Six of Nine Races Undecided; Class Run-offs Set Thursday

Six of the nine class officer elections held last Thursday have ended in run-offs. All three senior class contests, two junior class races and one race in the sophomore class will be decided in a special run-off election scheduled for Thursday, April 29 in the Williams and Landrum Centers. (See related story).

In the senior class elections Wayne Buffington had 82 votes to 63 for Carolyn Brown and 56 for Alex Hooks. Buffington, junior history major from Zebulon, Ga., will face Miss Brown, junior physical education major from McRae, in the run-off.

Tommy Smith, junior speech major from Alma, gathered 74 votes to 64 for Lynda Reeves, a senior English major from McDonough, in the race for senior vice president. Pamela Eckles and Joe Burnett had 33 and 32 votes respectively in that race. Smith and Miss Reeves will vie for the vice presidency in the run-off election.

In the senior class secretary-treasurer's race, Marilyn Brown, junior physical education major from McRae, took 92 votes to the 65 votes gathered by her run-off opponent Darryl Yearwood, junior English major from Union Point. Lyndal Yeilding collected 41 votes in that contest.

Roger Huff led the race for junior class president with 83 votes. Huff, political science major from Monticello, Ga., will face Terry Duvall, political science major from Woodville, in the run-off. Duvall collected 54 votes. John McDowell and Karen Knight gathered 46 and 17 votes respectively in that contest.

Karen Knight, home economics major from Moultrie, captured 61 votes to lead the race for junior vice president. Miss Knight's run-off opponent will be Patricia Godbee, medical technology major from Newington, who collected 54 votes. Bob Sammons had 51 votes and Lynn Slade gathered 37 votes in the contest.

Barbara Thompkins won the junior secretary-treasurer's post. Miss Thompkins, business major from Decatur, took 115 votes to 86 votes cast for sandy Miller.

Harold Acker, political science major from Elberton, breezed into the office of sophomore class

★ BULLETIN ★

Results of two sophomore class officer races and all three junior class officer contests have been declared invalid by the elections committee, according to an announcement released early this morning by Rod Meadows, SAGC president.

New elections for these five contested elections, involving all the original candidates, have been set for Thursday, April 29, 10 a.m. until 7 p.m., in the Landrum and Williams Centers.

The committee upheld the results of the election for sophomore class vice president, in which Mary Fitzpatrick ran unopposed for that post.

Senior class election results were declared valid by the committee, according to Meadows. Run-off elections for president, vice president and secretary-treasurer of the senior class will be held Thursday, 10 a.m. until 7 p.m., Landrum and Williams Centers.

Grounds for overturning the election results in the sophomore and junior classes came from candidates' and students' charges that the Williams Center polls closed one hour to forty-five minutes ahead of the 7 p.m. scheduled close.

president by capturing 93 votes to 26 votes for Darwin Williams.

Mary Fitzpatrick, English major from Savannah, took 110 votes in her unopposed bid for sophomore class vice president.

Nancy Arnold, psychology major from Augusta, led the sophomore class secretary-treasurer's race with 53 votes. Her run-off opponent is Beth Singletary, special education major from Macon, who collected 38 votes. John Geldart had 38 votes in that contest.

Strange Procession

A mournful procession winds its way around the college campus as students participating in

Earth Week activities prepare to metaphorically bury "Mother Earth." (For details of last Wednesday's mock-funeral — see page 12).

Regents Approve Facilities, Appointments, Promotions

Two new facility projects: Three Home Management Houses and an electrical distribution system worth nearly one million dollars; ten new appointments and nineteen promotions; three new department heads; and a new masters degree program, were approved for Georgia Southern College this week by the University System Board of Regents.

Architects for the three Home Management Houses are Merrill Levy of Savannah; for the Electrical System, Blakley, Johnson and Associates of Macon.

The 19 promotions are: to the rank of professor, Dr. John Alan Beegle, Dr. Doyice J. Cotten, Dr. Cecil G. Howard, Dr. Larry E. Price, and Dr. John P. Van Dusen.

To the rank of Associate Professor: Dr. X. Lewell Garrison, Dr. Zia H. Hashmi, Dr. Keith F. Hickman, Dr. Lawrence B. Kelly, Dr. Kishwar M. Maur, Dr. Joseph O. Olson, Jr.

To the rank of Assistant Professor: Mrs. Nancy C. Barrett, Mrs. Sara Neville Bennett, Mrs. Barbara Whipple Bitter, Dr. Edward Brown, Charlotte A. Ford, James M. Hood, John Sherwood McDuffie, Eunice H. Powell.

Dr. Justine Mann was appointed Head of the Department of Political Science; Dr. Taylor Scott, head of the Sociology and Anthropology.

Another masters degree program was awarded the GSC Graduate School in the area of Adult Education beginning this summer.

G-A, Reflector Positions Open

The deadline for applications for next year's editors of the GEORGE-ANNE and Reflector has been tentatively scheduled for mid-May, according to Dr. Hollis Cate, chairman, the student publications committee.

Positions open on the GEORGE-ANNE are: editor, managing editor, news editor and business manager. Positions open to applicants for the Reflector are: editor, associate editor and business manager.

Students interested in applying for a position (to be elected by members of the publications committee) will turn in a letter of application to the Chairman of the Publications Committee.

Complete details concerning qualifications and the final deadline for applications will be announced in next week's GEORGE-ANNE.

Cartoonist Capp To Speak

Tuesday, May 4
Hanner Fieldhouse

AL CAPP, controversial cartoonist and creator of "Lil Abner," will speak next Tuesday, May 4, 8:15 p.m. in the Hanner Fieldhouse. During the lecture students will be able to ask the outspoken cartoonist questions, as the press kit claims Capp as "an expert on nothing, with opinions on everything." The oft-vitriolic critic of contemporary college students is being brought to the campus by the Lecture Series Committee.

