GREGG SMITH SINGERS TO APPEAR TUESDAY
Group Is Sponsored By Campus Life Enrichment Committee

Gregg Smith Singers Appear In McCroan Tuesday Night

By LOUISE McCORD
Staff Writer

The Campus Life Enrichment Committee will continue its series of programs designed to stimulate interest in the arts with the presentation of the Gregg Smith Singers Tuesday night at 8:15 p.m. in McCroan Auditorium.

The Gregg Smith Singers, a professional touring company from southern California, are considered one of the finest choral ensembles in the United States, according to Dr. Jack Broucek, chairman of the committee.

They have toured South America and Europe and have won several honors at a European music festival.

The 25 members of the choral group will present a widely varied musical program. The singers include various nationalities, and a cosmopolitan taste will be found in some of the selections.

They will perform serious, experimental and religious selections and legitimate American folk songs.

"In all of their tours, the Gregg Smith Singers have been well-received; however, their reception on the college campuses have been most outstanding," Dr. Broucek said.

"The group's energetic approach to all areas of singing, from the more serious to the lighter folk songs, has had a particular appeal to the collegiate atmosphere," he continued.

"Because of their overwhelming reception last year at the University of Florida, the Committee definitely decided to invite them to the Georgia Southern campus," said Dr. Broucek.

Tickets for the event may be obtained at the Dean of Students office or at the box office. Georgia Southern students must present their identification cards. Adult admission is $1.50 and children's tickets are 75 cents.

Late in April, the Committee will present Marion Montgomery in their concluding program of the series. A native Georgian, Montgomery is a poet and the author of three books.

ADMIRAL RADFORD
Lectures This Morning

Former Joint Chiefs Chairman Speaks At GSC This Morning

Admiral Arthur W. Radford, United States Navy, ret., will appear this morning at 10:30 in the Marvin Pittman School Auditorium as the second speaker in the series, Lectures in the Social Sciences.

Dr. Jack N. Averitt, chairman of the division of social science, said that Radford's topic for this morning's lecture will be "The United States and the Korean War." His topic for tomorrow's lecture, also scheduled for 10:30 a.m. will be "The Problems of China in Southeast Asia, 1949-1965."

The appearance of Adm.

Radford, former chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, is made possible through the social science division in cooperation with Education for Freedom.

Admiral Radford was graduated from the U. S. Naval Academy in 1916, and during World War II served in the Office of Chief Naval Personnel and commanded Carrier Divisions 6 and 11.

Prior to the Korean War, he served as Commander-in-Chief of the U. S. Pacific Fleet, High Commissioner of the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands, and was responsible for the United States military assistance program for Southeast Asia.

Admiral Radford was appointed chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff in 1953 and served in that capacity until his retirement from active Naval service in 1957.

Since leaving the Navy, he has been named the director of several large corporations and is a Trustee of Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge, Pa.

"This lecture series is designed to bring to campus the foremost authorities in the academic areas of the social sciences," stated Dr. Averitt.

"The visits of these guest lecturers provide an opportunity for students and faculty to discuss contemporary issues with individuals whose research and experience have made them major figures in the present issues," he added.

Program Announced For Religious Emphasis Week

Dr. Rex Hanna Knowles, Dean of the Chapel, Centre College, Danville, Ky., will be the main speaker for Religious Emphasis Week to be held Monday through Wednesday, according to Dr. Rollin Williams, chairman of the Religious Activities Committee.

A native of Missouri, Dr. Knowles holds the A.B. degree from Wesleyan University, B.D. from Yale Divinity School, Ph.D. from the University of Nebraska, and the D.D. from Hastings College.

He served as University Pastor of the Westminster Foundation and as a member of the faculty of Cotner College in Lincoln, Neb.

Dr. Knowles is a member of the executive committee of the National Association of College Chaplains and is past vice-president of the Association of University Pastors.

He has been Dean of the Chapel and Associate professor of religion and psychology at Centre College since 1960.

Dr. Knowles has served as a religious emphasis week speaker on some thirty campuses.

Dr. Knowles will lecture on "Where in Hell Is the Christian?" at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday morning in McCroan Auditorium.

An informal discussion will take place in the Frank I. Williams Center at 2:30 p.m.

Twilight services will be observed in McCroan Auditorium at 5:30 p.m. Dr. Knowles will lead the services.

A panel discussion on "Faith and Social Action" will climax the three-day program of religious activities. The panel will consist of clergymen of the major faiths represented on the campus. The discussion is scheduled for 1:30 p.m.

The purpose of Religious Emphasis Week, according to Dr. Williams, is "to give the student an opportunity to evaluate his moral and spiritual development."

Pat Yeager Resigns Position As Southern Gymnastics Coach

Patrick Yeager, former Olympic coach and presently Georgia Southern gymnastics coach, has announced his resignation from the GSC faculty, effective June 1.

Yeager came to Southern in 1960 and started a gymnastics team which skyrocketed to national fame in four years. Under Yeager's direction the Eagles placed second in the NAIA national gymnastics championships last year only one-half of a point short of first place.

