Swedish Student Says Fried Chicken is Great

By BRITT FAYSSOUX

A small bevy of Statesboro Rotarians, a couple of gentlemen of the press, a housemother and a future roommate stood in front of Statesboro's rustic bus station a couple of weeks back expectantly awaiting the next incoming bus. The reason for this small, but enthusiastic crowd was Miss Kerstin Monica Pihl, an expected passenger on said bus. The bus was on time, and a vivacious, suntanned young Swedish lass sporting an umbrella in one hand and a blue traveling bag bearing the title "Scandinavian Air Lines" in the other, gracefully stepped off.

Miss Pihl (pronounced Peel) was in town to enroll at GTC as an exchange student.

Later in an interview with Miss Pihl, arranged for the press by her housemother, Mrs. Jeanette McCorkle, some interesting sidelights on what a young Swedish lass thinks of the United States were obtained.

Speaks Excellent English
Her reaction to the first question asked was a spontaneous, "Everything is quite new and just wonderful." Miss Pihl speaks excellent English with only the slightest trace of an accent.

She attended Stockholm University in her home town of Stockholm for one year. But university life there is not the same as in the United States.

Students live off campus and don't have the chance to associate with each other.

Miss Pihl seemed genuinely awed by the lavish attention she has received since arriving in this country. Said she, "At home I was just like every other girl, but here I'm a celebrity; it's very embarrassing."

Likes Fried Chicken
Asked if she had eaten any southern fried chicken yet, she chirped "Yes, and it was delicious."

A four day stay in New York impressed Miss Pihl and she thought Washington, D. C. was a beautiful city.

One of the first things she noticed on entering Georgia was the moss on the trees. This was the first time she had ever seen moss on trees.

Miss Pihl appears to be a fresh, unpretentious, intelligent young lady. Thus far she likes Georgia very much and thinks Georgians are very friendly.

Asked were there any more comments she cared to make, Miss Pihl thought a minute, then brightened and added, "Oh yes, I'm just dying to wear those socks (bobbie socks) and saddle oxfords. We don't have them in Sweden."

And so it goes, women are women the world over.

Pi Omega Pi's Requirements Are Considered

After three years of trying to meet the standards and requirements, the Pi Omega Pi, the National Business Education fraternity, has been notified by the national organization that the request for a charter on the GTC campus is in the process of being approved by the National Council. It is hoped that a chapter will be installed in the near future.

This organization is for junior and senior business majors who have a B-plus average in both business and education courses. At present, there are twelve members, but the records of students who have transferred are to be examined for membership possibilities.

Mr. Homick, sponsor of Pi Omega Pi and the head of the business department, was in Savannah Thursday, October 4, to help organize a F.B.L.A. chapter at Savannah High School.

Miscellany

Miscellany, GTC's literary quarterly, is again being edited by Britt Fayssoux, and is expected to be bigger and better this quarter. Composed of short stories, poems, essays, and other literary tidbits, this quarter's number will mark the third issue of the magazine.

Students who are inclined toward literary genius are invited to present material to the editorial board for approval this month.

Enrollment Record

Registration for This Quarter Reaches 912

Nine hundred and twelve students have registered at GTC as of Thursday, October 3, making an all-time high of fall quarter enrollment here. This figure represents an increase of 47 students over last fall quarter's enrollment of 865, which was a record itself.

The fall quarter enrollment at GTC has increased by 50 per cent since World War II first with a greater number of girls, and then vice versa.

The enrollment since 1946 is as follows:

1946, 606; 1947, 635; 1948, 724; 1949, 766; 1950, 756; 1951, 613; 1952, 649; 1953, 628; 1954, 583; 1955, 744; 1956, 865; 1957, 912.

This year's total number includes more than 260 freshmen. Boys outnumber the girls again this year by 459 to 453. Last year there were at least 20 more boys than girls throughout the term, as well as the 1955-56 term.

Total enrollment still is not available and will not be until registration ends on October 7.

Freshmen and seniors registered on Wednesday, September 25, and registration for sophomores and juniors on Thursday. Classes began at 8 a. m. Friday.

President Zach S. Henderson and other administrative officials helped freshmen begin their testing and orientation on Sunday, September 22, before classes started on Friday.

