World's Typewriter Champion To Appear Here Thursday, Dec. 8

Mr. Stephen B. Homick, head of the business department, announced today that GTC will be honored by a visit from George Hossfield, world typewriting champion, next Thursday, December 8, in the McCroan Auditorium at 10 in the morning.

Hossfield has won the world championship in typing ten times, and has been touring the country this year putting on demonstrations.

Mr. Homick said that the business department was delighted to be able to present Hossfield to the students of GTC. Everyone is invited to attend the demonstration exhibited by Mr. Hossfield Thursday morning. All who come will be sure to see some unusual feats performed by a man with a typewriter.

Plans for Rally Main Decision of Student Council

A pep rally for the first basketball game is going to be held tonight at 6:30 p. m. on the campus behind Lewis Hall. This was the main feature of the Student Council meeting held Monday night.

Clarence Miller, Student Council representative, has been named to head the committee to coordinate all the various activities of the rally. Coach Scarce and Coach Clements will of course be there with the entire basketball squads. For the first time this year the cheerleaders will be on hand to lead yells. They will have mimeographed sheets of yells to give each student.

This is to help the student familiarize himself with the yells before the first game and prepare him to support the cheerleaders and the team. Also in connection with the game, it was decided that a dance would be held after the ballgame Saturday night with Stetson.

John Tootle, Student Council president, issued the statement that he hoped all the students would remain on campus this weekend to attend the rally Friday night and to support their team on Saturday night.

Discussion of the freshman election was also held ending with the decision that the election would be held Wednesday, November 30. Rat Day Evaluation was tabled to a later date. Also discussed but with no resulting decision was the noise coming from the music building.

Preceding these discussions were the minutes read by the secretary, Cathy Holt. After the discussions listed above, and the decisions made on each, the meeting was adjourned.

Visitors are always welcome to sit in on these meetings.

Powell Named Chairman For Christmas Dance

After the opening of the basketball season Saturday night and the Gym dedication next week, the next campus headliner will be the annual Christmas formal dance, Saturday night, Dec. 10, from 8:30-11:30.

This is the one dance of the year which the faculty provides for the students, and plans are well underway according to Roy F. Powell, who was last week named by Pres. Henderson as general chairman for the shindig.

Special program, reception, refreshment, decoration, finance and publicity committees have been named and initial work started.

Something Different

The program committee, headed by Miss Roxie Remley and Mrs. Jeanette McCorkle, promises "something completely different" for floorshow activities during intermission. A fuller announcement will be made on this score next week.

The "Professors" will provide the music. Although the faculty members make up all the other committees, four students are being asked to serve on the reception committee to help meet and greet the guests as they arrive. John Tootle, Cathy Holt, Clarence Miller, and Gene Meadows (and their dates) are members of this committee.

Committee Chairmen

Dr. Don Hackett is chairman of the finance committee; Stephen Homick and Mrs. Miriam Moore are co-chairmen of the decoration committee; Jack Broucek and Miss Kirbylene Stephens are co-chairmen of the refreshment committee; and the program committee is composed of Miss Remley, Mrs. McCorkle, Miss Few, J. A. Pafford, and Dana King. Mr. Powell, Miss Frieda Gernant, and Don McDougald make up the poster and publicity committee.

Every member of the faculty and administrative staff serves on a committee.

Suits Accepted

The general theme of the dance will be announced next week.

The program committee made it clear that although the dance is billed as a "formal" and girls will be expected to wear evening dresses, it is not a tuxedo must for the men. Dark suits are the accepted and general dress for men at this dance. Any man wishing to wear a tuxedo will also be accepted.

GOVERNOR MARVIN GRIFFIN who will make the dedication address at the ceremonies next Thursday at the opening of the new physical education building at the Georgia Teachers College.

Gov. Marvin S. Griffin To Dedicate New Gym

The new physical education building at Georgia Teachers College will be formally dedicated on Thursday, December 8, with a basketball game between GTC and Wofford College.

Governor Marvin S. Griffin of Georgia will deliver the dedicatory address before the game. Other distinguished guests will include members of the state legislature and the Board of Regents.

The game figures to be one of the outstanding basketball games of the season. Both GTC and Wofford are returning their entire starting lineups from last year.

The two teams met last year at Bell Auditorium in Augusta and GTC's Chester Webb scored 39 points to pace a 93-89 Professor win.

The new gym will seat more than 2,000 spectators comfortably, and it features modern equipment throughout.

The dedicatory game ceremonies will be as follows: doors open, 7:00 p. m.; organ music, 7:15 p. m.; teams on floor, 7:30 p. m.; presentation of special guests by Dr. Henderson, 8:00 p. m.; dedicatory address by Gov. Griffin, 8:05 p. m.; dedicatory prayer, 8:20 p. m.; introduction of players, 8:25 p. m.; National Anthem, 8:30 p. m.; game starts, 8:35 p. m.

Pres. Henderson Has Heavy Sched

President Henderson taught a course on "The Christian Home" at a leadership training school at Claxton Methodist Church this week. He met classes Monday through Thursday at 7:30 p. m.

He speaks at Brunswick Rotary Club next Tuesday at noon and at a meeting of the County Teachers Association that afternoon at 4.

Pembroke Road Officially Closed As of This Week

President Zack L. Henderson announced this week that the Pembroke Road was officially closed by the Bulloch County commission of roads and revenue.

President Henderson said that the road had been closed for two main reasons. First, he said, there are plans to extend the playing field across the pavement. Second, by closing this road steps can be taken to beautify that part of the campus.

He went on to say that with the extension of the playing field, a track will be set up, and eventually there is hope of having a small golf course built on campus.

The closing of this road will be beneficial to all who are concerned or connected with the college.

Two Stations To Carry GTC-Wofford Game

Two radio stations will carry parts of the Wofford-GTC game on Thursday, December 8.

Station WJAN, Spartanburg, South Carolina, will carry both the pre-game dedication ceremonies and the play-by-play.

Jim Turner, who also does the Wofford College football games, will be the sportscaster.

Station WWNS, Statesboro, will carry the pre-game ceremonies only. Jim Watson of the station staff, announced this week that preliminary plans are underway to carry three out-of-town GTC games later in the season. The Mercer game will definitely be one of them, and the other two haven't been chosen as yet.

Frosh Elections Held; Runoff Is Slated for Today

Freshmen elections were held Wednesday, November 30, to complete the voting for class officers and student council representatives for the class. Final returns follow:

John Chambliss, Albany, is the freshman class president. In the run-off, Maxie Jo Mimbs edged pass Jane Richardson by three votes to make for the narrowest margin by which to be an officer. Ruth Odum was held back and Enid Jackson became freshman class secretary. Mary Jo Hodges took the lead in the run-off and edged out June Watts for treasurer.

The years had it when Rick Mandes, veteran, took the student council representation from Wallis DeWitt.

One more run-off is necessary however. Today, December 2, the freshman class votes again between Jane Jackson and Ann Kennedy for the girl representative.

Old Rivals Meet In 14th Game Of Cage Series

The Georgia Teachers College Professors will open their 1955-56 basketball season against Stetson University on Saturday night.

