Student Congress Retreat Lists Recommendations For Next Year

The Student Congress discussed recommendations ranging from the Honors program criteria and Homecoming plans to the allocation of the residence hall activity fee and the establishment of a Judiciary Committee at its Spring Retreat last weekend.

The Honors Committee recommended that students be represented on all the standing committees of the college. Students have been included on some of the committees in the past.

The committees include the Honors Committee, the Campus Safety and Security Committee, the Religious Emphasis Committee, the Scholarship and Loans Committee, and the Campus Life Enrichment Committee.

With students on the committees, "there can be no business without a quorum, and no quorum without student participation," stated Jackie Mullis, who read the recommendations.

Honors Program

The committee also recommended a change in the system used for the selection of students to "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities" and for the leadership-service awards given on Honors Day.

It was recommended that the data sheet be changed from an evaluation of student participation to a student activity record.

Some of the organizations listed on the data sheets have become inactive. The committee recommended an elimination of these from the list.

The point system suggested by the committee would base the individual's activity record on that of the organization in which he participated.

Each of approximately 60 organizations on campus would turn in an evaluation of their organization. If the organization is rated high, the officers and members of the organization will be rated high on their activity records.

"This system will bring the list of organizations up to date and will also stir the officers to get on the ball," Mullis stated.

Clair Halpern, a senior at Statesboro High School, received a cash grant from the Statesboro Hebrew Congregation.

SAYS ORGANIZATION COMMITTEE CHAIRMAN

'Campus Organizations Have Added To College Growth'

By TOM KING
News Editor

The work of the Committee of Campus Organizations and the work of the individual organizations have risen to the highest level of any preceding year.

During the past, GSC has had a few organizations that deserved and received a note of merit for the services rendered. Southern has grown, and along with the growth of the college, the organizations have expanded to fulfill the needs of the students.

According to Pat Blanchard, chairman of the Committee of Campus Organizations, the addition of sororities to our campus has been an asset.

"Some of these groups did not receive recognition or merit, but their presence does add much to the organizational structure of Georgia Southern," stated Blanchard.

"Since this was the first year of existence for the sororities, they encountered many drawbacks. They should be commended for their work and I feel that they will assume an active part in the campus life at GSC," he added.

"I would like to congratulate the organizations that received the awards on Honors Day for their achievements during the past year. I would also like to take this opportunity to commend the sophomore class for their outstanding work with the Spring Swing Week," Blanchard continued.

In relation to the Spring Swing Week, Blanchard said that there should be recognition and appreciation given to Dr. Leavitt, faculty advisor for the sophomore class, and to the Student Personnel Office for making the swing week a reality.

Blanchard also expressed that the Circle K Club deserves recognition for the active participation during the homecoming activities.

"They (Circle K) have made outstanding contributions in their many projects during their first year of existence and are a great asset to the college," said Blanchard.

In closing, he stated that he would like to take this opportunity to thank his fellow members of the Student Congress, the administration, the numerous campus organizations, and The George-Anne for the enormous help he received in fulfilling the duties of the chairman of the Committee of Campus Organizations.

Summer Housing Applications Due

By JOHN EDEN
Assistant News Editor

The dormitories for summer school are filling up rapidly as the June 1 deadline for on-campus summer housing applications approaches.

According to Jackie Mikell, director of housing, the dormitories which will be open for summer quarter are Brannen, Hendricks and Veazey Halls. Lewis Hall will also be open for six weeks during the Social Science Summer Institute.

It is the policy of the school to approve off-campus housing only after all on-campus facilities have been filled.

Housing certificates, used in registering, will be mailed to off-campus students. Those on campus will receive the certificates in their dormitories.

FALL

As of May 17, 474 men and 952 women had been assigned on-campus housing for fall quarter '65, and there are 88 women and 78 men on the waiting list for Freshmen on-campus housing.

Freshmen women will be garisoned in Anderson, Deal, Lewis, and Hendricks Halls; sophomore women reside in Veazey Hall; and junior and senior women in the new dormitory, still under construction.

Dean Ralph K. Tyson had no comment on the expected date of completion for the housing unit.

Freshmen men on campus next fall will reside in Sanford and Cone Halls. Sophomore men will live in Cone Hall, with Brannen Hall the junior and senior mens' residence.

Miss Mikell said that off-campus housing is also filling up very rapidly; many of the larger units have already reported long waiting lists.

