More Quacks

Two additions have been made to the quackiest group on the Georgia Southern campus. Dr. Wack Wack (left center) and Dr. Flatalac (far right) joined Dr. Wiggles and Dr. Wobbles to boast the duck population to an all time high at GSC. The George-Anne was unable to get an interview with the new arrivals before they 'ducked out' into the middle of the college lake.

Evaluation Team Scheduled For GSC Teacher Education Study

A committee of educators from Tennessee, Georgia, and Alabama will be visiting the Georgia Southern campus Sunday through Wednesday, according to Dr. Starr Miller, Education Division Chairman.

The purpose of the visiting committee is to examine all phases of Georgia Southern College as it relates to teacher education.

The committee will make a report of its findings to the State Department of Education. Based on the committee's report, the State Board of Education will approve the Teacher Education Program at Georgia Southern College for a five year period.

The visit of the committee is of vital importance to Georgia Southern students working toward the Bachelor of Science in Education degree.

Teacher certification in Georgia is based on the completion of an approved program. Any student who completes an approved program at Georgia Southern and is recommended by the director of Teacher Education is assured of receiving a teaching certificate in his teaching field.

The committee will spend the Additional pay telephones will be added to each on-campus dormitory, according to C. J. Matthews, president of the Statesboro Telephone Company. The phones have been ordered and will be installed as soon as they arrive.

BUILDING REPORT

Fine Arts Center Scheduled

By PAUL HALPERN
Managing Editor

"A conservative estimate would put the new Fine Arts Center in the $1 million range," said Dr. Zach S. Henderson, president.

The new Fine Arts Center is scheduled to begin construction sometime during the summer of 1965, although no exact date has been set, according to Dr. Henderson. The Center will be a four story structure (plus basement) and will be used for the Art and Music Divisions exclusively.

A bandroom, large enough for 50 to 75 people, will take up much of the basement section of the building. There will also be considerable locker space provided.

The first floor will see a Recital Hall large enough to seat 325-350 people, a hallway which will be used for receptions, art displays and the like, seven studio offices with pianos plus the director's office and six other staff offices.

Three classrooms will be situated on the second floor, along with 24 piano practice rooms and two organ practice rooms. One duo piano practice room where students can practice for a dual concert will dominate this section.

On the other side of the Recital Hall ceiling, which will take up a major portion of the second floor, will be a record player room with ten listening stations attached.

The third floor will be used exclusively for Art Education. It will encompass a textile studio, ceramics studio, design studio and constructive design studio.

A lecture room which will seat 275, four offices, an Art Reading Room and a gallery will take up the rest of the third floor.

The four offices will be used by the faculty of the Art Division, while the Art Reading Room will act as a sort of art library in a dual capacity. The gallery will be used for displaying art shows and the hallway, which will run past the gallery, can also be used for receptions.

Singer Performs Here Tonight

Tommy Roe, ABC Paramount recording artist, will appear in the Hanner Building tonight at 8:15 with the "Revlon's," a group from Douglas, preceding him.

Backing Roe will be the "Roemen," his original band formerly under the name of the "Satans." The combo was organized in Atlanta while their leader was a freshman in high school and has been together ever since.

Roe has written approximately 125 songs and has several national hits to his credit. His first hit song, "Shelia," was number one in the United States as well as in England, France and several other European countries.

Child, will also be featured.

Robert Overstreet, sponsor of the Masquers, said the play was "a haunting, hilarious and heartwarming portrait of life in the American middle west during the turn of the century. The citizens of Spoon River were made of the stuff of life and reveal the passions of man."

Overstreet also commented that "the future of professional theater on this campus depends in part—that is to say financially—upon this show."

Tickets may be purchased at the box office window in the Administration Building until curtain time. All tickets will be reserved and prices range from $3.00 down to $1.50.

'Spoon River' Production Coming To GSC Saturday

Saturday evening the students of Georgia Southern College will have an opportunity to view the only professional theatre production which the Masquers Fine Arts Series will bring to the GSC campus this year when "Spoon River" opens at 8:15 p.m. in McCroan Auditorium.

The play received high praise by New York critics during its run on Broadway in Sept. 1963. The New York World-Telegram and Sun called the show "A powerful evocation of life. An evening of bright discovery." Another prominent New York paper hailed it as a "Pulitzer Prize contender."

The New York Times said it was a "glowing theatre experience." Walter Kerr, ace critic of the New York Herald Tribune, called it a "first rate" production.

The script of "Spoon River" was adapted by Charles Aidman from Edgar Lee Masters' classic "Spoon River anthology." Aidman, a vextexran Broadway performer, also directed the production.

The touring group of New York actors which will present the play includes Carl Esser, Linda Seff, William Severs and Barbara Gilbert. Two folksingers, Gil Turner and Marilyn

Twelve Class Officers Elected Tuesday From Forty Candidates

James Rainwater, a recreation major from Tifton, edged out Robert Stephens, a math major from Vidalia, to win the Presidency of the senior class in Tuesday's Student Congress Class Elections.

Gary Hancock, Lamar Harris and Joe McDaniel took the top posts in the junior, sophomore and freshman classes respectively as a total of approximately 1,200 students voted.

Hancock, a business major from Savannah, defeated Bill Page of Savannah and John Martin of Statesboro with a decided 134-76-62 margin respectively.

Harris, an English major from Macon, won by only two votes over Steve O'Nan, also of Macon, with a 97-95 decision. Jackie Mullis of Hawkinsville tallied 77 votes.

McDaniel won by the biggest margin, defeating Wayne Woodward and Paul Joseph by a 285-119-79 count.

Other Offices

In other senior class offices, Billy Sheppard defeated Allen Hunt for Vice President of the senior class; and Lou Gassett was elected secretary-treasurer over Barbara Motes, Kerry Strong and Betty Claxton.

Other officers of the junior class are Judy Scruggs, who defeated Jeanette Johnson and Fred Dent for vice president; and Ruth Gassett, defeated Gene Nessmith for secretary-treasurer.

Other sophomore class officers include Bill Dekle, who won by one vote over Jeri Prince and six votes over Buddy Altman, vice president; and Judith Johnson, who defeated Kikky Goddard and Jane Seymour, secretary-treasurer.

Freshman Veep

Walter Coleman won vice president of the freshman class defeating Dave Parker, Jimmy Rawlings and Jimmy Dooley. Stan Lewis was elected secretary-treasurer of the freshman class over Brenda Scruggs, Janie Ridgeway, and Robert Olmstead.

Approximately 40 per cent of the student body voted in this election. Student Congress worked with the ballots for three hours and five minutes and rechecked figures where the results were close.

L. W. Hartley, president of the Student Congress, expressed his gratitude to the student body for turning out in this election.

