Sanders To Speak to Graduates

Traditional Lantern Walk Scheduled Sunday Night

LOVING MOTHER WATCHES OVER BABIES

A recently hatched brood of tiny yellow ducklings decided to try their water wings in the campus lake. With their mother staying close by to round up any stragglers, the quacking youngsters frolicked on the surface of the lake like old veterans. As far as can be seen, every duckling in the litter survived and is looking forward to a warm, wet summer.

Summer Quarter Co-Editors Named To Head George-Anne

Ann Vaughan, junior home economics major from Tifton and Ron Mayhew, sophomore political science major from Atlanta, have been named co-editors of the summer quarter "George-Anne" by Ric Mandes, faculty adviser.

Charles Winge, business administration major from Glenville, was appointed business manager.

Miss Vaughan, a 1965 transfer student from Abraham Baldwin, served as society editor for fall and winter quarters. She has been news editor during spring quarter.

Mayhew was sports editor last spring, managing editor last fall, and news editor during winter quarter. He is also in charge of state news in the office of public relations.

Winge, in addition to his duties on the "George-Anne" business staff, is also business manager of the "Reflector."

The new co-editors plan few changes other than a decrease in the number of pages for each issue. The first summer issue will be published Friday, June 10.

Librarian Resigns

Mrs. Mary B. Ginter, assistant librarian, is resigning her present post to be Library Co-ordinator for the Crisp County School System, according to Miss Hassie McElveen, head librarian.

Mrs. Ginter has worked for two years as assistant librarian and has headed up the library science program. She has also been in charge of the circulation department.

"We regret to receive her resignation but we are happy that she will be employed in a field that she will enjoy," Miss McElveen commented.

Forty Seniors To Participate

The traditional Lantern Walk of the seniors will be held Sunday at 9 p.m. All seniors who have signed up will meet at the flagpole in Sweetheart Circle at 8:30 p.m., according to Keith Arnsdorff, president of the senior class.

The lights in Sweetheart Circle will be turned off, and the seniors will wear caps and gowns. Arnsdorff will lead them in their trek around the campus as they bid each building farewell.

They will go first to Anderson Hall, where Veronica Stokes will deliver the farewell speech. Herbert Shippey will address the Rosenwald Library, Ricky Murrey will say farewell to Brannen Hall, Charles Johnson to Sanford Hall, Judy Scruggs to Veazy Hall and Danny Broucek to the Frank I. Williams Student Center. Then they will assemble on the front steps of the Administration Building while Keith Arnsdorff challenges Joe Mercer, President of the Junior class, to carry on the tradition of the Lantern Walk.

The price for a lantern is 35 cents. There are forty seniors signed up to participate.

Post Office Box Summer Rental Deadline Set

Students who wish to maintain a post office box during the summer quarter should pay the 90 cents rent before June 30, according to Harold Tillman, branch superintendent. The summer postal quarter is for the months July, August and September.

Students who will not be here this summer, and wish to assure themselves the same box number next fall that they have now, should rent their present box for the summer months. No post office boxes may be reserved, continued Tillman.

Beginning July 1, only one patron will be allowed per post office box. The original renter will have first option to the box rented in his name, said Tillman.

Everyone who has a post office box now and will not be here this summer, should fill out a Change of Address Order, POD Form 3575, before leaving Statesboro at the end of this quarter, stated Tillman. This form will enable postal employees to forward incoming mail to students at their summer residences.

The George-Anne

EDITORIAL BOARD:

FRANK TILTON, Editor ANN VAUGHAN, News Editor

TOMMY DREW, Man. Ed. BJORN KJERFVE, Sports Ed.

THANKS FROM STAFF

The spring quarter editorial board would like to take this opportunity to thank the administration, faculty and students for its cooperation and interest in the "George-Anne" this quarter.

Overall, there have been few complaints and most have been worked out with the editorial board.

The "George-Anne" is concerned with giving clubs and organizations a fair shake. In the future it may prove advantageous to these clubs and organizations for a representative to come by and talk to the editor at the beginning of the quarter and give him an idea of what to expect. The representative should also assure the editor that some regular contact will be available for reporters to gather the needed information. There has been some misunderstanding in the past but a little trip by the editor's office could solve some problems.

The editor welcomes students and is available for discussion. Letters to the editor are also welcomed if they are reasonable and represent a mature, legitimate gripe.

The editorial board urges students to maintain an interest in the paper. It makes a big difference.

