Christmas Past, Present, and Future

'Christmas Carol' Theme for Faculty Formal

The faculty will entertain the students in the annual tradition tomorrow night at the Christmas formal, employing as its theme GTC's Golden Anniversary.

The dance, held in the old gymnasium at 8:15 p. m. is inspired by the "Christmas Carol" by Dickens, with a pantomime program showing Christmas Past, Christmas Present, and Christmas Future at GTC.

Miss Ela Johnson headed the program committee, working with Miss Pat Shely as choreographer, Dr. Jack Averitt, Tully S. Pennington, Frieda Gernant, Marie Wood, Mrs. Marjorie Guardia, and Joe Axelson. The floor show itself will consist entirely of faculty members this year, a change from the outside talents shipped in the past few years.

Bob Overstreet from the Marvin Pittman School will serve as narrator for the pantomime program, according to Miss Johnson.

Committees were assigned as follows: Miss Helen Duncan, refreshments; Hayden Carmichael, Fred Wallace on decorations; and Parrish Blitch with finance.

Dr. Daniel S. Hooley, general chairman of the faculty dance, stresses the fact that formal dress for men will be optional, and dark suits are permissible. He also pointed out that attendance at this social function on campus has in past years been limited to couples. This year the nature of the faculty dance is more like that of a family Christmas party, and the faculty expresses the hope that all students will attend—dated or dateless.

Music for dancing will be furnished by the GTC Professors under the direction of Dana M. King. Dr. Hooley, professor of music will be the master of ceremonies for the floor show.

Entirely New Beauty Review For This Year

An entirely new, different, and shorter Beauty Review is in the planning process. Acting as master of ceremonies will be Ric Mandes. Billy Sanders will play the organ and supply the music for the program.

After criticisms and ideas are evaluated, a theme will be chosen. A $5 entrance fee is required from each contestant this year to pay for the four runners-up pictures in the 1958 Reflector. Also new this year is a rule that each contestant has to have a C average or better to be in the Review.

To let the judges learn the personality of the girls, a tea will be held in Cone Hall lounge

Banquet at Bryant's Kitchen KappaPhiKappa Holds Initiation; Senator Everett Williams Speaker

Senator Everett Williams, Regent board member from the First District, was the guest speaker for the Kappa Phi Kappa initiation services held at Mrs. Bryant's Kitchen, December 6. The new members of the honorary education fraternity at GTC are Eugene Chambers, R. L. Akins, Melvin Johnson, Ed McLesky, John Vaughn, Wallace Tanner, Aubrey Morris, Don Anderson, Sammy Powell, David Wilson, Curt Browning, and Roberts Adams. These students were selected for membership on the basis of their scholastic record and leadership potentialities.

The meeting, which was in the form of a banquet, was presided over by -Solon -Wisaham, -vice president, in the absence of Peter O'Millian, the president of the organization. The program was begun by the invocation given by Dr. Zach Henderson, honorary member. Then the candle-light meal was served, after which the new members were installed. Senator Williams, who was instrumental in helping GTC obtain its master's degree program, was also initiated as an honorary member. He spoke concerning the responsibilities of good classroom teachers in the progression of educating the members of society.

Parrish Blitch, faculty advisor for the organization, and Dean Paul Carroll were also present at the services.

Pre-registration will not be held this quarter.

National Sigma Alpha Iota Veep Visits GTC Campus December 8

During the past week Mrs. Paul J. Gould of Cleveland, Ohio visited the GTC campus. Mrs. Gould is national vice president of Sigma Alpha Iota, a professional music sorority for women. The purpose of her visit was to approve the petition of En Melodie for a chapter of Sigma Alpha Iota here on campus.

Mrs. Gould arrived in Savannah on Monday afternoon and was met at the airport by Mary Ann Harrell, president of En Melodie, and Cecile Woodward, past president. On Monday evening she attended a special meeting of the organization. The program for the meeting consisted of instrumental, vocal, and piano music. It was as follows: Cecile Woodward, saxophone solo; Ouida Newby, vocal solo; Mary Ann Harrell, trumpet solo; Kitty Kelly, piano solo; Joyce Ryan, vocal solo. For the final number the entire group sang "Lift Thine Eyes" from the oratorio "Elizah" by Mendelssohn. The chorus was conducted by Ruth Odom.

Following the program Mrs. Gould spoke to the club concerning the purpose and meaning of Sigma Alpha Iota. Refreshments of punch, cookies, and Christmas candy were served.

On Tuesday, Mrs. Gould talked with President Henderson, Dean Tyson, Dean Carroll, Dean Duncan and held conferences with Dr. Neil and the other members of the music faculty. Upon her return to Cleveland she will submit a report of her visit to the executive board of the fraternity. After being approved by each chapter, further plans will be made for the formal installation of the chapter here.

College Purchases New Deluxe Heavy Duty Bus

BASKETBALL ENTRIES MUST BE EARLY

Contest entries for this week's basketball contest will have to be in by noon on Tuesday. These are the games of the 21st, and since all GTC students will be going home, the entries should be handed in on time.

Student Union Bids Are Let

Georgia Teachers College is currently advertising for bids on the new combination dining hall-student center. When started early next year it will be the first new campus construction since the warehouse building was finished last spring.

