SAGC Intervisitation Committee Reports

The Intervisitation Committee, an ad hoc committee of the SAGC, presented a preliminary proposal last month to both the MGC and the WSGA concerning the creation of an intervisitation program in women's and men's dorms.

The MGC and WSGA are responsible for disseminating this proposal to their respective constituents, thereby determining student opinion.

The proposal as drawn up by the Intervisitation Committee provides a framework or outline from which to work, allowing flexibility so that each dorm may set its own rules for intervisitation.

Suggested hours in the proposal are based on letters received from colleges already enjoying intervisitation. The hours, if approved, would be: Friday 6 p.m. - 2 a.m. (or ½ hour before curfew); Saturday 2 p.m. - 2 a.m. (or ½ hour before curfew);

Sunday 2 p.m. - midnight (or ½ hour before curfew).

These hours are suggestions to give students an idea from which to work, final word being left up to each house council.

After ratification by the MGC and WSGA, the proposal will be sent to the administration, via the SAGC, for approval.

Then hopefully the administration will institute this proposal on a trial basis for a period of not less than one quarter as suggested by the Intervisitation Committee.

Enrollment Hits 5630 For Winter Quarter

Winter quarter enrollment reached 5630 January 3 according to Registrar Lloyd Joyner. Breakdown by classification is: freshmen, 809 men, 963 women; sophomores, 537 men, 616 women; juniors, 511 men, 453 women; seniors, 506 men, 422 women; graduate students, 520 men, 256 women.

A total of 2883 men and 2710 women are attending Georgia Southern this winter, although the final enrollment will be much higher due to late registration January 5, and registration for evening and Continuing Education courses which will continue throughout the quarter.

According to Charles Welch, Systems Analyst, registration was "essentially the same" with no new additions. Even the "closed-out-classes, spread-out-class-times, drop-add" blues were the same.

Welch was pleased with the enrollment, even though the number of students is "less than fall quarter, as winter quarter usually is, but it is up considerably from winter of 1971."

ATO Has Charity Drive

It's that time of the year again. Alpha Tau Omega fraternity has scheduled its annual March of Dimes Drive for Thursday and Friday, January 13 and 14.

This is the eighth year that ATO has been involved with the drive.

In 1968, for their participation and support in the "March of Dimes" campaign, ATO was awarded a certificate of appreciation by the National Foundation of the March of Dimes. They collected approximately $340 through the dime line. Last year, they collected over $800.

The drive will be conducted on campus and throughout the business districts of Statesboro.

The fraternity has traditionally formed a "Dime Line" from the steps of the Williams Center to the steps of the Administration Building.

Your contribution to the ATO drive can provide aid and further research in the more than 100 research centers of the March of Dimes located across the U. S.

Times' Editor Visits GSC

Wicker: Prisons Create Crime

By BILL NEVILLE
G-A Managing Editor

"American prisons are becoming a university of crime," said Tom Wicker of the New York Times. "All evidence indicates that sending men to prison creates crime."

The Attica, N. Y., prison revolt in which 43 persons died and the American correctional system were Wicker's topics as he inaugurated the 1971-72 College Lecture Series with a Dec. 7 speech to 300 students and faculty in the Hanner Gym.

"There's no way to cage and make a better man of a person by depriving humanity," said Wicker, the Times' associate editor since 1968.

Prison reform movements spurred by the Attica incident want only to "lighten the load of prisoners." This, says Wicker, "is not prison reform. . . In these dungeons in which we cage up men like animals, there's not much we can do for reform."

Wicker's involvement with the Attica revolt on Sept. 9 began when he was named on a list of mediators the inmates wanted to come to the upstate New York prison. The mediation team was comprised of journalists and legal consultants as well as some members of the Black Panther party.

Friday, Sept. 10, Wicker arrived at the Attica compound to interview hostages and some of the 1,400 prisoners. He cited as an example of the "inverse mentality" found in America's prisons the case of a Conway, S. C., inmate.

