Newsroom

October 5, 2015

Georgia Southern University

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalcommons.georgiasouthern.edu/newsroom

Part of the Higher Education Commons

Recommended Citation

Georgia Southern University, "Newsroom" (2015). Newsroom. 704.
https://digitalcommons.georgiasouthern.edu/newsroom/704

This article is brought to you for free and open access by the Office of Strategic Communications & Marketing at Digital Commons@Georgia Southern. It has been accepted for inclusion in Newsroom by an authorized administrator of Digital Commons@Georgia Southern. For more information, please contact digitalcommons@georgiasouthern.edu.
BIG Pitch finalists compete for $10,000 prize on Oct. 11

OCTOBER 5, 2015

Ocean Exchange and Georgia Southern University’s Business Innovation Group (BIG) announce the eight finalists who will go after the $10,000 cash prize in the BIG Pitch collegiate competition on Sunday, Oct. 11.

The BIG Pitch competition drew a total of 28 collegiate team applicants from around the country, Canada and India. A committee of industry experts reviewed each team’s summary information and two-minute pitch video before selecting eight finalists to compete for the monetary prize. The finalists, whose presentations will be available through an online live stream, will receive exposure to some of the top innovation leaders in the world.

“We received some excellent applications from students all over the world,” said Dominique Halaby, D.P.A., director of BIG. “I am very excited about the eight teams, which represent some really innovative solutions, selected to compete in our inaugural BIG Pitch competition.”

The eight finalists will present in front of 150 delegates from business, NGOs, academia and government. The delegates will vote on the recipient of the $10,000 cash award. On-stage competition panelists are Kelly Carnes, president and CEO of TechVision21; Jeff Johnson, founding partner of Green & Blue Advisors; Allen Wolf, managing director of OFSCap, LLC; and Scott Ross, managing director of Schmidt Marine Technology Partners. The presentations will take place at the Savannah International Trade and Convention Center between 5:30 and 8 p.m.

The inaugural class of collegiate innovators to present their solutions at the BIG Pitch are:

- “Opus 12” from Stanford University, Renewable Fuel Production from Carbon Dioxide
- “Resource Recovery from Waste Water” from Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, A Sustainable Water Treatment/Recovery Process
- “Green Technology Artificial Reefs” from Valdosta State University, Artificial Reefs from Cement and Nutrient Mixtures
- “Surya Conversions” from University of Colorado-Boulder, Hybrid Electric Conversion Kits for Auto Rickshaws in Developing Countries
- “Prosumer Grid” from Georgia Institute of Technology, Simulate & Optimize the Operation of Distributed Energy Resources/Grid
- “NTi Technology” from Cornell University, Functional Coating for Self-Distribution
• “Cooking with Stored Solar Heat” from University of Illinois Urbana-Champaign, Maintain Traditional Cooking Methods in the Developing World without Use of Fuel, Flame & Emissions
• “Loop” from Savannah College of Art and Design, Biometric System to Upcycle Waste from Meat, Fish, and Bone

BIG Pitch facilitates the adoption of undergraduate and graduate innovations that improve economies, health and the environment. BIG Pitch is part of the Business Innovation Group of the Center for Entrepreneurship Learning and Leadership at the Georgia Southern College of Business Administration and partners with Ocean Exchange, an international non-profit dedicated to advancing the adoption of transformative solutions that support sustainability.

For more information on the BIG Pitch competition and Ocean Exchange, contact Millicent Pitts, CEO of Ocean Exchange, at 912-257-0209 or millicent.pitts@oceanexchange.org. For more information on the BIG Pitch competition and Georgia Southern University’s entrepreneurship programs, please contact Dominique Halaby, D.P.A., at 912-478-2733 or dhalaby@georgiasouthern.edu.

Georgia Southern University, a public Carnegie Doctoral/Research University founded in 1906, offers more than 125 degree programs serving more than 20,500 students. Through eight colleges, the University offers bachelors, masters and doctoral degree programs built on more than a century of academic achievement. Georgia Southern is recognized for its student-centered and hands-on approach to education. Visit GeorgiaSouthern.edu.

First Lady Sandra D. Deal visits Georgia Southern for lecture, book signing

OCTOBER 5, 2015

Georgia Southern University will host a lecture and book signing featuring the authors of Memories of the Mansion: The Story of Georgia’s Governor’s Mansion on Wednesday, Oct. 7. The event is free and open to the public.

The authors of the book are Sandra D. Deal, First Lady of Georgia, Jennifer W. Dickey, Ph.D., coordinator of public history and associate professor of history at Kennesaw State University and Catherine M. Lewis, Ph.D., assistant vice president of Museums, Archives and Rare Books and a professor of history at Kennesaw State University.

Special guest and Statesboro native, former Georgia First Lady Betty Foy Sanders, will also attend the event. Sanders and her husband, the late former Governor Carl Sanders, helped to plan the Governor’s Mansion. The University’s art department, the Betty Foy Sanders Department of Art, is named after the former first lady.

Launched on Sept. 28, Memories of the Mansion: The Story of Georgia’s Governor’s Mansion is a richly illustrated book documenting the extraordinary history of the mansion and those who have lived and worked in the home since its opening in 1968. The book also will help to ensure the preservation of the historic resource of the mansion so that it may continue to serve the state and its people. The book is published through the University of Georgia press and in cooperation with the University of Georgia Libraries and Kennesaw State University.

Memories of the Mansion: The Story of Georgia’s Governor’s Mansion will be available for purchase from 12:30 to 1 p.m., and the program will take place between 1 and 2 p.m. in the University’s Eugene M. Bishop Alumni Center, 1801 Akins Boulevard.