Athletic Board OKs New Student Seating

Upon the recommendation of the Standards Committee and by the approval of the athletic Board, there is to be a change in the seating arrangements made for out-of-town dates.

This is the procedure to follow in getting a seat for an out-of-town date. A student will escort his date to the ticket window, purchase a ticket for her, and then exchange his student ticket for the ticket for the seat beside her. This arrangement is made to remove the necessity of a student buying a second ticket for himself.

The new procedure will be tried for three weeks. At the end of that time, it will be evaluated. Then the possibility of its continuing will depend upon the cooperation of the students and the burden placed upon the person in charge of selling tickets.

A note concerning the seating downstairs: Many students have complained about the lack of space. Some students are taking up extra space by using the seat next to them as a coat rack. Others are using the seat behind them as backrests, and

Professors Go To University For Conference

Five G.T.C. education professors, Dr. J. D. Park, Dr. Bill E. Weaver, Dr. Marshall Hamilton, Dean Paul Carroll, and Shelby Monroe, attended the Joint Conference of Teacher Education and State Conference on Teacher Education and Professional Standards in Athens on January 16, 17, and 18. Sponsoring this annual conference was the center for continuing education located at the University of Georgia.

Theme for the program was "Professional Teacher." During the conference there will be six discussion groups: (1) collective recruitment, (2) preservice education, (3) certification, (4) code of ethics and dedication to profession, (5) remuneration, (6) inservice development. The two

Floats for Home-coming Parade Discussed By Club Presidents

Club presidents of all campus organizations met Tuesday morning in a special call meeting to discuss floats for the Homecoming parade.

Mr. Tully Pennington, chairman of the floats committee, stressed the value of the alumni association to the college, and urged students to create floats that would make the parade something to be remembered on this day.

Judging of the floats will be based on the following points: originality of ideas, clearness of theme, design (line, color and composition), and general attractiveness. Numbers are to be placed on the vehicle pulling the float. It has been specified that the numbers be 12" by 8".

It is recommended that all clubs place their floats on display in a conspicuous place on campus about two hours before parade time. In this way, the judges will have a better chance to examine the works of art. This plan would also add a festive air to the grounds. Immediately prior to the parade, the floats will be lined up from the biology building to the back gate in the order of registration with Dr. Georgia Watson.

Dr. Watson has placed several books relating to designing of floats on reserve in the library for the benefit of anyone wishing to use them. Students are urged to make use of these, and to keep high quality, but low costs in mind in planning their structures. Five dollars from the Alumni Association will be given to each club sponsoring a float.

All clubs are encouraged to take part in the parade.

Williams, Mandes Given Leads

Ric Mandes and Molly Williams will play leading roles in this quarter's Masquers' production of Macbeth.

Tryouts were held Wednesday afternoon before a faculty committee, whose final decision was in favor of Ric and Molly.

The faculty committee was composed of Dr. Fielding Russell, head of the English department, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Keefer, assistant professor of English, Mrs. Marjorie T. Guardia, associate professor of English, Helen G. Duncan, dean of women, and Dorothy Few, assistant professor of speech.

For the part of Lady Macbeth Diana Bair, Ellen Blizzard, and Ann Waters read; and for the part of Macbeth—Bob Allen and Bill Sanders.

"Down in the Valley" Is Presented on TV Today

The second in a series of television programs will be on view today at 3:30 p. m. on WTOG-TV in Savannah presented by the students of the music department of Georgia Teachers College.

The purpose of these programs is to acquaint people living in the Savannah area with G.T.C.

The program will feature an opera entitled "Down in the Valley," by Kurt Weill. The story of this opera is told in the song, "Down in the Valley," and is based on American folk songs. A young girl named Jenny Parsons, played by Mary Alice Jones, meets and falls in love with a young man named Brack Weaver, played by James Jones. The couple plan to attend a dance, but Jenny's father, played by Bill Sanders, wants her to go to the dance with Thomas Bouche, played by Stanley Brobston, who is an older man. Both of the men go to the dance and Weaver kills Bouche. He is put into prison, and stays there until the day before his execution when he escapes and stays with Jenny until dawn. Then he is taken to be hanged.

Others with speaking parts are David Powers, Ralph Bailey, Mel Kelly, Kitty Kelly, and Sistie Poe. The chorus is composed of music majors and minors. Choyce Jackson is accompanist for the group, and Dr. Ronald Neil and Mr. Daniel S. Hooley are co-directors.

G.T.C.'S FULL BAND is shown making its first formal concert appearance of the year, sporting the group's new uniforms. Newly outfitted for the first time in several years, the unit is laying plans for a number of programs to be presented both here at college and out of town. Possible ideas hold for several short trips this year, since the band, according to Dana M. King, conductor of the unit, has reached an all-time high in quality and balance of instrumentation. According to Mr. King, the sixty members have some of the best musical backgrounds in the band's history.