The bids will be opened at 3 p. m. on January 14, 1958 in the office of Donald A. McDougald, comptroller.

Architects for the new building are Logan and Williams of Atlanta. They have drawn up the plans and specifications which are currently being advertised, according to Dr. Zach S. Henderson, president of GTC.

The new building will house the dining hall, post office, snack bar, book store, office space for student publications, student conference rooms, private dining rooms, game rooms, and the southeastern regional film library of the State Department of education.

There will be some delay in the delivery of this unit because of the special headrest reclining type seats. These seats are being purchased from the National Seating Company, and they cannot promise the Blue Bird Body Company delivery of the bus until the middle of February. Therefore, the bus will not be here at GTC until the latter part of February.

Students Invited To Open House

All students, faculty members, husbands and wives of GTC faculty members are cordially invited to attend an Open House in West Hall, Sunday afternoon, December 15, from 2:30 until 4:30. Visitors are invited to inspect the new furniture and the renovated parlor. Newly painted walls, and wall to wall carpets and much to the atmosphere of the dorm. In charge of the plans for open house is Mary Ann Harrell, social chairman of West Hall.

SOME POSITIONS OPEN

George-Anne Positions Are Listed For Winter Quarter

Britt Fayssoux, present editor of the George-Anne, will serve in this capacity again winter quarter with a few changes in his supporting staff.

Fayssoux, who has won the Bulloch Herald Award for outstanding journalism at GTC once and who has served as George-Anne editor twice, will be backed up by managing editor Joyce Kirkland, business manager Billy Jackson, and news editor Ann Manry.

Other positions in the winter quarter staff will be held by Marilyn Durrence as assistant managing editor, Charlotte Owens as feature editor, and Wylene Fowler and Nan Stephens as circulation managers. Some positions on the staff will remain open until further notice, and some, such as the sports staff, are undecided as yet.

A newcomer to the staff, Roberta Halpern, freshman elementary education major from Teaneck, New Jersey, will assume the position of copy editor and proofreader.

Students who would like to work on the newspaper as reporters, or who may be interested in applying for the open positions on the winter quarter staff are urged to come down to the public relations department any Tuesday night at 7 p. m. and offer their services.

Editorials

Overdue Books Unnecessary

Frank Rossiter in his Sunday City Beat column from the Savannah Morning News told of a youngster who passed a bookstore and asked his mother what those things in the window were. Her answer was, "Books, dear. That's what the movies we see on TV are made from."

Mr. Rossiter's lad may not have had a very close acquaintance with books, but Miss Hassie McElveen, GTC librarian, knows of at least 20 students here who seem to have a sticky relationship to these informative items.

These students are those whose names constantly appear on the library's overdue lists pasted on the bulletin boards. The same students don't always appear repeatedly, but of the 914 students who registered at the beginning of the quarter, 20 names is the average that comprise the overdue list.

Students who absentmindedly keep books out of the library past the due date may not understand all that is incurred when they fail to comply with library regulations.

Each overdue book has its own card and must have a mimeographed bill of fines made out and attached thereto. The labor is not so extensive, but the time that must be devoted to such trivial operations is annoying to the library workers and usurps the hours that could be used for more essential pastimes and pamphlet-binding.

Miss McElveen says that although most students are willing to pay these fines without much kicking, they don't realize the importance of punctuality or they would do their best to alleviate the library staff's task.

Thanksgiving at Rock Eagle

By KERSTIN PIHL

WHAT THANKSGIVING MEANT TO ME

By KERSTIN PIHL

Thanksgiving—I had heard so much about it, but my idea of it was not very clear.

In trying to explain to me, some people said it was a day when you stopped working to thank God for all the things you had. Others seemed to look upon it differently and talked about good food, recreation, and hunting.

I was not the only one to have a vague conception of American Thanksgiving.

Thus expectations were high when we arrived at Rock Eagle, Eatonton, Georgia. We, that is, 140 students from Europe, South America, Japan, China, Burma, India, Hawaii, and the United States all attending colleges on Universities in Georgia or South Carolina.

The main purpose of this retreat was to give the international students an opportunity to get together, to present Christianity to us regardless of what faith we had, and to give us a real American Thanksgiving.

Our high expectations were fulfilled. I am sure that except for the food, this Thanksgiving was quite unusual.

Many things were discussed—from "Who is God?"—to "The Intercontinental Missile."

Naturally so many nations, races and religions represented gave an excellent opportunity for diversified opinions.

Things were looked upon from many different points of view, and it was not a quiet or timid group.

But even though there were differences and we were aware of them, we had a wonderful time together.

Nobody forgot his religion or country or tried to impose his belief on somebody else, but we met simply as human beings of the world.

To me this Thanksgiving meant new friends, a glimpse of countries and cultures that I hardly knew anything about before, and to be materialistic for a while—good foot.

Dear Editor,

I would like to commend Tom Bryson for his interesting and thought-provoking article in the Vet's Corner last week. Especially commendable is the sentence, "In addition to a need for more money for education, incentive must be provided for students to attain scholastic averages and more education (not degrees, but substance)." This is the job that we, as Future Teachers, can do IF we begin here at Georgia Teachers College.