Students must make separate application for summer and fall quarters, Miss Mikell emphasized. Having an on-campus status summer quarter does not insure an on-campus assignment fall quarter.

Dean Tyson said that student cooperation in the housing program has been satisfactory this year. "If this spirit continues, . . . we shall see much progress in student growth. Our present progress is a testimonial of maturity and sound judgement of a majority of Georgia Southern's Students."

Retreat Provides Changes

Among the recommendations made last weekend at the Student Congress Spring Retreat, those concerning the Honors program criteria, the residence hall special activity fee, and the establishment of a Judiciary Committee are most likely to affect Georgia Southern students.

The Congress recommended a change in the present system used for selection of students to "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities" and for the leadership-service awards.

The need for a change in the data sheets used in the evaluation of student participation in organizations was emphasized by the fact that the sheets now read "date entered GTC." The name of the college was changed in 1959.

The new point system recommended by the Congress would base a student's activity rating on the rating of the organization in which he participated. Thus, if an organization received a high rating, its officers and members would receive a high rating on their individual data sheets.

The recommendation has not been worked out in detail, and of course, like the present system, it will contain inequities. However, it does appear to be an improvement over the present system.

The George-Anne endorses the recommendation on the condition that a closed committee of the Student Congress evaluate the various campus organizations to insure fairness to all.

A second recommendation made at the retreat concerned the residence hall special activity fee. The recommendation was that the $3 fee be maintained in the dormitories next year, and that a $2 fee required of all students during registration take its place the following year.

As the George-Anne has consistently stated in the past, we do not endorse a policy which requires students to pay the retainer fee on groups whose concerts they may or may not choose to attend. We maintain that the requirement is unfair to those students who must pay perhaps two months in advance for an activity in which they may not be able to participate.

Finally, concerning the establishment of a Student Congress Judiciary Committee we agree that the idea sounds good. Of course, we want students to share to a greater extent in the government of the college. But let's look closer at what a Judiciary Committee could accomplish.

If it operates in name only, with little power beyond that of making recommendations, it would probably do more harm than good to the advancement of student government on the Georgia Southern campus.

Library Problems Still Exist

Now that the library has expanded into its new annex, it is a good time to bring to light some problems that are faced by students who use this facility.

Regulation of the stacks is the major problem. The George-Anne feels that a system of watchers such as those used by many college libraries would be a great deterrent to those students who steal books from the library.

Volume two of the latest edition of the Encyclopedia Britannica is currently missing from the stacks. Is this a sign that college students are "old enough" to know better than to steal library books?

Second on the list of problems that face the students who use the library is noise. A rule forbidding loud and unnecessary noise, especially among the library staff, should be enforced.

The library is not an annex to the student center, and those who wish to socialize should be reminded that the library does not offer facilities for group discussions.

Another problem encountered by students is the fact that the library is not opened on Sunday. Last year the George-Anne stated that necessity could warrant a change in this policy. We believe that the growth of the college population by over one thousand students is sufficient reason for the consideration of Sunday hours for the library.

The George-Anne is conscious of the fact that the library is now making an effort to solve the problems that exist. However, we also believe that the problems can be solved much more quickly than they are currently being solved.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"YES I KNOW I'M GIVING TH' SAME FINAL THAT I GAVE LAST TERM— BUT THIS TIME I CHANGED TH' ANSWERS."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

Well, Mr. Roberts and Flanders have done it again! They think that they have the ability to solve problems of the world as well as GSC with a cliché. We don't appreciate their evaluation of service organizations. Not only did they draw their conclusions from prejudiced attitudes, but they obviously stifled the information so easily and definitely available to them.

A small example of this is Theta Pi Omega who has tried continuously for three successive weeks to have their several service projects publicized, to no avail. Our organization adopted an Indian girl two quarters ago, and hasn't been able to make it known through this publication. This is just one of our many service projects.

The Dean of Women on campus, Carolyn Gettys, has felt free to call on us on several occasions when various opportunities for service arose. We have been working for more convenient parking facilities, banking hours and clock systems on campus.

Of course, none of these projects have appeared in print. On the contrary, the only recognition we seem to achieve is thru (sic) letters to the editor.

We think that you are merely losing your own prestige when you continue to publish biased articles about student-supported organizations.