Industrial Arts Sponsors Clinic For Designers

A design clinic will be held in the Industrial Education Department of G.T.C. on next Friday beginning at 10 a. m. All industrial arts teachers throughout the state were invited to attend.

Norman Worrell of Georgia Tech industrial design department will be present to lead the clinic.

Teachers have mailed to Dr. D. F. Hackett, head of the industrial education department, pictures of drawings of projects in current use so that Mr. Worrell may demonstrate the design process in connection with these projects.

Main speakers at the meet were Dr. L. D. Haskew of the University of Texas and Dr. T. M. Stinnett who is executive secretary of the National Commission of Teacher Education and Professional Standards which is located at N.E.A. headquarters in Washington, D. C.

Standards Group Studies Line Breaking, Basketball

A special meeting of the Standards Committee was held January 10. The purposes of this meeting were to elect a new chairman and discuss line breaking, basketball seating and Saturday night dances.

Diana Bair was elected the new chairman to replace Ellen Blizzard, retiring chairman.

Line breaking and basketball seating were discussed. The conduct at the dance following the game of January 15 was discussed. A sub-committee to investigate and draw up a set of standards was named. Those of the committee are Britt Fayssoux, chairman; Bob Byrd, Dewayne Dutton, Betty Watson and Diana Bair.

The members of the standards committee for winter quarter are: Dewayne Dutton, Bob Byrd, Jennie Fay Morgan, Betty Watson, Shirley Ledbetter, Jane Jackson, Mary Carol Bowers, John Sawyer, Ralph Walton, Herbert Houston, Ric Mandes, John Carroll, Duward Whelchel, Don Wallen, Doug Corry, Diana Bair, chairman; Alber Norman, Beverly Perkins, Louis Green, Sue Whaley, Rose Watkins, Britt Fayssoux, President Henderson, Dean Carroll, Dean Duncan, Dr. Alexander, and Mr. Searce.

Assembly Not Required On January 28

Assembly will not be required Monday, January 28. However, on Tuesday the 29th and on Thursday the 31st, all students are required to attend chapel. The program will be based on Religious Emphasis Week.

The speaker will be Dr. Monros Swilley. Dr. Swilley is pastor of the Second Ponce DeLeon Baptist Church of Atlanta, Georgia. Other than serving as pastor, he is a member of the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board.

Student Center Proposal Given Regents Today

Recommendations of the faculty-student committee on the proposed dining hall and student center were presented today to Mr. Hubert Dewberry of the State Board of Regents.

Dewberry in turn will present the recommendations to the Board of Regents and if they are approved an architect will be appointed to begin work on the plans for the building.

Dr. Donald F. Hackett, chairman of the faculty-student committee, reported to the group last Tuesday on his trip to Arkansas last week. Dr. Hackett, Dr. Henderson, and Mr. Dewberry visited Hendrix College and Arkansas State College and inspected the student centers to see various types in operation and to gain ideas and suggestions for the committee to consider.

After the architect begins work on the basic plans, a survey will be taken on campus to determine student opinion concerning additional parts of the building. A questionnaire for this purpose will contain such questions as: "What groups or clubs should have access to the facilities?" "What games should be included in the game room?" "What goods and school supplies should be sold in the building?" and "How much would you use the student lounge?"

REFLECTOR CONTEST

Students are reminded that the Reflector is sponsoring a snapshot contest for snapshots to be put in the annual. The contest ends February 1, and entries are to be turned over to Emory Cartrett or Mickie Webb.

Miscellany Will Be Introduced On February 1

MISCELLANY, Georgia Teachers College literary magazine, is scheduled to be issued February 1. The magazine is the first of its type in the history of G.T.C. It will be approximately 80 pages long and will consist of poems, short stories, essays, book reviews, and research papers. The MISCELLANY will be published in magazine form and according to all reports will be a fine contribution to the publications of our college.

The primary purpose of MISCELLANY is to present the creative writings of G.T.C. students. It will also contain works from outstanding writers of the South and G.T.C. faculty members.

Britt Fayssoux and Jane Williams are serving as co-editors for the magazine and have put in many hours in trying to have a literary magazine that Georgia Teachers College can take pride in. Joyce Kirkland will serve as typist for this publication.

President and Dean Participate In G.E.A. College Day Programs

A system of College Day Programs worked out by the Georgia Education Association will be on the agenda of Dr. Zach S. Henderson and Dean Paul Carroll during the next few weeks. These programs are planned so that students of various high schools may have the opportunity to speak to representatives of colleges throughout the state. In this way a student may get first-hand information about the different phases of a particular college.

The state is divided into districts and a central high school is picked as the location for the program. The students from surrounding schools come and attend the conferences. The program is set up in this manner because it cuts down on interruptions that would be caused by individual visits of college representatives. Also, in this way the representative will have the opportunity to reach more schools and thus, more students.

