Players, Fans Seen and Rated

By ROBERT "HERR" GORE

Waiting in Wednesday's supper line by the dining hall, someone asked another if he'd planned to go to that "long-haired thing" at 8 o'clock. Then began a thorough discussion of the forthcoming concert.

I have spent many afternoons waiting for the time when radio announcer Frank Knight would say, "This is the Longines Symphonette conducted by Mishel Pastro," and follow through with a most convincing commercial. At last the possibility of seeing them perform became a reality.

My seat during the performance was on the first row in the balcony. I had a very good view but I think there must have been better seats for blind patrons. Knowing what the Symphonette does on radio, the full music didn't quite get to the persons sitting in the back rows.

After the number from "The Marriage of Figaro" the audience gave a very good response only to have conductor and half his crew to dash off stage and get ready for the next number. From that moment, I thought, we were getting a "dress rehearsal-performance" with few encores. (Too bad we had the price to bring them out to the "sticks")

A girl sitting near me must have been reminded of her serviceman beau during "American Suite" by Morton Gould. "Oklahoma" brought foot-patting, nodding, singing in one case down on the first floor.

Not taking time to poll 200 students, many persons seemed to like the lone encore best. Compare what you heard Wednesday night with what you will hear on their radio programs. In this instance, the live performance ranks second.

Hanner Attends Placement Meet

W. S. Hanner, chairman of the division of exact science, is in Atlanta today attending a meeting of college placement officers and faculty members interested in helping students find suitable employment following graduation.

Mr. Hanner was invited to attend as a consultant by H. M. Chester, personal administrator of the State Department of Public Health.

Conducted by the State Department of Public Health, the meeting was called for the purpose of working out course requirements and general programs necessary in training technicians and assistants to staff members concerned with community health problems.

Farkas Speaks To F.T.A. Group

Dr. Zoltan J. Farkas, head of the division of foreign languages at G.T.C., spoke at Statesboro High School last Tuesday night. A combination meeting of the high school foreign language students and the Future Teachers of America heard Dr. Farkas explain the "Importance of Foreign Languages in the United States."

He explained in detail the program offered at G.T.C. including the minor program and the certificate of proficiency in teaching French and German in the elementary schools.

JAN EPPS submitted the winning picture in the Reflector Snapshot Contest. This is a pictorial scene of the post office box assignments. The short people seem to get the higher boxes, while the taller ones get the lower boxes. Dahlia Evans and Herbert Houston seem to be having this problem.

'A Dream of Spring's Fashion' Theme of Annual Fashion Show

By BETTY RAHN

"A Dream of Spring's Fashions" is the theme for the annual fashion show presented by the Home Economics Club, Wednesday, February 27 at 8 p. m. in the McCroan Auditorium.

Jackson Chosen As Sweetheart

Jane Jackson was selected Sweetheart of the B.S.U. in an election last week by vote of all the Baptist students on the G.T.C. campus.

Jane was presented at the annual B.S.U. Sweetheart Banquet at the First Baptist Church last Friday night. She was crowned by Virginia Sikes, last year's sweetheart. The other two girls nominated for the title were Betty Lynn Cadle and Joyce Jackson.

The main speaker for the banquet program was Jimmy Gunter of Statesboro, who, in his days at G.T.C., was the first president of B.S.U.

Aubrey Highsmith was the master of ceremonies, and entertainment was furnished by Diana Bair, who was in complete charge of the banquet, Ouida Newby and Joyce Ryan.

The background setting for the show will be decorated as a dreamland of clouds and stars. Those who are working actively to make this event a success are the members of the steering committee. They are: Sis Heys, Claudia Tinker, Sue Ansley, Frances Crews, Ann Harrison, Barbara Phillips, Beverly Perkins, Martha Brantly, Carolyn Ellington, and Mary Carol Bowers.

The music will be rendered by Jack Broucek, organist, and Celeste Dykes of Millen will be master of ceremonies. The admission charge will be 50 cents. Door prizes will be given during intermission time.

The fashions will be divided into four groups which are: casual, formal, semi-formal and sports. They will be from Belk's, Henry's, The Fair Store, and Minkovitz, all of Statesboro. The models will be members of the Home Economics Club and the student body.