We suggest that R. & F. reevaluate themselves! Would it take too much effort to simply get facts practically evident—or is it much easier to state just prejudiced opinions from their two-warped heads?

Theta Pi Omega

Ken Smathers to Attend Conventions In Summer

Ken Smathers, a junior education major from Kennesaw, has been selected to attend the Student National Education Association national convention in Washington and New York.

Smathers is president of the local chapter of the Student Georgia Education Association and is first vice president of the state SGEA.

He will leave Georgia on June 17 and will be away for approximately two weeks.

Janice McNorrill

The enrollment of Georgia Southern College is growing by leaps and bounds, and with the growth comes problems that have not been considered prior to this time.

Last week the registrar of the college released prediction figures revealing that 3,590 students are expected to enroll at GSC next fall.

And at the Student Congress Spring Retreat last weekend, Dean of Women, Carolyn Gettys, pointed out that "McCroan Auditorium will not hold next year's freshman class."

A multitude of problems will arise for students, faculty and administration as the enrollment continues to climb. Students will be directly involved in accepting much of the responsibility.

First, government via the Student Congress will give students an opportunity to help in the solutions to many problems.

The recommendation at the recent Spring Retreat that students be included on the standing committees of the college suggests that the Congress plans to promote additional student participation in many areas.

Perhaps most significant is the recommendation that students be included on the Honors Committee and the Scholarship and Loans Committee.

Officers and members of organizations will also assume more responsibility as their membership and activities increase.

Additional planning will be necessary when organizations sponsored 'big-name' entertainment since such activities will probably necessitate the securing of paid chaperones for the audience and police protection for the entertainers.

Officers of the organizations will also have to schedule events in close cooperation with other groups. A failure in this area could result in chaos if, for example, two organizations planned to use the same building on the same night.

Other responsibilities which organizations must face when they plan activities for a large enrollment are the legalities of contracts and the handling of finances regarding ticket sales and taxes on the sales.

Problems will confront the smaller organizations on campus as well as the large ones. Strides were taken this year to provide for inequities when the Committee of Campus Organizations considered four categories for organization awards on Honors Day.

The increased enrollment affects individuals as well as organizations. No doubt many will become frustrated as they compete for grades, choose which activities to support, and struggle against crowded conditions at meals and basketball games.

On the other hand, those who learn to assume responsibility and to make decisions will partake of many rewarding experiences by which to grow during their college careers.

And after all, isn't that what college is for?

After Thoughtful Reflection, None Dare Call It Criticism

After thoughtful reflection and only one trip to Twilight, we write this column in a spirit of repentance, yea with wailing and gnashing of teeth, for our past criticisms. To all service organizations, administrators, faculty members, and any other innocent bystanders who may have been offended by our invective in past columns we offer our most humble apologies.

We now realize that this is the best of all possible schools and that all of the organizations and individuals we have criticized are beyond any improvement (at least any constructive improvement that we might suggest). With this new attitude, we would like to make amends for past wrongs committed in this, the best of all possible newspapers.

Throughout all of our efforts we have constantly heard the words of truth and turned deaf ears to them. "Be satisfied," we were told. "We may not have all we want, but we must be thankful for what we do have." How foolish it has been of us to desire something better for GSC. How absolutely stupid of us to have even begun to criticize the status quo.

INDIVIDUALISM

To those responsible for the off-campus housing program we owe more than apologies. We extend our heart felt thanks! We now realize that this program enables the students to acquire the American virtues of rugged individualism and self reliance by allowing him to live with the elements (roaches, ants, rats, rain, and freezing temperatures).

Those students who still feel compelled to complain should realize that our off-campus program was the product of much diligent research and foresight on the part of someone. Moreover, our off-campus program is hailed as a standard for miles and miles.

LEARNING EXPERIENCE

Registration day is a "learning experience" not to be scoffed at. How foolish of us not to see. Registration day instills the spirit of competition—the true spirit of Spencerian laissez-faire and social darwinism. How blind of us not to see that the way to the forefront (of the mob) can truly come only by sheer survival of the fittest.

We also owe a word of humble apology to the service organizations which we were so pretentious as to question. We too appreciate their fine work. While we are not aware of all their activities, we do know of many fine contributions (the Rolling Stones, car washes, numerous dances, and other services much too numerous to mention in this column).

