Dean Releases Rules For Homecoming Fete

Rules for Homecoming weekend have been announced by Deans Helen G. Duncan and Ralph K. Tyson. These rules concern both men and women.

DORMITORY GUESTS

Because of the crowded conditions in the men's and women's dormitories students are asked not to encourage friends to visit Homecoming weekend. This weekend is especially for graduates, currently enrolled students of G.T.C. and members of their immediate families.

In order to make space available for guests, any students who have to go home and miss the festivities on campus and are willing to have their beds used by guests are requested to notify their house directors immediately.

If your best girl friend or boy friend will be your guest for the weekend make arrangements NOW with the proper house director. Remember, neither the college nor the house directors provide linens for guests.

USE OF PARLORS

East Hall parlors will be used for Alumni registration. Two special receptions Friday afternoon will be held in Lewis and Cone Halls. Alumni and other visitors will want to meet friends in all parlors. Students are asked to cooperate by not loitering or "dating" in the parlors during Homecoming weekend.

DRESS

The regulation permitting women students to wear pedal pushers, bermudas, and so on on Saturdays will not be in effect Saturday, February 8, as this is one of the times "when the college is playing host to outside groups." (See T-book P. 31 6e.)

Women who find it necessary to wear bermudas to work on floats should go and come from the dormitories as inconspicuously as possible and should not tarry in the parlors in "work clothes."

With faculty members attending the convocation in their academic caps and gowns students should dress up more than usual for the Monday chapel programs. Sunday clothes will not be conspicuous.

HOURS

Friday hours for women will remain unchanged. Saturday hours will be extended until 1 a. m. as they were last year.

Winter Quarter Dorm Averages Are Released

According to Dr. Ralph K. Tyson, newly appointed dean of students, a recent study of grade averages of each dormitory was made. The grades used were those of last quarter. Below are the results:

Lewis Hall: first floor, 3.760; second floor, 3.726; and the dormitory total, 3.743.

West Hall: first floor, 2.913; second floor, 3.602; third floor, 3.170; and the dormitory average, 3.228.

Cone Hall: first floor, 3.22; second floor, 2.73; and the dormitory total, 2.975.

East Hall: first floor, 3.08; second floor, 3.05; third floor, 2.50; and the dormitory total, 2.87.

Sanford Hall, first floor, 2.370; second floor, 2.253; third floor, 1.87; and the dormitory total, 2.164.

Student Council Sponsors Dance For Homecoming

The annual Student Council-sponsored homecoming dance will be held in the alumni gymnasium on Saturday, February 8, at 10 p. m., according to Ed Brown, president of the Georgia Teachers College Student Council.

Aubrey Highsmith, chairman of the G.T.C. social committee, stated that the theme of the dance will coincide with the Golden Anniversary, and all students, faculty, alumni and friends of the college are invited to attend.

Music for the dance will be provided by the college combo which is under the direction of Dana M. King.

Jane Jackson, junior class Student Council representative, is in charge of the decorations.

P. E. Club Wins Bloodmobile Contest Mon.

Forty-two Georgia Teachers College students participated in the Bloodmobile drive on Jan. 27, sponsored by the Bulloch County Chapter of the American Red Cross, according to Dr. Ralph K. Tyson, dean of students.

Members of 26 campus organizations contributed to the drive. The Physical Education Club won the fifteen dollar first prize, since it claimed the greatest number of contributors.

The Student Council, Baptist Student Union, and Veterans Club tied for second place, and each club will receive $5.

Of the 52 contributors, 12 were rejected, and the total receipts numbered 40 pints.

Recitals Planned By Music Majors

Three senior music majors are preparing to present recitals during the quarter. Ouida Newby from Cochran, Stanley Brobston from Baxley, and James Jones from Twin City will give vocal recitals. Ouida and Stanley are preparing for a joint recital on February 24. Later in the quarter James will also give a vocal recital.

Ouida will be accompanied by Ruth Odum and Betty Sue Mashburn will accompany Stanley. Mr. Robert Buckner, a member of the music faculty, is James' accompanist.

