Campus Life Enrichment Group Schedules Four Performances

By ANN VAUGHN

The Campus Life Enrichment Committee has scheduled four major performances for the 1966-67 school year, according to Dr. Jack Broucek, chairman.

The featured performances are the American Folk Ballet, the Zurich Chamber Orchestra, American Theatre Production of "Luv" and Espinosa, guitarist.

The American Folk Ballet has nearly 50 dancers, actors, and singers, with a pit orchestra. They will present a full-length, fully-staged, costumed, and lighted production called "Winter at Deep Creek". The presentation depicts the constant dangers of early settlers as they banded together in rough-hewn forts and prairie communities.

The critics of the American Folk Ballet have said, "The West is still a magic work in the farthest reaches of our globe. They have tried to capture this open, exuberant, spontaneous spirit. There was enough of everything to go around . . . thus making people generous, friendly, open, gregarious."

The Zurich Chamber Orchestra, a group of 40 musicians, will appear on campus Feb. 9.

Their repertory ranges the master-works of the classics, romantic and contemporary periods.

The orchestra's personnel consists of six first and six second violins, four violas, three cellos, double bass and combale.

The American Theatre Presentation of "Luv" will be staged on March 9. The cast is expected to include one top television or Hollywood star.

Espinosa, who toured as the feature guitarist with the Jose Molina Bailes Espanoles and appeared on campus last year, is appearing again April 25.

Dr. Broucek added that several dates and possibly other performances have still not been confirmed. He said that the committee has been especially careful to present as widely varied a schedule as possible so that the presentation will include something for everyone.

Members of the 1966-67 Campus Life Enrichment Committee will be appointed later this summer, with student members being chosen by Student Congress President James Stapleton and faculty members selected by Dean of Students Dr. Ralph K. Tyson, he concluded.

Calloway to Speak Mon. In Marvin Pittman Auditorium

By RON MAYHEW

Republican 3rd District Congressman Howard (Bo) Calloway will address students, faculty, and visitors here Monday in Marvin Pittman Auditorium at 8 p.m., according to James Swanner, chairman of the Young Republicans Club, which is sponsoring the appearance.

After a 7 p.m. arrival at Statesboro Airport, Calloway will be driven to the campus for a coffee in the Williams Center. The half-hour reception is for platform guests, faculty members and the Young Republicans.

"Chiefly Political"

The 8 p.m. speech, according to Swanner, will be "chiefly political" with Calloway emphasizing his gubernatorial campaign platform.

After a welcome by Swanner, Calloway will be introduced by Francis Stubbs, vice-chairman of the Georgia Young Republican Federation.

Special Guests

Several prominent local and regional Republican leaders have been invited as platform guests. Among these are Porter Carswell, GOP candidate for the first district congressional seat who spoke at the college several weeks ago; Jay Gardner, chairman of the Chatham County executive Republican Committee; Robert Morris, chairman of the Bulloch County Republican party; and Beatrice Franklin, member of the Bulloch County Executive Committee.

Calloway, a native Georgian, was educated in the state's public schools and at Georgia Institute of Technology. He later graduated from the United States Military Academy in the top 10 per cent of his class.

Civic Leader

After serving in the infantry during the Korean War, he returned to Georgia as president of the Ida Casen-Calloway Foundation. He is a past member of the State Board of Regents and has served on numerous advisory councils for local, state and national civic organizations.

The Calloway gubernatorial campaign was officially kicked off in Columbus on July 4. In the November general election he will face the winner of a six-man race for the Democratic primary victory.

Leadership Seminar Sets Goals for 'Best' School

A speech by Dr. Dale Baughman, noted author and authority on junior high school, opened two days of speech and discussion during the leadership conference on junior high education held at the college this week. The conference was held in the Williams center and sponsored jointly by the division of education and the State Department of Education. During the two days educators in the junior high field outlined requirements for the best possible school. Among the speakers was J. V. McCullough, conference consultant and director of curriculum in the Meridian public schools, Meridian, Miss., who spoke on "Implementing the Junior High Idea."