We beseech our brethren and sistren (??sistren??) who have not seen the light, to cast all evil thoughts to the wind. Throw down your beer cans. Leave the places of iniquity. Forget radical ideas about progress and the future. Return to conformity. Only by this method can we reach the mediocrity which is clearly the ideal of our society.

??WHY??

There are those who will probably view the above paragraphs with a frown and ask, as they have in the past, "What are these guys trying to prove?" Quite frankly, we have been asking that same question. Our answer is simply this:

GSC can become a very fine institution of higher learning. It cannot do so by refusing to admit that problems exist. Progress can come when problems are faced realistically. Criticism is one method of indicating problems. That has been our purpose.

When logical, tempered arguments (and we have given some) fail, a resort to the absurd, trite, cliché-ridden diatribes such as the one above are often the only way to draw attention to problems that should be remedied.

If the latter type argument strikes closer to home and bruises more consciences, perhaps it merely indicates that this method is the only method which can be understood.

Grade Averages

A third recommendation made by the Honors Committee concerned a cut-off for the grade point averages of those nominated for the honors program.

An average of 3.0 for selection to "Who's Who" and an average of 2.2 for the leadership-service awards was recommended.

Under the proposed cut-off system, a student must first reach the academic standard before his activity record points are evaluated.

Activities

The Social Committee recommended that the name of the social calendar be changed to activity calendar. Letters will be sent to all organizations before the end of spring quarter to find out any plans that are being made for activities for next year.

The Committee also recommended that the Student Congress allow organizations to buy the rental of the on-campus movies and to charge admission. The Congress would use the money allotted to it to provide for double-feature movies.

Because of the inaccessibility of the old gym, it was recommended that mat dances be held in a dormitory, at a specified time each week.

Concerts

The Social Committee recommended that the time allotted for the sale of tickets in the lobby of the Frank I. Williams Center be limited to a week prior to a scheduled concert or activity. This is to alleviate the crowded conditions in the lobby of the student center.

The Committee also recommended the keeping of a record of the exact number of ticket sales, and the allocation of a percentage of the sales to the Student Congress.

Another recommendation was that the number of concerts be limited to two per month scheduled on a first come-first serve basis.

Activity Fee

Regarding the residence hall special activity fee, the committee recommended that the $3 fee remain in the dormitories next year, and that the fee be abolished the following year.

A $2 activity fee required of both on-campus and off-campus students during registration was recommended. Such a change would have to be approved by the Board of Regents.

Homecoming

The first recommendation made by the Homecoming Committee was that classes be dismissed at noon on the Friday of Homecoming weekend.

Other recommendations included the turning over of the bonfire and pep rally to the cheerleaders and the parade to Circle K.

An improvement of displays by the submission of plans to a Student Congress committee 2 weeks prior to their building was recommended.

A final recommendation concerned the early contact of Georgia Southern alumni to tell them the date of Homecoming, the activities scheduled, and the procedure for securing tickets for the basketball game.

Constitutional Revisions

The Constitutional Revision Committee recommended that the residence hall activity fee be placed under the control of the Student Congress.

It also recommended the election of division representatives at division meetings. The present Congress constitution provides for the election of representatives concurrently with the election of executive officers.

Other recommendations included the abolition of the Finance Committee and the Communications Committee and the recognition of the George-Anne and Reflector editors as ex-officio members of the Student Congress.

The Committee recommended the establishment of a Student Judiciary Committee to take part in disciplinary action, to serve on the Traffic Appeals Board, and to review annually all rules governing students.

The Fall Workshop Committee reported that the Student Congress workshop will be held on September 20-21 during freshman orientation week.

Armenio Upsets Bowling League

Tuesday evening's bowling action in the Eagle Ten-Pinners League saw Bob Armenio roll a 578 series, replacing Bob Lackey in high individual average with 173.

Lackey's average fell to 172, but he will seek to regain the high average crown next week when the two meet in final competition. Babs Brown is still out front in high individual average for the women bowlers with 165. Her closest competitor is Carol Frankum with a 138 average.

OTHERS ELIMINATED

The Kingpinners, by winning all eight points Tuesday, have mathematically eliminated all other teams, with the exception of the Gutenkeglers, for first place honors. These two teams will meet next week for the championships.

Armenio and Martha Lansford took high game honors for the week with 221 and 155, respectively.