GOVERNOR SANDERS ADDRESSES DEMOCRATIC RALLY IN McCROAN

Sanders Cuts Goldwater; Predicts Johnson Victory

By HOYT CANADY
Associate Editor

Georgia Gov. Carl E. Sanders stressed the gains made in the field of education by the Democratic Administration, ripped into Sen. Barry Goldwater's voting record, and predicted a Democratic victory in November Monday night.

Sanders, speaking before an almost capacity crowd of students, faculty members, and Bulloch Countians in Georgia Southern's McCroan Auditorium immediately lashed out at the GOP Presidential candidate and said, "I am here to throw punches and my target is that temporary Republican spokesman."

The Georgia Governor said Goldwater "has never been a record shows. He (Goldwater) friend to Georgia's his voting has the strangest case of split personality since Dr. Jeckyll and Mr. Hyde."

Approximately 300 persons were on hand to greet the governor when he landed at the Bulloch County Municipal Airport Monday evening. A small band of Goldwater supporters were also there, but no serious heckling or jeering resulted.

A 75-car motorcade led Gov. Sanders and his wife through Statesboro to the college where he was greeted in McCroan with a standing ovation.

Saying that the issue today "is between two concepts of government," Sanders pointed out that Goldwater's concept "represents a dangerous mistrust that the American government is the enemy of the American people."

He said the Johnson concept recognizes dangers, "but also provides opportunities," and stated that the "government is a friend of the people."

Sanders also brought up some of the progress in the state made during his own administration and reminded his GSC audience of the current $6 million building program which includes a Fine Arts building, a Student Center, two dormitories, a library addition and a classroom building.

He explained that state appropriations to education were 58 per cent higher this year than they were in 1962-63, and that by 1970 "the nation's schools would be required to have facilities for more than twice the total population of the country when our constitution was written."

Then he returned to his target of the evening and quipped, "We cannot afford to elect as president a man who as a member of the United States Senate voted against every education measure to come before Congress."

Sanders also mentioned that the Democratic Party had written into its platform to try to provide the opportunity for every person to attend college. "We cannot afford the luxury Senator Goldwater is offering us."

"I am confident of November 3rd that the people will not turn their backs on the Democratic Party that has been so good to us," he added, and expressed the hope that Georgia will lead the nation in an LBJ landslide.

Dr. Zach S. Henderson, president of GSC, welcomed the governor and his wife to Southern and placed particular emphasis on Sanders' program for education in the state.

"Governor Sanders has given Georgia the name of a progressive state now," Dr. Henderson said. "I am also happy to welcome him to Georgia Southern because of the courage he has shown in the last three months."

Law Student Admission tests will be administered here on November 14, 1964. The test will be administered in two sessions. The morning session will be from 8:45 a.m. to 12:45 p.m. Afternoon sessions from 2 p.m. until 4:30 p.m.

Couchless Psychiatrist Relates Purposes Of School Counseling

(ACP)—Dr. Mildred Marshall, a female couchless psychiatrist, is the newest addition to the health center at Southern Methodist University, Dallas, Texas.

Dr. Marshall, whose presence is the result of two year's discussion on the feasibility of a school psychiatrist says her purpose is not so much curative as it is preventative, reports the SMU CAMPUS.

"It is not that the need of a psychiatrist is greater in college," she said. "Upheavals during college are normal—but in this age group, problems and therapy are not so difficult. Students are still forming their ideas and opinions, and counseling and psychiatry can be put to good use."

Commenting on the lack of a couch in her office, Dr. Marshall said: "I see many college and high school students. It's all they can do to keep up with the reality of life without regressing on a couch!"

Absentee Voters Deadline Closing

Eight Days remain for qualified resident voters in the state of Georgia to apply for their absentee ballots for the upcoming presidential election.

To receive an absentee ballot in Georgia, the voter must apply directly to his County Registrar by October 30. The Georgia law states that a person must be a resident of his county for six months and of the State for one year.

A qualified voter must have applied by May 3 of the year preceding the election. Thereafter, registration is permanent only if the person votes in at least one election in three years or requests continuation of registration every three years.

The qualifications for becoming a voter in Georgia are threefold: 1) The person must be a United States citizen; 2) The age limit is 18 years or over; and 3) The residency requirement referred to previously.

OUT OF STATE

Absentee registration for Georgia Southern students may be initiated by writing the official in the student's home state. The form, usually requiring notarization, must be returned by the specified date.

Absentee voting is permitted for qualified voters who will be absent from their polling places on election day. One must apply in person or by mail to the official specified for each State, stating his name and official address, voting precinct address ballot is to be forwarded to, and the reason the student will be absent from his voting precinct.

He must then request an application for an absent voter's ballot. The filled-out form must be returned by the date specified for each state.

Amendment 24 to the U. S. Constitution, adopted January 24, 1964, prohibits States from making payment of a poll tax a requisite for voting for Federal officials: President Vice President, U. S. Senators and Representatives.

THE PRAGUE CHAMBER ORCHESTRA IS ONE OF THREE CULTURAL PROGRAMS SCHEDULED FOR THIS YEAR ON THE GSC CAMPUS

Life Enrichment Committee Books Artist, Singers, Band

By JANICE McNORRILL
News Editor

Artist Lamar Dodd, the Ruth Mitchell Dancers, the Prague Chamber Orchestra, and the Gregg Smith Singers will appear on the Georgia Southern campus this year, according to Dr. Jack Broucek, chairman of the Campus Life Enrichment Committee.

Lamar Dodd, chairman of the department of art at the University of Georgia, will present an illustrated lecture on the various types of painting and architecture. This first attraction is scheduled for Monday, Dec. 7, at 8:15 p.m. in McCroan Auditorium.

Winter quarter will be highlighted by the appearances of the Ruth Mitchell Dancers on Wed., Jan. 6, and the Prague Chamber Orchestra from Czechoslovakia on Tuesday, Feb. 16.

Ruth Mitchell, director of the Mitchell Dancers, is a native of Decatur, Georgia. She studied at the Ballet Arts School in New York and later appeared in many Broadway musicals, including "Annie Get Your Gun." The Ruth Mitchell Dance

Group, according to Dr. Broucek, will present "an extremely varied program from classical ballet to modern dance—something for every taste."

The Prague Chamber Orchestra is composed of 36 musicians and is unique in that it performs without a conductor. It includes the full instrumentation strings, woodwinds, brass and percussion.

Concert tours of the Orchestra have included countries throughout Europe and South America. This is its debut tour in the U. S. and it will appear in New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, and a few colleges on the eastern coast.

"Georgia Southern is fortunate to have been included in this debut tour," Broucek stated. He added that a well-known orchestra has not visited the GSC campus since the Houston Symphony Orchestra appeared in the early 1950's.

The Gregg Smith Singers will come to GSC during spring quarter, on April 6. This is one of the top concert choirs in the U. S. and is "comparable to the Roger Wagner Chorale or the Robert Shaw Chorale," Broucek said.