The game will be the first ever played in the new $325,000 physical education building.

Prospects for perhaps the best team in school history are at hand.

Last year's team won 20 and lost four and the entire starting five in addition to two valuable reserves will return. These include team captain Chester Webb, Elberton; Doug Corry, Union Point; Howard (Bo) Warren, Ludowici; Garland Campbell, Winfall, Ind.; Don Wallen, Wheelwright, Ky.; and reserves Wesley (Buddy) Ward, Harlan, Ky.; and Emory Clements, Irwinville.

Big man in the Profs' plans of course, is Webb. A first team Helms Foundation All-American selection, Webb should be the highest college scorer in Georgia history after about six games.

Webb Nears Record

Webb has scored 1,659 points in three seasons, and he is just 142 points behind the four-year total of Mercer's Tommy Mixon at 1,801. At Webb's average last year of 23.3, about six games should do it.

He actually stands third at present, with another Mercer ex-great, Glenn Wilkes, ahead of him at 1,751. Webb's 792 points last year stands as the one season record, as does his 47 points in one game.

Junior Bo Warren hit for 498 points last year to place second in team scoring. Doug Corry was third at 309, Don Wallen next with 292, closely followed by Campbell with 290.

Good Potential

Coach J. B. Scarce figures this team has the potential to be the best in school history.

But he adds, "It might be a case of the best team posting a so-so record because of the difficulty of the schedule." A national publication has rated the Professors in the nation's top 100 teams for this year.

Scarce went all out to schedule the toughest opposition available this year, and although few major schools are listed, the competition is nonetheless definitely major league.

At least two newcomers will push the returning starters for spots. Don Avery, a 6-5 center-forward transfer from Brewton-Parker, will furnish good rebounding strength, and service-returned Bob Belton can play either the pivot or forward, despite the fact he's just 6-2.

Other Returnees

Additional returning squad members are Ralph Spurlock, 6-0 sophomore guard from Caywood, Ky., and Herbert Houston, 6-2 sophomore forward from Blakely.

The series with Stetson dates back to 1933, and the Profs lead eight wins to five. GTC won both games last year, 88 to 83 at Deland and 100 to 91 at home.

On Tuesday, December 6, Newberry College will play GTC here, and the new gym will be dedicated in a game against Wofford College on Thursday, December 8.

GTC Eyesores Up For Sale

Georgia Teachers College is offering for sale several houses, barns and other frame buildings located on the college campus. Some are available immediately for removal, others will become available on or before January 1, 1956.

Bids are requested from prospective purchasers for any one or more than one building, but all buildings will be sold on an individual high bid basis. Successful bidders are to remove any and all buildings purchased from the sites within 45 working days after final acceptance of bids.

This move is in line with the general policy of the administration to beautify the campus.

To Have and Have Not

Basketball is upon us, and as we peruse the card schedule handed out in assembly on Monday, two notable absences appear on the list—the University of Georgia and Georgia Tech.

The lot of the small college team trying to move up is a tough one, indeed. Nothing to gain and everything to lose—that's the attitude of the big boys toward a game with the small school.

Athletic director J. B. Searce has repeatedly invited Tech and Georgia to play us. He feels that it would be good for Georgia basketball for the schools in the state who sponsor good basketball teams to meet each other on an annual basis.

The four top basketball schools in the state each year are Tech, Georgia, Mercer, and Georgia Teachers. Tech plays Georgia because they're both in the SEC, Georgia plays Mercer because Georgia athletic director Wally Butts is a Mercer alum, and Mercer plays GTC because the two schools have always enjoyed spirited but pleasant athletic relationships.

The Tech frosh are on our freshman schedule this year, and that's an indication that varsity scheduling may be just around the corner. Georgia declined because GTC is "outside their travel limitations."

Larry Fox, an Atlanta Constitution sportswriter, recently noted in his column that Spring Hill College was unhappy about being snubbed by the Gator Bowl committee this year. This corner certainly can't blame them. Spring Hill won the Gator Bowl last year, and it's customary for the champion to be invited back to the following tournament. Of course, judging by the way the same committee picks football opponents, it's entirely possible that they're not aware of tournament courtesies and procedure.

Maybe we need a local legislator to sponsor a bill to get the larger state schools to play the "havenots" in basketball. This has worked in Florida between FSU and Florida football teams. The Florida Legislature instructed the two college presidents to instruct their athletic directors to work out such a game, and if they couldn't to hire some new AD's who could schedule such a game. Maybe this is what we need.

We'd like to recommend that Coach Searce sponsor a tournament next Christmas, perhaps on a rotating basis, and bill it as the "Southeastern Home Stretch Drive...

By BRITT FAYSSOUX

Thanksgiving holidays are over. Football games, turkeys, and various and sundry other delicious edibles are things of the past as we settle down for the home-stretch drive. Term papers, tests, and plenty of studying will be the order of the day for the next three weeks. Cram! Worry! Cram! Worry!; just about three more weeks and final exams will be here. "Oh! why did I wait so long to start studying?" That glow you see coming down among the "murmuring pines" is the mid-night oil burning bright in these dark winter nights. The bright lights give a gay festive mood to the campus but inside there is very little holiday spirit as everybody crams for those finals.

One of the few diversions which we, of course, will allow ourselves, will be the opening basketball games. No amount of work could keep us from watching the "Professors" play.

Of course there are plenty of students who won't have to cram. Most of the faithfuls have kept up from day to day. Those of the intelligentsia, (better known as the campus brains) will breeze through without exerting themselves too much. But the rest of us that is the large segment known as the average students—who have studied when we had to and played around when we could get away with it, will have to get busy and put in those extra hours; or, as one famous ex-professor at GTC used to say, "Be weighed in the balances and found wanting." I am quite sure none of us want to be weighed and found wanting.

So take those old dusty, carroded textbooks down from the shelf, move your desk over close to that nice warm radiator, and get busy, cause as old Snuffy Smith would say at a time like this "Time's awasting."

College Championship Basketball tournament." Invite Spring Hill, Mercer, Presbyterian, Stetson, Rollins, Howard, and some more smaller schools who really go in for basketball as a major sport and not just a fill-in between football and track or baseball.

Such a tournament would receive national publicity among sports writers who understood the situation, and perhaps it would force the larger schools to sit up and take notice of some natural rivalries which exist right under their noses.

In last week's issue of the paper, I noticed the suggestions made to the Student Council. The one about a fornt door to Sanford Hall Lounge was real good. You know it's pretty disgusting to know that you can't go to take a bath without mothers walking up and down the halls, but where else could they go to call for their boys?

I think this is a matter which that one person can't handle himself, but needs the help of each person living in Sanford Hall.

I would also like to plead that we get a door for the lounge of Sanford Hall.

