Biafra, the former Eastern Region of Nigeria declared itself an independent country, May, 1967. Since that time, the federal government of Nigeria, militarily supported by other powers, has captured Biafra's capital and blocked its major outlets to the rest of the world. The war is taking a toll of over 3,000 Biafrans a day from malnutrition and hunger alone. Most of the victims are children.

The Biafra Children's Relief Fund collects money for food, clothing, and medicine for the Biafrans.

Students on campus, already circulating handbills, plan to collect contributions in the dormitories, student centers, on campus, and in the surrounding areas for the starving victims of the Nigeria-Biafra war.

Donations may be sent to Post Office Box 3434, Statesboro, and checks should be made payable to the Biafra Children's Relief Fund.

All contributions must be received by September 1. At this time the money will be sent to the New Haven organization where it will be added to their collection. This amount will be divided evenly between the Catholic Relief Services and the World Council of Churches, the only two organizations that can get aid into Biafra. These organizations will in turn send food and medicine to the Biafrans.

Members of the finance committee are Rick Shuman, Cheryl McGorkle, Nelson Schrone, Mary Jo McGee, and Beverly Markham. More information of the relief fund may be obtained from these students.

Dr. Pope Duncan Named to Post

Free Press Presents Problems

By SANDRA DYCHES
Editor

Due to the recent rash of journalistic interests on campus, the "George-Anne" is considering changing its "conservative(?)" policies and giving the students exactly what they want to hear. When the Young Democrats began crusading for a cause to fill their empty hours, the official policy of this paper was to ignore their brash, half-baked ideas. But with the issuance of the social science satire entitled "The New Free Press" and the publication of an unknown, unnamed sheet of yellow journalism, this policy must change.

"The New Free Press" has done more to call attention to the ideas the youthful demos were expounding than did the original "Free Press." The alleged authors of that media are Dr. David Ward and Dr. Perry Cochran. Dr. Ward neither admits nor denies editorship. Dr. Cochran passes the buck to Dr. Ward. By taking the satire seriously, the Young Democrats angrily acknowledge that they are unable to accept their own methods. The satire in the "The New Free Press" is significant in that it cannot be argued with; if a person admits that he has taken the ideas seriously, he is open to ridicule. Perhaps the ideas should be taken seriously, however. The arguments are certainly logical as some that the YD's expound.

The reader will please note the use of the word "some" in the preceding paragraph. This writer is not advocating a continuance of the status quo. There is certainly always a need for change within any institution. The point in question is whether that change is an improvement or just radical change.

The Young Democrats claim to have a "Free Press." This is a gross misinterpretation of both words. The YD's yell freedom, but fail to accept the responsibilities that accompany freedom. They apply the term of "press" to their pamphlets, but violate all the journalistic rules of fair play, proper facts and qualifiers.

"Some" of their basic concepts are good. However, they fail to research their ideas sufficiently. They discover the "what" of an idea, but overlook the "why." In general, they merely use propaganda to plant the germ of an idea and to create a facade for their "Free Press."

This writer sat in on a YD "brainstorming" session. The young men present introduced their radical views on women's rights. They erroneously believed that GSC women wish to abolish all rules and regulations. They had no facts, only their opinions. They had not heard from the "George-Anne" or through the grapevine that several major changes were made last spring (or were currently pending) in the area of women's rules. Not one man voicing an opinion had heard of the honor's dorm.

The ratification of the constitution and the election of officers was (and is) a sensitive area with the YD's. They have circulated petitions against the new student government and the new constitution, but only two students at the July 17 meeting had read the constitution. And not one of the faces present had ever been seen at a student government meeting.

The YD's hit upon pertinent topics when they mentioned the housing problem and the grading policy, but again they only hit and missed. Their entire meeting represented a disappointing misuse of talents, intelligence and energies. The group practices nineteenth century idealism within the framework of a twentieth century society. They are content to sit outside the mainstream of activities and whine rather than using their organization wisely to accomplish worthwhile goals.

The new student government affords all groups an opportunity to put their talents to constructive use to accomplish these goals.