It is deplorable that we who are in a few years, going to expect our students to aspire to good grades do not ourselves expect to do better than "get by with a C" or say, "At least I didn't do as bad as..." Mediocrity is seemingly a virtue here and this attitude is unfair to the parents (and) of the children we will be teaching, as well as to that minority (which should be a majority) of students who apply themselves and aspire to be "The best teachers GTC ever put out."

I, and others with me, hope you will encourage more articles of this nature to be written.

Sincerely yours,

STANLEY BROBSTON

Britt Fayssoux

Editor's Desk

William Miller, chief editorial writer for the New York Herald-Tribune, made the statement that reading the editorial page of the average newspaper was like eating "boiled watermelon." Eating boiled watermelon would undoubtedly be enough to nauseate anyone. We sincerely hope that

The George-Anne hasn't served up any boiled watermelon on the editorial page this quarter. It is a very difficult thing to keep from doing. Most newspapers have a tendency to become complacent like fat cats that purr by the fire. We try our best not to be fat cats.

Our readers can keep us from reaching such a state by writing letters to the editor. The Professors' "Mail Bag" is designed to be a sounding board for student opinion.

By contributing to this section of the paper you can help us fight complacency.

The George-Anne received some excellent letters this quarter, but the Mail Bag did not receive as many as the staff thought it should have. If the student body is complacent, then it is extremely difficult for your paper to be otherwise.

Fortunately The George-Anne is a free newspaper. Unlike many other college papers we formulate our own editorial policy. No orders are handed down from above. "Published by students of Georgia Teachers College" is a true statement and not just a slogan. Freedom of the press does not mean freedom to be irresponsible and unfair. We have tried to be responsible and truthful while still presenting our opinions. You can help us remain free, truthful, and responsible.

FARMER GTC GRADUATE PUBLISHES WOLFE BOOK

Dr. Floyd C. Watkins, assistant professor of English at Emory and a graduate of GTC, has recently published a book entitled "Thomas Wolfe's Characters." In it Dr. Watkins discusses the autobiographical aspects of Wolfe's work. That Wolfe was a creative genius with the ability of almost total recall no one can deny. Dr. Watkins summed it up very well when he wrote, "It might be added not only that Wolfe used his excellent memory, but also that he could not have written so well without it."

"Look Homeward Angel," Wolfe's first great novel, was recently adapted for the stage and is enjoying a successful run on Broadway and is receiving excellent reviews. "Angel" has also been sold to Paramount Studios.

This is all part of a renewed interest in this great North Carolina author's work. The GTC library contains the bulk of Wolfe's work and those of you who haven't had the opportunity to read him might find it rewarding to do so.

Hyde AND Seek

By LARRY HYDE

The Music Department "outed" themselves last week when they presented "Erminie" for the student body of Georgia Teachers College. I was unable to attend because of work on the annual but did manage to see the last part of the show on Thursday night. The part that I saw was wonderful and I wish that I had been able to see all of the program. I don't particularly care for "high brow" music but in this case, the music was so beautiful and wonderfully done by students that I couldn't help but enjoy it.

There is no telling what will happen next at this college! In reference to the above program, there was a woman faculty member that "asked" her English class to write a theme on the following subject: "Why I Did Not Attend Erminie." I consider this teacher a very good friend and an excellent teacher in her field. We have disagreed before on many subjects and in this case, I'll bet her a dollar to a doughnut that she didn't help any of her students gain love for opera by having them write a theme on why they didn't go.

It was bound to happen sooner or later. Monday night I saw Georgia Teachers College go down to defeat for the first time away from Collegeboro. During the past three years, I have made several trips with the basketball team but had never seen them lose away from home. Most of you know by now that GTC's losses to Mercer Monday night was the first Bear victory in nine games with the Profs. Perhaps I was overconfident and expected to win easily. Riding back from Macon, I had a funny feeling that basketball season was going to be short this year; probably end around the first of March. I hope that I am wrong.

Nothing was said about Coach Roger Parson's boys from Marvin Pittman winning their first basketball game of the season last week. The Marvin Pittman five has some rough going last year when they lost every game they played, but they sure got off on the right foot this year with a victory. The girls always have a good team but they lost their opener but played good basketball in losing. Maybe this will be a good year for both teams. I hope so.

Tonight, the Statesboro Blue Devils take on Forest Park for the state Class A football championship of Georgia. I don't attend all the football games but this is another instance when I have never seen Statesboro lose at home.

Coaches Teel and Williams have done a mighty fine job with this year's team and I hope they take Forest Park to the "cleaners" Friday night and keep the championship here in Statesboro and Bulloch County.

I appreciated the birthday card very much but I wish it had been signed. Another thing, my birthday is on the 15th of December and not the 10th. I know for a fact there are many others who have birthdays in December so "Happy Birthday" to myself and the same to all other December babies.

I hope all of you make "A's" on your report card and have a wonderful and happy Christmas. The highways will be crowded so please take it easy. Remember: "If you drink, don't drive and if you drive, don't drink." You can't lose if you live by the rule... SELAH.