Two principals, Carl Sasser, Arnold Junior High School, Columbus, and W. Harvey Kitchens, Crisp County Junior High School, Cordele, reported on "Improving Instruction Through Evaluation."

Dr. John Lounsbury, chairman of the education department at Woman's College of Georgia at Milledgeville, spoke on "Certification Accreditation in the Junior High School."

Mrs. Juanita Abernathy and Mrs. Miley Mae Hemphell, consultants in Reading and Language Arts, Georgia State Department of Education, discussed the teaching of reading in the junior high curriculum.

Between speeches, discussion groups reviewed and questioned points made by the consultants.

In his first speech Dr. Baughman, associate professor of education at the University of Illinois, said that "junior high school must be a real community. See JUNIOR HIGH . . . Page 3

APO DANCE

The "Yo-Yo's", currently appearing on Jacksonville's WAPE, were featured at a dance in the Alumni Gymnasium last week by Alpha Phi Omega. Among the group's hit recordings are "Cry to Me" and "Lonely Is the Night." Attendance at the dance, according to an APO spokesman, was excellent.

"EASY NOW"

The home economics division received 16 new pieces of equipment this week including 6 ranges, 4 refrigerators, 3 dishwashers, 1 freezer, 1 automatic washer and 1 automatic dryer. The appliances will be placed in the home management house, foods and equipment laboratories and nursery school. Each will be replaced on a school replacement plan with each major model change.

NIGHT SERVICE

A night depository box for books would be a convenient addition to the library.

Such a facility has been used successfully in many public and university libraries.

Working patrons need not worry about returning books after hours. Reserve books checked out only over night could be returned at night after library hours or in the morning before classes.

Such a convenience might reduce the number of overdue books, the reason for such delinquency often being inconvenience.

ADDED CONVENIENCE

The library's student lounge has proven to be a welcome convenience for students who wish to take a short break from studying, smoke a cigarette, or study with others.

The addition of Coke and candy machines would make it even more convenient. Pessimists might immediately say that the idea is bad because patrons would take cups out of the area and leave them throughout the building. Such problem could be regulated easily by the checker at the main entrance. It would be impossible to take cups out of the basement area without being detected.

SANFORD STALEMATED

The auxiliary vending company and the students in Sanford Hall were stalemated for several days this week. Men stayed thirsty while the vending machines were unplugged.

Students had been inserting slugs in the machines in typical childish fashion. The culprits were punished (maybe) along with all 99 percent of the innocent students; at the same time the college was losing money on the machines.

The college relented and connected the machines, realizing that this was not the answer to the problem. Perhaps they decided to let the government catch the slugmakers as their offense is a Federal one.

Surely college men are mature enough to realize that they could work and earn a dime in less time than is required to file a penny down to the correct size.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"I UNDERSTAND HE GIVES A VERY STIMULATING LECTURE."

Right of Administration Seizure Well Guarded by Administration

By RON MAYHEW

Appearing on the opposite page is a letter to the editor expressing the views of one student who saw a campus security officer searching an automobile.

college's position on the "rights" of students.

Signs Contract

In theory a student sacrifices many of his "constitutional" rights when he applies for admission to college. It is his own choice, however, since it is he and he alone who signs the application, agreeing to abide by the college's rules and regulations.

Put in this light the problem of discipline would seem quite simple. A student signed a contract in order to attend college. If his actions are in breach of the contract, the college has a perfect right to suspend its end of the bargain (providing the student with an education.)

Second Chance

The solution, fortunately, is not so iron-clad. A student who errs is, more time than not, given another chance to exhibit more acceptable behavior. Certainly the college isn't required to maintain a system of disciplinary probation. It could, if it wished, merely expel students for rule infractions rather than allowing them a second chance.

According to Dean of Students Ralph K. Tyson the college makes certain provisions, respecting the rights and privacy of its students despite the fact that it is in no way required to do so.

