Professors Accept NCAA Tournament Birth Brown, Highsmith, Jackson Win SC Offices

Other Members To Be Elected

This week, students proved that they were interested in campus affairs as 537 flocked to the polls to vote in the Student Council election.

Ed Brown, a sophomore physical education major from Dexter, defeated Larry Hyde, a physical education major from Walhalla, South Carolina, by a very convincing margin of 144 votes. Brown had 339 votes to Hyde's 195.

Aubrey Highsmith, an industrial arts major from Nahant, received 238 votes; Billy Jackson, an elementary education major from Attalulga, had 164; both of these topped the other candidate for the vice presidency, Diana Bair, English major from Pelham, who had 135 votes. This put Highsmith and Jackson in a run-off Tuesday.

Highsmith gained the lead in the election Tuesday with 252 votes to Jackson's 205.

Joyce Jackson, an English major from Norcross, defeated Liz Morgan, a general science major from Lavonia, by a 278-260 county.

CLASS REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, following assembly, the class meetings of the three junior classes were held and nominations were made for members to represent the various classes on the Student Council for next year.

As set up in the constitution of the Student Council, each class nominated two boys and two girls for the positions. One boy and one girl will be chosen from each class to represent it.

The candidates are as follows: Junior class, Dahlia Evans and Vila Brown, Herbert Houston and Hugh Melcher; sophomore class, Mary Jo Hodges and Ane Jackson, John Sawyer and Jackie Clarke; and Freshmen class, Peggy Cowart and Mary Carol Bowers, James Johnston and Franklin Pierce.

This election will be held on Monday morning, May 27, following assembly, between the Administration Building and the dining hall.

EXAM SCHEDULE

The place of the examination is the regular meeting place of the class unless otherwise announced by the instructor.

Tuesday, May 28—2:30, all 2:30 classes; biology 104, all sections.

Wednesday, May 28—8:00, all 8:00 classes; 10:30, English 103, all sections; 1:30, all 9:00 classes; 3:30, are 100, all sections.

Thursday, May 30—8:00, all 10:30 classes; 10:30, all sections of History 103; 1:30, all 11:30 classes.

Friday, May 31—8:00, all 12:30 classes; 10:30, all 1:30 classes.

No changes in the schedule may be made without the approval of the Dean. Tuesday, May 28, classes will meet as usual until 1:30.

Miss Jane Grier Bell, one of the additions to the GTC staff, will serve as an assistant professor in the physical education department. Miss Bell, from Lexington, Kentucky, received her BS from the University of South Carolina in 1946. Immediately following her graduation, she taught in Sumpter High School from 1946-48 and in Virginia Intermont College in 1948-49.

In 1950, Miss Bell earned her MS at the University of Tennessee and began teaching again at Mary Washington College which is a part of the University of Virginia, in 1950-53, Florence State Teachers College in 1953-55. Immediately prior to coming to GTC, Miss Bell taught at the University of Kentucky during the years of 1955-57.

New Professor In PE Division

DR. AND MRS. RUSSELL TO GIVE TEA FOR SENIOR CLASS

A tea for the senior class, 1957, will be given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fielding Russell, 12 West Kennedy Street, Sunday afternoon, May 26, from 3:30 until 5 p. m. The members of the faculty and their wives or husbands are cordially invited to attend.

SECOND MISCELLANY OFFERED

The second issue of MISCELLANY, GTC's own literary magazine, was scheduled to go on sale today, provided all went well with the printing department.

This quarter's edition includes the same co-editors as last quarter's, that is, Jane Williams and Britt Fayssoux. Helping select the literary works were Sistie Poe, Anne Waters, and Molly Williams. This latest edition is made up entirely of GTC students' contributions of short stories, poetry, essays, and book reviews.

The magazine is slated to be offered to the students and public at 25 cents a copy. Miscellany made its first appearance last quarter, and was sold out by the end of the first few days.

Highlands Trip Interest Filled Last Weekend

Dr. J. A. Boole, associate professor of biology, and six members of his field botany class made a field trip to Highlands, N. C., the weekend of May 17-19. Friday night was spent in Athens, where a short field trip was made behind the home of Dr. Wilbur Duncan, professor of botany at the University of Georgia.