FRATERNITY ENROLLMENT DROPS Greek System In Trouble?

by
BOB ANTHONY
G-A Staff Writer

Is the GSC Fraternity system in trouble? The total enrollment in fraternities here as of Jan. 12, 1970 was 472. The total membership in fraternities as of Jan. 20, 1971 was 419. These statistics were taken from the Fraternity Scholarship Report published quarterly by the office of student personnel. These figures show a significant loss in membership during the past year.

"Fraternity enrollment is down. The fraternities are going through a change," said Dean of Men George Lynch. "I strongly believe that fraternities have a place and possibly contribute greatly to some aspects of college life. But by no means are an answer to everybody," Lynch continued.

Bill Larkey, IFC president remarked that enrollments in some individual fraternities may be down but the fraternity system as a whole is not in trouble.

Fraternities are reviewing their rush system. In future quarters, the rush system will become less formal.

Fraternities are evaluating their relevancy to the student. "Students nowadays question the fraternities. Fraternities must have a product that can stand public scrutiny. I'd like to think of where fraternities are going rather than where they have been," stated Dean Lynch.

"Times are changing. We want to make ourselves aware of the times as any social institution would," commented Larkey.

MASQUERS GUEST DIRECTOR

Sumner Talks About Theatre

by
CILE DAVIS
G-A Staff Writer

MARK R. SUMNER
Directs 'Look Homeward'

Mark Sumner has some definite ideas about his spring production of "Look Homeward Angel" with Masquers, campus drama group.

The play, which will run from May 5-May 8, and features a cast of 19 GSC students, will open at McCroan Auditorium with free admission to college students with valid ID's. Admission for others will be $1. The play will begin at 8:15 p.m. each night.

Sumner has a personal interest in the play adapted from the Thomas Wolfe novel. A native of Ashville, Wolfe's home town, Sumner knew Wolfe's mother. Sumner describes the play as "semi-autobiographical, sort of based on Wolfe's own family. It is a play in which all the characters are well developed. It has literary merit as well as excitement and I consider it an excellent modern play."

"It is set about 1916 and is a very good picture of American life just before we got into World War I. This is one of the reasons for the narrative characters and the whole flavor of the times.

"We considered several other plays, but we decided that this play would offer the widest variety in casting and staging as a student experience. It is also a play that can be staged in the brief time I have to spend here — only four weeks."

Commenting on different types of theatre, Sumner named Hair as the best example of the "new" theatre.

"The production of Hair demonstrates the new desire of artists and audiences for highly emotional theatre and images which are live instead of on motion picture or TV screens. But I am sorry that the script of Hair is as thin as it is in terms of characterization and story line."

"My favorite playwrights include Maxwell Anderson and Eugene O'Neill, with Paul Greene as a close runner-up. I don't have a strict favorite."

Lentz Explains MGC's Intervisitation Move

The Men's Governing Council submitted a list of intervisitation proposals to the Office of the Dean of Men on Monday, March 13.

According to "Dave" Lentz, president of the Men's Governing Council, the proposals arose from petitions received from Cone and Brannen Halls. The petitions were reviewed by a special Intervisitation Committee, headed by Hans Myer, a representative from Brannen Hall, and decided on the following proposals:

The hours for visitation for the opposite sex will be from 8 p.m. to midnight on Friday, from 2 p.m. till 5 p.m. and from 8 p.m. to midnight on Saturday, and from 7 p.m. till 9:30 p.m. on Sunday. The Dormitory Visitation Program will be in effect in Brannen, Cone, Dorman, Eton, Oxford, Sanford, and LaVista halls.

"The original petitions," Lentz stated, "called for 24 hour intervisitation, but the council first wanted to experiment with a weekend plan to find out if there would be any problems. We feel that if this weekend visitation plan works out, then later on longer hours might be implemented."

Stapleton Publishes Article

Dr. Richard C. Stapleton, associate professor and head, department of management-marketing, school of business, will have an article published in the May-June issue of the American Management Association Journal, PERSONNEL.

The article "The General Theory of Firing" analyzes the causes of employee separations and suggests a theoretically rational approach for coping with such causes and separations.

Stapleton received the Doctor of Business Administration degree at Texas Tech in August 1969. He was Associate Professor of Management at the University of Southwestern Louisiana 1969-1970, and joined the GSC faculty in June, 1970.

HEW Awards Dr. Oliver $18,000 Research Grant

Dr. James H. Oliver, Jr., Callaway Professor of Biology, has been awarded an $18,000 grant by the U.S. Office of Health, Education and Welfare, for research on mites and ticks.

This is the second financial increment in support of a three year research project being carried out by Oliver. Total monies for the proposal amount to $52,194.

Oliver, who is considered internationally as an authority on ticks and mites, is dealing with the reproduction of four species of acarines.

According to Oliver, little detailed information exists concerning reproduction in most mites and ticks, including species of great medical and veterinarian importance.

NSFP Awards Pike

John D. Pike, instructor of biology has been awarded a Summer Research Participation at the University of Tennessee. The program is financed by the National Science Foundation Program for College Teachers.

Pike's research will deal with environmental variation of photosyntheses in the alga, Chlorella pyrenoidosa.

Biology Faculty Attend Conference

Five Georgia Southern biologists participated in the recent meeting of the Association of Southeastern Biologists in Richmond. Three presented professional papers at the meeting.

Attending the meeting were Sara Bennett, Donald J. Drapalik, Cornelia Hyde, Donald Olewine and John D. Pike.

