Stop Drinking Contest Slated

Do you know how to stop drinking on the campus? Have you ever thought of it seriously? Then you will be interested in a contest sponsored by the "Intercollegiate Association for Study of the Alcohol Problem." Prizes totaling $500 for editorials of 500 to 800 words on the subject, "Social Pressure Against Alcohol." Here is an opportunity to earn extra money while writing on a subject that you have, perhaps, thought of a great deal.

If you need material for your subject you may secure it by writing to the Contest Secretary, Box 3342, Merchandise Mart Station, Chicago 54, Ill., to obtain a free packet containing factual information about alcohol, writings on the social aspects of the problems, and a bibliography.

Suggestions that may be of help are: Write clearly — Write from your own experience. Be sure of your facts. Watch spelling, punctuation, and neatness. Rules of the contest are as follows: Eligibility — Any fulltime undergraduate student registered in a college or junior college in the U.S. or Canada for the year 1949-50 and does not write professionally. Length — Not less than 500 or more than 800 words. Manuscripts — Must be typed double space, or written in ink with the author's name on a separate sheet of paper. Deadline — Must be postmarked not later than June 20, 1950. Every manuscript must be accompanied by a contest entry which may be obtained by writing to Edin H. Maynard, Contest Secretary, to the above address.

The prizes for the contest are: First prize — $200, second (two) prize — $50 (each), third (10) prize — $20 (each).

T.C. Choir Sings For High Schools

The Georgia Teachers College Philharmonic Choir, under the direction of Dr. Ronald J. Neil, chairman of the division of music, with Mr. Jack W. Broucek, head of the piano department as accompanist, has a number of out-of-town concerts scheduled in the near future.

On Sunday evening, Feb. 12, they will appear at the First Baptist Church in Sylvania, Ga. On Sunday, Feb. 19, they will sing at a union service in the high school at Hazelhurst, Ga. This program will be at 11 o'clock. On the same evening they will appear at the First Methodist Church in Fitzgerald, Ga. The itinerary for Monday, Feb. 20, includes McRae at 10 o'clock. These three programs will be given in the high schools of those cities.

Feature soloists on these concerts will be Miss Anne Trice, soprano, and Miss Anna Maria Tipples, contralto. Groups will be sung by both the men's voices and the women's voices alone and two of Dr. Neil's compositions will be heard on the program.

Concert Band Tours Friday

Forty-five members of the Concert Band, accompanied by Mr. Rasmussen and Miss Luke, gave concerts in Jesup and Brunswick Friday. The Glynn-Academy band took the group on a complementary tour of Jekyll Island.

They also attended the Waycross-Glynn Academy game and played for a Glynn Academy senior dance.

Chapel will be held Thursday and Friday of next week instead of Monday and Friday. Dr. DeWitt Matthews, religious emphasis week speaker, will be in charge of both of the services.

National Daily Seeks Features

Of particular interest to students who enjoy writing essays, poetry, or humorous articles, those who like to take unusual pictures, draw cartoons or draw serious pictures, is the announcement made by the Christian Science Monitor of a new section to be added to the Daily Features Page in February.

It will be called "By Youth For Youth" and will provide ambitious young people with an opportunity for a market on a professional basis. The type of features desired are those that would interest the high school or college student and young career workers. Some of the topics suggested are the jobs or goals they are seeking; why they selected their particular university or college; opinions on current movies; the trend of television; the place of young voters or future voters in the political world; hobbies; sports; unusual vacation experiences; money - earning ideas; decorating ideas — or any topic that particularly interests the prospective contributor. If you like to draw, there is also a place for you, and unusual photographs are asked for.

If you have something to contribute, you are asked to send it to the Editor of the Daily Feature Page with a stamped, self-addressed envelope to guarantee return of unused material. Manuscripts should be typed double space. Length can vary, but should average around 500 or 600 words. Address your material to Herbert E. Thorson, Christian Science Monitor, One Norway Street, Boston 15, Massachusetts.

