Strong Lectures Here On 1968 Election

By BILL NEVILLE
Staff Writer
Dr. Donald S. Strong,

professor of political science at the University of Alabama, lectured last night, April 17, at the Foy Recital Hall. Dr. Strong's lecture topic was "A Post Mortem on the 1968 Presidential Election in the South."

Jr. Class Elects Cail

Ronnie Cail was elected President, the junior class in a called meeting Monday, April 14. Cheryl Wilson, vice-president, presided with only 11 class members attending.

The meeting was called to nominate and elect a junior class president; the office was left vacant after the dismissal of Lee Girardeau by the SAGC. The newly elected president is to follow the guidelines set forth for his position by SAGC.

Nominated for the office were Ronnie Cail, Tallahassee, Fla.; Peter Hughes, Vermont; and Bob Grant, Comer, Ga.

Votes were cast by secret ballot and Cail was elected president.

Dr. Strong, a specialist in urban republicanism in the South, was brought to the college by the Social Science Lecture Program.

Using the 1968 Presidential election in the South as a "spring board," Dr. Strong discussed the various facets of Southern politics. With this broad basis for his talk, he further developed his subject as what he termed "the changing pattern of Southern politics."

Referring to the role of the third party in the 1968 election, Dr. Strong traced third party movements and their effect on Southern politics. He discussed the third party movements of Strom

Matriculation Hike To Hit Students This Summer

Matriculations fees for resident and non-resident students of the 27 institutions of the University System will be raised 'effective' summer quarter.

Those hardest hit by the increase will be non-resident students.

At the present time a non-resident at one of the senior colleges in the University System pays $195 per quarter, which includes $85 matriculation fee and $110 non-resident tuition.

With the beginning of summer quarter, non-resident students will pay $240 dollars per quarter, of which $105 is matriculation fees and $135 in non-resident tuition.

Resident students here at the college have been paying $85 tuition fee. After the raise is put into effect, students here will pay $105 per quarter according to information released to the press last Thursday.

Approximately $6,639,000 is the expected increase in fees and tuition for the 1969-70 fiscal year.

University Chancellor George L. Simpson Jr. stated that the increase was necessary because the General Assembly had failed to appropriate an adequate amount of money to the board of Regents.

A fee increase probably would have been requested even if the governor's recommendation had been approved, stated the Chancellor Simpson, however, "It could have been lower."

The expected increase will go into the general operating fund to be used in support of the entire University system.

In other action, the board authorized the college to enter into an agreement with Hunter Airfield and Fort Stewart to provide graduate work comprised of regular college courses for Military personnel, their eligible dependents, and employees at the base.

WSGA Holds Bloodmobile

The Women's Student Government Association of Georgia Southern College will sponsor the Bloodmobile to be held April 24. Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity will act as cosponsors in this campus-wide effort. Gayle Layton will act as chairman working with Glenn Miller, project chairman of Sigma Phi Epsilon.

Permission slips will be distributed for persons under age 21 who wish to donate blood. A trophy will be awarded the organization donating the most blood and all organizations are urged to participate.

The Bloodmobile will be stationed in the lower level of the Frank I. Williams Center next Thursday. All faculty and students are urged to participate in this Bloodmobile and make it the best yet on campus, according to Miss Layton.

Cielinski To Attend Conference

Mike Cielinski, senior political science major and Georgia Chairman of Southern Universities Student Government Association (SUSGA), will attend SUSGA's annual conference in Louisville, Ky. April 23-26. Cielinski will coordinate the state caucus at the convention.

The convention will be Cielinski's last official action before leaving office; Cielinski, who has traveled more than 20,000 miles since he took office March 31, 1968, has represented the Georgia unit of SUSGA at all official functions and meetings. During his term, member schools in Georgia have increased from 26 to 31 in number.

"I plan to follow the growth of SUSGA. It's had its ups and downs, but my experience working with SUSGA has been very enlightening," Cielinski said.

BSU Sets Convention

MISSION: POSSIBLE is the theme for the Georgia State BSU Spring Convention to be held at the FFA camp on Jackson Lake near Covington, Ga., April 25-27.