Olewine, Drapalik and Pike presented papers.

Three Nominated For Scholarships

Three Georgia Southern College Printing Management Majors have been nominated for the Riegel Paper Printing Scholarship program, according to Arv Vogel of the industrial technology division. Those students nominated are: Sandra Rowland, Altos Godfrey and Walt Edwards.

According to Vogel the scholarship program is established to provide the printing industry with highly trained technical-management people. The scholarships are worth up to $2,000 for each individual selected.

Dr. Mann Attends ASPA Conference

Dr. Justine Mann, professor of political science, attended the annual conference of the American Society for Public Administrators, April 18-21, in Denver, Col. Purpose of the meeting was to learn about establishing internship programs in state and local government.

Mann, a 1966 graduate of the University of Alabama with her Ph.D., is head of the department of political science at Georgia Southern.

Biology Faculty Publish Articles

Three faculty members from the department of Biology recently presented papers at the 32nd Annual Meeting of the Association of Southeastern Biologists which was held at the John Marshall Hotel in Richmond, Va.

Following are the authors with the titles of their papers - Dr. Donald A. Olewine and Randall L. Morton, "Observations on the collection and maintenance in the laboratory of the land planarian, Bipalium kewense;" Dr. Donald J. Drapalik, "The effect of four herbarium-drying methods on corolla lobe shrinkage in Matelea;" Mr. John D. Pike and Mr. Tom E. Jones, "Comparative growth of Paradise-fish fry on three diets;" and Mr. John D. Pike, "Environmental effects on the pigmentation of the Blue-green alga, Chlorogloea fritschii." Dr. Cornelia T. Hyde and Mrs. Sara N. Bennett also attended the meeting.

Presidents Re-elected

Presidents of 25 institutions of the Georgia University System were re-elected by the Board of Regents in March, for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1971. The action applies to presidents at all of the University System institutions except Savannah State College and West Georgia College. Acting presidents have been designated for Savannah State and West Georgia where they will serve until new presidents are elected and installed.

Miss Willie Maude Willimore had over 803 in attendance last night as she conducted Seminare Six-- on the serving and proper chilling of Cherry Koolaid. Willie Maude is in town for the simultaneous opening of the Spring Koolaid Festival and "LITTLE JOHN," the exciting new gift shop which opens with great flourish on April 30 in Statesboro Mall.

Credit Card Holder Wins

The nation's credit card users may be getting an unexpected bonus from a new law limiting their liability if their cards are lost or stolen.

The reason: many credit card firms have decided to take the loss themselves rather than notify all card holders of their new rights.

As of Jan. 24, credit card holders are not liable for any losses resulting from stolen or lost cards if they notify the issuer before anything is charged. Even if the card is used before notification takes place, the card holder's liability cannot exceed $50.

There's another wrinkle to the 1970 law, however.

The credit card issuer must notify the holder of his liability and furnish the card holder with a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reporting a lost or stolen card. Without such notification, the holder can't lose a penny under any circumstances.

An Associated Press survey of government, consumer groups, credit card issuers and credit card holders shows compliance with the notification provisions among issuers is spotty at best.

Sears, Roebuck and Co. said: "We do not plan to notify our customers as it never has been our policy to collect for cards which have been fraudulently used."

The FTC's Feldman fears that many credit card holders don't understand their new rights.

"The majority of issuers, mostly through inadvertence, continue to put the wrong information on the back of the card," said Feldman.

One consumer contacted by the AP showed an American Express card issued a month ago. The card was still inscribed with the old American Express policy of a $100 maximum liability from loss or theft.

Feldman said the FTC hasn't received any complaints about failure to notify them of their new rights. "People just don't know about it," he said.

GSC Holds Annual Dixie Speech Fest

The annual Dixie Speech Festival and Georgia Southern College Invitational Debate Tournament was held last week in Statesboro. According to Dr. Clarence McCord, a large number of university and college debate teams were on campus for the two day contest.

Other events included in the program were Broadcasting, Acting, Oral Interpretation, Public Speaking and Puppetry.

The debate tournament and the speech festival were operated as separate entities.

The festival and tournament began Friday, April 23.

WHAT WE HAVE HERE IS A FAILURE TO COMMUNICATE

Class Offices

About the time the class officer elections were completed last week, we began to hear rumors about contesting the election. The rumors have now been given a great deal of validity through the election committee's action overturning the results of five of the nine class races.

Get serious people!

This action means only one of the nine races is finished, and the bulk of these popularity contests will drag out for the remainder of the quarter.

That's That

To the best of the knowledge of the GEORGE-ANNE staff, there is no NARC who rides a bike around this campus.

And what will be the result of all of this? Candidate X has a pretty smile. Candidate Y has neat posters. And Candidate Z is full of a lot of hot air. That's big time politics. Yes sir. If it breathes, package it. If it talks, sell it. If it goes to Georgia Southern, run it for office.

During the past few years, we have had the opportunity to see a number of class officers in action. And only about one in ten has proven capable of any form of leadership, however small. The rest? Well, their pictures do look good in the yearbook, don't they?

Our solution—simple, just get rid of class offices. If the offices are non-existent, then we can't have a host of incompetents parading under the mask of a working class officer. Think about it. What have your class officers done for you this year? That "shore" is a neat yearbook picture.

A Good Idea!

Last Wednesday part of the campus underwent a remarkable but all too temporary metamorphosis. One day traffic stopped.

The traffic halt was part of an experiment planned by Earth Week officials to give students a chance to experience a traffic-and noise-free day. And it worked.

For once students were not subjected to the usual cacophony stemming from autos going hither and yon. For once students could walk the campus in relative safety, without having to dodge a needless number of cars driven too fast, too carelessly. And for once students in classes had the opportunity to hear what their instructors were talking about.