Those who are modeling for Belk's are: Sue Chance, Ava Owens, Barbara Langley, Earlene Payne, Joan Hurst, Joyce Jackson, Juanita Freeman, and Sandra Hanson.

Modeling for Henry's are: Ann Cason, Pat Brannen, Beverly O'Conner, Alice Brock, Mary Jo Fulghum, Sis Heys, Mickey Webb, and Martha Brantly.

For the Fair Store are: Martha Tinker, Madge Lanier, Glenda Smith, Mickie Williams, Pat Fletcher, Vila Brown, and Barbara Phillips.

Models for Minkovitz: Beverly Hall, Mary Carol Bowers, Billie McWilliams, Sue Buchan, Rose Watkins, Carolyn Freeman, Maxie Jo Mims and Faye Harden.

Fifth District Music Festival Set Next Week

The Music Festival for Region Five will be held Thursday, February 28, and Friday, March 1, at G.T.C., with the music department serving as hosts.

Forty-six counties from Southeast Georgia will be represented ranging from Augusta to Brunswick and as far west as Macon. Three thousand students are expected to be on campus between 8 a. m. and 5 p. m. these two days.

The meeting places for the different classes are:

High school bands, McCroan Auditorium; glee clubs, Laboratory School auditorium (Friday); elementary chorus and folk dance groups, old gym (Friday); woodwind solos and ensembles, Cone Hall lounge; brass and percussion solos and ensembles, band room; vocal solos and ensembles, Laboratory School, room 8; piano solos and ensembles, recital hall, music building; and baton twirling, front campus.

The G.T.C. concert band will be the performing group for the student conductors.

This music festival is one of five state festivals sponsored by the Georgia Music Educators Association, the music branch of the G.E.A.

The committee in charge of the festival are Dr. R. J. Neil, Dr. D. S. Hooley, Mr. D. M. King, and Mr. Jack Broucek. In charge of publicity is Mr. Roy F. Powell.

Judges for the various events will come from Tennessee, North Carolina, and Georgia.

Diana Bair and Pat Fletcher are the secretaries for the music festival.

Assisting in preparing the arrangements are the A.C.E. Club, music majors and minors, and boys from the Laboratory School.

Youth Revival Called Success

The Ministerial Association of G.T.C. will hold another Youth Revival during the spring quarter because of the good attendance at the one last week according to Bill Hinson, president.

The speakers for last week's meeting were Richard Cates, Bill Hinson, Willis Moore, John B. Carroll, and Franklin Pierce.

Members of the Association wish to express their appreciation for the cooperation shown by the students on campus and to the B.S.U. for foregoing Twilight during the week set aside for the revival.

Concert Series Music Praised

By SISTIE POE

The Longines Symphonette made its first appearance in Statesboro at McCroan Auditorium on February 20, with Mishel Pastro conducting.

The program was in excellent taste with the first section consisting of works by such great masters of music as Bach, Mozart, Haydn and Brahms. Of this section the outstanding number appeared to be the "Concerto No. 3 for Two Violins," by Bach. The soloists for this work were the conductor, Pastro, and the concertmaster, Walter Brewus. The thrilling twosome was accompanied by a string ensemble rather than by the whole Symphonette. The two solo artists performed not only with amazing technique, but with deep feeling and a strong sense of performing as one.

Also in this group, the Longines Symphonette performed the two Hungarian Dances, Numbers 5 and 6, by Brahms. These selections seemed to bring out the true expression of the orchestra and the gracefulness of the violins.

In the second half, again concertmaster Brewus stole the show with the "Violin Concerto in G Minor," by Greux. This was perhaps the most serious work of the evening, with the remainder of the program dedicated to lighter music. The audience showed by their applause their enjoyment of the "Irish Washerwoman" by Sowerby-Schmid, this being an Irish country dance tune.

The Longines Symphonette concluded the program with the delightful and familiar strains of "Oklahoma," by Richard Rogers.

(Editor's Note: This is one of two stories appearing on this page, which gives a student's views of the concert.)