Bleece Montgomery is the South Carolinian serving an eight year sentence with whom Wicker spoke. Montgomery's term resulted from an incident in which he attempted to stop a police officer from "abusing children." Montgomery cut the officer's throat. "The officer got off with disciplinary action; he (Montgomery) got eight years for protecting children," said Wicker. The punishment, from the prisoner's viewpoint, stemmed from an effort to "protect children," said the Times' associate editor.

A second example of this "inverse viewpoint," according to Wicker, is additional punishment administered to inmates already in prison.

"Prisoners have crimes committed against them," said Wicker. He cited "sexual abuse. . . and slave wages" in prison shops as ranking high among inmate grievances. Arbitrary punishment "is doled out administratively" as a matter of routine, said Wicker.

"In the kind of system in this country, these men are the persons who are scapegoats for society," said Wicker.

Wicker Recounts 'Searing Experience'

The 'Slaughter' at Attica

"Why the prisoners refused to accept the 28 point program" drawn up by the mediation team is a third example of "inverse mentality," said Wicker.

"The 28 points represented few gains to the prisoners themselves. . . the central issue was amnesty." These points "would only provide minimum levels of humanity which should have been in effect previously," said Wicker. "Since the revolt ended the way it did," added Wicker, "none are in effect."

In defense of prison critics who advocate paying minimum wages to inmates for their work in prison shops, Wicker said these wages would help reduce the nation's welfare rolls by providing a prisoner's family with an income as well as giving an inmate a "nestegg to tide him over for awhile" after his release from prison.

Wicker found it difficult to pinpoint blame for the 43 deaths within the walls of the Attica compound.

According to Wicker, "Gov. Rockefeller didn't feel he had the constitutional power to grant amnesty to the prisoners who participated in the revolt."

Wicker said the "high degree of slaughter" at Attica was due to a violent attitude prevalent in the United States. "In America, when basic tenets and principles are more important than the humanity. . . then violence will occur," said Wicker. "Justifying violence to maintain some abstract principles of law and order is all too easy in America."

As a footnote to his statement on violence Wicker added, "Forty three dead's not law and order; it's slaughter."

"The primary impression I brought away from the searing experience in Attica," said Wicker, "is the common idea in America that we should get tough."

"Maybe that's what we ought to do," said Wicker, but he added "we're not doing that."

Wicker said the average length of a prison term is 29 months and "all of those men at some point are coming out."

"Who do we want coming back," Wicker asked, "a man treated like an animal, or a man who knows, even though he has lost his freedom, that society still says 'you're still a part of us.'"

Argentines Visit Statesboro

Thirty-four Argentine high school and college students will be visiting Statesboro and Georgia Southern February 7 - March 6 through the cooperation of People-To-People (PTP) International and the Savannah Chamber of Commerce.

The students will be staying with local families to observe and to learn the American way of life and to gain an understanding of how a typical family lives here. Ranging in age from 18 to 25, the group includes seven males and eleven females of college age who will need housing.

Families interested in hosting a student—especially those families with members of college age—should contact Dr. Harris Mobley (ext. 287; home, 764-4292).

'Shorties' start with a kick!

A problem in education always arises when students want to take courses in some particular interest area that is not offered in the college curriculum. A solution to this dilemma: offered by the division of continuing education in the form of short courses.

Registration for winter quarter's short courses began yesterday, January 13, at 7:30 p.m. in Foy Fine Arts lobby and will run through January 19. Students are encouraged to enroll as soon as possible as many of the classes may be closed out.

According to Mrs. Merle Anderson, the coordinator, short courses is the most successful project continuing education has ever undertaken. It has been so successful that five new courses are being offered this quarter. Heading this list of new offerings are Figure Sculpture, Fencing, Cake and Food Decorating, Stitchery, Advanced Bridge, and "Know Your Auto," bringing the short courses total to thirty-four.