Approximately 50 students from here attending will be leaving here Friday afternoon for a weekend of fellowship and spiritual renewal. The convention will be attended by students from 44 colleges in Georgia.

Some highlights of the program are: the keynote address Fri. night by Robert W. Jackson, President-elect of Tift College; the commissioning Sat. night of two Georgia Southern students, Jean Robertson and Dwayne Purser, along with seventeen other students as summer missionaries, to serve during the summer of 1969 in various parts of the United States and abroad; Mr. Clyde Fant, professor at Southwestern Baptist Seminary, speaking and leading in conferences throughout the convention.

Dr. Miller Outlines Role of New School

The purposes and functions for the new school of Education have been released by Dr. Starr Miller, dean of the school. The statement of purposes and functions give directions for the school and help to define the role of the school in the college, according to Miller.

The statement, which reflects the reasons the administration had for the establishment of a School of Education has been authorized by President John O. Eidson, according to Dr. Miller. The purposes will serve as a basis for working with other schools of the college and will be valuable in the formation of the departmental structure for the school.

The purposes and functions are as follows:

-To aid in focusing the total college resources on the human and social advancement that improved education can bring to the Georgia Southern service area.

-To provide for the preparation of those who hold school positions in instruction, services, administration, and supervision.

-To give guidance to the field practitioners in the further development of the education professions.

-To create a center both for the study of education and for the dissemination of education developments that will lift the level of the public schools.

-To provide greater opportunity for the school personnel preparation program to be academically strong, distinctively creative, effective with students, and influential in the geographic area.

-To maintain and give counsel regarding the program of preparation for each type of school work for which the institution wishes to prepare school personnel.

the Graduate Advisory Committee (Entomology and Parasitology) and, of the Library Committee (Entomology and Parasitology), at the University of Georgia, and has been chairman of the Advisory Editors, of the University of California in Entomology.

Dr. Eidson, in commenting on Oliver's appointment to the Fuller E. Callaway Professorship, said that Georgia Southern was very fortunate in getting a man of Dr. Oliver's calibre and academic standing. "Dr. Oliver possesses the professional stature that such an appointment expects. We will profit by his coming to Statesboro and we all are extremely pleased that he has accepted this position."

Anthropologist Urges Salaries For Students

NEW YORK.—Dr. Margaret Mead has charged that our conception of the teacher-pupil relationship at the college and university level is "medieval" and recommended "salaries" for students to make them economically independent and give them dignity.

Dr. Mead said "we must treat everyone at 18 as a young adult who has economic, political and educational control over his—or her—own life. It means draft reform that will take into account essential stages of study and work experience.

William W. Suttle, Southeastern Director of the Office of Economic Opportunity is scheduled to give a lecture on the accomplishments and future of the OEO. Suttle's lecture is scheduled for April 22 at 10:30 a.m. in the Foy Recital Hall.

The deadline for signing up for the European Art Tour has been extended until June 1, according to Mrs. Gay Crannell, instructor of art.

Dates of the tour are August 20-September 17. Anyone interested in making reservations contact Mrs. Gay Crannell or Richard Keithley.

Thurmond, in 1948, and George Wallace's American Independent Party, in 1968.

"In 1968 five southern states voted Republican, five states voted to the 'Right' (George Wallace) and only one state voted Democratic," Dr. Strong stated as he contrasted the five "deep South" states with the six southern marginal states. Party switches and the influence of the third party, "Dr. Strong went on to comment, 'were a definite outgrowth of political discontent with national policies in 1968.'"

Dr. Strong is the president-elect of the Southern Political Science Association and is a visiting professor at the University of Tennessee. He received his doctorate at the University of Chicago.

Dr. Mead said that various methods of underwriting the economic independence of all students have been discussed. "For example, we can provide adequate salaries for students out of public funds, through taxes, exactly as pay for other essential services. I believe, however, that private funds from foundations and individuals still will be needed to underwrite new, experimental education programs and the salaries of individually innovative students.