The choir is composed of twenty young singers who will present a wide variety of musical styles from sacred music through modern folk songs. The Gregg Smith Singers have appeared at the University of South Carolina and at the University of Florida.

The Campus Life Enrichment Committee is now in its third year at Georgia Southern. Last year it sponsored the Chad Mitchell Trio and also the National Players in "The Taming of the Shrew."

Lack of Room; Overdue Books Plague Library

"There is no problem in the library that the new addition will not correct," said Miss Hassie McElveen, head librarian at the Rosenwald Library.

One of the most pressing problems is the crowded condition of the library, added to the fact that a classroom is maintained downstairs.

Telephone usage is another problem that the new addition might help overcome. Students are now using the office phones and are creating confusion.

"There has been a tremendous increase in overdue books. It would save a lot of time, trouble and confusion for both the students and the library staff if students were more careful about the time limits on books", Miss McElveen added.

Another problem faced by the staff at the library is the fact that students are not legible enough with their signatures on the book cards.

Almost 1400 new books have been received by the library since July 1 of this year covering almost every field of knowledge. There have been more in the field of language than ever before.

Carmichael And Koenig Co-author Magazine Article

Hayden M. Carmichael, assistant professor of industrial education, recently co-authored an article, "Why the 1964 Fluid Power Institute?" in the October edition of Industrial Arts and Vocational Education.

Carmichael, in collaboration with John H. Koenig, assistant professor in the industrial arts education department of Trenton State College, Trenton, N. J. wrote on the movement to improve fluid power education on all levels of industrial education. "The use of fluid power has increased to nearly all phases of manufacturing", he said.

A graduate of Stout University in Wisconsin, Carmichael taught at the College of West Virginia before coming to Georgia Southern where he has been for the past ten years.

Hackett Accepts New York Offer For Summer '65

Dr. Donald F. Hackett, chairman of the industrial arts department, has accepted an appointment as visiting professor at State University College at Oswego, N. Y., for the 1965 summer sessions.

He has been asked to introduce two industrial arts courses that he has developed at Georgia Southern. He will also teach a third class that will deal with problems and trends in industrial arts education.

Classroom Building, Library Progressing On Schedules

Construction on the new classroom building and the Rosenwald Library extension are progressing on schedule, according to President Zach S. Henderson.

Completion of the buildings is expected by June 1, 1965. No major problems have been encountered by the construction companies.

The new classroom building will house the departments of language, business, and social science. Seating capacity at any given hour will be approximately 60 persons. The building is designed to accommodate 5,000 students during the day.

According to Dr. Henderson, there will be more classroom space and greater freedom of movement. Tentative plans include a shortening of the class schedule hours.

Both buildings will employ central heating and air conditioning. The major construction material is reinforced concrete to eliminate the danger of fires.

Partisan, No Doubt

The pitch and fervor of a blistering political campaign hit Georgia Southern College full force Monday night. The occasion was Governor Carl Sanders address to the student body in behalf of President Lyndon B. Johnson.

The speech was expected to be partisan, and it was. Governor Sanders is a Democrat, and he makes no bones about it. However, Carl Sanders is more than just a Democrat who is governor of the state. He is a man of courage and dedicated leadership ability who has moved Georgia forward and made it truly "The Empire State of The South."

Mr. Sanders is also a believer in educating Georgia's young, and he has played an important role in the rapid growth and development of our own institution as well as other state colleges and schools on the secondary and elementary levels.

His visit to Georgia Southern Monday was for political reasons, but to this campus he is more than a politician, and The George-Anne would like to commend the majority of students who recognized this fact.

In an election year when two different candidates run on two completely different platforms, political fever runs a high pitch and many students are compelled to react for or against a person more strongly than they normally would.

However, this does not excuse anyone from realizing that the interests of the school and the image of the student body should be of primary concern.

Both Democratic and Republican spokesmen have been utterly embarrassed by the treatment they received at some of the major colleges in the nation. When this happens, the school's image suffered considerably.

We believed GSC students were above such actions, and Monday night the majority of students confirmed this. There were hecklers and jeerers at the airport and in front of McCroan Auditorium; this was expected, and to some degree it seemed in place.

But these actions were kept to a minimum, and during the governor's speech there was no booing and no open display of protest. This was as it should have been. The governor was not embarrassed and there was no embarrassment to the school.

We would like to commend the efforts of the College Young Democrats for carrying out a well-planned program; and we would also like to commend the Young Republicans and the student body who, regardless of their political views, kept the interests of GSC uppermost in mind.

It is the same treatment we would like to see given to any political spokesman, Republican or Democrat.

Complacency Dangerous

College students in particular cannot afford to yield to complacency when it comes to voting in an election aimed at selecting the nation's chief executive. Many people talked about what should be done, but few showed up at the polls to register their opinions in the 1960 presidential election.

Unfortunately, the same will probably happen in the forthcoming election. A survey conducted for the American Heritage Foundation reveals that only 63.8 per cent of all Americans of voting age voted in the 1960 presidential election and only 38 per cent of the people in their twenties will vote this year.

A report shows that in contrast to the low percentage voting in the United States, more than 94 per cent of the electorate voted in national elections held in Italy and Austria last year.

In age breakdown, only 3 percent of those between the ages of 21-29 are likely to vote this year in the presidential election and 24 percent are likely not to register. This hits hard at the college community.

The George Anne takes these figures into deep concern. The colleges in our nation are supposedly turning out future leaders for this country. Yet, it is conceivable to note the extreme low figures recorded by voting young people.

Dear Editor:

I plan to make a career in the foreign service of the State Department. Because of my interests in this, I have been astounded by Senator Goldwater's policies and beliefs on foreign aid to nations abroad. Senator Goldwater wants to end our aid to the countries needing our help, both financially and economically, to resist a communist take-over.

It is true that there is a great financial burden placed on the United States. We spend millions of dollars each year in foreign aid. Goldwater says this money should be spent at home. What we must realize is that this money is being used to protect our freedom right here at home. Every time we can check a communist advance or hold them back, it is a blow to the communist movement.

Little countries in Southeast Asia, as well as larger countries like the Federal Republic of Germany, need our help. They need our financial as well as military assistance to stabilize their economy and protect themselves from communist aggression.

Since World War II, the United States has been "the guardian and protector of world democracy." We are the only nation on the face of this earth that has the power, both financial, economic and military, to guarantee this freedom for people from all over the world who genuinely want to remain free and independent nations. We cannot shirk our responsibility. We cannot ignore the fact that responsibility exists.

We, the young people of the United States, must step back and take a good, long look at Barry Goldwater and what he stands for. In a recent caricature in a well-known Georgia newspaper, we see European countries grabbing apprehensively at American foreign aid while Goldwater looms in a dark sky overlooking them. We must realize that what is behind Goldwater, unseen in that dark sky, is the smiling, happy face of Stalin and an eager, waiting, Russian army.