Coach Yeager made the following statement regarding his resignation:

"I am leaving the Georgia Southern faculty as of June 1 of this year due to my belief that the school is not ready for a top rate gymnastics program. My resignation is not the result of any personal conflicts with any member of the faculty.

"To foster and maintain a gymnastic program that will compete with schools that are able to offer both scholarships and adequate financial support, is impossible at Georgia Southern under the present policy. We have needed financial help every stage of the way in our development but have received relatively little. The school presently allots only $750 in the yearly budget for gymnastics. Any extra cash used must be obtained from local merchants purchasing ads and from other private donations.

"If we cannot continue this program as I believe it properly should be, then it is my prerogative to leave and go elsewhere.

"I do not want Georgia Southern to ever produce a mediocre team under my leadership. It deserves top flight support both moral and financial and the latter has not been given."

"I have no definite plans now regarding where I will coach next year nor do I have any information regarding next year's GSC coach."

Yeager again stressed that there is no resentment or hard feeling connected with his resignation.

Addition To Rosenwald Library Ready To Open In Two Weeks

By RALPH PURSER
Staff Writer

The new addition to the Rosenwald Library will be opened within two weeks, according to Miss Hassie McElveen, head librarian.

Approximately 4,000 books have been added since last July. Between 6,000 and 7,000 books will be added this year before July 1.

Additional nonprofessional full-time personnel will aid in staffing the new addition. More student assistants will also be employed.

New equipment acquired by the library include two film-strip projectors with slide attachments, a tape recorder and a dry mounting press for mounting press for mounting prints.

Plans call for an additional microfilm reader and magnaprint and microcard readers. More microfilm will be obtained for student use.

A new 24-inch physical political reference globe in navigator mounting will be added to the reference room.

The new Xerox copier which was obtained during Christmas holidays is turning out between two and three thousand copies each month, according to Miss McElveen.

The annex will include a music listening room equipped with amplifiers and earphones. Records will be made available through the circulation desk.

The present placement of books, magazines and other materials will be altered. The Educational Reading Room will be devoted almost entirely to magazines and periodicals.

Advance tickets will go on sale in the lobby of the Frank I. Williams Center within a week. Cost will be $2 per person and $3 at the door.

Tickets will also be sold at The Music Box, located on West Main Street in Statesboro.

"They will sing nothing but their hit recordings throughout the concert," stated Jimmy Hilliard, treasurer of Sigma Epsilon Chi, the organization sponsoring the appearance of the group.

Top hits that the group has recorded include "Sherry," "Candy Girl," "Big Girls Don't Cry," and "Walk Like A Man."

Sigma Epsilon Chi will also sponsor The Rollingstones, recording stars from Liverpool, England, who will perform for the GSC students May 4, at 7:30 p.m. in the Hanner Building.

Tickets are on sale now in the lobby of the Frank I. Williams Center. Cost is $2.50 per person and tickets at the door will run considerably higher, according to Holt Johnson, president of Sig Eps.

"Three additional groups will appear with the Rollingstones. Tentatively scheduled are The Roemen, The Revlons, and we are not sure of the third group," commented Johnson.

Modern Theater To Be Located At Knight Village

Construction will begin on an indoor theater to be located in Knight Village adjacent to the Varsity Restaurant within four months, according to Buford W. Knight, owner of Knight Village, and Albert Weis, Georgia director of the Weis Theater chain.

The architectural firm of Finch, Alexander, Barnes, Rothschild and Paschal have been engaged to design the building and interior. The firm has designed other theaters in Seattle, San Antonio, New Orleans, Atlanta and Savannah.

Contemporary design will be used throughout the theater. A 42-foot curved screen will be able to show any type of new processes.

"The latest in stereo sound and seating will be incorporated in the construction," Weis said.

The theater will be located on Georgia Avenue one block from Georgia Southern College. A parking area will be provided for theater patrons.

Knight announced that a shopping center to be known as College Gate Plaza will also be erected on Georgia Avenue. It will include a drug store, men's and women's wear stores, jewelry and book stores, a beauty shop and a bakery.

The new center will also have a paint store, insurance and real estate offices, self-service laundry, TV sales and repair shop, food store, gift shop, sporting goods shop, shoe shop, barber shop, taxi cab service, bowling alley, service station and car wash.

Construction on College Gate Plaza began early this week. Completion is expected by July 1.

New Classroom Building Named For Past President Of GSC

The new classroom building located behind the Rosenwald Library has been named in memory of the late Dr. Ernest Victor Hollis, a past president of Georgia Southern College.

Dr. Zach S. Henderson, president of GSC, made the announcement and stated that Dr. Hollis had been "instrumental in changing Georgia Southern from a high school to a college."

Dr. Hollis served as president of the college from 1920 to 1926. He came into office when the college was named the first District Agricultural and Mechanical School. In 1924, the name was changed to the Georgia Normal School.

After leaving Statesboro, Dr.

Hollis served as chairman of the Education Department at State Teachers College, Morehead, Ky., from 1927 to 1935.

