Sports Writer Assumes Post Of Alumni Head

By JOHN EDEN

Billy Deal, 1962 graduate of Georgia Southern and former sports editor of the Savannah Morning News, has been appointed Director of the newly created Office of Alumni Affairs, it was recently announced by President Zach S. Henderson.

Dr. Henderson said, "The main ideal that we have in mind in establishing the Office of Alumni Affairs is to develop and promote a closer relationship between the college and its graduates. We will try to keep them informed on the growth and progress of the college, and we hope that they can be of benefit to us in that they are able to give us their views on the college, and they help build good will. The strength of the Alumni Association is an important factor in the students' idea of the traditional aspects of Georgia Southern College."

Deal said that the main purpose which he hoped to accomplish in the first year is to build the weak Alumni Association into a representative body. Of the approximately 6,000 graduates of Georgia Southern, there are presently only 800 active members, and only 118 of these are paying members, the others being 1966 graduates who were given 1 year's free membership, according to Deal.

"The Alumni Association has been neglected for so long that it will be a difficult task," Deal said, "but I hope to increase the active membership to about 1500 by the end of this year. There has been no alumni bulletin for several years, but I hope we can publish it before the year is out. I also plan to begin sending out a newsletter immediately to build up interest."

Standards Set For Selections To Who's Who

By ANN VAUGHAN

Nominations of students for Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges may be made by students October 3-7, according to Dr. Tully Pennington, chairman of the honors committee. Students who will graduate by August 1967 are eligible for nomination.

CRITERIA

Four points are listed in the criteria for selection of Who's Who:

(1) nominations should involve student - faculty - administration participation.

(2) students nominated by faculty, students, or administration must receive endorsement of 3-4 of the members of at least one academic division before receiving final consideration by Honors Committee.

(3) the group recognized should be large enough to give well rounded representation of the student body but small enough to confine nominations to an exceptionally outstanding group of students.

(4) Nominations for Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges should be based upon careful consideration of the prospective nominees' scholarship, leadership, and cooperation in educational and extra-curricular and promise of future usefulness in American society.

SELECTION PROCEDURE

To begin the selection procedure a roster of senior students shall be prepared.

During the first two weeks of the fall quarter in which the selection is to be made the prepared roster shall be channeled to officers of administration and to the faculty, who shall nominate students for consideration.

The divisional representatives of the Student Congress shall call house meetings in the residence halls and a general meeting of the day students. Copies of the prepared roster shall be circulated, and explained.

Increased Fines to Curb Offenders, States Security

By PAUL HALPERN

The first day of fall quarter saw eight newly revised traffic regulations go into effect on the Georgia Southern campus, all of them concerned with parking violations.

CHANGES

Most of the changes came with an increase in the fines for such offenses, says Mr. Harold Howell, head of Campus Security. "The main reason we have increased the fines," commented Howell in an interview, "is that Georgia Southern is lagging far behind other colleges in the area." He went on to say that the new fines will probably cut down on the number of offenses committed because the student body will be more aware of the regulations with the increase in fines.

All $1 fines will now be $2. These include such misdemeanors as parking in restricted areas, parking out of marked parking places and off-campus students parking in dormitory areas.

The Georgia Southern traffic committee proposed the rules changes and they were approved by President Henderson. The traffic committee is made up of four faculty members and four students.

Marvin Pittman Set For Guidance Study

Marvin Pittman Laboratory school has been named as a pilot project school to study the role of a guidance specialist in the elementary school, according to Dr. Starr Miller, chairman of the division of education.

"The grant comes through the state department of education from the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of the United States," stated Dr. Miller.

The director of the study, Mrs. Martha Haun, is employed to serve as an elementary counselor in the laboratory school of the education division of the college.

Monthly reports and a yearly evaluation submitted to the state department of education will determine whether the project will be continued for five years.

To become a pilot school the project must first be proposed and submitted to the state department. Dr. Miller gave credit to Drs. William L. Hitchcock and Thomas Harris in the educational guidance division and Dr. Walter B. Mathews, advisor of elementary education majors, for their efforts in the project.

Mrs. Haun has taught in Marvin Pittman for several years and received her master's degree in guidance and counseling here. She said her object is to make the child happier so that he may learn better.

Politics Are Active As Pace Increases

As activity on the Georgia political scene begins in earnest with Democratic nominees seriously contested for the first time in modern state politics by Republican candidates, the campus political parties are making plans to assist candidate in campaigning and for "get-out-the-vote" programs on November 8.

The Young Republicans, who met last Monday and appointed an acting committee to direct the club, are manning the Carswell and Callaway Headquarters uptown in Statesboro. They are passing out stickers and posters for both candidates, Porter Carswell of Waynesboro who is the Republican candidate for the First District Congressional seat, and Howard

"Bo" Callaway, a strong candidate in the gubernatorial race.

