Hyde, Brown Battle for Council Presidency

CHEMISTRY MAJOR

The science department anticipates offering a major in chemistry in the near future according to William S. Hanner, professor and chairman of division of exact sciences.

A course in bio-chemistry and one in physical chemistry will be added to the curriculum as soon as available space is provided in the new classroom building.

ART CLUB PARTY

Members of the Art Club go to Tybee Beach today for their beach outing. The club plans to occupy a cottage for the weekend, returning to campus Sunday.

SCIENCE PARTY

The Science Club and Tully S. Pennington, associate professor of biology, plan a house party at Savannah Beach, Friday, May 17. They will return late Sunday.

PROFESSOR RETURNS

Fred A. Wallace returns to the science staff in September following a year's leave of absence during which time he has been completing his doctor's degree at Florida State University.

MUSIC CLINIC

Miss Hadassah Sahr will be the guest director of the sixth annual piano clinic to be held here June 13, 14, and 15. Jack Broucek, of the music faculty announced this week.

At the present time Miss Sahr is teaching at Steinway Hall, Columbia University. She is also teaching in private studies in New York City.

Mr. Broucek, stated that he is expecting from 50 to 75 teachers from Georgia and South Carolina to attend the clinic.

According to Mr. Broucek, five major periods in music composition concerned with piano, will be discussed.

NEW PROFESSOR

Dr. Burton J. Bogitsh, from the University of Virginia, Charlottesville, will be the new assistant professor of biology at GTC in September. He will teach biology and the physical sciences, according to W. S. Hanner, division chairman.

Dr. Bogitsh is 28 years old, and has a wife and two children, ages three and five. His wife is originally from Waco, Texas, while he is a native of New York City. They have rented Dr. Thomas Alexander's

New Kappa Phi Hears Dr. West At Dinner Meet

Installation ceremonies for the Kappa Phi Kappa members and officers were held at a banquet last Saturday night, May 11. Dr. Paul D. West, superintendent of Fulton County Schools, was the featured speaker of the evening using as the title of his talk: "What Kappa Phi Kappa Means to Me."

The chapter officers, including Pete O'Millian, president; Solon Wisham, vice president; Bob Byrd, secretary; and Fred Fagnant, treasurer, were installed by Ben Hutchinson, the natural counsellor for the honorary educational fraternity.

Warren T. Jackson, who is now president of the national organization, presided over the actual initiation of the charter members, while Dr. Frank Peale, the national secretary, presented the charter. Ralph Kemp, past president of the Alumnus Delta chapter presented the chapter at GTC with its seal.

Dr. Zach S. Henderson, president of the college, was initiated as an honorary member of the fraternity at the same time the GTC charter members were by Mr. Jackson.

'Miss Reflector' To Be Named Saturday Night

The annual Reflector Ball will be held Saturday night at 8:15 in the lounge of Cone Hall. Miss Reflector will be announced from the eleven candidates that were chosen from the four classes. Second and third place will also be announced.

Through correspondence with Cecil B. DeMill of Paramount Studios in Hollywood the top three girls were judged, picked and the winners will be announced during intermission of the dance. DeMill also sent a letter stating "that Georgia was very fortunate to have such beautiful women to go into the teaching profession."

Final Inspection of Warehouse Slated After Meeting of Officials

Sammy Powell, business manager of the Reflector staff, announces that all clubs and organizations who have not paid for the pictures printed in the annual, should do so as soon as possible.

Summer School Changes Given

Summer school will be different this year because of a ruling of the Board of Regents which says that summer school should let students take only three courses as in regular quarters according to Dean Paul Carroll.

Instead of two terms of equal lengths, there will be a long and a short term. The dates are, for the first term, June 11-July 19 and the second term July 22-August 15.

The classes of the second term will be four hours each day because the term is short and a minimum of 54 hours for each course is a state requirement.

During the second term of the summer session, a workshop in Driver's Education will be held. This is the first time this workshop has been offered.

Cone, Sanford House Councils Given Supper

Thursday night at the home of President and Mrs. Zach S. Henderson, the house councils of Cone and Sanford Halls were entertained with a hamburger steak supper, including home-made ice cream.

According to Mrs. Cleo Franklin, house director of Sanford Hall, this is the first such occasion in several years.