Ronald R. Vik

Dear Editor:

Let us first understand one thing. You and I may differ on many issues, but I am sure that we agree on many others, and that we both have in our hearts the best interests of the nation as a whole. I believe that these interests are best served by Senator Goldwater and you support Lyndon Johnson. I think you are wrong, but, after all, we will all have to live together on Nov. 4.

It may surprise you to know that my support of Goldwater stems from no racial prejudice. I do not feel that total integration is the solution to our race problems, since I believe that neither race will be served by racial intermarriage, but I recognize the Civil Rights Bill as law and will attempt to live with it.

I know Barry Goldwater is not going to repeal the bill because he can't and probably wouldn't if he could. I also know that he is and has been an advocate of civil rights and would have supported the recent Civil Rights Bill had it not been for the public accommodations section and the fair employment clause. He feels, as I do, that the Negro should have equal opportunity, but that the end never justifies the means.

As for his vote against the nuclear test ban treaty, suffice it to say that the treaty "froze" the Russians in a position superior to ours, and that we are not now, and never can be while keeping the treaty, be sure that our lauded ICBM sites can survive nuclear attack and retaliation.

Harold L. Wright

Dear Editor:

You accused "Mr. Southerner" of being a man who hollars NAACP and Communism in times of trouble. I feel that it is time that we stop and examine this cry of Communism. In doing so, we must realize that this is a real cry and a just one.

The trends of our country show that Communists have infiltrated every phase of our American way of life. This infiltration has affected our schools and educational programs, our government and our churches. The Supreme Court under the leadership of Earl Warren has upheld Communist positions many more times than not. American dollars have and are financing Communist governments abroad. America is selling Russia the necessary equipment and parts to make nuclear weapons and to help their space program. These are only a few ways that we are feeding the growth of Communism. We cannot fight Communism by pretending that its danger does not exist.

Because of these progressing trends in our country, I feel that Senator Barry Goldwater is the right choice for President of the United States. The Senator from Arizona realizes the danger we face. He has been fighting this danger and will continue to do so as our President.

I would like to suggest that anyone who has not read the book None Dare Call It Treason by John A. Stormer, do so. This book will awaken and inform every conscientious and patriotic American.

A Hungarian refugee who has faced the takeover of his country by Communism has recently said that our America will be overrun by Communism and much sooner than we realize unless drastic changes take place immediately.

This is National Newspaper Week. It is a week set aside throughout the nation to focus light on the American free press. Whether it is a metro daily, a country weekly or a campus newspaper, the role of the press is basically the same.

The George-Anne is a campus newspaper. It is published by students who are interested in working on the college publication, and is financed largely through advertising and some from student activity fees. We do not attempt to express or form the general opinion of the student body as a whole. This is not our job; it is, in all reality, an impossible one.

On the editorial page of the George-Anne is a statement which indicates that the opinions expressed in the paper are those of the student writers. A student editorial board establishes the editorial policy of the George-Anne—not the student body.

EDITORIAL SUICIDE

We could think of nothing quite as meaningless as editing a newspaper in which the editorial policy is governed by 3,000 different opinions. Perhaps the greatest tragedy in the American press today is the lack of newspapers that will take a firm stand on major issues, regardless of the trend of public opinion.

Students have complained that we are giving a one-sided slant to the political issues at hand. Certainly, our editorial endorsement of the Democratic ticket would warrant such conclusions. However, it must also be understood that we have not been unfair in allowing the expression of both factions on pages four and five of the George-Anne. We have allotted space for two student writers, one from each major political party, in an effort to allow free and equal expression.

LETTERS

We must make some reservations on letters to the editor. Students should restrict their correspondence to approximately 150-200 words. We reserve the right to edit and withhold any letter that, we feel, fails to offer some constructive criticism or expression.

In short, the George-Anne is in every sense of the words—a campus newspaper. It isn't perfect; few are. We feel that college newspapers are designed to serve the campus whether it be in straight news reporting or in conflicting editorials. It is our intention of striving for that goal.

Any Georgia Southern student is eligible to join the George-Anne staff. There are no set requirements for working on the paper, except those relating to good news style. Students who possess a talent for writing may submit for publication book reviews, columns and other literary works. However, the final acceptance for publication is left to the discretion of the editorial board.

Johnson Allows Corruption, Ignores Government Vices

By LEO SABLE

Corruption flourishes in the federal government as President Johnson ignores or protects individuals who seek to use high public office for self benefit or perverted immorality.

During that period when President Johnson considered himself a Southerner he was able to gain the confidence of Southern Democrats and was elected Senate Democratic leader. Johnson repaid this trust by selecting Bobby Baker as Senate Democratic Secretary.

Was Lyndon Johnson ignorant of Baker's misuse of government power; or can it be assumed that Johnson condoned such action? Through Baker's position in government he was able to secure a meat contract which netted him $1,000 per month. Baker again used government influence to gain control of a luxury motel.

NOT ENOUGH

It was not enough for Bobby Baker to acquire great wealth through his position but he also used his influence to support immoral activities in an apartment he rented for his supposed secretary Carol Tyler. Was Lyndon Johnson completely unaware of this contempt of governmental trust?

The duty of the President of the United States is to know the background and character of all his close aids and advisors. National security is at risk when irresponsible and self-seeking men are allowed to hold high advisory positions in government.

President Johnson has again shown his inability to choose able trustworthy advisors. It is of utmost importance that the men who counsel the President of the United States are the most competent in their respective fields.

The constantly changing world demands that sound minds and emotional stability prevail if highly complicated governmental decisions are to be made in a responsible manner.

DIDN'T REALIZE

By some incredible means the President of the United States did not realize that one of his top advisors was mentally and emotionally disturbed. Walter Jenkins was allowed to attend high policy making meetings even though he was an extremely sick and disturbed man.

Did the Administration know that Jenkins had been arrested on immorals charges in 1959; or did the Administration bother to check top officials before they were appointed?

McNAMARA'S BAND

Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara has been continually protected by both the Kennedy and Johnson Administrations. McNamara proved ineffective during the Cuban crisis; has been indecisive in Vietnam and has shown preferential treatment to certain government contracted industries.

McNamara's actions during the TFX contract letting were irresponsible and characteristic of the political conspiracy involved in the Administration's contract letting procedures. The TFX contract was awarded to General Dynamics even though Boeing Aircraft had offered to build a superior aircraft at a lower price than General Dynamics.

This disregard for national security and contempt for the American taxpayer must be replaced by a government that considers each tax dollar important and puts national security above personal friendship.

Coming Up

Beginning November 5, the George-Anne will feature on this page a series of articles concerning the various facets of communism.