Presidents Will Take a Survey Of Their Clubs

Presidents of all clubs and organizations on campus are asked by the administration to take a survey in their respective clubs to find out some of the details that students feel are needed in the new student center-dining hall building.

Information which must be procured includes what provisions are to be sold in the little store section of the building, what game facilities will be needed, and other incidentals which will be necessary.

Either Dr. Zach S. Henderson, president, or the building committee will call a meeting in the next two weeks to compile the results of these surveys.

Dr. Donald F. Hackett, member of the building committee, states that the original plan of a general questionnaire to be submitted to all the students was discarded, and that this will serve instead.

Masquers Stage 'Macbeth' Next Tuesday Night

By JO ANN PARKER

Molly Williams and Ric Mandes will co-star in Masquers' latest dramatic venture, "Macbeth," Tuesday night, February 26, at 8:15 p. m. in McCroan Auditorium.

Molly, a junior from Savannah, transferred to G.T.C. from Armstrong College, where she held her ground in that drama department, too. The talented play fiend, however, tasted acting much sooner.

Starting as a little girl in the Children's Experimental Theatre in Savannah, Molly went on to do extensive work with the Savannah Little Theatre, and had some experience in the Macon Little Theatre.

An English major, here, she made her G.T.C. stage debut last quarter as Mrs. Winemiller in Tennessee Williams' play "Summer and Smoke." Previous roles played in other places include such parts as a small role in "Richard II," and the lead in Euripides' drama "Iphigenia."

Mandes, a sophomore from Brunswick, and his wife, Carolyn, now live here in Statesboro, where they are planning for a "little Mandes" sometime in June.

Getting set to handle the difficult role of "Macbeth" Tuesday night, Mandes has a rather surprising record of having appeared in only two other plays in his life—a silent servant role his first quarter here, and the lead in a hilarious comedy, "The Boor," two quarters later.

Although he did no acting before coming to G.T.C., Mandes revealed that it is his main hobby now, aside from Carolyn, who is "pretty extra special." The actor is now majoring in English, but would probably change to a speech major if one is offered in time.

The supporting cast for the play will be: Bill Sanders, Macduff; Bill Hinson, Banquo; Willis Moore, Fleance; Charles McLendon, Ross; Jimmy Ray Johnson, Duncan; Judy Rittenhouse, first witch; Nan Stephens, second witch; Lynell Bailey, third witch; Ellen Blizzard, Hecate; Ann Waters, Lady Macduff; Billy Broucek, Young Macduff; E dWard, Angus; Emory Giles, porter and messenger; Robert Gore, Seyton; James Beall, Old Siward; Marion Porter, Donalbain; Harris West, Malcolm; Dennis DeLoach, Doctor; Ellen Sumner, gentle woman attending Lady Macbeth; Sonny Bridges, Lennox; Billy Jackson, first murderer; and Hugh Belcher, second murderer.

MOVIE TONIGHT

The movie for tonight will be "Father of the Bride" with Elizabeth Taylor and Spence Tracy. It is a comedy and is being shown in the place of "Hondo" which was originally scheduled, but was damaged in the recent floods in Kentucky. Officials hope to show "Hondo" here at a later date.

Idle Mind . . .

The vandals that visited our campus last week were apprehended by a group of Cone Hall boys, after they paid their second visit to the boys' dormitory. These boys were from a high school in this region.

When we began teaching it is going to be our task to help these students find other things to occupy their minds. This cannot be accomplished by assigning loads of homework. We must provide other wholesome activities in which they can engage.

This can be done by creating an active interest in the clubs in the school. To develop this interest, the teacher must prove to the student that he is interested in the club or activity.

Much valuable experience can be obtained from being a leader or a member of a high school club. This experience can help them after they leave high school and enter the professions.

If we, as teachers, keep in mind the old proverb, "An idle mind is the Devil's workshop," we might be able to overcome these problems of vandalism that exist in the world.

Phone Physics

A telephone tempest has been brewing on campus among a number of people who feel that more phones are needed here, especially in the dorms. To help clear up the situation, The George-Anne interviewed Don McDougald, G.T.C. comptroller, who has been studying the situation. He issued the following statement on the administration's present views on the problem.