As a matter of fact, the traffic ban was about the only worthwhile event to come from the week-long ecological-argumentative talkathon.

The GEORGE-ANNE has long advocated a campus-wide reduction in the number of cars permitted in this area. And for an equally long period our suggestions have fallen on deaf ears.

Well, it seems as if we have found a solution. If we can't reduce the number of cars driving around the campus, the least we can do is to not give these cars anywhere to drive.

We congratulate Earth Week officials on their project. We only hope that this all too brief respite from the usual traffic melee will soon become a permanent reality.

E-Week Thoughts: Students Here Very Apathetic

Being one of the many workers and coordinators of Earth Week, I have some definite feelings and thoughts concerning the outcome of the week-long activities.

E-week was for this campus. The panel discussions, which proved not only stimulating and informative, were designed and tailored to answer questions most often asked by students. These discussions centered around issues that the average Joe College has bitched about all year. Local campus issues as well as topics of international concern such as population control were discussed. But who shows up? Did Joe College take an evening off to attend one of these sessions? No!

On the whole, I would say the student body here would have to be one of the most apathetic groups of "young adults" anyone could ever encounter.

All those women who whine for "no hours," and the men who cry for intervisitation, and the students who "seem" concerned about campus pregnancies didn't even bother to attend these sessions. These students continually "knock" the administration, but when given the opportunity to talk to the administration, these students don't seem to care enough to attend the meetings.

I'm a big complainer, and so I went to the E-Week activities. The way to attack a problem is to attack it with intelligence, by becoming more aware and informed, and by voicing complaints directly to the administration, instead of to roommates.

However, when a free concert was given, the majority of the student body jumped at the chance to indulge themselves in a few hours of "fun and games." Don't get me wrong, I'm very pleased the concert went over so well. I love music myself, but the point is why didn't this workable, hopefully, intelligent group of students assert themselves in a more intelligent manner. Is the interchanging of ideas and opinions passe?

Earth Week's mock funeral was supposed to be a serious dramatization on how we are killing Mother Earth. But when a segment of the program was performed in the Williams Center at 5 p.m. Wednesday do you think the students standing in the dinner line showed the interest or courtesy to wait an extra five minutes to see what was going on? Hell no, when the line started moving so did they.

Instead of burying Mother Earth we should have buried the student body. They're obviously the ones that are dead.

How can anybody become intellectually motivated on this campus, whether or not there is present lack of inductive environment, when student apathy is smoldering in every dorm and classroom. It's your campus. Your education. Your earth. Why don't you give a damn?

'Everything That's Lost Is Ours'

Editor:

A stagnant pool of the past is no culture for learning. While progress has been the goal of every other school in the Georgia school system, Georgia Southern has remained constant. Any attempts for improvement are neatly packaged in red-tape and filed under RADICAL.

Contrary to the administration's opinion, "change" is not a dirty word. Why are the men on campus allowed to run free while the women are guarded and harassed by so-called responsible people in positions of authority?

Is it so terrible to tell a "woman" that she is free to come and go as she pleases? Being mature enough to seek higher education also qualifies one as mature enough to manage one's own affairs.

If the deans actually believe that the women on campus are of such weak moral fiber as to act in an indecent manner after the hour of one, I will be forced to differ and say, "No! You're wrong and I'm right." The woman's regulations are an insult to any woman who can think for herself and govern herself as a responsible person.

The deans contend that the students at Georgia Southern have not yet shown the maturity that is needed to accept the responsibility of intervisitation and open hours. I imagine the Tories said similar things to the first true Americans.

If an innocent man is unjustly put in a cage he will rattle the bars. The students at Georgia Southern are unjustly restricted. The murmur of disapproval is not a sign of immaturity but instead is a byproduct of discontent.

It may be time for the deans to reconsider their responsibilities. Which is more important at a "modern" college, anyway, academic progress or social restrictions? It's time for everyone to examine his own position thoroughly. What is important? He who is discontent, restricted, and harassed is a very poor subject for learning.

TO THE DEANS: Express yourself! At least tell the students why you are imposing antiquated regulations on them. If you think that Georgia Southern students are so inferior that they don't deserve even an explanation, then don't answer. After all, everything that is lost in this game is ours!

Afterthoughts—We have met the Enemy, and

—POGO

by
RICHARD HERRMANN
Assistant professor of History

Last week on the streets of Statesboro I declined, politely I thought, to sign a copy of the "Free Calley" petition. The man who had courteously asked for my signature a moment before then harshly accused me of being a Communist. He quickly identified me with "the College," and finding that I am on the faculty, he was confirmed in his suspicions about the school. "That's what's wrong out there!" (Somehow the idea of GSC as a hotbed of left-wing activism had never occurred to me.)

The accusations leveled at me and at the College are examples of the increasing polarization of American society and American campuses. Who seriously listens to an opinion that differs from his own? Instead, we have a whole set of labels for those people who, unlike ourselves, are guilty of fuzzy thinking. You may choose from: "Commie," "Red," "Freak," or, if you prefer, "Fascist," "Redneck," "Straight."

All these labels have one thing in common — they are substitutes for thinking. As soon as we can get someone neatly pigeonholed, he is no longer an individual whose opinions deserve our consideration, he's only an example of this or that group. We can then accept or reject him without having to go to the trouble of listening to what he has to say.

In our weaker moments most of us admit to something less than divine knowledge. Yet we surround ourselves with those who nod pleasantly in agreement with all we say, and we avoid at all costs those who might question our cherished ideas. And so, we condemn ourselves to ignorance and call it intelligence.

comments, and criticisms are treated with respect.