Editor, George-Anne

Dear Sir:

First of all let me firmly state that I do not think that you are a sissy. Secondly, let me thank the sailor from Condeslot two staff (whatever that is, I was in the Navy for four years and never heard of it) for indirectly informing us that we have in our midst such a sadly misinformed young woman. She says she likes boys that act like men. Why then does she not just like men, period? It is clear that she is confused. It is equally obvious that this poor creature has allowed studying or some such activity to interfere with her college education. Let me assure this person that the "sissy's" among the males of the species of this campus are in an acute minority. And if my information (gathered with painstaking care from the girls on the campus) is correct, then she, in her belief, is in an even more acute minority. In fact she is practically alone. Though I have never before been called a sissy (not even when I wore my hair cut so short it looked like a girl's) I have tried to keep my blood pressure under the 200 mark by considering the fact that name-calling by one so obviously ignorant of the true state of affairs can be of little consequence. However we must be on guard against the spreading of such puerile and asinine statements, for who knows, someone, somewhere, might be just far enough off base to believe it. Let me end this with a suggestion to this poor individual. If you are attempting to ascertain whether or not a young man (or and old one either for that matter) is a sissy, the Staturday night dance is no place to find out. Mr. Editor, I hope this will in some measure redeem our poor downtrodden manhood.

In reference to the article written by Alton Jones in last week's George-Anne, I feel that he left himself wide open for ridicule.

Personally he sounds like a person who was born with a silver spoon in his mouth and came to summer school to avoid being a Rat.

He seemed to think that he is authority on the subject by saying that Rat Day is going out of style, but according to the Inquiring Reporter in last week's George-Anne, he is definitely wrong.

If he seems so sure of himself, I suggest of him to take a poll from this year's freshmen as to whether or not Rat Day should be abolished.

From the last paragraph, Alton seems as though he has a chip on his shoulder and envies all Rats because the majority of them withstood without many quips that he is not man enough to take.

Safe Driving . . .

The two-months campaign for the SD-Day program should reach its climax S-D Day, December 1.

Safe Driving Day is being sponsored on a national basis by the President's Committee for Traffic Safety. Its purpose is to demonstrate that traffic accidents can be greatly reduced when motorists and pedestrians fulfill their moral and civic responsibilities for safety. This will be the second year the day has been observed.

The following tips are suggested for safe driving:

Be sportmanlike on every drive. Obey all traffic regulations, and keep speed reasonable. Start earlier and drive slower, and don't mix liquor and gasoline. Danger increases with darkness, and at sundown reduce speed to within range of headlights, stay in line and don't weave. Don't pass unless there is plenty of room; never pass on hills or curves. Allow sufficient distance between your car and the car ahead, and be alert to all intersections. Always signal intentions to turn or stop, and don't drive in bad weather unless absolutely necessary. If it is necessary, drive carefully, and keep a close check on brakes, lights, windshield wipers, tires, and steering.

Which type of dance do you like best?

Mary Jo Hodges—Starlight Ball. I liked this best because it struck a happy medium in dress. It was great.

Stanley Brobston — Sadie Hawkins Dance. It was informal and gave everyone a chance to show his originality. Everyone was such a good sport about the whole matter.

Barbara McAfee—Starlight-Ball. Tops because it was semi-formal and gave everyone a chance to get dressed up and see everyone else dressed up. Should have more dances where students can dress up and not just go as they are every day.

Diana Bair—Sock Hop. Different and gave a chance for diversion. Also, you were left with something to remember it by because it was impossible to get those socks clean.

Jimmy Tidwell — Starlight Ball. Most elaborate and everyone went to so much more trouble to make it more important.

Sandra Austin—Sadie Hawkins Dance. In the first place, the people there seemed to enjoy themselves more, and more people took part in dressing in costumes, which always add to a party of this type.

Ina Jones—Starlight Ball. Different from the ordinary run of dances. Also, everyone got to see everyone else dressed up for a change and looking so fine. Too, I liked the idea of the floor show in two halves.

Billy Jackson—Sock Hop. Best because it was given by Sanford Hall. I put more into that one so naturally I got more from it.

Emory Clements — Starlight Ball. It had a certain formality that people and I particularly liked. It should be an event and it seemed more like something to look forward to than the others. Could have been the advertising.

Georgia To Get Own Post Office

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Senator Walter F. George has been assured by officials of the Post Office Department that provision will be made for a postal station on the University of Georgia campus.

The Senator's office said that details are being worked out between the Atlanta regional office and the Postmaster General to establish a facility in quarters being provided in the new Student Union building.

Previously, plans had been agreed upon for such a post office on the campus, only to have specific proposals disapproved. The matter was reopened when Senator George's attention was called to the reversal and he urged reconsideration on the grounds the student and faculty of the University are entitled to on-campus postal service.

On The Sideline

By BOB DIXON

A professor, according to Webster's Dictionary, is a person or group who teaches, or professes special knowledge in any art, sport, or occupation requiring skill. With this definition in mind I would like to propose a toast to the person or persons who picked the name Professors for our basketball team. I don't think that a better name could have been chosen if someone searched for a half century after one.

Some people will probably argue that the name is too mild for a college basketball team. These people would probably stick with the idea that a team needs a name that would make it sound rough and tough to spectators. Names like Bulldogs, Tigers, Indians, Blue Devils and Red Devils are very common throughout the nation for athletic teams.

I'm not saying that I don't like these names because I think they are good names for athletic teams to have. I just think that there are too many teams that go by the same names. Auburn, Louisiana State, Clemson, and Missouri go by the name Tigers. When they play each other it's Cat against Cat.

I'm glad that the name Professors isn't used by very many teams. When a person hears the name Professors mentioned in Georgia, he naturally links it with Georgia Teachers College.

Coach J. B. Scarce is the man with the Ph. D. in basketballology at GTC. You can find his classroom in the gym where he teaches for about three hours every afternoon during basketball season. His classes are small but that's the way he likes it. After a few weeks of instruction his students are ready for any test. They seem to do pretty good on them, too. Last season the boys, he teaches only male students in basketballology, were victorious in 20 games while losing only four.

The Professors' first big test for the 1955-56 season is tomorrow night against Stetson. Let's all turn out and help them make a high score by giving them good support.

Perkins Named Freshman Coach

The new freshman coach is Wade S. (Scotty) Perkins, a familiar name to all Georgia basketball fans.

Perkins is from Williamsburg, Ky, where he played two years at Cumberland Junior College for Coach J. B. Scarce. He followed Scarce to Georgia Teachers for the 1949-50 and 1950-51 seasons and quickly proceeded to make GTC cage history.

He scored 570 and 611 points in his two years at GTC, the 611 standing as the school record until Chester Webb upped it to 792 last season.

Imposing Team Of 'Prep' Stars Set for Action

Georgia Teachers first freshman basketball team in five years will play a 16-game schedule during 1955-56.

The squad will be coached by Wade S. (Scotty) Perkins, a former GTC basketball stand-out, recently discharged after four years in the service.

A good nucleus of former high school stars is led by the all-time Georgia scoring champion, Walker Cook. Playing at Pineview High last year, the 6-2 guard scored 1,282 points in 34 games for a 37.7 game average. Another high scorer from the Georgia ranks is Ralph Berryhill, the Lakeland forward. Berryhill scored 921 points in 34 games for last year's class B state champs.

Two Kentucky imports, Morris Hall from Wheelwright, and Howard Wall of Harlan, will be trying to match the previous exploits of GTC stars Don Wallen from Wheelwright and the Parsons brothers and Buddy Ward from Harlan. Hall is 6-4 and Wall is 5-10.

Other squad members include 6-5 Phil Yarbrough, Donaldsonville; Briggs Tyler, 6-1, Hahira; Emory Luke, 6-6, Tenille; Karl Thomas, 5-11, Wheelwright, Ky.; Charles Head, 6-0, Hawkinsville; Frank Rushing, 6-3, Nevils; and James Godfrey, 5-11, Ludowici.

The schedule:

Dec. 3—South Georgia, here.
Dec. 6—Armstrong College, here.
Dec. 12—Brewton-Parker, here.

There are eight returning lettermen to the varsity this year. They are Garland Campbell, Emory Clements, Doug Corry, Don Wallen, Wesley (Buddy) Ward, Jim Harley, Howard (Bo) Warren, and team captain Chester Webb. With this array of basketball talent, along with the other fine ball players on the squad, the coaching staff is expecting this year's team to be one of the best teams ever at GTC.

GTC Has All-Time Cage Great In Webb

Webb is back and GTC has got him! With apologies to M-G-M, that's the way the cageophiles in Statesboro feel about the 6-7 senior from Elbetron.

The normal script for a basketball all-American selection calls for his beginning organized play somewhere around the fifth grade, and someone predicting a great future at least by the eighth grade. Webb's story was different.

He lives six miles from Elbetron, and he didn't even play high school basketball until his junior year because he had no way of getting back and forth from home to school except by school bus. This is where Roger Parsons entered the picture.

Parsons had been a stand-out at GTC for Coach Searce in 1949-1950 after transferring from Eastern Kentucky. To become a coach at Elbetron during Webb's third year in high school, and couldn't understand why the tallest boy in school wasn't out for basketball. At Parsons' home town of Harlan, Ky., this just wasn't being done.

Chester allowed as how he'd give it a try, if he had a way home after practice. Parsons volunteered the use of his aged Chevy and the picture of the slender Webb and the short, stubby Parsons riding the country roads about 5 p. m. each day became a familiar sight around the town.

The rest is history. As a senior Webb was an all-state selection, playing for the North team in the annual North-South all-star game.

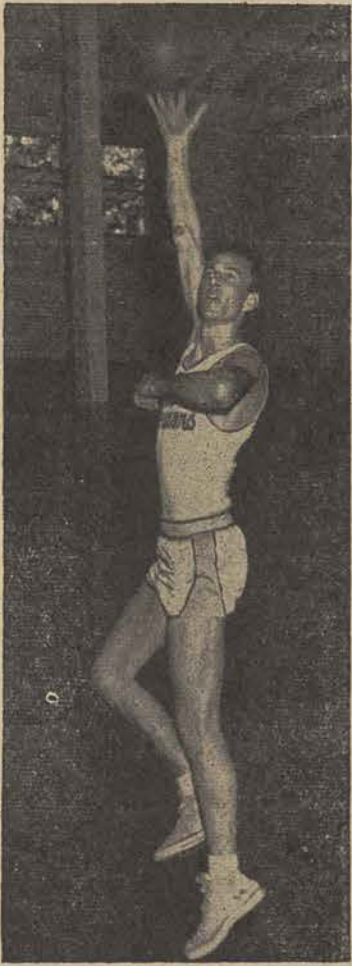

As a freshman at Georgia Teachers, Webb scored 336 points. As a sophomore he became the second highest scorer in school history, with 529 points. Last year his 792 eclipsed the 611 total posted by Scotty Perkins, now freshman coach.

Webb's career total of 1,659 is second in Georgia college history to the total of Mercer's Tommy Mixon. The Blonde Bomber from Macon's Lanier high scored 1,801 points for Coach Jim Cowan at Mercer, and Webb needs 143 points to capture the last of the state's records.

Check's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Webb, are his best fans.

"The Webb Tribe," as Chester calls them, see every game they possibly can. Webb is one of nine children. His dad is a foreman at Elbetron's Piedmont Rock Quarry.

At the close of last season, he was a first team Helms Foundation All-American selection, according to Furman Bisher of The Atlanta Constitution, the first in the state's basketball history.

CHESTER WEBB

Team Finished 1954-55 Season With 20-4 Card

The Professors had a great year in 1954-1955, winning 20 and losing only four.

The squad started slowly. Four lettermen, Chester Webb, Bo Warren, Don Wallen, and Buddy Ward teamed up with freshmen Ronnie Rush and Garland Campbell, junior transfer Emory Clements and sophomore Doug Corry, to form the nucleus.

Pre-season practice and an exhibition loss to Parris Island, 101-65, didn't indicate that good things were in store. One performance though, Corry's 20 points and 11 rebounds, seemed to start the Union Point toward a 307 point season. A remarkable season when you consider that Corry was a rear-rank substitute the year before who didn't even earn a letter.

The regular season opened with a win over Atlanta Division, University of Georgia, and a 75-67 loss to Florida State at Tallahassee. A three-game trip to Florida resulted in wins over Stetson and Tampa, and a two-point loss to Rollins College as the gun went off.

The first indication that the 1955 Professors might be a powerhouse came against Wofford College in a game played at Augusta's Bell Auditorium. Webb set a new school scoring record of 39 points as he led GTC to a surprise 93-89 win over a strong Wofford team which had returned their entire starting lineup from the year before. The Augusta papers raved about 5-11 Hump Campbell's rebounding.

After the holiday layoff Coach Searce's boys didn't appear fat and happy from too much to eat. The first ball game came against Piedmont at Demorest, and Webb reset the school scoring mark to where it stands at this writing, 47 points. The rest of the boys weren't exactly standing around either, as they ran up a 135-109 romp, equalling the school scoring record for one game.

GTC blew one to powerful Erskine, 88 to 78 after enjoying a short lead with three minutes remaining. Wins over Florida Southern and Belmont Abbey followed, and then came the game that Coach Searce calls the peak performance of the season. Erskine returned the game at Alumni gymnasium, and the Profs literally ran them out of the old gym.

Displaying a blistering fast break, GTC ran up a 64-35 halftime lead featured by a dazzling display of backhanded and blind passing. Webb hit for 36. Bo Warren for 30, big Doug Corry added 21, and playmaker Don Wallen scored eight points and 11 assists. The final score was 110 to 71, or a reversal of 49 points over the previous game with Erskine.

The Profs ran out the rack for the rest of the season, running up 13 straight wins before entering the District 25 NAIA playoffs at Tallahassee. Key wins in this string were two over arch-rival Mercer, and a steady 80-75 victory over the rugged Spring Hill Badgers, champions of the Gator Bowl. The Spring Hill game was Homecoming, and an overflow crowd saw Webb outscore the

Professors Have Enviably History

In its comparatively short history as a four-year college, GTC has compiled an enviable record.

Since 1930, with a layoff during World War II, GTC has won 287 games and lost 116, for an overall winning percentage of .710.

By contrast with many schools who move their coaches around like chessmen, GTC has had only three head coaches since 1926.

