Music Fraternity Sets Workshop At Holiday Inn

Phi Mu Alpha-Sinfonia, honorary professional music fraternity, will hold a regional workshop October 24-25 at the Holiday Inn, according to Dr. Sterling Adams, advisor for the Zeta Omicron Chapter on campus.

The purpose of this workshop is to take care of regional business, including the induction of the honoring of Sinfonians, the exchange of ideas between each chapter, and the election of delegates to the national convention next year.

Province 13, which has eight chapters in Georgia and Florida, and province 20, which has seven chapters in Virginia, North Carolina, and South Carolina, will be attending the workshop.

Several firsts will be held at the banquet. A manpower award will be given for the first time to the fraternity inducting the most members and a premiering Violin Concerto commissioned by the fraternity will be presented.

Phi Mu Alpha-Sinfonia fraternity is the largest national fraternity in the United States. It is devoted to advancing the cause of music in America through the presentation of concerts by themselves or by bringing in performers. Skitch Henderson and Leonard Bernstein are only a few of the prominent members.

The chairman of the workshop will be Herbert Carter, province governor of province 20. Also attending the workshop will be the national president, Harry Wilson and the national secretary-treasurer, Price Doyle.

Carswell Named 'Miss Reflector'

Miss Wynn Carswell has been selected Miss Reflector for the 1965-66 yearbook, according to Doug Geiger, editor.

The 1965-66 "Reflectors" are expected to arrive Tuesday or Wednesday and are to be distributed as soon as they are available, according to Doug Geiger, editor.

The yearbooks will be distributed through the post office window in the Williams Center and all students must present their ID cards to receive their "Reflector," added Geiger.

Students who have been enrolled here only two quarters this year must pay $2.50 for their copy. Students who have been here for only one quarter will have to pay $5, said Geiger.

The Circle K Club will sell transparent plastic covers for 50 cents each.

Miss Carswell is not attending school here this quarter. She is living in Waycross, and commuting to Jacksonville where she attends a finishing school, according to Danny Broucek.

Miss Carswell attended school here her entire freshman year and was here fall and winter quarters of this year. Wynn was very active in the music department. She was a member of the Southern Singers and sang the soprano solo in "A German Requiem," presented in the spring of 1965. Miss Carswell also sang soprano in the concert choir, and sang the Star Spangled Banner at the basketball games.

She held the leading role in the Waycross Summer Theater presentation of "Oklahoma" in summer stock. She also held the leading role of Maria in "West Side Story" presented last quarter.

Miss Carswell is a member of the Sigma Alpha Iota music fraternity, and was a semi-finalist in the Miss GSC contest. She was sponsored in the Miss Reflector contest by the national honorary music fraternity, Phi Mu Alpha and reigned as their sweetheart this year.

Miss Carswell recently won the Miss Waycross contest and is to compete in the Miss Georgia pageant July 11-16.

Campus Enrichment Committee To Sponsor Monday Attraction

Miss Beverly Wolff, the final 1965-66 attraction of the Campus Life Enrichment Committee, will appear in concert Monday at 8:15 p.m. in McCroan Auditorium.

Her career as a New York City Opera vocalist began in 1963 when she sang the role of Cherubino in Mozart's "Marriage of Figaro." This debut was the result of a discovery by Atlanta Symphony Conductor Henry Sopkin.

Miss Wolff had begun her musical career with the Atlanta Symphony as a trumpeter. Upon hearing her voice, however, Sopkin engaged her as a soloist with the Orchestra.

Following intensive study at the Philadelphia Academy of Music, Miss Wolff was soon singing regularly with the nation's top orchestras. She sang the starring role in the television premiere of Leonard Bernstein's "Trouble in Tahiti" with the NBA Opera Company. The performance was followed by nationwide press reviews which lauded her voice and versatile talent.

Miss Wolff, one of nine children, began her life of music at the age of four. Desiring to emulate her older brothers and sisters, each of whom were taking music lessons, she rose at seven each morning to practice the trumpet before school.

Her musical interests did not overshadow educational pursuits, however. Having won a scholarship she attended the University of Georgia, majoring in literature.

In 1950 she continued her study of music at the Academy of Vocal Arts in Philadelphia, working her way through school by church singing, sales clerking and baby sitting.

Following her 1952 first place in the Youth Auditions of the Philadelphia Orchestra she made her Boston debut with Boris Goldovsky's New England Opera Theatre playing the leading role of Idamantes in Mozart's opera "Idomeneo."