Faculty advisors for 12 areas of academic interest have been announced. These include: Art, Mrs. Frieda Gernant; business, Mr. Stephen B. Homick; elementary education, Miss Bertha Freeman; English, Dr. Fielding Russell; physical education, Mr. J. B. Searce; home economics, Miss Caroline Wingo; industrial arts, Dr. Donald Hackett.

Also, mathematics, Mr. William B. Moye; music, Dr. Ronald J. Neil; science, Mr. William S. Hanner; social science, Dr. Jack N. Averitt; and undecided majors, Dr. J. D. Park.

Henry's Opens; Latest Campus Styles Featured

Henry's, for many years one of Statesboro's leading ready-to-wear stores, announces the opening of its remodeled store to GTC students. Henry's is known to GTC students as the store that gives Esquire magazine to the school dormitories and the school library.

Henry Moses, owner and operator of Henry's, states that he has a complete new line of the latest in campus wear for both college men and women. For the women he emphasizes his new line of shoes, sweaters, skirts, and dresses. For the men it's new Jantzen and Robert Bruce sweaters, ivy league pants, and a smart, new line of sport shirts.

Mr. Moses related that he would like to issue a special invitation to the new out-of-town freshmen who are not familiar with his store.

Freshmen Take Expression Test

On Thursday, September 26, the freshman class stood the required mechanics of expression test.

Out of the entire class, forty students made a sufficiently high score to take the complete battery of the English test on the following Saturday.

Dean of Students, Ralph K. Tyson, announced that the following students made a score sufficient to be exempted from English 102 if they wish to do so: Mary Anne Hodges, Harriette Virginia Kirkland, Caroline Moore, Iva Ann Bigrant, Dianne Pulliam, Hugh Luwain Studdard, Stacy Wells, and Lauri Dean Willis.

Movie Schedule

Mr. McDougald released the fall movie schedule this week. Listed below are the coming movies and short subjects. The short subjects were released by the Ford Motor Company.

Burning Hills, Southern High, October 4, 1957; Moby Dick, Thundermakers, October 11, 1957; Seven Men From Now, Pride of Work, October 18, 1957; Santiago, How to Make TV Comm., October 25, 1957; King and I, Skifully Yours, November 1, 1957.

Man Who Never Was, On Impact, November 8, 1957; On the Threshold of Space, Technique for Tom, November 15, 1957; The Proud Ones, Continental, November 22,

Masquers Hold Program For New Members

Masquers welcomed new and old members at a meeting back stage in McCroan Auditorium on September 30.

Molly Williams as Lady Macbeth and Ric Mandes as Macbeth presented two scenes from Masquers' 1957 winter quarter production "Macbeth."

During the meeting, new members introduced themselves to the club and the old members described some of their experiences in working with Masquers.

Miss Few, faculty advisor for Masquers, presented Mr. Clyde Faries who outlined his plans for organizing debate teams at GTC in the spring.

Jaycees Elect McDougald President For This Year

Donald McDougald, GTC comptroller, was recently elected president of the Statesboro Junior Chamber of Commerce. He succeeds Lowell Akins.

Mr. McDougald joined the local club in 1950. Since that time he has served on the board of directors twice, been internal vice president of the Statesboro club and secretary of the Georgia Jaycees.

Asked what the Jaycees had

DONALD McDOUGALD

planned in connection with the college, Mr. McDougald stated the following plans, "We are continuing the H. H. Macon scholarship which pays tuition and all fees. This year's recipient was Shirley Jenkins. The club is again cooperating with the GTC athletic association in support of its operation of college athletics. There is also the possibility that we will help in promoting the sale of basketball season tickets."

Mr. McDougald also said, "The

Reflector Editor States Success In Publication

"The annual staff is striving to create the biggest and best Reflector that Georgia Teachers College has ever had. It is to be symbolic of student life, originated by student life and produced for student life." Thus Larry Hyde, editor in chief of the Reflector, expressed his concept concerning the publication.

Larry's staff consists of Bob Pollak, managing editor; Martha Tinker, art editor, and Billy Jackson, business manager. Two vacancies are yet to be filled by a lay-out editor and a sports editor.