Club Presidents

Club Presidents:

If your organization has changed its meeting time or place, please let The George-Anne know. It is very difficult to arrange the calendar accurately each week, especially when we aren't sure the information on the schedule of clubs and organizations is up-to-date.

Thank you for your consideration.

THE EDITOR.

TC Religious Emphasis Week Begins Tomorrow

Religious Emphasis Week, sponsored by the Student Christian Association, begins tomorrow with the vesper service. The week's activities will follow much the same order as that of last year during our first Religious Emphasis Week.

The theme of the week's activities is "In His Steps." An outline of the week's schedule, Monday through Friday, is:

Every Morning — 6:45 to 7, morning watch.

Every Evening — 6 to 6:16, Twilight.

Every Night — 8:15 to 9, talks and discussions. 10 to 10:15, evening watch.

Miss Ouida Wood, director of the G.S.C.W. Wesley Foundation, will have charge of the twilight services Monday through Wednesday. At 10 Wednesday night, she will conduct a joint meeting of all the students on the campus in a flag-pole service.

The Rev. George Lovell, First Baptist Church of Statesboro, will speak on Monday night at the 8:15 meeting on cheating and gambling. The Rev. John S. Lough, Statesboro Methodist Church, will address the Tuesday night assembly drinking and social conduct. Discussion groups will be organized Wednesday night and each Protestant Minister of Statesboro will conduct forums on cheating, gambling, drinking, and social conduct.

Dr. DeWitt Matthews, pastor of the Vineville Baptist Church, Macon, will be guest speaker at chapel and the night services on Thursday and Friday. He will be honored at a reception after the assembly on Friday night.

Each dormitory will send representatives to the other dormitories every night except Wednesday for the evening watch services.

George Herndon, president of the S.C.A., along with 24 other ministerial students on the campus, plan to take an active part in the programs of the week.

St. Matthews Church Dedication On February 15

Wednesday, Feb. 15, marks the opening of the new St. Matthews Catholic Church on the Savannah highway in Statesboro. Father Smith, the pastor, announces a full program with friends and celebrities coming from the four corners of Georgia and many surrounding states.

His Excellency, the Most Reverend Bishop Francis E. Hyland, D.D., J.C.D., Auxiliary Bishop of the Savannah-Atlanta Diocese will preside at the dedicatory services.

The program will open with a Pontifical Mass at 10:30 a.m. at which Bishop Hyland will give the opening sermon. At 3:30 p.m. Bishop Hyland will Portificate at Solemn Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament. Rev. Patrick J. O'Connor of the Catholic University of America at Washington will deliver the sermon. The Academy Choir from Saint Vincents in Savannah will sing for both services.

The afternoon service will be followed by Open Church from 4 to 6 o'clock. All at T.C. are welcome.

Ushers will be on hand to explain the various beautiful objects in the Church and to pass out explanatory booklets.

Students and faculty are invited to attend.

Student Teaching Needs Improving Says Principals

Student teaching at Georgia Teachers College, according to the principals of elementary and high laboratory schools, is not up to par.

Miss Bertha Freeman pointed out at a recent faculty meeting that student teachers who come to the elementary school are not, as a rule, prepared to come; they are strangers to their work. She also stated that some students find that they are incapable of teaching only after they actually get as far along as practice-teaching.

Mr. Shelby Monroe suggested that secondary students should appreciate the whole lab school program before and after beginning student teaching. He also recommended that students learn better the use of the library facilities.

Mr. Monroe pointed out that Social Studies and Physical Education are the only two crowded fields for the state at the present time.

Improvement for both school programs would be more lab school facilities; this, of course, refers to a new or better elementary school and more equipment in the high school.

Dr. Tom Little suggested that one of the main deficiencies here was the lack of off-campus student teaching.