Also offered this quarter are some of what Mrs. Anderson calls "the most popular" which included Speedreading, Karate for men and women, Folk Guitar, Scuba Diving (see related story), and Adult Swimming.

Mrs. Anderson noted that only half of the enrollment in these courses are students. The other half usually are comprised of Statesboro and surrounding residents. Many of the courses, Mrs. Anderson added, are popular with faculty wives.

Scuba Diving in Statesboro???

The sport of scuba diving in Statesboro, Ga., should be about as popular as water skiing in the Sahara Desert. But the fact remains that students at GSC are quite excited about the subject and constantly fill the quarterly class offered by the Division of Continuing Education and the Department of Health, Physical Education, and Recreation.

The course is taught by Bart Collins, a certified instructor of the National Association of Scuba Diving Schools. He and his two assistants join Floyd one night per week each quarter to conduct the class, which usually numbers about 25. Half of each session is spent in the classroom on safety and equipment techniques while the other half is taken up by actual pool work.

"Most of the students are just beginners as far as scuba diving is concerned," commented Floyd, the full-time GSC swimming coach. "We start them out at the very basic levels doing laps and building up their swimming ability."

At the end of the course, each student is required to pass a check-out test in which he must make a 40-foot dive to receive his certification.

"Basically, we always go to Florida for the check-out dives, usually around Gainesville," stated Floyd. "This trip at the end of the quarter is the highlight of the entire course."

The class, after being checked out, makes a run down the Itchtuckne River to explore on their own and have a little fun. "The water is so crystal clear on the bottom," added Floyd. "We are trying to get the students who finish the course to form a scuba diving club in order to maintain their interest in diving," said Floyd. "The primary purpose for that organization would be diving trips for enjoyment."

'OLYMPIC PREVIEW' SET SATURDAY

GSC Gymnasts Host Michigan

Gymnastics powerhouse Georgia Southern will be facing its toughest week of competition ever when the Eagles host Michigan on Friday and Saturday, January 14-15, after facing Louisiana State University of New Orleans yesterday.

According to a declaration by Statesboro Mayor Thurman Lanier, this week is Gymnastics Week in Statesboro. This declaration is a tribute to the excellence of the two visiting squads.

LSUNO is, along with Georgia Southern, one of the two top gymnastics teams in the Southeast. Coach Ron Oertly of Georgia Southern feels that LSUNO is the only team in this region that has a chance of grounding his high-flying Eagle gymnasts.

Michigan, however, has what Oertly calls "the most representative team in the United States over the last 10 years. Michigan is the best team we have ever faced in dual competition," Oertly said. "They will be a tremendous test for our gymnasts."

Michigan is certainly due Oertly's respect, having been Big Ten champions for nine of the past 10 years, and during that time never finishing lower than sixth in the nation.

The two days of competition with Michigan will feature an NCAA dual meet on Friday evening at 8 and a North-South "Olympic Preview" at 8 p.m. on Saturday.

The "Olympic Preview" will be operated under Olympic rules and will include two Olympic candidates—Yoshi Takei and John Ellas, both of the Georgia Southern coaching staff.

Takei has been the National

The GSC gymnastics team is set for its biggest challenge of the season when Michigan visits the Eagles this Friday and Saturday at Hanner Fieldhouse.

AAU All-Around Champion for the past two years and is the current United States Gymnastics Federation All-Around Champion.

Ellas, a gold medal winner in the 1971 Pan American Games, is a past NAIA and NCAA college all-around champion and holder of the Outstanding Southern Gymnastics Award.

In addition, the Eagles' team captain and All-American, Danny Warbuton, will be competing against the Michigan squad. Warbuton is the 1971 Junior AAU All-Around Champion.