An active member of the vocal faculty of Georgia State College in Atlanta, Miss Wolff believes music should be an integral part of everyone's life. "Music is one of the few things in which the whole family can join, either in performing or listening," she said. "If it turns out that neither of my children have musical talent, I hope at least that they will have a very keen appreciation of music."

Following her GSC concert Miss Wolff will sing the lead role in Douglas Moore's "Portrait of Carry" with the San Francisco Opera on June 14 and 17. She will then perform July 16-17 at Tanglewood, singing the Bach "Magnificat" and "The St. John Passion."

Gubernatorial Candidate Speaks Here

Maddox Declares Liberty To Be Issue, Not Education

Lester Maddox, gubernatorial candidate, said the major issue in the coming campaign will be liberty—not education, race or roads.

Speaking before a large group last night in Marvin Pittman Auditorium, Maddox said liberty could be preserved by preserving private property, states rights and constitutional government. His speech was last in the spring quarter series sponsored by the College Young Democrats.

After declaring his desire to be the next Georgia governor, Maddox said if he was elected he would activate the Governor's Commission on States Rights; he would advocate the freedom of choice to pray in schools, and he would increase expenditures for the state penal system.

Maddox listed education as the most important factor in preserving liberty and said he would inaugurate a program to attract more qualified young people in education through scholarships.

In denouncing the low salaries of teachers in Georgia he compared the $25,000 salary of a poverty program worker to the $80 a week salary of a teacher.

According to Maddox it is impossible for Georgia to be a leader in anything if it cannot be a leader in industrial growth. He compared the state to six other southern states on the basis of new industry, expanded industry and new jobs.

Using statistical charts, Maddox illustrated that Georgia ranked seventh among southern states in new industry, fifth in expanded industry and fourth in Maddox was adamantly optimistic about the outcome of the governor's race and denied any fear of rumored candidates. He predicted that Senator Herman Talmadge would not run and if he did it would end the senator's political career.

When asked about other forthcoming opponents, Maddox predicted the entry of Jimmy Bently into the race for governor.

Maddox concluded saying, "Regardless of your race, color, creed or party, I'll be the best governor Georgia ever had."

Young Republicans Host Speaker

Carswell Calls for Public Election of Federal Judges

By JACK HILL
Staff Writer

Probable First District Congressional candidate Porter Carswell called for the public election of federal judges in a speech before a group of students and faculty here Wednesday night.

A political training clinic for college students will be held Sunday, at 2 p.m. in McCroan Auditorium.

According to Francis Stubbs, vice-president of the Young Republicans, the purpose of the training program is to advise and inform young people who might work in their home counties for political candidates this summer.

Stubbs said that Norman Bishop, Republican training director of the Southern region of Georgia, will be in charge of the program. He will show films and give advice on methods to be used in the summer and fall campaigns.

The meeting, Stubbs said, is open to all interested students.

Carswell was introduced by Warren Hyman, recording secretary of the Young Republicans.

retary of the Young Republicans. The P Club sponsored the Waynesboro businessman's appearance.

The former state senator and State Representative from Burke County expressed the view that if federal judges were chosen by the electorate they would be more responsive to the people's wishes.

Carswell decried the rising national debt and blamed it for what he termed "creeping inflation." He said that inflation is similar to cancer in that it is both "insidious and painless" until it has done its damage. Inflation, he said, affects the people who can least afford to lose their purchasing power—the working class.

Proposing the end of payments to farmers for non-production, Carswell suggested that the money being spent for this purpose by the government be combined with that being allocated for foreign aid. These funds should be used to support farm prices and the excess foodstuffs should be distributed to needy countries, he said.

Carswell lambasted the giving of food and financial aid to unfriendly countries. He said countries friendly to the United States should be helped in every way, but nations that are constantly antagonistic toward the U. S. should not be helped to achieve their unfriendly goals. Carswell urged the attainment of a victory in the war in Viet Nam through the use of the best weapons available. He concluded that free elections should be the goal of any effort in the Southeast Asia country.

Candidate Seeks 1st Dist. Seat

University Professor Speaks

Dr. Ablert B. Saye, Alumni Foundation distinguished professor of political science at the University of Georgia, spoke to students on "Constitutional Revision in Georgia" this morning in Marvin Pittman Auditorium.