The system is planned so that each college's representatives will hold three 30-minute sessions. The students are then free to attend the ones they are most interested in. In the sessions the students will have opportunities for questions and discussions about the college they feel they would be interested in attending. Also, the representative will give a brief history of the college and existing situations.

Next week, Dr. Henderson will attend College Day Programs in Columbus, Dawson and Americus. On January 28 and 29, he will be at the Warner Robins, Hawkinsville, Fitzgerald, and Cordele high schools.

January 30 and 31, Dean Carroll will hold conferences at Moultrie, Cairo and Albany high schools for students in that area.

Parade Success, We Hope

It is time to start planning decorations for the Home-coming festivities. The floats and decorations should prove to the returning Alumni that we are glad to have them back on campus for this short visit. The annual Home-coming Beauty Review will be staged again with all its elaborate decorations. Many hours of hard labor are spent in preparing the setting for this event. The Art Club has been busy several weeks planning the presentation of this production to select a new Miss G.T.C. Some dormitories are planning displays that will either be outside the building or in the lobbies. Many of you will be busy with these activities.

However, the highlight of the daylight activities will be the parade of floats prepared by the clubs. To make the parade a success, the students in the clubs must enter into the project whole-heartedly and with the desire to make their float the best in the parade. In the past some of the floats have not merited the money contributed by the Alumni Association to defray the cost of expenses. Of course the weather has destroyed the desired effect of most of the floats in the past. If the floats are constructed of the strongest possible material that is suitable for them, they should withstand most weather conditions.

When students work and plan together harmoniously, they will achieve more than just designing and constructing a float. By working closer together you learn the art of association that is necessary to get along in the world after leaving college.

If each student will carry his share of the load in planning these activities, floats, etc., this Home-coming can be the best ever. The many favorable comments that will be made after it is all over will well be worth the time spent in preparing this festive weekend.

One Last Chance

There are many new students on campus this quarter and many improvements being made, but one of our old problems is back with us again. It seems that there are still some students who prefer to break in line rather than go to the back of the line. Well, the people who stand in line for a long time don't like it either, but they stand in line to get into the dining hall earlier.

We know students don't like to be told what to do, but they won't even follow a helpful suggestion. The president has pleaded with the students, but this didn't help. Students were sent in the back door, but this didn't help much as students still crowd around the door. Numbers were tried again but even that failed this year. It seems that if anything is to be done at all we will have to be forced to do it.

If something is forced upon us we are going to complain and want another chance, but the facts are going to be against us. We have not helped the situation any in the past. Our last opportunity to do something about the situation might be passing by.

You now have the chance to prove if you want to be told what to do or whether you really want to keep most of the freedom you have now.

Remember, stop and think twice before you break in line. It's up to you!

Thanks, Basketball Band!

We would like to thank the music students who furnish the music at the basketball games. Some of the time given is required, but much of it is volunteered so that some entertainment will be furnished before the game, during time outs, and at half-time.

Of course we would like to see the band dressed in their new uniforms and putting on a half-time show, but they are not allowed to do this. We want them to know that we enjoy and appreciate the music they give us.

The music puts us in the mood for the game and gives us some school spirit. From the looks of student attendance at the basketball game last Saturday night, this campus needs some school spirit. Some of the students there did not help the cheerleaders yell for our team.

How about let's join in with the music students who perform at the game and support the Professors at their home games.

Henderson Family Scores Hit

G.T.C. students were treated to a refreshingly different chapel program last Monday, when Dr. and Mrs. Zach S. Henderson and their daughter, Ann, joined forces to present a family music program.

The program was varied, with each member of the family rendering numbers in at least three mediums, ranging from singing clarinet tones to the toots of three tin horns.

Dr. Henderson delighted students by proving that college presidents aren't all dyed-in-the-wool long-hairs, as he played several pieces on his harmonica.

Often a welcomed performer on piano, accordion, or by singing, Mrs. Henderson once more lent her musical talents to G.T.C.

The act that stole the show, however, was Ann's polished job of "Singing the Blues," in which she performed like a seasoned vet. In a more serious vein, she also showed her formal music training on the clarinet.

Not only was the program enjoyed as such, but the fact that the president's family can still find time to do things of this type, even with all the responsibilities thrown on them, helps make the student body feel even more that they are really a part of us.

Letter To Editor

Dear Editor:

I am aware that the usual procedure in letters to the editor is that each letter be on one specific problem. I am also aware of the fact that there are a few small problems on campus that should be attended to immediately, so if I am allowed, I would like to just list a few of these.

I don't like the way our American Flag is taken down each day and left crumpled up on a chair for the night. I don't think that this is any way to show our feelings toward the symbol of our freedom and our democracy.

I don't like the condition our students leave the dining hall tables in. It seems to me that since we are adults and college students, we have no cause to act like hogs.

I don't like the way our students leave the "Blue Tide" and the post office in such a mess each day. It seems to me that our bountiful trash cans should be used more effectively.