In 1940, he became Chief of College Administration in the United States Office of Education. Since that time, he spent most of his career with the Office of Education, working primarily with higher education in the nation, until his death last year.

State Solon Cites 'Balance Of Power'

By BRYANT YOUMANS Staff Writer

State Sen. B. Avant Edenfield pointed out that the United States Supreme Court's order for the state to reapportion its legislature on an equal population basis has changed the balance of power in state and local politics in Georgia.

Senator Edenfield, speaking at a meeting of the Society for the Advancement of Management Monday Night in the Frank I. Williams Center, emphasized that reapportionment has changed "the very foundation of state politics."

Approximately four years ago the county unit system held the balance of power in state politics. Edenfield noted that since that system has been struck down by the Supreme Court, the balance of power has shifted gradually from the rural area to that of the urban area. Moreover, he noted that reapportionment actually caused the shift in power.

Edenfield pointed out that the previously "die-hard segregationists" are now "trying to get back into the main stream of politics." Edenfield said that this shift in power will hurt the rural areas in that their voice in state government will not be as great as before.

As an example, he said that rural roads legislation and school building programs will not get as much attention as they did prior to reapportionment.

Concerning the structure of the legislature, Edenfield said that it has changed considerably.

He also said that the idea of a retired planter going to the legislature is no longer true. The age limit has been reduced.

Many young men are in the legislatures today, he pointed out.

He closed by urging all men to become active in politics both at the state and local levels.

Registration Problems

Long and exhausting registration at the beginning of each quarter seems to have become a way of life at Georgia Southern.

Once again the George-Anne calls attention to the problems faced by students when they attempted to register for classes last week: courses that were "closed out" within minutes after the doors of the W. S. Hanner Building were opened; hastily-sought and perhaps unwise substitutions for the inaccessible classes; repetitious forms to be hurriedly filled in; and lines, this time outside the building, which seemed to have no end.

Pre-registration by divisions prior to the quarter seems to be a simple and workable solution for the confusion that prevails on registration day. It has been used previously on a limited basis; perhaps it could be more widely employed in the future.

Gymnastics Uncertain

Gymnastics coach Pat Yeager has submitted his resignation from the Georgia Southern coaching staff and faculty; and with this announcement, the future of gymnastics at GSC appears uncertain.

Yeager, a South Dakota native, came to Southern in 1960 and immediately organized women's and men's gymnastics teams. Three years later, the men's team captured the Southern Interscholastic Championships and the U. S. A. Invitational.

Last year, the GSC gymnastics team placed second in the NAIA Championships with only one-half of a point separating them from the crown. More important than the first places and the season records, however, is the outstanding reputation which the team has built not only for the Athletic Department but also for the college itself.

The financial matter immediately poses questions concerning the future of gymnastics at Georgia Southern. The George-Anne feels that the reputation which the gymnastics team has earned and the popular support which has followed it is too much to relinquish by dropping gymnastics as an intercollegiate sport.

The gymnastics meets have become too important a part of the GSC athletic program to be discontinued merely for lack of financial support.

A Much-Needed Remedy

The lining of the parking areas behind Sanford and Veazey Halls represents a much-needed remedy to the problem of congested traffic lanes that formerly plagued these areas.

The residents of the dormitories which cooperate in using the parking lots have been the victims of several irritating problems during past quarters.

Some of these were the blocking of lanes, the "hemming-in" of many automobiles, and the parking of cars in areas supposedly reserved for other purposes. There was also the constant possibility of a traffic accident caused by the general confusion.

Such problems will be greatly reduced because of the lining of parking spaces by the Maintenance Department during spring holidays. The George-Anne wishes to extend a vote of appreciation to this department for its assistance in relieving an unnecessary and potentially dangerous condition.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

— Hoyt Canady —

The cliché has it that in students themselves halted the spring a young man's fancy turns to a number of things. Perhaps the saddest aspect about the event of last spring was the fact that there was no real purpose to it. Had students demonstrated for something constructive, backed by logical protests and logical demands, their actions would have been justified.

However, the past two spring quarters at Southern have added a new object to a young man's fancy. Now it seems that spring cannot end without two nights of certain nocturnal activities which involve men's and women's residence halls, the task force of the County Sheriff's Department, and college officials who disgustingly try to figure out what happened.

Call it "panty raids," "incidents," "riots," "fun and games," or what you choose. The whole period of excitement accomplished nothing constructive, and it resulted in arrests, dismissals from school, and a lot of widespread bad publicity for GSC. In fact, one could go far enough to say that nobody benefited and everyone was hurt to some degree.

The demonstrations were about as organized as fall registration, and if there was any purpose at all, it was so esoteric that administrators still haven't determined it. The only thing good about the entire situation was the fact that the students themselves halted the spring a young man's fancy turns to a number of things. Perhaps the saddest aspect about the event of last spring was the fact that there was no real purpose to it. Had students demonstrated for something constructive, backed by logical protests and logical demands, their actions would have been justified.