Christmas is Here Again, And With it Hazards of Shopping

Christmas is here again, in case you haven't already guessed it from the decorations, the carols on the radio, and the general spirit in the air.

And Christmas brings around shopping for those thousand and one little things for all the family. So you take off for town to do your Christmas shopping, with a joyous feeling because you're back in your own home town, and all your dear friends are home.

So, you proceed to the local five and dime to get some little something for several friends. You stand in front of the door and finally force yourself in. A few other people, it seems, came Christmas shopping on this particular day; the whole population of the town. Once inside, you desperately try to get to the counter you're looking for.

You've decided to get Jane a box of stationery, so you start for the counter. All this time Johnny (your kid brother who tagged along at mother's request) is screaming in your ear "I want some candy. I want some candy." But you keep plowing toward the stationery counter. Ah, you finally get there—oops, not quite; you're in the back of the store staring an aquarium of goldfish in the faces. Oh, well, Jane always did like goldfish. So you buy two goldfish, have them gift-wrapped, and shove (literally) on your way. You finally, after what seems like an eternity of rib-yiggling and toe-trespassing, reach the front of the store and almost leave. But suddenly you feel that you're leaving something. You've got the goldfish, your purr—Johnny!! Now you plod through the crowds with a million visions going through your head. Johnny kidnapped by four—No, five—thugs, Johnny lying in the middle of the floor, trampled by the crowd he could not withstand his angelic little face twisted in pain, the ugly little idiot should have held to my hand, poor dear boy, the dratted brat!

After a harrowing experience which drags you through the manager's office, all over the store, the next-door store, and the police station, Johnny is finally found. Seems he met this Santa Claus, took a shine to him, and followed him a few blocks away, then Santa took him home.

But you decide that Christmas is really worth it after all. Merry Christmas, everybody, and please make that one for the road Coffee.

How does this fall quarter compare with other quarters? Have improvements been made? Does each person have his own individual feeling about each quarter?

These questions have an answer, in fact, many answers. Each individual student at GTC may answer differently. Personal answers are also found to this question:

"What has this fall quarter meant to you?"

Vivian Blizzard — I'm glad there is a winter quarter.

Nancy Pierce — I'm glad they don't ship you the first quarter.

Jerry Clark — It meant a lot of excess studying but I feel as though I earned more this quarter than any previous one!

Richard McGee — I met a lot of new friends. I did a lot of studying that I feel was very unnecessary.

Patti Pickett — It has meant a miserable three months excluding the weekends.

Yynelle Warren — At least I've learned how to get up with the chickens and make my bed.

Glenda Brooks — It has meant that I've had to study harder than I ever have in my life.

Peggy Pruett — It has meant that I have to eat botany, sleep botany, dream botany and read botany.

Yes there are approximately 925 answers to the question, "What has this quarter meant to you?" Each one is a bit different from the other; however, everyone may agree that progress is a main factor at GTC.

Nutrition Class Makes Display Of Food Types

Last week Miss Bolton's nutrition class made a display of five food families consisting of proteins, carbohydrates, fats, minerals, and vitamins. They displayed ten to fifteen different types of food in each different food family with each being displayed in a different way.

Guests were invited to view the display. By just a glimpse, you would have thought you were looking at the 4-H projects at the county fair. The people who presented the display were: Maxie Jo Johnson, Sandra Martin, Carolyn Kelly, Velma Kerr, Alice Altman, Billy McWilliams, Ruth Harris, Elwanda Barber, Jerry Shely, and Dean Tyre.

Designing Class Draws Geometric Xmas Book

By JANE JACKSON

As thunder would be without lightning, so would the beautiful Christmas decorations displayed in the administration building be without the art department.

The art 204 designing class is responsible for the large book in the ad building which portrays many scenes of the Christmas story.

The designs represent the class's problem in color therapy and geometric design.

As they experimented with various geometric shapes, the class tried to visualize in their minds scenes of the religious nature which would be symbolic of Christmas.

As each student worked out his design, he would try many experiments with it. First was a small black and white sketch, and last the transferring of the design to the illustration board and the beginning of the enjoyable task of painting it with liquid tempera paint.

The displays in the "book" are color examples of moving hue, value and intensity with each design having a translucent.

The lettering in the "book" was done by Bob Spell. Juanita Freeman designed the cover.

The pages (background) were painted by the art 412 class in the complimentary colors of red-orange and blue green.

The members of the art 204 class who have displays in the "book" are Norman Hawkins, Charlotte Blich, Virginia Smith, Jan Epps, Lucille Parker, Ann Lunsford, Julia Hendrix, Billy Henderson, Claude Austin, Billy Fordham, Joyce Martin, Edmee Darley, Cathy Simmons, Faye Crouch, Juanita Freeman, Peggy Cowart and Palma Evans.

The art department is also responsible for the beautiful Christmas tree in the center of the ad building hall.

Campus Column

By JOYCE JACKSON

For a while there it seemed as though the time was passing mightily slowly, but then all of a sudden we realize that this is the last issue of The George-Anne for this quarter. As I looked over The George-Annes that have already come out I find that this has been a pretty wonderful session. Your college paper from week to week tells quite a story. The first issue told of the arrival of two new people on campus who were pretty special. The first is our exchange student, Kerstin Pihl, who has made a warm contribution to college life. The second was Dr. Ralph K. Tyson who has taken over the new office of dean of students and has greatly influenced student welfare.