Author of "Principles of American Democracy," the adopted text for political science 250, Dr. Saye received his PhD, from Harvard and his L.L.B. from the Joseph H. Lumpkin Law School at Georgia where he also served as professor of law. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa fraternity.

A coffee was held immediately following the speech.

The social science division in cooperation with Student Congress sponsored the lecture.

SUBMARINE RACES??

Francis W. Allen, judge of the city court of Statesboro and prominent local attorney, reports that numerous college students are brought before him, accused of illegal parking and similar violations.

While driving around the Statesboro area, couples will stop the car and park, perhaps never realizing that they are within 200 yards of a home. Curious home owners will investigate and many times report the car and the occupants to the authorities.

The campus proper has no area for couples to park, talk in privacy, or do the other things couples do in the evening. It is against the rules to park in the parking lots, which are too crowded anyway. It is in poor taste to indulge in extensive good nights on the porches of the dormitories. Parking is a realistic issue which should not be evaded, ignored or whispered about. The best solution would be to find a good, private, legal place for college students to park without fear of shot-guns or campus security.

Judge Allen doubts the effectiveness of fines and traffic penalties, yet would like to alleviate the problem. He suggested, and we agree, that several hundred acres of the college-owned woodland could be converted into a beautiful public park by day and a romantic private parking area by evening. It would be an area that college students could respect as privileged and the campus security forces could honor as private. Certain other colleges have unwritten understandings with their security forces about the privacy of the area.

Nothing is going to do away with parking so why not create a good atmosphere for it?

REPAIRS NEEDED

A student making an exit from McCroan Auditorium through the doors on the northeast side of the building and down the iron stairway is taking his life in his hands.

The steps are often slick and in wet weather they prove to be an even more dangerous obstacle. The hazard of the stairway is discovered when the student reaches out his hand to grasp for the railing on the middle of the double iron stairs. To his astonishment it isn't there.

He lurches backward to regain his balance but falls helplessly toward the bottom of the cold, hard stairway.

In an instant the falling student glimpses a crude iron rod pointing up directly in the path of his fall.

The rods, which are the remaining braces for the handrail, are the only things which break the sudden fall.

He plunges headlong into the lower one while the other drives its cold metal into his stomach and points its defiant spiked end toward the sky.

A student could easily be seriously hurt or killed on the iron stairway on the northeast side of McCroan Auditorium because no one has found the time in several months to repair a broken handrailing.

Haunted House Myth Lands Three Students in City Court

By TOMMY DREW
Managing Editor

*"The wind was a torrent of darkness among the dusty trees,
The moon was a ghostly galleon
tossed upon cloudy seas,
The road was a ribbon of moonlight over the purple moor, . . .
And the students came riding - riding - riding -
The students came riding
Up to the haunted house door."*

For several years various students at the college and also inquisitive public school students have developed an attraction to an old, wooden structure six miles southeast of the campus.

This mammoth dwelling is in a setting of large oak trees. The home appears as if it hasn't been painted for many years.

Many ride by the old house without stopping. Others, with a hunger for mystery and suspense often stop to survey the premises. It has become great sport to cajole a companion to go up and knock on the door of peer into the living room through one of the front windows. Fraternity pledges have been made to pound on the front door and talk to the "witch" inside.

In the last term of the Statesboro City Court held Monday night, May 9, three college students found out—to their dismay, that the house is not really haunted as they had previously suspected. They were supposedly surprised to discover that the inhabitants of the old home, instead of being witches and goblins, were two elderly sisters—one an invalid.

They promptly pleaded nolo contendere to the charge of trespassing. (This means they didn't plead guilty or innocent) and were sentenced by the Honorable Francis W. Allen, Judge of the City Court of Statesboro, to parking their cars and not to use them for the remainder of the quarter.

It was reported in a letter from Mr. Josh S. Lanier, probation officer for the court, that, "many students have been told that this is a haunted house and numerous people have been there to see if this was true. As a result, many students have had to appear before the Judge on other occasions."

According to Lanier, "Judge Allen announced in court Monday night that the next person or persons caught on the premises of the Harville place will have their driving privileges suspended." The next ones that are convicted in Judge Allen's court will be, "sentenced to serve prison terms," reported Lanier.

It is not my purpose to question or criticize the recent action taken in court. I do, however, question why something couldn't have been done by the authorities long before now. It would have saved two sisters much grief and embarrassment.

The purpose of the release from Lanier was said to let "the students of Georgia Southern College and the young people of Bulloch County know that the rumor that there is a haunted house on the Statesboro-Nevils highway is definitely false."