Students who have applied for spring student teaching in the lab high school are going to find some of their fields overcrowded. Below is a chart showing the number of classes taught in each course in high school and the number of application already received to teach them:

| Sub. Mat.      | No. Classes in L.H.S. | Ap. for Spng. Teaching |
|----------------|-----------------------|------------------------|

Ignorance Is Bliss

By EDITH CARPENTER

THIS IS, SUPPOSEDLY, a school of higher learning. Here, if anywhere, you would expect to find a depth of mind beyond that of ordinary mortals. Here, you would expect to find the chance to carry on deep discussions concerning the future outlook for the world, or theories concerning the nature of matter. Here, you would expect to discover original these arguments about things of import, discussions of ancient literature as compared with modern free verse. These, you would ordinarily expect in a college.

At T.C. what do you find? Comic books! You approach a couple of intelligent-looking young seekers after knowledge. The conversation seems to be of deep import, for there are gestures and strong words flying, so you creep in to glean a few stray bits of knowledge. What you hear goes something like this:

"Red hair! No kidding?"

"And blue eyes! Boy, is she ever snazzy! She vibrates when she walks!"

You've heard of wires vibrating, not girls. It gives you something to puzzle over. Then, again, it seems that what few grains of knowledge that are picked up, accidentally as it were, by our students are grossly misused. Take this conversation, for instance:

"I don't know. He just does something to me!"

"He's just got what it takes, all right!"

"I think the outer ring of his atoms must lack just the number of electrons it takes to attract him to me! Boy, what a molecule we would make!"

And when one of our professors asked in a forgetful mood, "Was it Helen of Troy that Ulysses loved?" there was a deafening silence, broken only by a murmur from the rear of the room: "I thought Dick Tracy married her!"

Here we have an institution of learning, but what are we learning? Ask someone about "L'Argo" and they immediately ask, "Does Vaughn Monroe have a record of it?" Mention Einstein and a senior will pop up with, "I think I heard his name somewhere." Try to discuss the Law of Gravitation and one of our fairer sex will look horrified. You might ask. If I may answer it, I will say, "Nothing is happening." It is time something did."

Have Respect for Others

GRIPES, GRIPES, GRIPES! All we hear is gripes. We should get tired of gripes after awhile, but something tells me we haven't heard as many of them as we should. Take Monday's chapel program as a typical example. As we all know, under the present setup, chapel is required. Since we must go, surely we can show the performers enough courtesy to keep our mouths shut and our feet still during a twenty minute musical program. It does not show one iota of respect or manners to act as the majority of our student body did in chapel on Monday. Loud talking, laughing, and feet stamping are in keeping with a mountain hoedown; so can it until Saturday night.

Editor's Answer

I appreciate those three letters this week. I wholeheartedly agree with every one of them.

It is pleasing to know that at last some interest has been aroused on the campus. The main way to get your views before the student body and the faculty is through your student newspaper. Remember, the George-Anne doesn't belong to the staff that writes and makes it up each week. It is your paper, and what you have to say interests other students.

Letters to Editor

Dear Editor:

The Veterans Club has been sponsoring a basketball team this quarter. So far, the turnout from both the student body and faculty has been disappointing.

The Vets have gone to great expense and trouble in outfitting this team and need your support. While they are not the varsity, they represent the school, and represent it well, as shown by the writeups appearing in the Savannah Morning News.

Next week they have two home games. Please be there and help make this program a success.

A VETERAN.

Dear Editor:

It is my honest opinion that the students of T.C. are a complaining group. They are continually griping about the speakers in chapel. Time after time I read letters to the editor asking for more student participation programs. Finally, we have had a student participation program and now they sit and giggle, poke fun at, and even go so far as to remark that it was terrible.

Will they ever be satisfied? It would serve those people right if they had to take over the program, no matter what it is, and complete with an error.

STUDENT WHO HATES COMPLAINERS.

Dear Editor:

Complaining? Heck, no! But doing a little bragging. That is, if people won't complain about it.

About the main thing I see to brag about is T.C. Pretty fine place we have here. There are a lot of things here to brag about if we stop fussing for awhile. Just want to say: why don't we see all the good and force a smile at the bad. We're grown younguns!

I. C. GOOD.

The mayor of a small city was attempting to raise funds at a public meeting for a much-needed civic project. After a rousing overture by the fireman's band, he spoke eloquently.