In answer to the question of purpose, some college officials and student leaders feel that the activities provided for students for the past two spring quarters have not been sufficient enough to occupy the students' time. As a result, students who have had almost nothing to do all quarter become frustrated and release their feelings in the vicinity of the women's dormitories.

This quarter (and possibly for matters of convenience) students should have few idle weekends. Saturday classes are over, but everything from the Rollingstones to Easter Sunrise Services has been planned or is being planned for the rest of the quarter. Therefore, idleness will be no excuse for mass demonstrations.

However, there are a number of students who are either too close to graduation or too worried about maintaining a decent grade-point average to become involved should events of last spring repeat themselves.

And if the "riots" occur again and the police return to campus, we'll just look out our dormitory windows, shake our heads in regret, and think about last summer and Harlem and Philadelphia.

Janice McNorrill

Since the editorship of the George-Anne has recently changed hands, the editor's column this week will be devoted to a reiteration of past and present George-Anne policies.

The George-Anne is a student publication, prepared by an editorial board and staff composed of student writers. It will continue to be published every week with the exception of the week of final examinations.

The purpose of a college newspaper is to report the various happenings on the campus in a truthful and unbiased manner. This will be done through news stories and features.

Regarding the editorial policy, the George-Anne will explore all sides of issues that may arise during the quarter and examine all avenues of thought in an attempt to suggest a possible remedy if a problem exists.

Letters to the editor will continue as always to be welcomed by the George-Anne as an expression of student or faculty opinion. Any student except a staff writer may express his interest through such a letter. Letters should be concise, approximately 150 to 200 words in length, and should be signed.

Cooperation with the administration, faculty, and others concerned with the college is a policy of the paper. We, too, are dedicated to the promotion of progress by the college in all areas, including academic, athletic and cultural.

We therefore encourage the addition of more instructors, courses and degrees to the academic program of the school. We also endorse plans undertaken by the Campus Life Enrichment Committee and by the various divisions to bring a varied program of enrichment through guest lecturers as a supplement to local instruction.

The physical expansion of the college is presently an important aspect of Georgia Southern's total progress. The opening of the new addition to the Rosenwald Library and the Hollis Building, which will house the divisions of business, social science and language, will provide more adequate academic facilities.

The Student Congress will also be supported by the George-Anne in its attempt to represent all students of the college. We encourage the continuation of responsible leadership within the Congress, especially during this quarter when the election of next year's representatives will be held.

In conclusion, let it be said that the George-Anne, now in its 38th year of publication, will continue to provide the some 3,000 Georgia Southern students with the best possible coverage of the news occurring on their campus.

A Hopeful Solution For One Big Problem -- Registration

By GARY ROBERTS and BOB FLANDERS

In our unstinting efforts to bring you the TRUTH—a commodity which is not necessarily the sole property of professors—we had thought initially to rise up in indignation, and to present in a sarcastic manner, an "Award for Incompetence" to those who concocted the registration procedures last week.

Gary Roberts Bob Flanders

Having nursed the wounds of registration day and having had a week to reflect upon that unpleasant occasion, we have decided that such an act on our part might be too sharply critical. The fact remains, however, that there is justification for some criticism.

Registration at GSC falls just short of complete chaos. The confusion outside the Hanner building Tuesday morning was reminiscent of a riot, and those who were shoved down the steps will probably agree.

If progress had been made in solving what is a glaring problem there would be less justification in such criticism. It should be noted, however, that registration for Spring Quarter was the worst yet.

It is all too common to offer criticism without recommending possible remedies. We do not maintain that we can solve registration day difficulties. Nor is it our place—or any student's place—to even try. That should be left to those who are responsible for that task.

We realize that a certain amount of confusion is the inevitable result of registration day. But the extent to which the problem has grown suggests a definite need for some kind of reevaluation. In this connection we would like to make several suggestions.

The most striking problem which could be readily remedied, is the late arrival of the staff and faculty. The faculty must be present before registration can begin. It therefore stands to reason that when registration is scheduled to begin at 8:30, and professors are still arriving at 9:15 student patience wears thin.

Increased numbers add to the problem. If professors cannot be in their places by 8:30 then the logical thing to do would be to move the time up to 9 or 9:30 whenever it is convenient for the professors.

An extension of the time limit might also provide a partial remedy. Along these same lines registration by class might offer a partial solution.

Nor is this to suggest that students have no responsibility. Those students who arrive before their allotted time and "buck" the lines, merely add to the confusion and accomplish nothing, because they are turned away because of their early arrival.

Of course the most logical solution is pre-registration, and we believe it will ultimately come to this. Our question is: Why prolong the agony?

FROM OTHER COLLEGES

'Sordid' Headline, Editor's Dismissal Bring Objections

(ACP)—The ouster of the editor of the Delta State College (Cleveland, Miss.) newspaper for what the president of the college called a "sordid" headline on a review of a James Bond movie has brought response from two other Southern newspapers.

Jack Steele, executive editor of the Miss Delta, was fired by Dr. James W. Ewing for a headline appearing in the Jan. 12 issue. Ewing said in a statement that Steele had "assumed complete responsibility" for the headline which he said was "uncalled for, sordid, and beneath the dignity of college or professional journalism."

