical School. In 1924, it became a teacher-training institution and was named Georgia Normal School. In 1929, under the name of South Georgia Teachers College, it graduated four teachers. In 1939 the name finally became Georgia Teachers College. The curriculum has been expanded to include the general bachelor of arts and bachelor of science programs.

With new additions, such as Cone Hall and the new physical education building, and improvements such as widening the circle and providing the much needed parking areas, G.T.C. is continually expanding. It has grown from a small school, to one that is recognized as being one of the finest teacher-training institution in the South. The enrollment increases each year and newer and better facilities are being added. During your stay at G.T.C., we hope that you will grow, as well as help our school grow, into bigger and better things.

Smoother Sailing in Store

G.T.C. cars rolled on campus two weeks ago to find a grand new cruising area under construction around the Sweetheart Circle.

This coupled with the two parking lots being developed, proved a welcome sight for frustrated drivers, who have tried to weave between parked cars and other traffic around the circle.

The danger and inconvenience of the present set-up were brought to light recently by a student-faculty committee under Dean Paul Carroll. Largely as a result of the committee's findings, the new parking lots will be set up, and parking will be allowed on both sides of the circle drive after widening is completed.

The George-Anne views all this another reflection of the school's progress and hopes all traffic problems will be solved. The parking lots will of course eliminate much of the troubles, and we hope the idea of parking on both sides of the circle drive in addition to the two-way traffic lanes will also prove a success.

No definite completion is known as yet, but students can at least bask on the knowledge that better days are ahead, and that the administration really does try to consider student welfare.

The new system may not be the perfect answer when it does come, but with student cooperation, and suggestions when possible, the ideal situation may come yet.

Trash Cans — Use Them!!

Georgia Teachers College now has four $45 trash cans on its campus. These holders are sitting at strategic points around school and were put there for the deposit of trash, not as targets for those people who would like to throw rocks and coke bottles.

A good deal has been said and written about G.T.C. students dropping their paper on the grounds instead of in trash cans. Many have been known to comment that enough has been said but it seems that as long as people continue to act in an immature way, they should be treated as immature individuals.

Everyone at this school has at least average intelligence. Why don't they use it? Don't they realize that throwing paper on the ground affects the appearance of this campus. Don't they realize that to visitors it is a mark of lack of concern and pride. Most of us do. The one thing wrong is that most of us are too lazy to hold an ounce or two of paper until we can make it to a trash can.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

by Dick Bible

"WHAT'S THIS I HEAR ABOUT ME BEIN' ON PROBATION?"

Professor George A. Teechas

Says . . .

Welcome new students, We're mighty glad to have you with us this quarter. Although you may be coming here for your first time, you are full fledged members of our college family and we want you to make yourself at home. It will be your home for at least ten weeks, and we hope for many weeks to come.

Our campus is filled with traditions, many of which are in the form of activities. Join in our activities. They are yours also. Don't take a back seat to anyone, for you are just as important to our school as those people who have been here two, three, or four years.

Your yell will count just as much at the ballgames. Your vote will count just as much in student elections. Your nickle will spend just as well in the Little Store. And your problems will be heard just as clearly by your fellow students, the Student Council, and the faculty. You see, you don't have to wait for anyone, just go ahead and have your fun.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This column is dedicated to the purpose of airing student praises or complaints for the benefit of the school as a whole. We hope all students will take advantage of it, and will look on it as a moral obligation for clearing up issues they find faults with. Letters should not exceed 300 words in length.)

Letter To Editor

Dear Editor:

The Statesboro Junior Chamber of Commerce wishes to express through you to the students of Georgia Teachers College, their wholehearted thanks for the wonderful support given the Jaycees in our recent Empty Stocking Drive. The variety of gifts and toys added much to the over-all success of the entire drive.

We have received word from the Bulloch County Department of Public Welfare that our activities this year in behalf of the drive surpassed all previous drives. More families received gifts of food, clothing, and toys than ever before. This was possible because of the wonderful support given to us by groups such as your students.