"Now," he said, concluding, "All who will give ten dollars, stand up."

Turning towards the band leader, he whispered, "Hey, Joe, play 'The Star Spangled Banner' now!"

(Just a suggestion to Dr. Henderson when he asks the board of regents to appropriate money for a new men's dormitory again.)

Do We Want an Honor System?

AS A FOLLOW-UP of last week's letter and reply concerning the formation of an honor system at T.C., I would like to mention a few things that have come to be considered in such procedure.

First of all, an honor system that not only applies to work in the classroom but to the daily living of each student who attends T. C., it would have to be an all-over campus movement. There would have to be honor in the dormitories, on the campus itself, in the classroom, and in all other phases of college life.

Second, the student body itself would have to be conscientious enough to report any suspect of theft, cheating, or any other form of dishonesty that might arise. It would make no difference who is guilty, under an honor system, this person would be counseled, warned, or expelled—as all the rules set up would apply.

Third, all campus organizations would have to work together on such a great undertaking. No one club or group could possibly, within itself, set up a system and carry it out efficiently.

Fourth, some system would have to be organized that would meet the approval of both the students and the administration. We would also have to wait patiently until such a system could be set up and actually put into effect before we would know whether or not it could be successful. If we began work on an honor system right now, it would probably be next fall before it could actually gain enough footing to work.

Fifth, it would be the responsibility of each individual to be honorable himself at all times.

The thought of such a system is "food for thought." Let's think about it.

THE BLUE TIDE

By BUD STONE

Listen, good people and you shall hear
About the basketball team T.C. has this year.
At forward we have Clements and Perkins, two outstanding me.
The way they shoot points
The other teams think it's a sin.
A center we have Helton, the long, tall boy,
When he sinks two points the co-eds shout for joy.
Parson and Parson, two guards, from Old Kaintuck,
They can even make a ball do "The Huckle Buck."
Then we have Mitch Connor, the last of three,
He has arms like a windmill and a very sharp knee.
And Roy Calhoun, of B. P. I fame,
Has already live up to his name.
'Course there's George Roebuck, "Country" to you,
When he goes in the other teams say, "We're through."
Mountjoy is another Kentucky boy, you know—
Lawrence can really go in and put on a show.
Jim Duncan has a shooting eye that's fine,
When the going is rough, he's at his best to bring the team from behind.
Johnson, another from Kentucky, is a mighty fine lad,
He can really make the opposition look mighty sad.
Clyde Little at guard is a freshman, they say,
He plays a game that would be credit to anyone any day.
Billy Carter is the manager who likes to be known as a shiek,
The only time he is quiet is when he is asleep.
Then, there is Mason Clements, the trainer you should know,
When the boys want tape or gauze he always says, "No."
Mason's assistant is McTier—he does all the work;
He fixes up muscles and ligaments with a twist and a jerk.
J. I. Clements, the big Assistant Coach—
He is the man that makes the boys wish they didn't smoke.
Coach Scearce is the little bitty man,
When the boys can't get right, he raises sand.
Oh, yes, there is Ivy, the coach's right hand man, they say.
Ivy is the only man on the squad that gets more than hay.

GOALS

The Blue Tide rolled in Sunday after making a clean sweep of the Florida trip. The boys came back with little blue caps and lots of fresh fruits.

Capt. Bucky Helton had to turn in to the hospital upon his return, but we think that all the students on the campus should look at his total points of the last three games. "Buck" got 12 against Stetson, 31 against Florida Southern, and 27 against Green Cove Navy, for a total of 70 for the three games.

Oftimes we overlook players like Bucky, because he never tries to draw individual praise, but just look how bad it hurts the team when the long 'un is out of the game. Bucky has proved that he really deserves the honor of being captain of the Blue Tide.

Since Sonny Clements has been ill, ole George Roebuck has really been playing some ball for the Tide. Ole George has proved himself capable of keeping the spirit of the team up when the chips are down.

Here's some more dope on that trip into the not so hot (now) state of Florida:
