Freshman Orientation Begins Today

2,750 Expected To Register For Fall Term

Three-Day Task Begins Tomorrow With Frosh First

Fall quarter registration will begin Tuesday and run through Thursday with approximately 2,750 students enrolling in courses for the first quarter of the new school year.

Freshmen will begin the three-day process by registering tomorrow. Registration will be held in the W. S. Hanner Gymnasium beginning at 9 a.m. and running through to 4:30 p.m.

Before registering for courses, all freshmen and new students are required to consult with their faculty advisors for course clearance. The required registration card will be given them and signed by their advisors.

Sophomores, Juniors and Seniors previously attending Georgia Southern will secure these cards upon entrance to the course registration hall in the Hanner Building.

On Wednesday the graduate and senior students will register from 9-10:30 a.m. and juniors will register from 2-4 p.m.

Sophomores will register on Thursday between 9 a.m. and 12 p.m. to close out regular registration. Late registration fees will be charged beginning freshmen residence halls (Anderson, Deal, Lewis, Cone and Sanford) from 8 till 9:30 p.m.

'Welcome, Y'all'

Mary Sue Gibson, a sophomore elementary education major from Swainsboro, appears to have her books already under control. If you are good at reading expressions, you might be able to translate her expression something like this: "Why, I'd love to have my picture on the front page of the George-Anne to welcome all those nice boys, I mean, new students to Georgia Southern."

New Southerners Face Full Week Of Lectures, Tests, Long Lines

Approximately 777 freshmen, some 250 more than last year's total, arrived on campus yesterday and will begin a week-long period of taking tests, hearing lectures, standing in lines and getting acquainted with GSC.

All this will be part of Freshman orientation activities which begins this morning with an assembly in McCroan Auditorium at 8:30. At 10 a.m. freshmen will get a preview of orientation activities and will receive registration directions.

The new Georgia "Southerners" will meet their student advisors at 11 a.m.; and following a break for lunch, will meet their academic advisors from 2-4:30 p.m.

A "Welcome to Statesboro Dance," sponsored by the Statesboro Junior Chamber of Commerce, will be held tonight in the Alumni Building (Old Gym) from 8-11 p.m.

TOMORROW

After a hearty breakfast, freshmen will meet with their faculty advisors from 8:30 till noon for last-minute pre-registration directions. The new students will then register in the W. S. Hanner Building from 2-4 p.m.

Those who survive registration procedures will be invited to attend an Open House in the

WEDNESDAY

Freshmen will pay their registration fees from 8 until 10 a.m. Registration will be incomplete until all fees are paid.

The new arrivals will then receive information concerning inter-collegiate and intramural athletics at GSC and will hear a panel discussion in campus organizations and activities. Following lunch, freshmen will

Georgia College Teacher Salaries Receiving Boost

According to a release by the Atlanta Constitution, the new $150-million biennium budget for the University of Georgia System will boost the salaries of Georgia college teachers above the national average for the first time.

The Constitution stated that teachers at the present time in the state receive about 8 per cent below the average national salary.

Boosting college faculty salaries 10 per cent in 1965-66, this raise will be followed by another 8 per cent increase in 1966-67.

Total state appropriations for state colleges this year amounted to $50.5 million. The paper stated this will jump to almost $70 next year and nearly $80 million in 1966-67.

A great deal of the increase in operating expenses will come from rising enrollments and from the increase in faculty salaries, the Constitution quoted.

The eventual goal for college teachers' salaries in Georgia will be to reach the "third quartile" level. This will mean, the paper said, that only one-fourth of comparable institutions pay higher salaries.

Powell Awarded First Prize In Fictional Writing

Roy F. Powell, assistant professor of English, was awarded the first place prize for fiction writing at the recent Southern Writer's Workshop held in Athens.

Powell received this acclaim over thirty-five other writers from throughout the Southeast. Prizes were presented in the areas of non-fiction, fiction, drama, poetry, and juvenile books.

Critics attending the workshop included John Selby, professor of creative writing, Columbia University; Maggie Davis of Atlanta, a foremost novelist; and Marion Montgomery, native Georgian, poet and novelist.

Women's Dorm Contract Awarded

A Florida contracting company won the contract to construct the new 300 capacity women's dormitory on the Georgia Southern campus after making the lowest bid under several other bidders.

Scheduled to begin construction on the new facility within the next two weeks, Demetree Builders Incorporated of Jacksonville, Fla., submitted the low bid of $739,697 last month for building contract rights, according to Comptroller William Dewberry.

The new residence hall will be located on Georgia Avenue. It will be of contemporary architecture and completely air-conditioned.

Completion date for the new residence hall is set for one year. Thomas, Driscoll, Hutton of Savannah are the building architects.

Plans and specifications for a new dining hall - student center, fine arts building, men's dormitory, women's dormitory and an addition to the W. S. Hanner Gymnasium are expected to be completed by January. Construction on these additional buildings is expected to begin before a March date.

"Welcome" Dance Set For Tonight at Knight Village

Freshmen students will be treated to a "Welcome to Statesboro dance tonight at 8 p.m. at the Knight Village sundeck and parking lot, sponsored by the Statesboro Chamber of Commerce.

Lasting until 11 p.m., the dance will feature a number of performances by Georgia Southern students and faculty members. Nell McBeck, a sophomore student and Decca recording artist, will sing several selections during the 20 minute intermission.

'And a yea, yea, yea!'

