Gale Literary Databases – Platform Updates

September 1, 2015

Effective August 7th, Gale Literary Databases has moved to the new Artemis Literary Sources platform. Gale Literary Databases is available via the Library’s A-Z Database List and select Research Guides.

This new platform provides:

- Workflow tools and features such as search assist functionality, mobile compatibility, topic finder, term frequency graphs, and interface translation.
- Basic and advanced search options, including searching by keyword, full text, named author, volume, named work, series name, and more.
- More intuitive searching with search history and multiple result list sort options.
- Cross-searchability with other Gale literature resources.

Gale Literary Databases includes Contemporary Literature Criticism-Select, Contemporary Authors, and the Dictionary of Literary Biography. See this FAQ post for more information and contact the Information Desk (tel:912-478-5645) with any questions.