The Alley Cats registered the high team game of 616 while the Kingpinners captured the high team series of 1784. The Kingpinners team, comprising three of the top five league bowlers, is the best scratch team competing, and maintains a high game average of 598, but with the league score being based on handicap, every team has a chance for the top.

This week's honor roll includes John Morris, 535; Paul Allen, 510; and Martha Lansford, 440.

Team standings are: Kingpinners, 54-10; Gutenkeglers, 50-14; Alley Cats, 38-26; Pin Clippers, 34-30; Oddballs, 28-36; Uh Oh's, 26-38; Strikers, 16-48; and Untouchables, 14-50.

Next Tuesday climaxes bowling for 1965 and trophies will be awarded to members of the winning and runner-up teams. Individual trophies will also be given for high average, high series and high game, including handicap for both men and women. The most improved bowler from last quarter's action will receive a gold pin.

MAKE-UP SERIES

Last Wednesday, the league bowled a make-up series from the previous week. John Morris and Babs Brown took high game honors for the evening with 204 and 183, respectively.

The Gutenkeglers captured the high team game of 612 while the Kingpinners registered the high three game series of 1777. The honor roll for the week of May 11 included: Ray Beeland, 548; Paul Allen, 538; Babs Brown, 524; Bob Lackey, 505; Claudis Whitehead, 427; and Kathy Fowler, 408.

Eagle Coach J. I. Clements Plans Strategy With Southern Hurlers Jerry Stephens (1) and Bobby Pierce Prepare To Face Valdosta State Batsmen

District, Area Tournaments Set For Southern Diamond

The Georgia Southern baseball Eagles, having concluded a 19-7 season, will meet Valdosta State College here this afternoon in their District 25 first round bid for the NAIA national baseball championships to be held in Fort Hayes, Kansas June 7-11.

Valdosta State, coached by Billy Grant, boasts an 18-7 record for the 1965 season and has also captured the 1965 Georgia Intercollegiate Athletic Conference championship.

ADMISSION CHARGE

Gametime this afternoon will be 3 p.m., with tomorrow's possible double header slated for 1 p.m. All students will have to pay an admission charge of 50 cents, and all adult admission will be one dollar.

The district 25 championship will be determined when either Southern or Valdosta State wins two out of three games in today's and tomorrow's series. The winner of the district play-off will earn the right to represent district 25 in the Area seven play-offs to be held at Georgia Southern next weekend. The area play-offs are the last step for the team that will go to the nationals in Kansas next month.

AREA PLAYOFF

In the area play-offs there will be four and possibly five teams competing for the coveted trip to Kansas. Games will be played all day Friday and most of Saturday. The same admission will be charged. Students having paid once on Friday will be able to leave for classes, then return without having to pay again.

The area play-offs will be a double elimination tournament in which teams are eliminated after they lose two games. Schedule information will be released at a later date.

LEADING PLAYERS

Leading Georgia Southern in the hitting department going into the tournament is Chico Jones who is currently batting at the .340 mark. Jones has been one of the Eagles' more consistent hitters for the 1965 season.

Sparkling the Southern nine on the field is first baseman Stan Sumner who has a fielding percentage of a perfect 1000 for the past season and has yet to be charged with his first error.

Eagle coach J. I. Clements had not released lineup or pitching information at the time of this printing so the won-lost record of this afternoon's starter cannot be printed.

Southern Coach Publishes Article

"Collegiate Baseball," the national newspaper of college baseball, published a story in its May 7, issue written by Georgia Southern Baseball coach J. I. Clements.

Clements' article emphasized the closeness that prevails in the athletic programs of smaller colleges as opposed to the larger schools.

"Working closely with and gaining the confidence of boys in order that they feel free to come to you with their problems can give an esprit de corps which helps mold a good team, provided a little ability is present. The learning situation is a good one; since there is less talent, (Editor's note: at small colleges) the coach must and does work hard to produce a winning ball club. This he does while teaching a full load, with coaching a sideline at no additional enumeration," wrote Clements.

Clements also emphasized the importance of desire, morale, and recruiting.

Southern Sports Publicist Finds Position Challenging

By RON MAYHEW
Sports Editor

The final buzzer of a basketball game usually terminates the spectator's interest in the game, likewise the last out of the ninth inning of a baseball game. For one person, however, the end of an athletic contest only marks the beginning of endless hours spent in record keeping and the compiling of statistics.

