Dr. Henderson Announces Nine Promotions

Nine faculty members have been promoted, it was announced this week by President Zach S. Henderson.

Alexander C. Ashbaugh, Andrew S. Edwards, Elizabeth H. Hardin, and Richard E. Ottlinger were advanced to the position of associate professors of education.

Promoted to associate professors in the history department were Robert G. Mitchell and Ellsworth T. W. Wu.

Nathaniel E. Shechter was promoted to associate professor in the economics department.

Marjorie Bell was advanced to assistant professor of business education, and Vito P. Caggiano was promoted to assistant professor of art.

Promotions are recommended by division chairmen through the dean to President Henderson.

ROGER LAWSON
To Perform May 8

Piano Recital Set for May 8

Roger Lawson, assistant professor of music at the Woman's College of Georgia, will be the artist for the third annual statewide Piano Day, May 8, in McCroan Auditorium at 3:30 p.m.

Piano Day is a formal recital designed especially for elementary and high school students, their piano teachers and parents. The program will consist of works from Albeniz, Beethoven, Schumann, Schubert-Liszt, Chopin and Prokofieff.

Lawson, a native of Ruston, La., earned the bachelor of music degree from Louisiana Polytechnic Institute and the master of music degree from Florida State University. Lawson also studied at Indiana University and attended the Schulmerich School of Campanology at Westminster Choir College, Princeton, N. J.

The admission is 50 cents.

Masquers Set For Production Monday Night

"I Am A Camera", current Masquers production, opens Monday night at 8:15 in McCroan auditorium, directed by Robert Overstreet.

Rae Burnsed, leading lady, will depict Sally Bowles, the femme fatale created by Julie Harris in the 1951 stage production. Sally Bowles is a sexual opportunist whose actions are calculated to shock the persons around her.

Leonard Robertson portrays Christopher Isherwood, the real life character who wrote the Berlin Stories on which the play is based. Isherwood, a current writer, is one of the authors of the screenplay of "The Loved Ones."

Supporting Miss Burnsed and Robertson are Donnie Evans as Natalia Landauer; Rosalyn Perkins as Fraulein Schneider; Sherry Bradner as Mrs. Watson-Courtneidge; Larry Duncan as Fritz, and Wyman Hunt as Clive.

"Each of these supporting roles has been beautifully characterized," said Overstreet. Beginning Monday night, ins-

George T. Smith To Speak To Young Democrats Club

George T. Smith, speaker of the State house of representatives, will open a series of lectures Thursday sponsored by the Young Democrats Club.

Rep. Smith will be met at the airport by Don Vik, president of the club; Jerry Lifsey, vice president; John Boje, secretary-treasurer; Dr. Otis Stephens, Associate professor of political science, and Ben Waller, director of placement and aid. A coffee will be given in Smith's honor in the faculty lounge in the Student Center.

Smith will speak at 10:15 a.m. at a place to be announced later. Following his talk here, he will address the Statesboro Kiwanis Club at a luncheon meeting.

Other featured speakers for Spring Quarter are Lieutenant Governor Peter Zack Geer who will speak May 11, and Atlanta furniture store-owner Lester Maddox who will speak May 25.

Former Governors Ellis Arnall and Ernest Vandiver are scheduled to speak during Summer Quarter.

Tentative speakers for Fall Quarter include United States Senator Richard Russell; Rep. Charles Weltner, 5th District

Congressman from Atlanta, and Rep. James A. Mackey, 4th District Congressman from Decatur.

Vik stated that this series of lectures is intended to acquaint students and faculty with possible state Democratic candidates.

He added that the club does not plan to support any candidate for any office but individual members will be campaigning for the candidates of their choice.

★ State Convention To Begin Today

A resolution urging prison reforms will be proposed by the Young Democrats at the State Young Democrats Platform Convention today and tomorrow in Athens.

The resolution urges the Young Democrats to support increased expenditures for the state prisons system to finance such badly needed improvements as psychiatric treatment, separate facilities for the mentally ill inmates, improved rehabilitation and job training facilities, more guards and shorter working hours.

A delegation of 16 members will represent the college at the convention. Principal speakers at the convention will be Governor Carl E. Sanders, Lieutenant Governor Peter Zack Geer, Former Governors Ellis Arnall and Ernest Vandiver, Georgia House Speaker George T. Smith, and Atlanta furniture store owner, Lester Maddox.

Don Vik, president of the club, stated that the purpose of the Convention is to give members of the College Young Democrats an opportunity to hear the leaders of the party define the issues of this election year.

The young democrats, he added, are given the opportunity at this convention to voice their opinions to the state democratic candidates.

SAM THE SHAM APPEARS TONIGHT

The second night of entertainment sponsored by Sigma Epsilon Chi will feature Sam the Sham and the Pharoahs, along with the Marques and the Shirelles. The concert will be held in the Hanner Gymnasium. The tickets used for the Romans, the Tams and the James Gang dance Thursday night will be good for admission tonight.

MANUSCRIPT LOST

A manuscript of typed and xeroxed poems in a blue notebook with a white eagle on the front is missing from Dr. David Ruffin's office. It has no name on it.

It is requested by Dr. Ruffin that the manuscript be returned to Room 105-1 in the Hollis Building if found.

... Masquers

stead of the customary Thursday evening, the play will run through Wednesday night. Tickets may be purchased for $1 from members of the Masquers, at the office of the division of languages in Room 109 of the Hollis Building and at the box office. There are no reserved seats.

Ralph Jones and Tommy Kinchen are in charge of set design and construction. The setting is a bedroom-sitting room in a rooming house in Berlin owned by Fraulein Schneider. According to Jones and Kinchen, "We had to get the shape and atmosphere that would allow these people to live and express themselves."

Libby Brannon is stage manager and director of make-up design. Parker Cook is lighting director, assisted by Jones and Kinchen. Miss Burnsed is in charge of costume design.