To the duty of the professor is added that of the administrator, whose responsibility includes recruiting and maintaining a faculty representing divergent opinions, and that of the student, who must after all make the effort to take advantage of such opportunities.

Isn't all of this — encouraging students to see more than one side of an issue and to think for themselves — dangerous? Certainly it is! It means that we shall have disagreements, arguments, even dissension, but these are the inevitable outgrowth of free thought. And, unlikely though it seems, we just might learn something from those who disagree with us.

Sometime ago the news media widely reported a statement, very similar to the following, made by one of our American officers in Vietnam: "In order to save the village, it was necessary to destroy it." If we can save our "American way of life" only by curbing freedom of inquiry, freedom of speech, freedom of dissent, we shall have given up almost everything worth preserving anyway. If so, we might as well busy ourselves growing petunias and leave everything else to the Fates.

FACULTY FORUM

The whole purpose of education, or at least so it seems to me, is not to indoctrinate students with "the eternal truth" (i.e. the professors' opinions), but to introduce them to a wide range of ideas and to assist them in learning how to evaluate data and to make informed decisions for themselves.

No professor is ever going to be totally objective; he cannot shed his ideas, hopes, fears, prejudices on his way to class anymore than his students can. If he could, the classroom would probably be even more lifeless than it already is. He can, however, insure that students are introduced to ideas other than his own and that their questions,

Sampson

I just returned from having my hair cut. Or styled. Or shaped. Or razored. Or coiffed. Or whatever it is they do to men these days.

Hair today is just supposed to sit there. Or stand there. And Grow. But my hair doesn't work that way. It just sort of crawls around my head and wiggles around from ear to ear, making me look like a curious cross between Julius Caesar and Lily Tomlin.

So I made an appointment for a haircut with one of those fancy, expensive places that promises (or your hair back in a plastic bag) a haircut "so good you won't even know you had it cut."

But the most important reason that I made the big move was because my mother's father went bald at the age of 22.

I walked into the shop (or, rather, "Shopee") and looked over the inevitable pile of magazines on the Formica rack: Argosy, Playboy, Gentlemen's Quarterly, Male—not one copy of Glamor although it wouldn't have been out of place. I sat down with my copy of Male, crossed my legs the way men do, and waited for my 3 o'clock appointment with Roger, this Shoppe's answer to Mr. Kenneth and Mr. Delilah.

Three o'clock finally came.

A small, immaculately coiffed man came out and gave my head of hair a disdainful glare.

"Oh. You must be Mr. Mitz," he said. "Step this way for your consultation. We deal in hair—human hair," Roger explained carefully, as though I thought maybe they dealt in drugs. "Turn around," he said.

He started rubbing his hands on my scalp. "You have a marvelously molded skull," he said.

"Thanks. What about my haircut?"

He removed his fingers from my "marvelously molded skull" and looked aghast. "We do not cut hair here. We shape hair—we mold it to fit your skull, to fit your facial features."

There was a long, awkward silence. Finally Roger stood up and made an announcement.

"Shag!"

"It sure is," I said, glancing into one of the 45 mirrors lining the small room.

"No, no, no, no, no," he said. "You must, simply must, have the New Shag Look."

Taking my hand, Roger led me across the Shoppe to the sink.

"Now I will rinse your hair in warm—not too hot now—water and wash it with mild-mild-mild sham-poo. And now, a gentle-gentle-gentle conditioner. Rinse again and—voilà—you are washed."

As I dripped across the Shoppe, a little man with Ernest sewed on his crisp white jacket followed Roger and me with a sponge mop, wiping up my hair's spillage. I decided not to tip him.

Roger was almost ready to begin the operation when he noticed something in the mirror.

"My Gawd," he said, rushing to the mirror. He glanced for a moment at his own hair, and then reached for a can of hair spray (for MEN MEN MEN) and sprayed away. "Not a moment too soon," he sighed.

And then he started cutting. And with it, the sales pitch began.

"You really should take better care of your hair," he said. "You must wash it every day with a mild-mild-mild sham-poo which I happen to have here for only $3.50 a tube and a gentle-gentle-gentle conditioner which I happen to have here for only $2.50 and you must have a hot air comb. A steady stream of hot air seethes out and your hair is dry before you can say—"

"Yes, I know, Voilà."

Ernest walked by and swept up my long lost locks from the linoleum.

"Well, how does it look?" Roger asked, holding a small gilded gold mirror to the back of my head.

"It looks—ah, shaggy."

"Good. That's the way it's supposed to look." He cranked down the chair and stood near the cash register—which, incidentally, even in a ritzy barber Shoppe looks the same as the one in the four-seater, with the revolving pole in front down the block.

"I assume then, that you don't want the sham-poo, conditioner or hot air comb?" he asked me as I paid him.

I escaped without sham-poo, conditioner, or hot air comb. I also escaped without $10, remembering Roger's last words of advice: "Come back in about two weeks for another shaping."

I walked out of the Shoppe feeling strangely naked, and sort of ashamed that I had let vanity take away one of the few remaining youth symbols that I had left.

But thank Gawd. In three months I'll be bald. I can't wait. After all, as my new friend Roger told me (and undoubtedly will tell you if you ever make the visit), I have a marvelously molded skull.

ENGLISH TUTORIAL PROGRAM

Helps Students 'Make The Grade'

A tutorial program in English is helping over 250 students "make the grade" during their freshman year.

Dr. Del Presley, assistant professor of English and director of the Freshman English Program, believes strongly in the tutorial program. "Colleges generally spend much time with the gifted student, creating special curricula for him, i.e. honors sections," commented Presley. "But what do we do for the weak student? We should try to help the one whose weakness stems from a poor background. Many students simply never have understood the reasons behind the 'rules' of grammar."