Thanks for your kind attention Mr. Editor. I hope something can be done about all this.

I feel flattered that one of our Professors should take time in his class to mention my name and this column. Too bad I wasn't there to join in the discussion.

There are quite a few people that kid me about being from Walhalla, S. C. My hometown doesn't compare with Savannah but there is one thing that we are particular about, and that is washing our hands before eating, especially if we have handled a cat.

I am asking YOU, the person that was petting the cat last Sunday before dinner. Do you always pet cats then eat without washing your hands?

If you will look on the first page of this newspaper, you will see the following: PUBLISHED BY THE STUDENTS OF GEORGIA TEACHERS COLLEGE.

This newspaper is published for the enjoyment of you, the student. The staff of the George-Anne hopes that you get as much enjoyment out of reading the paper as they do in putting it out.

In the past, students have asked why they do not get a George-Anne.

There are enough papers printed, 900 to be exact, for every student to have one. There are not enough papers for each student to have three or four copies, nor are there enough papers for people to wrap ice cream lids in them and leave them at the "Blue Tide".

In the future, please cooperate so that everyone will get a chance to read the best college newspaper in the state of Georgia.

LOST: One girl between East Hall and the Dining Hall. If found please return to resident of Cone Hall. She was last seen jumping out of his car last Sunday evening.

Prediction of the week: Georgia Teachers College will have the "fastest" half-mile track in this area when the construction on the circle is completed. I hope you will prove me wrong and use good common sense about driving.

For those of you that don't know. We have a basketball team at this school and they play other basketball teams from other schools. There are no rules or regulations in the "T" book that says you cannot make as much noise as you wish at these games. I am sure some of you feel that you are supposed to be quiet and reverent at these games. YOU are wrong.

The team, coaches, and administrative officials invite you to make as much noise as you would like. Try it. You might enjoy yourself.

Last Of The Bad Men

The death of tough, hard drinking, rough talking Humphrey DeForest Bogart came as an unexpected shock to most of "Bogie's" fans throughout the nation because of the lack of publicity about his illness. This was the way he wanted it. Never publicity shy about his acting career, "Bogie" preferred to keep his tragic cancerous condition out of the public eye. He didn't care to be the focal point of the sentimental hog wash usually issued by the press under such circumstances.

Bogart was one of the great and durable movie personalities whose fame has lasted over a span of some twenty-six years. Others of this set include Clark Gable, Bing Crosby, Edward G. Robinson, James Cagney, Joan Crawford, Lana Turner, and Gary Cooper. These ageless performers are still big box office attractions, but, except for Robinson and Cagney, their acting ability hasn't improved with years. Bogart was different. He started his Hollywood career as an applecheeked pretty boy and was a flop. After he had portrayed the part of a killer in the famous Broadway play, "The Petrified Forest," Hollywood cast him in the tough guy roles that made him an immediate movie success. "The Bogie Man" could have been content to be just a movie tough guy and earn his pay by being one of the many gangster character actors in Hollywood. But he was a dedicated actor who chose to work hard, improve his ability, and get himself cast in roles other than that of public enemy number one. "Sabrina," "The Barefoot Contessa," and his academy award winning performance in "The African Queen" proved beyond a doubt that Bogart was a real pro who could handle the most difficult parts. Although he won no academy award for it, his portrayal of Captain Queeg in "The Caine Mutiny" was one of his greatest performances. This performance left no doubt that Humphrey Bogart had to be ranked with Hollywood's best. "Bogie" never made any attempt to Hollywoodize his private life. He was a hard drinking, hell-raising, fun-loving guy and made no bones about it. He was not a rude uncouth character, as some might suppose from publicity about him. On the contrary, a stranger being introduced to Mr. Bogart usually found him to be a polite, courtly gentleman. This is Bogart's own commentary on his manners, "I have politeness and manners. I was brought up that way. But in this goldfish-bowl life, it is sometimes hard to use them. A night club is a good place not to have manners."

Edward G. Robinson, James Cagney and Bogart all started as movie bad men and although they could still snarl with the best of them, they applied their talents to other roles. Robinson and Cagney are still giving great performances and probably will until death catches up with them. Humphrey Bogart is gone, but his fans have the consolation of knowing that all of his performances are preserved on film.

Campus Column

By JOYCE JACKSON

Dear fellow students,

If any of you know my roommate, Jane Jackson you've certainly heard of Crawfordville, Georgia! I spent the past weekend there and on Saturday night they had a benefit basketball game to raise money for the March of Dimes. For the yells, the cheerleaders yelled B-E-A-T, Beat Polio. This has stayed in my mind ever since and I'd like to remind you that if you haven't made your contribution yet, be sure and do so, and let's beat this dread disease.

Tuesday was a day of half open eyes, and slow moving students. The reason for this was the trip to Mercer Monday night for the ball game. Most students agreed that it was worth it though, and we're very proud of our high scorer, of the game, Ronnie Rush.