According to Overstreet, the play is the type that usually appeals to college students. It is about sex problems and their solution. "The subject is one little talked about in society but one much thought of and talked about on the college campus," he said.

ARTS FESTIVAL ENTRIES

This imaginative stone sculpture and oil painting are just a few of the many entries in the annual Spring Arts Festival sponsored by Alpha Rho Tau. The projects will remain on display in the Carruth Building until Tuesday, May 3. Many of the entries are for sale and are tagged with the price. Each exhibitor is expected to secure his work by 7 p.m., May 3.

Talent Show Set May 12 In Auditorium

The Statesboro Music Club will sponsor a talent show Thursday, May 12, in McCroan Auditorium.

The talent show is being produced by the club as a project to finance the establishment of a scholarship fund.

Beauchum Beauchat, president of the club, said, "Members of the Music Club feel a great need for such a program, since there is a vast amount of talent in this area with so little opportunity to display it."

Beauchat said that a special category has been added to the show. "A great many people have expressed a desire to participate in the show in a category in which there would be no competition," he added, "So we're going to set up a category so that these may have a part in this ambitious program we're planning."

There will be a $25 savings bond for the Talent Show winner with three other prizes of $10 each.

Interested participants are urged to submit a simple entry request by writing Beauchat, 109 Benson Drive, Route 6, Statesboro, Ga., including name, address, phone number and brief idea of their talent.

Try-out date is set for Wednesday. Entries must be in before this date, Beauchat said.

MAJOR LANCE TO APPEAR

Major Lance, popular Rhythm and Blues singer, will perform on Friday night, May 13, in the Alumni Gymnasium. He is one of the three major groups to entertain during the Spring week of festivities. Also featured during Sophomore Spring Week will be the Platters.

Leadership Meet Set Here in July

A leadership conference on principal who has had extensive experience as consultant to junior high groups.

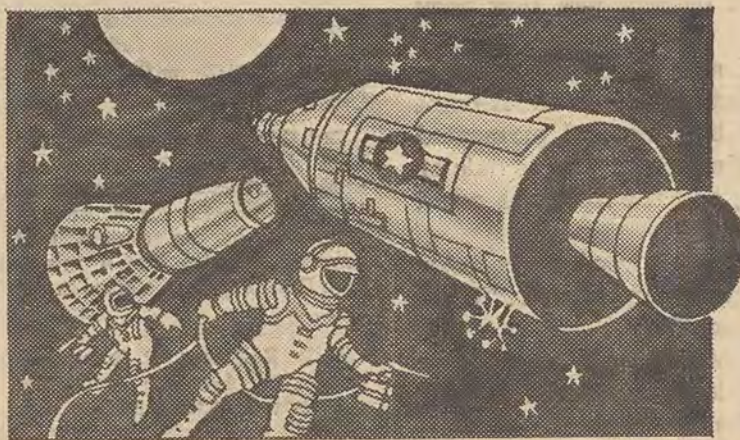

The conference will feature talks by the consultants; descriptions and evaluations by Georgia principals of existing junior programs; a special display of books and publications concerned with the junior high school and individual conferences with the consultants.

Dr. M. Dale Baughman, associate professor of educational administration and supervision at the University of Illinois, and J. V. McCullough, director of curriculum in the public schools of Meridian, Miss., will serve as consultants. Dr. Baughman, active in junior high education, has recently served as consultant to statewide groups of junior high principals in Missouri and Wisconsin. McCullough is a former junior high school

The purpose of the conference, according to Dr. Lewis, is to help the people in the positions of leadership to understand more of the junior high school objectives and to develop the modern concepts in junior high education.

This is the second program of its type to be held in Georgia in recent years.

Here are 7 knotty problems facing the Air Force: can you help us solve one?

6. Space propulsion. As our space flights cover greater and greater distances, propulsion—more than anything else—will become the limiting factor. New fuels and new propulsion techniques must be found, if we are to keep on exploring the mysteries of space. And it may well be an Air Force scientist on his first assignment who makes the big breakthrough!

7. Pilot performance. Important tests must still be made to determine how the pilots of manned aerospacecraft will react to long periods away from the earth. Of course not every new Air Force officer becomes involved in research and development right away. But where the most exciting advances are taking place, young Air Force scientists, administrators, pilots, and engineers are on the scene.

Want to find out how you fit into the Air Force picture? Contact your nearest Air Force representative, or mail the coupon today.

1. Repairs in space. If something goes wrong with a vehicle in orbit, how can it be fixed? Answers must be found, if large-scale space operations are to become a reality. For this and other assignments Air Force scientists and engineers will be called on to answer in the next few years, we need the best brains available.

2. Lunar landing. The exact composition of the lunar surface, as well as structural and propulsion characteristics of the space vehicle, enter into this problem. Important study remains to be done—and, as an Air Force officer, you could be the one to do it!

3. Life-support biology. The filling of metabolic needs over very extended periods of time in space is one of the most fascinating subjects that Air Force scientists are investigating. The results promise to have vital ramifications for our life on earth, as well as in outer space.

4. Space orientation. The orbital problems of a spacecraft, including its ability to maneuver over selected points on the earth, are of vital importance to the military utilization of space. There are plenty of assignments for young Air Force physicists in this area.

5. Synergetic plane changing. The ability of a spacecraft to change altitude can also be crucial to space operations. Where but in the Air Force could Sc.B.'s get the chance to work on such fascinating projects right at the start of their careers?

LANTERN WALK

Only 37 seniors out of a possible graduating class of 400-450 students have signed up for the traditional Lantern Walk.

According to Dr. Tully Pennington, advisor of the senior class, and Keith Arnsdorff, president of the senior class, Lantern Walk will be called off unless more seniors want to participate. The participants must be registered in time for the lanterns to be ordered.