Of course the rumor is false! What student in his right mind would believe in the myth of a haunted house.

The court sentences and news releases from the Statesboro authorities should be directed at malicious vandals who trespass on private property.

Those who travel the road to the Harville home with the intention of receiving a cheap thrill at the expense of two elderly women should be dealt with as criminals—not as naive children who must have their hands spanked or be temporarily restricted from using their cars.

Fond Memories Go with Willard To Viet Nam

By DAN RAHN
Staff Writer

Willard Grunch was last seen leaving the beloved Georgia Southern campus, walking merrily along beside the murmuring pines, singing his favorite song, "I Want A Girl Just Like The Girl That Married Dear Old Dad," by Oedipus Rex.

Willard left Georgia Southern happily, never to return. That's why he left the old Alma Mater happily. However, he did have some beautiful memories that would follow him all the way to Viet Nam.

Willard remembered first of all the wonderful feeling of accomplishment when he received his grades at the end of his first full quarter of school and realized that he passed a course.

Then of course he remembered the many times he had strolled across Sweetheart Circle with his girl Zeldy. "Zeldy was wonderful," Willard thought. "Of course the worst I ever . . . I'm going to miss her—those pretty bloodshot eyes, that wonderful . . ."

Willard remembered fondly the Health course he took Winter Quarter, and how embarrassed everyone was when the instructor started talking about all those wonderful things.

Willard smiled as he thought of the Homecoming weekend when he first became a part of the "crowd." But of course he couldn't recall too much of the details of that weekend.

And he remembered with a twinge of remorse all those pleasant excursions to the cheery office of Dean Tyson. "Those were the good times" he thought, ashamed of his sentimentality. Sentimentality is a wicked, wicked thing. Or maybe it isn't. Maybe that is just a lot of propaganda spread by the English department. "Anyhow, Dean Tyson is a good man. It wasn't his fault—it was his job."

Always — always — Willard would think of all the nice friends he had met at Georgia Southern with a special warmth in his heart. "They were so nice," he reminisced, "All of them — Mary Krause with his habits, Billy Bad with his Honda, Pop, with his . . . Professor Ruck with his pop tests, Jack Daniels. . ."

Willard fondly recalled all those recent, long treks to the postal service department. And those little trips around the lake. And all those sweet little white ducks that seemed vaguely orange to Willard one time.

As Willard rounded the curve and strolled out by Highway 301, he paused for a moment to gaze respectfully at the colossal statue of that savage looking eagle.

His eyes wandered beyond the statue into the trees, where a squirrel was playfully scratching among the leaves. He suddenly felt like killing him. He always had enjoyed shooting squirrels.

Willard stood for a moment, listening to the pine trees murmuring. "Mating call, I guess," he thought, as he turned and slowly walked toward town.

"Well, that was yesterday," he thought. Willard now thinks of the future. He is looking forward to seeing all those Oriental people.

Radio Program Gains New Status

By TOMMY DREW
Managing Editor

Six years ago a struggling radio program that began as the brainchild of an ambitious new director of public relations, has matured into an organized publicity complex that can take a slice of the college and send it over the airwaves to several million people.

Just a little over a year ago, the college radio program, dubbed "Sounds from Southern," was being produced on an outer-office shelf with limited equipment.

Today, a complicated array of tape recorders, duplicators, wires and microphones give birth to one of the most prominent weekly college radio programs in the state.

"Sounds from Southern," produced under the management of Ric Mandes, director of public relations and the originator of the program. Under his guidance a staff of well-trained students create the weekly radio voice of Georgia Southern.

Joe Phillips, a speech major from Mt. Vernon, Georgia holds an experienced grip on the reins of the program management and planning. Under his leadership, the news, views and opinions of the students are presented in a way to appeal to the general public.

Nancy Jenkins has worked with the program for over a year. With very limited assistance she was primarily responsible for producing and sending out 36 copies of "Sounds from Southern" every week. Nancy is a sophomore art major from Macon. In addition to her chores with the radio program, Nancy will serve as art editor for the college yearbook, the "Reflector," next year.

Joe McDaniel rounds out the broadcasting trio. Joe is a physical education major from Macon who expertly handles the hometown news produced by the radio division of the public relations office. He is responsible for local interest news of Statesboro in addition to duplicating and mailing the "Sounds from Southern" throughout the state to over 20 radio stations.