It was stated in the opening paragraph that if the students of this campus want to read the partial truths and propaganda of the "Free Press," the "George-Anne" would consider changing its policy. We would no longer try to see both sides of a situation; we would hint at items we could not support with fact. Surely the thinking students want a newspaper that will reflect a fair and unbiased coverage of activities and situations. The decision is before the student body.

Quacks by Sole Set Goose the Students

THE NEW
FREE PRESS

The original Free Press of Georgia Southern has been captured by the Establishment, and the entire staff, consisting of two freshmen and one high school dropout, have been liquidated. The entire operation was secretly planned and financed through an illegal use of the Student Activity Fee.

We do not plan to be intimidated by this harassment and pressure. We assure our readers that we will continue the fearless tradition set by our predecessors. Our motto remains the same: "If the shoe fits it's time to get new heels." All news items may be sent to us at our secret and clandestine office behind the No. 3 pin setter at the Bowling Alley.

NEWS FLASH!

Did you know that the Administration has perfected its plans to hold classes during the fall, winter, and spring quarters? This outrage was decided on without consulting a single student! We do not, of course, count the lackey, running dogs of Student Government.

Guest Editorial:

"Students of the world arise, you have nothing to lose but a college education. Gaul was divided into three parts, but students are divided into four classes. Think of that, and let the festering sense of injustice mobilize you into action."

Mickie Mouth, Chairman
Youth Don't Know Committee

ATTENTION ALL STUDENTS:

Remember the giant rally and effigy burning to be held next Tuesday at 3:30 a.m. at the building site of what the Administration thinks is the new Science Building. A fighting speech on how the Establishment has tried to buy us off by making us affluent will be delivered by Johnny Bill Mopes, and petitions will be delivered by Johnny Bill Mopes, and petitions will be signed demanding that a student be named as Registrar and Head Dietician, that all College Buildings be turned into recreational centers, and that the librarian buy thirty-eight copies of Stink Brown's best-seller, The Power of Shallow Thinking. This Meeting is for adults only, and no one under eleven will be admitted.

CURRENT AGITATION DEPARTMENT

We demand answers to the following questions, and if no answers are forthcoming we will know that we are right.

1. What is the President's bedtime? No one has yet seen fit to answer this important problem.

2. Will students be fed in the dining hall when they are not here between quarters? We have asked this question before—once into the Grand Canyon, and once by letter to Haile Selassie—and we have yet to get an answer.

3. What is the truth about the matriculation fee? We paid the matriculation fee, and then, while trying to matriculate on the front campus, we were arrested and charged with indecent exposure. We bitterly resent this because we were fully clothed in sandals at the time. If we are old enough to know better, then surely we should be allowed to act like adults and matriculate where and how we please.

4. When will a heart

transplant be performed at the health cottage? The latest advances in medical science are being deliberately withheld from the students. Doesn't the Administration have a heart?

5. Why doesn't the Post Office sell cokes? Why aren't free T.V.'s given to all students on enrollment, and why doesn't the library buy comic books—let's make our reading relevant!

We demand answers to these questions as a matter of right. Unwillingness to answer can only be interpreted as anti-Student.

Watch next week's issue for a sensational expose on janitorial services, and the Proclamation of the Divine Right of Students.

Our thanks to Senior Herbie Leper for his help in getting out this edition, and to the Midnight Raider who handled the dangerous job of circulation. We may always be reached by attaching a note to the leg of one of the College ducks—you may be sure that we'll take a gander at it!

Union Bag-Camp Presents $250 For Loan Fund

The Union Camp Aid to Education Committee of Savannah presented a $250 check to the college this week which will be used in the Georgia Southern College Foundation, Inc. The gift will make available $2,500 in loans for students attending Georgia Southern College this fall quarter through the National Defense Student Loan Fund.

According to Mr. M.L. Kimble, secretary for the Aid Education Committee, additional fellowships have been awarded to four Savannah school teachers who are now attending the Summer Quarter.

In accepting the donation, Dr. John O. Eidson, president, thanked the committee for their contribution and added that Georgia Southern very much appreciated the gift.