MOVIE SCHEDULE

The movie schedule for winter quarter is listed below: January 31, Blackboard Jungle; February 7, Student Prince; February 14, Young Bess; February 21, Many Rivers to Cross; March 28, Desiree; April 4, Man Called Peter; April 11, Girl in the Red Velvet Swing; April 18, Rains of Ranchipur; April 25, Spirit of St. Louis; May 2, Garden of Evil; and May 9, River of No Return.

SIS HEYS, Miss G.T.C. of 1956-57, will be on hand to crown the beauty chosen Miss G.T.C. of 1957-58 in the twelfth annual Beauty Revue sponsored by the Alpha Rho Tau, "Visions of Venus," to be held in McCroan Auditorium February 7 at 8 o'clock. Sis, a native of Fitzgerald, graduated from Georgia Teachers College last June and is now teaching in the field of home economics.

Largest Paper Ever Next Week

This week's George-Anne is a small, fold your own, four page edition. Next week for the 50th anniversary celebration we will print the largest edition in the history of the paper—12 pages. This edition will feature a pictorial history of G.T.C. and also Dr. Jack Averitt's short written history of the college which was written especially for this occasion.

There will also be special features on faculty members who have been here for a number of years.

Senators Herman Talmadge and Richard Russell have sent messages which will appear in this edition. Other dignitaries sending special greetings are Governor Marvin Griffin, Congressman Prince Preston, Mayor Bill Bowen, and State Senator Everett Williams.

Freshmen Participate In Southern Survey

This morning a group of G.T.C. freshmen attended a meeting, the outcome of which may help to shape the planning for future freshmen on this campus.

All currently enrolled freshmen who entered either summer or fall quarter met with Dean Helen Duncan, Peggy and Harriet Cowart in McCroan auditorium this morning where they learned from Miss Duncan that they have been selected to participate in a survey of college freshmen being conducted in many colleges throughout the South. Each one present was given a five-page questionnaire which they were asked to fill out and return to the office of dean of students by Tuesday, February 4.

Freshmen will be asked to express their opinions about provision made by the college for aiding them with their adjustment to college. They will be asked to compare high school and college; express their views on hazing, athletics, activities, moral values and other aspects of college life; and to give suggestions for improvement. Results of the survey will be tabulated and used by the office of dean of students in future planning. Similar surveys are being made in about fifty other Southern colleges. The questionnaire was originally used by Agatha Townsend as a basis for her publication "College Freshmen Speak Out," and is being used on this campus with permission of the publisher.

Peggy and Harry Cowart are co-operating with Miss Duncan in this survey as a project for their sociology class. They will do most of the tabulation and will prepare a summary of the results.

Students will not be required to sign the questionnaire, Miss Duncan stated, and she expressed the hope that there will be at least 90 per cent of the questionnaires returned. Any student not present at the meeting who would like to avail himself or the opportunity of expressing his views on the college program for freshmen is invited by Miss Duncan to drop by the office and obtain a questionnaire.

G.T.C. Will Play Host to Region Music Festival

On March 7 and 8, Georgia Teachers' College will play host to the Region Five Music Festival. This year only bands, choruses, instrumental and vocal solos and ensembles will be presented. Because of the size of this region it has been divided into two sections. However, there will be approximately 2,000 band and chorus members on campus during the event.

Replacing Jack W. Broucek, past chairman of the festival, are Dr. Daniel S. Hooley and Mr. Dana M. King as co-chairmen.

As has been the policy each year, vocal entries will be judged in Marvin Pittman School, instrumental entries in the music building, and bands in McCroan Auditorium. In addition to the festival will be the judging of bands in sight-reading. Judges for the bands will be Dr. C. B. Hunt, head of Peabody College music department; Sam Swor, director of Isaac Litton High School band in Nashville, Tennessee; and C. E. Bouvinger, high school band director from Charleston, South Carolina.

Dr. Jack N. Averitt, chairman of the 50th anniversary homecoming committee announces the agenda for Saturday, February 8.

At 9:30 Alumni registration will take place in East Hall lobby. Kappa Phi Kappa will be in charge of this part of the activities. The several divisions on campus will be hosts to former majors at 11 o'clock. Besides former majors, present majors are urged and invited to visit their respective departments to talk with the alumni.

The annual barbecue will take place at 12 o'clock behind the alumni building, weather permitting. Then at 1:30 the alumni will hold their annual meeting in McCroan Auditorium.