The growth and popularity of the program over the last three months have astounded even those who produce the program. "Production of 'Sounds from Southern' has become a full-time job," reported Phillips. "We have a dedicated staff that gives it full-time attention, too."

The show is concentrated completely with interview work. It can be heard every Thursday evening on the Statesboro radio station and throughout the week on many others.

The three seemed to agree that a lack of interest on the part of students is the main setback to the show. Too few people care whether the show is being heard in their home towns or not; when actually, the students contribute the bulk of the "news and views" heard on the program.

"Sounds from Southern" is an almost instant representation of a student's life at Georgia Southern," remarked Nancy.

The staff of "Sounds from Southern" felt that a major boost in their program would come when the college offers more specialized courses in the communications field.

One can easily imagine the work and time involved in the production of one "Sounds from Southern" show, but it is difficult to comprehend the intricate machinery and extensive concentration that is required to successfully record a program.

The radio office has four tape recorders in use almost constantly and a portable recording machine on hand for taping on-the-spot interviews. A huge, high-speed, multi-reel duplicator dominates one corner of the tastefully decorated office. This piece of equipment is capable of reproducing tapes at over 15 inches per second.

These mechanical facilities make it possible to interview approximately ten people each week.

"There are usually five hard core interviews each week and the same number of student opinions," reported Phillips.

"Sounds from Southern" requires between 3,000 and 4,800 feet of audio tape for each week's show.

"Often you'll get an interview that is good but lacks a little something. It's necessary then to tear the whole thing apart and put it back together again," said Phillips. "You have to cut this word out and move it somewhere else to make what was said clearer and closer to the point. We can't waste time on the unimportant, but the revised version must mean essentially the same as the original."

TO THE EDITOR

Professor Roxie Remly
Department of Visual Arts
Georgia Southern College
Statesboro, Georgia

Thank you for your letter of May 6 with the enclosed check of $60 for the purchase of my print entitled "Dusk."

Needless to say I am very happy to be represented in the permanent collection of Georgia Southern and most pleased with all that you and the staff did in arranging this exhibition. Of more importance however, I believe, was the participation and contribution made by the student body in becoming involved. This I especially applaud, for its value and far-sightedness. Please convey to Vito Caggino and to all members of the art faculty my sincere thanks.

Today, I also received a note with enclosed copies of the May 6 "George-Anne" paper. Please thank Vito for this.

The yellow catalogue leaflets of the exhibits with reproductions of Evergood's "Portrait of Calapai" (mailed to me earlier) were quickly snapped up by interested people here. If you have any extras - left over - I would greatly appreciate having them. Vito did a most eloquent job of writing up my biographical material in concise form and it has been commented upon by a number of people whose opinion I greatly respect.

Most sincerely,

Dear Editor:

I am a former student at Georgia Southern. I was a freshman last year but due to academic reasons I had to lay out a quarter. I joined the Naval Reserve and I am now on active duty aboard the super tanker USS TRUCKEE (AO-146). I am stationed at Norfolk, Va. until the TRUCKEE goes to the Baltimore Navy Yards to be overhauled.

I am planning to continue my education while on board by taking courses in my spare time. The main thing I wanted to ask you was could you please send me the George-Anne up here. I will send you money for it if it is possible for you to send it to me.

I still think a lot of Southern and wish I had studied a little harder so I could still be there. I am interested in what happens at Southern even though I may be at sea for long periods at a time. I try to let people now about Southern wherever I go and am quite surprised at the number of people up north that have heard of the school.

I hope to return to Southern when I finish duty in the navy and fulfill my ambition to be a coach. I hope the people at Southern appreciate being there because the service will make you realize how valuable a college education is to a person.

I will get a first hand glimpse of history when we cruise to the Mediterranean in October or nine months. I hope that when I get discharged from the Navy what I have seen and done while overseas will prove valuable in college.

I would like to stress to all young men at Southern to study and appreciate every minute of college because it is something that will change the whole course of their life. The Navy is a fine service but every sailor will tell you to stay in school and get that priceless possession, education. Thank you very much for reading this and I hope you don't think it is only because it came from a sincere and lonely sailor.

Sincerely Yours,
Michael T. Ridge

Children's Books on Display

More than 800 children's library books from 50 to 60 publishers are on display at the Rosenwald Library through May 28.

The exhibit, which opened May 16, is sponsored by the library in cooperation with Books On Exhibit, a New York firm which provides the books free of charge for exhibitions at various libraries and schools throughout the nation.