Beware! ! !

Baseball season and all the other activities of Spring quarter have finally arrived. To add to the attraction of baseball games is the fact that now many of them are held at night. This gives many students a chance to attend games that otherwise would be held during their classes.

Along with the good there is usually something bad and this situation is certainly no exception. One day a foul ball might fly over the fence and make a dent in your car or even crack one of your windows.

This is a deplorable situation since no provisions is made by the college to help pay for damages done to the cars parked near the field which are hit by chance baseballs. Those that live in the men's dorms near the field really have no choice as to whether they can park near the field or not. There is no other parking area provided.

The George-Anne suggests that signs be placed in conspicuous places to the effect that if parking in the field area, you are parking at your own risk, since no provision is made by the college to help pay for damages done to cars by baseballs. When asked about the situation, Coach Clements of the Physical Education department, stated that the situation is the same at other ball parks; but agrees with the George-Anne that pertinent signs should be placed near the field.

Chaos in Landrum

At lunch in the Landrum Center, one can get himself into a traffic jam without being in the five o'clock mess of Atlanta. One can hear the frequent 'excuse me please's' as he is getting the old elbow.

The serving plan of this place becomes atrocious at meal time. One side has been planned very systematically; but, on the right side of the cafeteria, one can get his silver, drink, and meal, then he must go to left side in order to get his salad and desert. This procedure brings about utter chaos, congestion, and the desire to not eat at all.

The Williams Cafeteria has a perfect pattern for serving meals. Two lines are formed with all the necessary items for a person and when he gets to the end, he is ready to begin eating without going from one side of the serving line to another.

One solution might be to set a revolving salad display and a place for desserts on the right side. This would enable a person to be set to go to the check out counter without the unnecessary back-tracking to get the remainder of his meal. Another solution would be to build a third cafeteria; however, G.S.C. does not happen to be that big as yet. Whatever, the solution, Landrum Cafeteria needs revising or one day people will be dropping trays and breaking their necks with all the congestion.

Legislative Haggling Causes Fee Increase

The recent decision to raise tuition by the Board of Regents of the University System intensifies the echoes of strife and discontent between our governor and the state legislature.

Matriculation fees here will be raised from $85.00 to $105.00 per quarter. This increase is a direct result of the governor's proposed tax and education aid program being voted down by the legislature.

This also provides an excellent example of a group which is least able to be assessed being assessed most heavily.

A tax increase would certainly have been objectionable to many people, but an overall tax hike would surely have been more agreeable than the solution which the Regents were forced to hand down. At this college alone, an increase of $20.00 per student per quarter would yield an annual revenue upsurge of more than $300,000. This amount of money seems to be an extremely taxing burden to place on the student body of this school or any institution in the University System.

It is a deplorable condition indeed when the students of a state are forced to suffer for the incompatibility which abounds in the state house. Governor Lester Maddox, in a speech here April 3, said he would work for a 10% pay raise for all teachers next year; the sorely needed pay increase could have been obtained this year if the legislature had seen fit to bury the hatchet with the governor.

All in all, it seems grossly unfair that an extra monetary burden has been levied on the students attending schools in the University System; the increase becomes more objectionable and bitter when one realizes that it could have been easily avoided.

But so far, only one person, a Georgia State College freshman, has registered any protest to the increase. Maybe the increase isn't so objectionable after all...or maybe we simply don't care where our money goes.

Traffic Court Would Improve Present System

Last week it was reported that plans for a traffic appeals court had been submitted to administration officials for consideration by the SAGC.

If these recommendations are passed the court would have the power through a majority vote of its justices to legitimate appeals and suspend or retain fines. Also the court would have power to consider complaints lodged against security personnel and to take appropriate action.

The minutes of a recent SAGC meeting state that recommendations on freshman cars have also been submitted to the administration for consideration. As yet no official action on these recommendations has been announced to the press.

The George-Anne has supported both in editorials and articles the banning of freshman cars on the campus. Apparently most students support our editorial policy. Any student questioned will admit that there is a traffic problem. Most freshmen apparently are also in support of our policy since not one letter to the editor has been written opposing our policy. It should be important for administration officials to keep these facts in mind when a decision on this topic is made.