Since 1959, when the college began appropriating student loans through the National Defense Student Loan Fund with which the College's Foundation works, approximately 1,410 students have received loans totalling (almost) $1,131,000.

McCord Receives Ph.D. from LSU

Clarence McCord, assistant professor of speech was awarded the Ph.D. from Louisiana State University this week during Summer Commencement Exercises at Baton Rouge, (La.) McCord did his major work in speech, with an emphasis in languages and a minor in departmental linguistics.

McCord wrote his dissertation as "A Study of Recognition of American English Intonation by Native Speakers."

"WHAT CURVE?"

Added to the usual assortment of ducks and turtles in the lake, was one black Ford, stalled on the bank, it soon found itself "wadding" by the hands on some industrious, though anonymous, students.

Project TAPPER Aids Teachers In Physical Education Techniques

A workshop for Project TAPPER (Teacher Assistance Program in Physical Education and Recreation) will be held August 10 to acquaint Liberty County elementary teachers with new learning techniques in physical education and recreation, according to Dr. Douglas Leavitt, workshop director and acting chairman of the Division of Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

The workshop is being held in conjunction with a three-year program in Liberty County Schools to create a county wide school-community recreation program and a comprehensive physical education program for the Liberty County elementary student. The program is financed by a title III grant which will amount to an expenditure of approximately $250,000 during the span of the program.

The one-day workshop, the initial step in training for the Liberty County teachers, is being conducted by the Division of Health, Physical Education and Recreation at Georgia Southern College. Consultants and resource people for the workshop include Art Friedman, Lifetime Sports, Inc.; Dr. Frank Connery, Anniston, Alabama Public School System; Dr. David Young, University of Maryland; Mrs. Joan Sullivan, Portland Oregon Community College; and Dr. Doyice Cotten and Dr. Douglas Leavitt, both of GSC.

Westerfield—To Stay or Not?

By GILBERT WERMUTH

It will be nearly five months until basketball season rolls around again, but to the many students, faculty, and friends of Georgia Southern who saw last year's squad battle to a 13-11 season with only one Senior on the entire squad, the 1968-69 edition should show great improvement. It could even be tournament bound at the close of the season IF an Evansville, Ind. Senior Guard, Dave Westerfield returns to the role of floor leader of the Eagles.

Pepperpot Player

Basketball is generally regarded a tall man's sport, but like so many others, Dave has shown that a good little man can be of more value than a big guy. This is the case of Westerfield. He is a pepperpot-type ball player, who gives it one hundred per cent effort when he is on the floor. Dave is best in setting up patterns offensively and most opposing guards find him most difficult to contain in a one on one situation.

Dave came to Statesboro as a transfer student from Abraham

Dave and Wife, Sandra

Baldwin Junior College. His major is physical education. During last season he averaged close to thirteen points per game and had two outstanding games. Against Atlantic Christian College, Dave sank two free throws with ten seconds remaining to give Southern a 69-68 triumph. Two occasions Dave scored 26 points. Once against Stetson in a winning cause and the other against the highly rated Phillips 66 Oilers. He also had the dubious task of guarding former three time All-American Jimmy Rose and held him to less than twenty points.

NCAA

Next fall Georgia Southern will be on a one year probation before entering the NCAA ranks. They will be eligible to be invited to either the NAIA or the NCAA tournaments. However, after next fall Georgia Southern, if accepted by the NCAA, will only be eligible to play in NCAA tournaments. Some of the small major powers that Southern will play: Murray State of Ky., Morehead of Ky. and Georgetown of Ky.

When speaking about last year's squad and the adjustments Dave had to make this is how he answered the following questions. Last fall when you enrolled did you have any difficulty in adjusting to Southern's offense?

"No, I don't think so. We more or less ran the same type offense at ABAC which was a free lance type. We also got the ball off the boards and ran with it like we do here so I don't think it really took much time for me to adjust. Of course, the coaches probably thought I'd never adjust to it."

When asked why he did not shoot more during the first half of last season Dave replied: "I think I gained more confidence as the season wore on, and also Coach Radovich wanted me to shoot more so by shooting more naturally I got my confidence back."