If there's anything that has a monopoly on campus activities, it's dancing. Freshman students can count on dancing their way through college as long as a band or record player is around. The first official dance of the year will be the "Welcome to Statesboro" dance scheduled for tonight.

'What's Going On Here?'

Although this might look like the three bears wrecking Goldilocks house and stealing her books, it's actually the reflection of a problem Rosenwald Librarian Hassie McElveen and her staff have had since construction began on the library addition and the renovation of parts of the present building. When asked to pose for this picture, Mrs. McElveen said "there couldn't be a more natural way to do it."

New Tenth Period Will Be Placed In Effect Friday

Many Georgia Southern students aren't going to like getting up for a 7:30 a.m. class, but with the addition of the tenth period on to the college day it's going to become a standard schedule for many students.

The new schedule was ruled on last spring by the president's Advisory Committee. It will operate on the half-hour basis rather than last year's hourly set-up. The first period class will begin at 7:30 a.m. and the tenth period class, or final period, will end at 5:30 p.m.

The action was taken by the committee in order to better adequately handle the expected increase in enrollment this fall.

Dr. Zach Henderson, GSC president, earlier stated that there was no other alternative but to add the extra period, and that the measure was being taken because of the lack of adequate classroom space with the present facilities.

The last time a change was made in the class period schedule was in 1961-62 when the 4 p.m. class was added, extending the number of periods to nine.

Several other colleges in the state have periods that reach into the night in schedule capacity, Henderson stated.

One GSC professor stated that "this is a part of the growth and progress of the institution, and a solution which will work until physical facilities are provided to keep abreast of the growth in enrollment."

Future Teachers Must be Admitted To Program Now

Students transferring from other colleges and planning to major in a teaching program should contact John Lindsey, assistant director of teacher education, for admission to the teacher education program.

Application for admission to teacher education for freshman and sophomore students will be filed while the student is enrolled in the Education 205 course.

Admission is required before a student is allowed to enter any professional education course other than Education 205.

Students admitted to the teacher education program must have an overall C average in total academic work. Admission to the program is not allowed unless the student shows demonstrated interest in teaching, good moral character, sophomore standing, effective communication skills, sound emotional and mental health and command of the area of teaching speciality.

Application forms may be secured from the Education Division located in the Administration Building.

NOTICE

Transfer students who plan to major in elementary education should attend a planning session in the Marvin Pittman Auditorium on Wednesday at 9 a.m.

Rosenwald Library Functioning Under New Circulation Policies

Students who check out materials from the Rosenwald Library must comply with a new policy which requires the presentation of the student identification card at the circulation desk.

Mrs. Mae Olliff, assistant librarian, stated that each student must fill out a registration card for the library during the registration session and all non-students must register in the library.

The signature used on book cards and materials must always correspond to the identification card signature presented when checking out material. This signature should be applied to the card before bringing it to the circulation desk.

Mrs. Olliff stated that due to the construction on the new addition to the library and the renovation work underway on the present building, several changes have been made in the location of library materials.

She pointed out that current periodicals and newspapers are now located upstairs and the bound periodicals have been arranged downstairs.

The Rosenwald Library has a present holding of approximately 80,000 catalogued volumes, 700 periodicals, eight daily newspapers, as well as filmstrips, microfilms and recordings.

Commenting on the duplicating machines, Mrs. Olliff stated that a new self-service Xerox duplicator has been purchased. Presently students only have access to the thermo-fax duplicator.

Library hours in effect for the 1964-65 school year will be 7:45 a.m. - 10 p.m. onday - Thursday; Friday, 7:45 a.m. - 9 p.m.; Saturday, 8:30 a.m. - 5 p.m. The library does not operate on Sunday.

he Marvin Pittman School Library is open from 8 a.m. - 4 p.m. Monday - Friday.

The Holiday schedule changes will be posted in advance.

Until classes begin the library will be open from 8 a.m. - 4 p.m.

Textbooks On Sale Tuesday For Freshmen

Textbooks will go on sale tomorrow morning at 8:30 in room 104 of the Frank I. William Center, according to C.R. Pound, Student Center director.

Students may purchase the prescribed course texts and workbooks at this time. Parallel reading paperback books and general school supplies may be purchased in the downstairs bookstore.

Checks will be accepted for the payment of books. These checks should be made payable to Georgia Southern College and list the students college address.

No refunds will be made on new books after the last day of course changes. Refunds can only be made on books that can be resold.

Post Office Opens Today For Service

Postal service will resume on regular schedule today at the Georgia Southern Branch Post Office with combination boxes available for approximately 500 students, according to Ken Bennett, postal clerk.

The branch post office will operate Monday-Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and on Saturday from 8:30 a.m. to 12 p.m.

Students desiring a post office box should register at the office window. Only three students are allowed to use a box. Those without boxes may secure their mail from general delivery, Bennett said.

Rental on the boxes for the balance of the month of September and the forthcoming postal quarter is $1.20. This is thirty cents more than the regular quarter price of .90 due to the length and schedule of the standard postal quarter.

Each person renting a new box must fill out application 1093 required by law. This is not necessary for box renewal.

Bennett stated that only standard size envelopes are sold at the window and that these are stamped envelopes. He said stamps and money orders may also be purchased, except money orders will not be sold on Saturdays.

He pointed out that special delivery services may be forwarded to another post office, but the branch office does not administer special delivery service to the campus.