Hostess for the group was Miss Kirbelene Stephens, secretary to President Henderson. Miss Stephens was aided by Mrs. Melton, school dietitian, Mrs. Thelma Hartley, house director of Cone Hall, Mrs. Franklin, and President Henderson, who cooked the steaks on open grills.

Final inspection of the new GTC $38,000 ware house, opening it for college use, will take place on May 21, after a meeting of the architect, representatives of the Board of Regents, officials of Coite and Sommers Construction Company from Vidalia, and college officials.

It will be under the supervision of Eugene Z. (Bun) Martin, who lives at 33 Easy Street and is a life-long resident of Statesboro. Mr. Martin is married and has two children. He has had experience in ware housing prior to coming to GTC.

The warehouse building is constructed of cement block and brick veneer. It has 6,000 square feet of storage space, including a loading ramp, a spray-paint room, and a storage shelter for college vehicles. A seven-foot fence will enclose the area which will be flood-lighted at night.

The warehouse will house all supplies needed and used by the college, which includes janitorial, electrical, plumbing, office, and general maintenance supplies.

Film Library Begins Cleanup

The Film Library personnel will begin its annual general maintenance work as soon as the summer school session begins. Films will not be sent out to any schools except to Georgia Colleges for use during the summer sessions. Old films will be cleaned, relabeled and refilled for use next fall.

Five new film racks have been added to the Film Library equipment and between 250 and 400 new films covering history, science, elementary courses and all other educational films needed in the schools' courses will also be added to the film collections as stated by Ed Abercrombie.

April Big Month For Circulation Says Librarian

Three thousand three hundred and thirty-two books were checked out of the library last month to establish the record for the year, according to Miss Hassie M. McElveen, librarian. Less than 200 of these were fiction, which, Miss McElveen said, indicates that students are not doing enough "pleasure" reading.

Lowest circulation month was March. Spring holidays were said to be the cause of this.

The library has an average circulation of 175 books per day. The facilities are used mostly at the beginning and the end of the quarter with a big drop in between, the librarian said.

She urged all students to return books before May 27. Books may be checked out overnight after that date but no longer. The library closes May 31.

NEW SPEECH COURSE

An elective course will be offered fall quarter to teach sophomore elementary majors how to use dramatics and other speech activities in the classroom to develop the speech attitudes and oral work of students.

Brown Throws Hat In Ring Releases Platform Policies

Ed Brown, one of the two Student Council presidential candidates, has thrown his hat into the GTC ring since his nomination in chapel Monday.

The new candidate has already formulated a group of policies that he intends to follow as closely as possible next year. "From working on the council this year," he stated, "I know how important cooperation is for success of the Student Council. I have worked with council members and know the problems that be faced. I'll do my best as president of the Student Council to lead it to a higher position of prestige and effectiveness in handling the students' problems."

On the Hungarian scholarship fund now under consideration, Brown said, "I have been personally involved in arranging the scholarship and realize the problems that still need to be solved. I am also familiar with the people already contacted concerning the issue. I will do my best to promote it."

As to the social side of things, he stated that he would attempt to arrange the social schedule so that all students will benefit. He is considering additional entertainment Saturday nights for students who do not dance. He would also rearrange play night and the mat dances so students could attend both.

Mentioning the popularity of the movie program this year, he said, "I am personally for giving the student body at large a

Larry Hyde and Ed Brown were the Student Council nominees for the candidacy of president of the Student Council for next year. Election for this office and those of vice president and secretary will be held Monday morning from 10:30 'til 2:30 in the lobby of the administration building.

Vice presidential nominees were Diana Bair, Aubrey Highsmith, (listed by the Student Council), and Billy Jackson, nominated from the floor. Two other students were nominated from the floor, Jane Jackson and Bob Mitchell, but both declined.

Candidates for secretary are Liz Morgan and Joyce Jackson.

A campaign speech was delivered by Larry Hyde on the assembly stage Monday morning, and although the floor was opened to others, no one else ventured forward.

Dewayne Dutton, this year's Student Council president, stated that this has been a good year, and that he and the other members of the council have enjoyed working for the students. He advised the student body that this election is one that should be taken seriously and not just something on which to use snap judgement.