Letters With Opinions

Dear Editor:

It is gratifying to read such a lucid article by a Southerner himself concerning the need to change ways of thinking. Perhaps the Biblical words which say that "joy shall be in heaven over one sinner that repenteth, more than ninety and nine just persons, which need no repentance" can really be applied here. For the Southerner which Holton reflected on is not merely to be found here in the South and Americas, but actually can be found all over the world.

Only when man really looks at truth squarely, understandingly, compassionately and sympathetically as well as objectively can he do justice to his country, the world, and, more importantly, to humanity as a whole. There are too many people in the world who settle for half-truths and selfish aims.

Holton, I don't think, was so much criticizing the Southerner as merely describing some of the more extreme types of Southerners. They are the type similar to Bull Connor of Alabama, Barnett of Mississippi, Stewart of Florida.

There are people here in the South who think that Kennedy told the BIG LIE. I refuse to believe this. JFK's words: "Don't ask what your country can do for you, but ask what you can do for your country" was both timely and necessary. These words have probably done more good to many a growing up person.

After all, one must remember there are many small people in the world who capitalize on injustice and grab hold of publicity and hold on to traditions which are harmful and destructive toward many races which are other than their own. God help us little people.

College should be a place where the horizons of one's intellect be greatly expanded by thinking from the point of view of totality, by developing a deeper love for justice, truth and humanity. Reading books in philosophy, psychology and theology and related fields can be of great help.

Goldwater Farm Policies Suicide

By BRYANT YOUNG

Before attempting to write this week's column, it is imperative that an error in the last issue be clarified. The concluding paragraph read as follows: "In conclusion, let it be known that this writer does NOT believe in state powers and rights but in the sense of national-state cooperation basis." The NOT should NOT have been in print. If read again with the NOT left out then this will not contradict the entire position taken. With the hope that clarification has been made, then let us examine the farm policy of Sen. Goldwater.

Sen. Goldwater's stand on the farm issue is in short a "cut throat" policy. This term simply means that if farmers in the Deep South and other parts of this nation vote Goldwater they will, in effect, be cutting their own throats.

In retrospect, during the GOP years of Ezra Taft Benson the net farm income dropped from $15.3 billion in 1952 to $13.3 billion by the end of 1959. When the Democrats returned to the White House in 1961 the net farm income increased by over a billion dollars in the very first year.

VOTING RECORD

The terrible thing is that the farmers don't know about the senator's voting record on farm policy. It is a tragedy to know that our farmers would vote for emotionalism (anti-Civil Rights) rather than vote for their livelihood.

This is true and can not be disputed. Anyone who hails from the rural area knows this view of the majority of farmers is true.

Sen. Goldwater, who is the son of a department store owner, really doesn't know what it feels like to rise before the break of dawn on a cold morning and work until after sunset striving for a livelihood in the time worn soil of this earth.

DOESN'T KNOW

Sen. Goldwater doesn't know what it means to "grow up" on a farm like many a Southern boy and girl; neither does he know the feeling that a farmer gets when he has had a bad year - the tobacco ruined by too much rain or not enough, the cotton ruined by the boll worm and the corn only produces "nubbins."

These facts just revealed have forced many farmers into the city. If Goldwater had experienced some of the hardships of the farm, he would not have said "no" so many times against the farmer.

According to Goldwater's record (one can secure this information from the Congressional Quarterly) on farm policy, he would reduce the role of the Federal Government in agriculture.

He believes the federal farm program is unconstitutional, and that agriculture should be returned to the economic laws of "supply and demand." He is a constant foe of government subsidies and price supports.

Price supports on items such as cotton and tobacco may not be as high as the farmer would like but he is in a better position than he would be in a "supply and demand" system. Goldwater feels that "farmers want to free themselves from government guarantees and restrictions." Do they? Ask them?

AGAINST FARM BILLS

The Senator from Arizona has voted against the majority of farm bills which would help the farmer. In 1958, he voted against the bill which would bar indefinitely any reduction in price supports or acreage allotments for any farm commodity.

In 1962, he voted FOR the bill which would permit the Secretary of Agriculture to submit a plan to abolish all supports and controls - bill was defeated. In 1959, Goldwater voted against the bill to remove Secretary of Agriculture's authority to approve or disapprove REA loans - bill was passed over veto.

Goldwater has suggested in several speeches that the Rural Electrification Administration be dissolved. Many students (rural) at GSC can probably remember when REA started serving the rural areas of Georgia. This was the end of darkness and the old lamp light and the beginning of progress.

Many of those who oppose Light Bulb Johnson (LBJ) had better think twice because it is far better to have light bulbs than to go back to the "kero-sene lamp days" with Goldwater.

'I'm All For Jake'

By DAVID LOCKRIDGE
Ministerial Student

Goldwater might desert the ship. Johnson might steal the ship. But Jake would be a Captain worthy of the name.

Goldwater changes his mind so much that if he were to win presidency, three weeks later he might back out.

If by serving the people you mean exploiting the people then Johnson has been the nation's greatest servant (or exploiter) 14 Million dollars worth according to the October issue of National Review.

It's true this is a land of opportunity, but how can a servant be honest and carry 14 million dollars from the masters quarters back to the servants quarters.

There is at least one Jake in every average size town.

Jake believes that campaigning for the presidency of a Christian Nation should not take place in the sewer. Jake believes that before a man is worthy of presiding over a Christian Nation he must be a Christian himself.

Separating Church and State is one thing but separating God and State is supposedly a strong point of communism, says Jake.

Jake believes that a president should let God come first, his own nation and other nations come second, and himself last.

Jake looks at foreign aid about like God looked at Adam in the Garden of Eden, even before Adam had sinned. The first thing God said to man was "Be Fruitful" - do something, don't just sit there.

Jake says that in the first 33 verses of the Old Testament there are listed 18 statements showing God Himself doing something not just saying something or sitting there. He did so much that on the seventh day He had to rest.

He thinks that the United States should follow God's example: upon seeing a destitute nation, give them enough food, never a pot of money which can be swallowed by some despot, enough food to give them the energy to go to work. Help them to secure enough tools to start to work, and perhaps through the Peace Corp show them how to use the machinery. Then get out of the way.

Jake believes that if Adam had sat down on his naked haunches and waited for foreign aid then God would have let him starve to death. Can we be better than God.

He believes that if we rely on buying another nation's affection we will always run the risk of someone else coming along and buying their second mortgage.

What does Jake think about the Negro problem? answer: Which particular Negro?

Why isn't Jake up there in the running? Because, not enough people want him.

Athlete's Frat Initiates Pledges With Olympic Games and Dress

Ten Roman-garbed pledges roamed the campus last week as they underwent part of their initiation into Eto Rho Epsilon. This honorary professional fraternity for physical education majors inducted Jimmy Seearce, Homer Carraway, Arnold Murphy, Gene Nesbitt, Larry Cooper, Robert Smith, Earl Bagly, Bennie Whittle, Robert McCain and Allen Payne into their organization.