"There are discussions underway between the president of the Statesboro Telephone Company and officials of the college concerning the addition of new facilities for the college campus. These discussions are based on the assumed needs of the college for communication facilities over the next several years with the expanding growth of the college.

"The Statesboro Telephone Company feels that since its equipment has been modernized with the installation of dial facilities, that it will be able to provide any services needed to implement the rapid growth of the college. Since the campus is a distance from the telephone facilities, much care and thought is needed, due to the tremendous cost of trunk line facilities to reach the college campus.

"The college officials have been notified by the telephone officials that at an early date, Cone Hall will be taken off the circuit on which it is presently located and will be put on another line. It is desired of the college that in working out the new facilities, that provisions will be made for students to call within the campus at no cost, which will leave the stations available for off-campus and long-distance calls.

"Until such facilities are available, students can help each other by limiting their on-campus telephone conversations to five minutes or less." Mr. McDougald went on to explain that the majority of school telephone conversations are carried on between dorms. Under our present setup, Sanford and Lewis are now on the same line. This means that any two people can tie up the whole phone service on this campus for as long as they wish.

Players Receive Recognition

Tomorrow night five G.T.C. senior basketball players will be honored during Senior Night, at the game with Tampa University. These five players are: Don "Arab" Avery, James "Peabody" Denny, Doug Corry, Don Wallen, and Howard "Bo" Warren.

Basketball is one of the main interests at G.T.C. It takes a good team to keep the students' interest as our basketball team does, and we think they are tops.

Some of these players have been playing basketball at this school for four years while others have transferred from other colleges. Some of them are first string and others are reserves, but nevertheless each of them has represented this school as a member of our basketball team.

For this reason we of The George-Anne staff are very pleased to know that these five senior boys will be receiving a trophy tomorrow night to remember their basketball years at G.T.C. and for representing our team and school so well.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

by Dick Bible

"DO YOU EVER HAVE ANYTHING ON YOUR MIND BESIDES GIRLS?"

Inquiring Reporter

By KENNY GIDDENS

Not too long ago in The George-Anne, Britt Fayssoux's column was written with the idea in mind that Robert Frost may be invited to the campus for a speaking engagement.

Many units of the University System of Georgia often have such distinguished personalities visit their campuses, but not too many outstanding personages in the United States have frequented this one at G.T.C.

To get the students' reaction to an event of this type, Your Inquiring Reporter asked several of them directly. The question:

"Do you think any special effort should be made each year to bring some outstanding personality such as Robert Frost to this campus? Why?"

FRANCIS FULFORD—I certainly think so, because it would help the English majors and minors to understand better the works of different authors.

JOHN WILLIAMS—Of course I do; and if there's a different type of personality each year, maybe it'll help prove to some of these lunkheads around here that studying is not all in vain.

BETTY RAHN—Yes, I think it will stimulate more interest in the student body towards a better understanding of our modern society.

HELEN TANNER—Yes, I certainly think so. I believe that it would interest the whole student body and cause them to appreciate the better thing in life more.

JOE BREWER—Most definitely. I think that making this an annual affair would create a more positive attitude towards the literary interest of the majority of the students.

JUNE WATTS—Having the opportunity to hear in person famous personalities will help us to grow larger in our cultural aspect, thus making us more well-rounded college students. I highly endorse this idea and think it would be not only a valuable, but an unforgettable experience for us.

ROSALYN APPLIGATE—I definitely think that G.T.C. would profit from such personalities. The community concerts add a lot; we have the productions of the Masquers; the concerts by the music departments. Why not bring in persons outstanding in different fields to supplement the annual affairs?

The answers prove quite conclusively that of the half dozen people asked the question, 100 per cent believe that Robert Frost or some personality of his well-known reputation or calibre should be invited to appear on the G.T.C. campus. Are the rest of the students in accord with this idea?

Hyde and Seek

By LARRY HYDE

Thanks a lot to the wise guys who flew a pair of my trousers atop the flag pole in front of the Administration Building. They needed airing anyway.

We now have our new paved circle on front campus. Restricted parking areas will be marked off with yellow paint in the near future. Penalties for parking in these areas will be sternly enforced as implicated by Dean Carroll in his report to the student body. The best way to keep from having to pay a fine is not to park "in the yellow."