"I have had students in our tutorial program come by the office at the end of the quarter and remark that they made a 'B' in Freshman English. These students very well could have failed without some help. We are not one-hundred percent effective, but the serious student can help himself."

Presley is one of a half dozen staff members who returns to campus two evenings each week to meet with the students seeking help. "They come voluntarily. There's no pressure," he added.

"Our classes are small with a very informal atmosphere," he explained. "We sit in a circle and discuss the points they are interested in hearing about. We take some tests and grade them in class, pointing out why this answer is correct and that one incorrect. There are coffee breaks - the entire effort is relaxed. And it works."

One of the main purposes of the tutorial program in the English Department is to prepare the weak student for the Freshman English examination which comes during the quarter he takes the grammar section of freshman English.

"Next year we hope to offer the tutorial program throughout the entire quarter," Presley continued.

"I have found so many of our students victims of their high school instruction. It's unfortunate that in many high schools, grammar is not taught after the junior year. And it needs to be. The pity is that the freshman is penalized severely when he enters college. His competency as a grammarian is the first thing he is hit with. It is a responsibility which remains with him throughout his college career. He may not be in English courses the entire four years, but his grammar and usage are graded in every term paper he writes and in all examinations he takes."

Del Presley believes in working with all students: the strong and the weak. He believes, too, in teaching a confidence in English to college students.

VA Announces Standards For Mobile Home Loans

The Veterans Administration recently announced standards for its mobile home program which guarantees up to 300 percent of any private loans, up to a maximum of 10,000 for mobile homes, or up to $17,500 if the loan is also for a fully developed lot.

The VA has prescribed regulations to govern such items as mobile home sites, construction standards and manufacturer's warranties.

Applicants should obtain their certificates of eligibility from the nearest VA regional office, find a mobile home they like which meets VA standards and apply to a lender for a loan.

Veterans with at least 181 days of active service are eligible for mobile home loans. So are veterans discharged for service-connected disabilities, regardless of length of service.

The interest rate for loans on Mobile homes has been set at 10.7 percent by the VA.

The VA also requires that mobile homes purchased under its program must be at least 40 feet long and 10 feet wide with a minimum of 400 square feet.

Miss Willie Maude Willimore, well-known social swinger, business woman, and health freak, announced last night to the cheers of thousands that she will prepare and serve her famed Miss Maude Willimore Memorial Green Koolaid at the opening of the delightful new shop of gifts, fun, and frolic--LITTLE JOHN (the first son of John Simmons)--opening April 30 in Statesboro Mall. All lovers of fun and madness and party thrills are invited, and bring Momma and little Lorene.

'SEARCH FOR EXTRA SOLAR PLANETS'

Van de Kamp To Give Lecture Here Tomorrow

Dr. Peter Van de Kamp, a National Lecturer for Sigma Xi, national research honorary society for the sciences, is scheduled to speak here tomorrow. Dr. van de Kamp, of the Sproul Observatory at Swarthmore College (Penn.), will deliver his address, "The Search for Extra Solar Planets," as a part of the National Lecture Program provided by the Sigma Xi Society for 1970-71. He will give a number of lectures throughout the South during April.

Van de Kamp, in addition to his position as director of the Sproul Observatory, has been a visiting professor at Harvard, Wesleyan University, and universities in Holland, France, Germany and Mexico.

In his address, "The Search for Extra-Solar Planets," van de Kamp discusses the observational difficulties of detecting planets near stars, other than our own. He presents a historical survey of the gravitational method for detecting unseen companions of stars.

For Continued Payments

Veterans Certificates Due

"It's about that time again," the Veterans Administration reminded 692,000 veterans, servicemen and dependents attending college under the G.I. Bill.

That reminder was designed to induce veterans to return their certification of attendance cards to VA during the last full month of their current enrollment period. For most schools, this means the months of May or June.

And there are two very good reasons for jogging their memories:

(1) VA cannot prepare a final check for the spring 1970-71 school year until the agency has received the certification of attendance card from the student involved.

(2) If the card is not returned at the end of the current semester, the student cannot automatically be enrolled under the G.I. Bill for the upcoming summer or fall semesters.

Trainees attending school below college level also must return their certification of attendance cards, but they must do so every month, VA explained.

Failure to complete and return the cards on the part of both college level and below college level trainees will automatically stop payments.

VA further pointed out that it is the responsibility of students attending school under VA programs to keep the agency informed on changes in their number of dependents, or their education programs.

VA also reminded college registrars of their role—to promptly return students' re-enrollment certification so students may start receiving their checks on schedule the next semester they are in school.

The agency urged eligible persons to contact their nearest VA office

3 Political Science Majors Given Graduate School Aid

Three Political Science majors have been awarded outstanding fellowships and/or assistantships for graduate study next year.

James H. Hatfield has been named one of seven fellows by the Southern Regional Training Program in Public Administration. Hatfield will work toward a certificate in Public Administration at the Universities of Alabama, Tennessee and Kentucky.

Richard A. Skinner received an appointment to one of nine assistantships from the University of Virginia School of International Affairs.

R. Lawrence Williams received an assistantship at the University of North Carolina and will be working toward the M.P.A. in Chapel Hill next year.

Georgia Archives Now Provides 'Ideal' Student Research Facilities

The Georgia Department of Archives and History has moved its special research wing to provide ideal working conditions for the student researcher.

The new area in the seminar room is tailored to fit the student's needs. The special research wing, set aside from the other reserch areas, offers the student a quiet atmosphere in which to work and to have ready access to important documents.

The topics which a student may research in the state's official records depository are unlimited and applicable to almost any college course. Documents might relate to geography, psychology, humanities, or political science.