The highlight of the afternoon will be the homecoming parade at 2:30. President Henderson is having a reception at his home for the alumni at 4:30. All seniors are invited to attend as they will become members of the Alumni Association this June. Climaxing the day's activities will be a basketball game between G.T.C. and Erskine College of Due West, South Carolina.

Sunday, February 9, at 11:30 the Statesboro churches will have a special college recognition service.

Dana King Will Hold Band Clinic

During the concert tour by the G.T.C. band, Mr. Dana King, director, will hold a clinic for the Glynn Academy band in Brunswick. Certain members of the college band will assist in the clinic. This will be Mr. King's fifth clinic with the Glynn Academy band.

LEWIS HALL SPONSORS DANCE SATURDAY NIGHT

A record dance will be held tomorrow night in the old gym at 8 p. m.

Lewis Hall is in charge of the dance and the theme will be "Ground Hog Day."

DR. ROBERT STROZIER will deliver the convocation address at G.T.C.'s 50th Anniversary celebration. He is one of the South's outstanding educators and the newly appointed President of Florida State University. Dr. Strozier is a native Georgian and taught romance languages in Georgia colleges for several years.

Editorials

Attend Convocation

On Friday from 10:30 to 11:30 a. m., Georgia Teachers College will have a convocation. Most students have never seen a convocation and seem to think it is only a speech and very dull. However, it is a very impressive ceremony.

Included in the convocation will be an academic procession which many students only see at their graduation. An academic procession consists of all professors on campus dressed in their academic regalia. They will have on their robes and hoods with the colors representing their degree and the school that granted the degree. This idea was carried over from the medieval universities. In fact, some countries today and some American Universities, seniors and professors still wear academic gowns to classes.

In a way the students of G.T.C. will be showing what they think of school tradition by their attendance at the convocation. Dr. Robert Strozier is one of the leading educators in the South and his message will be excellent.

We urge you to ATTEND convocation.

Let's Curse

Are you shocked by the above headline? Well, you should be. Recently an editorial appeared in this paper concerning some of the language used by students at the basketball games. Apparently some people failed to read it. At one of the recent games a student let loose with some vulgar language that was most unnecessary. More than likely the person didn't realize that he was actually showing everyone around him just how immature he really was.

Why do we curse and swear? Here are some sarcastic answers that might make you think twice before you fly off the handle again.

1. It pleases God.
2. Mother and dad brought me up that way.
3. It wins friends and influences people.
4. It shows our fine character.
5. People admire us for our wonderful vocabulary.

Let's try to keep these five answers in mind when we get the urge. Surprise people and show them you are not so bad after all.

Grow Up Brats!

When will some people ever learn to grow up and act their age! Sometimes the answer to this question can be enough to try the patience of a saint, which unfortunately, very few are.

An incident occurred in the dining hall Wednesday which was extremely perturbing to Mrs. Melton and quite a lot of aggravation to the students who had to stand in line unnecessarily.

If an outsider had passed by the dining hall at the time the doors were opened, he would have wondered if he were in a nursery school at recess, or in the middle of the filming of a western movie while the "Injuns" were attacking, or in the middle of a pig pen at feeding time. Surely it would have never occurred to him that he was on a college campus and that it was just time for supper.

Such a display of disgraceful behavior would be enough to cause the parents of those students who created such a disturbance to be horrified and to wonder if they had really raised such ill-mannered children.

What can be proved or accomplished in line, shouting and fighting to the serving counter?

Does it add to their prestige or could it make any better men of them. To think in this light is ridiculous, a demonstration of juvenile behavior such as this is not only aggravating to their fellow students, but thoroughly disgusting to everyone.

Before an incident of this kind occurs again, let's stop and remember just what we are here for and try to prevent a second display of such ill behavior.

Dear Editor:

Upon graduation from high school, I felt that no school spirit could exceed the one I had just witnessed for 12 years. I still believe few spirits equal the high school spirit, however, for the past three years as a student at Georgia Teachers College, I have developed a great sense of pride for our college.

Pride for our college can be shown in various ways, but I feel that during the speedily approaching homecoming weekend and 50-year celebration all of us who are proud of G.T.C. and want to show that we are, have many opportunities to prove it.