The Young Democrats, who have been restricted in their activity by the presence of many candidates seeking the party nomination, can now begin actively campaigning for the Democratic nominees. The club is working with the Bulloch County Arnall and Smith supporters, helping man the headquarters for the two nominees, Ellis Arnall, front-runner in the race for occupancy of the new governor's mansion and George T. Smith, candidate for Lt. governor.

The GOP campus club meets this Monday at 7 p.m. in the Student Center, with a program of speakers planned. The Democratic collegians met last

During the summer months, the Young Republicans maintained an active club, sponsoring addresses by several leading Republicans, including Callaway. On registration day they opened a booth for distributing campaign literature and recruiting membership.

The Young Democrats sponsored a campaign booth on campus this summer for Democratic candidates, and joined in a Bulloch County motorcade to Sylvania for an Arnall barbecue and rally.

Sorority Slates
Eligibility Rules

Alpha Gamma Omicron, freshman girls' honor society, will have notification and installation of eligible members by mid-November, reports Dr. Betty Lane, chairman of the division of Home Economics and advisor for the group.

To be eligible, a freshman girl must have a 3.6 average for two of three quarters. Those girls tapped for membership receive an invitation to join, are installed and receive a certificate of merit.

The officers for the coming year are president, Mary Anne Anderson, '68, McRae; vice-president, Elizabeth Ann Lanier, '68, Statesboro; secretary, Marcheta Morris, '68, Fitzgerald; treasurer, Marsha Lynn Waters, '68, Statesboro; historian, Mary Carolyn Madden, '68, Elberton.

Dr. Lane reports that Alpha Gamma Omicron is now eligible to petition a national honor society, Alpha Lambda Delta.

Mandes Announces
Editorial Board
For 'George-Anne'By NANCY JENKINS
Staff Writer

Ann Vaughan has been named editor of the "George-Anne" by Ric Mandes, faculty advisor.

Working with Miss Vaughan will be Ron Mayhew as Managing editor and Bjorn Kjerfve as Sports editor. Danny Digby will serve as Business manager.

Cindy Carson and Pat Groover were named co-News editors. When asked to comment on the newly ordained double editorship, Miss Vaughan said, "The new printing process has expanded the position of news editor. I feel that two people working together can perform the job more efficiently than one."

Miss Vaughan, a senior home economics major from Tifton, has also served on the "George-Anne" as society editor, news editor, and co-editor. She is a member of the College Home Economics Club.

Mayhew has served as news editor, sports editor, co-editor and managing editor. He is a junior political science major from Atlanta.

Exchange student, Bjorn Kjerfve (B.J.) has worked with the "George-Anne" for three quarters and has been Sports editor for two. Kjerfve is a senior math major from Skovde, Sweden and serves as treasurer of student congress.

Danny Digby will be working his second quarter on the business staff of the paper. He will be assisted by Carol Anderson. Digby is a sophomore business major from Covington, and Anderson is a sophomore from Claxton.

Miss Carson, a senior Psychology major from Savannah, is serving her first quarter on the staff, while Miss Groover, a sophomore Education major from Savannah, has served three quarters as a reporter.

A total of thirty new staff members have joined the "George-Anne" and will attend a journalism workshop once a week.

Miss Vaughan anticipates several changes in the "George-Anne." She said, "We hope to have a literary section of the paper including book reviews, short stories, and other contributions by students. To add diverse opinion to our editorial page we have scheduled a series of guest columnists."

nations of the program and the selection criteria shall be made by representatives of the council. Student nominations for consideration shall be made by the assembled groups, and reported by the council representative to the chairman of the honors committee.

Heads of the academic divisions shall in divisional meetings circulate copies of a prepared roster containing names of students nominated through the procedures outlined above. The program shall be reviewed and nominations shall be made by the assembled groups, and reported by the heads of the divisions to the chairman of the honors committee. Only students receiving 3-4 endorsement of at least one academic division shall be eligible for final consideration.

The honor committee shall select finalists from the list of students receiving endorsement of 3-4 majority of faculty members voting as an academic division.

The Office of Alumni Affairs is located in the same office complex as the Public Relations Office, but is an independent and separate office, Deal noted. Serving as secretary for Deal is Helen Drew.

Deal worked for the Savannah Morning News and attended Armstrong Junior College after graduating from Savannah High. He was editor of the Armstrong college newspaper. Deal came to Georgia Southern in 1960, where he wrote a weekly column for the George-Anne until he graduated in 1962. He returned to work for the Savannah Morning News and was Sports Editor from 1965 until he came to the new position at the college last month.

'South Pacific' Auditions Planned For Oct. 5, in Music Recital Hall

Auditions for South Pacific will be held Wednesday, October 5, in the recital hall of the music building at 6:30, according to Don Northrip, assistant professor of music.

Forty parts are to be filled by both musical and reading parts. An accompanist is needed by each person trying out for the musical parts (although one will be available if necessary) and they should use a prepared number. Persons interested in speaking parts should also bring a prepared reading.

The principal singing parts are Nelley, a soprano, Bloody Mary, an alto, Emile, a baritone and Lieutenant Cable, a tenor.

The male speaking parts are Seamen Billis, who does some singing, the Commander, the Adjutant, and the Tonkanise girl, Liat. There are numerous minor speaking and singing roles, plus the chorus.

Winter quarter members of the cast will be enrolled in an opera workshop class with one hour credit given. Grades will be received and the standard quality points acquired.

APO Sets Dance

A dance, sponsored by the Alpha Phi Omega Fraternity, will be held Oct. 6, in the Alumni Gym from 8:00 to 11:00.

The music will be provided by the Dalton Gang, formerly known as the "Yo Yos," from Jacksonville, Florida. The Dalton Gang is led by Ken Fuller, radio announcer for WAPE in Jacksonville.

Fraternity President Wilmont Shealy stated that the group was well received when they performed at a dance here last year.

Admission will be $1.25 in advance and $1.75 at the door. Informal attire will be worn at the dance.

This dance will be the first of many activities planned by APO for this year.

Political Science Club Announced

Plans are underway to form a club for students interested in governmental and public affairs, elections, and professional government careers, according to Dr. Otis Stephens, professor of political science.

An announcement of an organizational meeting date will be made at a later date, he added.

Dr. Stephens stressed that the organization will in no way be restricted exclusively to political science majors but will welcome any student who is interested in government. The club's purpose, he continued, will be to provide members with an opportunity to discuss politics and gain information about professional careers and national levels.

He added that political office holders as well as individuals from governmental agencies will be invited to address the organization.

John Lindsey Gets Ed. D. Degree On August 13 in FSU Ceremonies

John Lindsey, professor of education, was awarded his Doctor of Education degree Aug. 13, at Florida State University.

Research for his dissertation was done in the area of teacher supervision. It was entitled "The Relative Importance of Tasks Performed by Secondary School Supervising Teachers as Perceived by Selected Educational Personnel."

DR. JOHN LINDSEY
Receives Doctorate From FSU

Dr. Lindsey has been on the faculty for eight years and served as faculty adviser to the school's chapter of the Student National Education Association. He has worked primarily in the secondary school teaching program and in the admissions phase of the division of teacher education.

He received his baccalaureate degree from Clemson, Masters from Mercer University and an advanced Masters Degree from Florida State University. His study has been primarily directed into three fields: administration, supervision, and curriculum.

Dr. Lindsey is married to the former Barbara Moore and has two children, John and Julia.

TRAFFIC CONGESTION

During the last academic year traffic congestion has multiplied in two areas of the campus: the intersection of Lake Drive and Georgia Avenue and the intersection of Georgia Avenue and Chandler Road.

The increased congestion may be attributed to four things; the opening of Dorman, Winburn and Olliff Halls, all in this area; the expansion of the University Plaza Shopping Center; the relocation of the U. S. Post Office in the shopping center, and the increase in this fall's auto registration over fall of 1965.

A traffic island at the end of Lake Drive would prevent drivers from crossing out of their lane while turning in Georgia Avenue.

The busy intersection of Chandler Road and Georgia Avenue could be controlled by a traffic light. The light could run a 3-change cycle during school hours and change to a 1-cycle caution light at other times.

These traffic regulators would make driving in this specific area less hazardous.

THE NEW IMAGE

Three new administrators have created a refreshing image in the office of student personnel. Apparently those who are concerned with the recruiting of new administrators have done their job well.

The new dean of men, women, and director of student activities are not sitting behind their desks waiting for students to come to them. They are vigorously involving themselves in campus life. This is evidenced by their presence at every social function held thus far. Certainly they could have stayed home, watched television, read a book, or gone to a movie. Instead they choose to attend student activities.

We welcome this new image.

LIVED HAPPILY EVER AFTER

Once upon a time there was a GSC student. One day this student became ill and went to the college's Health Cottage. After treatment he left, muttering profanity to himself and vowing he'd never go near the place again.

Until past weeks this was all too true. The Health Cottage featured such goodies as wall-to-wall floors, running water, electric lighting, indoor bathrooms and the like.

Improvements have been made. Linolium, walls, pipes, paint, and furniture have been added. All floors have been resurfaced, making it more pleasant and clean. Partitions have divided the old clinic into two smaller but well-equipped treatment rooms. A room has been added which can serve either as a doctor's consultation office or a small laboratory.

Perspiration will not flow so freely as in the past. Central air conditioning has been added. One's first impression as he enters the door is different too. A large personal desk provides ample space for records and files. A cheerful, freshly painted waiting room is another feature.

According to Health Cottage personnel the newly remodeled facility is capable of handling anything short of a major epidemic.

Now when the GSC student is afflicted he still might not like penicillin shots, painted throats, or pills . . . but at least there is now the assurance of being treated in an adequate, well-equipped facility.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

Stapleton Reveals His Ambitions For Student Congress of 1966-67

Without sounding too dull, the student body to match dry and old-fashioned, I would them.

Plans are being laid for class nominations for junior and senior class officers will be held Tuesday night, Oct. 4 at 7:30 p.m. in McCroan Auditorium. Sophomore nominations will be Wednesday, Oct. 5 in McCroan at 7:30 p.m. Freshman nominations will be Thursday, Oct. 6, at 7:00 p.m. in McCroan. We plan to have better solutions to the problems of seating and tickets at the annual homecoming game. Something new this year has also been added. It's called "Eye In the Sky." This is my brainstorm, which is designed to let me know what students want or don't want; how students feel about certain issues; and what students think. I believe that this will really pay off.

I want to thank the editors of the "George Anne" for giving me this opportunity to share some of my thoughts with you. You, the student, need to be informed. If you do or don't like them, please feel free to let me know how you feel. I represent your voice to the administration, and if you are displeased with something, have it changed!

The subject of apathy is my first concern. In the past, Student Congress hasn't been as effective as possible, but that's your fault. That's right. You! This year, Student Congress is going to do something. I promise you that much.

The Annual Fall Workshop began last Friday and this was very successful. We have dances, teas, parties, lectures, and movies planned. Our new bulletin board, giving the week's activities, will be up in two weeks. Places for suggestions and criticism will also be provided. The first Congress meeting will be Thursday night at 7:30 p.m. in the Student Center. The doors are wide open to all interested students. I am positive that there will be some there, because we have a wonderful, energetic, and enthusiastic freshman class. They are ready, willing and a le to work. I challenge the rest of

Also there will be an announcement soon about activity cards for sale. There will be more definite information later.

I don't know about you, but I'm proud to be from Southern. Each and every one of us has a responsibility and an obligation to contribute our efforts toward making this a better school through leadership, fellowship, and cooperation. We are intelligent and rational men and women. There isn't a problem too large that we can't handle if we work together and put our shoulders to the wheel. The sky is the limit and it's up to you!

Congressman's Surprise Visit 'Upsets' Coffee

The first floor of the student center is never a tranquil place, particularly about 10:30 in the morning when the multitudes are gathered around the few tables, drinking coffee, discussing football games, and reading newspapers. It was Tuesday, and a friend of mine and myself were a part of the congregation.

NORTON

I don't really remember what we were discussing—maybe a sick relative of his—when I happened to look at the side door to see who had entered. I saw a familiar face and did a double-take to be sure.

"G. Elliot Hagan?" my friend queried.

"Yeah," I answered dryly, "I didn't know he went to school here."

After a few hearty handshakes, Nash led Mr. Hagan to my table.

The First District Congressman was met at the door by a party of young Democrats—Hoyt Canady, Bill Nash, and Shelton Evans.

When the congressman had worked his way to my table, I was ready for the introduction. I told him I had met him before on a couple of occasions, and he didn't remember me but he was nice about it and stayed and chatted briefly.

I asked him, "It's just about D-Day isn't it?" It was the day before the Democratic Primary runoff, and the incumbent Hagan had to meet State Senator Frank Downing of Savannah for the privilege of running in the general election.

"It surely is," replied Hagan. "It's time for the people of the First District to decide whom they want to represent them. It's their choice, and they'll choose whom they want."

Hagan said he wasn't really thinking about his Nov. 8 date with Republican Porter Carswell of Waynesboro, stating he'd "prefer to cross one bridge at a time."

Personally, I was glad that he didn't say, "I'll cross that bridge when I come to it." After all, how can you vote for somebody who talks in bromides? Former President Eisenhower was good at that, and what did he ever do?

I did ask Mr. Hagan how he felt about facing a man who was running under a Republican tag?

The congressman just laughed and said, "You sound like a good Democrat."

"Independent," was my quick reply.

I then asked him if his visit to Statesboro was an announced one. After all, it isn't everyday that a congressman walks into a college coffee-drinking session, let alone the day before his job is at the mercy of voters.

Mr. Hagan replied that he was supposed to be in Statesboro Monday to speak to a civic club and that he arrived a day late because he had to attend a funeral. The incumbent Congressman and Nash, his unofficial escort, then moved on to another table.

BEVERLY CARLSON
Captures Crown as "Miss See Georgia First"

Beverly Carlson Finds New Title Hectic, Fun

By RON MAYHEW

June 23 was the beginning of a hectic year for Beverly Carlson, Elem. Ed. '69, Dawson.

Following two days of appearances before a panel of judges she won the crown of "Miss See Georgia First 1966."

The judges included Mrs. America of 1964, the managing editor of "Better Homes and Gardens" magazine, and the chairman of Tourism Chicago. The two days, according to Beverly, gave the judges a chance to know all the contestants and observe their poise and reactions in every possible situation. Included among the many tests were an impromptu speech on the state's tourist attractions, swim suit competition, extensive interviews, 8 a. m. breakfast appointments, and tours of Jekyll Island (scene of the pageant).

After their days with judges the contestants spent their nights rehearsing for the pageant.

Beverly's occasional free moments during the three-day competition were spent sleeping. "I had tonsillitis, strep throat, laryngitis and temperature of 101 degrees," she laughed. "Trying to look your best and yet be natural is mighty hard when you're sick."

As "Miss See Georgia First" Beverly's job is to "sell" herself and in so doing sell the state. She has already made several trips to Atlanta, appeared at numerous conventions and spent three weeks in Toronto, Canada at the Canadian National Exposition where she was featured at a Georgia booth.

The coming months will hold more of the same, she predicted. Already scheduled are appearances in Milwaukee, Detroit, Cleveland, Dallas and Chicago. "I'm on call at all times for a convention appearance or anything else that's necessary," she said.

"Miss See Georgia First" is one of a long line of titles for the blonde, green-eyed sophomore. During her first year at GSC she was first runner-up in the Miss Starlight Ball competition, second runner-up in the Miss GSC contest, sweetheart of Alpha Phi Omega, president of Deal Hall House Council, a member of Theta Pi Omega sorority and was voted this organization's most outstanding pledge.

When asked what would be her greatest hardship during her year as "Miss See Georgia First" Beverly laughed again. "I guess it'll be having such a hectic schedule and being on call all of the time . . . but you couldn't call that a problem, that's what I like doing."

?About Rat Caps?

By BECKY SWINDELL

It has been announced that rat caps will be worn until October 15 and for the following two weeks, depending on the outcome of Freshman - Sophomore field day. In the past they have only been worn for one week. The inquiring reporter question is "What is your opinion of the Freshmen wearing their caps after Rat Day?"

Lynn Bradley, Soph., Palmetto: I think it is a very good idea because many professors don't have a chance to get to know their freshman students and the only way you can recognize one is by the rat cap. Margaret Calhoun, Frosh., Macon: I think it's dumb—October 15th is long enough.

Ru'hie Hendrix, Senior, Savannah: Great idea! It unites them as a group, increases school spirit, and is good for identification.

Gene Snyder, Jr., Brunswick: Those rats will probably eat them before Thanksgiving anyway.

Barry Richardson, Soph., Brunswick: Most universities have longer rat periods and I think it's a good idea—if it's continued on through the years. It shows the spunk of the frosh class.

Vaughn Avera, Frosh., Macon: It's all right with me because it's a school activity.

Campus Life Enrichment Series

The Campus Life Enrichment Committee has scheduled four major performances for 1966-67 school year, according to Dr. Jack Broucek, chairman.

The featured performances are the American Folk Ballet, the Zurich Chamber Orchestra, American Theatre Production of "Luv" and Espinosa, guitarist.

Dr. Broucek says, "We have been especially careful to present as widely varied a schedule as possible so that the presentations will include something for everyone."

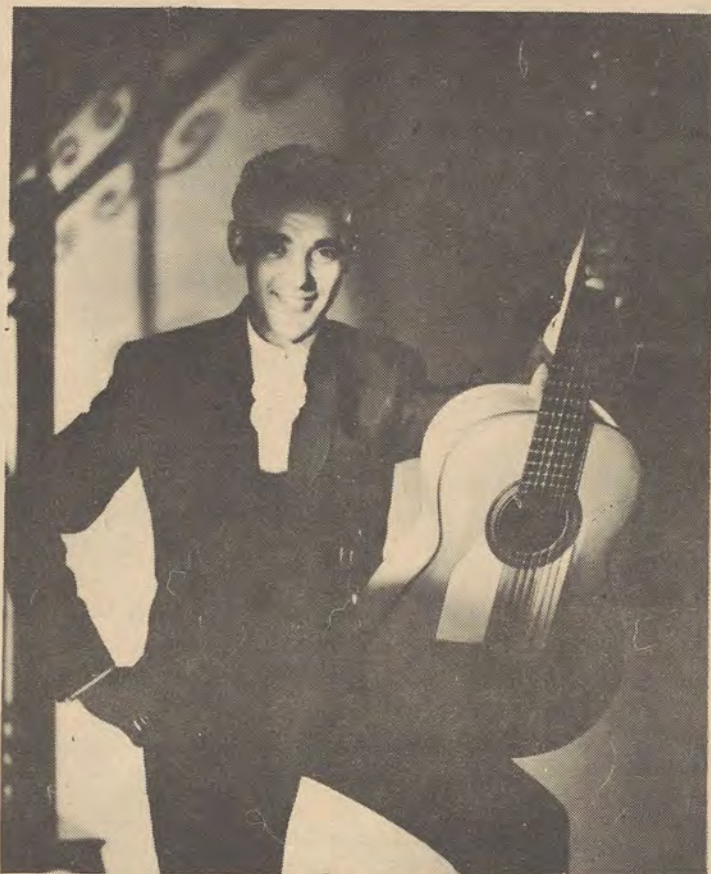

He continued, "All presentations offer free reserved tickets for all students."

11 Appointments Made For New Reflector Posts

Editorships for the 1967 edition of the Reflector, the college annual, have been announced this week.

Leland Rogers, a senior from Macon, Ga., will serve as editor for the yearbook when Penny Stokham acting as associate editor. Penny is a sophomore from Port Wentworth, Ga.

Faculty editor will be Sondra Powers; Class Editor, Johnnie Lee; Photography Editor, Walker Montgomery;

Sports Editor, Allen Brown; Beauties Editor, Mickey White; Organizations Editor, Gordon Turner; Copy Editor, Tom King; and Art Editor, Nancy Jenkins. Charles Winge will act as business manager.

Looking forward to the 1967 edition, Rogers commented that the Reflector will have more copy than in the past, and a different format.

Classics to Play At APO Dance

Alpha Phi Omega fraternity will hold a dance and concert on Oct. 19, in the Alumni Gym. Two name groups, the Classics and the James Gang, will play for the event.

The Classics have appeared on TV's "Where the Action Is" and the James Gang are returning to Statesboro after an engagement here several months ago.

60 Students Participate In Publications Workshop

Approximately sixty students attended the Publications Workshop held jointly by the George-Anne and the Reflector, Georgia Southern's yearbook. The workshop was held Wednesday evening, September 21.

The purpose of the workshop was to find students who are interested in working on the newspaper or annual, to find out what experience and areas of interest these new people have, and to introduce them to the field of college publications.

Mr. Roy Powell, former news reporter-editor, met with the students who wished to join the George-Anne staff. He discussed various problems the reporter encounters in finding and accurately recording a story, the proper approach to use in dealing with people, and the correct way to write news stories.

The yearbook prospects met with Leland Rogers, editor of the Reflector, and discussed the methods used and problems of the yearbook staff. This group used in setting up the annual, ideas for the forthcoming 1967 annual, and jobs of Reflector editors and staff members. Editor Leland Rogers said of the workshop, "Judging from the turnout for the workshop, the Reflector should have a good staff and a good year." Ann Vaughan, editor of the "George-Anne," commented. "This is the biggest turnout that the George-Anne has had in quite a while. I believe that with the help of the new recruits and our returning staff members, we will be able to make many improvements in the 'George-Anne'."

The Economics Club has announced plans for a meeting Tuesday, Oct. 4, in room 112 of the Student Center, at 8:30 p.m.

According to Pete Papadam, president, the purpose of the meeting will be for the majors and minors in economics to become familiarized with club activity and to meet faculty members. Club membership will not be limited to majors and minors.

Cheerleaders To Be Chosen After Training

All men and women students who are interested in tryouts for basketball cheerleader for this season are asked to meet in the Hanner Building on Wednesday, October 5 at 7 p.m.

Mrs. Ron Oertley, who is in charge of this year's squad, has planned a two-week practice session for all those interested. During that time Ruth Hendrix, last year's co-captain, along with members of the gymnastics team will teach special skills and cheering techniques. At the end of the two week session, four freshmen and six varsity cheerleaders will be chosen by members of the physical education department and several of the coaches.

Mrs. Oertley stated that boy cheerleaders have been very successful on other campuses and she hopes that the tradition will be established this year at Georgia Southern.

FROSH TALENT WINNER

Mike Brundage runs through the last notes of his first place act in last Friday's freshman talent night. The show featured the talent of new freshmen and Fall transfer students. Durwood Fincher was master of ceremonies with Larry Duncan handling plans for the 17-act show.

The price of the decals goes down as the academic year wears on. For students entering Winter quarter the fee is $4; those entering school during Spring quarter must pay $3; and the Summer quarter decals are only $2. The price is $3 for night school students.

Deadline for registering cars was Tuesday, September 27. Tickets are being given out now on those cars which do not have decals.

Science Club to Hear Dr. Hames

Dr. Curtis G. Hames, Claxton physician, will address the Science Club on "Humanities and Medicine: What It Means to Me to be a Physician" at its first meeting Monday night. The meeting will be held in room 211 of the Herty Building at 7:00 p. m.

Englishman to American: "What's that noise I hear this time of night?"

American: "Why, that's an owl."

Englishman: "Of course it is, but 'oo's 'owling?"

The wife of a noted TV announcer put her small son to bed and told him, "Now, Ronnie, say your prayers."