Saturday, 32 GTC and University of Georgia students with Dr. John Westfall, head of the botany department, Dr. Gayther Plummer, ecologist, both from the University of Georgia, and Dr. Boole, climbed the 4,717 foot Rabun Bald and collected specimens of plants. They were joined by a botany class from Piedmont College, Demorest, Georgia.

Sunday, the group climbed Satulah Mountain, 4,543 feet. Other points of interest seen by the group were Bridal Falls, Dry Falls, and Nantahala National Forest.

At 10 p. m. Sunday, Dr. Boole and his six students returned. Those in the group were Liz Morgan, Wilma Ricketson, Glenda Grayson, Wayne Edwards, and Earl Swicord.

Tootle Honored By Fraternity In Business Ed.

John Tootle, a business education major from Glennville, who graduated in 1956 from GTC and was president of the Student Council his senior year, has been awarded the UBEA award.

He received the United Business Education Association award as an outstanding graduate student in business education at ePabody College in Nashville, Tennessee. Upon graduating this year, he will teach next year at Junior college in San Diego.

John was in Who's Who at GTC and also, honored for leadership in school activities. He is now a member of Delta Pi Epsilon, the national honorary fraternity for business education graduates, and also Kappa Delta Pi.

Play Seminoles In Initial Contest

For the first time in the history of the school, the baseball professors have been invited to participate in a national tourney.

The National Collegiate Athletic Association playoffs for this district to be held in Gastonia, North Carolina on May 30, and 31, and June 1, has given the Profs a birth in the tourney.

Since belonging to the NCAA, this is the second year that school officials have expected a birth in these playoffs. Last year a birth was expected, but due to a mistake dealing with team records, the invitation never came through.

The Southeastern Conference had not planned to send a representative to these playoffs, and the tourney committee saw fit to invite the Profs to play in substitution of the SEC team.

The Professors coached by J. I. Clements go into this series of play-off games with a 17-18 record, and will meet Florida State University in the initial contest. In two meetings this season, the Seminoles of FSU defeated the Profs twice.

If the Profs get by the FSU team, they will be pitted against the winner of the George Washington and Duke game.

GTC students will receive their annuals sometime this summer or fall quarter, according to news released by Emory Cartrett, editor of the Reflector.

Speaking of the delay, he stated, "We regret this very much, however, due to circumstances beyond our control, the annual copy was not ready in time to make the deadline for June delivery."

The yearbooks will either be held over for students, or will be mailed to them this summer. They have already been paid for from the general matriculation fee charged each quarter.

DONALD O. McDOUGALD, comptroller of the college has just been elected to serve as president of the Statesboro and Bulloch County Junior Chamber of Commerce. Mr. McDougald has long been active in city civic groups, as well as school and church activities.

Education and Orientation

With the rapidly ending school year passing through the lives of GTC students, there is in the air a thought in the minds of each student as to what they will do next year. Many of these questions can be answered, some by graduates who will be getting out on their own in the teaching profession or other related fields of endeavor, some by student ideas to return for one more year at this school in an attempt to get a college education, some by those students who plan to transfer to another college, and some who plan to drop out of school.

In this, students have their work cut out for themselves. This time next year, again the majority of the student body will look back and wonder what ever happened to the year fleeting past. Possibly the majority of them will wonder if they accomplished anything. Actually, there is not the need for worry or wondering, for now is the time to decide what to do with a life, whether it be the life of a freshman, a sophomore, a junior, or a senior. If it be the life of one of the junior classes, there is a wonderful opportunity awaiting you on your return to campus next fall. This opportunity is in working with next year's freshman class. All students are qualified for this work, and there is a place in the program for each one.

As most of you know, the change from high school to college is a big one in the lives of a person, and much outside help is generally needed for these changes. This as mentioned here is a primary function of orientation week. It is a week set up for the specific purpose of helping freshmen in their pursuit of a college education.

If this year's student body, or the ones who plan to return want to enrich their lives, they might volunteer for duty either as a Big Sister, or a student advisor. In each of these capacities there lies a wonderful opportunity to help get someone started off right in their pursuit of a college education.

Cooperation vs. Corruption

The many things on campus that have been done this year have been successful because of a lot of hard work, and cooperation.

These two things have often figured prominently in a recipe of success in anything attempted. These two things can be said to be the backbone of a good man.