FOOD NOT SO BAD

Mounting complaints about meals served at Boston University erupted in a recent food tossing match at the B. U. cafeteria at Myles Stadiash Hall.

Food was dumped on the floor and tables, as plates, mashed potatoes, mixed vegetables and hamburger steaks sailed through the air above. It took Boston and University police to quell the riot.

Much damage was done—not only to the cafeteria facilities but to the staunch pride of the dining hall cooks.

"This food is awful" is a common gripe in probably every institutional cafeteria. Georgia Southern is certainly not an exception.

Moans of "I can't eat this slop," are often heard in the Williams Center dining hall. Seldom do students stop to think that this college is fortunate enough to have the finest in dining hall facilities and a highly trained staff.

The same basic meals are served over and over during the quarter. If fault can be found this must be the only valid problem. No one can honestly say that the meals being served in the college cafeteria aren't of the highest possible quality.

If you are a student who is tired of the same type food offered each week make a suggestion to the dietician. Tell her what type meals you most enjoy. If you enjoy the cafeteria meals, tell her so.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Editor, George-Anne
Georgia Southern College
Dear Editor,

It has been my extreme pleasure this year to serve as President of the Student Congress. I was fortunate to be surrounded by some of the most able administrators and some of the most competent student leaders on this campus, and with hard work and a little perseverance, we had a productive year. Besides working with Dorm and Traffic regulations, the Congress contributed to the College's social, academic and cultural atmosphere. We didn't accomplish everything that we wanted to, but all in all we are satisfied with the progress that has been made.

I take this opportunity to express my genuine appreciation to the students, faculty, and administration who have made my term of office such a rewarding and memorable experience.

Sincerely,
Danny Broucek

Increase Your Political Quotient; Read, Observe, Be Informed

By ANN VAUGHAN
News Editor

Who is the U. S. Ambassador to the United Nations? Who will become president if both Johnson and Humphrey die? What is his present position? Name a Supreme Court Justice other than Earl Warren. Who is President Pro Tem of the Senate?

Vaughan

Who is the Speaker of the House? How many representatives does Georgia have in the House? Who is chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee? Who is Commander in Chief of the Air Force?

Just a short quiz in keeping with exam week and election year. Your answers just showed your PG—your Political Quotient.

If your political quotient follows the general trend of the average college joe, your score wasn't too good. Each of the above questions are not specialized information for just political science majors and politicians to know. A working knowledge of the government of the United States is necessary for a person to vote and discuss current events intelligently.

Why should the average person be concerned with politics? Politics play an important part in everyone's life, whether he realizes it or not. For example, the taxes a person pays, the military service that drafts him and the amount of freedom he enjoys—these are all political questions. All political decisions are made by the people; it is important that everyone take an interest in politics and government. It is indeed upon this principle that our Government was founded—to be "of the people, by the people and for the people."

Often there are times when we hear the complaint "That's not the way our founding fathers meant the government to be run."

When our founding fathers planned the system of government, they did not mean for every person of age to vote. There were property and education requirements. These requirements were established hoping that educated property owners would be well informed on governmental issues.

This should indicate to us that we ought to know something about the way our government is run before we cast a ballot.

Another often-heard comment is "What difference can one vote make?" The 1960 Presidential election should have answered that question. If Richard Nixon had received one more vote per precinct, he would have had a higher popular vote than John Kennedy. Another example was the election in 1933 of Adolf Hitler as leader of the Nazi Party—by a one vote margin. How different the course of history might have been if that vote had been cast against him!

The college student can improve his PQ by following these suggestions.

Read a newspaper daily. Read at least the front page and the editorial page.

Meet the candidates when they visit near your home campaigning.

Join a political club on campus. The Young Republicans and the Young Democrats are going to be active during the summer.

As your PQ increases, you will find yourself involved in one of the most exciting adventures ever—politics.

Editor Happy; Students Have Top-notch Paper

By FRANK TILTON
Editor

Today is indeed a day for celebration—at least for the editor of the "George-Anne".

The last paper is out . . . at least the last under my editorship. What this means to me is no more heartaches, no more sleepless nights, no more unprepared days in class, no more petty complaints to put up with, and finally, peace of mind in my own home.

And yet . . . I will miss the "George-Anne".

. . . I will miss the satisfaction of seeing the paper materialize each week and fall into its hopeful parts . . . I will sit back anxiously and take note of "George-Annes" to come and hope that some of what I have contributed will not be forgotten.