Each Jaycee shared in the joy of those who received, and we thank you for sharing with us in the joy giving.

Sincerely,
LEWELL AKINS, Presidnt,
The Jaycees

Dear Editor:

Shades of Elvis Presley! The only difference is that he does his gyrating (if that's what it's called) alone and in full light, while G.T.C. students do theirs together and in the dark—practically!

Hyde and Seek

By LARRY HYDE

I predict the greatest improvement that has been made at Georgia Teachers College in the past two years will be the parking lot that is being constructed between West Hall and Marvin Pittman School.

Once the parking lot is completed, the next step will be left up to the students who have cars on campus. It should prove interesting as to whether the students will use the space provided for parking or will they continue to clog up the area in front of the administration building.

Last quarter I suggested in this column that the final game in the physical education football class be played in the afternoon in order that more students could see the game.

I have been informed by Athletic Director J. B. Searce that a full-size regulation football program is in the making for next year's intramural program. More about this will be written at a later date.

If any of you people should be in the physical education building between 10 a. m. and noon, and you see a large group of MEN dancing with each other, don't be shocked, we just don't have enough girls to go around in our Rhythms class.

There are so many of you that think our dancing is so hilarious, we have been thinking about charging admission to witness the class.

Do you know how to decorate a car for newly weds? If not, ask a certain baseball pitcher who "fixed" one during the holidays and if you know how to get the car clean afterwards, tell a certain red-headed friend of mine. He still hasn't gotten his car clean!

A word comes now for the new students that are with us for the first time. We are also glad to have those who have gone astray, for various reasons, but now have returned to the fold. We take pride in calling our campus "The Friendly Campus" and I think you can see why. Georgia Teachers College is the only college in the world that is "approved by Mose Bass."

The young man, who calmly stood at the free throw line last Saturday night and made what turned out to be the game's winning points, told me before the game that Wofford had never beaten G.T.C. while he has been here.

Isn't it interesting that he should say that and then have the opportunity to keep the Professors' victory string over the Terriers intact?

I'll go along with the following any day: "If it's funny enough to tell, it's been told; if it hasn't been told, it's too clean; and if it's worth reading, the editors get kicked out of school." (The Clemson Tiger).

Newsstand Obscenity

In many cities, both large and small, throughout the United States, extensive campaigns are being waged by certain civic groups and sometimes the city government itself against magazines which said groups term lewd, obscene, and unfit to appear on public newsstands.

There are undoubtedly magazines on newsstands in America today that fall in the general category of obscene. This is nothing new. Such sensationalized publications have been on United States newsstands for years. But it seems that in the last few years the drugstore newsstand reading public of America has been flooded with them. Why the sudden flood of literary rubbish? The answer seems to be simple enough. Apparently it is what a large part of the American public prefers to read. "Confidential" was at last count America's largest-selling magazine. Certain enterprising individuals were smart enough to realize that such spicy journals would sell like the proverbial hotcakes, and they proceeded to make small fortunes by giving the public what they will buy.

This would be a wonderful point at which to go off on a long discourse on the low state of American culture in general and the American reader in particular, but it's been done so many times in the past to no avail that it would merely be a waste of time and space. The majority of the people are going to read what they want to read, and no amount of preaching is going to change them.

But the American public does have a right to protect itself, and at times censorship of said publications is in order. And now the age-old question of who shall decide what is and what isn't obscene arises. Censors have the nasty habit of blindly swinging the ax and cutting off what appears to them anything that even has a slight chance of offending anyone. This, of course, is not good.

Some of the magazines which are coming under attack could at the most be called risqué. "Playboy" is the most representative of this type magazine. No doubt the "Playboy" variety of publication is distasteful and not up to standard to many people, but it is not obscene. "Playboy," and many other sophisticated slicks of the "for men" variety, feature plenty of cheesecake and so-called party jokes, but they also carry work by some of America's finest short story writers. Such publications appear on newsstands here in Statesboro. They are not the highest type literature and do not claim to be. Their sole purpose is to entertain. They do not deserve to come under the ax of censors.