To the majority of the students, the origin of this tradition is unknown. The Lantern Walk was mentioned in a May 1940 George-Anne paper as being the "annual" Lantern Walk. This means that the tradition was begun sometime before 1940. Georgia Teachers College, as it was known then, boasted graduating class of less than 100, which was the largest to that time.

Students were close enough to each other to get a feeling of nostalgia when they walked around the campus singing and saying their final farewell to each building.

Now, each student has a close friendship with a very small percentage of the total student body. He has nicknames for an even smaller percentage. There are too many students for professors to have more than a nodding acquaintance with just a few.

If seniors now don't have this feeling of kinship with their school and campus, then the significance of Lantern Walk is gone. Evidently seniors don't have this feeling.

Rather than do a fine tradition an injustice, the tradition should be broken while it is still well remembered.

LIVES ENDANGERED

The entertainment extravaganza sponsored by Sigma Epsilon Chi last night and tonight will probably be considered the most impressive festivity at the college to date.

The performers were superb. They sensed the enthusiasm radiated by the audience and reacted in a manner befitting the good entertainers that they are.

The twangs of high pitched electric guitars excited the multitude of people crammed into the Alumni Gymnasium, filled the old building and permeated outward into the warm spring night. The sounds of the Tams, the James Gang and the Roemans could be heard over the whole campus.

On the dance floor and in the wooden spectator seats a question was whispered over and over. "What if there was a fire in this place?"

It wasn't a remote possibility at all, as could be seen by the number of students who were lighting up cigarettes throughout the building.

The results of such an open violation of state law could have been hazardous. Not only because of the danger of igniting the wooden interior of the building but because of the hundreds who would have been trampled to death, smothered or crushed by the onrushing crowds trying to get out of the burning building.

Why did the school officials allow so many people to be crammed into the small gym like sardines, violating both state and federal law?

Why did Sigma Epsilon Chi allow so many tickets to be sold knowing well that a limited number of students could safely attend the dance in the confines of the Alumni Building?

Quiet Hours Seldom Observed; Chaos Is Nightmare in Dorm

By DAN RAHN
Staff Writer

Last Tuesday was just another average day for Willard Grunch. All Tuesday's are. For that matter, so are Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays; Willard doesn't like to think of Mondays. According to Willard, the only good things at Georgia Southern are the weekends at home.

Anyway, Tuesday night, after flunking two tests and a pop quiz and losing a couple of dollars at the local billiards parlor, Willard Grunch was in his dorm, settling down for a long night of vigorous studying.

Willard decided to read "A Tale of Two Cities" first. It shouldn't have taken him too long; he'd already read it when he flunked English fall quarter and again when he flunked English winter quarter.

But things never work out for Willard. At exactly 7:03, three minutes after quiet hours went into effect in the dorm, he was disturbed by something that sounded vaguely like a miniature Honda cutting circles in the hall.

Billy Bad was at it again—practicing for the upcoming skateboard tournaments.

"Hey, Billy," Willard called nervously in his raspy falsetto voice, "Would you mind doing that outside?"

"Go (obscenity) yourself," Billy replied, cheerfully.

Willard ducked back into his room just a second too late to avoid being doused by a small bucketful of water by the boy across the hall.

By the time he had changed clothes, Willard was back in his normal happy mood, settling down once again to study.

After reading studiously for about 45 seconds, he paused for a few seconds to listen to the full-length version of "Zorba the Greek," blaring out full blast on the radio in the next room. Willard just loves the Ti-juna Brass.

Outside his open window, someone was quietly revving up the motor in his new GTO. Willard cursed mildly.

"Hey, Willard," squeaked Mary Krause, breezing into Willard's room. Mary wasn't a very masculine boy—the section under "sex" on his driver's license read "no." "You got a cigarette?"

"Yes, Mary," Willard answered, handing him a weed and lighting it for him.

Mary walked over and sprawled out on Willard's bed. He had a bad habit of that. Half an hour later, he absent-mindedly dropped a cigarette and started a small fire on Willard's bare mattress.

"Damn you," Willard screamed good-naturedly, as half the boys in the dorm poured into his spacious room, laughing and shouting.

"Hooo, boy!" "Hod-dang!" "Somebody smokin' in here?" "Holy fireman!"

One of the friendlier boys moistened the tip of his middle finger and playfully stuck it in Willard's ear.

"Get out!" Willard shrieked. "Get out! All of you! Get out of my (obscenity) room! (Ob-scenity) you! Get out!"

Willard sank back into his chair after he had locked the door behind his unexpected guests. Just an average day, he thought.

He read three more pages in his book, making a total of four pages he had read, then decided to watch television for a few minutes to sooth his frazzled nerves.

Willard Grunch doesn't like to watch television—the only programs he likes are "Batman" and "Lost in Space," and neither of these come on on Tuesday nights. But that night he sat through three programs, gathering an amazing store of contemporary knowledge.

But even television in the beautiful atmosphere of a smoke filled dormitory TV room can't hold the attention of an intellectual like Willard Grunch for too long, so Willard went back to his room to study.

It didn't take long to find out that studying had become impossible. Willard walked down to the rest room to take a rest before going to bed.

"Ah, bed," he thought; he threw open the rest room door walked in and took a deep breath and "Aaaaagghh!"—he almost drowned in the steam.

Just another average day. Oh well. There are always week-ends.

Tricks? Guns, Student Tripe And Moonshine

By HUBERT NORTON
Staff Writer

It was a balmy summer night and at the dormitory most of the guys were walking around in their undershirts and polka-dot undershorts looking for some action. The guys were idle and restless with nothing more to do than listen to folk music, read Ian Fleming, or tell obscene jokes.

A guy from down the hall came into the room and became part of the idle conversation, although he really didn't say much. He just siddled into the group, remained quiet, but soon had the group of boys in the position he wanted them.