The "George-Anne" is a newspaper that the students can be proud of as well as I. Much time and energy have been put forth this quarter to give the students a top-notch paper, a possible award-winning paper.

It has taken work—hard work that only the staff members can appreciate. The students, just as readers of any type newspaper, don't really know and appreciate "all" that goes into creating a good newspaper. This is not wrong. It is just disheartening sometimes to hear complaints when the things that are really important are not understood or recognized by the reader, only the staff member.

Overall, I am pleased with what has been accomplished this quarter. The emphasis has been on adopting a consistent style, offering the students an appealing newspaper and departmentalizing the news.

Because of the emphasis that was needed on these basic aspects to get the paper in respectable shape, a great deal has been left desired on the editorial page. Issues of national importance, especially, have been treated very seldom and as one reader puts it, there has been a "series of fairy tales" on the editorial page. When these "fairy tales" have appeared in the paper, a few have accomplished what was intended, but many times they have been entirely meaningless to the reader.

I do feel that we have touched on some important issues here at the college, however, and I hope that they have helped in some way to stimulate the students to some new interest in school affairs.

Before closing, one other section in the paper should be mentioned—sports. There is no doubt in my mind that the "swede" has given the paper the best looking sports page it has ever had. The coverage has been thorough, a clear-cut, consistent style has been adopted, the pictures have been magnificent and the page make-up has been very appealing.

Now, it is time for another editor to bow out. A last request is that students remember that the "George-Anne" is the most single powerful organ the student body has and it should be used to push issue after issue. The idea is for the students to support these issues.

Adieu!!

DEATH BLOW—ONE POINT

Pupils Learn Karate, Judo

By RON MAYHEW
Staff Writer

Kaiaaaaaaaa... thud.
Championship competition ended a year of instruction for 12 students Wednesday night in the Hanner Gym.

The match wasn't like a basketball game or a gymnastics meet. There was no yelling at referees, no thunderous applause, and no mat on the floor. The only sound was the rapid, light thuding of bare feet on the gym floor.

The students were competing in Hapkide, a special adaptation of karate, judo, and several other Asian defense techniques.

Points are awarded each time a competitor lands a "death blow" on his opponent with either hands or feet. Three points wins the match, with a double elimination determining the championship.

Roger Butler, one of two Hapkide black belt holders in the United States, is the instructor. One group of students began their study fall quarter with several more entering the class winter quarter.

The course is not officially connected with the school, though permission has been obtained for workouts in the Marvin Pittman gymnasium. "We hope judo will be in the physical education program next year," said Roger, who himself is a P.E. major.

Questioned about the physical danger involved in the program, Roger said that several injuries occurred last fall before the students gained experience. He also explained that in sporting competition the students soften or "pull" their punches and blows to avoid unnecessary injuries. Black eyes, bruises, and cut lips are common, however.

Roger also plans to start a new group this summer. "We think it'll be a real good program because everybody involved in it will have the same amount of experience."

After being confronted with illegal parking and other similar violations, Francis W. Allen judge of the city court of Statesboro, has suggested that a college-owned woodland area be converted into a beautiful public park by day and a private, romantic parking area by evening.

What is your opinion or how do you think the suggestion could be improved?

Barry Brown, soph., Portal: I think that a parking area should be marked off for the students. After all students do need a new place to go that is very private.

Mark Lindberg, jr., Atlanta: Sounds like fun providing the campus security has no jurisdiction over the area.

Leslie Brown, frosh, Moultrie: I disagree that a legalized parking area be set up for college students. I do not feel that this is constructive but rather destructive. Why tell college students that it is alright if they sit or lie in a parked car for their evenings entertainment.

Lynn Kirkland, frosh, Savannah: Yes, I think it is a good idea because parking is going to be done, regardless of the rules. Therefore why not put a legal place for parking? To some people parking is part of social life, and should be done in a safe place.

Linda Murray, jr., Jacksonville, Fla.: I think it would be a good idea since Statesboro is so limited in its recreational facilities. And also since the house mothers object to the students sitting in front of the dorms.

Kelly Hardwick, jr., Macon: I believe a place should be provided because students will have a place to go whether on the campus or elsewhere. It would be safer to park at a designated place on campus.

Christy Warner, soph., Augusta: I think Judge Allen's suggestion is a wonderful idea but I don't think it will go over because when a couple wants to be alone to "park" they want to be "alone," not in a parking lot, no matter how beautiful it is.