Admittedly, any censor would have a difficult job drawing the line. Anyone could argue at length on the fine points of what constitutes obscenity and what doesn't, but the point is certain individuals parading as protectors of the community's morals should not be allowed to prepare an "Index" of undesirable literature and sweep said books from the newsstands without first proving beyond a doubt that they are immoral, lewd, and/or obscene.

Inquiring Reporter

By DILLARD MAXWELL

For many decades the United States has stood alone in the world as an exponent of widespread secondary and higher education. No other country could compare with us. Unless more people enroll in teacher colleges our education will be vitally affected in the future. More teachers are needed in every field of education today. We can build school buildings, install equipment, but without teachers they are of no value to us. In this modern age when in most cases the father and the mother are engaged in some field of work away from the home, the schools have assumed all the responsibility in educating the children. In the whole process, the teacher is the key factor. Many people do not understand how a teacher works, how he influences his students. Many people think that a school teacher has a very easy job and after his eighth of work is done at school that he is through for the day. This is not the case. A good teacher spends hours after class preparing for the next day and thinking of better ways to teach and solve the problems that he is faced with each day in the classroom. A teacher spends four years in college to become a teacher, then when he graduates, his salary is barely $300 in this state. A person with no skill at all can earn this amount each month at most any job. If we students here at Georgia Teachers College expect to get rich teaching school after we graduate, then we'd better lay up our books today and go home or look for another job because in this day and time $300 won't go very far in living and raising a family. Twenty years ago we spent five per cent of our income on education; today we spend only 2.5 per cent. All of this leads up to the question that I have selected for this week. Do you think teachers in Georgia and other places are underpaid and what can be done about this problem?

BOBBY LASSETER—I think that teachers are definitely underpaid. A teacher spends thousands of dollars preparing for his profession, so why shouldn't he be reimbursed for his college training through higher salaries. The average teacher makes a salary smaller than that of an unskilled laborer who has spent no money in preparation for his job. The question of whether to give the teacher a raise or build new buildings is faced with a new idea: Which way will we obtain better teachers? Will new buildings make present day teachers stay in the teaching profession? No, new buildings cannot solve a teachers problems with the high cost of living, higher salaries, can.

PETER RICHARDSON—Yes, I think that the school teachers in the State of Georgia are underpaid, but it is their own fault because they have not put forth enough effort to get higher pay. Teachers sit back and wait for higher school officials to get a pay raise for them. The school officials don't care whether the teachers get a raise or not because they are receiving a big fat salary themselves and they are satisfied.

"One thing for sure... he hasn't had biology 104 yet"

RUFFIN HARROD—I think teachers are underpaid according to the time they spend in preparation for teaching and work necessary to continue to be prepared for teaching. For example, in Georgia the minimum starting salary for teachers is $2,700 per year. Broken down to a monthly basis for nine months this would be $300 per month. Considering the work and preparation a teacher does during a months teaching, the wage per hour is rather low. From this viewpoint, I think teachers are underpaid.

BOB PRIESTLEY—Teachers are the most underpaid of the skilled professions. Most people think that a teachers work is finished when the children go home. Since my wife has taught school I can say that this definitely is not true. Any teacher that is a good teacher spends many hours each week doing outside preparation that will make school more meaningful for the students and most people feel that this is too much to ask when a day laborer can make as much or more without the responsibility of thirty or forty children.

Music Dept. To Present Second G.T.C. Program

On Friday, January 18, the music department of Georgia Teachers College will present G.T.C.'s second television program. These programs that are being presented by the school are to introduce residents of the Savannah area to G.T.C. The program will be televised over WTOG-TV in Savannah at 3:30 p. m.

The music department which is in charge of the program will present the folk opera, "Down In the Valley," by Kurt Weill. The opera is based on American folk songs and relates the story that is told in the song, "Down In the Valley." Soloists will be James Jones, Mary Alice Harley, Stanley Brobston, and Billy Sanders. Those having speaking parts are David Powers, Ralph Bailey, Mel Kelly, Kitty Kelly, and Sistine Poe. The chorus will be composed of music majors and minors. Accompanist for the group will be Cloyce Jackson. Dr. Ronald J. Neil, head of the music department, and Mr. Daniel S. Hooley, associate professor music, will serve as co-directors.