The Roman shields, swords and helmets brought to mind the Olympic games which certainly consist of an even more difficult physical fitness test than the pledges had to undergo. Their test consisted of rope climbing, sit-ups, chins, pull-ups, and a fourteen minute obstacle course which was laid out on the golf course.

Another phase of initiation was the serenading at several dorms. Commenting on this, Coach Pat Yeager said he thinks the boys are "much better physical education majors than they are singers." These "poor" singers will now help Eto Rho Epsilon qualify for national association with Phi Epsilon Kappa.

GSC Student Enjoyed Work At Famous German Institute

By HALLEY FENNELL
Staff Writer

If you have ever boarded a train and discovered it was going in the wrong direction, you know how GSC student Agnes Farkas felt when she climbed aboard the wrong train in Switzerland this summer during her trip to Europe.

Agnes was fortunate in that she was befriended by a Swiss girl who invited her to be an overnight guest in her home. Agnes later found out that this was a common good deed of the Swiss people.

Agnes left the United States June 9 and arrived in France after being on board ship for nine days. She went directly to Switzerland where she stayed with her grandparents until time for her trip to Germany.

She studied German at the Goethe Institute in Passau, Germany, for two months where she found that there were approximately 90 students, many of whom were Africans or Asians. The Institute's main purpose is to train people in the German language.

While studying at the institute, Agnes and an Irish girlfriend lived in an apartment in a private home. She attended classes every morning Monday through Saturday and in the afternoons on Monday, Wednesday and Friday. On their free afternoons, Agnes and her fellow students enjoyed swimming in the Passau swimming pool where admission was only ten cents!

The students did many interesting things on weekends, but the weekend Agnes enjoyed most was spent camping out in the mountains of Tirol, Austria.

"We had a good time," stated Agnes. "I even went mountain climbing, but a German boy had to practically pull me up."

The wurst, a German food comparable to the American hot dog, wasn't to Agnes' taste. "I don't like it," she remarked. "It's like a sausage and the Germans eat it with beer."

According to Agnes, the German bakeries were fabulous. "The cookies are just great," she said. She soon tired of eating potatoes, though, and they never had pork because there were so many Moslems at the institute.

A boy from Montreal, Canada, told Agnes that he would like to go south of the border. As most Americans would, Agnes first thought of Mexico. The Canadian boy, however, was referring to the United States!

Agnes concluded that the German people were very helpful and they try to understand foreigners. The French were unfriendly and not as patient as the Germans.

One of the results of the increasing student population is overcrowding of the dining hall. Students were reminded of this condition several times in the past week. When asked how to solve this problem, students expressed these opinions:

Bob Highland, Euclid, Ohio: Students should cooperate and try not to eat directly after classes. The students would not have to stand in long lines and the impatience of the students would be reduced.

Dana Oliver, Savannah: Two with one line for resident students and one line for off-campus students. There should be lines should be re-established a cashier for each respective line.

Beth Helms, Dublin: Compulsory meal tickets for students living on campus should be done away with. More students would eat elsewhere, and the dining hall would be less crowded.

William Ivey, Dublin: Have the tables set, let the whole student body gather at the doors, blow a whistle and everybody run for a seat. Then thirty minutes later repeat the process and continue to do so until all students have eaten. This will eliminate long lines and possibly reduce the large number of students who eat in the cafeteria.

Benny Whittle, Dester: Have two lines going in. This would mean there would always be a short one, and the people in a hurry could get in the short one.

Bill Page, Savannah: I'd like to second William Ivey's remarks.

Barbara Cummings, Macon: I like two lines so I can talk to the people next to me.

Butch Chambliss, Tifton: Free breaking - the best man wins.

Jimmy Brown, McRae: Get right behind Butch!

Bill Caire, Savannah: Don't force people to buy a meal ticket if they live on campus. If I didn't have a meal ticket, I'd never eat here.

Linda Peters, Savannah: I think it needs more organization. The line should open sooner and stay open longer. If something isn't done, the students will choose to eat elsewhere.

Athletes' Feats

By LAMAR HARRIS

The overall athletic program at Georgia Southern this year appears bright to this sports writer.

Basketball will be the first sport involving inter-collegiate competition for the Eagles, so let's take it first.

With five returning lettermen and some promising transfers along with a few new faces the Eagles open against Valdosta State on Dec. 3. Despite the sprinkling of strong SEC basketball competition from Auburn University and the University of South Carolina, the Eagles should well represent GSC. Not only will SEC schools provide fierce competition but the Eagles will encounter the likes of Culver-Stockton, Oglethorpe University, Spring Hill College, and Stetson University. Stetson dropped the Eagles twice in regular season play last year.

According to J. B. Searce, basketball coach, this is the best schedule the basketballers have ever had.

Any gymnastic team which finishes second in the nation and lost only three gymnasts must be considered dangerous in any circle. Such is the case with the Eagle gymnasts. However, the Eagles will have no "pushovers" on their schedule, meeting teams of the caliber of Georgia Tech, Slippery Rock, West Virginia, William and Mary, and David Lipscomb.

Baseball season, as well as tennis and golf, are pretty far off yet, but they should not be neglected. With little, if any, teams scheduled as of yet, you can't really compare GSC with its opposition. All you can do is state the ability of the Eagles.

The baseball team finished third in the nation last year and would appear set this year, even though several fine athletes will not return.

The tennis team appears sound, despite the loss of Joe Scraggs, the number one man, and John Williford.

The golf team will have the hardest rebuilding job of any of the athletic teams with three linksman gone. Wright North and Bill Simmons return to form the nucleus of the squad.

As to how well the teams will actually do, only time will tell. I definitely feel that the 1964-65 athletic year will be a successful one and one that the student body can look back upon with pride.

Now that I have gone out on a limb with GSC sports, let me go out still further by predicting a few sports scores this weekend. I, by no means, claim to be an expert but we are all entitled to our mistakes. I'll make a lot of mine this week.

Georgia Tech vs. Tulane. Georgia Tech is presently 5-0 and I have no reason to doubt they will remain undefeated. Tulane, however, cannot be considered as an easy mark for Tech. But Tech, with its tough defense, should take this one by about 26-0.

Georgia vs. Kentucky. Georgia has been gaining momentum tremendously as of late. By virtue of their narrow defeat at the hands of powerful FSU, Georgia has gained the respect of all southern schools. Kentucky has hit a stump after being ranked as a national toughie. FSU handed the Wildcats a 48-6 defeat and they haven't been quite the same since. The spirited Bulldogs will "help" the 'Cats along that unenviable road of defeat. The score should be in the vicinity of 27-10.