Eric Smith, columnist for The Technique, Georgia Tech student newspaper said: The actual headline under question was over a review of movies in the area. 'Goldfinger' was one of the movies reviewed and the headline stated, "Pussy Galore Typical of James Bond's Girls." For this, an editor was removed from his post.

Wrong Person

The Supreme Court and the U. S. Postal Service have ruled on the areas encompassed by pornography, and apparently "Pussy Galore" passed the test because the film and tone of literature dealing with it has passed through the mail. Some of the more "sordid" publications in which it appeared were Time, Newsweek, and The Technique.

President Ewing has set himself as judge and jury over not only Miss Delta but also the above mentioned publications and countless others. He has stifled freedom and abused the powers of his office. Somehow, I think the wrong person was fired in this lamentable one-man purge.

The Auburn Plainsman, Auburn University, said: Although a reprimand is possibly in order, this is absurd grounds for dismissal of an editor. The reasons obviously go much deeper.

Barnes Carr, the new editor, puts things in better perspective. The Miss Delta, Carr reports, has "on occasion attacked the administration and some of its policies," and has "pushed for more public and open discussions on campus of controversial topics."

"I believe freedom of expression to be an essential to the academic community," Carr said, "but attempts at open-mindedness and moderation only resulted in the newspaper being branded as negative and anti-conservative."

FREE SPEECH MOVEMENT

Both the prosecution and defense in the trial of students arrested in connection with the Free Speech Movement (FSM) sit-in at the University of California, Berkeley, have asked for permission to try only a fraction of the cases, with the verdict to apply to all the arrested students.

The information came from Robert Treuhart, FMS defense attorney. Malcom Burnstein, another defense attorney, said he believes the prosecution will also ask the court permission to try the cases without a jury.

The 814 students were charged with unlawful assembly, failure to disperse, and resisting arrest in the Dec. 3 Sproul Hall sit-in.

Treuhart said the request to try only some of these students was made "in hope it (the case) would be disposed of in one trial." He said a verdict of guilty in a case tried only by a judge would be grounds of appeal to a higher court on the basis of U. S. Constitution guarantees.

The defense will be based on two major grounds: The statutes in question are invalid per se because they are vague and run counter to the First Amendment, and the statutes don't apply because students were exercising their right to "peaceful petition of grievances."

Treuhart said 53 defendants have pleaded no contest because of "special circumstances." He speculated that they would receive the same sentence as those pleading not guilty.

Study Completed On Student Admission, Failure Problems

By Winfred L. Godwin
Director, Southern Region
Education Board

Who are today's college freshmen? How well prepared are they for the institutions of their choice? How many are doomed to drop out before graduation?

These questions have been receiving more attention in recent years than ever before, because the answers are necessary if the needs of both students and institutions are to be met.

The first installment of a comprehensive study on student admission and retention, "In and Out of College," has recently been published by the Oklahoma State Board of Regents. It is the first report on a six-year study of 13,276 first time freshmen who entered the 32 Oklahoma private and public institutions in September, 1962.

The group will be followed through their collegiate careers, with additional reports scheduled on pertinent findings.

Dropouts

The report declares that "the typical Oklahoma College loses about 42 percent of its original freshman class by the beginning of the sophomore year."

"Attrition rates on this order, both in terms of human and financial resources involved, are far too expensive. . . . Instead ways must be found to minimize such losses by more carefully matching institutions and students so that both can produce to the limit of their respective capacities."

The more able the student is, as measured by test scores, the more likely he will survive the freshman year. Yet almost half of the drop outs are quite capable intellectually — tests place them in the upper half of scores on the American College Testing Program.

Students whose family income exceeds $10,000 per year are less likely to drop out than those whose annual income is less than $5,000, the study shows. (Two thirds of all Oklahoma freshmen come from families with an annual income of $5,000 or more.)

Freshmen who pledge social fraternities and sororities remain in college at rates considerably in excess of those compiled by non-pledges.

Talent Overlooked

"It is clearly evident that large numbers of capable young girls are not being educated to their full potential," the report says. "To the extent this reservoir of untapped talent is being overlooked, both the state and the nation are failing to achieve the full potential of its manpower resources."

The same could be said of Negro students. There is a disproportionately small number of Negroes among freshmen in Oklahoma institutions.

Freshmen whose parents both are college graduates persist through the freshman year of college at a rate about 13 per cent higher than those coming from families in which neither parent holds a bachelor's degree.

Students who are on scholarship persist over non-scholarship recipients by a margin of 76 per cent to 46 per cent, with young men on academic scholarships persisting at the highest rate of any other type. Athletes, with their fatter scholarships, drop out at a greater rate than other grant holders. (The report says that more scholarship money is needed each year for the estimated 2500 youths in the under $5,000 bracket who could profit from higher education, including many able Negroes.)

Although the report stresses that it is too early for conclusions and recommendations, it did find that too many students, not adequately qualified, choke freshmen classrooms only to drop out during their sophomore years.