"I know where we can find something to do, and make some money," the stranger ventured as a meek suggestion. "If you boys are interested. . ."

"What can you do in Statesboro?" was the immediate question from one of the members of the group.

"Do you boys have any guts?" the intruder asked with saiveness, aware that men seldom denied courage. Nobody answered, and he proceeded. "I know this man who makes moonshine, and sometimes he pays me to deliver it for him. Are ya'll interested? You might can make 10-15 dollars."

A cold silence prevailed, although some of the guys left the room. Those who stayed didn't say a word. The super-cool operator repeated his question, "Are ya'll interested?"

Finally, a member of the group responded, "Isn't that risky?"

"I've never been caught."

"Well, it's too risky for me." "I tell you what I'll do," consoled the spokesman. "I'll pay you twenty-five dollars."

"Wait just a minute till I get my pants on."

A couple of the boys agreed to go with the spokesman, unaware that the whole thing was nothing more than a setup to scare the daylights out of a couple of innocent guys. The idea was to have some guys hidden at the imaginary still, have some guys fake a raid with spotlights and shotgun blasts, and have the innocent "victims" run off petrified.

Many of these moonshine pranks have been staged by students on fellow students. When the prank is all over, everybody gets a laugh except the victim who gets caught.

During one of these pranks, an innocent victim was picked up by a student who was posing as a revenue agent. The "agent" listened to the victim's story, gave him sympathy, and advised the victim to lay low for a few days until he heard from the police.

The guy didn't go to class for a week.

Other episodes have seen the victims run at full speed for miles, through woods and briars, down highways, hide in ditches, and crawl, in attempts to escape from imaginary police and bloodhounds. The victim invariably runs when the fake raid is pulled with the shotgun blasts.

One of the moonshine pranks explained it this way: "Everybody is real brave, but when the shotgun goes off, they run."

It's surprising how many times this prank has been pulled by Georgia Southern students, and it's even more surprising that nobody has been known to be hurt on one of the pranks. The pranksters go to great pains to stage one of these outings. Maybe they know what they are doing.

Clements Enjoys Those 'Even Years'

Coach James Irwin Clements Jr. is in his 18th season as head baseball coach at Georgia Southern, and it looks as if this season may be one of his better campaigns. After all, it is an even year.

Clements and his baseball teams, it seems, always do well in an even year, justified by the Eagles' performances in the NAIA baseball tournaments in even years. The Eagles won the national championship in 1962, placed second in 1960, and third in 1964.

Feature:
HUBERT
NORTON

"We always do well in even and according to our tradition, maybe we'll do all right this year. I don't know for sure. Clements has done another outstanding job this season, turning out a 16-7 record after 23 games despite some adverse circumstances. He has three freshmen playing in the infield, has been plagued by a catching problem for a part of the season, and has generally an inexperienced squad.

"We lost two catchers this season," said Clements, "and that really hurt us. One boy got kicked out of school and the other flunked out. We're grateful that Don Adler helped us in a pinch until Ralph Lynch's arm got well enough for him to play.

"We have a lot of young boys this season and they hurt us too, at times," continued Clements. "They make a lot of sophomore mistakes and tend to get lackadaisical at times."

Under Clements' guidance, Georgia Southern has become one of the top baseball schools in the country, and its record in the past few years verifies this claim. In the last four years, the Eagles have won 88 games and lost only 40, not counting this season's record. GSC has won 20 or more games in each of the last four years.

In his 17 years as head baseball coach, Clements has chalked up 259 victories against 160 defeats. He was selected NAIA baseball coach of the year in 1963.

Clements believes in the fundamentals of baseball. "You have to," the coach said, "because you can't do anything unless you know the fundamentals. A boy should learn to bunt, throw to the right base, and other little things that can add to winning baseball games.

"Attitude is all - important," he added. "You can teach a boy the fine points, you can make him a presentable player if he has a little talent, but you can't do anything unless the boy has the right attitude. We don't put up with boys who don't like to do things the way we do them."

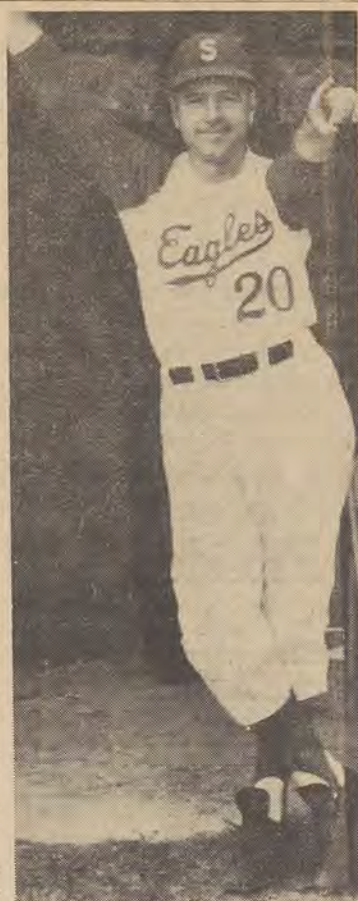

Clements, a native of Ray City, Ga., was graduated from high school in Ray City in 1937 and was an outstanding athlete.

At Norman College, under Coach J. B. Searce in 1940 and 1941, Clements was an All-State baseball and basketball star. He batted over .300 both seasons as a third baseman and turned down professional offers in favor of coaching.

After two years in elementary education, Clements became assistant coach to Searce at North Georgia College in 1943-1944. After a three-year hitch as an army paratrooper, Clements completed his work on his Master's Degree from Eastern Kentucky and again followed Searce—this time to Georgia Southern (then Georgia Teachers College) to become assistant professor of health and education.

Clements took over as baseball coach in 1949 when two of his brothers, Mason and Keith, were regulars on the GSC team.

Clements is married to the former Reba McClure of Valdosta. They have a son, Carroll, 22, and a daughter, Janina, 18.