The opera will be presented with sets and scenery and promises to be a fine production.

Reflector Sponsoring Contest For Snapshots

Phi Mu Alpha Accepts Eight New Members

Eight new members of the Zeta Omicron chapter of the Phi Mu Alpha were initiated informally on Wednesday, January 9.

Joe Brewer, Joe Fields, Charlie Griffin, Bernie Palmer, Jim Park, David Powers, Guy Thompson, and Jack Willis will participate in the formal initiation during the last week in January.

A snapshot contest to get more and better pictures for this year's Reflector is opening this week, with a $5 prize going for the best shot, according to Emory Cartrett and Mickey Webb, co-editors of the year-book.

Making its appearance this year for the first time, the contest begins today, Friday, and lasts through February 1, 1957. It is open to all students, and everyone is encouraged to enter pictures, since most will be published in special interest corners of the Reflector.

The contest will be judged by G.T.C. instructors Miss Dorothy Few, assistant professor of speech; Dean of Women Helen Duncan; and Roy F. Powell, public relations director and assistant professor of English.

Rules for the contest are listed below:

1. The decision of the judges will be final.
2. All entries become the property of THE REFLECTOR and may or may not be used in the 1957 edition.
3. Contestants may submit as many entries as they desire.
4. Any sort of size of picture will be accepted, provided it is within the bounds of good taste.
5. Entries will be judged on the basis of:
 - a. Subject.
 - b. Composition.
 - c. Reproduce-ability.
 - d. Quality.
 - e. Originality.
 - f. Interest.
6. All entries are to be turned in to Emory Cartrett or Mickey Webb.
7. All shots should be made in black and white. Pictures may be of anything of interest that is connected with college or G.T.C. students.

Dress, Dating Viewed By Standards Group

The Standards Committee held its first meeting Thursday, January 3. The following items were discussed:

1. Basketball seating. The sub-committee was unable to meet, and it was decided to table further discussion until a later meeting.
2. Dining hall dress. The general feeling among the students present was that during the last few years Sunday dining hall dress was improved, and most students dress more for this meal than any other meal. There was some discussion about student dress on other occasions—evening concerts, plays, dances, and so on. A suggestion was made that a statement of standards of dress might be prepared for publication in the T-Book. A committee was appointed to study the dress generally accepted as correct at various campus functions.
3. Line breaking. This matter was tabled until the next meeting. A sub-committee was appointed to observe the situation.
4. Dating conduct. The item was entered by Dean of Women Helen Duncan, who said she had received complaints from faculty members about student conduct. The group seemed to feel that this matter should be handled by the girls. The group felt that pressure from the group and from house councils was thought the best way to handle this problem. Also, individual conferences and guidance from the Dean of Women should be continued.

Two new committee members were recognized—Jennie Fay Morgan, George-Anne co-editor, and Beverly Perkins, cheerleader captain.

Art 100 Class Makes Posters

Freshman orientation posters were mailed this week from the guidance office to Montgomery Junior College in Tacoma Park, Md. This series of posters was originated and completed in one of Miss Roxie Remley's art 100 classes fall quarter.

The posters were taken to the Southern Colleges Personnel meeting at Lexington, Ky., by Dr. Georgia B. Watson. There they received many favorable comments. The Maryland College requested to borrow a set of the posters. They have dealing with freshman orientation at Georgia Teachers College; they begin with the student's entrance, take him through the first week day by day, then depict the major announcements concerning freshmen during fall quarter ending with Rat Day.

Sociology Class Conducts Survey

Seventy-three per cent of the students contacted in a survey last quarter approve of birth control. Fourteen per cent disapprove, and 12½ per cent were undecided.

A group of students from Dr. Clark Knowlton's Sociology 325 class, formed a committee to compose and conduct the survey which reached approximately two-thirds of the G.T.C. students. The committee consisted of Joan East, Glen Coston, "Doc" Green, and Robert Gore.