Basketball is really in the air as the basketball intermurals are beginning. Usually you can spot the basketball players by observing which ones are limping or groaning as they move, but this time it is different. You can't tell whether the soreness is a result of the basketball or the tumbling class.

Monday in assembly we discovered that the "First Family" of the college is quite a talented group. Most students enjoyed the informality and friendliness of the presentation. How many colleges can boast that their president can play a harmonica!

Work on the Reflector is getting underway now. Hope you are keeping your eyes open for good subjects for a photograph to enter in the snapshot contest. Even if you don't win, it would be nice to have your snapshot in the annual.

Every time I turn around I hear members of the Art Club discussing plans for the Beauty Review. They sound swell and we are looking forward to seeing it.

Do you remember that tall, good looking boy that came down to see Maxie Jo Mimbs last quarter? His name is Norman Johnson, from Hazelhurst, and he presented Maxie Jo with an engagement ring last weekend. They are planning a wedding in the summer.

The girls of West Hall were glad to see Mrs. Ed Gibson, the former Jeanette Daniels, and her little boy when they visited here Sunday.

That's the gossip for the week see you next Friday.

SIS HEYS, a vivacious blond from Fitzgerald, is The George-Anne's Girl of the Week. TOPS IN POPS

By KENNY GIDDENS

Jim Dandy, Paralyzed Elvis Presley, D.Don't Forbit Me, Pat Boone, Ain't Got No Home, Singing the Blues, Banana Boat Song.

Well, here we are again with the ole Tops N' Pops Column. It seems that quite a few records have hit the markets over the holidays. Of course, some of the more popular ones are still clinging on.

One of the most unusual songs of the week is the "Banana Boat Song, sung by three different recording artists. Although it has three different versions, the beat hasn't changed and we might add that it's really great and still climbing toward the top tunes of the nation. Other records that have set the rhythm of the teen-agers are "Jim Dandy," "Aint Got No Home," and "Paralyzed."

The most surprising star to the recording companies today was Tab Hunter. Tab has recently revised "Young Love" into his own arrangement and has made quite a hit with the record world. No one knows whether or not Tab will continue to use his talent to sing.

Songs that are still being played on the local stations are "Don't Forbit Me," "Just Walking In the Rain," "Singing the Blues," "Brown-eyed Handsome Man," "Blueberry Hill," "All By Myself," and "Love Me."

I.R.C. Listens To Russ Music

The International Relations Club held its second meeting of the quarter, Tuesday, January 15. The program consisted of music of modern Russian composers. I.R.C. members feel that through studying the music of countries they can see something of the culture and better understand the people and customs of that country.

Before each number was played, Glen Coston, president of the club gave a short history of the composer and his major works. Numbers played at the meet-

Line Breaking Considered By Student Council

The dining hall line breaking was once more thrashed out in Student Council's meeting Tuesday night, with the group enumerating suggestions for improvement most of which it claims have been presented to the administration in previous special committee meetings.

Included among the recommendations which have at present been put before the administration are (1) that tickets be used to end some of the confusion during the beginning of the 11 o'clock lunch hour and possibly at supper too, (2) that the person giving out tickets be either a regular employee of the dining hall (perhaps the person who counts the students each day), or else someone appointed by the Student Council to do the job, (3) that tickets be given out as soon as possible when the first students begin arriving (4) that only one ticket be given to any one student, (5) that tickets be given out in numerical order, (6) that tickets be taken up in numerical order, and (7) that no person be admitted without a ticket during the period that tickets are used.

The group is still studying the situation, and hopes to reach a workable plan soon.

Six Girls Live In Management Winter Quarter

There are six G.T.C. home economics majors living in the home management house this quarter. They have just finished practice teaching the preceding quarter. They are Mrs. Frances Crews, Patsy Colvin, Ann Frier, Alice Williams, Mrs. Betty Jean Potts, and Ann Harrison.

Last week the group had three impromptu guests for lunch. Miss Caroline Wingo as guest on Monday, Mrs. Miriam Moore on Tuesday, and Miss Leonro Anderson, state supervisor on home demonstration on Friday.

As experience in having weekend guests, Mrs. Frances Crews and Patsy Colvin entertained Mr. Julian Crews and Mr. Harold Brown. They are students at the University of Georgia in Athens.

The girls are planning to serve breakfast to the Kappa Delta Pi on January 26. This will serve as a catering project.

January 19-20 will be a closed weekend for the home management house. The girls will spend the weekend at home. Miss Bolton, who is living with the girls will spend the weekend in Waynesboro.

The Board of Regents has approved the new student center-dining hall building for Georgia Teachers College. This does not mean, however, that work on the building will begin soon. It means that the building has been okayed by the Board of Regents and that when funds become available, construction will begin.