All student postal facilities presently located in the Williams Center will be moved May 1 to the new post office in University Plaza, according to Harold Tillman, branch superintendent.

What do you think about this post office movement?

Dwight Wayne Brazell, soph. Claxton: Moving the post office off campus might save the girls at Knight Village a few steps but it adds many, many steps for the girls and boys that live on campus. I do not think it is a good move.

Elaine Tyre, jr., Alama: I don't think it should be moved because I have to walk too far to see the cob webbs in my mail box.

Pat Prince, soph., Macon: It will definitely not be advantageous for those on campus even though a larger post office is needed. It will not help the majority of the students.

Terry Scott, jr., Collins: Really, it doesn't concern me because I don't get any mail anyway, however I can see the problem it will create for the ones on campus. I'll say leave it here.

Tommy Baker sr., Perry: I think it is good for Georgia Southern to get a new post office — Gosh we needed one — but for people on campus this will be another inconvenience. However, more people live off campus than on, so the majority of the students should be pleased.

Durwood Fincher, frosh, Macon: It is good to get a new post office, but I wish it was on campus instead of off campus. Personally I don't care a great deal about walking, although I need it.

Charlie Deaton, jr., Macon: It's nice. It's close to the Brazier and the Oxford Shop, making things convenient for us to drop in and grab a couple of letters. Since I plan on working for the government, this puts me closer to President Johnson.

7 Johnny Goodrum, soph., Macon: Moving the post office is just like what the administration has been doing for years. It seems to me when they do accomplish something, it is too late or inconveniences the majority of students.

Roger Davis, soph., Waycross: It matters!!! Oh?

Harry Amerson soph., Macon: I think it is good to have a bigger and better post office but the inconvenience is to the students. The students that live on campus have to walk out to it and it is too far to walk. They could have both places, that way there would not be too much inconvenience to on or off campus students.

Nine Candidates Vie for Office

Following is a list of questions presented by the George-Anne to candidates for Student Congress office. Below and on the following page are the candidates' reactions to the questions.

1. What does the purpose of the office you seek mean to you, and if elected, how do you propose to fulfill its duties?
2. What new programs would you like to see initiated by the Congress next year?
3. Do you think that any changes should be made in house rules for boys?
4. What methods would you suggest for distributing tickets for the homecoming ball game?
5. Do you have any other comments?

President

Roger Alderman

1. The purpose of the office of Student Congress President is, as stated in the Constitution, to "serve as spokesman for the Student Body." To me this quotation means that the President is to express the needs and desires of the students against all odds and opposition. The President must realize that the power of his office is granted to him by the students and that he is answerable to the students and only to the students.

If elected my plans are to carry out the purpose of the presidency, as I have stated above, to the utmost limits of my elected authority.

2. I would like to see the following four major programs established by the Congress:

(1) A Student Cabinet made up of a cross section of the student body representing the different areas of campus life. This cabinet's purpose would be to advise the President of the Student Congress on the needs of the student body.

(2) A Greek - Letter Council composed of the fraternities and sororities at Southern. I feel that there is a need for these organizations to have, through this council, a voting representative on the Student Congress.

ALDERMAN
To Vie for President

(3) A Student Judiciary should be established so that the students would be able to appeal decisions of student disciplinary boards. This plan has been used at several large universities and I don't see why it would not work equally as well as Southern. With the adoption of this plan, the students would be granted more voice in their government.

(4) A continuation of the improvement of traffic and parking regulations on campus. I feel this will be a grave problem this coming fall due to the large increase in the number of students, and will be one of the major issues confronting the Student Congress.

3. I do not feel that any increase in the rules governing men students is necessary because there is a sufficient number of rules to handle any problem which might arise.

4. Until Georgia Southern gets a new gymnasium, the distribution of homecoming tickets will remain a problem. However, the system used last year appeared to be the most fair - not the best - but the most feasible under the present conditions.

I believe that the student body should be given priority to the tickets. Many of the alumni in the last homecoming game were granted tickets which were reserved by the administration; these were never used and the seats stood vacant.

I suggest that the alumni order their tickets at least two weeks prior to the game. They would be able to notify the administration if they could not attend; these tickets could then be distributed among the students.

5. As one can see from the above answers, my chief concern is to have the Congress representative of the students. I feel that with the experience I have had in the Congress as First Vice-President and the other positions which I have held, I can represent the students. I already know the channels and procedures which the Congress must go through to accomplish anything.

President

James Stapleton

1. The Presidency of Student Congress is a very important position. The job demands a person who is dependable. The president assumes complete responsibility for conducting the meetings and any or all business relevant to the Congress. But Student Congress is something more than this. Our Congress here at Southern represents the buffer between administration and students. Oftentimes problems stem from the lack of communications and the presidency demands a person who can express views to each party without any malice. Therefore I believe that a major characteristic of any good president is that he is liked and respected by students, for a congress is only as good as its leader, and any leader, to be effective, must have complete support of students and faculty. If elected, I give my word that I will do all within my capabilities to further the growth of our Congress through intelligence, cooperation and diligent work.

2. The greatest program any Congress could do here at Southern would be to expand its representativeness. Student Congress is for everyone and everyone should have his say in deciding how things should be done. This includes freshmen, sophomores, juniors and seniors.

Also the Congress should undertake the task of constructing a "soap box" so that any student can express his ideas or announcements pertinent to the college.

3. Rules too strict make for rebellion. One reason for our spirit is possibly the freedom men have on campus.

4. The distribution of tickets for homecoming is a very touchy subject. The first point to consider is one of importance. The Homecoming basketball game should be considerate of the students and yet homecoming is for the alumni. Due to the limitations of the gym we have to resolve this problem for the next two years at least. The fairest method is to divide 100 by 4 since there are four classes. This means 25 percent of the freshmen, 25 percent of the sophomores, 25 percent of the juniors and 25 percent of the seniors would get tickets. The number of tickets available would determine the number of tickets each class would get. The alumni should be sent a questionnaire four weeks prior to the game. If any tickets are left, these should be placed on call the night of the game. Tickets should be passed out through student personnel one day per class. In this manner everyone would have the same probability of obtaining a ticket.