More of the results showed that more of the G.T.C. women than the men approve of birth control and that they favored it for economic reasons. Only a small percentage disapproved because of religious reasons.

Of the women and men over 23, more approved than of these under 20. A surprising 90 per cent of the women over 23 approved birth control.

The cooperation of the students was greater in this undertaking than was actually expected by the committee.

Home Ec. Club Sees Interesting Demonstration

The Home Economics Club of G.T.C. met with Mrs. Lula Parrish, co-ordinator of homemakers in Bulloch County, Monday night. The meeting was held in the Statesboro High School home economics department.

Most of the results showed presented to the group many useful articles she had made. Some of them were aprons, wooden fruit trays, painted Chinaware, luncheon napkins, and lamp shade trimmings. She told the members many points in making hook rugs of woolen remnants.

Mrs. Parrish demonstrated the method of making window valances for matching draperies. A pattern was also cut for dust ruffle to match bedroom draperies.

Geechie Gabber

By WILLENE FISHER

Well, fellow students, I guess you are wondering exactly what you are reading! This is going to be a column that will be of interest to most of the campus. It will deal with campus life and activities.

As we have all noticed, the front campus is being worked on by widening the street. However, we still have our "Sweetheart" campus, so all is well.

The main interest on campus now is the new students. There are a great many and everyone of us should do everything possible to make them happy and as much at home as they can be. Let's prove just how friendly G.T.C. really is. It was done in September and it can be done now for these new students.

Life is very tiring in these days of studies and activities in college life. However, you would be surprised how much better you would feel at the end of the day if you would just go to Twilight. Twilight, sponsored by the B.S.U., is a devotional period and everyone is invited. It will only take fifteen minutes of your time at 6 p. m. when you finish your supper. Hope to see you there.

Hope you can understand this "Geechie Gabber." See you next week!

G.T.C. Receives New Students

Approximately eighty new students have registered for the winter quarter according to Miss Viola Perry, registrar. Fifty-four of the new students are entering G.T.C. for the first time. The remainder are students that have been here before or veterans that have returned to continue their education.

Miss Perry states that the school enrollment is still around 850 students.

Behind the driving play of Prof guard and co-captain, Don Wallen, who scored 25 points, the Professors of Georgia Teachers banged out a 84-74 win over the Newberry College Indians last Tuesday night.

The Profs put on the pressure in the final minutes to clinch the victory after leading by four points at half-time.

Chester Curry was also a big gun for the Profs, hitting for 14 points, while Doug Corry racked 12 and Bo Warren 11. Jim long hit five field goals to account for 10 points and Ronnie Rush scored 6.

Guard Sonny Dugan and Center Jim Wooldridge led Newberry with 16 and 15 points respectively.

Don Wallen Scores Two For The Profs

Starting with this edition, The George-Anne will name a sports player of the week. This will cover the basketball team for the remainder of the season and will carry into the baseball season. This week's player-of-the-week award goes to Prof guard and co-captain Don Wallen. Don earned this honor by his clutch shooting at the foul line to win the Wofford contest last Saturday night. Wallen is pictures above on a dazzling drive-in shot against the Wofford Terriers.

Profs Slip By Wofford With Clutch Shooting

Don Wallen dropped in two clutch foul shots with 10 seconds remaining in the game to clinch a 65 to 63 Professor victory over the Wofford Terriers last Saturday night.

Practically all of the action of the game was jam packed into the final two minutes.

Donnie Fowler, brilliant Wofford guard, brought his team from a ten-point deficit to only two points behind with two minutes remaining. Then a substitute forward, Barbee, hit a jump shot to tie up the game for Wofford.

With 40 seconds left in the contest, Doug Corry drove in and put the Profs two points ahead with a layup. Barbee then netted another tying basket on practically the identical play that he scored on previously. This knotted things at 63-63 and Wallen was fouled and came through with the crucial two foul shots.

Despite the thrilling finish both teams played a sloppy ball game. Passing was very poor and the shooting was just as bar or worse.