B. J. ON SPORTS

By BJORN KJERFVE
Sports Editor

Time passes quickly. Mostly too quickly. A quarter is over before you have even had time to realize that it has started. How often do you sit down, breathing, relaxing, looking back on what happened a week ago, a month ago? I never have time to. Perhaps it is the same with you. A review of what has happened on the sports fields during the quarter therefore could be of interest.

Basketball first. The Eagles ended their season by finishing second in the NAIA tournament in Kansas City, Mo. In the final they got beat by Oklahoma Baptist, 88-59.

More things were to happen in basketball though. At the tournament Jimmy Rose and Bill Pickens were picked for the All-Tournament Team.

The first days of this quarter the news release arrived saying that Jimmy Rose had been appointed to the NAIA All-American Team. Funny though that Rose did not receive honorable mention to the three All-State of Georgia Teams. The Atlanta newspapers select the players for the state teams.

Coach J. B. Searce was named Coach of the Year by the Atlanta Tip-Off Club. In spite that he lead the Eagles to the NAIA final he was not even considered for the Atlanta press' Coach-of-the-Year-Award. Obviously the Atlanta newspapers have something against Southern and its basketball.

More basketball. Recently Jimmy Rose was picked to go with the NAIA All-Star Team to the Far East this summer playing exhibition games. As tour manager on that trip serves a coach that the Atlanta press did not even rank among the coaches in Georgia in spite of his 26-6 season. Yes, the coach is J. B. Searce. Searce seems to have a better name across the nation than he has in the Atlanta press.

The baseball Eagles did not have their best season this year. 19-12 was the record. The big disappointment was that the Eagles did not make it to the NAIA Area VII baseball tournament for the first time since 1958.

There was some sunshine too. Freshman Ken Szotkiewicz batted strongly, hitting nine home runs, Beating Bo Warren's 11 years old record of eight.

Szotkiewicz did not get the best batting average. Freshman Rick Ward passed him at the end of the season scoring .337 against Szotkiewicz's .330.

For the first time Southern had two baseball teams. Except for the varsity also the junior varsity team, where promising freshmen and secondary players get a chance to prove their ability. The JV team's record was 6-9.

The tennis team did not have a winning season, 8-9, but still this year was the best the netters at Southern have ever had.

The linksmen did all right with a season record of 6-7-1. The most outstanding round was Jimmy Flander's fantastic score of 69 a couple of weeks ago against Valdosta.

The best match as a whole was the 9.5-8.5 win over Erskine College. The Flying Fleet before the meet had won all of its 11 matches played during the season.

Scearce Travels East with Rose

By HUBERT NORTON
GSC Sports Publicist

Coach J. B. Searce, athletic director, has been named tour manager and assistant coach for the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics All-Star team that will play exhibition games in the Far East this summer.

All-America guard Jimmy Rose was named to the squad in an earlier announcement from NAIA headquarters in Kansas City, Mo.

"This is quite an honor," said Searce. "My duties will be to handle accommodations, travel plans, although everything will be set up beforehand. I also will help out with coaching the team."

Searce was named to the position because of leading the Eagles to the second place in the NAIA tournament in Kansas City last March.

Bob Bass, basketball coach at Oklahoma Baptist University, will serve as head coach of the All-Stars. Oklahoma Baptist defeated Georgia Southern, 88-59, for the NAIA championship.

The All-Star team will be composed of five members from the Oklahoma Baptist squad and five NAIA All-America selections. The Oklahoma Baptist players are Al Tucker, Jim Hagan, R. B. Lynam, Cleavell Scott and Charles Stewart.

The All-America players named to the squad by Bass and NAIA officials are rose, Kenneth Wilbur of Central State of Ohio, Pat Gammell of Pacific Lutheran (Wash.), Earl Beechum of Midwestern Texas, and Henry Logan of Western Carolina.

"There are some pretty fair basketball players on this team," observed Searce. "Everybody pretty well knows what Al Tucker can do. We played against everybody except Logan and Gammell in the national tournament. They're all top-notch material."

The team will play exhibitions in Malaysia, Singapore and other places-to-be-named later between July 20 and September.

"We will probably spend about five days on the Oklahoma Baptist campus practicing together before we leave," concluded Searce.

In addition to playing exhibition games, the team will take part in the instructional clinics as a team in each country visited.

Baby Baseballers Start Strongly, Expire Quickly Losing Last Four

By DAN RAHN

The Southern Junior Varsity baseballers wound up their season with a record of five wins against eight losses.

