At Tri-County, all forms of academic misconduct—which includes, but is not limited to, cheating on tests, plagiarism, collusion, and falsification of information—are subject to disciplinary actions...Refer to the College Catalog on the College-wide policy.
Faculty Plagiarism Definitions

- Minimal plagiarism
- Substantial plagiarism
- Egregious plagiarism
Minimal Plagiarism

- inserting verbatim phrases of 2-3 distinctive words
- Reordering but not paraphrasing the clauses of a sentence
- imitating the sentence, paragraph, or organizational structure, or writing style of a source
- using a source's line of logic, thesis or ideas
Substantial Plagiarism

• inserting verbatim sentences or longer passages from a source
• substituting synonyms into the original sentence rather than rewriting the complete sentence
• combining paraphrasing with verbatim sentences to create a paragraph or more of text
• repeatedly and pervasively engaging in minimal plagiarism
Egregious Plagiarism

- submitting or presenting someone's complete published or unpublished work (paper, article, or chapter)
- submitting another student's work for an assignment, with or without that person's knowledge or consent
- using information from a campus file of old assignments
- downloading a term paper from a web site
- buying a term paper from a mail order company or web site
Penalties

- Teachable Mistake