The Professors took 68 shots and hit only 20 for a lowly 29.4 per cent. Wofford tried 71 from the field, hitting only 22 for a slightly better 31 per cent.

One bright spot in the Profs line-up was the tremendous improvement of Ronnie Rush since the December 19 match with Arkansas State Teachers.

Beside playing a good game off the boards Ronnie hit four field goals and five fouls for a total of 13 points. With his added height and mounting experience, the Profs should give plenty of trouble to their remaining foes.

The following is a box score of the game:

G.T.C.	FG	FT	PF	TP

SPORTS

As You Like 'EM

By BOB POLLAK

SPORTS EDITOR

Since you rabid sports fans will probably be reading this column either with enjoyment or distaste throughout the quarter I would like to introduce myself. As you can see from the heading my name is Bob Pollak. I am a junior in business education and a transfer student from Duquesne University in Pittsburgh, Pa.

I have always been interested in sports and I hope you will share some of my interest through reading this column. Any recommendations or questions from my readers will always be welcomed and I urge you to do so.

I sincerely hope that you will enjoy reading my column as much as I enjoy writing it for you.

I would like to extend my congratulations to the members of the student body for their excellent attendance at the home basketball games this season.

This shows that the G.T.C. students have a keen interest in basketball as well as a high degree of school spirit.

Our school spirit is high in comparison with some of the country's colleges. At many of the home basketball games at the University of Pittsburgh in the past two or three years student attendance amounted to only five or six hundred. This is very poor considering that the University has approximately twenty thousand students.

It's too bad that there aren't more residents in Statesboro and the surrounding communities who take an interest in basketball at Georgia Teachers College.

Teach usually give their best performances in front of the home people especially if it's a packed house.

The extra support seems to spur them on to give something extra in order to come out on top.

Campus Column

By JOYCE JACKSON

Hi Fellow Students:

It seems like ages since I've written a column, and it is the first time this year, isn't it? When I arrived on campus last Wednesday I was so excited about seeing the old friends again and catching up on all the gossip that I haven't stopped talking yet. When I finally settled down and looked around, I realized that there are quite a few new faces on campus. We are very glad to have you as a part of our school and hope that you have already gotten to feel as one of us.

The girls in the dormitories have quit setting their alarm clocks since it seems quite unnecessary, now-a-days. The big machines out front wake them up long before time for the alarm to go off. But we are very happy that the street is being made wider.

Those last two minutes of the ball game Saturday night were two of the longest I've ever lived through. The tenseness and excitement was felt all over the gym and how thrilled we were when we came out on top.

A scene of interest in Cone Hall Sunday afternoon was the Cone Hall Physical Education majors practicing their square dancing for their rhythms class.

Home-coming Nears

Realizing that Home-coming is less than a month away, the clubs and dormitories are beginning to have brainstorming (we hope) in planning the floats and displays.

It looks like Shirley Jones will be having quite a time while practice teaching in Claxton this quarter. You see, Shirley will be sharing a floor with five "young" bachelors. Happy hunting, Shirley.

As on all holiday weekends, and moonlight nights cupid was working hard during Christmas. Ludell Langham is wearing a "huge" sparkler from a boy in her hometown. Carol Johnson's Bob that we've heard so much about gave her an engagement ring during the holidays. Beverly Kink is engaged to John Jordan and Linda Plummer and Tommy Mansfield are listening for wedding bells. Those going steady are: Madge Lanier and Joe Edwards; Louise Vaughn and James Gitty; Ann Gowen and Danny Williams; Kaye McCormick and Billy Tyson; Janelle Bensley and Hugh Belcher; Peggy Allen and Jack Allen. Best wishes to you all.

Don't forget the movie tonight and the game with Belmont Abbey tomorrow night. See you!

Agatha's Classroom Utopia Halted by Alarming Climax

By BOB SPELL

Since most of us at G.T.C. are planning to become teachers, I have decided to relate to you a story told to me by Miss Agatha P. Snodgrass, a well-known teacher of Chittlin Switch, Georgia. Here is Miss Snodgrass' story:

I awoke one morning feeling extremely carefree and happy. Somehow I knew that this was not going to be an ordinary day of runny-nosed children, and irritated parents. Yes, my woman's intuition told me this day was going to be decidedly different.

