CCC Elections To Be Held Tuesday

Williams, Landrum To Serve As Voting Stations

Election Day will be Tuesday, March 5 for the six executive offices of the Central Coordinating Committee. The six offices are President, Vice-President, Coordinator of Budgetary Affairs, Coordinator of Co-Curricular Activities, Coordinator of Academic Affairs, and Coordinator of Auxiliary Services.

Voting stations will be in the Williams and Landrum Centers.

The CCC is campaigning with signs and plans to visit the dorms in an effort to get students to vote. The CCC and its Election Committee are promoting the election of the new officers so that more students will vote and the student government will be a better representation of Georgia Southern's student body.

The Election Committee was appointed by the executive CCC officers, and it is responsible for encouraging voter turnout and participation. Students who were nominated Feb. 18-22 began their campaigns on Saturday, Feb. 23, and they will continue through Mar. 4, the day before elections.

Runoffs, if needed, will be held one week after spring quarter registration.

The elected officers will begin their terms on May 1, in Spring Quarter, 1974, and will continue in office until the last day of April in Spring Quarter, 1975.

Voting Machines furnished by the City of Statesboro will be used for the election.

12 Campaign For Positions

Campaigns for the six CCC offices have begun and will continue through March 4. Election day will be Tuesday, March 5.

Those running for the office of President are:

Larry Abbott, a Junior English major from Thomasville.

David G. Holley Jr., a Junior Art and Speech major from Harlem, Ga. David was a member of the 1972 Homecoming Committee and worked with the CCC Auxiliary Affairs in 1973-74.

Vice Presidential candidates are:

Jill Van Dresser, a Junior from Blacksburg, Va. Jill is majoring in Therapeutic Recreation with an emphasis in Art. She was President of the Kappa Delta sorority and is now working with Alumni Relations and Social Service for her sorority. She has been a member of the House Council Committee, the 1974 Homecoming Committee, the Elections Committee for the CCC, and is now a member of the Art Club and the Recreation Club.

Joe Summerour, a Sophomore Geology major from Duluth, Ga. Joe is a member of the Newman Community and the Geology Club.

Helen McMahon, a Sophomore English major from Atlanta, Ga.

Helen has served as the Press Secretary for the CCC.

Candidates for the Coordinator of Co-Curricular Activities are:

Jackie Hartley, a Junior Economics major from Cordele, Ga. Jackie is the Grand Master of the Kappa Sigma fraternity.

Shirley Koch, a Freshman from Lawrenceville, Ga. Shirley is majoring in Special Education and is a member of the Zeta Tau Alpha sorority and the CEC.

Faculty Evaluation Underway

Faculty Evaluation packets were sent Monday to professors of 419 classes, representing 10,980 students.

The evaluation is voluntary, with only those faculty members participating who wish to do so.

The packets included questionnaires to be filled out by the students in the classes. Students are asked to strongly agree, agree, neither agree nor disagree, disagree, or strongly disagree with 18 statements.

The completed questionnaires will be returned to the CCC. A booklet containing the results of the evaluation will be distributed before Fall Quarter registration.

"It'll take at least six weeks to get the booklet in final form," said Larry Abbott, chairman of the Faculty Evaluation Committee.

"No University System of Georgia school has ever published a faculty evaluation before," said Alex Livadas, President of the CCC.

"This could be a milestone for the University System," added Abbott.

"This is an experiment," Livadas said. "Whether or not we will continue with faculty evaluations depends on the results this time."

The idea of faculty evaluation for GSC, originated last summer with Alex Livadas and Bobby Smith.

A Faculty Evaluation Committee of six students and six faculty members and administrators was formed.

"Numerous meetings and discussions were held to establish objectives and rationale for faculty evaluation," said Abbott. The committee worked from June to September putting together a proposal.

The four objectives of faculty evaluation, stated in the proposal, are: "1. To help instructors improve their teaching.

"2. To improve student morale and stimulate student thinking about their educational objectives and learning.

"3. To provide information relevant to student choices of courses (as in published evaluations of courses and teacher).

"4. To provide an additional source of information for

Meal Ticket Prices Increase

Increased meal ticket prices for Georgia Southern were approved recently by the Board of Regents.

The cost of a three-meal-a-day, seven-day-a-week ticket will increase by $10 to $165. The two-meal, seven-day ticket would increase by $5 to $155; and the two-meal, five-day ticket would increase by $10 to $145.

"We had to ask for the raise in prices because our food prices increased 25.5 per cent from January 1973 to January 1974," said Ralph M. Andrews, Associate Comptroller of the college. "We have raised meal ticket prices moderately when compared with the increase in food prices."

improving the comparative judgements of teaching effectiveness."

The committee studied the faculty evaluation questionnaires in use in about 10 other schools, and chose 50 questions which it felt would be relevant to the situation at Southern.

'Prof Of The Year' Voting Set For March 25

GSC students will vote for the teacher they feel is the "Professor of the Year" at a spring quarter registration on March 25. The voting will be conducted by Gamma Beta Phi Society.