We must realize; however, that even if these two measures are acted upon our traffic problem will only be temporarily relieved.

In the opinion of this writer, if our traffic problem is to be solved the campus must be zoned into parking areas. This plan, which works effectively at the University of Georgia and other large schools, divides the campus into zones. Faculty and administrators are assigned to one zone. Each class, senior, junior and sophomore, would have a specific zone in which only that class may park. This would settle many of the complaints now being made. If this plan or a similar one is not adopted we will soon have to pave over Sweetheart Circle for parking space.

Future Brides Gather

Music, an air of mystery and just plain curiosity set the stage for Levy's annual Bridal Fashion Show, Wednesday, April 9 at 7:00 p.m. in the Foy Recital Hall.

This year's show, sponsored by Panhellenic Council, presented the spring preview of bridal gowns, bridesmaid dresses and going away outfits.

Thirteen women from the six sororities modeled the array of styles. They were: Susan Smith and Fran McLeod of Alpha Delta Pi, Allison Griffith, Debbie Visscher and Mary Alice Mathews of Alpha Xi Delta, Nancy McDonald and Sherry Felton of Delta Zeta, Nan Edenfield and Susan Pethers of Zeta Tau Alpha, Brenda Scurry and Debby Atchinson of Kappa Delta, and Nancy Parrish and June Moore of Phi Mu. Anne Womack and Gay Lynn Blackwell provided background music for the models.

The spring preview included such a variety of styles and colors to make any bride's wedding ensemble unique. Bridal gowns included the traditional white, shades of ivory and candlelight, white with blue and white with pink.

The bridesmaid dresses also echoed appealing and feminine variety. The styles included the fresh and new look of the daisy design and the dotted swiss, practical two-piece ensembles, hues of brown, blue, acqua, melon and pink. The soft colors of these dresses truly created an atmosphere of spring.

The attention of the largely female audience was brought back to earth with the drawing of names by Linda Jackson at intermission for door prizes.

The Fashion Co-ordinator of Levy's in Savannah was announcer for the show, while Wanda Brooks, bridal consultant of Levy's, was busy behind the scenes with last minute details and preparations.

The show ended with a bridal ensemble and those interested were invited backstage for close up looks of the fashions.

GSC PITCHING IMPROVES GAME RECORD

The five wins to two losses that the Georgia Southern Eagles baseball team scored over the past week have boosted its game record for the season so far to a far more creditable 16-9. The record stood at 11-7 at the beginning of last week.

Eagle pitching, for a change, was very good as the team allowed only 15 runs in seven games. Eagle fielders made far too many errors, however, with 15.

To date, Georgia Southern has outscored its opponents 142-97.

EAGLES SPLIT TWIN BILL

The Eagles lost to the South Carolina Gamecocks, 5-3, but came back to beat Carson Newman, 5-1 in the second game on April 7.

Carolina got back to back doubles followed by back to back singles to score three runs in the 1st inning.

The first four Eagle batters got on base and tied the game 3-3.

The Gamecocks got two runs later in the game to beat Southern, 5-3.

Don Wiggins pitched 2 2/3 poor innings as he allowed 10 hits, four runs, and three walks and was tagged for the loss.

Second baseman Alton Griffin, with two hits and three RBI's led the Eagles to a 5-1 victory over Carson-Newman.

Griffin knocked in Jim Fields twice with a tripple and a base hit.

Winning pitcher Tommy Arden hurled a beautiful 2-hit game as the Eagles carried their season record to 12-8.

Southpaw Richard Chard scattered five hits as he shut out South Carolina 5-0. Chard pitched a complete game and ran his season record to 4 wins and one loss.

Jim Fields collected 2 hits and scored two runs in the game. Eagle fielding was perfect, with no errors, compared to the Gamecocks' three.

The victory ran the season record to 14-8.

Ten Eagles went down swinging to the fireballer Thomaston.

Luther Smith got his first loss of the season.