Alabama vs. Florida. This one should be tight all the way. It is really difficult to pick one or the other because the two are so evenly matched. Florida rolled over South Carolina 37-0 and Alabama stopped Tennessee 19-8 last week. Florida is tough, maybe a little too tough for the Crimson Tide. I'll take Florida 14-7.

Florida State vs. Virginia Tech. This should not even be close. FSU might be overrated, and they probably are. But they will have no trouble in stopping Virginia Tech. The score should be in the neighborhood of 27-7.

Duke vs. Army. Here's where I am going to run into trouble. I like Army, but Duke is the decided favorite. Army will be at home and I'm partial to the Cadets, so I'll take Army by a score of 16-10.

Slippery Rock vs. Indiana (PA.). Slippery Rock is underdog in this one. But my heart won't let me pick anyone else but the Rockets. So I'll take Slippery Rock, 23-20.

Basketball practice began last week for the Eagle squad. Georgia Southern will be supported by five returning lettermen, several outstanding transfers and some promising freshmen. The first game will be played here December 3 against Valdosta State College. On December 8, Oglethorpe will host the Eagles in Atlanta for the first game away from home.

Cheerleaders Make Debut With First Basketball Game

The 1964-65 version of Georgia Southern cheerleaders will debut Dec. 3 with three "returning lettermen" and two new members, according to Miss Ruth Green, faculty sponsor for the squad.

The "veterans" are Peggy Exley, a senior physical education major from Savannah, Marsha Turner, a senior physical education major from Green Cove Springs, Fla., and Alice Buchanan, a senior elementary education major from Americus.

Sandra Eatman, a junior transfer from ABAC, and Susan Browning, a sophomore physical education major from Douglas, are the two newcomers to the squad.

Ruthie Hendrix, a sophomore physical education major from Columbus, and Donna Cole, a sophomore from Savannah, are the first and second alternates, respectively.

Freshmen cheerleaders were also chosen. These girls are all freshmen and will cheer at the special occasions such as Home-freshmen games only except on special occasions such as homecoming, when all cheerleaders will be used. The freshmen cheerleaders are Mary Jane Cassidy, Sterling Bowman, and Diane Howington. Judy Hunnicutt is the first alternate.

All cheerleaders, both varsity and freshman, will tumble and perform stunts, Miss Green said.

In an effort to familiarize the student body with the cheerleaders, a display will be shown in the Student Center early next week. The display will have a picture of each of the girls on the squad.

The cheerleaders will have new uniforms this year, stated Miss Green.

Physical Fitness Test Revised For Better Student Evaluations

A new physical fitness program designed at Georgia Southern is being administered this fall by the Department of Physical Education.

"The purpose of the change is to develop a better method of determining the physical ability of a student," stated Coach Pat Yeager.

Many items are being dropped from the old program and new ones added. "The softball throw, for example, has been eliminated because a student may have a weak throwing arm, yet he may be very physically fit. Conversely, a student may have an excellent throwing ability and not be physically fit otherwise," explained Coach Yeager.

The value of this new program cannot be determined until a comparison of the statistics of the beginning of the quarter and the end of the quarter can be made. The true evaluation of the program will be decided over a period of years.

The items included in the new program are: the 3 minute step test, the basketball throw, the bent knee sit-ups, chin-ups (girls) and pull-ups (boys), the shuttle relay and the standing broad jump.

Norton Named Sports Publicist For GSC Athletic Department

By TOM KING
Sports Writer

Georgia Southern College has gained an official sports publicist in the person of Hubert Norton, former Savannah Morning News sportswriter.

Norton, named to the position by J. B. Searce, head basketball coach at GSC, is also a fulltime student at the college. He is classified as a freshman English major.

His responsibilities at Georgia Southern include handling news releases for all the area newspapers, keeping statistics at the basketball games and serving as official scorer at all home baseball games.

Regarding the athletic program at GSC Norton said: "The athletic program here is tremendous for a small college. Year in and year out Southern has first rate basketball and baseball teams. Good athletic programs are a result of a dedicated staff and the staff here is one of the most dedicated in the state."

According to Norton, he obtained his job as sportswriter under rather unusual circumstances. During the summer of 1962, after he graduated from high school in Savannah, he wrote a letter to the sports editor of the Savannah Morning News for permission to write a weekly baseball article.

He was turned down in his attempt by the sports department, but the following September he was asked to cover several football games around the Savannah area.

An opening in the Morning News sports department finally came and he subsequently became a regular sportswriter. He won the "Top Twenty" football picks last year and was leading the panel this year when he accepted his present post.

Norton's arrival at Georgia Southern was also of an unusual nature. Last year his sports beat was to cover college athletics in the surrounding Savannah area. He concentrated mainly on GSC's athletic programs and was in constant contact with coaches Searce and Clements.

Alexander New Athletic Coach

Bill Alexander, a new addition to the coaching staff at GSC, will assist Coach Ed Thompson with the freshman basketball team.

Alexander coached two years at Maynard-Evans High School in Orlando, Florida, and one year at Auburndale High School in Auburndale, Florida.

He was head basketball coach three years and assistant football coach. His won-lost record during the three years was 51-12. He went to the Group Tournament in Florida two years.

Alexander played two years of football at Morris-Harvey College in Charleston, West Virginia. He also did some graduate study work at Florida Southern College and Stetson University.

Ten Pinners League Continues

Bob Lackey blistered the pins Tuesday evening in the Eagle Ten Pinners League as he rolled a 573 series with games of 182, 198, and 193. This 573 series is high for the men bowlers. Babs Brown has high series for the women with 508. A girl is generally spotted 100 pins more than a man as handicap; therefore, Brown's 508 is equal to around a 608 for a man.

Paul Allen had the high game for the men Tuesday night with 207 while Babs Brown had the high game for the women with 178.

Bob Armenio and Babs Brown continue to lead the league in high individual average with 172 and 162 respectively. Brown's nearest rival is Carol Frankum with a 139 average. Armenio isn't quite as fortunate as Bob Lackey at 171 and Paul Allen at 170 are challenging for the lead.

The Kingpinners recorded the high team game, 684 and the high team series 1915. They continue to lead the league with a 22-2 record.

This week's honor roll includes: Bob Lackey, 573; Paul Allen, 516; Bob Armenio, 513; Babs Brown, 468; Ellen Smith, 418; Nancy Cook, 407; Martha Lansford, 402; and Carol Frankum, 401.

EXPLANATION — The Dunkel system provides a continuous index to the relative strength of all teams. It reflects average scoring margin relative to index of opposition, and is weighted in favor of recent performance. Elementary education majors at Georgia Southern must undergo a comprehensive program including courses in practically every academic field. In industrial Arts 307, the prospective elementary teacher has an opportunity to develop basic skills and obtain a knowledge of industry.