The Baby Eagles started the season strong, with three wins in the first four games, then tapered off, winning only two of the next five contests, and closing the season with a four-game losing streak.

Coach Bob Backus summed up the Baby Eagles' season, "We didn't do as good as we expected."

"We couldn't hit—that was the main thing. If you can't hit, you can't win. Of course, we lost Rick Ward and Tim O'Leary—that took away a lot of hitting and a good pitcher."

Other than Ward and O'Leary, Backus singled out Jerry Gerrard as the best player for the Junior Varsity. "Jerry played good for us all year. Mickey Harmon did a good job defensively."

Assistant coach Tommy Thomas added to Backus' comments, "We learned a lot—that's for sure."

Teaches Much, Races Little

By RON MAYHEW

"When I was little and it was raining my mother could always find me in the mud puddles."

So narrated Walter Coleman, triple gold medal winner in the recent Spring Swing swim meet, when asked how his aquatic endeavors originated.

"Actually I used to be afraid of the water," he continued,

"but I more or less taught myself to swim after flunking a beginner's course."

Walter has been lifeguarding and teaching swimming for nine summers in his home town, Brunswick, the first eight at a city pool, with last summer's activities moving to the more inviting atmosphere of the Brunswick Country Club.

Asked his favorite age group for teaching, he replied, "Any age but adults. Once they're grown you can't get them over their fear of water. A little kid will do almost anything for you."

What do you like best about lifeguarding? Walter grinned. "I like the salary second best," he replied.

During his early high school years he occasionally swam in competition, winning firsts in freestyle and butterfly events for his city recreation team in a local championship meet.

There was obviously some carryover value into the recent Spring Swing aquatic competition. He placed first in each of the three individual events he entered, freestyle, backstroke, and individual medley.

Both a teacher and competitor, Walter lists his biggest thrill as seeing a pool sitter become a swimmer. "That's the most rewarding part of it all," he said, "when you see a kid like that learn to enjoy the water."

Depth Is Golf Team's Strength

Radovitch Pleased with Season

By JOHN EDEN
Staff Writer

The Eagle golfers, after dragging through the first half of a tough schedule with a 2-6 record, made a rousing comeback to end the 1966 season 6-7-1 the only team to tie undefeated Valdosta State.

Frank Radovitch, golf coach, said, "The team and I were dissatisfied with the first half of the season, but we were very happy with the way things turned out on the downhill side."

As far as the season record goes, this team did not do as well as golf teams of the past few years, with a perfect 8-0 record in 1964 and 7-4 in 1965. This year, however, the teams played were stronger and bigger.

"Man for man, the Wofford team was the best we played this year," commented Coach Radovitch. "Erskine and William and Mary were tough too."

"Quite a few teams had fine golfers in the first and second spots but were relatively weak in the third and fourth. That was where our main strength lay — we had real good number-one and number-two men, and our three and four spots were just as strong," added Radovitch.

Coach Radovitch picked Valdosta as the team to watch out for next year. "Valdosta has a young team and didn't lose a match. They will be real tough next year," he said.

"We are losing four of our top men," the coach said, "and since golf is on a strictly voluntary basis, we'll just have to wait and see who comes out before we'll know anything about next year's team."

Golfers Jimmy Flanders, Hank Lehwald, Wright North, and Louis Miller are graduating this year, leaving Randy Hill, Harold Varn and Bobby Gastley as veterans for next year's team. Coach Radovitch expressed hope that the team would get other experienced players in junior college transfers who come out.

When asked about any incidents of interest during the season, the big coach replied, "On the golf team? No, we just played it straight! We enjoyed the road trips, but we just went to the course, played the match, and came home."

Coach Radovitch added that he and the team were grateful to Paul Carr, who served as co-coach for the golf team, and accompanied it on trips when Radovitch could not get away.

Jimmy Flanders played the best round of the season with his three under par 69 game, on the Forest Heights course, against Valdosta State May 5 when the Eagles tied the Bears. This was the best score for a Southern golfer since 1962, when Bill Johnson shot a 69 on the same course.

Hank Lehwald ran Flanders a close second, rounding the course one under for a 71 against Augusta College.

Flanders shot consistently low during the season, ending with the best average score on the team, 75. Lehwald came just under Flanders, averaging 75.5.

Other averages for the Southern golfers were: Wright North 76.3, Randy Hill 77.7, Harold Varn 78.5, Louis Miller 78.6, and Bobby Gastley 78.8.