The volumes presently on display are primarily aimed at a kindergarten through sixth grade age group, according to Mrs. Mary Ginter, assistant librarian.

Although the books will not remain here, the purpose of the exhibit is to acquaint students and prospective teachers and librarians with what is being done in the field of children's books, Mrs. Ginter added.

INQUIRING REPORTER

By JOAN GAY
Staff Writer

Do you think grades should be the criteria for the deferment and induction into the armed forces?

Ricky Murray, sr., Jesup: Yes, I think grades should be the major criteria; however, I think consideration should also be given to classification. For example: I lack fifteen hours before graduation, I may not be able to get them this summer and will have to come back fall quarter. If I stay out this summer there is a very good chance that I'll be drafted. What should I do?

Joe Phillips, soph., Atlanta: Yes, I think grades are a good criteria for keeping college men away from the draft board. But I think that there are more than enough men of draft age which are not in college; and they should be drafted before any consideration is given to college students.

Ed Brown, sr., Dublin: Yes, if a person has the goal of a higher education his grades should be adequate enough to stay in school. If he is avoiding the draft and education is not the true goal and grades are not up to par, he should complete his obligation as others.

Gary Knoble, frosh, Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.: No, I don't think grades should be the main criteria. Every student has the right to further his education whether he is in the upper percentage of his class or not.

Bill Darsey, soph., Lakeland: No. A student should be allowed to attend college if he so desires. There are plenty of other people without ambitions or jobs that should go in the army first.

Cater Massee, sr., Hawkinsville: There are many thoughts concerning this matter running through the minds of all persons, especially those confronted by the draft. One of the major purposes of society is to educate its members.

Moreover, every individual of society should stand up for freedom. I think the draft status of all individuals should be based on his entire educational record, and certainly not on a single deferment test, but if what is said is not what is meant, then what should be done is left undone. If the fight in Viet Nam is left undone, and our responsibility to help other countries retain their freedom is also left undone, then we can say that every previous struggle of our forefathers in their fight for freedom has been in vain.

I regret the wrong implications were taken from some of my statements. They were not written as hints meaning that Coach Weir did not honor the scheduling agreement between the institutions.

The competition between our schools has been good and I hope that the friendly atmosphere will prevail into the future.

Walter Coleman Swims Fastest

Sophomores Walter Coleman and Ron Mayhew swept the five individual events in last Saturday's Spring Swing swim meet. Freshman Karen Jackson won three of the four individual events for women.

Coleman placed first in the freestyle, backstroke, and individual medley events and Mayhew scored firsts in breaststroke and butterfly. Jackson copped top honors in backstroke, individual medley, and freestyle. Mary Melton, sophomore, won the first place in breaststroke.

The Georgia Southern Eagle baseballers closed out their season Friday with a 4-1 victory over the Bears of Mercer University.

Rick Ward tagged a double and two singles in four trips to the plate to lead the Eagle hitting. Larry Groce slammed a solo homer in the fourth frame for the Eagles.

Pitcher Jim Nevin spun a nifty four-hitter as he picked up his sixth victory of the season against no losses.

Third sacker Jackie Hammond picked up a single in the eighth frame, extending his career total hits record to 151. Left-hander Dewall Waters was charged with the loss for the Bruins.

This Year's Edition of The Baseball Eagles Finished Its Season with a 19-12 Record.

Records Fall; Eagles Falter

By HUBERT NORTON
GSC Sports Publicist

Ken Szotkiewicz broke two slugging records and tied another, and Jackie Hammond, Jerry Stephens and Jim Nevin set one record each during the 1966 Eagle baseball season.

The Eagles of Coach J. I. Clements finished the season with a 19-12 record, marking the first time in five years that the Eagles have won less than 20 games. The Eagles also will not participate in the NAIA Area VII baseball tournament for the first time since 1958.

The tournament will be held nevertheless at Eagle Field May 26-28. The teams and parings have not been announced yet.

Coach J. I. Clements has announced that fraternities will help with ticket sales and spectator management at the NAIA Area VII baseball tournament to be held at Eagle Field May 26-28.

"We want to urge students to co-operate with the boys as much as possible, Clements said."

Admission for the tournament will be $1 for adults and 50 cents for students. The admission price will enable the spectator to see all games for that day. Three games are scheduled for each day.