Certain rules concerning balloting and presentation of the "Professor of the Year" Award have been devised by Gamma Beta Phi Society. These rules include:

The student's vote must be for a professor in whose class he or she has been enrolled during the preceding spring, fall, or winter quarter. The ballots will require the name of the professor, the course and number, and the student's social security number.

The award will be made by determining the 15 professors receiving the highest total number of votes; then the winner will be determined by a percentage based on the number of students taught in the preceding spring, fall, and winter quarters.

In the case of tie or a written complaint, ballots will be checked to determine the student's enrollment in the professor's class within the specified three quarters. Any written complaint should be submitted to the president of the Gamma Beta Phi Society within seven days after the voting has taken place.

Letters of recognition will be sent to the top 10 professors and their respective department heads and deans.

The Professor of the Year Award will be presented to the winners on Honors Day.

Professors who are involved with team teaching shall be charged the total number of the students in the class if he taught at least 25 per cent of the quarter.

Professors receiving the award will be ineligible for a second award for the next five years. Those ineligible this year are Dr. Fred Richter, 1972 Professor of the Year; Dr. Robert A. Mayer, 1971 Professor of the Year; and Dr. David Ruffin, 1973 Professor of the Year.

Come To Hear And Meet The Candidates TODAY 8:15 P.M.

BIOLOGY LECTURE HALL

Moderator: Dr. Hugh Joiner, Assistant Professor of History

A campaign forum for all candidates for CCC office will be held tonight at 8:15 p.m. in the Biology Lecture Room. Dr. Hugh Joiner will be the moderator. Each candidate will be given an opportunity to state his/her platform. After each candidate speaks the audience will have time to ask questions.

This campaign forum is being sponsored by the CCC Elections Committee in an effort to let the student body see the candidates together and to give everyone an opportunity to see who would be the best representatives of the student body. This is consistent with the Elections Committee's philosophy that student elections should be based on issues and candidate ability rather than popularity.

Mini Model UN Starts Friday

Georgia Southern will be the host for a Mini-Model United Nations involving high school students from surrounding areas on March 1 and 2. Letters of information and invitation were sent to the prospective participating high schools, according to Dr. G. Lane Van Tassell of the Political Science Department.

Registration will be Friday afternoon (March 1) with a banquet that evening at Mrs. Bryant's Kitchen. Dean Warren Jones of the school of Arts and Sciences will be the featured speaker. On Saturday the mock sessions will be held. Topics will deal with such controversial problems as the Middle East, the Energy Crisis, and Environmental and Population Control.

There will be representatives for the Security Council, the permanent members of the United Nations, totalling sixteen countries. The affair is being administrated by members of the Model United Nations here at the Georgia Southern campus, who will attend the National Model UN in New York.

The high schools participating include Jenkins, Effingham, Statesboro, Bradwell Institute, Effingham Academy, and Wilkes. The countries represented will be Canada, Yemen, Cuba, Malaysia, Chili, Israel, Egypt, South Africa, Japan, Uganda, and India. Awards will be issues to the best delegate and to the best delegation.

G-A Staff Attends Convention

Seven members of the George-Anne staff attended the Georgia College Press Association convention held on the University of Georgia campus in Athens this weekend.

The convention, held in conjunction with the Georgia Press Association's annual affair, included an awards banquet and the election of new GCPA officers.

Attending from GSC were G-A

The Red and Black, the University of Georgia's daily publication, received the GPA award for General Excellence in the Senior college division, while Abraham Baldwin Agricultural College's Stallion took Junior college honors. The two newspapers received a majority of the awards in their respective classifications.

Brenda Mooney of Emory University was elected 1974-75 President of the GCPA; Melita Easters of ABAC was chosen Vice-President. The new Secretary is Kathy Smith, Georgia State University, and the position of Treasurer was filled by Joyce Murdock, Univ. of Georgia. Newly-elected members of the Executive Board are: Jo Hutto (University of Georgia), Barbara Ann Moore (Georgia State), Michael Delaney (Emory), Kathy Gill (ABAC), and Terry Townsend (Reinhardt College).

The Georgia College Press Association is an organization of all Georgia Junior and Senior colleges, both private and public, and is sponsored by the Georgia Press Association.

The lecture, sponsored by the GSC chapter of Sigma Xi, the Scientific Research Society of North America, will concern "Adaptive Responses to X-rays, Allen's two sons, Francis and Scott.

"We certainly see this as a fine adjunct to our programs in both Biology and Recreation," explained Georgia Southern President Dr. Pope Duncan. "We are deeply appreciative of Judge and Mrs. Allen and their interest in the further development of Georgia Southern."

Poisons, and Pain."

According to Garcia, natural selection provides animal with specialized survival strategies. When illness follows ingestion, rats develop an aversion for the flavor but not the location of the meal. If pain follows ingestion, they avoid location but not flavor. These strategies, effective against poisons and predators respectively, leave rats vulnerable to a new environmental (radiation) danger.

Dr. Garcia has done research in social psychology and education, but his main contribution has been on the biological constraints on learning. He received his B.A. and M.A. degrees in psychology from the University of California, Berkeley. Seven years ago, he completed his Ph.D. at Berkeley.

