News Editor

Amarjit Singh will attend the World Congress of International Basketball Federation in Mexico City, Mexico for two weeks during October.

AMARJIT SINGH

Singh will be an official delegate to the Olympic Games on behalf of the Basketball Federation of India.

Singh came to the college from Ajmer, India, in 1966 and received his Masters Degree in Physical Education June 1968. As a graduate assistant he taught physical education courses at the college before graduation. He is enrolled as a special student this summer.

Singh was a member of the Indian Olympic Association before coming to America and in 1960 he represented India's National Basketball Federation in the Rome Olympics. He also represented India at the International Olympic Academy in Olympia, Greece, in 1962.

Minish Elected To Regional Post

Dan Minish, sophomore English major, was elected regional coordinator and director for the southeastern region of the Student National Education Association during proceedings at the association's national conference in Houston, Texas. Minish represented the Student Georgia Education Association at the conference.

The southeastern region, largest of the nine national divisions, is composed of Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, North Carolina, Mississippi, South Carolina and Tennessee. The nine states encompass a membership of some 15,000-20,000.

Evans Revises Lecture Series

The Lecture Series Committee, plan more lectures with the aid of the faculty.

"Many faculty members have indicated that lecturers could be obtained at little cost through personal contacts," said Shelton Evans, student activities director.

"This program will aid in securing some of these lecturers," added Evans. "We will also sponsor two general lectures as we have in the past."

Dr. Eidson Assumes Presidency July 1

Dr. John O. Eidson assumed his duties Monday, July 1, as the eleventh president of this college. One of his first official acts was to announce the authorization to establish three schools within the college. The administrative structures are: a Graduate School, a School of Arts and Sciences, and a School of Education. Deanships to these schools have not been announced.

Prior to coming to Statesboro, Dr. Eidson served 10 years as Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences at the University of Georgia. He was a faculty member at the University for 31 years.

A native of South Carolina, the new president received degrees from Wofford College, Vanderbilt University and Duke University. Dr. Eidson was editor of the "Georgia Review," a quarterly literary magazine, from 1950 to 1957. He presently serves as a member of that magazine's editorial board.

Commenting on the presidency, Dr. Eidson said, "I am looking forward to my work at Georgia Southern. It is an honor to follow Dr. Zach S. Henderson in the presidency. Georgia Southern has had a distinguished past, and the years ahead should be good ones. I believe that Georgia Southern has an excellent future."

Dr. Pope A. Duncan became this college's first vice-president July 1. He is a native of Kentucky and received bachelor and master degrees in science from the University of Georgia. The vice-president earned Master of Theology and Doctor of Theology degrees at the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in New York.

Dr. Duncan is the former president of South Georgia College and a former dean of Brunswick Junior College.

"We are very fortunate to have Dr. Duncan in the vice-presidency," Dr. Eidson said.

Moseley Obtains Ph.D. June 8

Charlton Moseley, assistant professor of history, received the Doctor of Philosophy degree from the University of Georgia during commencement exercises June 8.

Dr. Moseley's doctoral dissertation is titled "Invisible Empire: The Ku Klux Klan in Georgia, 1915-1965." He is also the author of "The Case of Leo M. Frank, 1913-1915," which appeared in the Georgia Historical Quarterly in March, 1967.

Dr. Moseley, a native of Bulloch County, graduated from Marvin Pittman High School and received Bachelor of Science and Master of Arts degrees from this college. He has served on the faculty since 1963.

Sigma Pi is sponsoring a watermelon cutting this Tuesday, July 16, from 9:30-11 a.m. by the lake. Dr. Eidson will attend the traditional summer activity.

Dr. Eidson Comments On GSC

This college recently entered a new phase in its rapid expansion program. The man who will guide the development and future plans is a 59-year-old gentleman named John O. Eidson.

Dr. Eidson presently finds his hours crowded with the pressures of occupational orientation. Yet, amid the time consuming activities of the presidency, he manages to meet and talk with the students who visit his administrative office with a problem, request or just a "welcome to Southern" greeting.

The new president feels that the campus tradition of friendliness is a definite asset to the college. He spoke of this intangible asset as he leaned back on his office sofa during a brief interlude in his busy day. Dr. Eidson mentioned the planned July 16 watermelon cutting and a Dorman Hall bar-b-que that he was to attend. Such activities aid in the preservation of the friendliness tradition in the wake of rapid institutional growth he said.