There is a possibility the fence on the Sanford Hall side of the library will be moved back from the curb. At the present, the fence is too close to the curb and is being pushed over by people when they open their car doors. Besides pushing the fence over, paint from the car door is being scratched off from hitting the fence.

A young man was leaving Lewis Hall one night last week and suddenly from one of the windows, came this remark, "There goes Sugar Daddy!" That young man didn't walk back to Cone Hall, he ran!

No, we haven't lost our razors. As most of you know, the Old South Ball will be March 9. The girls will get a chance to wear those big hoop evening dresses that were the style back in the Old South era. Whiskers are the only think that we can wear that would be in common with the old Southern gentlemen. You men that can and haven't, why not join us and grow a set of whiskers for the dance.

Tomorrow night is Senior Night at the basketball game. Co-captains, Don Wallen and Howard "Bo" Warren, along with Don Avery and Beldy Massey, will be honored at half-time ceremonies.

I could write paragraph after paragraph about how much I like them and all the things they have done. Instead of that, I'll just say that I have enjoyed watching them play and I wish them the best of luck in whatever lies ahead for them.

Assembly will be held Monday morning at 10 a.m. Monday's assembly program will be something new in the form of programs. I'll guarantee you that four of the "prettiest girls" you have ever seen will be on the stage of McCroan Auditorium. Do not be absent or you'll be sorry!

There are always two angles to a woman with a new fur coat. It might have been bought to keep her warm. But the purchase might have been made to keep her quiet.

There's nothing like a sharp tongue to cut your own throat. SELAH.

Up From Hinterland

Charlottesville, Virginia is located in the scenic Piedmont region of Virginia some seventy miles northwest of the capitol, Richmond. Sitting snugly in the foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains just on the outskirts of the town is one of this country's outstanding institutions of learning—The University of Virginia. The Jefferson-designed buildings of the university are arranged around a large rectangular lawn, and on a hill three miles east of the university, visible from all parts of the campus, is Monticello, home of Jefferson.

Into this atmosphere of Jeffersonian academic standards there stepped last week a man from Mississippi, who ironically enough has spent a good part of his last twenty-five years damning the Virginia Country Club set (who are usually Virginia graduates) as not fit for anything but gentlemanly consumption of alcohol.

The man is author William Faulkner.

Faulkner is considered one of America's leading novelists. He has written at least ten major novels, plus short stories, novelettes, and a book of poems.

Most of the sixty years of his life have been spent in Oxford, Mississippi, population about 4,000. Oxford is a typical deep south small town. In 1930 Faulkner purchased a much-decayed old Southern mansion and spent the next few years restoring it to its former old Southern baronial splendor.

In the past he has very seldom left the privacy and seclusion of his manor except on very special occasions, such as a trip to Hollywood or New York to pick up some easy money writing screen plays or radio scripts. His most important sojourn away from Oxford came in 1950 when he traveled to Stockholm, Sweden, to receive the Nobel Prize for literature.

One of Faulkner's outstanding characteristics has been his refusal to confine himself to the stifling atmosphere of the classroom. Even in his home town of Oxford where the University of Mississippi is located, Faulkner has in the past refused to participate in the literary conferences that are periodically held there.

Just what induced Mr. Faulkner to travel to Charlottesville and give his much sought after advice to budding young writers is hard to say. He shed some light on the subject with this statement, "I am here to help young writers, and if I can be of some aid to one in a hundred, I would feel I had done a good job."

It seems strange that Faulkner would pick the very school that he so often in his work characterized as producing empty-headed imbibers, but maybe the irony of it appealed to him, or perhaps he figures he can raise their standards and teach them to drink like Mississippi gentlemen.

French Club Meets Wednesday

"Popular songs influenced by France and its culture" comprised the program of the monthly French Club meeting last Wednesday afternoon in Sanford Hall.

Dr. Zoltan J. Farkas, head of the foreign language division, and faculty advisor to the club, presented a film entitled "France and its People," which dealt with some of the customs of the middle class of that country.