When leaving school, patrons who wish for their mail to be forwarded should ask for a change of address card and then completely fill this blank out. This card should be returned to the branch office, Bennett added.

Students who receive packages too large for immediate delivery will find a form in their boxes directing them to call at the window. Bennett emphasized that the student should present his box number and name to the postal clerk.

He said that if the package is not for the student, then the card should be placed back in the box for the benefit of that student to whom the package does belong.

Students who do not pay their box rent will be cut off from the use of that box and the combination will be changed, he said.

The Georgia Southern branch Zip Code is 30459. Students who wish to know the Zip Code of their home towns may secure it at the window.

'Sounds From Southern' Returns To Air Over 35 Radio Stations

"Sounds from Southern" a weekly fifteen minute radio program directed by the Public Relations office will go on the air the week of September 28. It will be heard for the first time this fall in Statesboro on September 24, the Thursday of Freshman Week.

Hootennanny Hoot Planned

A Hootennanny Hoot reception and dance is scheduled for September 29 in the Alumni Gym and will be sponsored by Donaldson-Ramsey Varsity Shop and W. L. Smith Jewelers of Statesboro.

Featuring several well known bands and singing groups, such as the Cyclones, the dance will begin at 7:30 p.m. and last until 10 p.m.

The two Statesboro merchants making this event possible are offering door prizes and free tickets. Students who would like a free ticket should go by either of the merchant's stores and also register for a number of free door prizes to be given away.

Refreshments will be served during the reception.

The program was started in the Fall of 1961 with two radio stations. This year, Sounds from Southern will be heard by approximately one million listeners over thirty-five radio stations.

Included in these thirty-five communities are Savannah (WSAV), Brunswick (WGIG), Valdosta (WGAL), Atlanta, (WAKE and WYZE), Gainesville (WLBA), Augusta (WBBQ) and Waycross (WACL).

The format of the program is made up of students primarily. "Every now and then, a special occasion will warrant a faculty or staff member interview; but we want the student voice basically; we feel this is what parents and friends will listen for," commented Richard F. Mandes, director of public relations.

In addition to the radio show, the Public Relations office will be producing a fifteen minute news program per month over the ETV network out of Athens.

'Up She Goes'

Hindered to some extent this summer by rains and hurricane weather, the three story addition to the Rosenwald Library continues its climb toward the sky. Completion date for the facility has a contract schedule for sometime before the 1965 fall term begins. The building was begun this past spring.

Orientation . . .

attend a Student Health Assembly in McCroan Auditorium from 1:30 till 3 p.m. From 3:30-4 p.m., information concerning safety and security on campus will be presented. Next will be a panel discussion on campus regulations.

A free movie will be shown in day night beginning at 8 p.m. Title of the movie is "Period of Adjustment," starring Jim Hutton and Jane Fonda.

Thursday morning, freshmen will hear an orientation to religious activities in McCroan at 8:30. Following a short break, information concerning academic regulations will be given; and freshmen will have an afternoon of "free time."

CLASSES BEGIN

Academic classes begin Friday, and GSC's new students will begin winding up orientation activities. The traditional Freshman Talent Night will be held in McCroan Auditorium beginning at 8 p.m.

Saturday night the sophomore class will sponsor a dance in the Alumni Gymnasium. Sunday will be "College Student Day" in the Statesboro churches. Orientation activities will close with the annual Student - Welcome. Picnics sponsored by the Statesboro Churches on Wednesday, Sept. 30.

A Statement Of Policy

As The George-Anne begins its 38th year of publication, we believe a statement concerning the editorial policy of this paper should be given for the benefit of our readers and publishers, the students of Georgia Southern College.

For the sake of technicality, The George-Anne will be published weekly except for holidays and weeks during final examinations. All news for publication should be submitted to the newspaper office prior to the weekly deadline.

The purpose of The George-Anne, as should be the purpose of any good college newspaper, is to present an accurate and truthful account of the events and activities taking place at Georgia Southern and to give and encourage student and faculty opinion concerning these through editorials, columns and letters to the editor.

We are dedicated to the academic and physical growth of Georgia Southern and we will strive for this progress during the coming year. We believe that Georgia Southern has the potential of becoming one of the leading academic institutions in the state, and we will subscribe heartily to this goal.

The editor of The George-Anne will be responsible for all stories printed in the newspaper, and he has the authority to edit or withhold any material for reasons he deems necessary, such as lack of space, lack of sufficient information or questions of libel. All other positions on the George-Anne staff will be subordinate to that of editor.

The business manager of the newspaper will be in charge of all advertising copy for the week's publication. Advertising in The George-Anne is open to anyone or any business and must be submitted prior to the week's advertising deadline.

In matters of state, local and national interest, The George-Anne will follow a standard of responsible moderation; and thus, we look with some disfavor at the Republican Presidential ticket and at extremists groups from both the left and right wings.

In the area of athletics, we strongly favor the GSC athletic program, both intercollegiate and intramural, and we encourage the promotion of more athletic teams and athletic facilities providing it does not hinder or jeopardize the growth and development of other academic areas.

We also favor Governor Sanders' program to improve education in Georgia and feel that this will benefit all educational institutions in the state.

The George-Anne also favors the present building program adopted by Georgia Southern, and we hope that physical progress will continue at a rapid enough pace to keep up with the continuing academic growth of the college.

This newspaper endorses the GSC Student Congress, and we will continue to challenge the governing body to face the issues before it and provide workable solutions to problems facing the student body.