Szotkiewicz hit nine home runs to surpass the old mark of eight set by Bo Warren in 1955 and accumulated 81 total bases, eight more than Kelly Powell totalled in 1956. Szotkiewicz tied the school mark for most runs-batted-in for a single game with eight against Pembroke State.

Hammond eclipsed the record for hits in a career with 151 over four years, four better than Bill Griffin had from 1960-63. Stephens topped the career mark for bases on balls with a four-year total of 125. Ray Mims held the old record of 120, set in 1957-1960.

Nevin established a new low for earned run average in a season with a 1.65 mark to better Pierce Blanchard's 1.68, recorded in 1962.

For the season, Szotkiewicz led the Eagles in seven offensive departments and tied for the lead in another. He led in homers, total bases, runs scored (30), hits (40), doubles (10), RBIs (32), and stolen bases (13). He tied for the lead in triples with two along with other players.

Freshman Rick Ward turned on a late surge, collecting 10 hits in his last 20 trips, to wrest the batting title from Szotkiewicz who had led from the opening game. Ward finished with a .337 mark, and Szotkiewicz, who went hitless in his last 12 at-bats, tumbled to third place with .328. Larry Groce would up second with a .330 mark.

Nevin, who sat out last season for personal reasons after posting a 2-0 mark as a freshman, led the pitchers in most categories. The righthander posted a 6-0 record and led in innings pitched with 65 and strike outs with 75, in addition to topping the ERA mark.

After the Eagles' opening game victory, the team won three and lost three before putting together a six game winning streak. The last victory in the streak was a near no-hitter by Jimmy Dobson. Dobson had not allowed a hit until two outs in the ninth and had to settle for a two-hitter as GSC won, 18-0.

Szotkiewicz provided the offensive fireworks with his record-tying eight RBIs. The left-handed slugger blasted two homers, a triple, and single in six at-bats.

Pembroke snapped the winning streak the next game with a 3-2 victory and then dropped the next game to Carson-Newman, 8-6. The Eagles walloped Eastern Kentucky, 15-5, to break a two-game losing streak and start a five-game winning streak. The latter carried to Eagles' record to 15-5.

The late season slump then saw the club win only four of the next 11 games to finish the season with a 19-12. The Eagles lost three straight—their longest of the season—during the slump.

The Southern golf team defeated Mercer University 26-2 last Monday to end the season with "the most overwhelming victory of the year, against one of the tougher teams we faced," according to Frank Radovitch, GSC golf coach.

After getting off to a slow start, the Eagles finished the season with an even record, six wins, six losses, and one tie.

"In the last half of the schedule, we won four matches and one," Radovitch said. He also said that the great improvement over the last half of the season was due primarily to the better attitude of the team. "The men learned a great lesson," he said. "They learned that the harder they work, the better they play and the better their luck is."

Playing top man for GSC, Hank Lehwald shot a 73 in the match and scored 2 points. Jimmy Flanders with a 73 scored 3 points, and the Lehwald-Flanders team scored 3 points.

Delta Sig Wins Two

In intramural volleyball play last Wednesday, the Bugs beat APO 15-2 and 16-14; Delta Sig downed the Bugs 15-11 and 15-7; Phi Epsilon defeated the Hawks 15-13 and 15-8; Delta Sig beat Phi Epsilon 15-10 and 15-7. dule, which was the toughest part, we won four matches and Aufwiedersehn!

He is going to leave us. On June 2 he will not be here any longer. Tennis Coach Bob Weber came to Southern just for a year. When receiving a graduate fellowship he decided to move to Southern Illinois and complete his doctor's degree in criminology. Together with Assistant Coach David Hall he led the Eagles netters to the best season ever. Of course he was thrown in the water by the players as a sign of gratitude (see bottom picture) . . . clothes and all. We had many unforgettable discussions with him. Like the one on the top picture where he tries to convince Manager Jim Connelly that he is right. Connelly seems to have his own ideas about things though. . .

King Wins Mile Run Barefoot In Spring Swing Track Meet

The Spring Swing track meet held last Friday brought to light a great deal of previously unknown athletic talent.

The most startling win of the afternoon was Tom King's first place finish in the mile run. Clad in street clothes and running barefoot, King lined up with the gang and finished first in the four-lap race with a 5:20 time.

Two Rogers were successful in the high jump with twins Wayne and Wendell taking the

Eagles Defeat Mercer Again

By BJORN KJERFVE
Sports Editor

The Netters of Southern concluded the season beating Mercer, 5-4, at Statesboro last Saturday making the season record 8-9, the best ever for the Eagle tennis team.