The next week we learned that we had a total enrollment of 914, which represents a 6 per cent increase over the 1956 fall enrollment.

A regular column of "Rat Squeaks" was climaxed with the announcement of dress and rules for Rat Day given in the November edition. I'm sure the freshmen remember that publication. But the next week The George-Anne reported fine spirit and cooperation were displayed by the freshmen as the rats seemed to fade away.

In one issue R. H. Thompson announced the beginning of a radio program featuring members of Phi Mu Alpha every Sunday at 4 o'clock. The program has been quite successful and is something to be proud of.

In the next edition the names of those seniors who had been named to "Who's Who among Students in American Universities and Colleges." It was a thrilling edition, especially for those whose pictures appeared on the front page.

But one of the most exciting headlines was that one of November 22, which read "Master's Degree Program is awarded to GTC." This seems to tell the story of the growth that our college is undergoing.

Of course, besides all these headlines were the little, but important things that make college life really interesting.

There were the dances every Saturday night, the matinee dances ever Tuesday and Thursday, play night on Wednesday, the Ugly-Man Contest, the Starlight Ball, the election of class officers, intramurals, band trips, and now we have begun the basketball season which makes it seem really like college life.

To climax a quarter of activities the faculty, besides giving tests, are sponsoring the Christmas formal Saturday night. So come on out and help bring the quarter to a happy end.

'Erminie' Given, Enjoyed by All

The music department presented the light opera "Erminie" Tuesday and Thursday night, December 3 and 5. The production was under the direction of Dr. Dan Hooley who was ably assisted by Mr. Dana King, leading the orchestra and Dr. Ronald Neil who began initial work with the chorus.

The attendance was very poor, especially on opening and those who didn't attend missed a very good performance into which a lot of hard work had been put.

English-speaking peoples usually think of Chinese as being the most difficult tongue. Yet, it is made up entirely of words of one syllable. Each sound though, may have ten or more different meanings.

Corn isn't really corn at all.

From Britannica film "Corn Farmer"

The word "corn" is often applied to the cereal grain which is the leading crop of a locality. Thus, in England it refers to wheat; in Scotland and Ireland to oats, and in the U. S. to maize (Indian corn).

The Georgia Teachers College Professors came from behind here Friday night to nip Pikeville (Ky.) College 81-80 in the last 17 seconds.

Trailing 79 to 73 with 2:45 remaining, the Profs scored eight points to a lone free throw by the visiting Bears with the climax coming on a 20-foot jump shot by Chester Curry with 17 seconds left.

Pikeville's All-American candidate, John Lee Butcher, didn't dissappoint the 1,500 fans at the game. He hit for 31 points, most of them coming on long jump shots. Four Profs scored in double figures, with Curry's 24 leading. Cary Moore, the junior transfer from Mercer, played his last game of the year and added 21 counters.

Team captain Ronnie Rush scored 19 points, took off 12 rebounds and made seven assists to lead both teams in the latter two departments, despite fouling out with six minutes left.

Basketball Takes Over
As Football Bows Out

Entries Due
December 17

Very much like locals, football fans everywhere have turned their eyes from the gridiron which is dead with the exception of bowl games and all-star contests throughout the nation.

The trend is now to basketball, the king of competitive sports. Basketball has taken the spotlight in the high school, college, AAU, and professional ranks as the dominating focal point for the eyes of America's eager sports enthusiasts.

Locally, it would appear that some persons are rather pessimistic as to the roundball prominence of the "Professors" for the coming season. With two close wins and two close defeats under the belts of our cagers, it appears that they are slightly tired. This comes from the fact that the team has done a tremendous amount of traveling in the still short season.

Saturday night, the "Profs" go to Spartanburg to tangle with the terriers of Wofford College.

Nationally, there can still be no accurate predictions as to the outcome of conference play in any region. The favorites this season are the old stand-bys: Kansas, San Francisco, Kentucky, The University of North Carolina, Dayton, Alabama, St. Louis, and Canisius.

The contest this week will end on Tuesday at noon. This is due to the fact that most of our students will be going home for the holidays. Please observe this rulling.

Stetson Rolls to Decisive Win Over Profs in Spirited Contest

Kitchens Stars For Hatters

Forward Jim Kitchens set a new school scoring record at DeLand Saturday night as Stetson University defeated Georgia Teachers College 96-89.

Kitchens, a 6-2 jump shooting forward from Jacksonville, shot 36 points to pace a red-hot Stetson team that shot 61 per cent from the field in the second half.

Kitchens got help from Gene Wells of Ludowici who threw in 24 points, eight of them after Stetson led 79-78 with only four minutes remaining in the game.

After One Victory

For the Professors, now 1-1 on the season, it was Whitey Verstraete the smooth 6-3 forward from Moline, Ill., who led the way offensively. Whitey tallied 25 points to keep the Profs in the game until Wells began his one-man bombardment of the basket.

Chester Curry of GTC, who had scored 25 points against Rollins in the GTC win Friday went 25 minutes before he scored. Then he caught fire scoring 15 points the rest of the way.