In connection with this proposed addition, Dr. Zach S. Henderson and Dr. Donald F. Hackett have visited other colleges in order to get an idea of the type building needed here. On January 10 and 11, they visited Hendrix College in Conway, Arkansas and also Arkansas State Teachers College. Dr. Henderson states these trips are very useful because it gives an insight on how different colleges have tried to meet the needs of their students.

Also working on this same building is a student-faculty committee of which Dr. Hackett is chairman. This committee has scheduled a series of meetings to study what type of building facilities are needed to fulfill student needs. After these meetings the committee recommendations will be incorporated with other ideas to work out the best plan.

As yet no plans have been made for the beginning of the new $678,000 classroom building. The reason is that bonds must be sold before sometime in the spring. The money for this building is part of the $11,000,000 budget for the university system. As soon as the bonds are voted in, construction will begin. Architect plans have already been drawn for the new building which is very modern and up-to-date. It is hoped the bonds will be sold as soon as possible so that construction can begin because of the crowded conditions. With the increase in enrollment space is needed for classrooms even more.

Yesterday, bids were begun for the construction of the new college warehouse. The building will be built on the site of the old barn in back of where Coach J. I. Clements now lives.

F.B.L.A. TO MEET

The next F.B.L.A. meeting will be held Wednesday, January 23. The meeting will be held in the audio-visual room in the library instead of the Cone Hall recreation room. Films will be shown instead of having the usual type of program. Also, the time has been changed from 6:30 to 7 o'clock.

SPORTS

As You Like 'EM

By BOB POLLAK
SPORTS EDITOR

Throughout most of this basketball season G.T.C. fans have familiarized themselves with names such as Corry and Curry, Long and Rush, Wallen and Warren. Of course, the primary reason for this is, that these boys are the six who play the most in the games.

Yet any true sports fans knows that it takes more than six men to make up a basketball squad. But how many times do we hear of these men throughout the season. Occasionally a reserve may hit the sports pages for his fine playing, but most of the headlines follow the regulars.

The so called bench warmers on any squad, and particularly our own, are just as important to the team as the regulars. I would rather prefer to use the word reserve instead of benchwarmers because it is more appropriate.

Many times during the course of the season the reserve is called upon to help the team in a crucial situation. He might have to replace a teammate who has fouled out or someone who is having a bad night. If the game is close, there is a tremendous amount of pressure put on the reserve. However he usually succeeds more times than he fails. Even when he does fail at least there is some satisfaction that he played and tried his best.

Our team, like any other team, has men such as these on roster. They anxiously await their chance to go into the ball game to help the team's cause. Sometimes, they get that chance; sometimes they don't, but nevertheless they are always ready.

A fine example of being ready was displayed by Walker Cook in last Saturday's game against Belmont Abbey. His practice efforts and hustling paid off as he helped the Profs by hitting for eight points.

Don Avery is another who is often called upon to help out, especially under the boards. Don's passing and rebounding is as good as any other member of the team. It is unfortunate that his shooting abilities are not as good as some of the other boys but he makes up for this deficit by hustling.

Bob Belton, Jim (Peabody) Denny, Howard Walls, and Beldy Massey are the remaining members of our fine team. Although they may be weak in some aspects of the game, they excel in others. They constantly practice to overcome their weaknesses and thereby indicate to the coaching staff that they are ready and willing to step in whenever they are needed.

Much of the Professors' success this year will depend on their bench strength. This holds true not only for the games, but also for the practices. A good team is only as good as its bench allows it to be.

Baby Profs Win Second Place In Brewton-Parker Tourney

Jim Harley's freshman club captured second place in the Brewton - Parker invitational tournament held last Friday and Saturday nights.

The Baby Profs defeated North Georgia Trade School 75-55 in Friday night's fray and dropped the championship game to Brewton-Parker, 75 to 60 on Saturday.

Ronnie Rose, top scorer for the Profs, was sidelined during the tourney due to a twisted ankle. This loss, of course, hurt the Professors' chances for the championship. Bill Criscillis and Harry Anderson turned in fine tourney performances for G.T.C. Bill scored 16 and 18 points respectively, while Harry fired up 14 each night. Criscillis was also a unanimous choice on the all-tournament team.

The other members of the all-tournament team were: Most Valuable Player, Haywood Hodgson, Georgia Southwestern; Talmadge Lee, North Georgia Trade School; and Gene Wells and Ralph Miller of Brewton-Parker.

Intramurals

By HUGH BELCHER

The Georgia Teachers College Intramural Basketball program got underway Thursday afternoon when first floor-West Cone (Flyers) lost a very close game 46-47 to first floor Sanford (Colts). Gene Ragsdale and Billy Hobbs led the losers with 10 and 13 points respectively. Brown with 19 points and Hodges with 12 paced the winners. The Flyers held at 27-13 half-time lead before losing the game in the last few seconds due to poor defensive play.