The first chance will come at 10:30 a. m. Friday when Dr. Robert Strozier, president of Florida State University will deliver the convocation address.

Attendance at this assembly is not compulsory for students but the public and many dignitaries have been invited, and I feel that if we, the students of G.T.C., do not attend, it will give the outsiders the impression WE are not interested in OUR school and consequently we may lose their support.

Therefore, I urge all students to attend the convocation, to come well-dressed, and be courteous enough to stay until the program ends.

Let's all do our part in building the prestige of G.T.C. throughout the homecoming weekend and for the rest of our college career.

Sincerely,
Jane Jackson

REFLECTION

Time for me is passing much too quickly,

My life has just begun!
Stop that clock and let me catch each second

Before it is too late.
Now that I am young

Each moment must be filled right to the brim
With efforts to attain my goals
In life.

Already eighteen years have passed,

And right before my grievous eyes they've fled

I don't know where they've gone.

THE CHANGING SCENE

The wooded scene is changing now,

It's birds away are flying.

Their absence gives the place somehow

An atmosphere of dying.

Cluttered Campus Proves Students Are Careless

Remember that Coke bottle you just didn't have time to put away or that wad of paper you slipped under the nearest bush? We are constantly being reminded of these careless habits, but it seems to have done little good. Do you realize that it would take at least half a dozen men, hired full time, to keep the campus looking as it should. This is not only unnecessary but completely ridiculous! It should be your responsibility as students.

The Vet's Club has taken the initiative several times to organize clean-up campaigns on campus and should be highly commended. Their recent campaign has included the display of posters, announcements on the public address system, and constant personal reminders and has for the most part been fairly successful.

This Thursday, February 6, a final effort will be made to have the campus looking at its best for the homecoming celebration. Jerry Brown and John Clark are in charge of organizing a volunteer student committee to make a final check on campus appearance.

It should be a matter of personal pride as well as school spirit to cause any student to participate in this portion of the campaign. However, the fact remains, the desire to keep the campus looking attractive must be a continual one, and not just a project motivated simply for the occasion.

Editor's Desk

There was a recent article in the Christian Science Monitor entitled "Case for 'Eggheads' Put Forward." It discusses the case that is being put forward for outstanding scholars by different groups in the country.

The entire problem was forcefully stated by an American natural scientist at a meeting of the Associated Press Managing Editors Association recently when he said, "Until the time comes when the Phi Beta Kappa has the same social standing as the football player, we are going to fall behind in our technological race with the U.S.S.R."

This statement pretty well sums up the prevailing attitude in the U. S. today. But there are responsible citizens in the country who are attempting to remedy the situation.

One of Chicago's outstanding papers, the Sun-Times, recently devoted almost three-quarters of its editorial page to honoring new Phi Beta Kappas selected at Northwestern University.

Recently when the University of Illinois announced plans for a multi-million dollar sports palace the Chicago Daily News, one of the old time great Chicago dailies, editorialized, "The big universities have come in for their share of the lumps with criticism of both the quantity and quality of higher education... and what is the University of Illinois' answer to all this? An enormous, saucer-shaped basketball emporium to cost 7.5 million."

The "News" goes on to further castigate the University by stating, "Students who go to the University of Illinois to get an education, rather than to watch basketball games, have just cause for indignation. So do their parents and every taxpayer in Illinois."

The University of Illinois is not an isolated case. This has happened at other schools before and is happening at many colleges and universities today. It is a plain case of misplaced emphasis, and until a balance is obtained whereby the Phi Beta Kappa at least receives the same recognition as the athlete, then we can expect the mushrooming of mammoth stadiums and gymnasiums at the expense of needed classrooms.

The case for "Eggheads" needs to be put forward faster and more forcefully by more people.

The citizens who are leading the fight are to be commended.

Typical Day In Life Of Typical GTC Student??

More things can happen in just one day—especially to me. And I blame it on my roommate. If she'd just leave me alone at 6:30 every morning, I'd sleep all day and stay out of trouble, but instead I get drenched with a cup of water, and go out in the wide wide world foot first, mouth second. (You have, of course, heard of foot-mouth disease? open mouth, insert foot, CRUNCH!)