When the GSC players visited Macon three weeks ago they beat the Bears, 5-4, but then Mercer's number one man, Emmet Young, could not play. This time Young played and won. Still the Eagles managed to pull through successfully.

Mack Poss won his eighth straight victory, beating Bear Dennis Sanders, 6-1, 6-3. Poss showed determination and doubtlessly he is one of those having improved most on the Southern team since the beginning of the season.

Jack Harvey has improved even more than Poss, although he lost in straight sets against Mercer in the number two spot. Harvey's slice left handed shots force the opponents to dig from beneath. If he learns to keep the ball in play better, he will be extremely difficult to beat next year.

The most valuable player on the Southern team is Danny Stiles, who won his ninth straight victory. His overall record is 14-3. He is the most certain match winner. When he loses something is wrong.

"The players have steadily improved during the season," said Coach Bob Weber. "They showed real determination when they beat Mercer."

Emmet Young, M, beat Bjorn Kjerfve 6-4, 6-3. Charles Cook, M, beat Jack Harvey 6-2, 6-4. Bob Sykes, M, beat Harry Carter 4-6, 6-4, 7-5. Eddie Russell beat Steve Nathanson, M, 6-0, 4-6, 6-4. Dan Stiles beat Ken Pipkin, M, 6-0, 7-5. Mack Poss beat Dennis Sanders, M, 6-1, 6-3.

Young-Sykes, M, beat Kjerfve-Stiles 6-2, 6-4. Carter-Russell beat Cook-Pipkin, M, 8-6, 6-3, 6-0. Harvey-Poss beat Nathanson-Sanders, M, 6-2, 7-5.

Tennis Statistics:

The recently completed tennis season is the best in the history of Georgia Southern. Although the season was not a winning one (the record is 8-9) no Eagle net team has managed better during the varsity tennis team's five-year existence.

The Eagles' all time season records look as follows:

1961-62: 1-4, 1962-63: 4-6, 1963-64: 5-7, 1964-65: 7-10. And this year the record was 8-9 which means a .471 season.

FIVE GET LETTERS

Altogether 11 players were used during the year. Three of them only played doubles, while the rest participated in both singles and doubles. The following list shows what percentage of the matches in which each player participated (doubles and singles included).

Bjorn Kjerfve 100 per cent, Mack Poss 100 per cent, Eddie Russell 100 per cent, Dan Stiles 100 per cent, Jack Harvey 94 per cent, Harry Carter 71 per cent, Johnny Roundtree 53 per cent, Charles George 24 per cent, Robin Olmstead 18 per cent, Joe Mercer 12 per cent, Mickey Scandlyn 6 per cent.

The players having played in 75 per cent or more of the matches will be awarded a letter.

Bowlers Lose

The newly formed Southern bowling team lost its first game by 64 points to a Skate-R-Bowl team Sunday.

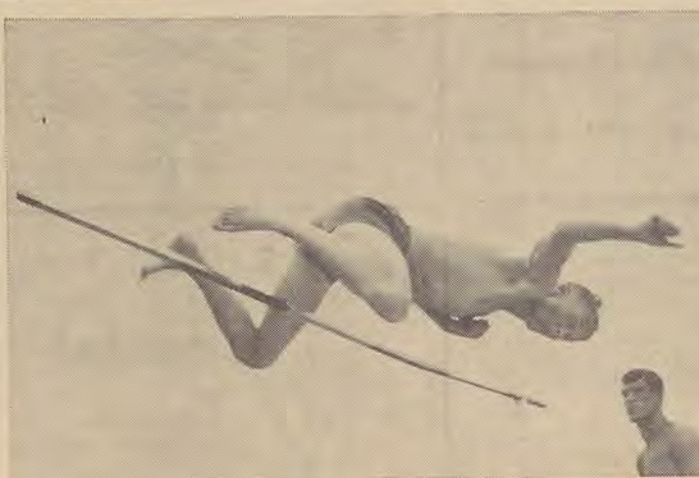

The Eagle bowlers were Vaughn Shields, Fred Harwell, Johnny Lee and Tommy Harrison.

The Skate-R-Bowler's rolled a 1980 series against GSC's 1916 series. High for the Southern bowlers was Vaughn Shields with a 212 series. Nath Foss, the Skate-R-Bowler had a 247 series. Hugh Darley was high with a total of 573.