5. The office of president of Student Congress is awesome. This job demands a person who knows what to do and how to do it. Words alone can not describe all the qualities a good president needs, but Confucius said it properly, "Wisdom is the realization of your own limitations." I do not pretend to know it all, but I promise 100 percent effort if elected.

First Vice President

Larry Duncan

1. First vice-president is in charge of coordinating the social activities of the different organizations. He keeps the social calendar, plays a large part with the social aspects of homecoming, and selects a list of free movies for Friday nights.

2. Changes should be made regarding certain rules governing the activities of girls. The parking facilities of students should be given more consideration. Days of attendance should be changed so as to distribute the number of days for spring and Easter holidays. An investigation and report to the students should be made regarding the "Georgia Southern General Fund," which includes the dorm activity fee and the parking fee. Approval of housing for men shouldn't be as peculiar as it is.

3. Quiet hours in the boys' dorms should be more restrictive. Any gripes about rules should be voted on by the house council and an approved session of the boys. If a rule is vetoed it should be removed from the list unless passed the following year.

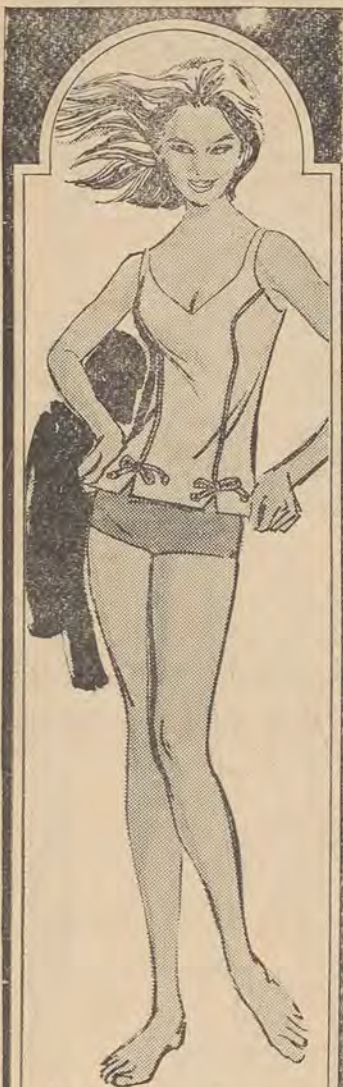

4. I would follow the procedure of giving tickets to the different classes with a larger percentage going to the senior class and so on. But the reserved seats for alumni should be limited to a small section because of their availability the last year. With the construction of the new gym, tickets should be open to the entire student body.

5. The averaging of F's should not be changed. In order to get a C, you would have to make an A the next time around. Rules for girls during quiet hours are absurd. They should have the same ones as the boys. Preparation of a better menu would certainly please the students. Peas on Monday, corn on Tuesday, and a combination of both on Thursday just doesn't cut it. The walk from Herty to Hollis could certainly stand a little cement. That area could be made into an attractive area for good use at day and at night if arranged correctly.

DUNCAN
1st Vice President Candidate

First Vice President

Jim King

1. I feel the purpose of the office of first vice-president is to act as an intermediary between the student body and the promise to work for the benefit of all students, not just for a favored few. It would be my hope to encourage more people to become involved in their student government.

2. I would like to see the Student Congress initiate a system of student voting in their respective dormitories with the off-campus students voting as now. With voting taking place now. With voting taking place more readily take part in the elections. This would also eliminate the noontime rush for the polls. G.S.C. is becoming too large for only one polling place.

3. From living in the dorms I would say the rules are com-campus definitely need to be impossible. Campus Security, working with the Student Congress and administration, can provide satisfactory traffic regulation. The present programs of the Student Congress are very good, but there must be more student participation.

3. The present rules for men's regulations for women's dorms need revising.

4. Each class should have the priority for a certain percentage of the tickets, with a certain number of tickets reserved for interested Alumni who request them. In no case should there be empty seats at the Homecoming game, especially since there were freshmen and sophomores who wanted to attend.

5. If elected I will strive to serve the students to the best of my abilities as the second vice president of the Student Congress.

the college and, at the same time, improve myself. If elected, I will do my best to work for and with the students to carry out my tasks.

2. I would like to see the congress take over the planning of Spring Swing, bring more academic speakers and entertainment to the college, and work more closely with the students.

3. No.

4. The way the tickets we distributed this year was just about the best possible way. I do feel that all the seniors should see the game and also a lot of the freshman.

5. Any help will be appreciated, but whether you vote for me or not, PLEASE VOTE!

Secretary

Connie Dodgen

1. The purpose of the Student Congress secretary is the same as that of any secretary. However, in an organization with as great a responsibility as the Student Congress, the duties of the secretary can entail a lot of time and work, and the efficiency of the entire Congress depends to a large degree on the efficiency with which correspondence is carried out and records are kept.

DODGEN
Nominated for Secretary

The greatest responsibility of any elective officer is to be as good a representative of those who elect you as possible and I will do my best to be that kind of representative of the student body, if elected.

2. I'd like to see the Congress take some action to bring some kind of social activities on campus on weekends which would be appealing enough to keep students here. Georgia Southern is getting large enough to compete with Big Georgia socially and not only academically. It would give a big boost to school spirit and greatly help the congeniality among students if we met more often in campus-wide school functions.

3. I think the boys are making out fine!

4. I think equal distribution of tickets to each class with the tickets available to each class offered on a first-come-first-serve basis is the best way.