"Seizure"

A policy of "administrative seizure" is the Personnel Office's official position on this question. Dr. Tyson added that two avenues of approach are thus opened for administrative procedure.

An official of Student Personnel Office may, with the student's permission, search an automobile or dormitory room.

Legal Warrant

If the student chooses to deny this permission, then the administrative officer must then obtain a legal warrant for search. Dean Tyson stressed that security personnel are delegated the responsibility of traffic and safety on campus.

Problems of search and seizure remain the concern of the dean of students.

Position Is Good

The administration's position on this issue is a good one. Obviously it would greatly facilitate disciplinary action to authorize immediate search and seizure by any security or administrative official and the college has every right to do so.

It is well to consider, however, that the rights of the individual students are taken into account before the formation of such policy.

Tired Grunts... Weary Faces... Rehearsal Time

SCENE: The McCroan auditorium was hot, dusty, and stuffy. The seats had the empty, half-up, half-down, look that is usually found in a theatre before, after, or between productions. The Masquers are seated listening to rehearsal of The (Comparitively) High-Brow Revue. Singers on stage complete "This Little Light of Mine" to the sound of scattered applause. The director makes some suggestions and the song is done over again. Words are corrected.

VAUGHAN

"Just a little more pep," one member of the group suggests, and the song is done over one more time. Hot beams of light beat down on already tired faces, some mascara runs, hair falls out of place. A few grunts and groans about the "furnace," but things go on with cold drinks brought by faithful friends.

This reflects diligence in the pursuance of a goal. The goal in this instance is the professional performances of a revue. The results of this same diligence and desire for perfection, has been seen in each of the Masquers performances this year.

PROPS: Dirty, sweaty, boys clad in cut-off jeans, wet shirts hanging out of jeans, and dirty, holey tennis shoes, push the piano into the beam of light from the central spotlight. In the Masquers there has been a job for everyone. Though each member does not have the ability to portray a stage character, each one has a consuming interest in performing as part of a team.

MOOD: The esprit de corps of this group allows little room for jealousy. You find mutual respect for the individual talents of the several members.

ACTORS: The Masquers do not seek only dramatically inclined students who desire careers on the stage. If they did there would never be a performance. The director and other veterans of the McCroan stage work long and often with the new actors helping to develop skills in the stage production. There is often opportunity for students to try their hand at the task of producing a play.

DIRECTOR: The Masquers group owes much to their sponsor and director, Robert Overstreet. His leadership falls into one of several roles — teacher, confidant, critical instructor and slave driver (often).

He strives for perfection as should every public entertainer. His understudies imitate him as they soon grow to realize that nothing less than the best will do. His words of praise are well earned and often long-sought.

ACT III, LAST SCENE: At last everything is ready for the big show. The members of the show leave for the dorms realizing that there is still much academic work to keep up with. This is a group of people who have been able to associate themselves with the college and become involved in representing it well. Their public image is one which should be admired and supported.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Security Is Questioned

Statesboro, Ga.
July 13, 1966

Dear Editor,

I feel the campus policeman does not have the right to open and search an individual's car without first notifying the person responsible for the car, either the owner or student of the owner. The United States Constitution guarantees this right in the fourth amendment to all persons in the United States, on a school campus or elsewhere.

On Tuesday, July 12, 1966, several members of a 7:30 class watched the officer open and rifle through two cars, one a green and white Rambler from Millen and a maroon and white Chevy from Bulloch County.

I feel very strongly that the two cars in question should have been ticketed for their violations, but not rifled the way they were. (violated rules No. 16.)

As stated in vehicle operation rule No. 3 "... whenever it is requested by security personnel ... vehicles operated on campus are subject to search". This implies that, and I agree it should be, the vehicle operated on campus by students can be searched without having to obtain a warrant, but only with the knowledge of the owner or person responsible for said vehicle.

In doing this and allowing this to be done is the security officer or the college assuming the responsibility for the loss or damage of the contents of these cars? By judicial law any person seen entering personal property shall be liable for the ensuing loss.