Four hundred seventy-eight students, 53 per cent of the student body, have registered to have their pictures taken for the annual. These figures top the previous year's record by 40 per cent.

Although a definite deadline has not been set, the student body is assured of a prompt publication. Because of the cooperative response of the student body, the annual is reported to be ahead of last year's schedule.

Plans pertaining to policy changes of the Reflector will be announced in the future.

Jaycees have always been receptive to projects for the betterment of the community."

Other faculty members who are members of the club are Joe Axelson, public relations director, and Ed Abercrombie, manager of the film library.

Dr. Tyson Named Dean

President Announces New Faculty Members

Dr. Zach S. Henderson, president of the college, has announced the appointment of eleven new members of the faculty and staff, effective for the school year 1957-58.

Dr. Ralph K. Tyson has been named Dean of Students and Dean of Men. He will also direct the newly established office of Student Personnel Services. Dr. Tyson last taught at the University of Georgia, where he earned his M. Ed. and Ed. D. degrees.

Joining the physical education division are Miss Jane Greer Bell and Miss Pat Shely. Miss Bell received her M. S. degree from the University of Tennessee and last taught at the University of Kentucky. Miss Shely comes to GTC from Morehead State (Ky.) College and earned a Master of Arts degree at Columbia University.

Burton J. Bogitsh will teach in the science division. He has been completing work toward a Ph. D. at the University, following graduate study at Baylor University. Fred Wallace returns to the science division following a year of graduate study at the University of Florida.

Clyde J. Faries comes to GTC from Lincoln (Ill.) College, and is an addition to the speech division. Mr. Faries holds the M. A. degree from the University of Michigan.

J. Boyer Bell will teach History and will temporarily replace Dr. Thomas A. Alexander. Dr. Alexander is a visiting professor of history at the University of Alabama for the coming school year. Mr. Bell attended Washington and Lee and was awarded a Master of Arts degree from Duke University.

Miss Helen Taylor replaces Miss Jane Martin in the business education division. Miss Taylor comes to GTC from Steed (Tenn.) Junior College, and received an M.A. from East Tenn. State College.

Miss Betty Lane has transferred to the GTC home economics division from the Marvin Pittman School. She will teach home economics and will also have supervisory responsibility for the home economic student teachers on campus. Joe Axelson has replaced Roy Powell as director of public relations. Mr. Powell is on leave of absence for graduate study at the University of Missouri and upon his return will teach English. Mr. Axelson has been sports publicity director at Furman University.

Two secretaries have been named to the staff of the Comptroller's office. They are Miss Jewel Newsome and Miss Eva Simmons.

Also on leave of absence for the coming year will be Shelby Monroe, associate professor of education. Mr. Monroe will do graduate work toward a Ph. D. at Florida State University.

The Responsibility is Yours

"The nation that has the schools has the future."

—Bismarck

"Education—a debt due from present to future generations."

—George Peabody

These are words of wisdom from men that were wise. Our nation needs more schools and better schools, more teachers and better teachers. The key to good schools is good teachers. Georgia Teachers College is making an all-out effort to supply its share of the teachers. But the major share of the responsibility rests not on the administration and faculty, but on the student. The opportunities are here. It is up to the student to take advantage of these opportunities.

Asian Flu Shots??

The dreaded Asian flu is running rampant throughout the world and U. S. Authorities tell us that an epidemic is highly probable in the U. S. this winter.

Asian flu is extremely contagious and places where large groups of people congregate, such as classrooms, are the breeding ground for this type disease.

Last school year the health education class of the GTC physical education department made a notable contribution to the welfare of the campus by making it possible for students to receive polio shots at a minimum cost.

The campaign involved a lot of hard work on the part of the health education class, but it was definitely worthwhile.

Serum for Asian flu is now available in limited quantities. If it is possible to secure the required amount of serum then a program such as the one last year for polio might prove invaluable in keeping the dread disease away from the GTC campus.

A class or campus organization with the time and personnel to conduct such a campaign would make an invaluable contribution to the health and welfare of the school and perhaps help prevent untold misery here on campus.