In addition to the records on microfilm students may study original documents if they have not been microfilmed.

As a special service to schools, the Archives also conducts research seminars for college classes. A typical day's session would include viewing documentaries, touring the building, and researching original source material. The department can tailor these programs to any length of time

The department is open to the public during the week from 8:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and on Saturdays from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Will Man Soon Be Able To Halt Aging Process?

"Man will soon have the ability to halt the aging process at 40," declares an article in the current issue of Coronet magazine.

The long-held dream of mankind...old age deferred...was explored at a little-reported conference of 16 specialists in gerontology conducted by the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions, according to the Coronet article.

Dr. Harvey Wheeler of the center announced that even the conservatives among the biologists agree that within ten to 25 years it will be possible to alter the biological clocks built into man to make them run longer or event to set them back.

Emmy Nominations Set

by
GEOFFREY BENNETT

George C. Scott, who abhors acting awards, now finds himself up for another honor. He has been nominated for an Emmy for his performance in "The Price."

The Academy of Television Arts and Sciences nominated Scott on April 13 for the best single performance by a leading actor.

Also nominated for the Emmy's Best Actor are Jack Cassidy for "The Anderson Trail," Hal Holbrook for "A Clear and Present Danger," Richard Widmark for "Vanished," and Gig Young for "The Neon Ceiling."

"The Anderson Trail," which Scott directed, also won a nomination as the most outstanding single program of the 1970-71 season. Its competition: "Hamlet" and "The Price" both by Hallmark Hall of Fame; "They're Tearing Down Tim O'Reilly's Bar" from Rod Serling's Night Gallery; and the four-hour "Vanished."

"Hamlet" took top honors in the nominations with a total of 13 noddy enough though, Richard Chamberlain, who played Hamlet, didn't get a mention.

Among the comedy series, "The Mary Tyler Moore Show" received the most nominations—nine. "All in the Family," a situation-comedy with a bigoted father as the main focal point, followed closely with eight nominations. Also nominated for best comedy series were "Arnie," "Love, American Style," and "The Odd Couple."

For the outstanding dramatic series: "The First Churchills," "Ironside," "N.E.T. Playhouse," "Marcus Welby, M.D." and "The Senator—The Bold Ones." Nine nominations went to the latter show, which has been canceled by NBC.

Public broadcasting scored impressively in the nominations. Among the non-network shows cited in various categories: "The Andersonville Trial," "N.E.T. Playhouse," "Sesame Street," "Kukla, Fran and Ollie," "Montserrat" and "The First Churchills."

Other nominations included: Single performance by leading actress: Colleen Dewhurst (Mrs. George C. Scott), "The Price;" Lee Grant, "The Neon Ceiling;" Lee Grant, "Ransom for a Dead Man."

Tony Awards Given

The Broadway theaters' annual Tony Awards, the stage's version of the Oscar, for best play and best musical were given on March 28 to, respectively, "Sleuth" and "Company."

"Company" received the highest number of silver medallions, winning six in all in various categories.

The revival of the 47-year-old musical, "No, No, Nanette," was in second place with four Tonys.

The awards, covering the period from April 7, 1970, to March 15, 1971, were presented on a two-hour program in the Palace Theatre before 1,350 spectators on hand when the ceremony was nationally televised on ABC-TV.

Best Actor and Actress Awards went to Brian Bedford for "The School for Wives," and Maureen Stapleton for "The Gingerbread Lady."

Best acting honors in musicals went to Hal Linden of "The Rothschilds" and Helen Gallagher of "No, No, Nanette."

The "company" Tonys were voted to Harold Prince as producer and director, George Furth as librettist, Stephen Sondheim as composer and lyricist and Boris Aronson as scene designer.

Management of Local Club Changes Hands

The Flame will offer a "greater variety of entertainment," according to Robert Smith, new owner of the local club.

Local rock groups, including The Critical Mass and Wheatstone Mission will be featured in the club's new entertainment format.

Changes include the installation of a pizza parlor, expanded parking facilities, and Wednesday night movies.

Flame weekend prices will range from $1 to 1.50. Monday through Thursday the Flame will not charge admission unless entertainment is scheduled. Security will be on hand to direct traffic.

Smith, who owns the Western Sirloin and Waffle Shop, is a GSC graduate.

"College students need a place that they can call their own," said Smith in commenting on the Flame's entertainment. "The local bands that we brought helped for a change in clientele. The students are mixing more." Smith plans to expand the menu this summer.

E-Week Panel Discusses Population Problems

by
GLYNN SPIVEY
and
MISSY GRASSI

A Population Problems Panel concluded Earth-Week

discussions Thursday, April 22, as the nine-member group heard the results of a campus survey on birth control. The panel of students, faculty, and local officials talked about population control and contraceptive devices.

According to the birth control survey, released by Howard Thrower, E-Week co-chairman 84 percent of the men questioned on premarital sex considered intercourse permissible while 16 percent did not approve.

Sixty nine percent of the women interviewed answered yes to the question while 31 percent voiced disapproval of premarital intercourse.

To the survey's question of premarital sexual intercourse, 78 percent of the men and 55 percent of the women answered that they had engaged in premarital intercourse.

Thrower admitted the figures were not extremely accurate but added, "this the survey does seem to indicate something, and in my opinion, it indicates the need for a Birth Control Counseling Center located at or near the GSC campus."

Commenting on counseling, Dr. Justine Mann, head of the Political Science Department, said, "I advocate getting together a group of interested students and faculty to establish a facility for education in areas of sex, pregnancy, birth control and other related subjects."

GSC has experienced an increase in the number of pregnancies during the last several years according to one doctor on the panel who stated that he had treated between 5 and 20 pregnant coeds in the last nine months.