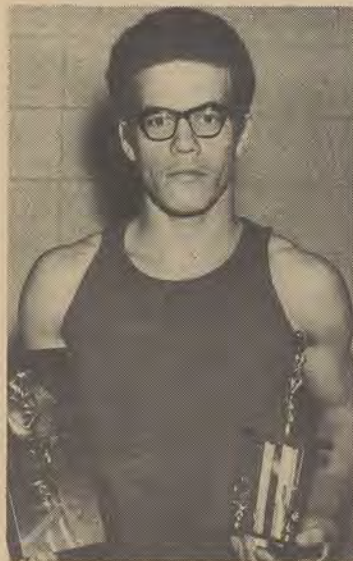

The "Olympic Preview" will also include girls' competition on the balance beam, uneven parallel bars, in side horse vaulting and in free exercise.

A special guest performer will be Lori Warbuton of Belle Vernon, Pennsylvania—State High School All-Around champion and sister of Georgia Southern's Danny Warbuton.

Several luncheons are planned throughout the weekend, and, during Saturday's pre-meet ceremonies, which begin at 7:45 p.m., Mayor Lanier will present a key to the city to Michigan Coach Newt Laken.

As Oertly said, "The competition with Michigan will be the criterion for judging Georgia Southern's gymnastics on a national level."

Season tickets and tickets for the coming meets will be available at various businesses in Statesboro.

Mercer Jinx Hits Again

The Bears of Mercer University have grounded Georgia Southern's Eagles for the second time this year.

The Eagles won the championship of the Hatter Invitational Tournament in Deland, Fla. Jan. 3 and 4, and were hopeful of making it two tourney wins in a row in the Mercer Invitational Jan. 8 and 9. But, just as Mercer had spoiled GSC's home opener Dec. 6, the Bears ruined our Eagles' tournament hopes by defeating them 102-84 in the finals and dropping their record to 7-5.

In the Hatter Invitational, Southern won the first round 82-72 over Loyola of New Orleans as 6-5 sophomore forward Johnny Mills led the way with 33 points.

The Eagles downed Stetson 73-68 in the finals paced by 5-10 senior guard Darryl Humble's 22 markers. In that game, Mills was held to 14 points—the lowest total of the year for the Eagles' high-scoring forward.

Humble was voted the Most Valuable Player in the Hatter tournament, and both he and Mills were selected to the all-tournament team.

The Eagles opened the Mercer Invitational last Friday night by beating New York State University of Stony Brook 95-85. Mills and sophomore guard Richard Wallace had 23 points each for GSC, followed by Humble's 20 and center Charlie Gibbons' 16. Mills grabbed off 14 rebounds and Gibbons 11.

Jimmy King led all Stony Brook scorers with 20.

In the finals of the tournament, J.E. Rowe's Eagles jumped off to a quick 9-2 lead with three minutes gone. The lead was short-lived, however, as consecutive baskets by Mercer's Leonard Hardin and Billy Smith put the Bears ahead 10-9 with 15:05 left.

The Bears never trailed again.

By halftime, Mercer led 48-37, but Southern managed to stay close until the last five minutes when an Eagle cold spell allowed the Bears to pull away.

Hardin and Smith tossed in 25 and 24 points respectively to lead Mercer past Southern in the Eagles' worst defeat of the year. Mills and Wallace were the Eagle point leaders with 23 apiece.

Mills and Wallace were named to the Mercer Invitational's All-Tournament team, and Hardin was named its Most Valuable Player.

Eagle Swimmers Fall To South Carolina

The South Carolina Gamecocks swamped the GSC swim team 89-24 in a meet held in the Hanner pool Thursday, Jan. 6.

Eagle Captain Jody Summerford won first places in the 100 yard free style and 1000 yard free style to provide the only encouraging moments for Southern's young swimmers.

According to Coach Floyd: "South Carolina overpowered us. We suffer from a lack of depth. We're not outstanding, but it's early in the year. We'll get better but because we lost two team members from last year we are getting dangerously low in swimmers. I would like to invite anyone who is interested in trying out for the team to do so because of our need for more swimmers."

Scuba Club Forms

A new skin and scuba diving club is being formed at GSC. An organizational meeting will be held in the Hanner Fieldhouse on Wednesday Jan. 19 at 7:00 p.m. All interested persons are invited to attend.