B. L. (Crook) Smith coached from 1926-1942. George Cukro coached for one year (1946-1947) when the cage sport was restarted and the incumbent, J. B. Searce Jr., came to stay in September, 1947.

Early schedules consisted largely of junior colleges, church and industrial teams, and a perennial loss to the Original New York Celtics, the famous pro team.

The 1932 team won the Georgia State Conference Basketball tournament by defeating Young Harris, 27-19, Georgia Independent College, 44-29, and edging Piedmont College in the finals, 29-22. Incidentally, this is the last tournament won by the Profs.

The same team had an interesting series with Vienna high school. This may sound like a mismatch today, but in those days Vienna was rough. In 1928 and 1929 Vienna high, coached by Joe Jenkins, finished second at the National Tournament in Chicago's old Stag Fieldhouse. His 1932 "Wonder Five" defeated Middle Georgia College, GTC, ABAC, Brewton Parker, and Georgia Tech's freshmen, among others.

In 1933 the team won 14 and lost but three, and the two leading scorers were Chester Williams (172) and Ozzie Spears (122).

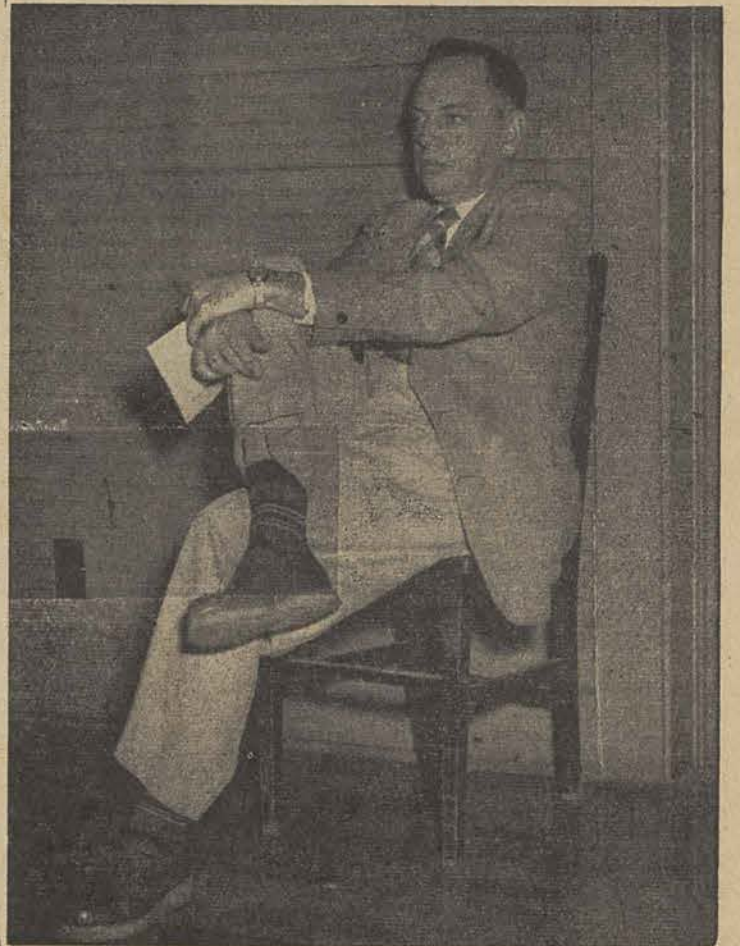

The 1934 club must have set some sort of record for scoring balance. Winning 12 and losing two, the five regulars finished within 15 points of each other in scoring. Jake Hines led with 89, Jake Smith had 79, Jim Wrinkle, 78, Bill Stewart 77, and Spears was "way" behind with 74. The team averaged 39.8 to their opponents 26.6 per game.

By 1939 scoring still hadn't moved into the racehorse situation of today. Hendry Bagley led the club with 104, followed by dHarris Rape's 100, an Herschel Hamil's 87.

vaunted Happy Mahfouz 40 to 27, and outrebound him, 22 to 18. Bo Warren added 20 points and 11 important rebounds.

At Tallahassee, the Profs blasted Mercer for the third time, 96 to 79 as Webb scored the tourney's high of 39. The next night, however, the veteran Seminoles from Florida State ushered GTC out of the basketball business, 88 to 78, despite GTC's owning a one point lead as late as 2:20 remaining. Doug Corry and Hump Campbell made back-to-back fifth personal fouls at that time and the bonus free throws paid off for Coach Bud Kennedy's five. This loss also snapped a 14-game winning streak, second only to the 1950 team's 20 straight, in school annals.

'The Littlest Professor'

J. B. SCEARCE, JR.

'Mr. Basketball' In Ninth GTC Season

A native of Kentucky, born at Frankfort April 10, 1914, Coach James Boyd Searce Jr., is beginning his ninth year as athletic director and head basketball coach at GTC. As a member of the Eastern Kentucky State College quintet, 1934-1936, he was the smallest basketball player in the South. He received his BS degree there in 1936 and began his coaching career the next year at Jenkins (Ky.) High School. The following year he moved to Georgia as physical education and athletic director at Norman College.

In 1941 he was appointed head coach and athletic director at North Georgia College where he remained until he entered the Navy as an ensign in 1944.

Following his discharge from service in 1946, "J. B." went to Cumberland College as athletic director and coach. That year his Cumberland team won the southeastern junior college tournament at Milledgeville, Georgia.

Coach Searce came to GTC in 1947, after receiving his MA degree at Eastern Kentucky. As chairman of the division of health and physical education he has raised it up to the status of a major sequence in the college curriculum.

Busy Speakers In November

Athletic director J. B. Searce Jr. and sports publicist Joe Axelson have been busy on the "chicken and peas" circuit during the past three weeks.

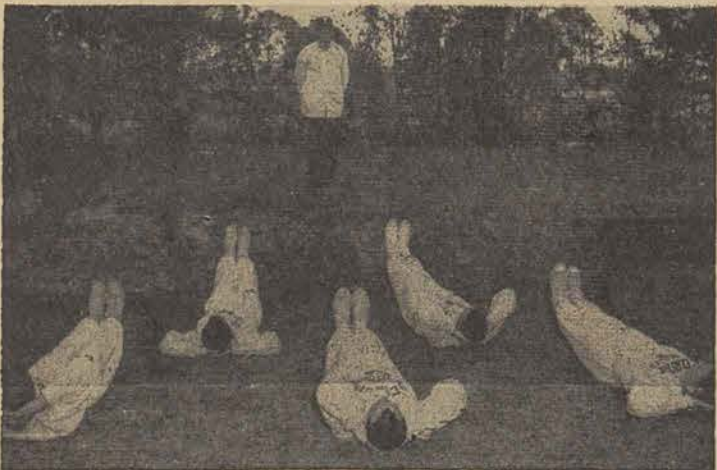

The two have filled 14 speaking engagements during that time, appearing before various civic groups in Waynesboro, Millen, Hinesville, Springfield, Statesboro, Jesup, Wadley, Vidalia, Savannah, and Sylvania.

From time-to-time, various members of the basketball team have accompanied them on the tour.

The new physical education building at GTC will be the site of the District 25 NAIA basketball playoffs March 2 and 3, 1956.