Curry's cold first half, combined with Stetson's hot shooting and a 45-29 superiority in rebounds, led Stetson to their second win in three starts. Their loss came at the hands of the Florida Gators.

Ralph Miller of Portal scored five points and took off 12 important rebounds for the winners.

For the night, Stetson shot 45 per cent from the field to 42 for GTC.

Professors Win First Encounter With Rollins Win

The Georgia Teachers College Professors overcame an early cold spell at the baskets at Winter Park, Fla. Friday night to defeat Rollins College, 91-75. It was the opening game for the Profs.

Trailing 10-1 after four minutes, the Profs' Ronnie Rush and Chester Curry began hitting and GTC pulled even at 28-all. The lead changed hands nine times before, with 12 minutes left in the second half, GTC went ahead 55-54 and was never headed.

Curry, the Wheelwright, Ky., sophomore, led both teams with 25 points and captain and center Ronnie Rush was next, with 23.

Guard Dick Bishop led Rollins with 24, with most of his baskets coming on long set shots. Rush held center Dick Bezemer to 19. The only time the three-time Florida all-stater has been under 20 in seven games against GTC.

All five starters for GTC were in double figures, with Curry's 16 first-half points helping the Profs to a 41-37 half-time lead. Rush made 14 of his points in the second half and sophomore Whitey Verstraete added 12 second-half counters to the GTC attack.

Due mainly to several break-aways by Curry and sensational accurate tipping by Rush, GTC shot 54 per cent from the field. Rollins was hot too, converting 43 per cent of its field goal attempts, but they were able to get off only 65 shots to the Profs' 74.

Hugh's Who in SPORTS

By HUGH BELCHER

HE WAS GYPPED

The vast majority of the Baseball Writers' Association are sensible, thinking, competent, reliable, and unbiased men.

Now and then, not very often, a situation may develop, especially with multiple candidates for top honors, such as Mickey Mantle, Ted Williams, Roy Sievers, Nelson Fox and Gil McDougald in the 1957 MVP disturbance—and a sharp deviation from the normal in voting will have devastating consequences.

However, the MVP competition will go on, and the integrity of the BBWAA membership will remain unattacked.

My sympathy to Ted Williams, who certainly is no number 10 or number 9 player among the top ten. He should have been 1, 2, or 3 on every ballot. But that's only one man's opinion. In the final analysis, what Williams did, at 39, cannot be taken away from him.

Mistakes are made. But then, doctors sometimes kill patients with errors, and trusted bank officials run off with funds.

The MVP involves human beings, not IBM robots.

SUPPORT THE CHEERLEADERS

Looking at the local scene we find the cheerleaders doing a fine job this season. They put on a fine chapel program and with a little more help (mainly school spirit from the student body), it could have been much better. These people are working real hard to learn the yells so they can lead you the students of GTC in supporting our Professor basketball team. The least we can do is to help out in our own little way. That being to yell and give both the team and the cheerleaders our support.

BAND MEMBERS PERFORM

One other thing that has been overlooked is the fact that a fine group of musicians will be playing some good music at all the home games. These people are doing this on their own free time, so let's all show our appreciation by attending the home games regularly.

SPIRIT AND COOPERATION

The quarter is almost over and after looking back at a few of the activities we have had on campus it seems that spirit and cooperation are lacking somewhat. If some of us can find time to look back and see some of the activities which we have missed out one I'm sure intramurals will be one. This is a program set up for the students at this school and only one thing is asked of you. That is participation. Next quarter let's see if we can have much better cooperation and participation of each individual.

BLUE DEVILS WIN

Congratulations to the Statesboro High Blue Devils on winning the South Georgia Class A. football championship last Friday night. Here's hoping they win tonight against Forest Park. Good luck, fellas!

Prof's Take To the Road

Florida Issues Big Welcome

The Profs were housed in style on their Florida trip last weekend which saw them splitting with Rollins and Stetson.

They stayed at the Mayfair Inn in Sanford, the home of the San Francisco Giants farm clubs. In fact, the Mayfair Inn itself is owned by the Giants and the place got caught with their signs down by the recent shift to the west coast by their owners. The soap, ash trays, etc., all say "The New York Giants' Mayfair Inn."

But the caddies at the club-owned golf course all wore bright new caps appropriately labeled "The San Francisco Giants' Mayfair Inn Country Club."

Coach and Mrs. J. B. Scarce, assistant Coach J. I. Clements and publicist Joe Axelson played 18 holes on Friday and our 18th hole correspondent tells us that the coaches beat Mrs. Scarce and Axelson 1-up in a total score by holes match.

Joe Harris, the Atlanta Journal's basketball handicapper, certainly had the Profs zeroed in on their trip. Harris called the Profs 9-point favorites over Rollins (final margin 16) and 8-point losers to Stetson (it turned out to be 7). Reminds us two years ago of the time that the Dunkel system said the Profs would beat Rollins 22 points and that's just the way it came out.

Golden Gloves Winners, Webb Is GTC Student

Did you know that the cross country champion of intramurals is also a boxer? It seems to have really paid off—his being in shape. His name is Bobby Webb.