We as students are ordered in rules number 26 and 27 to show respect for the uniform of the security officer. Should not the individual wearing this uniform respect our guaranteed rights? Or is the administration of this college going to allow the beginnings of a "police state" to be instilled in the patterns of learnings of its students.

A concerned student,

'Refined Speech' Course

Dear Editor:

So two young ladies, one a junior and one a senior, dislike the extra 10 minutes of class periods because their tails and fannies get tired.

Replying on their own level, may I say I can think of one other way to give them a sore derriere. (That's French for behind).

Since the "George-Anne", an excellent organ by the way, freely prints demands for increasing student comfort and well-being on the part of the administration, may I offer a suggestion for cultural rather than physical improvement.

Why not a daily 30-minute course, required, not elective, in a refined use of the English language for college students. Surely half an hour would not be overtaxing in any way. Of course this might cause conflicts with other academic schedules. But the administration could worry about that. This would give them something to do.

Mrs. Margaret S. Carroll

EDITOR'S NOTE: We agree!

Extra Students To Be Evicted

It is no longer lawful for more than one student to receive mail in only one box, according to Harold Tillman, branch superintendent of the Statesboro Post Office.

Tillman added that the U. S. Postal Service has, in the past, made exceptions to this ruling, due to the small, inadequate size of the former college post office. With the opening of the new post office facility there are now sufficient boxes for one to be issued to each individual student.

If mail arrives for anyone other than the original renter of the box, he added, it will be placed in general delivery for 10 days. If it is not claimed, it will then be returned to the sender.

"Mail boxes may be rented for 90 cents per quarter", Tillman said, "and it will greatly help us if all students will rent their own boxes as soon as possible."

GARFUNKEL

Dead Garfunkel,
Why doesn't the college keep freshmen and sophomores from having automobiles on campus?
Hotrodder

Dear AAA,
The college doesn't have to. Other enemies of the freshmen and sophomores have dug holes in the roads and have erected speed breakers, and by the end of the summer, no one will have an automobile.

Garfunkel

Dear Garf,
Why do all those people gather by the lake every evening after supper? Do they really practice karate?

Oddjob

Dear Goldfinger,
There are two groups who gather by the lake. One group tries to stone the ducks with left-over dining hall bread, and the other group tries to salvage stray tennis balls using karate as a front.

Garf

Dear Garfunkel,
When are they going to tear that old Music Building down?
Progress smiles

Dear Progress,
They can't tear it down yet. The new Fine Arts building isn't ready, and the Music Building has the only Coke machine that really works.

Things go better
Garf

Dear Garfunkel, ...

I was surprised to find that the rooms in Dorman Hall were so small. Why didn't they build larger rooms?

Cramped

Dear Cramped,

I saw only one room in Dorman Hall and it was quite large. Nevertheless, I could not understand why they built 125 closets.

Garf

Dear Garfunkel,
So far you have avoided politics, I can't let you do that. Who do you think is going to be elected in the upcoming elections?

Polly Tishen.

Dear Polly,
Right now things look pretty Gray, but I think it will work out more Ellis. Georgia is a good state and I think we can Carter through this mess, Lester name be shamed. There are so many Byrds in the race, I don't know how much Bo any of them, so all I'll say is Garf for Gove!!

All-Star Cast Masquets' Su

This week's "Comparatively" High-Brow Revue was the result of many weeks preparations and a remarkable blending talent from widely varied media.

Mezzo-soprano Mary Ann Overstreet opened the program with three vocal numbers. She was accompanied on her first two arrangements by Mrs. Fred Wallace on the piano and on the last piece by Mike Martsof with a guitar.

Dr. Fielding D. Russell was the next attraction as he read Uncle Remus' story of the Tar Baby to an attentive Brinson Overstreet.

Charles Parker was next with a rendition of several popular piano compositions, followed by Linda Welden and Wendell Ramage reading from "Spoon River Anthology" by Edgar Lee Masters.

After a 15-minute intermission Carl Hendrix delivered a baritone version of "Swing Lo, Sweet Chariot" and "Georgia on My Mind."