Hubert Norton, GSC sports publicist, leads this busy type of life after each Eagle basketball and baseball game. Facts, figures, and column after column of numbers, have to be compiled after each game, duplicated, then dispatched to scores of radio and television stations, newspapers, and to the Eagle coaching staff for use in preparing the next game's strategy.

Norton got his start in sports writing and publicity when he wrote a letter to the sports editor of the Savannah Morning News asking why the newspaper didn't write a weekly biographical sketch on the Savannah White Sox players, and then volunteered for the job as a local correspondent.

The following year Norton worked for the same newspaper in the capacity of a correspondent writing up weekly football games. The job increased as his stories grew to biweekly numbers. He was then hired as a copy boy in the city room of the Morning News and was soon promoted to a part-time position on the sports writing staff. Later a vacancy in the sports writing department occurred and he filled the slot.

Norton came to GSC in the fall of 1964 at the bidding of coach J. B. Searce who had met him at an Eagle basketball game the preceding year. Hubert maintains that he knew what he was getting into when he accepted the sports publicity position but still finds that the job involves many hours of hard tedious work.

IRREGULAR HOURS

He spends very irregular hours in his office, located on the lower floor of the Hanner building. On some days his work is slack and he doesn't report to the office at all. However on other days there are hours of work to do. On the first two days of the junior college basketball tournaments he spent twelve hours compiling figures, statistics, and other material that was necessary for the tournament.

Hubert, since he started in his sports publicity job, has compiled extensive information about the GSC athletic teams.

One of his outstanding pieces of work is a basketball press guide, giving not only information about the basketball team, but also extensive information about the college, members of its athletic staff, history, and other vital facts that would be of use to newspaper and sports writers.

Immediately following GSC basketball and baseball games, Norton compiles statistics and sends them to some 35 outlets, including radio, TV, and newspapers. Georgia Southern sports information is thus sent to all daily newspapers in Georgia over the Associated Press and United Press International wires, to television stations in Savannah, and to local sources such as the Bulloch Herald, WWNS Radio, and the George-Anne. Extensive information is also sent out of state.

Norton remarked that his greatest desire when taking the job of sports publicist was to create and promote good press relations with both the local and statewide news media. "Georgia Southern is growing fast in the athletic field. As the team schedules get better from year to year, the college will continue to grow even faster," Norton remarked.

Good working relations with the GSC coaching staff have also been among Norton's goals and he added that for the most

GSC Sports Publicist At Work With Tools Of Trade
Telephone, Typewriter, Microphone, and ball point Pen Serve Well part this aim had also been accomplished.

NEXT TIME

When asked what had been his biggest thrill while at Southern, Norton said, "My biggest thrill hasn't come yet. It will come when I see one of the Eagle teams win the national championships. With the increase in athletic potential at Southern this could come very soon, possibly within the next year."

Looking toward the future he also added that next year he hopes to also give more diversified coverage and publicity to the minor sports at GSC.

Next time there is a baseball game at GSC Hubert Norton will be in the press box keeping statistics and announcing over the public address system. Next time a game is over Norton will remain in the box, sometimes several hours, until all the statistics are recorded. Next time there is a basketball game, the story will be the same. Norton will be in the press box, recording every shot, miss, floor mistake, point, foul, or any of the other thousands of things that can happen during a game.

Eagle Coed Nabs Tourney Third

Susan Browning, a charming sophomore physical education major from Douglas, emerged as second runner-up in the Waycross Country Club Invitational Golf Championships held in Waycross on May 11.

Miss Browning, who is a varsity cheerleader and a member of the GSC PEM Club, finished third in a field of more than a hundred contestants. The winner of the tournament was Nora Blasingame from Douglas with a score of 83, who was followed by Jane Barnes of St. Simons, who shot an 84. Miss Browning followed with an 85.

Although she must pay her own way to most matches, Miss Browning will be sponsored by the college when she enters a nation wide golf match in Florida this June.

Miss Browning got her start in golf as a result of strong family influence. Both her father and brother are also golfers. She is coached at GSC by Delores Collins, who also serves as her chaperone on trips to matches. Herb Green, a professional golfer in Eastman, has done most of her coaching, however.

Because of the poor condition of the GSC course and lack of transportation to the local country club, Miss Browning is usually forced to practice on the athletic field behind the Hanner Building. She usually works about two to three hours each afternoon, but sometimes practices until it is too dark to see.