Rush Sets New Record as Profs Defeat Mercer

The Professors broke even in two road tilts this week taking Mercer University at Macon, Ga. by 89 to 81 score and dropping a 79 to 61 contest to Erskine College at Due West, South Carolina.

Ronnie Rush led the victory over the Mercer Bears as he probably played the finest game of his basketball career. Ronnie scored 29 points on 8 field goals and 13 foul shots. He made a cool 13 for 13 from the foul line.

The tall center also set a new school record for rebounding as he grabbed 36 for the night.

Don Wallen followed Ronnie in the scoring department by contributing 19 points to the Profs offensive attack. Chester Curry with 15, Bo Warren with 13, Doug Corry with 9, Jim Denny with 3, and Jim Long with 1 were the other scorers.

Woody Richardson with 27 and Bobby Graham with 18 paced the losers attack.

The following night the Professors ran into a tough customer in Erskine College. Erskine moved out to a quick 10 to 2 lead and were never headed by the Profs.

G.T.C. literally threw the game away as time after time they committed violations and threw bad passes which resulted in the loss of the ball and ultimately the game.

Actually the Professors out-shot Erskine percentagewise, 41

Freshmen Meet South Carolina

Oglethorpe University of Atlanta and the South Carolina Freshmen will be the opposition tomorrow night for the G.T.C. varsity and freshmen squads. The preliminary contest starts at 6:15 and the main attraction will follow immediately afterwards.

Tomorrow night has been set aside by the Athletic Department as Public Schools night. All students who attend schools in the first congressional district will be admitted to tomorrow nights encounters for 25 cents.

Coach Searce's varsity cagers will be after their tenth victory this season when they take on the Oglethorpe Petrels. The probable starting lineup for the Professors shows Doug Corry and Chester Curry at forward, Ronnie Rush at center, and Bo Warren and Don Wallen at guards.

per cent to 40 per cent. However, Erskine threw up many more shots which accounts for the 18 point difference in the score.

The South Carolinians fine center, Sam Kerr, took and made practically every shot in the book as he finished with 32 points. Roy Gilliam chipped in with 18 points for the victors.

Bo Warren led the teachers' attack as he netted 19 points, mostly all of them coming on outside shots. Don Wallen with 14 and Doug Corry with 12 followed Bo in the scoring column. Other scorers for G.T.C. were Curry 6, Avery 6, Rush 2, and Massey with 2.

A student suggested to me this week that certain problems on campus should be brought to the attention of faculty members and students. Fourteen were asked "What problem affected them as well as all the student body and what improvements should be made if any. Here are their replies uncensored. It is also understood that there is FREEDOM OF THE PRESS IN THE GEORGE-ANNE.

HARRY ANDERSON — Students should be allowed to be absent from assembly more than once without deducting quality points. After all assembly isn't that important.

RAY BELUE — There should be some place for couples on campus to go. Also, if you want better chow join the Army.

JOE FIELDS — Better food in the dining hall and some place for dancing on campus with an atmosphere.

RALPH TURNER — I think G.T.C. should have a football team.

TYRE ADAMS — There should be more entertainment during the week.

ELLIOTT HODGES — I would build a Recreation Center.

LEONARD MCCOOK — I know you won't believe me, but I think there should be a study hall in Sanford Hall every night.

BEVERLY PEAVY — I think breakfast should be served on Saturday from 8:30 to 9:30 and please finish paving the streets. I am tired of the dust.

ANON — For heavens' sake improve those meals in the dining hall and assign some other name to that so called steak we have every night.

LYNELLE BAILEY — Build another girls dormitory so we won't have to live three to a room.

JEAN HOLLAND — The little store should be made larger so that the students won't have to wait so long for service at ten o'clock.

CLIFF O'NEIL — I would allow the national and social fraternities and sororities to come on campus. The ones that have tried to organize here, were refused by someone in the administrative capacity.

ANON — I think there are many problems that the student council could solve, for example start handing out numbers in the mess hall line again to keep order and students from breaking in line. Why doesn't the student council do something about this, after all they were elected for some purpose.

Initial Edition G.T.C. Agenda

G.T.C. Agenda, a new sheet for faculty and staff members, made its first appearance on our campus this week. The sheet is a publication of the public relations office and is edited by Roy F. Powell, public relations director.

The purpose of the Agenda is to list a calendar of events, certain announcements and comments on items of special interest to the faculty and staff. It is hoped by the public relations office that the publication will help the staff and faculty keep up with current events on campus.

Vacation in Nassau Enjoyed By Three of Staff Members

By JANE JACKSON

What did you do between December 23-28. It may have been unusual or enjoyable, but guess what Miss Ela Johnson, Mrs. Cleo Franklin, and Miss Viola Perry did? They went to Nassau!