Changing the tempo slightly Dr. Robert Lewis demonstrated three of more than 1300 different styles on the flute. Lynn Mullis accompanies him on the piano.

Dreena Toler was featured next reading selections from the works of Emily Dickinson.

Nancy Rowland, accompanied by Mrs. Fred Wallace, gave operatic solo performances from the works of Schubert, Wolf, Hahn and Gounod.

The evening's finale featured the New Chimney Corner Singers with a repertoire of folk music.

By JOE CRINE
Staff Writer

John Barringer capped a five run rally in the bottom of the sixth with a two run homer to give the Dixie Darlings a 6-5 victory over Knight Hall and the summer intramural softball championship.

Other hitting stars for the Dixie Darlings included Cleve Tidwell with two homers and Joe McDaniel with three hits. Joe Mercer blasted two homers to lead Knight's attack. Russel Brown was the winning hurler for the Dixie Darlings.

The Dixie Darlings won the crown with a 5-0 record. Knight Hall and the Graduate Flunkies tied for second with identical marks of 3-2. Third place went to the Blue Devils with a 2-3 mark. Fifth place resulted in a tie between the Podunks and the Swingers with 1-4 marks.

In other final contests, the Graduate Flunkies defeated the Podunks and the Blue Devils downed the Swingers.

The championship contest was dominated by Knight Hall until the bottom of the sixth when the Dixie Darlings erupted for five runs to overcome a four run deficit. A victory by Knight would have resulted in a tie between the two teams and required another game to decide the championship.

The Illinois educator noted that he could not imagine a principal or teacher without a sense of humor trying to teach an adolescent. He stressed this idea, entertaining his audience with jokes and anecdotes.

Adolescence is a time of "psycho-social stress", according to Dr. Baughman. The junior high school must meet special problems of the adolescent and fill the gap between general education of elementary school and specialization of high school. The school must acquaint the student with many areas to give him a base upon which to enter society.

"... AND FROM HERE"

Eagle Coach J. B. Searce marks his world map with a 30,000 mile line, indicating the first of the team's dozens of stops throughout Europe and the Far East. Before his departure today he gave one of his tournament-championship balls an affectionate pat for good luck.

Coach J. B. Searce Jr., and All-America guard Jimmy Rose will leave Baltimore on July 19 for a seven week National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics tour of the Far East.

Searce and Rose were selected after the Eagles' placed second in the NAIA National basketball finals last year. Also along on the trip will be Al Tucker, famed all-American from Oklahoma Baptist University, which placed first in the NAIA championships.

Coach Searce is the official tour manager. Rose will play at one of the guard slots.

The specially selected team will first touch down in Rome for an exhibition July 20. From there they will journey to Karachi for a four-day stand.

The next scheduled stop, Lahore, will be the scene of three days of exhibition play. They will then travel to Decca for six days and to Bangkok for two.

The trip's longest engagement, Kuala Lumpur, will last 11 days. Following this stop they will make brief visits to Ipoh, Penang, Melacca, Singapore, Kuching, and Jesselton.

The tour's final leg will consist of a week in Hong Kong and two days in Tokyo. After the Tokyo engagement the team will return to Chicago on Sept. 3.

Hackett Chosen As Consultant

Dr. Donald F. Hackett, chairman of the division of industrial arts and technology, has been appointed to serve as principal consultant in study and evaluation of the National Defense Education Act, Title XI (industrial arts institutes) being conducted this summer.

Dr. Hackett, Dr. Joe Schad of Virginia Polytechnic Institute, and Dr. Robert Stake of the University of Illinois will visit each of five institutes to evaluate the programs and make recommendations for future institutes. The industrial arts institutes, financed and operated by the U. S. Office of Education, are located at colleges and universities in Illinois, Maryland, Michigan, New York and North Dakota.

NDEA industrial arts institutes are designed to provide six to eight weeks of intensive study of a specific area of technology. Participants are experienced teachers from all parts of the country.