Cooperation Will Be Key

Crowded conditions on campus this year make it imperative that students cooperate with each other and the administration to alleviate the situation. The lunch lines will be longer, the dormitories more crowded and the little store and post office more congested (if that is possible). All of these conditions will call for courtesy and self-discipline on the part of the students, if we are to live in harmony.

Pushing and crowding in the lunch line has always been a problem. And it will be again this year unless students show the proper amount of courtesy.

Speeding on campus cannot be tolerated. The increased number of cars and students make speeding doubly dangerous.

The best way for students to achieve the cooperation necessary to make this a successful year at GTC is for the upper classmen to set a shining example for the freshmen.

Statement of Policy

This is the George-Anne editorial column and it reflects the combined editorial opinions of the staff members—thus the editorial policies of the newspaper.

By-lined guest columns will appear elsewhere on this page as well as signed staff-written columns. These will deal with topics selected by the individual writers, reflecting their opinions, not necessarily those of The George-Anne. We believe that it is a healthy situation when problems of general interest are aired in open discussion. And we hope that our policy of inviting guest columnists and welcoming letters to the editor—regardless of the subject—will result in a better general understanding and overall view of the problems.

A VOILENT DAY AT LITTLE ROCK

"Where the President's action will lead, we do not know. But we do not think it an action to quiet passion; it certainly runs the risk of increasing the desperate feeling of people who see themselves coerced by great power from afar."

—WALL STREET JOURNAL

President Eisenhower issued his order for troops to move into Little Rock and Robert Barnwell Rhett turned over in his grave. After preaching patience and middle of the roadism, the President lost his patience and sent Army troops scurrying down the middle of the road to lay siege to Little Rock. Mr. Eisenhower said, "I abhor violence." Troops in Little Rock used the bayonet and rifle butt on civilians. High school girls were marched into school at the point of fixed bayonets. Civilians were rounded up at will and searched without warrant, and in some cases jailed without charge.

Mr. Eisenhower said, "I abhor violence," but it was a violent day at Little Rock.

NOTES ON TURBULENT TOM

Over five hundred admirers have visited the Thomas Wolfe memorial in Ashville, North Carolina this summer. The site of the memorial is Wolfe's mother's old boarding house which sits two blocks off the square in Ashville. To the casual observer the "Old Kentucky Home" is nothing more than an old, ramshackled, two story white frame house. But for the "dyed in the wool" Wolfe fan this house is rich with memories. For this is the fictitious "Dixieland" of "Look Homeward Angel." Pictures of Wolfe at various stages in his life adorn the walls. Descriptive passages from "Angel" are tacked at each door. Here we see the parlor where Mabel banged out tunes on an old cheap piano, the large, spacious kitchen that Wolfe loved so well, and the room where Ben, Wolfe's favorite brother died.

Later, sitting in the parlor of a cultured Ashville lady who knew both Wolfe and his family well, we hear some interesting conversation about this turbulent North Carolina writer. The lady tells us he was frustrated, hard to get along with and extremely egocentric, and she is still slightly miffed because of his expose' of Ashville Citizenry in "Look Homeward Angel."

What the lady said was true. These characteristics are all evi-

Hyde AND Seek

By LARRY HYDE

With the exception of a few old faces, the place seems to be the same. Everyone has that vivid enthusiasm that comes with the beginning of a new school year. Some of us will be starting down the "home stretch" toward our degree while some of you will be beginning that long, hard trek for the first time.

There are many new faces around campus, and I might add, some very pretty ones. Georgia Teachers College has a reputation for attracting pretty girls but this year's crop is above average. Pretty girls is one thing that a college cannot have too many of.

There is one smiling face that is missing this year and I'll bet more than one has missed her.

Sistie Poe is at the University of Georgia this year continuing her education. A smile and kind word for everyone was Sistie's trademark on this campus. This summer, Sistie worked with the young people's choir at the Fitzgerald Methodist Church and did an excellent job.

I can't think of anyone who deserves happiness and success more than Sistie... Hope you get it!

The students whom you see hobbling around like old men, are members of physical education 422 which is a football class.

In order to play football, your body must be conditioned therefore exercises are a must. Those experiences aren't too bad except when you have been away from active participation in athletics like so many of the "old men" in our class.