Draft?

Dave, as most sports followers of Georgia Southern know, you have a problem concerning the Draft. What is your Draft Status? "I received my induction papers for the Army August 5 and since I am in the middle of the quarter they deferred me until after the current quarter. I am currently waiting for a reply from my draft board on whether I get deferred for another year." For those who do not know Dave is twenty four and this is the reason for his draft status; not as a result of poor grades.

Next fall Dave, if you should return what do you foresee the possibility of Georgia Southern College returning to its perennial powerhouse after two mediocre seasons? And if so what are your reasons? "I definitely think we will be a much better team than last season. We had a young and inexperienced team and I think with the year's experience and with two or three outstanding boys coming in from the Junior College ranks, plus freshman Charlie Gibbons from Augusta, I think we could have an exceptional team."

Even though the return of Westerfield to the squad next fall is uncertain, Georgia Southern should have a far better team than last year's edition. The question is whether Roger Moore continues to improve as well as some of the freshman from last year's fine team are expected.

Dave is married to a Home Economics major. Sandra faces the task of being with a college athlete who sometimes is late for the supper table due to a longer than anticipated practice. This along with road trips make married life in college rather difficult. However, Sandra is Dave's number one fan and doesn't mind some of the hardships that they have to go through.

Plans For Future

When asked what his plans are going to be after graduating and fulfilling his military obligation here were Dave's comments: "What I would like to do more than anything is coach. Where, I don't really know yet. I think that I would like to coach here in Georgia or go back to Indiana. It depends on various things; as you know, I am married and if my wife happened to have a good teaching job somewhere, I'd hate to just tell her to pack up that we were going to Indiana to work, although I'm sure she wouldn't mind."

Westerfield jumps for shot. . . .

Summer Sports

By DAN STILES
Sports Writer

In intramural action, the tennis tournament is well underway with the finals drawing near. In the Women's Singles Competition, Judy Brantley has advanced to the Final of the double-elimination affair to meet the survivor in the other half of the bracket. In the Men's competition, Dr. Ramsey and Dr. Russell fought hard on Tuesday afternoon with Dr. Ramsey edging his way into the semi-finals with a score of 6-3, 7-5. Ramsey meets Jerry Poppel.

In basketball tourney action, the Dimples were defeated for the third time this season by the Unknowns, and the Old Timers almost proved to be too old as PEK narrowly missed victory.

Cold Spy on Tap For Free Flick

"The Spy Who Came In From the Cold" is tonight's free movie. The film stars Richard Burton as British intelligence agent Alec Leamas. Leamas refused to take a desk job (coming in out of the cold), and accepts a new assignment to capture an East German Communist who has caused many British counter espionage failures. The film creates a chilling moodiness and suspense in the absorbent study of Leamas and his ingenious plan.

Claire Bloom, Oskar Werner and Peter Van Eyck are in the supporting cast.

The Mystery Writers of America awarded this film its annual "Edgar."

On August 16 "Suspicion" will star Cary Grant and Joan Fontaine. This Alfred Hitchcock thriller involves a shy British girl who marries an unprincipled charmer. She gradually discovers him to be a liar and a cheat—and possibly a murderer. Terror mounts as she comes to believe her husband is trying to poison her.

Dr. Hanson Joins AIC Fellowship

Dr. Hiram S. Hanson, associate professor of geology, has been invited into Fellowship in the American Institute of Chemists because of his work in the field of geo-chemistry.

Fellowship candidates must have completed four years of collegiate work in chemistry or chemical engineering in an educational institution acceptable to the Institute's Council, and in addition must have completed ten years of progressive experience and responsibility in the practice of the profession, satisfactory to the Council.

Mrs. Bitter Takes Leave of Absence

Mrs. Barbara Bitter English, instructor, has taken a leave of absence from the college to work on her doctorate at the University of Tennessee at Knoxville.

Mrs. Bitter, who received her masters degree from Tennessee in 1953, will study for one year under a National Defense Education Act grant. She has been at the college since 1965.