So after mopping the floor, the bed, and me, roommate and I paddle off to breakfast in the dark. Say, have you noticed those crazy onions blooming by three steps of Anderson Hall? One day, I'm going to pull a few of them to see if they're growing—they're the same size they were when I first noticed them.

Then after cat-napping through breakfast, we go back to the room to clean up—this hasn't been accomplished but once or twice, the dirt seems to stay a step or so ahead.

Finally, I realize that I'm five minutes late for Dr. Ward's history class (I sometimes wonder if it's worth what I went through registration day), so I fly down the stairs, out the door, back in the door, back up the stairs, grab my coat off my bed, sail down the stairs again, out the door, in the ad. building, up the stairs—down the stairs, out of the ad. building, back in the dorm, up the stairs, down the hall get my books, back down the hall, out the door, in the ad. building, up the stairs, around the corner, FINALLY into Dr. Ward's history class, and fall in my desk, and sleep through that class.

The girl that sits next to me (bless her pea-pickin' heart) wakes me up in time to charge across campus to P. E. I try to play badminton, but there's a hole a yard wide in my racket racquet rackit, oh heck, anyway, I can't hit the birdie. HIT the birdie I can't even SEE the birdie!!

After the eight cups of coffee I drink during the 30-minute break at the Little Store, I trod back to class: English 103 with Dean Duncan. No comment—I heard she reads my column, and I want to pass English.

When the liberty bell rings, I charge off to lunch, gobble my slop, and beat it hot-foot to the dorm, up the stairs, in the room, grab a cat nap, wake up in time to get in the last half of the hour I work, and then fly over to drawing class, murder through a few scrawny pictures and FINALLY drag out of class.

The rest of the afternoon I drink coffee and sleep, and sleep and drink coffee, and then drag into supper—where my roommate just loves to trip me, with me ending up flat on my face in the dining hall. She's still trying to restrain me from pulling those crazy onions, but one of these mad days...

By ALBERT BURKE

Looking back to the early part of this basketball season I recall some remarks made about the playing of our G.T.C. basketball team. The remarks in general were aimed at the poor record of the Profs.

Some of these persons didn't realize that the Professors have only one experienced ball player, sophomore Chester Curry. The other few returning lettermen had seen only limited varsity action when entering this season. In my opinion, inexperience is the reason why the Profs got off to a slow start this year.

Coach Scarce pointed out that one or two mistakes at the very end of four games had charged the team with four defeats. The games to which he is referring are as follows: Jacksonville University, Wofford College, Presbyterian College, and Quantico Marine Corp School. These were all home games; so many of you know the mistakes to which Coach Scarce is referring.

get choked up when a starts putting pressure on us," said Coach Scarce, "and that is when we start making those terrible things, called mistakes. If this was last year's team and the pressure was put on, they would win by 25 points rather than 5. We play a good first thirty minutes then we start missing the easy crisp shots."

The Profs played this very pattern against Mercer here January 25. The Bears got off in front but the Profs passed them very quickly with their fine team work. The score was tied three times at the start (5-5, 10-10, 14-14), but this tightness seemed to stimulate the Profs onward. As a matter of fact they ended the first half leading by 12 points. They continued holding a 10 to 15 point lead for the first ten minutes of the second half. During the next ten minutes pressure was put on these inexperienced ball players—the effect was that the Bears of Mercer moved to within 5 points of the Profs' lead. From that stage of the game the Bears got within 3 points of the Profs, but the Profs held on to this slim lead to win 66-63.

"Looking into the future, this G.T.C. team has as much potential playing ability as any past G.T.C. team," stated Coach Scarce in a very serious manner. Joe Brewer, Dexter Hughes, and Linda NeSmith of Georgia Teachers College and Phoebe Kelly of Statesboro, entertained a group of officers and their wives at Fort Stewart, Georgia, Saturday night.

Joe and Dexter went Calypso when they did a startling number taken from the Bay Shore Boys' album, "Let's Go Calypso." Another number was Phoebe doing a hula dance, taking the imagination of the audience to a Hawaiian night club and the concluding number was a waltz by both couples.

All numbers were accompanied by Mrs. Emma Kelly of Statesboro.