District 25 consists of the four-year colleges in Georgia and Florida not considered as major colleges by NCAA.

Last year's champion, Fla. State University, is now rated a major college and will not be eligible for participation.

The Statesboro winner will represent the district at the national tournament at Kansas City March 12-17, 1956.

GTC placed second at Tallahassee last year, losing to Fla. State 91 to 83. In six years, the Professors have finished no worse than second in Gator Bowl tournaments and District 25 playoffs. They have failed to place better than second, though. This may be the year when Coach Scarse and his boys fulfill their long ambition to play in the finals at Kansas City.

J. I. Clements Jr., athletic business manager, will be the tournament manager this year. Teams will be chosen from the Dunkel ratings at a given date in February. The highest rated team will play the fourth rated in the first round, and the second and third rated teams will face each other. Winners of the first round will meet for the final round and the district championship.

'Know How' Is Typical of GTC Sports Faculty

Georgia Teachers College is fortunate to have for their faculty athletic committee, four gentlemen with playing and coaching backgrounds.

Mr. W. S. Hanner, the chairman, played professional baseball, and coached football at Bethel College and the backfield at GTC before the sport was dropped here in 1942. Mr. Hanner is professor and chairman of the division of exact sciences.

Dr. Fielding Dillard Russell is professor and chairman of the division of languages. Dr. Russell was captain of the boxing team at Georgia, and coached the sport at GTC before World War II.

Dr. Donald F. Hackett is professor and chairman of the division of fine and practical arts. Dr. Hackett graduated from the University of Illinois where he played freshman basketball. He gained his M.E. and D.Ed. from the University of Missouri.

The newest member of the committee is Mr. Julian Aubrey Pafford, the principal of Pittman Laboratory School.

Mr. Pafford graduated from Georgia Teachers College, where he was a basketball regular for three years.

'Looks Like A Great Year' Is Cage Season Outlook

Prospects for the best team in Georgia Teachers College history have caused a great deal of optimism on the part of Statesboro citizens and the college students.

Combine the new gymnasium with the eight returning lettermen, and it's clear why there's a rosy glow around GTC when the subject of 1955-1956 Georgia Teachers basketball enters the conversation.

The toughest schedule in history awaits this team, so it might be a case of the greatest team not posting the greatest record.

One of the highlights of the year will be the Quantico Invitational Holiday tournament at Quantico, Va. on December 20-22. GTC will get a chance to play teams from other parts of the country, and compare methods of play.

Eight lettermen return including All-American selection and team captain Chester Webb, seniors Emory Clements, Buddy Ward, and Jim Harley; juniors Doug Corry, Bo Warren, and Don Wallen, and sophomore Garland Campbell. A sketch on Webb appears on page three.

Don Wallen — The junior guard from Wheelwright, Ky. is one of the brightest play-making stars in GTC history. 5-11½ and 175 pounds. Physical education major. 20 years old. Set school record of 223 assists last year while scoring 292 points. Regular shortstop on the baseball team. Favorite athlete is Stan Musial.

Doug Corry — 6-5 and 190 pounds. Forward from Union Point, Ga. Rated the most improved player on last year's squad. Third in scoring with 307 points. Physical education major. Rugged defensive rebounder. 20 years old.

Garland Campbell — 5-11 and 175 pounds. Forward from Winfall, Ind. Second on the team career. Physical education major. Married to the former Betty Jo Woodard, 21 years old.

Emory Clements—6-1 and 187 pounds. Senior from Irwinville. Earned varsity letter at the University of Georgia before transferring to GTC. Scored 74 points after becoming eligible at first baseman-outfielder last spring. Physical education major. 21 years old.

Jim Harley — Senior from Perry, Ga. 6-1 and 155 pounds of always-hustling ballplayer. Earned two varsity letters at GTC before entering army. Will become eligible at end of winter quarter, and will give the starting lineup a run for their money. Best year at GTC was his sophomore year's scoring total of 377. Made All-Third Army team at Fort Jackson last year.

Ralph Spurlock — Sophomore from Caywood, Ky. 6-0 and 160. 26 years old. Physical education major. Good two-hand set shot. Scored 27 points in 14 games last year.

Herbert Houston — 6-2 and 189. Made traveling squad late last year. Sophomore from Blakely, Ga. 19 years old.

Reserved Seats Held for Students

Students and their wives or husbands will have a special reserved section of the gym this year, according to J. I. Clements, athletic business manager.

These reserved seats are located on the east side floor level, and students are asked to use the left door of the gym, the one on the side of the Pembroke highway, when entering the gym.

Someone will be stationed at this door to receive tickets from the student books issued earlier this quarter. No student will be admitted without this book, and no ticket from the book is valid if torn from the book.

Webb Receives Hanner Award

Chester Webb, veteran center from Elberton, was the recipient of the W. S. Hanner Award last season because of his proficiency from the free throw line. Webb sank 230 and missed 89 gift attempts for a .721 per cent.

The trophy, sponsored on a permanent basis, is donated each season to GTC's most accurate free thrower by W. S. Hanner, faculty athletic chairman.

In order to be eligible for the award, members of GTC squads must attempt at least 50 free throws in games other than exhibitions.

The award, offered for the first time last year, seemed to have a benefit upon the entire squad. The team improved their average of .649 to .673.

New Gym to Improve Basketball For GTC

Tomorrow night the Professors open the 1955-56 basketball season in their new home, the beautiful gymnasium and physical education facility completed only a few weeks ago.

The as yet undedicated gymnasium was constructed at a cost of $325,000 to replace the outgrown Alumni Gymnasium, now used by the Pittman High athletic teams.

The new gymnasium is worthy of the improved schedule on the roster for this season, and will provide a seating capacity of more than 2,000 for Professor fans.

Notable improvements in the new gym, other than increased capacity, include visibility unhampered by posts, a four-sided score board providing visibility from all points in the gym, and a wide area separating the playing court from the spectators.

Lightweight roll-away seats have been installed on the floor level and on the balcony. Glass backboards from the old gym were transferred to the new gym, and are now ready for cage action.

J. I. Clements, athletic business manager, says he looks for a larger attendance than last year due to the more promising facilities for spectators. He points out that at the final game in the old gym, all of the seats were taken, and standing room was filled around the playing area. "We won't have to contend with that this year," he says, "which should make attending a game more promising to basketball fans of this area. I expect a much wider attendance than was enjoyed at the home games last year."

Coach J. B. Scarce says that the new gym will improve basketball in every respect at GTC. "Now for the first time, we are able to improve our schedule and play some of the larger schools of the area," he states. "We can now stand on equal footing with them, and offer them facilities equal to their own. Also, we will enjoy the support of a larger following of fans, since they will no longer have to worry about not getting a seat. All this serves to improve basketball for GTC."

The improved schedule has already begun to materialize, with three new opponents. High Point College, Kentucky Wesleyan, and Morningside College, on the roster for this year, as well as most of the better teams played in past years.

AND THE OLD—Alumni Gymnasium, built in 1931 from donations of former students and townspeople. Used for college athletic events until this year, when the Professors moved into a new and bigger home. This gym seats only 1,000, as compared to 3,000 in the new gym. Pittman High School has inherited the alumni gymnasium, and all high school athletic events will be held here this year.