Bobby is a junior physical education major from Hampton, Georgia, and participates in intramurals for the Bobcats.

Getting to the point of boxing, Bobby was champion, of the Western Georgia Golden Gloves in 1955. An arm injury prevented him from continuing his boxing then, but last year after an operation on his arm, he went to Jacksonville, Florida where he won a bout by a knockout and lost one by a decision.

He plans to go to Marietta, Georgia on February 1 for the Georgia Golden Gloves Championship bouts. For training for this tournament he plans to run one and one-half miles every other day, skip rope and spar whenever he can find a partner. They are hard to find!

In training for the cross country, Bobby ran the one and one-half mile course every day for a week prior to the race. The course was from the new gym down to the back gate of the campus, across the baseball field through the woods, and up back of Sanford and Cone Halls and the gym. The race consisted of two laps of this course.

Of the 22 entries in the race, 21 finished, with Roberts Adams of Statesboro finishing behind Bobby Webb.

In practice Bobby says, "I started training with a slow even pace and developed it into a fast rhythmic step which I wanted for the race. I naturally speeded up at the end."

STUDENT TICKETS TO BE AVAILABLE NEXT QUARTER

Athletic business manager, J. I. Clements, has announced that students may get their season basketball tickets as soon as they receive their I.D. cards next quarter. They must apply at the New Gym for the tickets. Married students who have a husband or wife not attending school here can see Mr. Clements for a special rate.

The George-Anne SPORTS PAGE

The Professors hit the road Saturday night for Spartanburg, S. C. to meet the Wofford Terriers. This game will be broadcast over Radio Station WWNS. The following Wednesday the Profs take on the Jacksonville, University Dolphins on their home court.

The Terriers are coached by Joel E. Robertson who has won 144, lost 117 in 11 years at Wofford. Assisting him is Coach Henry Sermons. Wofford won 10 and lost 15 last year. They have six returning lettermen. The professors hold an 8 to 1 edge over the Terriers in series history dating back to 1951.

They have six returning lettermen and this is the first time these two clubs have met because this is Jacksonville's first year as a senior college.

Pairings Are Announced For GTC-JC Tourney

First round pairings have been announced for the second annual Georgia Teachers College—Junior Chamber of Commerce Holiday Basketball Tournament by tournament manager J. I. Clements Jr. Dates are December 26, 27, 28, 1957.

Richmond Academy of Augusta, the defending champion, heads the field of eight teams slated to play in the tournament sponsored by Marvin Pittman High School and promoted by the Statesboro Jaycees and GTC. All games will be played in the Georgia Teachers College gymnasium.

Richmond Academy will oppose darkhorse Richmond Hill on Thursday at 9:45 p. m. Also opposing each other in the upper bracket are Effingham County and Ludowici at 7:15 p. m. Thursday.

Last year's runner-up, Southeast Bulloch, will play Nicholls at 6 p. m. Thursday night, and Statesboro and Portal will play at 8:30 p. m. Thursday in the other lower bracket feature.

Raging Bears Take Profs In Close One

The Mercer Bears overcame a two-point deficit at half-time and defeated Georgia Teachers College 74-68 Monday night. It broke a nine-game domination by GTC dating back to 1954.

The game was slow and roughly contested throughout. Both teams shot only 59 times apiece and the Mercer rebounding edge of 46 to 25 was the big difference.

Woody Richardson led the scorers with 20 and Norman Carter chipped in 18 more for the winners. Richardson and Carter combined for 21 rebounds.

For GTC it was Whitey Verstraete with 19 and Chester Curry with 16.

VET'S CORNER

By TOM BRYSON

As this quarter is approaching an end, no doubt there are many of us on campus who are bemoaning the fact that much of the back work that we are now trying to complete should have been started and completed by now. Everywhere you go on campus you can hear people saying, "Boy, I've sure got to get with it." Usually they are referring to term papers, oral reports, book reports, etc., that could have been out of the way by now, if the old adage, "Why do today what you can put off until tomorrow," had not been observed. Well tomorrow is here. However, this situation, tough though it may be, could be of help to students during the coming quarter, for most of us only learn by hard knocks and experience. By having put off our work until the last minute, we realize the strain, pressure, loss of sleep, and general discomfort caused by our procrastination. From this we could benefit next quarter in that an earlier start would mean less pressure at the end of the quarter. This past week, many students on campus were forced to miss the opening home ball game of the season, as they were involved in typing up last-minute ends. This of course shows that self discipline is present, but think of all the tranquilizers and cups of coffee that were necessary to tide over the period of gnawing conscience due to our delay.

Last year, a certain professor on campus was heard to say that by getting an early start on school work, and by doing first things first, a better state of mind would be the result. This is certainly good psychology, for so many times we put off a task because it seems insurmountable, and because it seems this way, we put it off all the longer. This soon becomes a vicious circle, and we tend to put off all the longer the immediate work. And yet so many times when a project is tackled, it becomes very interesting and we wonder why we put off something that was so intriguing and not so hard after all.

Well, a word to the wise is sufficient. Get an earlier start next quarter, good luck on that oral report or term paper, and as for the finals, they're not usually so hard, so don't worry. It's too late now anyway.