Under the able supervision of Coach J. I. Clements, the class will hold a full scale game type scrimmage at the end of eight weeks.

If you like football with a flavor of young and old mixing it up, come on down behind the health and physical education building... no admission.

One of my professors made an interesting statement this past week in class. He remarked that if you drew straight lines in front of a chicken, the chicken would become hypnotized. I had never heard of a thing like this so immediately after class, I rushed over to Cone Hall, picked up Mose Bass, and went out to his house. When the sun went down, we were still drawing straight lines in front of a chicken but that chicken was wide awake. I am going to check with that professor and see if we had the right kind of chicken!

WWNS announcer, Chuck McPherson, passes this little bit on and I thought it might be appropriate for some:

My friends and your friends
Ask me why I'm blue.
I can only say we're through.
But though we're through
I can say
I tried... SELAH.

Rat Squeaks

By IRMA ROACH

September 22, 1957, was a great day in the lives of the freshmen of GTC. On that memorable day, our parents fondly bundled us up bag, baggage, foot locker, trunk, hat box, laundry bag, cardboard box, petticoats and pants stretchers and made the pilgrimage here—and dumped us. With reluctant goodbyes they jumped into their respective cars and beat it hot-foot home before we could change our minds and return with them.

So here we were with a bunch of guys and gals we didn't dent in his writing; nevertheless Tom Wolfe is still ranked number one in American literature in our book.

PROS AND CONS ON EDUCATION

There is a provocative article in the September 21 edition of the Saturday Evening Post entitled "Are The Public Schools Doing Their Job?" The pros and cons of our present day public schools are discussed. John Keats, a free-lance writer of some note, blasts today's public schools in a scathing indictment which states that "public schools stunt young minds by feeding them insipid lessons in social conformity and 'living skills'—instead of furnishing intellectual challenges to develop mature citizens."

The other side of the picture is presented by Herbert L. Brown Jr., managing editor of an outstanding United States magazine and a former Rhodes scholar. Mr. Brown presents an eloquent defense for today's public schools. He declares "That the American public school system is demonstrating a notable superiority over private schools in equipping youngsters to meet the demands of the complex age in which we live."

Both arguments are well presented and should be read by prospective teachers.

know from Adam's house cat, and we were supposed to live with them! So we began to make ourselves known to our room-mates and neighbors, discovering, in the process, that they must be much nicer than an old house cat, and we began to feel better.

Then we all unpacked the useful things we had brought along with us: teddy bears, pictures, clothes pins, fans, school banners, old annuals, comic books, sand buckets for storing toothpaste, and all the necessary items we had brought. Many of us found that we had left little trifling items—such as clothes, shoes, raincoats, pillows, bed linens—just trifles.

Then we ate a picnic supper on the grounds, and after hearing talk—frightening mysterious talk—about rat caps and Rat Day and professors and college life in general, we were about ready to pack and leave. But we didn't; we picked off the grass from our clothes, murdered the ants that had invaded us, and trucked it up to our little rooms, to turn in and try sleeping in our various new beds. Many of us were air sick from our double-decker beds we had tied ourselves into so we wouldn't fall out of.

For the next week we swept through a wonderful, intoxicating, mad whirl of activities: dances, receptions, TESTS, registration, meetings, movies, and everything else that the students here did to make us feel that we "belonged."

Then came Friday and with bloodshot eyes we swam through the mucky mud and puddle puddles to our strenuous classes. In came the professors, with blood-shot eyes and a strained, sprained, drained, unbrained, and maimed look about the mugs.

Now, though, we are really getting into the swing of things around here, and we want you all to know that we are real glad we chose Georgia Teachers College. It's a great place to be!

A Tear Fell

Big Sisters Come to Aid of Troubled Freshmen

By YVONNE DURHAM

Of course the freshmen already know that there is no difference between seniors and freshmen, that a lady and gentleman never receive a grade higher than a "C", that gaining social graces at The Blue Tide is more important than a vast amount of knowledge, that college life is exactly like its depicted in the movies, and that the college years are the best years of their lives, still "A tear falls."

Then just as the tears begin their steady flow and as the poor "rat" feels that she's the only little "rat" in this entire sea of strange events, a fairy godmother appears! Out of nowhere she descends upon the neglected and frightened newcomer bringing introductions, friendly chats, college do's and don'ts, and just plain home!

She brings a boy friend for the broken heart, a book for the sacred student, a bandaid for the wound received while rearranging furniture, and an aspirin for any type of homesickness any freshman could ever have.

Yes, a freshman's fairy godmother is surely her "big sister." A "big sister" of her very own, because wherever there is a little sister there is a "big sister." In fact this strange new world to which these "rats" are affiliating themselves has an exclusive "Big Sister" club. The upperclassmen who make up this club devote their time, their knowledge, and their very lives to the curing of freshmen ailments.

Of course a tear fell! A tear always falls in September. In fact many tears fall. Each one representing some little thing dear to the heart which had been in the world now left behind. But for every tear that falls a "big sister" has a joke, a laugh,

Students Assist In Dormitories

House directors are helped by assistant house directors and proctors in keeping the dormitories in order.

Assisting Mrs. J. B. Johnson in the freshman dormitory is Christine Williams, sophomore. In West Hall Sharon Ward, sophomore, assists Mrs. Archie Jackson. Ellen Sumner, junior, assists Mrs. Jeanette McCorkle in Lewis Hall.

The men's house directors, Mrs. Cleo Franklin and Mrs. Thelma Hartley, are assisted by proctors. In Sanford Hall they are Richard Smith, sophomore; Jerry Brown, sophomore; Bobby Teasely, junior, San Rogers, senior, and Emory Giles, sophomore. Assisting in Cone Hall and Solon Wisham and Fred Chance, seniors.

The duties of these assistants are locking doors, assisting the students with information, and assisting the house directors in keeping general order.

and even a "little sister" party. To the Big Sister Club every freshman can say thanks for welcoming another "rat"!

The Freshmans Creed

Years of research by Georgia Teachers' psych department has shown that every campus group is plagued with its own superstitions and popular beliefs. The freshman class—an unusual bit of collegiate life—is no exception. It has been indisputably proven that every freshman at Georgia Teachers is firmly convinced:

That college life is not as simple as explained in the student handbook.

That there is basically very little difference between a freshman and a senior.

That basketball really matters.

That anybody can make the Dean's List if he studies at all.

That GTC's basketball team could beat Georgia any time.

That Georgia grade and high school teachers are paid with eggs, potatoes, and grits instead of money.

That the Statesboro police harbor a deep hatred for all GTC students.

That any student who flunks out at GTC can get in Brewton Parker.

That if you don't pay your bills within 10 days our connection with the college will be severed.

That there are at least three student suicides each year which are suppressed by the college authorities.

That the opposite sex is keen.

That upstairs southeast in the Ad Building is the southeastern headquarters for the Communist Party.

That GTC's basketball team could beat Tech any time.

That veterans on campus are made of money.

That the GTC library is located somewhere back of the lab school.

That the Who's Who list is chosen by Mose Bass.

That the juniors talk only to seniors, and the seniors talk only to God.

That Tennessee Ernie is smarter than any three college presidents.

That one could starve to death waiting for service at the grill.

That the Ga. Theatre's movies are shot on location at Dover.

That everybody except me is on scholarship.

That most college men are "smooth."

That GTC coeds are basically women.

That all the English profs are frustrated novelists.

That all beauty contests are either fixed or crooked.

That the chemistry curve is slightly warped.

That THE GEORGE-ANNE editorials dictate the policy of the university.

That GTC's basketball team could probably beat Kentucky.

That all PE majors are on a double scholarship.

That although an occasional student flunks out of school, life must go on.

That the Masquers split up the play profits and hold mad parties.

That gaining social poise is far more important than storing away vast reservoirs of knowledge.

Buckner Replaces Broucek

Music Potpourrie

GTC welcomes Mr. Robert Buckner who is replacing Mr. Jack Broucek for this year. Mr. Broucek is working on his doctorate at FSU in Tallahassee. Mr. Buckner, whose home is in Shreveport, La., received his bachelor of music degree from Loyola University in New Orleans. His masters and one year of graduate work were accomplished at Oberlin Conservatory in Ohio. Mr. Buckner has studied at the University of North Carolina and the University of Nebraska. Last year he taught piano at Luther's College in Nebraska and has also been a choir director, organist, and a music director on a radio program.

Dana M. King, GTC's band director announces that although there is a limited number of openings in the band anyone interested should contact him. Rehearsals began Wednesday, October 2.

***
According to Dr. Ronald J. Neil, Philharmonic Choir rehearsal hours have been changed to Tuesday, 3:30 p. m. and Thursday, 6:30 p. m. Announcements concerning new members will be posted on the bulletin board.

Dr. Henderson GTC Students Welcomes New

October 1, 1957

To the Students of Georgia Teachers College:

For one who remains on the campus year round the opening of the fall quarter after four of five weeks of relatively quiet living is one of the most welcomed experiences of the year. It is thrilling to see the campus come alive within a period of two or three hours. Sunday morning on the day that freshmen come is usually quiet, but by 3 o'clock in the afternoon the freshmen halls resemble beehives. On Tuesday of orientation week I happened to be riding through the campus and I noticed that there was a group of four or five girls walking toward Lewis Hall, and when they recognized a student from last year just arriving they jumped and hollered and ran as if some major event were taking place. Of course the reason for all of this activity was the closeness they felt toward a dormitory mate. These little things are part of the spirit which continues to develop while one is in college.

The freshmen were eager to get to college. To them it is an entire new experience. Many of the upperclassmen were possibly more anxious to get here than they were when they came as freshmen. On several occasions one could overhear some upperclassman saying, "I could hardly wait to get back to GTC."

It is our hope that the eagerness to be here will continue and that each student will make the year a most valuable experience. If the freshmen, sophomore, and junior years are filled with growth-producing experiences, the anticipation of the senior year becomes greater than any of the others and it is our hope that during the senior year the anticipation of becoming an important part of the social structure will be looked forward to as eagerly as were the college years.

I hope that I will have the privilege of knowing many of you. I will welcome at any time an opportunity of talking with you.

ZACH S. HENDERSON,
President.

Harold Steele Appointed Dean At W. Georgia

Harold C. Steele, professor of biology at West Georgia College, has been appointed Dean of Men, according to announcement by Dr. I. S. Ingram, president.

A graduate of Emory University, Steele holds a master's degree from the University of Georgia and has done additional graduate work at Emory. He has been a member of the West Georgia faculty for two and a half years.

Steele was born and raised in Atlanta and prior to coming to West Georgia served on the faculties of Emory and Georgia Teachers College, Statesboro.

In addition to his duties as Dean of Men, Steele will also serve as head of residence at Aycock dormitory for men and will continue his studies as head of the biology department.

Doc's Digest

By Lewis Green

(Editor's Note: This column as dropped onto the editor's desk this week was compiled, abridged, and written by the shortest lived Sports editor in the history of THE GEORGE-ANNE. Lewis (Doc) Green, graduated from GTC in June of this year, but enrolled this fall as a special student and registered for three courses. Later this week Mr. Green decided to withdraw from school and return home where he will work this year.

The editor would like to thank Billy Jackson for standing in in the absence of a sports Editor this week.)

Intramurals will begin taking its place as one of the important activities on campus. The entire student body must join together to make this conglomeration of sports activities work.

Often one says "Well I'm not a physical education major" or "I don't want to take part because I don't know. The answer to these questions are simple enough. Intramurals are not for the P.E. majors exclusively. Intramurals are for the sport-loving people who because of reason haven't had a chance to participate. Please come out for intramurals even if you're not acquainted with sports.

There are numerous benefits received from participating and watching them be played.

Competition, fellowship and teamwork are probably the most important aspects of intramurals with "letting off steam" being the least important. Competition is a factor that will face people all of their lives. Here one plays for a position on a team, for his team and finally the team combined of many different individuals strive game by game for that ultimate goal—"THE CHAMPIONS OF 1957-58."

This week officially opens the football season of 1957. Familiar chants of "hold that line" and "we want a touchdown" will be heard all over the nation.