Study Important

The findings in the Oklahoma report are not novel. Other studies have proved that drop out rates are related to parental income, academic aptitude, socio-economic background, sex and previous performance in school.

But the study is important because it is statewide, inclusive of both public and private colleges, and because it will follow a large group of students through their undergraduate careers to see how they fare.

House Director Claims Writer Misquoted Her

In the last edition of the George-Anne, Mrs. Jane Morgan, house director of Deal Hall, was quoted as having her chief dormitory problems center around drinking.

Mrs. Morgan said that this and other statements made in the article were in error.

She said that she did not think that house directors go unappreciated or take roles of wardens, guards or sergeants.

Mrs. Morgan stated, "I have had no major problems in my dorm this year and have had nothing but the highest esteem for the girls in Deal Hall. I am very happy in my work and have only the fullest cooperation from the girls with whom I have worked."

Henderson Assumes Presidency Of GEA; Forecasts 'Good Year'

Dr. Zach S. Henderson, president of Georgia Southern College, was installed as the 92nd President of the Georgia Education Association last Saturday in Atlanta.

Dr. Henderson assumed the office of a 30,000 member organization at the "President's Breakfast" which was attended by officials of the Association and by retiring president Judson R. Tripp of Vidalia.

The only major piece of legislation enacted by the convention was a 967-116 vote to reapportion its districts along the same lines as the state's newly-reapportioned congressional district.

Dr. Henderson said that this action was taken for the same reasons that the state legislature took similar action—to provide for more representation among the districts.

In commenting on the prospects for his year as GEA President, Dr. Henderson stated that he expects a "good year. The spirit of the directors and of the officers are good," he added.

The new GEA President said he expects no major problems over the year except for the current controversy concerning the GEA's affiliation with the National Education Association, who demands that the GEA desegregate its membership.

Dr. Henderson will serve as President of GEA for the next year in which time he will travel extensively and handle all administrative matters subject to counsel with the Atlanta GEA headquarters.

Dr. Henderson has served in various capacities in the Georgia Education Association and has attended every delegate assembly over the past twenty years.

In other action at the convention, the GEA elected Clyde Kimball of the Atlanta Public School System President-elect of the Association. Kimball had no opposition.

Dr. Henderson is the second President of Georgia Southern College to be elected President of the GEA. Dr. Guy Wells, Fifth President of GSC, served as President of the Association in 1940-41.

Kenan's To Expand For GSC Students

This week the George-Anne was called in to help tell a story; perhaps an advertising story but in any event one that speaks of progress and interest to the students and faculty of Georgia Southern. The who, what, when and where of journalistic writing will get us directly to the point.

Kenan's - a downtown stationer serving the college, has come forward with several improvements that will allow them to serve, to a greater degree, the requirements of our college.

In an interview with J. Shields Kenan, owner of the business and with Ron Mattox, Georgia Southern student employee, it was learned that Kenan's now has on display and available, the complete college outline series by Barnes and Noble as well as the outline series by Monarch publishers.

In addition, a quality line of paperback resource material, oriented for college use, is available and on hand from several of America's leading publishing firms. Among these are Prentice Hall, New American Library, Rand McNally and others.

In speaking of these new lines Kenan said: "This is the culmination of a plan that started more than three years ago when our store began its remodeling. First, we put in an art department that now provides the most complete selection of art supplies in this area."

"Expected daily is a large selection of reproductions, drawings and picture frames that will offer, for the first time, moderately priced reproductions by the masters.

"Now with the addition of the college oriented paper, back lines, we can offer to the faculty and student body, study aids and self improvement type material keyed in many cases directly to Georgia Southern College texts."

Here in good quality will be found quality reading material for study as well as today's best sellers in paper back edition.

When asked if anything else was new, Kenan stated that a Xerox Copier is on order and will be installed immediately for student and general use, which used in conjunction with his offset reproduction process will allow fast multi-copy reproduction at a fractional cost of usual processes.

Minimum or single copies are also available and at special college rates.

In addition Kenan said that tickets will be available to students and faculty on a free RCA FM, AM, Shortwave radio to be given away on May 20.

No purchase is required, nor is it necessary to register. Tickets are free and are available with each visit to Kenan's.

The store is air-conditioned, features back-ground music and Kenan says the "latch - string is always out for members of Georgia Southern."

Choir To Perform With Symphony

The Philharmonic Choir of Georgia Southern College has been invited for the third consecutive year to perform in concert with the Savannah Symphony, according to Don Northrup, director of the choir.

The choir will perform in a production of "Carmen" on Saturday at 8:30 p.m. at the Municipal Auditorium in Savannah. They will also appear in Beaufort, S. C. on Sunday.

Several members of the Armstrong College choir and of the Savannah Choral Guild will participate in the presentation. Performing in one of the roles will be Archie McAfee, a recent graduate of Georgia Southern.

Tickets will be on sale at the box office for the "one-night only" performance in Savannah. Students will be given special rates.

It happened again. Saturday's double header was rained out. The season record for our baseball team now stands at 5 and 0. Added together these figures total 5. They should total 10. Five games have been rained out.

Why are so many games called off because of rain when the sun is shining brightly? A walk on the baseball diamond after a night of hard rain will tell you the answer. Take one step and you're standing shoe deep in water.

A baseball field is expensive to maintain. It requires the hard labor of competent ground crews to keep it in top shape. Big league teams spend thousands of dollars each year to keep their diamonds in top playing condition. Georgia Southern however cannot afford such a sum for field maintenance.

I talked with GSC athletic director J. B. Searce about the field during the baseball game Monday and learned quite a bit about the maintenance of a diamond.

He said that the problem is not chiefly drainage, but just bad luck that we have had so much rain this year.

He told of the extensive work that takes place after a rain.

First the field is raked off, loosening the top soil and letting air dry out the soil. If there is an exceptionally bad spot, 50 gallons of gasoline are poured on and burned to evaporate the water. Plastic covers are used on the pitcher's mound and the home plate area, but the last rains were so hard that the water went under them.

Baseball Coach J. I. Clements added that a clogged drain had not been discovered previously, but one has recently been found. Clements remarked that this caused the water to be standing in the outfield, which seldom happens as a result of only the rain.

Obviously unless the forces of nature come under the control of men, nothing can be done about the problem of rained-out ball games. The unfortunate fact remains that games which are rained out cannot be replayed due to a heavy schedule. Each game not played is one less for the season record.

When the weather permits a game, Georgia Southern makes an excellent showing. The 13-0 win over Davidson Monday proves this fact. The team deserves the student body's wholehearted support.

TENNIS

Saturday I watched Georgia Southern play tennis against the City College of Charleston. Southern didn't win but the match was interesting. Tennis is a fast game requiring great ability and exceptional coordination. It is by no means dull. I'm quite sure that Saturday classes were the only reason that there weren't but 12 people watching the match. The next tennis match is tomorrow at 1 p. m. with Georgia State College. There are no Saturday classes tomorrow.

GYMNASTICS

The gymnastics team this year has piled up an impressive record by all standards. Their season stands at 8 wins and 2 losses. Such a record could never have been compiled had it not been for the patient guiding hands of coaches Eggleston and Yeager who worked hard all the way.

Many students have asked why Georgia Southern didn't go to the Southern Intercollegiate Gymnastics Championships in Atlanta on March 5 and 6. Two main factors caused Georgia Southern's absence.

First Coach Lyle Welser, gym mentor for Georgia Tech and president of the Southern Intercollegiate Gymnastics League, sent out a memorandum stating that freshmen could not participate in the championship meet. Coach Yeager then expressed his disappointment stating, "Georgia Southern has competed as one team all year and this includes freshmen. We will not go to the Southern Intercollegiate or any other meet with only half a team, no matter what the circumstances might be."

Second is the fact that Georgia Southern never did receive entry forms for the meet. "Coach Welser at Georgia Tech allegedly mailed them but they were not received at Georgia Southern," according to Coach Yeager.

I feel this will in some way clear up some of the misunderstanding of the reasons why Georgia Southern didn't take part in the meet.

Searce Selected As Top Basketball Coach Of Year

Coach J. B. Searce Jr., head basketball coach of the Georgia Southern Eagles, has been voted College Basketball Coach of the Year for the second consecutive time by the Atlanta Journal.

The "Kentucky Colonel" has received this type honor three other times from various organizations, once in 1960 and twice last year.

"It's all right, I appreciate it, although I didn't expect it. It was a big surprise," remarked Coach Searce.

Along with Coach Searce, GSC's two guards, Jimmy Rose and Don Adler received all-state honors.

Rose was selected to the first team all-state guard position. The Kentucky native closed out the 1964-65 season with a 19.3 point average.

Adler gained recognition being selected to the second squad. He hit 13.5 average points per game.

Rounding out the first team all-state was R. D. Craddock of Georgia Tech along with Rose at the guard positions. Big Jim Caldwell, the Yellow Jacket's pivot man, was picked as the number one center. Bobby Ritch of Valdosta State College and Jimmy Pitts of Georgia were picked at the forward slots.

Selected with Adler for the second team were Jimmy Waller, 6-7 forward from Georgia, and Jimbo Hartle of Oglethorpe as center. Paul Chastain of Shorter and Hugh Canlers of LaGrange rounded out the second unit.

Tommy Harrison was elected president of the Eagle Tenspinners League for spring quarter on Thursday, March 25.

Other newly elected officers are: George Lumpkin, vice-president; and Paul Allen, secretary-treasurer.

Brown leads the women bowlers with an average 162; high series, 487; and high game, 176. Lumpkin leads the men with an average 158; high series, 475; and high game, 175.

Brown and Lumpkin sparked their team, the Kingpinners, who captured high game honors with 612 and a high series of 1727.

Girls IM Group Plans Activities

The girls' intramural sports program has planned a variety of activities for spring quarter, including volleyball, softball, badminton, ping-pong, tennis, and track and field.

