Zach's News

November 14, 2014

Georgia Southern University, Zach S. Henderson Library

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalcommons.georgiasouthern.edu/lib-news-online

Recommended Citation
https://digitalcommons.georgiasouthern.edu/lib-news-online/662

This article is brought to you for free and open access by the Newsletters at Digital Commons@Georgia Southern. It has been accepted for inclusion in University Libraries News Blog by an authorized administrator of Digital Commons@Georgia Southern. For more information, please contact digitalcommons@georgiasouthern.edu.
HOT DOC – ACS questions on chopping block: public comments welcome!

November 14, 2014

A new article on the American Association for the Advancement of Science website discusses the Census Bureau’s proposal to cut several questions from the American Community Survey, a proposal that the article presents as a response to Congressional critics of the ACS:

Can Question No. 12 Survive? Researchers Fight to Retain a Question About College Degrees on American Community Survey

The article notes that the proposal, published in the October 31 Federal Register, is open for public comments.

The article also quotes a Census Bureau official as saying he has “no dog in the fight,” but as a gov info enthusiast, maybe you feel like you do. Comments are due December 30. If you’re interested in more background on this, the Census Project Blog has been covering it for quite a while.

Shared with you by: Lori Gwinett, Associate Professor & Government Documents Librarian (lgwinnett@georgiasouthern.edu)

Posted in Government Documents, Resources and Services

Tags: AAAS, ACS, American Association for the Advancement of Science, American Community Survey, Census Project Blog, Federal Register, gov docs, Government documents, Hot Doc