Dr. Pope A. Duncan, vice-president, joined Dr. Eidson in the president's office. The new administrators expressed the hope that they would have opportunities to meet and talk with students whenever possible.

The college should continue to have regard for the student as an individual rather than as an IBM card, Dr. Duncan added. Both men stated that business matters should never crowd out contact with students.

Teaching is their first love, and they miss the classroom relationship with students.

Dr. Eidson said that sometimes the phrase "Publish or Perish" is stressed more than teaching. He feels that teaching students is the main purpose of a college, and that it should be placed above all else.

The president laughed when asked if he would miss the University's football team. He expressed hopes of visiting Georgia during football season, but added that he enjoyed other sports equally well. He expressed a statement of pride in Southern's past basketball, baseball and gymnastics records and said that he looked forward to a continuance of top sports ratings. Many schools fail to stress gymnastics enough, the president feels, but Southern's excellent program has been proved by top ratings throughout the state.

The educators commented on their plans and hopes for the future of Georgia Southern. Both men want the college to attract many more students from junior colleges and to increase the enrollment at the graduate level. Dr. Eidson stated that additional master's degree offerings and more stipends for graduates would increase the graduate program. Both men commented on Southern's strong tradition in teacher education and expressed the hope that the college would move toward granting a doctor's degree in this field.

"Georgia Southern is strategically located in the Coastal Empire for continued, rapid growth," Dr. Eidson said.

Dr. Duncan discussed the college's expansion in the area of construction. He stated that buildings are now in every stage of development, from a newly conceived addition for the science complex to the nearly completed gymnasium. He added that Southern was blessed with enough land for planning.

Dr. Eidson said that the enrollment increase, the authorization for schools within the college and the authorization for a vice-presidency were some of the various signs of expansion in the progress of Georgia Southern.

The new president believes firmly in Southern's future as a distinguished institution of higher learning. As the daily promoter for the college, he will see his hopes and plans materialize.

Contrary to some opinions, this portion of construction is the gym annex, not the indoor swimming pool. Construction is progressing on schedule.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

In the Georgia Southern cafeteria a student can get three meals a day, generally well prepared, for a price much lower than he would find in any restaurant, few students have to wait in line longer than they might have to wait in a restaurant to have the same meal served, and the serving system, though not perfect, is certainly much faster than the system in the Williams Center cafeteria.

Of course the staff, or the system, is not perfect, but it is ridiculous to infer that they deliberately try to make it difficult for a student to be served.

In the past the cafeteria personnel have been responsive to legitimate, specific gripes and I believe they would be again. I find it very disturbing, however, to see the editor of the George-Anne write almost a full column with no other purpose than to just generally run down the cafeteria and its staff. It was obviously a case of not having anything else to write about, so back to the old standby of knocking the school cafeteria. I suggest that if the editor has nothing better to do with her time, she might spend it trying to find ways to improve the quantity and quality of the George-Anne.

JIM HENRY

Editor's Note: Sorry that you are disturbed. I find it very distressing to see a student misinterpret what I have written. May I suggest that you re-read the column, bearing in mind the clues of student rudeness and architectural disorganization.

Dear Editor:

I am not complaining about the food in the dining hall or the service, but I would like to make a suggestion about the serving hours. Since we have only one cafeteria open to accommodate more than half the usual enrollment, I think the serving hours are too short for breakfast and dinner.

I suggest the serving line remain open until 8:30 a.m. for breakfast and the dinner serving line open at 5 p.m. rather than 5:30 p.m. I am sure this would allow more students to have breakfast and the dinner lines would not be as long.

Career Clinic Set for July

Approximately 50 Georgia high school students are participating in a career clinic this month at the college, according to Dr. William L. Hitchcock and Dr. Kamp Mabry, supervisors of the clinic.

School counselors at the clinic will work with students on vocational and educational concerns. The program, sponsored by the Counselor Education Program, began on June 24 and runs through August 2.

Students participating in the clinic have an opportunity to meet with counselors to discuss plans for educational and vocational endeavors. Tests administered by the clinic personnel and material obtained from personal interviews will be used to give the student an appraisal of his abilities.

'Raintree County' Is Free Movie

Tonight's free movie is "Raintree County." Set against the colorful background of the North and South in the mid-nineteenth century, the film stars Montgomery Clift as a young idealist who falls in love with a bewitching Southern beauty (Elizabeth Taylor).