Letters to the editor are welcomed by this paper as an extension of student opinion and interest. Letters must be as an expression of student opinion and interest. Letters must be as brief as possible (300 words or less), must be signed by the writer and are subject to being edited. Decisions concerning whether or not letters will be published are those of the editorial board.

By serving as a forum for student opinion and by praising and criticizing the issues and problems confronting Georgia Southern, we hope this paper will be instrumental in promoting the progress of Georgia Southern in all areas; and we hope that students will be encouraged to take a more active interest in the affairs of this college and assume greater roles of leadership and responsibility.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"AS A FRESHMAN, ALICE, YOU'VE PROBABLY NOTICED THERE'S AN ADJUSTMENT TO BE MADE FROM HIGH SCHOOL TO COLLEGE."

Press Service

(ACP) - A two-part series points out that complaints about food at the University cafeterias are not new, nor are most solutions, says THE MINNESOTA DAILY, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis.

Studies have been done and comparisons made that show cafeteria food is expensive and not very tasty, but that's as far as the issue goes.

Fortunately, however, the Daily has evidence that University students are not alone in their supposed misery. A now - and - then survey of exchange papers from other colleges indicates that, year after year on most campuses, one of the main gripes of college editors is union and cafeteria food. (Others are dormitory food, noisy libraries, campus police, registration procedures, vernment).

No Solutions. Just gripes. dormitory hours and student go-Food is an overriding campus problem, almost an obsession, with no solution.

Somehow on this campus, cafeteria food doesn't seem to be an issue that boils the blood, so it is easier to find many realistic solutions for people who do not like University food-something for everyone:

Stub and Herb's, the Stadium, Gopher Piazza, Baltimore Lunch, the Varsity, the Bridge, Bridgeman's, Gray's, Harvard Drug, Al's Breakfast, the Tokyo, Pennant Sandwich Shop, McDonald's, Big Ten, Golden Gopher, Dinky Diner, Vali's Pizza, Vescio's, the Scholar. . .

Bag lunches.

Co-op eating clubs.

Vending machines.

Any constructive surveys of possible means of cutting costs and improving flavor, undertaken by an interested group of home economic class, would certainly be in order, of course. It would be a shame, though, to improve the food so much that students would lose one of their favorite scapegoats.

Problem: Female Overabundance

(ACP)—The Board of Trustees of the University of Connecticut, Storrs, has ordered a temporary admissions policy of 50 per cent men—50 per cent women, says THE CONNECTICUT DAILY CAMPUS.

President Homer D. Babbidge told the board that in the past years the number of women in the undergraduate enrollment has increased 75 per cent while the number of men has declined to some extent.

The principal reason for this, he said, is because of more men's colleges and universities than women's in the area thereby placing a greater burden on co-ed colleges and universities.

If the sex ration were to continue to get more unbalanced, certain undesirable situations might arise, Babbidge pointed out.

The first would be from a purely social standpoint. Secondly and more important, according to Babbidge, is the apparent fact that men, the principal breadwinners, are being squeezed out of higher education by the ever-increasing number of qualified female undergraduate students.

Provost Albert Waugh added a third reason for the change to 50-50 admissions. He said that if the present rate of admissions for women in comparison to men were to continue, some schools and colleges in the university might be forced to close.

Tommy HOLTON

Freshmen here, freshmen there, freshman everywhere!

That seems to adequately describe the condition of the Georgia Southern campus this morning. With the arrival of some 777 freshmen, it's almost impossible to walk around campus without being approached for guidance and "understanding" by one or several of the new arrivals.

HOLTON

When I say understanding, I don't mean it in any paternally - connected manner. In other words, I can understand that they do not know where the Administration and the Alumni buildings are located.

That's what I mean by understanding.

Few people know of the mental anguish that a poor and lonely freshman goes through when he is let out at the front door of the college dormitory and stands watching as his mommy and da-da drive off into the blue horizon.

Here he stands, lonely and self-conscious - - the image of education itself to people back home who look on him as a brilliant young specimen forsaking all forms of pleasure and ease for the cruel life of a college student.

Enough of that and on to something a little more important.

Before writing this column, I gave much thought as to the subject. After editing a stack of orientation copy for this edition of the paper, I felt sure you would be up to your neck in advice and guidance so I'm by-passing the usual "go-go" and "it's up to you" handouts and will tell you a little something about what you can expect from a variety of sources.

First of all, every freshman should work on the college newspaper. I don't know why you should work on the paper, but it seems to me like a good thing to do. You can gain all types of experience, for example, you can. . . uh, let me see. . . aw forget it!

A question that many freshmen students frequently ask upperclassmen, as I did when I was a freshman, concerned the chances of flunking out at this particular college. That's putting it crudely, but that's what they want to know.

That's a comparatively simple question to answer. If you'll come a little closer, I'll let you in on a little secret. Whoa! That's close enough. Well, to tell the truth, if you'll butter-up your teacher and use pure butter instead of oleo, and if you'll put in about three hours of study a day per subject, then it'll be a cinch - -crip!

As for some advice they won't give you in the orientation sessions, don't try to get out of doing a little thing and wind up with nothing. Another annual informal survey made by freshman and new students when they arrive on the college campus and before they sign up for courses, involves the task of eliminating by the process of "Questioning around" the possibilities of winding up with either an extremely difficult teacher or an inadequate one.