Dr. Bird Daniels, GSC's college physician, commented on his position on distribution of contraceptives. "A few months ago I would have said no. However, I would now advocate the need for sex education and distribution of contraceptives. If we can't do this, then maybe we need to re-examine our moral character," he said.

The subject of contraceptive devices appeared quite often during the discussions. Dr. William Kent, Statesboro gynecologist, said he daily treated 8 to twelve unmarried college women for contraceptives.

When asked which contraceptive device proved most effective, Dr. Kent replied

"abstinence was the most effective." He added that birth control pills were 99 percent effective, "if taken correctly." "After this," Dr. Kent said, "one must take his chances. Some use foam, but they might as well spit in the ocean."

EAGLES FINISH THIRD

UGA Takes Tourney

Georgia Southern lost a first-round lead and finished third in the first annual Chris Shenkel Intercollegiate Golf Tournament, which was held at Forrest Heights Country Club on Friday and Saturday. A tremendous second-day charge by the University of Georgia overcame the Eagles and gave the Bulldogs a low total of 867, six strokes better than the 873 posted by runner-up Florida, and 15 strokes better than Southern's 882.

Brooks Simmons shot a 109 on Friday as GSC grabbed a one-stroke lead, over the 15-team field, but the Eagles slipped to third on Saturday when they had the worst day of any of the teams ranked high after the first round. The team championship was based on the best four individual scores from each of the six-member teams.

Sammy Rachels of Columbus College won the individual tournament title with a four-under-par 212 for the 54-hole tournament. Pat Lane, playing on GSC's number two team, finished sixth at an even par score of 216, while Southern's Jimmy Ellis shot a 218 for tenth place.

The University of Georgia golfers were victors in the First Annual Chris Schenkel Intercollegiate Golf Tournament, sponsored by Georgia Southern College in Statesboro this weekend. The Bulldogs came from fourth to first place during the final rounds of the 54 hole tournament team score was 867, followed by the University of Florida at 873 and GSC at 882. Birds Bring Record To 18-16

The Georgia Southern baseball team, playing around .500 ball all year, brought its season record to 18-16 by trading victories with the University of South Carolina and Stetson University in away games last week.

On Tuesday, April 20, the Eagles traveled to Columbia and suffered an 8-5 loss at the hands of South Carolina, coached by former New York Yankee Bobby Richardson. Southern held 5-3 lead in the eighth inning, but allowed the Gamecocks to score five runs on five hits and two errors in that frame to put the game away. Leading hitters for the Eagles were Jim Veryzer and Tommy Arden who got two hits each, including a home run by Arden.

On Wednesday, the Eagles played errorless ball and got good pitching from Kyle Young to take a 3-1 decision from the Gamecocks. Danny Gordon swatted a homer for GSC, and Veryzer added three singles.

After a two-day rest, the Eagles traveled to Deland, Fla. to face Stetson in a two game set. On Friday, Southern lost 5-1 as Stetson's pitcher struck out 12 Eagles and gave up only three hits, two by Roy Ammann. Lon Mall hit a two-run homer for Stetson in the third inning to get them off and running and bring their season record to 20-10.

On Saturday, the Eagles handed Stetson their eleventh loss, routing them 9-5. Stetson pitcher Jim Derkin was rolling along with a perfect game in the sixth inning when Pat Winchester singled, igniting a two-run rally.

Phi Ep Kappa, BSU On Top

Phi Epsilon Kappa and BSU have moved to the top of the Independent League with identical 3-0 records, while darkhorses Delta Tau Delta and Tau Kappa Epsilon are the only undefeated teams remaining in the Fraternity League.

Phi Epsilon Kappa won their third straight game on Wednesday, beating the Ten by a 10-4 score while BSU scored big in their two victories last week, clobbering the hapless Boone's Farm Boys 18-0 and the Green Trees 13-3.

In other Independent games last week, Ma's Funky Zoo dropped the Ten 10-1 on Monday, and the Over-the-Hill Gang scored five runs in the last inning to beat Us 11-10 on Tuesday. In Tuesday's second game, the Profs were forced to forfeit to the Assassins.

On Thursday, Zeppelin tallied thirteen runs in the first frame in handing Delta Sigma Pi a 16-6 loss. Boone's Farm almost picked up their season's first win in Thursday's second game, but the Nads put together a last-inning rally that produced two runs and a 7-6 victory.

In the Fraternity League, co-leaders Delta Tau Delta and Tau Kappa Epsilon won one game apiece last week as the Deltas downed Pi Kappa Phi 12-3 and the TKE's scored an 8-2 upset over last season's overall champ, Alpha Tau Omega.

Tau Epsilon Phi dropped Phi Delta Theta 11-2 in a Monday contest, and Sigma Chi used six fifth-inning runs to defeat Sigma Phi Epsilon by a score of 8-5 on Tuesday.

In Wednesday's games, Sigma

Nu trounced Sigma Pi 10-0, and Tau Epsilon Phi squeaked past Kappa Alpha by an 8-7 score. In the league's final game of the week on Thursday, Delta Chi rallied for seven runs in the fifth inning and beat Pi Kappa Phi 8-6.

The Burial of Mother Earth

.. "Mother Earth" was buried last Wednesday, as a part of E-Week activities. Mourners followed the procession, as the eight pallbearers carried the plain coffin around the rain-tarnished campus.

Rev. Frank Padgett, read and officiated at each of the funeral stops en route.

According to a news bulletin released by the group, "Mother Earth" died from "emphysema, kidney infection, deafness, hardening of the arteries, and cancer and congestion of the urban areas. The ultimate cause of death," the group reports, "was apathy."