"Oh, Lord," mumbled the little fellow, "please bless mamma and papa, and give us this day our slow-baked, oven-fresh, vitamin-enriched bread."

President Joe Skinner pointed out that the programs to be presented throughout the year will give an insight into the various sciences. All science majors are encouraged to join. Students are invited to attend any program which interests them.

B. J. ON SPORTS

By BJORN KJERFVE
Sports Editor

Georgia Southern College is a school with athletic traditions to be proud of. This is especially true with basketball. Whenever Southern is mentioned people think about the Eagles and their basketball success through the years.

Athletic Director J. B. Searce Jr., who is now serving his 20th consecutive year as head basketball coach, is the man to thank for all the glorious cake seasons. Last year he led his team to the second place in the NAIA National tournament at Kansas City, Mo., to mark the top of the Eagles' career . . . the top so far.

That was when Southern ended with a 26-6 record. That was the year guard Jimmy Rose made the NAIA All America team for the second straight year. Only one Eagle player has earlier been named to the first All-America team: Chester Webb in 1955.

RAINED OUT IN PAKISTAN

Together with Jimmy Rose, Coach Searce went with the NAIA All-Star team on a Far East tour during the summer. Quite and honor for the two to be selected. And they seem to have had a jolly good time.

"If we had a ball?" said Rose referring to the seven week trip. "We sure did," he said smiling, looking across the room at Searce who nodded his contentment.

"We got rained out in one game in Pakistan," said Rose. "That surely is the first time that's happened to me."

Searce showed booklets with photos of the players and coaches. You could recognize the faces on the pictures, but to read the text was not as easy. Everything was written in pretty Chinese letters. Not quite everything. In the middle of the text you could find the English words "trap" and "double team". Probably there is no translation of these to Chinese. Searce's well-known initials were also written as we know them. "J. B."

SIX LETTERMEN DISAPPEAR

What can be expected of the basketball season 1966-67? "We've just got to wait and see," Searce said. "We have lost six lettermen; among them three starters."

The three starters that graduated last spring are Don Adler, Bill Pickens and Mike Rickard. The other three lettermen than will no longer represent Southern are Tommy Dial, Lehman Stanley and Jimmy Searce.

It will be difficult to fill their places. Rose and Jim Seely will return though, and with them some other players that have already smelled the sweet and the bitter smoke, tasted blood, lost sweat and got hard bumps in tough varsity battles.

THEY NO LONGER DARE

Every year somebody asks the same question. Why doesn't Southern play Georgia or Georgia Tech in basketball? The answer is simple. It is tough to say so, but it must be the truth. Both schools in spite of their high enrollment are afraid of playing the Eagles.

Southern and Georgia have had nine rough battles through the years. Georgia has won five of them. One of the five wins was in the last meet three years ago. The score then was 70-61 but the previous season the Eagles were victorious, 74-64. Southern has not played Tech since 1960. We lost, 66-53. Six years earlier the Eagles clobbered Tech, 101-81. Our all time record against "big brother" in Atlanta is 2-1 in favor of Southern.

And now it seems as if Georgia and Tech no longer want to risk losing to Southern. "The situation is hopeless," said Searce. "We try to get games all the time, but we'll even have to quit writing them."

They are sissy, afraid of getting beat by small Georgia Southern. That is the only explanation I can think of. The only way for Georgia and Tech to prove that this statement is false would be to play the Eagles, that is . . . if they dare.

COACH SCEARCE . . . AND . . . ROSE
They Spent Seven Weeks in the Far East Last Summer

Searce, Rose Recall Asian Cage Memories

By JOE CRINE
Sports Writer

Coach J. B. Searce and All-American guard Jimmy Rose returned recently from a 48 day basketball tour of the Far East which included stops at East and West Pakistan, Malaysia, Singapore, and Hong Kong.

Searce and Rose were touring with national champion Oklahoma Baptist under the auspices of the Cultural Affairs Department of the United States Information Service.

Searce pointed out that the main purpose of the tour was to give the people of these countries a picture of our way of life. "Sports is the best way to do this," he said.

Eighteen games were played on the tour with the American squad coming out on top in all eighteen. The largest margin of victory was 106 points against the Jehore State tea min Malaysia while the smallest margin was 33 points against Perak in Malaysia.

"We played only a few all star teams," said Searce.

The majority of these games were played outside. "I would say that about thirteen of the eighteen games were," said Rose. "We were treated very well everywhere we went," he said.

Both Searce and Rose were impressed with the hospitality of the people in these countries.

The games made up only a small part of the tour. "We put on basketball clinics and demonstrations for the kids everywhere we went," said Rose. Searce and Rose both felt that American basketball is far superior to basketball in these countries.

"They could probably beat us to death in soccer," said Rose. "Almost everyone over there plays soccer," he said. "Basketball is just not their major sport."

The team spent four days in West Pakistan and five days in East Pakistan. "It is interesting that these two countries are separated by India," Rose said.