This week I would like to direct the opinions of my column toward the library. Not toward the use of the library, or the history of the library, or the material in the library, but toward the expected conduct of students visiting the library.

Do we consider the Rosendal Library at Georgia Teachers College a place for research or a place for social life. What do we expect to do when we visit this library, and what do we expect to gain from this visit. What we expect, what we do, and what we gain may depend on the atmosphere we find there.

What type of atmosphere would you like to find in the library?

John Donald Akins—I think the library should be very quiet because when I leave the dormitory I go to the library to study.

Ray Wilson—I think the library is for studying. The reason I go is for research and study.

Joyce Martin—I think that the library should not be a place for visiting friends.

Robert Gressette—The library is a place for people to go to study. Naturally it should maintain a quiet atmosphere which encourages good study habits.

Harriet Armstrong — I think that it should be a place where you can go and study when it is too noisy elsewhere.

Sue Long—A quiet atmosphere should be maintained in the library before any other place on campus.

Douglas Winters—I think that it should be quieter.

Betty Biggers—I think that the people should be friendly and helpful, but quiet in doing so.

Cary Moore — Movement of books, people, or other things should not be exceedingly noisy.

Carolyn Kelly — The atmosphere in the library should be one of friendliness, but romances and jam sessions should be carried outside.

New Policy Bars Students From Beauty Revue Dress Rehearsal

By BOB SPELL

In 1956 we were submerged beneath water to gaze at the "Pearls of the Sea." In 1957 we were whisked away to the orient to view some intriguing beauties in the land of "Orientigue." And now in 1958 we are zoomed out into space to look at some "Visions of Venus."

Alpha Rho Tau has tried to outdo itself each year for the past several years, but this year, the members agree, it has really gone (in the words of a popular song) "All the Way." Ask any member and he or she will guarantee that there has never been anything on the stage like what will be seen at 8 p. m. a week from today.

And speaking of seeing the Beauty Revue, in the past several years a number of students have enjoyed watching the dress rehearsal of the annual beauty contest, but it is not to be so this year. The art club feels that the students will spoil the beauty revue for themselves if they see the dress rehearsal, so the organization is enforcing a new policy this year that no one will be allowed in the auditorium unless on specific business. The club feels that this will help the participants of the Beauty Revue as well as the club itself.

Tickets for the Beauty Revue are 75 cents this year and will go on sale at 7:15 on the night of the revue. The doors will be closed from 8:10 until the end of the first act, and will close again at the beginning of the second scene. During the second short intermission the audience may leave but the doors will be shut tight for the climax of the evening... the crowning of Miss T.C. of 1958!

The title of the first scene is "Suspension," the second, "Mass," and the final "Beauty."

We leave the reader's mind and imagination to figure out what these titles mean, but we will give a hint by saying it will definitely be unearthly.

At 2 o'clock on the afternoon preceding the affair a tea will be held in Cone Hall for the contestants, judges, art club officers, and special guests. This has been done to enable the judges to see the young ladies in street clothes and note their poise and grace off the stage. The judges will by no means select the queen and her court at this tea, but it will serve to give the judges a better perspective of each girl's personality and beauty.

Students who have a fresh memory of "Moulin Rouge" will anticipate as beautiful a setting for this occasion as for the Starlight Club Ball and the Art Club feels they will not be disappointed in the twelfth annual Beauty Revue.

Youth Revival Planned in Feb.

A youth revival will be held in McCroan Auditorium of Georgia Teachers College, Monday through Friday, February 10-14, at 6:15 p. m. This revival is being sponsored by the Ministerial Association with pre-ministerial students doing the preaching.

The preachers for the week are: Frank Hinesman on Monday, Dahl McDermitt on Tuesday, Bill Allen on Wednesday, Ellis Vandergrift on Thursday, and Ray Wilder on Friday. The song leader for the week is Franklin Pierce, and the organist is Billy Sanders.

If student participation is satisfactory, plans are underway for a second week of the youth revival.

Not really. 'Cause if Coke had been around in Caesar's day, Caesar would have treated himself to the sparkling good taste, the welcome lift of Cokel! Caesar's motto—"I came, I saw, I conquered." Pretty good motto for Cokel too—the prime favorite in over 100 countries today!