5. I just appreciate the opportunity to run for this office.

Treasurer

Bjorn Kjerfve

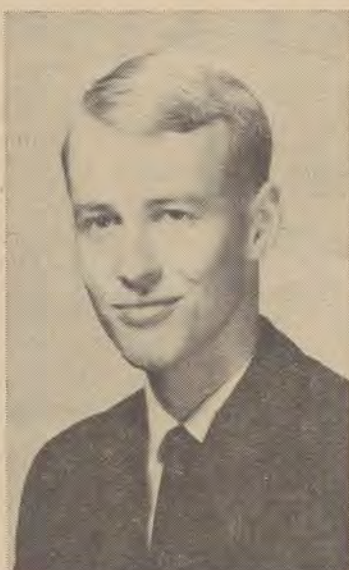

1. I have thoroughly enjoyed my year at Southern and in some way I feel I can pay back what the students and the school have given me. I feel I can do this by serving on the Student Congress.

2. I would like to change GSC from being a "suitcase college" by arranging more activities during the weekends. I don't necessarily think that all the activities need to be dances. I would also like to make some changes in house rules for girls.

3. Not really, except I would try to work out some system so that the boys' dormitories would be much quieter between 7 p.m. and 8 a.m.

4. In Sweden we say: "First at the mill grinds first," which means first come first served. I believe that is how I would like to distribute the homecoming basketball tickets. Equal chance for everybody; students as well as others interested. One week ahead of the game, at a time suiting everybody, if possible, those wishing tickets should have to stand in line. Each person would be allowed only two tickets. A certain number of tickets, about 400, would be reserved for alumni, but if these have not been claimed by one week before the game, they should be made available for students and others.

5. I could have made my

1. Any officer of the Student Congress must have the good of the school at heart. I hope to be a small part of making Southern better. I will fulfill my duties as best as I can because this will be a good way to say thanks to the great kids at Southern for the three wonderful years I've spent here.

2. I'd like to see the Congress set up a picnic area by the lakes.

3. Not being too familiar with the conditions in the men's dorms, I hesitate to suggest any changes at present. However, some of the fellows tell me their dorms can get rather noisy.

4. I feel that the percentage

4. Until the new facilities are completed in 1968, this will be a pertinent problem. Since Homecoming is mainly for the purpose of returning alumni, a sufficient number should be allotted to them. The remaining tickets should be distributed by class membership with a decreasing number in the order of rank of the class.

A funny thing hapened to me on the way back from the golf course (GSC's Water Wonderland) the other day . . . I almost got hit by, of all things, a discus. That's right, a discus. The kind you throw, like shot puts and javelins and hammers.

When I looked around to be sure the thing wasn't a UFO, I noticed a track lined off and various other track and field equipment on the P. E. field.

Then I realized there was a track meet going on out there and I was right in the middle of the thing, with some husky high school kid launching discuses - - or is it disci? - - at me.

I dodged my way to Coach Ron Oertley's side and asked what the heck was going on, and of course he said, "a track meet." After counting to ten I came up with a few less vulnerable questions and found out that they were having a track meet

Well . . . Georgia Southern's fledgling track team, I finally found out, had progressed to the point that Coach Oertley felt they deserved a decent track to work out on; also somebody had scheduled a high school region track meet for Statesboro, and there wasn't anywhere to have it. With these two goals in mind, Coach Oertley set out to prove that with a little hard work, anybody can build a track. He did.

In two weeks, with help from assistants and coaching classes, he designed and built a six-lane quarter-mile track, with areas for shot putt, discus, and javelin throw, with hurdles, and with high jump and pole vault pits and standdards. It's one of the best tracks in this area.

Coach Oertley said the track would be used for the track club, for the P.E. program, and for coaching classes regularly. The Spring Swing Track Meet, which will be on Friday, May 13 at 4 p.m., will be held on the new track.

It's something we've needed for a long time and Coach Oertley is to be commended for doing it.

Eagles Grab Sweet Revenge Over Rebels in Exciting Meet

By BJORN KJERFVE
Sports Editor

The Eagle netters won a longed-for revenge, 5-4, when the Rebels of Valdosta State visited Statesboro last Saturday. The meet was the most exciting of the year, nerve racking not only the players but also the spectators.

The last match played, the third doubles, proved to be the determining one. Harry Carter and Eddie Russell had lost the first set but won the second. The Rebel couple were winning 5-2 in the last, and that was terrifying as the score in the meet at that point was 4-4.

Eagle coach Bob Weber shook his big head: "I can't believe this!" And the reason; the home squad had been winning 4-2 after the singles. Just one of the three doubles teams needed to win to secure the victory but the two first couples had lost. And now also the third one was losing.

Carter and Russell made an unbelievable come-back. Slowly. They won one game, then one more, and a third one. The set score was 5-5. The crowd was at this point behaving like during a football match. They scored again: 6-5. But the Rebels came back: 6-6. That was it. The Eagles concentrated and pulled home the meet winning the next two games.

Carter and Russell did their duty when they won; actually they should not have had that much trouble. The sensation occurred in the number two singles where Jack Harvey turned out to be the black horse upsetting Bill Gillis of Valdosta in straight sets. The spectators could not believe their eyes. Harvey played his best match of the year. If it had not been for him the Rebels would have returned to Valdosta with the victory.

In Valdosta Gillis rolled past Harvey, 6-2, 6-3. Already then Harvey said that he did not think Gillis was that good, and that he would have had a fair chance winning in Statesboro. Nobody believed Harvey then, but he proved to be right.

The Eagles have now got a winning streak of two, when they leave on their road trip to Macon and Atlanta today. Southern's season record is 5-8.