Mills Is Super Soph

When Georgia Southern recruited the nation's second leading high school scorer out of Laurens, S. C., two years ago, the Eagles picked off one of the real "zingers" in the country.

And now Eagle Sophomore Johnny Mills is already reporting in with such dividends as a blistering 27.5 scoring average as GSC makes its debut in the NCAA University Division.

"I didn't want to go to a large school but I did want to go with a club that played a major college schedule," said Mills, who averaged 42 points per game at Gray Court-Owings High School. "When Coach Rowe (GSC head coach) showed me the Georgia Southern schedule for the next few years, I thought it looked good and that's what I wanted."

Through the first 12 games, the Eagles have posted a 7-5 record.

"I knew it would be tough going into the University Division," said Mills. "It's going to be hard, but I think we can have a winning year."

The sophomore sensation went on to say he didn't think the Eagles have played up to their potential yet.

"In the close ones we lost, I think we have just gotten away from our game plan," commented Mills. "Against Arkansas we had the game won and just quit playing our game. We didn't play our game against Mercer either, and just didn't play well at all against Buffalo."

The sharp-shooting forward has some definite ideas on what the Eagles will have to do the remainder of the season to win.

"We have to be more conscious about how we are playing," he commented. "We have a tendency to relax, and we need to concentrate on every thing we do. When we get the lead we need to be conscious about it and continue to play our game all the way."

Mills likes to play against a man-to-man defense rather than a zone.

"Most teams we've played start out in a man-to-man on us but we have such good one-on-one players they usually fall back into a zone," said Mills. "In the zone all the players are concentrating on the man with the ball rather than just one guy."

Lighthouse Set Jan. 29

The College Union Board (CUB) has announced plans for GSC's January 29 homecoming concert at 8 p.m. in the Hanner Fieldhouse.

Heading the night's entertainment will be Lighthouse, a Canadian-based jazz-rock group, known in the U. S. for their successful single—"One Fine Morning."

Goose Creek Symphony will make their second appearance at GSC as the second group.

Lighthouse is one of the several good Canadian groups to have "made it big in the States." Its 11 members, all from Canada, range in background from rock to classical. Their arsenal includes saxophone, flute, violin, harp-sichord, cello, melophonium, piano, and the basics—drums, guitar, and bass.

Lighthouse made a big splash last year at the famous Isle of Wight Pop Festival and has played with the Edmonton Symphony Orchestra.

Goose Creek Symphony plays their own mixture of blue-grass and country-rock. They put on a reportedly excellent show here last spring.

Tune in to the entertainment section in the next few weeks for in-depth looks at Lighthouse and Goose Creek Symphony. —Ed.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Creative Forum

The Creative Forum, a group of persons interested in writing, will meet Monday, January 17, at 7:30 p.m., at the Center for Simulation Studies, 11 East Kennedy Street. The group meets informally throughout winter and spring quarters to read and discuss its writing preparatory to publishing this spring's Miscellany, the GSC literary magazine.

Meetings are informal and open to all interested persons. For further information, contact Dr. Ron Roberts (Hollis 110-3, ext. 362).

GSC Forum

The GSC Forum will be held January 19, with tryouts January 13. The forum is open to all interested student and faculty members.

The topic is "Resolved: Faculty members aren't really human." Anyone trying out should prepare a 10 minute speech concerning the topic.

For further information contact Karen Ball, Box 9031, or Alan Williams, Box 10303.

Bio-Sci

This quarter's first meeting of the BioScience Club will be held Thursday, Jan. 20, in Biology E-201, at 7:30 p.m. The sale of windbreakers and lab coats will be discussed. Dr. Hartberg will lead a Safari. Refreshments will be served. Guests are invited.

All biology majors, as well as anyone else interested, are urged to join. Dues are $1 per quarter.