Here's a new slant on men's fashions... it's sequins on their tux shirts. It is supposed to reflect the trend toward individual and elegant men's fashions. I wonder how many of these shirts will be seen at the Christmas Formal?

Red is definitely the color for this Christmas season. I've seen red wool dresses, red skirts, red velvet pedal pushers, and red pajamas! We could all pass for Santa's brothers and sisters, all dressed in red!

Girls, have you seen the lovely beaded velvet belts, pocketbooks, and head bands? They make nice accessories for your dressy dresses!

Long coats are wonderful and also very warm for days like we have been having lately, but let's not leave the short coat out of the picture found in Botany and Anglo wools and imported tweeds.

It's cashmere and worsted suits for our men. They come in the very popular cashmere shades of oxford grey, Cambridge grey, and bark brown. Cashmere and worsted are the warmest for these cold, cold days!

When you are buying that Christmas gift for your favorite boyfriend, don't forget the ever popular V-neck sweater. It would make any boy's Christmas a fine one. That works both ways; any girl would love to have a sweater for Christmas, v-neck or otherwise.

For the new slimmer, longer look—try the new, neat, and narrow skirt, with double breasted, long torso jacket. You'll be neat as a pin!

Be good, keep up to date. See you at the game!

GTC Buildings To Get Xmas Face-Lifting

Several buildings on GTC campus are scheduled to undergo face liftings in the near future. Work will begin in the library during the Christmas holidays. The Marvin Pittman auditorium will receive an extensive renovation program.

Johns-Manville Corp. will install accoustical tile in all of the upstairs and downstairs portions of the library except the stack rooms and the audiovisual area. Fluorescent lighting will be installed in all of these same areas of the library.

Although the air-conditioning contract has not been let, it is expected that work will begin on that project in sufficient time to have the library ready prior to warm weather. The library will also receive a complete paint job on the inside during the holidays. When completed it will probably be more functional and comfortable than any other library in this part of the state.

The windows of Pittman auditorium will be replaced with steel sash windows. New tile will be placed on the floor and the stage will be relighted.

Jane Jackson Named to Head Phi Beta Lambda

Phi Beta Lambda, GTC organization of student assistants, has elected Jane Jackson, Crawfordville freshman, president.

Others named to serve with her include Rose Watkins, Hinesville junior, program vice president; Bee Carroll, Statesboro freshman, social vice president; Lillie Chambers, Wrightsville junior, secretary; and Alice Wingate, Sylvester sophomore, treasurer.

The group was organized to improve the standards of student assistants, to foster greater appreciation of the campus contributions of the assistants, and to establish in the students a feeling of pride in the knowledge that they are helping defray the expenses of their college education. Membership is limited to students who hold down part-time jobs on the campus. Over 100 students are employed.

Pi Beta Lambda's new president is assistant in the office of public relations. Don McDougald, college comptroller, and Miss Kirbylene Stephens, secretary to the president, are the faculty advisors.

Omega Freshman Is Rated Alpha As Ventriloquist

By JOYCE KIRKLAND

Ventriloquist, taxidermist, or music major? There is one student on the GTC campus who claims all three titles. Bobby Godwin, a freshman from Omega, Georgia, begins his college career, seemingly at the top of the ladder.

Danny, his most well-known dummy (?), spends his time off-stage in a small suitcase in the closet of room 204 in Sanford Hall. His entrance into his master's life was heralded by the teaching of ventriloquism by one of Bobby's home-town friends. Danny enjoys his public appearances along with Bobby at present, but Jerry will enter the picture as soon as GTC's ventriloquist can operate two of his friends for a whole show together.

Danny was bought in a novelty house soon after Bobby started studying "Secrets of Ventriloquism and Vocal Illusions" and practicing before a mirror. The hardest part of this hobby of his is getting a show together. There are certain letters which must not be outspoken, and as Godwin says, "It's rather difficult to stick to those that are left."

While he was a student at Tifton High School, from which he graduated, this talented young artist had as a hobby a rather profitable one — taxidermy. In a science exhibit in a biology fair, he won first place. However Bobby is concentrating on his two other hobbies now.

Majoring in music at GTC consumes the larger portion of any student's time, as Bobby Godwin has discovered. As clarinetist in the Five Freshmen, a Phi Mu Alpha pledge, and a member of several other musical organizations on campus, Bobby has made known his ability in that world of entertainment also.

Backstage Notes of Masquers Production Most Enlightening

By LARRY HYDE

I am sitting backstage in McCroan Auditorium minutes before the curtain goes up on the Masquers' first presentation of the year.

Everyone is making last-minute changes and last touches of makeup are being added.

Miss Dorothy Few, director of Masquers, is being paged by everyone. If she were 25 people, it would be impossible for her to answer all the calls that are being made for her.

Tenseness Backstage

You can feel the tenseness backstage as these young actors and actresses are about to go before an audience for the first time.

George Morrell comes in and tells everyone that it is three minutes before the curtain goes up, and Miss Few tells everyone in the first act to take their places on stage.

Don Haimovitz is standing by, ready to turn the stage lights on.

We're On

The curtain is drawn; stage lights go on, and "Stage Door" is on.

Now that the play is underway, everyone quiets down to wait for their cue.

Jerry Todd is doing some last-minute sewing on a derby that Lewis Strickland wears in the play. Bob Allen is nervously fumbling with a screw while Shirley Roundtree seems to be calm about the whole thing.

Carlton Humphrey, a veteran of many plays, can't stand still. He is wandering from one place to another.

Ruth Baker is applying makeup to Billy Hobbs at the makeup table, while over in one corner, Wilma Ricketson and Betty Watson are studying chemistry.

Rush is On

The rush is on. Star Woodard, Lila Canuette, Carlene Ushery, Ellen Blizzard and Diana Bair are changing clothes faster than a cat can wink his eye. Like all women, they can't keep quiet and Sue Whaley is asking them to please make less noise.

Janis Meyers is running around like a chicken with its head cut off. She can't find all of her clothes.

In all of this chaos, Ann Johnson is standing in the middle of the floor in an outfit that looks as if she just arrived from the bullfights in Mexico.

Which Has Toni

Ruth Odum and Ellen Sumner are having trouble getting their curls to stay in the right place. You should try fixing your hair with ten people at one mirror. It isn't easy.

Darn those hose; they just won't stay up or rather Lucille Parker seems to be having trouble keeping hers up. Maybe the garters aren't tight enough.

Marian Porter has been in front of that mirror for the past ten minutes. He looks like a cat from Hackensack.

Cliff Takes Five

Someone let a porter in the back door. No, it isn't, it's Cliff O'Neal getting a breath of fresh air.

The play is well underway now and most of the people are not as tense as before.

Sue Whaley is still trying to keep the noise down, but has turned her attention to Bob Allen and is helping him tuck in his shirt tail.

Out in the middle of the floor, I. J. Robertson is teaching Star Woodard how to play poker, while Tab Smith is pacing the floor taking a last-minute look at his lines.