FOREIGN STUDY

Application Periods Open

Application periods for undergraduate foreign study in Paris, Madrid, Vienna, and Freiburg, West Germany, will open Monday, the Institute of European Studies has announced.

All four Institute centers will offer both spring - semester, 1965 and full-year, 1965-66 programs for students in history, political science, modern languages and literatures, philosophy, and other liberal arts and social science fields. The programs are designed for college juniors, but some sophomores are admitted in Paris and Vienna.

Formal applications are due Dec. 7 for next spring's programs and May 1, 1965, for full-year programs starting next fall. Sailings are set for Feb. 1 and late August or mid-September. All programs end in late June or July.

An Institute spokesman said the programs aim at "immersing the student as deeply as his background permits" in a European university. Total immersion is rarely practical, he said, because European university courses are so highly specialized that U. S. undergraduates can usually profit from foreign university courses only in their major or minor fields.

'GHETTO'

"On the other hand," he said,

"we don't want to place the student in a 'ghetto' where he is exposed only to American-style courses taught by American professors, and must live and study only with other Americans. Whether you look at it academically or culturally, the European experience should be both excellent and different."

"Our aim is to maximize the student's confrontation with Europe and European education, within the practical limits set by U. S. college requirements."

To supplement the courses students take in the European university, the Institute's Madrid, Paris and Vienna centers each offer from 34 to 55 courses taught by European university professors in fields ranging from art history to sociology and theology. Except in Vienna, where a number of courses are taught in English for students still brushing up on their German, all instruction is in the native language.

Because University of Paris courses last the full year, and do not admit new registrants for the second semester, students in the spring-semester program there will be unable to attend regular university lectures. Instead, they will concentrate on language development and French-taught courses organized specifically for American students.

TAKE WORK

In Freiburg, the principal town in Germany's Black Forest, Institute students take all their work with German students in the 50-year-old university, described as "a graduate school by U. S. standards." They receive as much as one hour of tutorial assistance for every hour of lecture they attend.

For its Vienna programs, the Institute has introduced a new requirement of at least a semester of college German or a year of German in high school. These programs also require a C-plus college grade average.

All the other centers require a B average and one or two years of the appropriate language. Applicants must also have the approval of their U. S. colleges and universities.

Students in all the centers live in private European homes or in European student dormitories. Before regular classes begin, they are given from four to seven weeks of intensive language training. The programs also include orientation, meals, and two field trips under European university lecturers.

Descriptive literature is obtainable from the Institute of European Studies, 35 E. Wacker Drive, Chicago, Ill.

Baptist Students' Convention Meets At Eatonton Camp

The theme of the 1964 Baptist Student Convention meeting Oct. 30-Nov. 1 at the Rock Eagle 4-H Club Camp in Eatonton is "When Students Worship God."

The list of speakers to be heard during the three day convention include: John McGinnis, pastor, Capitol View, Atlanta, who was key speaker at the BSU pre-school retreat; Dr. W. Bryant Hicks, Southern Baptist missionary to the Philippines; and at least two of six BSU summer missionaries.

Registration fee is fifty cents with meals costing $1 each and housing $2 per night. The student must furnish his own personal and bed linens. The camp provides a pillow and blankets.

Transportation will be provided by the church bus and private cars.

Professional Actress Portrays Richest Woman In The World

By HALLEY FENNELL

Staff Writer

A professional actress, Bess Winburn, will play one of the leading roles in "The Visit," the Masquers' fall production which will be presented on November 19, 20 and 21 in McCroan Auditorium, according to Robert Overstreet, director of Masquers.

Miss Winburn, who will play the role of Claire Zachanassian, richest woman in the world, has performed with noted actors such as Peter Ustinov and Anthony Quinn. She is spending the winter in Statesboro with her father, a retired comptroller of GSC.

"The Visit," written by Friedrich Duerrenmatt, a Swiss contemporary playwright, is a tragic comedy. "There is much that is amusing in 'The Visit,' but it has a serious purpose," stated Overstreet.

"The Visit" is like a fairytale of the richest woman in the world who returns to her desolated hometown and offers the townspeople a billion marks on the condition that Anton Schill, a man who had betrayed her as a girl, be killed.

In the first act, the people answer saying that they are civilized people. "This is Europe," they say, "not a jungle." In the following two acts they decide that they not only will kill him, but that it is a must.

Guy Bon Giovanni will play the part of Anton Schill. Dr. David Ruffin, associate professor of English will characterize the pastor. The leading sporting role as Burgomaster will be played by Wendell Ramage.

The stage manager is Margaret Hendrix and Ron Slocum will design the set. All of the costumes will be made by the Masquers.

There are still five male roles and one female role that have not been filled. Several changes have been made in the cast. They are as follows: Curry Reed will play the part of the Burgomaster's wife. Mahaley Tankersley will appear as one of the granddaughters, Russell Dasher as the first man and Dr. Muslin, Robert Flanders as the second man, and David Dunbar as the second blind man. Matt Pound will play the part of the son.

13 Upperclassmen are Serving As Advisors to Male Freshmen

The male freshmen this year have thirteen upper classmen who are specified as their student advisors.

These upper classmen were chosen last year by Dean of Men, W. H. Holcomb on the basis of academic achievements, leadership abilities and personality.

Freshmen coeds have had this service for several years but this is the first year that specified student advisors have been available for the men.

The student advisors are not connected with the dorm counselors or paid student assistants. "They are student volunteers with an interest in the well-being and progress of their fellow students," said Dean Holcomb.

At the beginning of fall quarter the advisors arrived with the freshmen. They assisted them in matters of orientation and gave them an idea of what GSC expected of them.

Dean Holcomb added, "There are eleven student advisors rooming with the 172 freshmen in Sanford Hall and two rooming with the 30 freshmen in Cone Hall."

Though their busiest moments were the beginning of the quarter, these student advisors will be on hand throughout the school year to assist the freshmen.

Politics At Southern Stimulates Action

Saluting Student Expression

Politics at Southern in the past few weeks have reflected a stimulation of thought on the college campus and a turbulence of controversial opinion.

The George-Anne hopes that it has been a stimulant in promoting discussion and consideration of the matters involving the two major presidential campaigns.

The purpose of the George-Anne has not been to solely endorse or sanction political platforms, but to encourage and promote student interest and participation. Each GSC student has the right to express his or her opinion concerning the outcome of the nation's election. This is what the George-Anne has been attempting to do: to encourage and "draw out" free expression and formulation of opinion from the student body. The George-Anne commends each student who has displayed genuine interest in the selection of a president for these United States. Whether he is a Democrat or a Republican, the true measure of the individual is found in his earnestness and enthusiasm for the welfare of this free Democratic nation in which we live.

On this page, we salute politics and "politikers" of Georgia Southern College in this Presidential Election Year of 1964.