After their marriage, he realizes that she is losing her mind because of the tortured memories of her childhood.

When the War begins, he fights for the North, but she runs away to her New Orleans home. He later finds her in a mental institution. She escapes into the swamps in a desperate search for the mystical raintree of happiness.

Eva Marie Saint and Lee Marvin are the supporting cast.

"Three Faces of Eve" will be shown Thursday, July 18. The provocative plot is based on a true case-history of a Georgia woman whose psychosis causes her to take on a triple "split personality."

Joanne Woodward, David Wayne and Lee J. Cobb star in the film.

All movies are shown at 8:30 p.m. in McCroan Auditorium.

Summer Sports

By DAN STILES
Sports Writer

What is the normal thing to do for exercise in this hot, stifling weather here at Southern? How about a refreshing dip in the algae-looking water of the campus pool? NO? ...you don't want to fish that tennis ball out of the water? Well how about going to see a "skin flick" to exercise your mind by a little sordid arousal? No? Well, if none of these things appeal to you, and you desire a bit of clean excitement, I recommend you turn to Georgia Southern's Intramural program. Ah, I see already that your interest flops as soon as I mention the word "intramural." You only think of it as participation by rinky-dinks who are unable to compete on the collegiate level. On the contrary. Let me shatter your erroneous conclusion by switching your attention to a specific phase of the IM program — namely BASKETBALL.

JOHNSON

This summer there are six teams competing. Two teams, however, have selfishly but wisely mustered all the talent. The other four teams are just running up and down the Hanner court to lose a little weight, or else they enjoy being humiliated by the power-teams. Nevertheless, there is excitement.

STANDOUT GUARD

Coach Alan Johnson, standout guard for the University of Georgia before coming to Southern as Freshman basketball coach, is the big gun for one team. His tremendously accurate shooting from the outside brightens his team's chances of taking the championship. However, his percentage in the last game is questionable. I'm sure he's glad nobody was keeping stats. Still, he's tremendous even when he's off. On Coach Johnson's team there is GSC's starting guard Dave Westerfield and a new face around campus, 6-7 Charlie Gibbons. This makes up the real classy elements of their team.

MOORE IS THREAT

"I'm going to cram a few Tuesday night," begins Roger Moore who represents the threat to Johnson's team. "Just let ole Coach try to drive on me," chuckled Roger. Moore, as sport fans vividly remember, is very capable of doing just that. Against Kentucky State last season he blocked seven of the first eight shots taken by that team. On Moore's team, there's only one other player that played collegiate ball last season. This is Mike Ujlaki, a real flashy jumping-jack from Marietta. And to add to these talented players I have mentioned, there are a number of students who compete fairly well against these players.

So you see. Already I have shattered your ideas about intramurals being rinky-dink this summer. Now, as I mentioned before, if you desire a bit of clean excitement, I recommend you turn out to watch a little basketball this summer. And by the way, it'll be the only time here at Southern that dunking will be allowed in the games. With Moore, Ujlaki, and Gibbons playing, I'm sure you won't be disappointed.

MOORE

Charlie Gibbons tips one in to defeat Unknowns.

Old Timers Gain Victory

By DAN STILES
Sports Writer

Coach Alan Johnson proved that coaches know best, as he directed his intramural basketball team, the Old Timers, to victory over the Unknowns, 62-60. The game was decided in the final minute of play when Roger Moore was unable to connect on two vital free throws that could have put his team ahead by two. However, he missed and the Old Timers got the rebound and began freezing the ball until only 12 seconds remained. Then the coach-player called time out to set up for one shot. A screen was set for Johnson with 5 seconds remaining, and he coolly sank a 25-footer to destroy the Unknowns.

The Unknowns had to play the last eight minutes with only four players as playmaker Keith Whitlow fouled out. A half-decent full-court press was all that was needed to shake the Unknowns' confidence.

Although defeated, the Unknowns had several highlights. Moore fought diligently amidst all the un-called fouls to lead the Unknowns in scoring with 18 points. A surprise for the Unknowns was Sonny Harmon who accounted for 16. Mike Ujlaki also made 16.

For the victors, Johnson led all scorers with only 22. Tall Charles Gibbons played aggressive defense and swished the nets for 13. Dave Westerfield made 11.

The Old Timers' record now stands at 3-0, while the other powerhouse team, The Unknowns, have to settle for a depressing 2-1.