The announcement was made that a nomination of the members-at-large of the council will be made immediately following assembly Monday morning by the freshman, sophomore, and junior classes. The election will be held during the following week.

NEXT WEEK'S GEORGE-ANNE

Next week will be the final issue of the George-Anne for this quarter and this year. In this final issue which will come out May 24, we will give you a complete run down on the elections and attempt to do a bit of summarizing for the year.

voice in the selection of the movies.

Turning to the telephone situation, Brown believes the footing made this year in that area will aid next year's council in pushing for better service.

Diana Bair's recent appointment to the community concert committee is in line with a developing policy of the Student Council to appoint a representative to sit in on every phase of school life for which student activity money is spent. According to Brown, this was a highlight in the group's achievements this year, and will make a stronger organization in the future if properly used.

"There are a lot of specific things which need careful planning next year," he said, "and if elected, I will incorporate the foundation Student Council has established this year with the new needs and wants of the student body."

Popularity Plus

One of the candidates for the presidency for the student body was overheard to say, "If this race is turned into a popularity contest, I am bound to lose."

This editorial isn't about his statement directly, but it is about the coming election and popularity contests. Many times because a candidate is handsome, smart, charming, and an all-round lady killer, he will receive the most votes for an office, particularly on a college campus. This should not be, for a good officer should have all these before-mentioned qualities, but should also have some others such as originality of thought, determination, sincerity of purpose, a mind open to others and their ideas, a persistence of accomplishments, and above all, a deep concern for his constituents and their most urgent needs.

When you, the student body, go to the polls to vote, weigh each candidate carefully if you have not already done so, and choose that person whom you really believe will do the best job for you. Don't be a passive voter, and let other persons tell you how to vote; Be an active voter and put your candidate in office.

There should be 806 votes cast in the coming student body elections; the only way this can be a sure thing is for you to get out and vote. Vote for the man of your choice.

Bermuda Standards

This spring as has been for the past few years on campus, the main topic of controversy, BERMUDA SHORTS, has found its way once more into the Standards Committee, the office of the Dean of Women, the Student Council, and the desk of the editor of The George-Anne.

First of all, there are no regulations of the wearing of the Bermuda shorts by the men anywhere except in classrooms where the instructor shall determine whether they are proper dress or not. Fashion designers have stated that Bermuda shorts are quite proper for men.

For women, Bermuda shorts as well as blue jeans and peddle pushers, are accepted only in the following situations: baseball games, roller skating, evening rehearsals, decorating details, field trips, if approved by the instructor, in TV lounges or parlors after supper if no dates are present, on campus and in the dining hall on Saturdays until the supper hour, except when the college is host to an outside group.

You see, fashion designers of women's attire have not yet seen the need for declaring Bermuda shorts as acceptable wearing apparel for women in public showings.

Helen Duncan, dean of women, said that there had been no girls who came into the office requesting that girls be permitted to wear Bermudas in situations other than the above-mentioned ones. This indicates that those girls who have been chronic grippers on the subject have not yet sought an answer for themselves, since probably they realize what the answer would be anyway.

INTRA-ACTIVITY

Monday will be intramural honors day in assembly, at which time awards will be made to both team and individuals who have played an outstanding part in making the new intramural program what it is. These awards will go to honor those people who have contributed to the program here with sportsmanship, honor, and scholarship.

Outstanding participants are not necessarily those people who have high scholastic averages, and most of them are what is called by educators as average students. Contrary to the thought of many teachers, the average student has a definite part to play in service to humanity and their college, and even if they are so called average, they are a large and proud part of the school.

This year was a trial year for an advanced intramural program, but the interest shown has amazed the coordinators to the point that they feel assured that next year the program can be expanded and more efficient.

The George-Anne would like to salute the Division of Health and Physical Education, and especially Mr. Jess White, who has been in charge of the intramural program, for their contribution to our campus through INTRA-MURALS.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

by Dick Bibler

Dear Folks at GTC:

When the George-Anne comes I read it "from kiver to kiver" and live again the days spent there. I note some changes, of course, among them and the absence of faculty titles. When I was there our faculty was spoken of as Mrs., Miss, Mr., Prof., and Dr. Now they are called by their first names. I can't tell students from faculty. I like to think of "Dr." Joe Caruth and "Miss" Mae Micheal (sic). I believe when you get away you will like to recall your faculty by title, too.