Those participating in the program were:

Cranford Sutton, playing "Autumn Leaves" on the piano; Joyce Kirkland, singing her own French translation of "I Love Paris"; Emory Giles, leading the group singing of "Frere Jacques"; and "Sur Le Pont O'Avignon"; and Jo Ann Parker, playing "Sur Le Pont D'Avignon" on her flute.

CAMPUS COLUMN

By JOYCE JACKSON

This week the most eye-catching sight on campus was the beards that a number of the "men" are growing in preparation for the Old South Ball which is coming up March 9. They are really beginning to look like something from out of the past! I think it would be most effective if at the ball the girls wore the ante-bellum dresses with their hair fixed in the style of the Civil War days. I hear that the juniors have already started work on plans for the decoration and it should be great!

Next Wednesday the Home Economics Club is sponsoring a fashion show with over 20 of the college girls modeling new spring fashions furnished by Belk's, Minkovitz, Henry's and the Fair Store. This should give us some idea of the styles we will be seeing when the weather becomes warm.

The play MacBeth promises to be one of the highlights of the quarter, as already shown by the selections presented on television last Friday.

We were very honored to have the visitors from Egypt on our campus this week. Members of the education classes to which they spoke were very startled and amused when they heard that in Egypt a boy and a girl never have a date until they are married. The boy may visit the girl in her home, but they are never alone. If a girl has a date and the other boys find out about it, she will never marry. At least the girls in Egypt have an excuse for not marrying!

If you drive down the road in front of the gym, don't be at all shocked to find a car sitting crossways in the road or with two wheels on the curb or coming up the wrong side of the street. The Driver's Education class is practicing "U" turns and parallel parking. Mrs. Zoltan Farkas is a member of the class and it's been said that Dr. Farkas remarked that he wasn't sure he was a very good American citizen any more, since he was aiding in putting another woman driver on the road. But like all women drivers, Mrs. Farkas is great!

Egyptians Visit G.T.C. Campus For Observation

Two visitors from Cairo, Egypt were guests at our college last Monday and Tuesday, February 18-19. They were Professors Hammouda and Bedeu who were visiting at the invitation of the State Department of Education.

The two men, who are professors at the teachers college in Cairo, were here to study G.T.C.'s teacher training program. Visiting Marvin Pittman School, they observed curriculum development, in-service training, use of local resources in the curriculum, and the role of superintendents and principals.

Dr. J. D. Park, chairman of the division of education, and Miss Bertha Freeman, associate professor of education, acted as their guides.

Old South Ball Set for March 2

The G.T.C. junior class will sponsor its annual Old South Ball next Saturday night in the old gym at 8 p. m. Herbert Houston, as president of the class, has appointed chairmen of the various committees for the dance, and they have begun work.

The Old South Ball, the last big dance of the quarter, will be formal or costume. Students who attend this dance are asked to cooperate in every way possible to make it a success.

Continuous Improvements at G.T.C.

COUNTY AND STATE HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT WORKMEN descended on front campus a week or so ago to widen the sweetheart drive, and before most of us had become even reasonably confused with the changed traffic routes they had completed the job and moved out. This panel, under the watchful eye of probably the three best "sidewalk superintendents" in the business (Comptroller Don McDougald, President Henderson, and Building Superintendent Taylor, (inset, upper right) shows the step-by-step process of the work. After bulldozers had plowed up the area and the new earth had been thoroughly packed, a special machine was used to pour the hot asphalt (No. 1). Thrown immediately over the black coating were tons of gravel (No. 2). Then came the steamroller to pack the new tar and gravel into a smooth surface (No. 3). There remained then only the finishing touches and cleanup (No. 4 and 5). Although Mr. McDougald swore they couldn't get it done in time and Dr. Henderson and Dr. Watson were really "sweating it out," the work was completed and the road open for the Saturday Home-coming festivities. Two-way traffic now moves easily around the 35-foot-wide drive.

Rules to Go Into Effect Soon Band Marches In Local Parade

The construction on the front circle is now finished and when the yellow lines are painted in, all cars are registered, and a man hired to enforce the parking and driving rules, the parking rules set up by the parking committee will go into effect, according to Dean Paul F. Carroll.

The automobile registration is proceeding very well according to the Dean. As of last Tuesday 255 students and sixty-four faculty members had registered their cars.

This covers most of those owning vehicles on campus, but the dean urges all those that have not yet registered to do so as soon as possible. A deadline will be set soon and all cars must be registered by that date or pay the fine set up in the parking committee rules.

Dean Carroll stated that he hopes everything will be ready so that the rules will be able to go into effect at least by the beginning of spring quarter.

RUSSELL ATTENDS MEET

Dr. Fielding D. Russell, head of the Department of Languages, attended a meeting of Synod's Campus Christian Life Committee last Tuesday in Atlanta.

The G.T.C. band will march in a parade celebrating Washington's birthday tomorrow at 10 a. m. in downtown Statesboro.

The 504th Airborne Regiment of 600 paratroopers from Fort Bragg, which has been near here on maneuvers, will be featured in the parade which will be led by the Army band from Fort Stewart. The parade will begin at Franklin's Restaurant at the 301 and 80 intersection and will march to the ball park at the Recreation Center.

As You Like 'EM

By BOB POLLAK
SPORTS EDITOR

Those of you who have attended most of the home basketball games this year might have noticed a rough looking fellow with a crew cut sitting on the bench with the team. He is the team's trainer, Mr. Jack Miller.

The Athletic trainer works hard during the season and gets little or no praise for his job. He has to know his job and know it well. Because of his fine athletic background, Jack is exceptionally well qualified as a trainer.

Jack is twenty-seven years old and a native of Savannah. He attended Savannah High School from 1945 to 1949 and played both halfback and guard on the S.H.S. football squad. Jack was good enough to make the all-region team and third string all-state team in his senior year.

Big Jack enrolled at Troy State Teachers College in Alabama in 1950 and played one year of college football before entering the U. S. Air Force in 1951. While in the Air Force Jack was a member of the championship Eighth Air Force team.

After his discharge, Jack went back to Troy State and played until a knee injury ended his football career as a player. Jack had been playing so well that he was considered as a possible little all-American candidate.

In February of 1954, the former Miss Betty Hendrix of Georgianna, Alabama became Mrs. Jack Miller. Betty also attended Troy State Teachers College.

After his knee injury cut short his playing career, Jack decided to try his hand at coaching. He was appointed as assistant coach at Savannah's Commercial High School during the 1954 and 1955 seasons.

He then enrolled at G.T.C. this past fall quarter and was named the basketball trainer by the Athletic Department.

As trainer, Jack must take care of all the team injuries, tape ankles at practice games, and keep an ample supply of vitamins and other nourishment for the players.

Jack is assisted in his work by Carey Moore who will be a member of next year's varsity squad. Carey is a transfer student from Mercer University and has two years of eligibility remaining.

These two men deserve much more credit than they get because they are both important members of the squad.

Indians Beaten Curry Sparkles

Led by Chester Curry's 14 points and Doug Corry's rebounding the Profs notched victory number 17 by whipping Newberry, 66-61, last Thursday night. Scoring leader for the losers was Jim Woolridge with 22 points.

Keegan started the first half rolling for Newberry by dumping in the first goal. Then O'Long, Rush, and Wallen moved us out to an 8-2 lead. It rolled along in the Profs favor until at one point it was 26-19. Suddenly Newberry yanked 6 straight points to close the gap to 26-25. Newberry had two or three chances to take a one-point lead but missed. The score read 30-29, G.T.C., at the half.

The second half started out as usual with a Prof rally. Warren sank the first two goals and then Corry and Curry added 2 points apiece to give G.T.C. a comfortable 38-29 lead. They added to this and later on led 52-37, then 60-40. Newberry started closing in but to no avail as their drive was a bit late. They hacked away at the margin, making it 64-51, 66-59, and finally 66-61, with the Profs victorious by that score.

Other fairly high Prof scorers were three 10 pointers, Curry, Wallen, and Warren. Next to Woolridge for Newberry was Campton with 13, and Lynch had 11.