Jewish Club

Announcement:

All Jewish students interested in attending informal social meeting are asked to contact Bernard Solomon in the art department, ext. 279.

Rel. Activities

Dr. Dale Moody, professor of Christian theology at the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, will be at GSC January 13 and 14. He is being sponsored by the Religious Activities Committee and will speak in Foy Recital Hall. His schedule is as follows: Jan. 13, 6:30 p.m. "Walk Together." Jan. 14, 4 p.m. "Walk in Love." Jan. 14, 7:30 p.m. "Walk in Light."

Organization Deadline

The deadline for all organizational news, features, etc. is 6 p.m. Sunday.

Society News

Phi Mu

Newly elected officers for the 71-72 term are president, Marcia Kaney; vice-president, Lynn Slade; secretary, Sharon McGahee; treasurer, Cathy Williams, Phi director, Barbara Bunn; Panhellenic delegate, Patsy Bobo; and membership chairman, Beth Singletary.

Teresa Mims is the Kappa Alpha pledge class sweetheart. Becky Frost is sister of the month. Peggy George and Pam Morris are little sisters and May Earle is pledge class sweetheart of Alpha Tau Omega. Brenda Beatenbough is the Phi Delta Theta pledge class sweetheart.

Zeta Tau Alpha

Plans for Winter Candle Ball are in the making and work has begun with the Delta Tau Deltas on Homecoming exhibits.

Joan Lumpkin has been selected as the Delta Tau Delta sweetheart with Kay Musselwhite and Mary Petrevitch as little sisters. Vicki Bennet is an Alpha Tau Omega little sister. Pam Huff is now a Phi Delta Theta little sister.

Phi Epsilon Kappa

Initiated into the Beta Sigma chapter Friday, Jan. 7, were Kenny Austin, Joey Carter, Danny Lewis, Greg Lund, Jimmy Moore, and Larry Nelson.

Phi Epsilon Kappa is sponsoring a spirit contest for fraternities, sororities, and independent organizations on campus based on the idea of projecting school spirit.

Alpha Tau Omega

Initiation of new brothers of Alpha Tau Omega took place last Sunday. Newly initiated brothers are Doug Evans, John Smith, Tommy Godbee, Jody Fincher, Jack Sexton, Wiley Horton, Welch Goggins, Dave Casewell, Dave Lewis, Mike Ward, Gary Bloder, Marshall Payne, Mike Strickland, Ken Sutton, Mike Hawkins, and Johnny Brooks.

Alpha Tau Omega's annual March of Dimes drive is Thursday and Friday, January 13 and 14.

Sigma Nu

Sigma Nu's first rush smoker will be held at 8 p.m. January 13 at the Sea Island Bank. All eligible men are encouraged to attend. Dress will be informal. Along with the smoker, a rush party is scheduled for January 15 at the Catholic Hall featuring Wheatstone Mission.

Pledges to be initiated January 16 are Tony Nottoli, Glenn Bryant, Fred Woods, Harris Hodges, Harry Thronton, Wayne Hamby, Doug Van Orsdale, Don Turner, Buddy Banks, Steve Cummings, Tommy Owens, Ed Braxton, Bruce Hall, Tom Ramsey, Jim Hill, and Arte Fountain.

Sigma Nu will be joined by Kappa Delta sorority in making preparations for Homecoming this year.

Phi Kappa

The Georgia Delta chapter of Pi Kappa Delta initiated five new members at the end of fall quarter, 1971. The new members are Lynn Stevens, sophomore pre-law student; Paul Shugrue, senior speech major; Francis Joseph "Buzz" McFadden, political science major; Rucker Smith, freshman pre-law student; and Dr. Fielding Russell as honorary member.

Dr. Russell, an English professor, was chosen as honorary member because of the support he gave GSC's debate team from its formative period to the present.

To interest faculty and students in the art of persuasion, Pi Kappa Delta is sponsoring the GSC Debate Forum. One forum has already been held and there are two more planned for this quarter.