After a surprisingly tasty breakfast I drove to the local elementary school where I teach the sixth grade. As I neared my room I noticed there was not the usual screaming of the children as was so common every morning. Instead, there came a slight mumbling from behind the classroom door, and the first thing that came into my mind was that they were up to something. Maybe my prediction about the day was wrong. Anyway, I would soon find out.

Arming myself with all my mentality, I opened the door and went into the room. A sudden hush fell over the room, and I was shocked to find each student in his seat. "Yes," I told myself, "something is afoot!"

The morning started off with the usual pattern of procedure, but I was startled to learn that each student had remembered to bring not only his textbooks, but also pencil and paper! Furthermore, as we whizzed through arithmetic, spelling, and geography, I found that every student had prepared his lesson and was able to answer all the review questions in the book, and those I had prepared.

At recess all the students filed out without so much as one childish prank. When they had all gone, I collapsed in my chair. This was unbelievable, it was too good to be true!

When the children returned to the classroom, all of them were still clean. There were no cuts, torn clothing or any evidence of a fight. Not one student was late for class.

Today was test day in English. The students did not grumble or complain. In fact, not one of them had to sharpen his pencil. As the papers began to come in, I started to grade them, discovering as I did that no one was making a grade below the nineties. While I graded the papers, the children quietly worked at their desks with coloring or reading.

As the class and I marched to lunch, they walked in a quiet, neat line. While we were eating, they talked in undertoned voices and each pupil cleaned his plate of food.

The afternoon classes were the same as the morning lessons. There was not the sluggish drop of energy that was so common on previous days.

school day was about to ring. I paused in my lesson to comment to the children of their excellent behavior, and they returned the gesture with a friendly smile. Never again would I denounce any phase of the teaching profession. Oh, this was heaven!

I dismissed the class early and sat at my desk waiting for the final bell. The dismissal bell began to ring, and it rang, and rang, and rang.

I turned over and shut off the alarm. Another day had begun.

Up to Date

By MICKEY WEBB

Hope everyone had a wonderful holiday and from what I've seen and heard from everyone, there are lots of new clothes resulting from Christmas.

For instance, many of our young ladies received o'legro and Borgana coats. For the benefit of those not knowing what that is, it is the new man-made fur. Very beautiful.

While we are on the subject of coats, some received short coats for both dress and sports wear.

Car coats are very stylish for both men and women students.

The ones I've noticed on our campus are either black or tan.

The ever popular suede jackets are still a "must" with our male set. Many of these jackets were found under the Christmas tree in tan, rust and silver-gray.

I've seen lots of new sweaters and shirts since the holidays. Maid-O-Fur and cashmere in every color you can mention. Men's shirts are most popular in striped flannel and plaids.

While mentioning Christmas gifts, we certainly cannot forget the lucky females that received engagement rings and wedding bands. Congratulations and best wishes to those lucky people.

I. A. Gets Lathe, Printing Press

The new metal lathe and printing press recently installed in the industrial arts department offers new fields to conquer for the industrial arts majors or any other students who take courses for elementary teachers.

Dr. Donald F. Hackett, head of the department, says that the work involved in the metal lathe business is the most profitable field of industrial education and in any other field of industry.

The new machines are in working order now, and they are turning out small objects of soft metal by the showcase full.

Twenty-One Candidates Vie For Honors in Beauty Revue

Dates and Lights

The inconvenience caused to some students by the present closing hour of dorms on the day before holidays was brought up for consideration in the future.

It was pointed out at this time that some students had difficulty in making arrangements to get home before the dorms were closed. An objection was voiced against closing them the afternoon before a basketball game that night, as was done last quarter.

To assist all clubs and officials in getting their announcements before the student body more efficiently, the Council is considering setting up a public address committee to be in charge of clarifying and making the various announcements over the public address system in the dining hall.