Tom Anderson, V, beat Bjorn Kjerfve 6-2, 6-2. Jack Harvey beat Bill Gillis, V, 6-4, 8-6. Jim Borroughs, V, beat Harry Sarter 2-6, 6-2, 6-3. Eddie Russell beat Veronn Dixon, V, 6-1, 1-4. Danny Stiles beat Grant Tilley, V, 6-4, 6-3. Mack Poss beat ohn Romain, V, 6-1, 6-3. Gillis-Borroughs, V, beat Harvey-Poss 4-6, 6-1, 6-3. Anderson-Tilley, V, beat Kjerfve-Stiles 7-5, 8-6. Carter-Russell beat Dixon-Romain, V, 3-6, 6-4, 8-6.

WARD SET
Eagle Awaits Next Pitch

Freshman slugger Ken Szotkiewicz belted his seventh homer of the season last Saturday at Davidson, N. C., to spark the Eagles to a 6-2 victory in the second game of a double-header after Davidson had won the opener, 9-3.

Szotkiewicz is now only one behind the record set in 1955 by Bo Warren, and the 150-pound infielder has eight games left on the regular season schedule.

After being limited to five hits in the opener by Davidson's Howard Byran, the Eagles exploded for five runs in the top of the first inning of the second tilt. Szotkiewicz hammered a 3-and-1 pitch over the rightfield wall, following a single by Jackie Hammond, for the first two Eagle tallies.

The Eagles collected 10 hits in the second game—three of them by Leahman Stanley, who also batted in two runs. Butch Davis was the only other Eagles with more than one safety, collecting a double and a single in four trips.

Righthander Allen Simmons went the distance for GSC, picking up his second victory against one defeat. The hard-throwing righthander was touched for a pair of runs in the first inning, but he settled down to blank the Wildcats the rest of the way. He struck out seven batters and walked three.

In the first game, Jimmy Dobson was plagued by wildness and found rough going against the 'Cats who scored nine times—the most runs scored against Georgia Southern this season. Dobson walked three batters in the first inning in which Davidson scored two.

In the fourth inning, Davidson knocked Dobson out of the box with a four-run rally. The Wildcats collected four hits in the inning and a base on balls. Jim Nevin relieved Dobson and put out the fire.

Davidson reached Nevin for a pair of runs in the fifth and scored another in the seventh off Jerry Stephens, the third Eagle pitcher.

Georgia Southern scored in the fourth when Szotkiewicz drew a walk and advanced to third when Bryan overthrew first in an attempted pickoff play. Larry Groce singled him home.

The Eagles gathered two more tallies in the sixth on singles by Grove, Davis, Tim O'Leary, along with a walk and a fielder's choice.

RAINED OUT

Georgia Southern and Mercer played an inning and a half Wednesday in Macon before the game was halted by a heavy rain. The Eagles were leading, 1-0, at the time.

The Eagles, who now have a 16-7 record, play Florida State Friday and Saturday at Eagle Field in their next series.

Baby Frosh Split Twinbill

The Georgia Southern Junior Varsity baseballers split a double header Saturday with Evans High School, bringing their season record to five wins, five losses.

In the first game, Doak Thomas pitched a five-hit shut-out to down the Black Knights, 1-0. Evans High pitcher Jimmy Smith hurled six perfect no-hit innings, but gave up a run in the bottom of the seventh on three errors. Thomas (1-1) took the win; Smith was charged with the loss.

In the second game Jimmy Smith returned to the mound to snuff out a last-inning Baby Eagle rally, as the Black Knights downed GSC, 3-2. Leading hitters for Southern were Mark Moody (2-3) and Jerry Jarrard, with a double. Jimmy Smith had a double for the Black Knights. Johnny Price was the winning pitcher; Hal Walls (2-3) was the loser.

Golfers Grab

Third Match

The Southern golf team won its third match of the season Tuesday, defeating The Citadel 15.5 to 14.5 under "unusual circumstances."

"We had to spot Citadel three points," said Eagle golf coach Frank Radovitch, "because our seventh man didn't show up for the match. I was pleased with the men's play, since we started three points behind and still won."

The meet was held at Forest Heights Country Club in Statesboro.

The victory made the Eagle golfers record 3-6, with one of the previous wins against arch-rival Citadel in Charleston 10.5 to 7.5.

Scores for the GSC golfers were: Hank Lehwald 76, Randy Hill 80, Bobby Gastley 78, Harold Varn 74, Jimmy Flanders 78, and Wright North 74.

Points scorers for the Eagles were North 3 points, Varn 3 points, Hill 2.5 points, and Gastley 1 point. The team of Gastley and Varn scored 3 points and the Flanders and North team scored 2.5 points.

There are three meets remaining on the golf schedule this season. The Eagles will meet Erskine College on May 2 in Due West, S. C. They meet Valdosta State here Thursday, and Mercer University on May 13 here will end the season.

American League Wins All-Star Tilt

The American League All-Stars defeated the National League All-Stars 6-4 in the intramural softball playoff last Monday, with the Americans scoring five runs in the bottom of the sixth inning.

The contest went scoreless for the first three innings, then the National All-Stars scored two runs driven in by Jim Kauffman in the fourth, and two runs driven in by Derrick Hulsey and Scotty Carpenter in the fifth.

The American All-Stars pulled one run out in the bottom of the fifth on a double by Tommy Dial and a single by Collier West, and then held the Nationals scoreless in the top of the sixth.

Percy Hardy's home run brought in three runs for the Americans. John Ard and Dial came in on a sacrifice and a run on an error in the sixth to make the American total of six runs.

The Americans then clinched the contest holding the National All-Stars scoreless again in the top of the seventh, the end of the game.

The American League All-Stars were: Joe McDaniel, Danny Forester, Rocky Lemieex, Percy Hardy, John Ard, Tommy Dial, Richard Steele, Collier West, Tom King, Billy Reichert, and Gerald Jones.

The National League All-Stars were: Barry Brown, Derrick Hulsey, Scotty Carpenter, Alan Plaisted, Larry Olsen, Stan Puckett, Jim Lauffman, Russell Brown, John Barringer, Tony Dukes and Vaughn Shields.