—OLD TIMER

Editor's note: "Old Timer" gave us quite a start there for a minute. We hastily checked our files of the past few weeks trying to find our errors in calling our faculty members by their first names. We breathed a sigh of relief when we failed to find a single example of such disrespect and poor journalism. We are glad to hear from "Old Timer" and sorry there is some mistake somewhere. Within the past few years The George-Anne, we believe, has grown into a more professional newspaper. In reference to faculty titles we have tried to work out a style which meets certain journalistic standards as well as standards of respect. And we do not (except perhaps in the case of a copy error or a typographical error) refer to faculty members by their first names.

Dear Editor:

The new sign at the gate on front campus really looks good, and it helps to make the campus look good too.

For many years, people have ridden by the college without knowing that the college was there, and some of them would have liked to look over grounds.

I suppose what I like most about the sign is the wording. It says just enough to explain what the college is, and is very easy reading at speeds under seventy miles per hour.

With the addition of this sign, and with possibility adding a light to it, there will come a little slower procession of traffic down 301 because most people will slow down to look at the sign and maybe the college. When they slow down, possibly a life will be saved and there your sign will have served another purpose.

Well, I had better quit rattling on, and close this letter.

—MILES WARREN

Examine Facts Carefully

Well, election day is upon us again come next Monday and candidates are running around asking for votes like a thirsty man for H<sub>2</sub>O. I notice Mr. Hyde really has put out the campaign material. It's a good thing he isn't running on the Republican ticket, I don't know where he'd get an elephant. Even if he isn't elected no one will ever forget his face for everywhere you turn you see it on a poster. In a way, they're helpful for they relieve the monotony of having only the professor's face to look at in the classrooms. Mr. Brown's posters certainly are colorful even though you usually associate brown as a drab color.

Both of the candidates have something in common, neither one is yelling how he's going to lower taxes. Maybe it's just me but I thought that this was the stock phrase of all politicians. Too, I've heard no talk about the corrupt, unreliable, and unjust administration that is leaving office, although from previous election campaigns I assumed every administration was that way.

The two armed camps are lined up for action and it looks as if the war between the candidates will continue to be a hotly contested battle until one goes down in defeat. I certainly hope that after the smoke and debris is cleared away the victor does not resort to radical reconstruction.

The students at GTC now have a strong power in their hands, the power to vote. The students should use this power to examine and re-examine the candidates so that the right person will be our leader next year. The job of president of the Student Council is a serious responsibility. It is no place for a radical any more than for a submissive, unwilling person. It calls for a person who is willing to lead, compromise, work, carry out, and most of all to act in the best interests of all the students, not an individual or a particular group of students.

I'm not saying which candidate is the best though I know which one I will vote for and why. I urge all voters to look at both sides carefully realizing a mistake could be fatal. Don't vote for a person because he is your friend. Vote for the one that can best represent YOU!

Books and Covers

While reading the statistics released by the library this week, I began recalling several things that I had wanted to read. This led to thinking about some things that I had read, and pretty soon I was laughingly recalling some of the more humorous experiences that I had once while in school at another college in our state.

The librarian in this small college library was a quite jovial person with a grand sense of humor. As I sat there listening to her, she accounted to me many humorous and interesting things connected with her library duties which cover a period of some thirty years, and many different schools.

One of the things that stands out in my mind most was a little thing that occurred in a college book store in one of the junior colleges in our state.

It seems that a student was browsing around, when the book store manager came up to him and began to help him select some books that might help in a physics course that at the time he was having quite a bit of difficulty with. The little book shop manager said, "Here is a book that will do at least half of your work for you." "Great," said the student. "Give me two of them."

One day there was a rather wealthy gentleman in one of the Atlanta book stores going through a number of books by a local author. Later, while the gentleman was still there, the author came into the store. No sooner had the author come in than the gentleman buying the books asked him to autograph them saying, "My wife likes your stuff, so I thought that I would buy these for our anniversary." "A surprise, eh?" hazarded the author. "I'll say" said the customer, "she's expecting a Cadillac."

All this goes to show that you can't judge a book by its cover, and very seldom by its preface.