Play Night Plans Recreation For Every Student

By HUGH BELCHER

Last fall a new idea was put into effect on this campus by Mr. Jess White, director of Intramurals. This idea was to have a night of fun and recreation set aside for the students here at Georgia Teachers College. The night has become known as Play Night and is held each Wednesday night from 6:30 to 8:00 at the new gym. All types of recreational activities are available. These include badminton, table tennis, shuffleboard, handball, paddle tennis and others.

Because of a conflict with the dance each Wednesday night there was a lack of interest last year to a certain extent. Also a lot of students just didn't feel like walking to the gym and exert much energy. A lot of time and effort has been put forth to have this night of recreation for you, the students at G.T.C. It's up to you to take advantage of it and enjoy this period of fun and recreation.

boro Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Teams are: Richmond Academy, Portal, Southeast Bulloch, Nichols, Statesboro, Richmond Hill, Ludowici, and Effingham County.

Richmond Academy won last year's tournament, defeating Southeast Bulloch in the finals, 82-66. Mt. Vernon beat Manor for consolation honors, 67-51.

Unit Managers to Choose Teams

PURPOSE

The purpose of the intramural program is to provide on a voluntary basis a variety of wholesome recreation and sports for all. Its purpose is to develop skills for sports as well as physical fitness, social qualities, and character qualities. Through this program the student is encouraged to develop abilities in recreational activities that may be carried over into adult life.

MEMBERSHIP

All students regularly enrolled in any division of the college shall be eligible to participate in the intramural program provided they comply with the rules of eligibility as stated herein.

ORGANIZATION

A. The intramural program is supervised by the director of intramural sports.

B. The intramural program shall be implemented through an intramural council, consisting of the unit managers.

C. The unit manager shall be elected by their respective groups. The method of election will be determined by the individual units. The unit manager shall be notified of the time and place of each contest. All important matters will be directed to him, and it is his duty to see that his team is duly informed. The duties of the unit managers are: to attend meetings for unit managers as scheduled by the intramural director; to see that teams representing his organization are entered in the desired sports by the closing date set by the intramural director; to see that the eligibility lists of his organization are in the intramural office on time and that they are kept up to date; to be familiar with the rules of eligibility and insure that all members of his team are eligible for every contest in which they are to take part.

Also, to represent the organization or delegate a representative in all negotiations or protests; to make arrangements for the use of intramural facilities and equipment for practice periods as desired; to notify the members of his team regarding place, date, and time of contest and to see that his team does not forfeit contests; to promote fair play and clean athletics; and student assistants in intramural and student officials are in charge of contests which they are working and are given authority to enforce the rules and regulations herein.

off to a flying start by drubbing Pittsburg. Indications of this game, barring injury, makes the Sooners the number one choice of all this year. However, Texas A&M and Minnesota should give Oklahoma trouble for the top spot.

Georgia Tech's Yellowjackets opened their season successfully by beating helpless Kentucky 13-0 and tying S.M.U. 0-0 in a sea of mud. A familiar cry, "Same ole Bulldogs," has been heard up in Athens, Georgia. Wally Butts' Georgia Bulldogs have played two game—need I say more.

Many pre-season choices for all American teams have been made. Here's mine: Ends, Jimmy Phillips of Auburn and Dave Kaiser of Michigan State; guards, Bill Krisher of Oklahoma and Stan Slater of Army; center, Charley Brueckman of Pittsburg; and backs, Bobby Cox of Minnesota (QB), Clendon Thomas of Oklahoma (HB), Walt Kowalczyk of Michigan State and Phil King of Vanderbilt.

The World Series has already started with the New York Yankees and the Milwaukee Braves vying for the world championship. New York is banking chiefly on Mickey Mantle, Bill Skowron, Yogi Berra in the batting department.

Ministers Introduced In Assembly

Ministers of the churches of Statesboro opened the first chapel program of the school year 1957-58 with scripture and prayer. They extended a hearty welcome from their congregations to all GTC students and invited them to parties given by their respective churches so as to get acquainted with the students.

President Zach Henderson then introduced the mayor of Statesboro, William Bowen, and Everett Williams from the Board of Regents of the University system, who also gave welcome addresses.

Following their talks, President Henderson introduced the administrative staff and the heads of the departments, who in turn introduced the faculty.