Leaving Statesboro December 23 in Miss Ela's beautiful mile-long blue chrysler, and traveling down the east coast of Florida they reached Miami on Christmas Eve. After parking the car, boarding a steamer, and sailing all night they reached Nassau bright and early Christmas morning. So, began the sight-seeing!

First was the taxi tour over this 21-mile-long, seven-mile-wide island. On this tour the points of interest were observed. The Government House and the Queen's Stairway seemed to stand out most in the minds of our travelers. The Government House is where the Duke and Duchess of Windsor resided while he governed the Bahamas. The Queen's Stairway was built in honor of Queen Victoria. There is a step for each year she reigned which totaled sixty-six steps. Through these steps many prisoners of Nassau escaped to the sea. That was the highlight of Christmas Day! But the fun had just begun! Next our English professor, house director, and registrar, began their "night clubbing." Due to the seemingly short night the travelers were only able to attend three of the many night clubs.

Night Clubbing Yet! "The floor shows were our main interest, of course," stated the travelers.

Mrs. Franklin said "The Fire Dance at the first night club impressed me most."

"Oh, yes," exclaimed Miss Ela, "it just amused me to see them practically fold up frontward and backward and recover from such a position."

Mrs. Franklin in describing the dance said, "Have you ever seen a chicken whose head has just been cut off?"

Miss Perry declared, "I'll just let the others comment."

After the "night clubbing" ended and having caught a wink of sleep the three went back to the island at 6 a. m. to see a "Boxing Day parade" which began at 4 a. m. and lasted until 8 a. m. Two of these parades are held each year. One the day after Christmas and one New Year's Day. The purpose is to box up all the surplus or unwanted gifts and give them to the poor.

Miss Perry told me, "The parade consisted completely of natives dressed in fancy costumes, ringing cow bells, blowing whistles, and beating drums."

"They rung or beat some kind of rhythm out of those cow bells and just danced right down the street," Miss Ela said.

They all commented that there were no vehicles in the gala affair.

Princess Stabbed "Oh Yes," Miss Ela stated calmly, "an Indian princess got stabbed while we were on the boat headed for the island. She'd been hanging around the bar quite a bit and they believe the last man she was with stabbed her. They were still looking for him when we left."

This seemed to be a minor part of the trip to the three musketeers.

Miss Ela seemed very impressed with the little native boys swimming out to meet the steamer to catch coins the tourists threw to them. Imagine swimming on Christmas Day!

Oh yes, they brought home souvenirs! The objects the glass blowers "blew" were Miss Perry's weakness, so she purchased a beautiful glass bell.

No Traffic Lights

Mrs. Franklin was so impressed with Nassau not having any traffic lights, parking meters, and with the cars being driven on the left side of the street that she mainly purchased post cards and pictures of the island.

Miss Ela was most impressed by the basket weaving done by the Nassau natives, so she brought back a few baskets.

All three were favorably im-

George A. Teachas Says

One of my pet peeves is the way the Stars and Stripes are treated in America today. The American flag is a symbol of our independence which was declared nearly 181 years ago. This independence was won through the tireless efforts of our forefathers. The men who gave their lives, or at least part of their lives earned much more respect for the grand old flag than we give to it today.

In many places throughout the country today, the flag is treated with little or no respect. Even here in Georgia, it is surprising to see the countless numbers of flags that are allowed to rot without cause, or the flags that are literally used as rugs, tread upon by our upholders of democracy.

To bring it closer to home, here at Georgia Teachers College, almost any night that you wish to see for yourself, you can walk into the rear of the auditorium and find our American flag lying crumpled in a chair where it will spend the night or the weekend. We here too have forgotten the toils of our forefathers in their fight for our freedom. We have gotten too careless, and it is time to awake and restore to this nation the reverence once held for those two great American symbols of our independence, the Stars and Stripes and National Anthem.

How about it, do you think we can work a few hours to restore that which it took our forefathers many bloody months of conflict to achieve? Well, we can at least give it a try.

By WILLENE FISHER

Hello, fellow students! It seems that everyone is now head over heels in the new quarter's work. Being the first of the quarter, everyone is vowing to do better work and study more. In another week or two, things will be just like they ended last quarter, with everyone behind in their work.

For once, let's stick by what we want to do. Let's carry out our plans and in the end, we'll be more contented and still have as much free time.

If we stop to realize what most of us came to G.T.C. for, if we are honest with ourselves, we will all agree on an education. I will agree that there is more than one way in which to be educated, but the most important is our scholastic mentality. It will help us most during college and when we get out in the world on our own.

Ask any older person already in business and he will tell you much that you will come to realize for yourself in years to come. I know that most of us have already learned much from mistakes in the past. But let's let these mistakes help us rather than hinder. If we do this we are sure to be a success, whether large or small.

Eighty-two New Students Come To Our Campus

Eighty-two new students entered G.T.C. with the beginning of the winter quarter. Of this number seven were seniors, twenty-one were juniors, fourteen were sophomores and forty were freshmen.