Here at GTC there is no difference, for in a college situation there is sometimes a little more hard work and cooperation called for than in most situations. This is because of so many people thinking in so many different ways. Where there are a lot of good ideas or a lot of mixed ideas, there must be those persons who are ready to bend over backward in order for peace to prevail. It has worked beautifully here on the college campus.

Why then, can't it work on the state and national levels? There are so many times when the newspapers of the country come out with stories of dissention and corruption, that are needless and devastating for our nation.

Yet these local hotshots can't realize why Communistic nations won't throw down their arms and make a lasting peace with the rest of the world, or why two countries will argue as to which one will control a body of water that has long served all nations as an outlet for commerce. The situation of Communism, and the dissention along the Suez are minor problems compared to many national problems in our own country.

With just a little hard work and cooperation, the people of America could do away with most of their own problems and through this help to dissolve the international crisis.

There is a lot to the old saying, "Sweep around your own back door first." Because if America will clean thoroughly the dissention and corruption of the local, state, and national levels, maybe somewhere in the world people will begin to look up to the United States a little more, thus enabling them to throw the yoke of oppression that they have for many years had to labor under in a world of Communism.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

by Dick Bibler

"—WELL, HOW'S IT HAPPEN WE FIND YOU TESTING UNDER-WATER EQUIPMENT ON TH' GIRLS' DAY FOR TH' POOL?"

Dear Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to express my sincere gratitude to the students of Georgia Teachers College who supported me in my campaign for president of the Student Council. Even though your support was in vain, I will never forget the tireless effort put forth by many of you.

To the 195 students who voted for me, I ask that you give Ed Brown your undivided support next year. Ed will need cooperation from the entire student body in order to give the students the representation they want. I will be glad to help in any way possible.

In closing, I would like to say "Congratulations" to next year's Student Council. I know that we, the students of Georgia Teachers College, can expect a job "well done."

—LARRY HYDE

Dear Editor:

As I entered GTC fall quarter of 1956, I found a new program getting underway—the new IM program.

This year has meant a great deal to me as I have worked with so many different students and faculty members on this program.

I would like to take this time to express my appreciation to Mr. Jess White, associate professor of physical education, and Ralph Ward, who have put forth a lot of effort, time, and patience to make this a successful year for intramurals at GTC. Also, I would like to say "thanks" to the faculty members, students, and anyone else who had a part in this program.

I am looking forward to an even better year in 1958.

I remain sincerely yours,

Dear Editor:

Now that the campaign is over and the election decided, I would like to thank all those who worked for me. To everyone who voted for me I give my thanks and my promise that I will do everything in my power to fulfill the trust which they have invested me.

The time has come to forget the hard feelings or grudges built up in campaigning. We can all be of greatest service to the school and ourselves by joining ranks and working at making 1957-58 a great year for the students at GTC.

ED BROWN, president-elect,
Student Council.

The Student's Council

The election is over and the officers for next year's Student Council have been selected. The emphasis is not on past loyalties but on future loyalties. Maybe the candidate you supported didn't win but that is no reason you shouldn't support those that the majority of the student body did elect.

The people that will hold these various offices next year are going to need the cooperation of every student on campus to do their best job. Some of you will be called on to sit on different committees and act in other capacities. If you refuse it will not hurt you but it certainly will hinder the progress of the council. Just as voters should support their national government so should GTC students support its duly elected council members.

Of course the council is not yet complete since class representatives are yet to be elected. The same considerations in voting for the leaders of the council should be used in electing the various class members. It is an honor to be on the Student Council to be sure but it calls for people who are willing to work for the benefit of the students. Before voting next Monday be sure to look over the candidates carefully and elect those people that can best carry out the duties required.

These elections are stirring up a lot of interest among students and I feel that the members elected are among the best, at least most of the students seem to think so. Right now the students have been made aware of the functions of the Student Council more vividly than all year. This is not something to be forgotten as soon as the elections are over. It should be kept in mind for if the voters are conscious of the council then the members will be equally conscious of the job they are trying to do for the students.

Not only do the students have a big job in supporting next year's council, the council has a bigger job in giving to the students the type of representation that they deserve. We have placed our trust in them and just as they look to us for support we look to them for action. This is not a one-way affair, it is an interaction among students and council and that is the way it must be if the council does the job it was elected to do.

Vocational Education

A few weeks ago at a state Future Teachers of America convention in Atlanta, the delegates were given a small booklet published by the National Commission on Teacher Education and Professional Standards entitled, "Invitation to Teaching." In this booklet there is outlined the profession that most of us here are planning on entering as we graduate with a B.S. degree in Education degree. I thought the booklet to be very good, and I would like to present some of the material to you in this article.

The brief introduction to the book said, "Let's face it! You will soon be confronted with the most momentous decision of your life—choosing a career. Consider this carefully—your choice may well determine how you will spend the next 35-40 years of your life. Have you considered the opportunities for building your career in education? There is a growing need for teachers, good teachers, in the nation's elementary schools, high schools and colleges. Opportunities now exist and will continue to exist at all levels. But the fact that there is a critical need for teachers is not sufficient reason for just any young person to select teaching as a career. The children the schools and the nation, deserve only those young people who have what it takes. The task is difficult."

This paragraph struck me with all the realism that it contains. I began to think more seriously about the situation myself, and asked myself if I were going into education not knowing just what was in store for me around the corner of life called my profession.

Before entering the teaching profession, ask yourself these things: Have I chosen my career well, what are the opportunities in teaching, could I get a job, what are the requirements of teaching, would I enjoy teaching, what does a teacher really do, what about salary, tenure, leaves, and retirement, what about college, and how can I start?

Only you can answer these questions, maybe you can get a little help by talking to dedicated or un-dedicated persons in the field, but the final analysis of your problem will be up to you and you only.

Of the questions asked above, if you are qualified probably the most important one is,

"Would I enjoy teaching." To answer this question, consider these things, do I like to work with people, do I like to be with and to help people, do I like to take responsibility, do I like to read and study(do I have patience and understanding of others, do I enjoy good physical and mental health, do I possess above average intelligence, do I believe teaching is really important, do I have a good sense of humor, and do I accept criticism and use it for personal improvement? To me, these are the ten most important questions that a person should ask himself before he launches upon a career of teaching.

There are many rewards of teaching, because teaching affords you friendly contacts with people doing important work, unlimited opportunity for advancement, interesting work and substantial rewards, a sense of service to your fellow man, and an opportunity to continue to learn.

If you are in education and know that that is not what you want, get out, for you will do more harm than good. Don't choose education because your parents wanted you too, or because you can't pass one of the other professional courses of study, choose it because it is really what you want to do.

Another very interesting part of this booklet was the last chapter that dealt with getting experience before you made your decision.

If you have tentatively decided about a teaching career is that a teaching career is what you want, there are many things that you can do now to lay the ground work for success.

You can become active in the Students National Education Association organization on campus, you can become active in other group work, learn to work with and for people, plan what subject field that you are most interested in, and consider these words of President Dwight D. Eisenhower, "Good teaching and good teachers made even the one-room crossroads schools of the nineteenth century a rich source of knowledge and enthusiasm and patriotism, joined with spiritual wisdom, that mark a vigorously dynamic people. Today, the professional quality of American Teaching is better than ever."

ROY F. POWELL

Powell Leaves For One Year

By BILLY JACKSON

There will be a few changes in the administrative staff and faculty here for next year, and there are some who will be leaving that will remain for a long time in our memory. Such a man is Roy Powell, director of public relations, assistant professor of English, and faculty advisor for school publications.

To many of us Mr. Powell is more than just a man, he is a goal for us to look toward, for it was through his guidance that the George-Anne came to you the students each Friday afternoon of this school year. Though he did very little of the actual work, he instilled within many of us the tools and principles of journalism with which we published the GEORGE-ANNE.

Mr. Powell, a native of Walhalla, South Carolina attended the Walhalla public schools through his high school years, then went to the school of journalism at the University of Georgia where he received his

In gaining the Miss 504th regiment title, she was in competition with hundreds of girls. This weekend she will compete with ten other girls for the 82nd Airborne Division title.

If Miss Tinker wins this title, she will receive a loving cup plus an all expense paid vacation to Cincinnati, Ohio where she will be the guest of the Division. She will attend the 82nd Airborne Division convention in June. This contest is a talent contest as well as a beauty contest, and for her bit, she will make several charcoal sketches.

Lt. Curtis R. Smith will be Miss Tinker's official escort for the weekend filled with activities including a review of paratroopers in action. Chaplain C. P. McNally is the official chaperone.

Campus Column

By JOYCE JACKSON

Election for Student Council officers is over, but much campaigning is still going on for the class representatives. I'd like to take this opportunity to thank you for electing me to be your secretary-treasurer. It is one of the greatest honors of my life and I will do my best to live up to the confidence you have placed in me. Don't forget to vote for your class representatives on Monday.

The girls in the dormitories enjoyed the serenading of the boys of Phi Mu Alpha last week. Things like this bring a closeness between students and make college more meaningful.

Speaking of music, the last "pop" concert was presented Tuesday at 6:15 p. m. with Cecile Woodard and Guy Thompson conducting.

I thought a new tribe of Indians had invaded our peaceful campus on Monday. They had lipstick all over them and they smelled so badly—like onions! After looking over this wild bunch, I discovered they were the new members of the "T" Club.

Tuesday night the movie "Singing in the Rain" was shown in the audio visual room. But Wednesday night the students enjoyed local talent when the one-act plays were presented. The actors and the student directors are to be commended for their work.

I think the whole student body went to the beach this weekend. The BSU, "T" Club, and FBIA went to Hilton Head; and the Art Club and Science Club went to Tybee. Everytime they turned around, they saw someone they knew.

Vila Brown has received a beautiful diamond from her Bobby from the University of Georgia.

As the quarter comes to a close, it's wonderful to look back over the year and the progress, fun, friends made, decisions made, and accomplishments, and to sort of look over the faults, failures, and shortcomings. I feel that with the things Dr. Henderson mentioned in chapel Monday to work toward, we can look forward to an even better year next year.

So with this column I say good-bye to this year, and good luck on those final tests!

'T' Club Beauties Shown Monday In Forced Debut

By DON CRUMP

Nine young men of GTC were aroused from their sleep at 6 o'clock Monday, May 20, to begin one of GTC's most colorful annual events—the "T" Club initiation.

These men were Tom Wommack, Ralph Turner, Bill Mallard, and Ray Mims from the baseball team, and Chester Curry, Jim Long, Walter Cook, Bob Belton, and Cary Moore from the basketball team.

Their day began by donning "the uniform of the day," which they were required to wear until 3:30 p. m. It was white tee shirt, P. E. trunks, tennis shoes without socks, and an onion on a string around the neck. Fingernail polish was placed on the face, legs, and nails.

They awoke the girls in Lewis and West Halls before breakfast. Their breakfast was shortened by their walking through the dining hall singing "I've Been Working On the Railroad." Various duets and solos followed, too. They were kept "on their toes" all day by "T" Club members.

That night all the men were carried off separately into the rural area around Statesboro. Each man was supposed to get back to GTC as best he could. All men were back on GTC campus by the following morning.

These nine men are now fullpledged members of the GTC "T" Club.

DR. HACKETT APPOINTED TO IA COMMITTEE

Dr. Donald F. Hackett, industrial arts professor, has been appointed to the industrial arts textbook committee to help make adoptions for the next five-year period.

Book publishers are now sending their texts to each member of the five-man committee for study and comparison prior to its meeting on June 10 to prepare a state adoption list.

SPORTS EDITOR

This is the first year GTC has sent an entry to the NCAA baseball tournament, and a lot hinges on the recoveries of Bo Warren and Preston Sizemore. If his leg enables him, Sizemore will play first base. If not Briggs Tyler will handle the initial sack.

Bo Warren told some of the ball players kidding him about his not being able to play in the tourney because of his sprained foot and ankle, that he'd look like Bold Rules by tournament time. Bo also told the doctor, when Doc said he wasn't going to let him play, that he was going to play, too. He wants to go so bad he's doing anything he can think of for the foot from whirl pool treatment twice daily and rubbing it with Absorbine Junior to a clay and vinegar cast for it at night. This latter treatment was performed by medicine men Doug Corry and Charlie Iddins.

All of the boys on the team are itching to go to Gastonia. There was talk of the trip conflicting with the senior players' graduation exercises, but it would be worth it for them to miss graduation if they could go all the way in the tournament. It would mean a great deal to the college.

Preston Sizemore and Skeeter Griffin tell me that everybody on the team has shown vast improvement recently in their hitting and batting practice.

They're saying not to count them out against FSU because they earnestly feel they've got just as good a chance as the Seminoles have. After all FSU is losing three or four of their best players who are eligible. Then too, when they beat us back there 13-2 and 8-3, they were at their hottest and just happened to catch the Profs at their lowest. So it may be a different story this time.

The Profs' baseball record for 1957 is 17-8-1 as compared to the 1956 slate of 18-8. Stronger competition this year more than accounts for this slight difference.

The 1957 GTC basketball record was 19-6 and last year's was 21-7. In 1956 the Prof basketballers were the NAIA district winners and made the first round of the national tournament. This year they were the NAIA district runner-up.

HOWARD (BO) WARREN
Georgia Teachers

"BO" WARREN, Professor centerfielder was injured in the last baseball game of the regular season against Mercer University. Warren injured his ankle as he slid into home while scoring a run. There is doubt that his ankle will have healed enough for the NCAA playoffs, but it possibly will be because officials are working on it steadily.

Alewine Chosen For First Game As Professors Meet Seminoles

ROY ALEWINE, Professor hurler who posted a six wins and one loss record during the regular season is figured to start the first game in the NCAA playoffs against Florida State University. Alewine, a junior business education major from Augusta and Richmond County has been a mainstay on the Professor mound since coming here as a freshman.

White or Hall Assigned Duty In Second Game

The GTC coaching staff received the invitation and immediately accepted last Tuesday morning for GTC to play in the NCAA District 3 baseball tournament at Gastonia, N. C. GTC was picked to go in the place of the entry for the SEC which failed to send a representative. Four teams, Duke University, George Washington University, Florida State University, and Georgia Teachers College will compete in the tourney.

Coach Clements will leave Statesboro with a 15 man crew on Thursday, May 30, for the double elimination tournament set to open on Friday, May 31. The Profs on that date take on FSU, the Southern at-large representative, at 12:00 noon. FSU is the only team to hold two consecutive victories over the Profs during the 1957 season, 13-2 and 8-3. However, the Seminoles have lost a few players who are ineligible for NCAA play because of rules which state that no team can use freshmen and that no team whose school has a male enrollment of 750 and above can use seniors who player in their freshman year.

GTC will lose regular first baseman Ralph Turner, pitchers Ray Mims and Bill Criscillis, and catcher-third baseman Bill Mallard, all of whom are fresh-grass, which should make playing more interesting. The distance between the greens is as of now undetermined, but there is sufficient ground for at least two to three hundred yards.

The addition of this facility, besides helping to beautify our campus, will undoubtedly influence more golfing enthusiasts to enroll at GTC.

men. The Profs fourth-year men are eligible since GTC has a male enrollment of less than 750.

That same Friday, Duke, the Atlantic Coast Conference Champion, meets George Washington, Southern Conference champion, at 3:00 p. m. The losers of this game play the losers of the GTC-FSU game at 6:30 p. m., the loser of which will be eliminated. The winners of the first two games play at 9:00 p. m. on the same date, the winner of which will move into the finals.

The won-lost record of the entries are as follows: George Washington, 19-2; FSU, 19-6; GTC, 17-8-1.

GTC's traveling squad will include Morrell, Griffin, Warren, Sizemore, White, Esmonde, Alewine, Wommack, Wallen, Berryhill, Hall, Lowe, Tyler Sawyer, and Rahn. Coach Clements is counting on Bo Warren's foot being healed for outfield duty. He plans to use either Preston Sizemore or Briggs Tyler on first base. Other than this he will have his same lineup.

Roy Alewine (7-1) will start the first game and either Jimmy White (5-3) or Vondall Hall (4-2) will go in the second game.

Get Your Putters Ready Men We May Have a Golf Course

By DON AVERY

"I got a birdie today; how was your putting?" These, along with many other similar phrases, may become an active segment of your vocabulary by this time next year as a GTC student.

After a recent conference with President Zach S. Henderson, I feel safe in saying, "bring your golf clubs back this September."

Asix-hole golf course is to be included in the GTC facilities. The course will be played off behind the new physical education plant. Work will be commenced on the greens and tees just as quickly as the area designated has had sufficient time to drain.

The inauguration of this project is without a doubt one of the finer things to have happened to our school. This course will bring many new students of golf to this lings, while more experienced players can better their scores.

This may be "jumping the gun" somewhat, but I feel that this program of advancement in our recreation department may result in a golf team for GTC in the future.

The tees and greens will be of

IM Honors Day is Monday

Because of a mix-up in the assembly schedule, the announced Intramural Honors Day will be held Monday. At this assembly session, awards for team and individual competitors will be made with a special award going to the Toppers and the Cardinals who took the All-Intramural championships.

Members of the Toppers and Cardinals units will receive a certificate of merit as a symbol of competitive spirit and sportsmanship.

Mr. Jess White, associate professor of physical education and coordinator of school recreation, will make the awards to the recipients. Awards for individual efforts will go to Louise Westbrook of the Toppers, who won first place honors in tennis, badminton, table tennis, and paddle tennis; to Roberts Adams, for his first place victory in the fall cross-country event; to Louis Green for golf; to Franklin Smith for handball; and to John Barker for table tennis.

Cartrett Heads Reflector; Aids GTC in Many Ways

By JO ANN PARKER

"Rings and jewels are not gifts, but apologies for gifts. The only gift is a portion of thyself..." — Ralph Waldo Emerson.

The above quotation is one that Emory Cartrett seems to have adopted as a criteria for his two years here. It reflects a readiness to help and a degree of dependability that have helped make many projects on campus a success. It incorporates his practice of giving himself to GTC.

Besides his extensive work as editor of the Reflector, Cartrett is a member of Masquers, the Philharmonic Choir, the German Club, the Foreign Language Club, the International Relations Club, and a charter member of the Protestant Ministerial Association.

In addition to this, since June of last year, he has been an approved supply pastor of Eason Chapel in the South Georgia Methodist Conference. He is the only pastor of the church, but is called an approved supply pastor because he cannot be ordained until completion of his theological studies at a seminary.

Cartrett is approaching gradu-

One-Act Plays Score Hit; Masquers Stars Direct

By JO ANN PARKER

Two one-act plays were the center of attraction in McCroan Auditorium Thursday night, as students from the play directing class presented "Where the Cross is Made," and "The Dark Lady of Sonnets."

Molly Williams directed George Bernard Shaw's satire, "The Dark Lady of the Sonnets," while Bill Sanders handled the directing end of Eugene O'Neill's psychological drama, "Where the Cross is Made." Both drama students have had much acting and backstage experience in plays, and this knowledge combined with well chosen casts to make both productions a success.

In "Where the Cross is Made," Harris West did a masterful job as the captain's son, who gradually follows his father's dreams into insanity. Jeane Fulford most effectively handled the emotional role of the only sane member of the family. Peter O'Millian was brilliant as the mad sea captain, in a rough wild manner that took command of the play. Charles McLendon, as the doctor, played his role well, making the character transitions to fit each different member of the family in their situations.

Even the three ghosts deserve praise. Edward Ward, Manion Porter, and Richard Flornoy "drifted" in a manner equal to any horror production. The backstage crew gets credit too, especially for make-up and lighting.

All four characters of "The Dark Lady of the Sonnets" were excellent in their roles. Curtis Walker, as Shakespeare, showed a good insight into the meaning of his lines, while Ann Waters made a most elegant and rather aloof Queen Elizabeth. Mimi Saba, in the part of a jealous lover, added considerable interest to the story, and Emory Giles did a good job of entertaining as the befeater.

The whole cast worked well together and supported each other. Especially effective here was a statue of Cupid, in a fountain pouring water. This was made by the talented director.

Both Molly Williams and Bill Sanders showed their understanding of the theatre and of people in these productions, and are to be commended for their fine work.

Rev. Hawkes has much religious experience behind him, the outstanding of which is: vice president of the South Carolina Baptist Historical Society in 1951, and as a member of the Southern Baptist Convention, has served on various committees through the years.

As a preacher, he speaks at many baptist meetings throughout the South, such as, BSU Retreats, Camp Pinnacle, and Ridgecrest. He also made talks at the University of Georgia, GSCW, The Citadel, Clemson College, and South Georgia College.

Reflector Editor Election Held

Immediately following assembly Monday morning, there will be a brief meeting of the Junior class to select the Reflector editor for next year.

Herbert Houston, class president says that all Juniors should be thinking about possible nominees with qualifications of making a good editor for the Reflector.

The nominations made Monday should involve a background in School annual work, and journalism. He should have some idea of the work involved, and the necessary know-how for selecting those persons for his staff who will be conscientious workers.

This job is a big one, and all juniors are urged to consider the nominations and their qualifications carefully and then in the meeting Monday morning a qualified person might be chosen.