The program was organized by the PEM Club, and officials are furnished by the members of the organization.

A point system has been initiated by which girls receive points for practicing, playing and officiating. These points will be totaled at the end of the year and awards will be given.

The winter quarter program was devoted strictly to basketball. A tournament was held with the Mustangs emerging as champs and the Panthers taking the runner-up honors.

An all-star team is presently being selected and will consist of 15 players. Selections are based on sportsmanship, participation, leadership, and skill. Each player selected to the all-star squad will receive 25 additional points.

"The basketball program was very successful; and there seems to be a lot of interest in the upcoming activities," stated Jane Nixon, chairman of the intramural program.

Participation in intramurals is not limited. Any girl wishing to join a team should contact any of the following: Jane Nixon, Linda Thornton, Glenda Hartley, Susan Browning, Judith Johnson, Vivian Brock, Sandra Kennedy, Mary Anne Young, or Sandra Eatman.

Pinstripes Give Eagles New Look

"We always used to wear the plain solid white or solid gray uniforms before this year," stated J. I. Clements when asked about the baseball team's uniforms which were worn in previous years.

"This year we've switched over to pin stripes, it's a standard major league uniform. This style is predominantly worn by the Cincinnati Redlegs," added Clements.

The baseball team's new uniforms are a switch from the old solid colored ones. The shirt is a lightweight, sleeveless affair with a sleeved shirt worn underneath. The pants are the traditional style but the additional pin stripes give the entire uniform a more clean cut appearance.

plosive second inning in which the Eagles scored nine runs with a three-run homer by Bobby Butler, his second for the season.

Coach J. I. Clements expressed his satisfaction with the outcome of the game stating, "There's not too much to say about a game like this. It was Davidson's first game and they had some jitters. In this type game you wipe up in one inning and that's the game. This was the first game for Gross, Seely, Peevey and Brown. Brown did an exceptional job as a reliever in the last 2 innings."

Final statistics for Georgia Southern were 13 runs, 16 hits, 1 error, with 11 men left on base. For Davidson it was no runs, 6 hits, 6 errors and 7 men left on base.

In the second game fourteen strike-outs by pitcher Bobby Pierce sparked Georgia Southern to a 4-1 victory. Clements was pleased with Pierce's performance stating, "Bobby had real good stuff, he pitched a fine game and he only threw one bad pitch."

"Larry Gross, a freshman, played an excellent game also. We used him in left field today but we plan to work him on the pitcher's mound in some later games. Today's batting wasn't as good as I would like but you have those days," Clements added.

Final totals for Georgia Southern were four runs, four hits, one error and seven men left on base. For Davidson the figures read one run, three hits, our errors and three men left stranded.

Charleston Rips GSC Net Team

Georgia Southern dropped its fifth tennis match of the season last Saturday to the City College of Charleston, 0-9.

Coach Richard Stebbins expressed his optimism about later meets in the season and also remarked, "The team has been hurt badly by the loss of Johnny Roundtree and George Wickham."

This year's present line-up positions are: First, Ricky Asterson; second, Alec Caswell; third, David Hall; fourth, Clay Warnock; fifth, Louis Miller; and sixth, Harry Carter. Mack Poss and Carter Massee round out the team roster.

Assistant coach Joe Scraggs remarked, however, that this line-up could change at almost any given time depending on which players look best.

The Eagles' next match is slated for tomorrow at 1 p.m. with Georgia State College. They also have Valdosta State College scheduled for a match Tuesday at 3:30.

COACH J. B. SCEARCE

COACH J. I. CLEMENTS

Coaches' Banquet Set For April 27

Statesboro citizens together with faculty and students of Georgia Southern College will join in honoring two GSC coaches, J. I. Clements and J. B. Searce, at a special dinner to be held April 27 at 8 p.m. in the dining hall of the Frank I. Williams Student Center.

Don McDougald of WWNS Radio in Statesboro, instrumental in planning the dinner, issued a special invitation to GSC students and faculty.

"We especially want to have students and faculty from Georgia Southern. This will mark the first time since I can remember that something like this has been done for these two fine men, and we're hoping for a large turnout both from Statesboro citizens and the faculty and student body of Georgia Southern," McDougald said.

He also revealed that Joe Axelson, former Georgia Southern Public Relations Director and presently assistant Executive Secretary of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics, will serve as the master of ceremonies.

The Statesboro Junior Chamber of Commerce will handle the ticket sales through the following organizations: WWNS radio, the Sea Island Bank, W. C. Akins and Son, the College Pharmacy, the Bulloch County Bank and Georgia Southern College.

Coach J. I. Clements was selected as NAIA Baseball Coach of the Year in 1964, and Searce, in addition to being named Coach of the Year in Georgia four times, has been recently inducted into the NAIA Hall of Fame.

Jonathan Winters and Phil Silvers try to outsmart each other in Stanley Kramer's hilarious "It's A Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World," opening Wed. 7th at the Georgia Theatre as a continuous performance, popular price attraction. It's in Ultra Panavision and Technicolor and is a United Artists release.