Seek Brown

It was a terribly ordinary announcement. There had been no brilliant crying out that the world would be lost unless a certain candidate was elected. There had been no noisy political demonstrations.

The announcement that Ed Brown was one of the candidates for the Student Council presidency came to me rather as the end of a good movie—the kind in which a poor boy works earnestly and persistently to help his kingdom and in the end, finds a pot of gold with which he is able to really help them.

As a reporter covering Student Council meetings, I have watched Brown take an active interest in every issue discussed by that group. I saw him named to committees such as the committee to clear up the smell on front campus. I have heard him report on facts learned and give suggestions of his own. I knew he was experienced and qualified to do the job.

From this reporter's view, the council's position this year has not been one of weak submissiveness, nor of stubborn demands, but rather of mutual respect between students and faculty. Brown has been right smack in the middle of formal and informal student-faculty confabs in which wrinkles were ironed out of campus problems. So, along with most of my friends, I was not surprised at his nomination Monday, but happily endorsed it.

When I think of the qualifications for the president of Student Council, I think of one who has a sincere interest in other folk's problems, plus the ability to get along with people well enough to get ideas worked out. In my opinion, Ed Brown is the man to fill these shoes.

This week the most important topic of conversation has been the election of Student Council officers. Since the announcement of nominations in assembly Monday, posters are seen everywhere and much campaigning has been going on. It seems to be quite a hot race, and the election returns should be quite interesting.

Many students enjoyed the pop concert Monday evening given by the band and featuring selections taken from those played on their tour.

Members of the Physical Education Class 340 and their dates enjoyed dancing and refreshments at Cypress Lake Tuesday night.

I've heard of teachers that weighed term papers to determine a grade, but this week I saw actual proof of it.

Dr. Bill Weaver demonstrated the deadly instrument that formerly was used to weigh letters. The scale showed that the heavier the term paper the higher the grade. A word to the wise is sufficient.

Metalwork Class Attends IA Fair Visits Industries

Fourteen GTC students enrolled in the advanced metalwork class left Thursday morning to visit various industries in the Atlanta area and the State Industrial Arts Fair.

Hayden M. Carmichael, associate professor of industrial education and sponsor of the group, said they were to tour the Atlantic Steel Co. in Atlanta and the Buick, Oldsmobile, and Pontiac Assembly Plant in Doraville.

On Friday noon they were to observe the displays in the State Industrial Arts Fair held at Rich's Department Store in Atlanta, after which they will return to Statesboro.

In the re-evaluation of Savannah High School, Dr. Georgia Watson, director of Guidance at GTC has been chosen chairman of the group.

Along with Dr. Watson, from the GTC faculty are Miss Frieda Gernant of the art staff, and Dr. Thomas Alexander, present head of social sciences.

This evaluation will be made on Thursday and Friday of this week.

Persons serving on the committee other than GTC faculty are Dr. Allen Smith of the State Department of Education, Robert Carson, principal of Columbus High, and James Warren, principal of Glynn Academy.

Weaver Granted State License As Psychologist

Dr. Bill E. Weaver, of the education faculty, last week qualified for a license as a psychologist. The license was granted by the State Licensing Board in Atlanta, after Dr. Weaver underwent five straight hours of testing. Among Dr. Weaver's courses in the education division are education psychology, adolescent development, and human growth and development. He secured the state license to qualify him for work he will do next year as a consultant for a school for the mentally retarded which is being set up at Swainsboro.

Lifesaving course? Some people are wondering!

The senior lifesaving course which was taught at the pool from 3:30 to 5 p. m. during the past two weeks could have been quite amusing to spectators!

However, the funny looking activities aren't so funny to the students and last Monday things weren't too funny to instructor Richard Cates.

The first week of "lifesaving" had been spent learning and practicing the different "holds" the drowning victim could produce and how to break these holds and pull the victim into shore.

All went well the first week! The girls could pull in their girl partners and the boys their boy partners. But, Monday we had to pull in Richard! He put on the real act, fighting back and all. Most everyone did fairly well and drug the victim instructor to shore. Everyone except one member of the weaker sex, that is. This particular try-out was the one in which the victim grabs you around the neck when your back is turned.