And above all else, don't let the upper classmen scare you with their tales of the flunkout rate, rat day and initiations. You can be assured that if it was half as difficult as they claimed, they wouldn't have ever made it through themselves.

The President's View Of Life For GSC Freshmen

To the Freshmen of 1964:
It is always a thrill to witness the opening of the college year.

DR. HENDERSON

Possibly the freshmen experience a greater thrill than any other group because going to college is an entirely new experience for them. For many the entrance to college is the realization of many years of thinking and planning. For some the reason for being in college may be primarily because it is the popular thing to do.

Usually the experiences one has during his first year in college are broadening and challenging. The opportunity to make new friends, the challenge of a more intellectual life and associations with a college faculty should encourage one to do his best.

In many respects college life today is similar to what it was a few years ago but in other respects it has changed considerably. A greater percentage of college age young people are attending college.

The scholarship requirements have been raised and much more work is required of college students. One reason for this is that today's world demands more knowledge, more know-how, more understanding of the world and the people who live it.

I am happy to welcome you to Georgia Southern College hoping that your year here will challenge you to use wisely your abilities.

- - Zach S. Henderson

Letter To '64-'65

GSC Freshmen

Dear Freshman,

We would like to start this letter by welcoming you to Georgia Southern College. In the next few days you will be meeting many other new students who have been thrown into a position much similar to yours. Along with meeting other students, you will be taking tests, standing in lines, paying fees; and there will be little time to even think of "homesickness."

You will also meet upperclassmen . . . some may regard you as childish or pity you as having a "rough road ahead." You will also meet your professors, and you will be thrown into an academic curriculum of standard freshmen courses.

In and out of classes you will be exposed to a cross-section of opinion and philosophy. You may be confused about many things. You may decide that you really didn't want to be a scientist, a doctor, lawyer or writer. In time, you may even wonder what you're really doing in college anyway.

Should you become faced with this problem, do not feel that you are alone. It is typical of many freshmen. There is no set formula for its solution, but you cannot hope to gain anything if you withdraw from reality.

The process of "finding yourself" . . . setting your goals in life, developing your philosophy and understanding yourself . . . has caused many to fall short of success. Yet, many others have faced this problem and have emerged leaders in our society.

If you haven't decided upon an academic major, you may be in a much better position than many of your friends. Consider all fields and educate yourself in them before reaching a decision; but do not choose a field and expect your college education to guarantee you a comfortable income.

The purpose of a college education goes much deeper than that. It is designed to help you help yourself to broaden your knowledge and become a more responsible person. The knowledge you want to obtain is here; it will be up to you to obtain it.

Once again, we wish to welcome you to Georgia Southern. We hope you will use wisely the many opportunities you will have, and that by doing so you will be a credit to this institution of which you are now a part.

Sincerely,

The George-Anne

Universities Must Prepare Student For Self-Education

By WINFRED L. GODWIN
Director Southern Regional Education Board

"Universities today must prepare their men and women for life - long self education, so they can master facts as yet undiscovered and apply them to solving problems which we cannot yet foresee."

This is the ambitious goal of Florida Atlantic University, as President Kenneth R. Williams states it. Opening its gates on a sunny campus in Boca Raton in Fall, 1964, the new institution hopes to blaze new trails in higher education, as does New College, another Florida institution going into operation in the fall on a bayside campus in Sarasota.

PLEDGES

Both fledgling institutions pledge themselves to bold new ideas and adventures in learning for future college students. They are but two of a score of ambitious colleges and universities launched in the South in the past five years, plus another dozen that have expanded from two to four year operations, to absorb the growing crop of Southern college students.

Florida is originating some of the region's most interesting experiments in higher education, as this state's educational boom keeps step with its industrial growth.

INDEPENDENT STUDY

Independent study is the key philosophy at both Florida Atlantic, which will take only upper division (juniors and seniors) students, and at New College. Not limited to honor students as many schools have done in the past, this individualized form of study will be emphasized for the average student as well as the fast learner. The pace of absorbing course work can be slowed down or accelerated within a flexible course period, according to the student's needs.

Close faculty supervision of an informal nature will accompany this independent study. It takes an interesting form at another new Florida institution, Florida Presbyterian College which opened in 1960 at St. Petersburg.

In this institution, students spend the month of January in "tutorial instruction"—studying abroad, taking faculty-conducted field trips or doing intensive research in their special interest fields.

And, as at all of Florida's state higher institutions, the new schools will operate on a year-round plan allowing the student to complete his bachelor's work in three years.

APPROACHES

These new institutions will stress inter-disciplinary approaches to learning. Both Florida Atlantic and New College offer three liberal arts divisions: humanities, the natural sciences and the social sciences.

Florida Atlantic's curriculum will also include a college of education and a college of business administration. Graduate courses, when they are added, will be integrated into the established programs. And other colleges will be formed as the need is determined.

Taking advantage of starting from scratch in their campus design, these new institutions are building much of their instruction on "Electronic teaching"—the use of television, teaching machines and audio-visual equipment in the classrooms.

ELECTRONIC CARRELS

Florida Atlantic will have 200 electronic carrels (booths) where students can get concentrated tutoring via a small TV screen, tape recorders and question-answer machines.

This institution will also operate a special Learning Resources Center where experimenting will go on constantly in instruction methods. Focus of the center will be the campus library, a facility almost completely computerized and equipped with educational materials on film, slides, tapes and the like.

At New College, the charter class will live in "communities of learning," clusters of small houses with faculty masters in residence.

These are just a few of the innovations that offer future collegians the opportunity, as New College President George F. Bauchman puts it, "to set new traditions, explore sources of knowledge with close faculty guidance and blaze a path for education."

Letters To College Editor Not Always Wholly Brave

(ACP)—Every day, letters arrive without names, with pseudonyms or with requests that names be withheld if the letter is published, says Daily Orange, Syracuse University, Fayetteville, N.Y.

Recognizing that there are occasional reasons for withholding names, we publish the letters. But a policy of not printing unsigned letters must be maintained for the greater part of letters to the editor.

Among the anonymous letters received here was one from a person not liking our sports coverage, since his best friend was not mentioned in the copy. One letter writer didn't like the food in the university dormitory but did not see the picket or boycott as the answer.

And colorful comments have been received from "Disgusted Students," "Disillusioned Greeks," "Socrates" and "Johannes Cimacrus."

There also have been graduate students who disagree with the teachings of professors but failed to sign their names for fear of losing possible assistantships.

Buddy Harris, captain of the GSC gymnastics team, works out on the parallel bars. Harris and Jon Peacock both made the first squad of the National All-Star Team which was chosen following the NAIA championship held last year in Illinois.

Yeager Says Gymnasts Going 'All Out For Championship'

"We're going to go all out for the NAIA championship this year," said gymnastics coach Pat Yeager last week, referring to this year's upcoming gymnastics schedule.

"It's too early to tell what kind of a year we'll have," the veteran Olympic coach went on, "because we haven't contacted all of the boys on the team yet and we won't know about their eligibility until they register. We do know that everyone else will be stronger this year and we'll have to work hard."

The only member of last year's team that finished second in the national tournament by one-half point who has definitely lost his eligibility is D.C. Tunnison, who has already competed four years.

The schedule is incomplete thus far, but Coach Yeager expects all contracts to be signed within ten days. The University of Georgia, the University of Florida and the College of William and Mary are tentatively set for home meets with the Merchant Marine and Furman looming as strong possibilities. "We want a home and home agreement," says Yeager, "and we're trying to get the first meets at home."

Away meets include Georgia Tech, David Lipscomb, LSU, West Virginia University and the University of Virginia with Slippery Rock as another probable.

There is also an outside possibility that Georgia Southern might meet the University of Texas, but nothing is definite as yet.

The first team meeting of the year will be held this Friday after registration and the first actual practice will be held the following Monday or Tuesday.

J. I. CLEMENTS

Clements Named District Coach

Coach J. I. Clements, GSC baseball mentor, received another in his long list of honors when he was named Coach of District 25 for the past year along with Coach Tom D'Armi of West Georgia.

The announcement, which came sometime during the summer, was made formal by the District 25 officials. Coach Clements has also been named National NAIA Coach of the Year three times, including last year when he led the team once again to the national tournament.

Fall practice for the baseball team will begin Monday of next week. Coach Clements stated that all interested boys are welcome to tryout for the team. He said that it was too early to predict what kind of season it would be, but he did indicate that most of the players from last year's squad will be returning.

George-Anne Offers New Staff Training Program

Students interested in working on the college weekly newspaper, the George-Anne, will be able to take advantage of the paper's first staff member training program scheduled to get underway Thursday night.

REGISTRATION . . .

on Monday.

In order to register, all students must present the standard registration permit at the front entrance of the W. S. Hanner Building. Here each student will secure several cards which must be filled out. The yellow course schedule card must be completely filled out and taken to each course instructor for class enrollment.

checked and initialed in the Hanner Building, the student proceed to the business office where he will pay his fees.

Before clearing through the business office, each student

After having the yellow card must have his cards checked at the clearance counter located outside of the business office in the administration building. A housing card and the class schedule card (yellow form) must be presented upon the payment of fees.

the registration permit required for admittance to the registration hall may secure it from the registrar's office.

Classes begin at 7:30 a.m. Friday.

The newly instigated training program will be aimed at preparing the new staff members with a basic understanding of the techniques involved in college journalistic writing.

Editor Tommy Holton stated that "a student need not have any prior newspaper experience to work on the paper."

"Many students tend to think that experience is necessary to join the college paper. Although it might help, previous experience is not necessary. The type student we want on the George-Anne staff is one who wants to learn and will give his best," Holton added.

The new training program which will get underway at the 7:30 p.m. in room 115 of the Student Center will consist of three sessions of instruction and a concentrated program of practical experience.

Students enrolled in the program will be categorized in two groups. One group will consist of students with no previous experience and the other will be made up of students who have worked on a paper before.

Hoyt Canady, editor of the 1963-64 George - Anne and director of the training program, stated that "a student's experience on a college newspaper can be the most rewarding of his college career."

"By working with a publication such as the George - Anne, one can gain a greater insight to his college and to the issues and problems which confront it," Canady concluded.

Students completing the training program will receive a George - Anne staff card and be eligible for positions on the staff. It is not mandatory for membership.

FOR ELEMENTARY EDUCATION MAJORS

There will be a meeting for transfer students with their advisors on Wednesday, September 30, at 4:30 p.m. All students majoring in elementary education who transferred to Georgia Southern in the fall quarter 1964, report to the Marvin Pittman School Auditorium.