As this is the last issue before Christmas holidays, we of the Vets Club wish to extend

Pittman Park's Combined Choirs Perform Sunday

The combined choirs of Pittman Park Methodist Church will present a musical program on Sunday, December 15, at 7:30 p. m. in the Marvin Pittman School auditorium.

The program, entitled "An Evening of Christmas Music," will begin with Kohlmann's arrangement of "Silent Night" as the prelude, followed by the processional, "O, Come, All Ye Faithful."

The main part of the program will include Williams' "The Matchless Morn," Dickinson's "Jesus! Thou Dear Babe Divine," Pelouin's "The Christmas Child," Barnes' "Oh Lowly, Sacred Stable," sung by the junior choir.

"Hark, the Herald Angels Sing," Christiansen's "O Come, O Come, Emanuel," Gruber's "Silent Night," Borowski's "Adoration," offertory by Mrs. Marshall Hamilton, Hueller's "Over Bethlehem's Town," Nicolai's "How Brightly Shines the Morning Star," Caldwell's "Carol of the Little King," sung by Cindy Farr, Bonnie Hamilton, and Susan Wallace.

The presentation will be completed by "And the Glory of the Lord" from Handel's "Messiah."

Baptists Hold Social Tonight

The BSU holds its quarterly social in the form of a supper and a Student Night Christmas program at the First Baptist Church, tonight beginning at 5 o'clock.

Joyce Jackson, chairman of the social committee on the BSU executive council, announces that all Baptist students who are members of the local unit organizations of the Baptist Student Union are invited to attend.

to all of you a very Merry Christmas and best wishes for the New Year.

Sweetheart Circle Curves And Drag Races Don't Mix

By JOYCE KIRKLAND

The old story of the motorcycle cop, who couldn't understand why he was running so far behind a souped-up hotrod cruising at 120 per and stepped off to see what was the matter, illustrates how befuddled some of the traffic officers have become in this age of "Wanna drag?"

At GTC the problem of speeders is especially hectic because of that lovely sweetheart circle out front. A car careening around one of those "corners" on the wrong side of the road just "to show my girl how fast she'll go" could write the final chapter to many an inquiring mind.

A student's parent was driving around the circle in the old way one night last week and was almost smattered into Lewis by one of these new cars which deserves a pat on the back for having lived this long (six months). Anyway, the parent was so rattled until she almost made of the old gym a parking place.

In the old days when GTC had one-way traffic on its front drive, and parking on only one side of that street, it was a simple matter to see headlights coming around the circle and avoid all sorts of accidents, no bother at what speed either car was being driven.

Also, the student population has increased, and with its increase there has been a much larger number of vehicles parked on campus. The vicious cycle was continued by the fact that people already here who saw that they were going to need cars added them to the count.

Now, GTC has a full-sized traffic problem — even for pedestrians. However, some of the old dyed-in-the-wool students who won't accept new folk ways, but must stick to the old, still persist in walking in the roads. This is particularly true of the back campus drives. These walking enthusiasts seem to insist that the road is primarily for pedestrians and that the habitual drivers can go hang.

Towns, who have speed laws, traffic lights, and three-lane streets, et cetera, though they have not completely solved the problem, have done their best to keep down the speeding maniac type of driver. And, as soon as the student drivers here realize that 914 students with as large a percentage of cars as GTC has, must live together under the same such laws, then drag races on campus, or contests to find out whose car can turn the curves on the Sweetheart Circle at 90 miles per hour with the least effort may come to an end.

Frosh Council Members Are Installed Monday

Phyllis Hall and Guy "Skeeter" Weatherly, newly elected freshman Student Council representatives were officially installed Monday night by Student Council president, Ed Brown.

After the installation of the new members, several items of business were discussed.

Since request from clubs and individuals have come to the council to get new card tables for social use, the group discussed the need of purchasing these tables and also the need for having dancing classes on campus. Other authorities will have to be consulted, so no definite action will be taken until the council is given the "go-ahead."

Butler Chosen 'Sweetheart' For Local Student NEA

Houston Named Revue Escort

At a meeting of the Student NEA Tuesday night, Miss Bobbie Butler was chosen "Sweetheart" of the club, and will represent that organization in the Annual Beauvau Revue held Homecoming weekend.

Bobbie, a sophomore business major from Pelham, placed 2nd in the Miss GTC pageant last year. She is a member of the FBLA and Masquers. Chosen as her escort for the Revue was Herbert Houston, senior physical education major from Blake-ly.

Further business discussed at the meeting was the program which the local chapter of Student NEA will present before the Southeast Bulloch High School chapter of Future Teachers of America during the early part of next quarter.

Officers for the Student NEA this year are: Billy Jackson, president; Joyce Jackson, vice president; Lynette Cornellison, secretary; Joyce Clark, treasurer; Howard Bridges, second vice president; Barbara Thompson, membership; Charlotte Owens, social; and David Wilson, publicity. Dr. J. D. Park and Miss Betty Lane are sponsors. This organization is the professional organization on campus for all education majors and is connected with both the GEA and the NEA.

Meetings are scheduled regularly for the second and fourth Tuesday night at 6:30 in room 33 of the administration building. According to Billy Jackson, president, visitors are always welcome to the meetings.