Busy Mirror

That mirror is really working overtime tonight. Barbara Branch has taken her place in front of it and such primping I have never seen.

Carolyn Tuttle is sitting across the room and by looking at the expression on her face, you would think that she had failed three subjects.

The mighty mite, Gladys Brown, has just walked by and I had to look twice to recognize her under all that makeup. She looked "real gone" in those flannel PJs.

Cliff Off Again

It's time for the pause that refreshes. The porter, no, it's Cliff O'Neal again, with an armful of Cokes.

I. J. Robertson has found himself another "student." I wonder if he is really teaching them anything. Wait a minute. Ed Dukes has just walked over to see what is going on. I expect the dice to come out any minute.

Just a moment ago Kitty Kelly was helping Dukes into his shirt and I'll bet she put an ace up his sleeve.

The play is nearing its end and it looks as if the Masquers have done it again. All the students at GTC can be proud of this organization and if you missed the production this quarter, there is always winter quarter when the Masquers will present another outstanding play.

Musical Notes

By HARRIET WOODARD

Well, it's still "16 Tons," far as GTC is concerned. You better know that's a fine song! Bet it'll be a long ole time 'fore we let it die, too.

To the seniors who'll be leaving us come June we'll dedicate "Moments to Remember." The Four Lads recorded it for Columbia and, Buddy, they really did it up right! Those words are really something—lend an ear to it sometime.

Christmas is definitely on the way, so start hauling in a pile of mistletoe, drag out last year's jingle bells, and start buttering up your pals so they'll make with the gifts. Before the last left-over turkey was eaten I began to hear Christmas tunes one ye olde radio. Lots of them are all about snow, white Christmases, and such and we never get any of the white stuff down here, but the songs are nice just the same. There's one by the DeCastro Sisters called "Snowbound for Christmas" and another called "The First Snowfall" by the Voices of Walter Schumann. Both are right pretty.

Who is this new canary called Kit Carson? Wonder if she's related to the Carsons of the early West? Have you heard her recording of "Band of Gold"? The band she's singing 'bout happens to be a wedding ring.

Good ole Frankie! (Sinatra, that is.) Honestly, he can pop up with the best songs ever. I'm just crazy 'bout "Weep They Will." He's one guy who hasn't lost his touch!

If you wanta hear a stomp-down good 'un, here it is! It's "You'll Always Be the One" by the Four Aces. 'Course it probable won't be as popular as "Love is a Many Splendored Thing," but it's bound to be played a few times.

To all the lucky souls who happen to still be in their teens, here's a dedication: "Teenage Prayer" by Gale Storm.

Did you know that June Valli's nickname is "The Torch"? Well, don't feel like the Lone Ranger; neither did I till I heard a disc jockey say that since she recorded an album called "The Torch," she has been dubbed with that title. Cute, huh? By the way, she's warbling a new melody these days. It's called "Don't Tell Me Not to Love You."

Good luck to the basketball teams Saturday night! We'll all be pulling for ya, win or lose.

Like the cheerful undertaker — "I guess I'll be shovelin' along." 'Eye till next time.

Four students posted a 12 and 3 card to share the first prize in the GTC football contest's fourth week. Winners were James Milford, John Tootle, H. L. McCright, and Tom Perry.

Eight entrants came close to being winners by posting an 11 to 4 score. Runner-ups were Ellis DeLoach, B. E. Weaver, Lois Hammond, Alton Jones, Jean Holland, Roger Brown, Skeeter Griffin, and Cecil Hanner. In the third contest, Griffin was an individual winner, the only one of the contest.

The fourth contest saw the lowest number of entries in the five weeks. Only 38 students submitted entries for the contest.

Somebody goofed when picking the contest games for the fifth entry sheet! Ten winners... the George-Anne staff just can't stand to see so many people share the prize money!

Seems like somebody wanted the football contest to wind up full steam, and that's exactly what it did. The ten winners were Paul Carr, Johnny King, Billy Jackson, Joel Cooper, Bill

Milford Wins Two

Milford placed first in both the fourth and fifth contests, the only contestant to win in two of the entries during the entire contest.

The ten winners of the fifth contest saw only one more entrant than the fourth, with only 39 students submitting sheets.

Pro's Safe Bet

Somebody, but somebody, spends Sunday afternoon with eyes glued to the television screen. None of the winners miscued on the Redskins-Steelers game, and only two bet wrong on the Colts-49'ers contest. Seems like the pro's are safer bets than the college boys.

Scores of the fourth contest games were:

SMU 12, Baylor 0; Purdue 6, Indiana 4; Oklahoma A & M 28, Kansas State 0; Boston U. 25, Temple 0; Kansas 13, Missouri 7; UCLA 17, USC 7; Rutgers 12, Columbia 6; Lafayette 35, Lehigh 6; Stanford 19, California 0; Houston 26, Villanova 14; Ohio State 17, Michigan 0; TCU 35, Rice 0; Idaho 31, Montana 0; Minnesota 21, Wisconsin 6; and Yale 21, Harvard 7.

Final contests scores were:

Georgia Tech 21, Georgia 3; Baylor 15, Rice 7; Dayton 19, Villanova 7; Tulane 13, LSU 13 (tie); Boston College 26, Holy Cross 7; Southern Cal 42, Notre Dame 20; Auburn 26, Alabama 0; New Mexico 21, Brigham Young 16; TCU 20, SMU 13; Arizona 7, Temple State 6; Clemson 40, Furman 20; Army 14, Navy 6; Colorado A & M 10, Colorado 0; Washington Redskins 23, Pitt. 'Stage Door' Big Success; Next Play Announced

By CLIFF O'NEAL

The curtain parts and your eyes behold none other than the "Footlights Club." This was the scene displayed in the Masquers recent production of "Stage Door."

I think I can speak for all of us—the students of GTC—when I say we thoroughly enjoyed seeing our fellow students display such professional acting as was showed us in "Stage Door." It should give us all a warm feeling to know that the director, Miss Dorothy Few, spent many hours just selecting a play and cast that she thought the students of GTC would like the most.

In the production of Stage Door they had to have a director, technical designer, stage manager, assistant stage managers, lighting committee, costumes committee, construction crew, program committee, students in charge of ads, posters, publicity, make-up, and people who were in charge of the house. Then, last but not least, if you have forgotten, the actors and actresses themselves who served on committees as well as learned their lines. All these people had to work together or we would not have seen a play at all.

Good leadership was displayed on all sides of the stake. The people connected with "Stage Door" looked like they were enjoying all the work that they were compelled to do.

Looks Like...

Don Avery — 6-5 and 180 pound center from Ball Ground, Ga. Physical education major. Junior transfer from Brewton-Parker's state junior college champions. Played at Canton high school. Figured as good center insurance this year, and has an excellent chance of starting at pivot post next year.

DID YOU KNOW?

GTC's new gymnasium is equipped with a four-sided electrical scoreboard, believed to be the only one in a college gymnasium in the South.

GTC's two longest winning streaks were both ended by Florida teams. The 1949-50 team won 20 in a row before losing to the University of Tampa. The 1954-55 squad had a 14-game string snapped by Florida State.