Frank I. Williams Center Releases Fall Schedules

'Books And Books'

The bookstore will open tomorrow morning for the purpose of supplying registered freshmen with their tools of labor for the coming quarter. Books have been arriving in the bookstore rather rapidly and the stacks get higher and higher as indicated in the picture.

Due to the adding of an additional period on to the college day, the Frank I. Williams Center will be operating this year under a new dining hall schedule and a revised snack bar schedule.

Student Center Director C. R. Pound stated that due to the revision of the hourly college schedule, the dining hall will begin serving breakfast at 6:45 a.m. and continue to 8 a.m. Students who have a 7:30 class will be able to make it in time for the morning meal under this revision.

The dining hall will open for lunch at 11 a.m., but only those students who have a 11:30, 12:30 and 1:30 class will be given priority to eat when the line opens at this time.

Pound emphasized that if a student has a 12:30 class and does not have a 1:30 class, he will be able to make it through the line before the dining hall closes at 1:45.

"The only student who needs permission to eat at the eleven o'clock hour are those who have classes from 11:30 on through the meal schedule," he stated.

The evening meal will begin at 5 p.m. and the serving line will remain open until 6:30 p.m.

Students who must eat early during the noon meal should present their course schedule card in the director's office for proper stamping and verification.

Mariani Returns From Two-Week Driving Seminar

Dr. Thomas Mariani, assistant professor of physical education, attended the Fourth Annual Michigan State University workshop for college instructors of driver education this summer under an Allstate Foundation scholarship.

The workshop carried three term credits and covered simulation and driving range programs. Participants from 22 states used both types of instruction to teach beginning drivers who served as workshop subjects.

Thirty scholarships for the two week workshop were provided through a grant from the Allstate Foundation.

Construction is scheduled to get underway within the next two weeks on this three-story women's dormitory designed by Thomas Driscoll-Hutton of Savannah. The facility will be located on Georgia Avenue on the GSC campus. It will be built in the form of a court and will be completely air-conditioned. It is one of several new buildings to be constructed on the campus within the next 18 months.

Council Election Dates Released

Dates for the nomination, election and installation of councils for the men and women dormitories, as well as for off-campus students, have been released by the Office of Student Personnel Services.

Dates for the nomination, election and installation of councils for the men and women dormitories, as well as for off-campus students, have been released by the Office of Student Personnel Services.

A committee will be appointed by each residence hall director for the purpose of offering a slate of nominees for the council positions in each hall. These nominees will be presented to the members of the with the appointed dates.

Nominations will be accepted from the floor for additional names to be added to the general ballot used in the election. A plurality of votes cast will determine the elections.

Students living off - campus will be represented by a nominating committee appointed by the dean of men.

ber 28, October 2 and 6; Bran-nen Hall, September 29, October 5 and 7.

Off - campus nominations will be held on October 2; elections, October 6, and installation on October 8.

Time and places will be announced more specifically at a later date.

In the womens dormitories a two - woman slate for each office will be presented on a printed ballot. The dates for the nomination, floor presentation and election is September 23, 24, and the 28, respectively.

Women students in the three freshman residence halls will have a three day campaign for election of house council officers beginning on October 5 with nominations and ending on October 8 with the election. Off - campus womens elec-tion for councils will be the same as for men.

Nomination, election and installation dates for men councils are respectively: Sanford Hall, September 24, 29 and October 5; Cone Hall, Septem-

Baptists, Methodists In Retreat

Baptist and Methodist students will retreat today and tomorrow to the Tattnall, Methodist Camp near Reidsville where they will spend the two days in preschool planning for the coming year.

Sponsored by the Baptist Student Union and the Wesley Foundation, the retreat will center around offering the student an opportunity to enter into discussion and to contribute ideas on personal Christian witnessing, enlistment and campus Bible study groups.

Each of the two groups will spend time planning for the year's activity and program schedules.

Florrie Coffey is the Baptist Student Union director and Rev. Willis Moore is the director of the Wesley Foundation.

New Fact Books Being Published

A "brand new look" is in store for the Georgia Southern Fact Book. The 1964 edition will be a pictorial review of the social, cultural and academic life of Georgia Southern College students.

Used primarily for the University System's College Night Programs, the fact book attempts to capture the spirit and basic life of the GSC campus. The book is under the direction of the Public Relations Office in a unified effort on the part of the faculty and administration.

"This year we have ordered 5,000 copies," stated Ric Mandes Public Relations Director. "We have full anticipation of having to order more by Christmas holidays. Within the last three months we have sent over a thousand copies to the tourist centers in Savannah and Sylvania."

The fact book was started about four years ago. Its primary purpose, then, was for displaying general and helpful information about Georgia Southern to the press: radio, T.V. and newspaper.

The tone and purpose is now basically centered about the college day programs for high school juniors and seniors.

Anyone wishing a copy of the fact book, may pick up one at the Public Relations Office.

New Classroom Building

Construction continues on the new classroom building presently being constructed on the college campus. Located off Herty Drive, the facility will house the divisions of business, social science, and languages. Upon completion the structure is expected to cost approximately a million dollars.

Masquers Fine Art Series Will Feature 'Spoon River'

The Masquers Fine Art Series will present the only professional theatre attraction of the year on the GSC campus next month when the Broadway hit "Spoon River" is presented by a New York touring group of actors and actresses.

Robert Overstreet, Masquers director, announced that the presentation is slated for October 25 in McCroan Auditorium.