"We were told by the people of Pakistan that sports is the best way of communicating our way of life to the people of these countries," Searce said. "Our language and music are foreign to them, but sports is a universal way of communicating with them."

"Hong Kong was the only stop on the tour where score sheets were kept on the game," Searce told.

The team spent 21 days in Malaysia, touring ten states. The game with Parak in Malaysia was played in rain.

There were four teams on tour in the Far East during the summer. "I felt that our team was the best of the four that were out," said Searce. The University of Kentucky was one of the other teams. "I know that we were better than Kentucky because I've seen them play and I know what they have," he said.

Everyone on the American squad had a chance to play but no one stayed in any game for very long. Searce pointed out that no one played more than half of any game, which gave everybody a chance to participate in each game.

Singh Is P.E. Assistant

Will Soon Arrive

By CINDY CARSON
Co-News Editor

Arriving any day in Statesboro is Amarjit Singh who is to become a graduate assistant in physical education at Georgia Southern. Singh is a former lecturer in physical education and basketball coach at the Government College of Physical Education, Patiala, India.

In 1961-62, Amarjit Singh won a foreign scholarship in physical education offered by the German Federal Republic of West Germany, in collaboration with the Ministry of Education, Government of India. This scholarship was for one and a half years study as a guest student in the Institute of Physical Education and Sports in Cologne under the late Dr. Carl Diem.

In college, Singh represented his school in hockey, cricket and track in the Agra University Tournaments in India and in high school he represented his school in numerous other athletic events such as basketball, table tennis, swimming, wrestling, weight lifting, and boxing.

The new graduate assistant is a member of various organizations such as the American Red Cross, the West German Hockey Association, the International Olympic Academy in Greece, and Indian Olympic Academy.

Singh's other activities include: management of Peking Variety Theatre Acrobatic troupe; officiating at various international basketball matches in West Germany, Austria, Holland, Belgium, France, Yugoslavia, and Greece; chairmanship of the referees' board of India, athletic coach and official, Amateur Athletic Federation of India, and honorary member of the Editorial Board of "National Sports," 1956-57.

Baseball Practice

The varsity baseball team is working about now in its annual fall practice session daily at 4 p.m. behind the Hanner Gym and on the baseball field. Coach J. I. Clements said he hopes the squad can work out at least two weeks, if weather permits.

Intramural Activities Start

Flag football, volley ball, and tennis competition will highlight the fall quarter men's intramural sports program, according to Charles Exley, director of intramurals.

Football competition begins Monday. Games start at 4:15 and 5:15 and are played Monday through Thursday on the field behind the Hanner Gymnasium. Games will be played with nine players on each team, five on the line and four in the backfield.

Teams will be divided into two leagues: one league made up of housing units and independent departments; the other of fraternities. Games are played in eight minute quarters with a five minute halftime. No field goals and no kicking count for extra points. Teams must pass or run for these. If a team forfeits three games, it will be barred from intramural sports for the following quarter.

David Hall Named Net Coach

David Hall, graduate biology assistant, was named varsity tennis coach for the 1967 season by J. B. Searce Jr., athletic director.

Hall succeeds Bob Weber, who is working on his doctor's degree at the University of Southern Illinois. Last year Hall served as assistant tennis coach and was a Southern letterman in tennis two years ago.

I have already planned three practice matches this fall, Hall said. I have contacted Macon Tennis Center, Augusta Tennis Center and Savannah Golf Club about games, he continued.

Rats Fall to Sophs

The sophomore class reeled off four victories over the freshman in the annual Rat Day athletic activities. The sophomore men highlighted the day blanking the "rats" 14-0 in the football game.

Quarterback Dick Steele threw for one TD and ran for another to lead the sophomore men to the 14-0 win over the freshman team. David Massey grabbed the TD toss from Steele around the 30 and outran the freshmen secondary for the initial score of the game.

In other games, the sophomore women outclassed the frosh 14-2, in a flag football game. Scoring for the sophs were Charlotte Taylor on a 20 yard jaunt and Quarterback Carol Ann Moore on a 10 yard run.

The sophomore cagers breezed to an easy 60-50 win over the rats. Bob Hendren paced the sophs attack with 22 points.

Hannah Teague poured through 18 points in leading the sophomore women to a 25-16 win over the frosh girls.

Fashion Flairs

Can a shoe originally designed for men make it in a woman's world? That was the question a leading manufacturer of men's shoes asked just three short years ago when they introduced a line of classic moccasins for the gals. And today? Lady Bostonians have it made! Fact is, they're just like his Bostonians. Same handsewn stitches. Same tenderized leathers. Same classic look. Inch for inch. Only smaller. Daintier. They're the best punctuation we know for bell bottoms, textured stockings, kooky coifs... the out and out man-tailored look. Remember the name! Lady Bostonians... and they are available at