HIT PARADE

By DILLARD MAXWELL

"Young Love," as sung by Tab Hunter is still No. 1 on the "Hit Parade," and has been for many weeks. The Tarriers' version of "Banana Boat Song," is No. 2. Others still in the top ten are "Don't Forbit Me," "Blue Monday," "Singing the Blues," and "Moonlight Gambler."

This week's popular artist is Miss Jane Froman. Singer Jane Froman, whose life story was portrayed in the 20th-Century Fox motion picture "Sing in My Heart," made her debut on Capitol records in an album from the picture in May, 1952. She acted as a technical advisor and recorded twenty-six songs which were dubbed in for actress Susan Hayward.

Miss Froman is a native of St. Louis, Missouri, where her musical talents were revealed at the age of eight. She began singing for church parties. Enrolling in Christian College near her home, she studied music. After two years, however, she switched to a journalism course at the University of Missouri. Her rich soprano voice didn't go unnoticed, though, and she was called upon to sing leading roles in various college musical events. One revue was seen by a theatrical booker and as a result she was awarded her first professional job in a vaudeville house in her hometown for $100 a week; she was billed as the "Blues Singing Co-Ed."

Later Miss Froman continued her musical studies at the famous Cincinnati Conservatory of Music. She accepted a position at a radio station where she remained for two years doing 22 programs a week. When the noted orchestra leader Paul Whiteman heard her he signed her to a contract with the National Broadcasting Company in Chicago, Illinois. Her first major opportunity arose in the "Thirties," when she worked with such names on the Chesterfield show, as Benny Goodman and the Dorseys. Then she acquired a leading role in the "Ziegfeld Follies of 1933." By 1934 Miss Froman was rated number one singer on the American radio. She appeared in several Warner Brothers films, and up to 1942 played in the United States' most prominent night clubs. It was in 1942, on her way to entertain troops in Europe, that the plane crash occurred. For five years she was in and out of hospitals, battling to regain her health after the serious accident. Miss Froman is seen each week, on her own television show on a national network. One of her most famous famous Capitol records has been the inspirational song, "I Believe," released in 1953. Her latest record combines "The Song from Desiree (We Meet Again)" and "The Finger of Suspicion Points at You." Jane Froman is truly one of America's greatest singers. Her rich soprano voice has made her world famous.

The losers were paced by little Carolyn "Foggy" Hooks with 12 points. Miriam McClain and Loretta Edge tossed in 6 and 4 points respectively. Linda Sikes and Mary Ann Moye had 2 points each. The Tigers led at the half 22-10.

VET'S CORNER

By TOM BRYSON

Several weeks ago, the office of the comptroller issued a letter to all students on campus who had been extended credit in order to attend college. In effect the object of this letter was to state the policy of the Board of Regents regarding payment of fees over an extended period of time. The new policy has established a schedule of fee payments which will obligate the student to pay up his balance from the previous quarter prior to registration for the coming quarter, make a payment of $102 at registration, and payment of the balance in two equal payments, due on the first of the following two months.

This new schedule is reasonable, but no doubt, will have an effect on many students who must pay up a previous balance. More specifically, this will affect veterans who receive payments from the Veterans Administration in arrears, this is, for time that has already been performed prior to payment.

For those veterans who are unable to obtain financial aid from parents, there is the possibility of obtaining a short term bank loan. In an interview during the past week with a representative of one of the local banks, it was determined that short term loans could be made to veterans. The conditions of such a loan would involve either collateral, in the form of securities, automobile, property, or some other type that would be agreeable to the bank, or an endorser of the note, who is known to the bank to be of good character and sound financial condition. It was further suggested that a certification from the registrar's office of the college, to the effect that the student concerned was attending college under Public Law 550 (G.I. Bill) and in good standing, be issued, as this would facilitate the obtaining of such a loan. However, if the latter alternative were used, it was pointed out that it would be best for the student to obtain a loan from a bank in his home town, as it would be much easier for the student to find an endorser that would be agreeable to the bank.

In addition to financial aid from parents or bank loans, there is the possibility of utilizing loan funds, scholarships, and the student work program in order to obtain financial aid. Information on the last three sources may be obtained from the college bulletin and Mr. D. O. McDougald, comptroller.