The eager rescuer tried to break the hold as had been taught, but goofed and held "instructor" under water too long as well as almost drowning herself. Both weakly struggled ashore coughing and sputtering. Realizing her terrible mistake "student" requested that "instructor" let her try again. But instructor said "Uo, not today!"

The following days were tedious ones.

Many Athletes
Will Be Honored

According to Mr. Jess White, director of intramurals and an assistant professor of Physical Education, Monday's assembly program will be used as Intramural Honors Day. This period is to set to honor those persons who have shown outstanding ability and leadership on the field of play on both teams and in individual sports.

Awards will be given out-stand competitors, and for team play, an all-intramural championship trophy is slated to be given away.

The team that walks away with the all-intramural championship trophy will have compiled the most points in total play. This includes both individual and group activity.

Activities have been Tenni for both boys and girls, softball and basketball for both boys and girls, cross-country and golf for boys only, paddle-tennis and volleyball for girls, football and handball for boys, and table tennis for both boys and girls.

BATTING CHAMPION of the professors in George Morrell, who came off the bench this year to relieve injured Preston Sizemore, and then went on to win the batting title and receive a beautiful trophy. His batting average was a very respectable .333.

Just Frank
About SPORTS

By FRANK TURNER
SPORTS EDITOR

Alas, with the intramural softball season drawn to a close, work has begun on a new backstop for the field back of the new gym.

There's wind of a new golf course for GTC next year. If we get it, this will save the linksters trips across town.

I see that the plea for clean tennis courts hasn't been answered yet. I personally don't play tennis, but I don't see why so many who do play should have the task of cleaning the courts. This responsibility belongs elsewhere. As many if not more play tennis it seems as play any other sport throughout the year on this campus.

The GTC Profs stand a fair chance of being selected for the NCAA baseball tournament after finishing the season with a 17-8 record.

The Prof pitchers allowed no runs in the last three games. And here's an oddity as they didn't register a single shut-out in their first 22 games, but waited until the last three games to pitch three shut-outs. Lowe did it against Erskine, while Alewine and White each came through against Mercer. This even lowered their already low earned run averages.

Congratulations to George Morrell, the 1957 GTC team batting champion. He made the minimum at bats with 54 out of which he rapped 18 hits for a .333 average.

Hats off to Richard Cates and Bob Belton for their fine life guarding around the GTC pool. The only casualties so far have been only water-logged from swimming too long.

In the Intramurals Honors Day program next Monday in assembly the champion team and the various scoring champs and other outstanding players will receive well deserved recognition for a fine intramural year just completed.

BIG SISTERS MEET
The Big Sisters Club will hold a special election for the purpose of electing next year's officers on Tuesday, May 21. The meeting is set for 10 a. m. in the auditorium, according to Mary Jane Harper, this year's president of the group.

White Shuts-out Bears;
Allows Only Four Hits

JIMMY WHITE, Tuesday's winning pitcher against the Mercer Bears in the last game of the season. Jimmy shut out the Bears on but four hits, and showed championship style by working his way out of a couple of serious Mercer threats. His season's record is five wins against three losses.

Profs Collect
On Ten Bingles

Jimmy White spun a neat Mercer Bears last Tuesday in Macon for both teams' season final. The score was 8-0, as White registered his fifth win against three losses, while striking out eight and walking six.

White was in serious trouble at times however as the Bears loaded the bases twice, once with nobody out, but he worked out of it both times. He stranded 11 Mercer runners during the game.

Mercer started pitcher Furman was treated roughly, giving up four runs on five hits to the Profs in the first two frames. York was relieved in the third inning as he was moved to right field and first baseman Frank Worthy came on to go the rest of the way. Worthy allowed four unearned runs on five hits. Bear shortstop Mel Kinslow aided the Prof cause as he committed four errors.

This made the final GTC won-lost record 17-8, while Mercer's was 8-11.

Griffin, Esmonde, and Warren each had two hits in five attempts to pace the Prof attack.

Initiation Plans
Set By T-Club

How would you like to eat a raw egg or find your way back to GTC by moonlight? The "grapevine" has it that these are some of the obstacles facing new "T" Club members. Doug Corry, "T" Club president, announced that the initiation would be in the near future. No date or names of new members can be given because of the secrecy of the initiation. A beach party is scheduled for members of the "T" Club Saturday, May 18. They will meet at the new gym at 8:30.