"This play originated on the west coast and is portrayed in a midwest location, Overstreet said. "Charles Aidman adapted the script from 'Spoon River Anthology' by Edgar Lee Masters, and it had a very successful run in New York during the 1963-64 season, he added.

The play will be presented with a cast of six including four actors and two folk singers.

Overstreet said that the play was "the whole catalogue of what man feels. "Masters observations of people and life evoke the sights, the sounds, and the smells of a specific time and place through the displayed passions and lives of the characters he wrote about, Overstreet pointed out.

"Spoon River" is the product of the mind of Charles Aidman, veteran of Broadway, Hollywood and television, who conceived and adapted the stage presentation.

Overstreet said that tickets will be sold in advance and on the night of the performance. Tentative prices for admission to the play will be two and three dollars.

Student Teaching Assignments Show Some 100 Students Out

Approximately 100 Georgia Southern students are presently participating in student teaching in some 27 elementary, junior and senior high schools across Georgia, according to Dr. Donald Hawk, director of student teaching.

Student teaching assignments are listed below:

STATESBORO: MARVIN PITMAN ELEMENTARY SCHOOL

Emily Tyler, 1st Grade; Patricia Tootle, 3rd Grade.

MARVIN PITMAN HIGH SCHOOL

Donald I. Speir, Ind. Arts; Hartwell Morris Jr., Ind. Arts; Neal Dewitt Moore Jr., Math.

MATTIE LIVELY ELEMENTARY

Congress Officers In Two-Day Pre-School Planning Sessions

The Student Congress went into session yesterday to begin a two-day pre-school planning session for the coming school year's activities.

President Zach S. Henderson is slated to address the meeting this morning with an objective look at the Congress. Following Dr. Henderson's address, Dean of Men W. H. Holcomb and Dean of Women Carolyn Gettys will follow with reference to the action, views and responses for the student leadership body.

The remainder of the day will be spent in going over the philosophy and purpose of the Congress along with a report from the president and vice-presidents of the Congress.

Tomorrow Dean of Students Ralph K. Tyson will address the slate of officers at 9 a.m. on leadership. Immediately after this address the Congress will go into a three hour committee session. Committees will meet until 2 p.m. when the general session will resume with an activity and evaluation by Dean Gettys.

Rounding out the planning conference will be an address by Student Congress President Bill Hartley and the installation of officers following at 4 p.m.

The preschool meet will be the second attended by the newly elected slate of Student Congress officers. In the spring, a retreat was held on the GSC campus to familiarize the new officers with their duties and to study problems and activities of the Student Congress.

The pre-school retreat was aimed at further orientating the new council with their duties and to allow the slate to organize and plan for the coming year.

In accordance with the Student Congress constitution, Dean Holcomb and Dean Gettys will serve as ex-officio members and as appointed advisors of the Student Congress for the coming year.

Officers for this year's Congress are Bill Hartley, president; Jim Blanchard, first vice-president; Pat Blanchard, second vice-president; Michaela Dennis, secretary; Randy Bowden, treasurer.

Reid Commissioned Second Lieutenant

Jerry K. Reid, son of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Reid of 213 Skyland Ave., Waynesboro, Va., has been commissioned a second lieutenant in the U. S. Air Force upon graduation from Officer Training School (OTS) at Lackland AFB, Tex.

Lieutenant Reid, selected for OTS through competitive examination, is being assigned to an Air Training Command (ATC) unit at Amarillo AFB, Tex., for training as a procurement officer.

The lieutenant, a member of Delta Sigma Pi, received his B. S. degree from Georgia Southern College, Statesboro.

Freshmen and new students are able to see here what a typical registration day is like at Georgia Southern. This picture was taken this summer when approximately 1,600 students swarmed into the Hanner Building to enter the fourth quarter. Students who like close fellowship won't find too much to complain about.

New Lynne Hall Opens For 214 Women Students

Newly completed Lynne Hall will open its doors tomorrow to 214 sophomore, junior and senior women and will boast the Knight Housing Company to being the largest off-campus housing authority in the University of Georgia system.

Constructed by the B. W. Knight Construction Company for the Knight Housing Company, Lynne Hall is located on Knight Drive, one block from the rear entrance to the college campus.

The facility is all electric, air-conditioned with electric heat. The building will have piped in music, radio and television and a P.B.X. switch board will serve each lounge with phone service.

The privately owned Knight Housing Company provides residence hall accommodations for 422 Georgia Southern students.

An olympic size swim pool and sun deck, located adjacent to Lynne Hall, is available for use by the women students.

Freshmen students arrived on campus yesterday. The four freshmen dormitories were busy as several hundred new occupants moved in to begin the orientation week.

Welcome
Freshmen !!

Evaluation Team Visit Scheduled

A twelve-man State Department of Education evaluation committee will be on campus in October to re-evaluate the Georgia Southern teacher education program, according to Dr. Starr Miller, chairman of the education division.

Dr. Miller said that the committee will survey the total teacher education program with special reference to organization, qualification of faculty and need for such a program at this college.

The evaluation is made of teacher education programs every five years.

The Georgia Southern teacher education program is accredited by the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education, the Southern Associations of Colleges and Secondary Schools, and is approved by the State Department of Education.

The twelve-man committee will be composed of leading educators from colleges and universities in Georgia and Tennessee.

Dr. John H. Lounsbury, chairman of the education division at the Woman's College of Georgia, will serve as evaluation committee chairman.