He worked as a biologist at Harvard Medical School and served as chairman of the Psychology Department at Stony Brook, as well as professor of psychology at the University of Utah. Garcia has had many books published in addition to presentations, abstracts, and other scientific research material.

Dial Ext. 511 For News, Events At GSC

Among its newspapers, newsletters, radio broadcasts, and television shows, Georgia Southern has one rather unusual means of informing the public about events on the campus. By dialing extension 511 on campus, one can hear a recorded message concerning happenings on that particular day.

Dial-News was instituted about four years ago by Ric Mandes, Director of Institutional Development, and has informed students, faculty, and community members of current campus events every week-day since that time.

Each morning a three-minute message is recorded by student assistant Bob Wilkerson and is hooked up to a phone system. The messages are generally abbreviated to time, place and date and include such items as CCC, fraternity and sorority meetings, ball games, concerts and departmental events.

"The reminder system is another effort on the part of our division to inform the community of what's happening," said Mandes. He also said that anyone can request news items "of general interest" to be placed on Dial-News by calling the department of Public Relations.

Stained Glass Window Created By Prof

In 1960, Bruno Bak designed the largest stained glass window in the world. Today he is a professor at Georgia Southern College.

The window Bak built is no ordinary open-shut window; it is the frontispiece of the New Abbey Church of St. John the Baptist in Collegeville, Minn. Standing 65 feet high, 160 feet across the top, and 178 feet across the base, the huge construction incorporates 480 complete hexagons about 4½ feet in diameter and 100 partial hexagons. These contain 14,000 individual pieces of stained glass.

This wedding of medieval and modern materials, framed in free standing concrete, is, according to Bak, a highly abstract representation of the Resurrection of Jesus Christ and the Post-Pentecost period.

Bak is also the creator of what is thought to be a new art form—poured concrete relief sculpture, which he used in designing a school at Dominican College in Racine, Wis.

His largest work since the window design is a series of six woodcuts representing tales from medieval literature. Beowulf, Sir Gawain and the Green Knight, Mort d'Arthur, The Second Shepherd's play, Everyman, and Chaucer's Nun's Priest's Tale are all illustrated in the set, built for Encyclopedia Britannica.

But Bak has not always had it so good. At 17, he was drafted into the Polish Army when Hitler threatened invasion. Captured by Nazi forces, he lost six years in concentration and prisoner-of-war camps, from which he made several escape attempts.

After the war, he attended the art academy at Karlsruhe, Ger., and received his master's degree from the German Academy at Mannheim. In 1952, through a government art scholarship, he came to the United States with his wife, Hedi, and their two older sons.

"My interest now lies in environmental arts," said the Polish immigrant. Bak is "contemplating" writing a book for courses dealing with that subject while he awaits acceptance of his most recent design; a 75-foot high tower of modular concrete and colored lights for a German school.

Bak has been a professor of design at GSC since Fall, 1973.

Secretary's Role Topic Of Seminar

The secretary's role in human relations will be the topic of the March 1 secretarial seminar in the Public Services Building on the GSC Campus.

Katherin Calhoun, Congressman Bo Ginn's secretary, will open the seminar with a discussion on the opportunities for human relations exchange she experiences in Congressman Ginn's office.

Judi Collins, director of the Personnel Office at GSC and Coordinator of the seminar, stated that the purpose of the seminar was to go beyond the mechanics of the secretarial position by exploring the human relations potential the secretary faces.

"The secretary can be creative in her job by becoming involved in the goals of her organization. Moving her organization forward by utilizing good human relations is the way she can find fulfillment not only for herself, but for her supervisor and their organization," commented Ms. Collins.

The seminar is open to both community and campus secretarial and clerical workers. Morning and afternoon sessions will be highlighted by mini-labs and panel discussions which will deal with the practical aspects of putting effective human relations into practice.

For additional information contact Judi Collins, Personnel Office, Georgia Southern College.

In-As-Much Needs Contributions

In-As-Much, a kindergarten for underprivileged children, needs around $800 to complete the remaining school year.

The kindergarten, which meets in buildings of the Episcopal Church, depends on contributions to stay open. Several organizations and individuals have contributed so far.

Most of the money needed goes for salaries, food, and equipment.

Any fraternity, organization, or individual who wants to contribute to this needy cause should contact Mrs. G. Lane Van Tassell at In-As-Much.

Phi Mu Alpha

Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia announces its newly elected officers for 1974-75. They are Keith Sewell, President; Mickey Wendel, Vice-President; Ruben Olliff, Secretary; David Adams, Treasurer; Wayne King, Historian; and Steve Johnson, Warden. These officers will be installed Thursday Feb. 28.

Winter quarter pledges are Trent Tadsen, Joe Babcock, and Edwin Lovett.

The brothers and pledges acted as guides for the students participating in the high school band festival which was held on campus Friday Feb. 22. They also recorded the concert given by these high school students Saturday.

Delta Zeta

Delta Zeta honored her new six big brothers, Van Jackson, Cliff Murphy, Donnie Rodgers, Lindsey Sims, Robbie Chester, and Greg Marshall, this past week. At the end of the week, they were "kid-napped" and taken to the Nic Nac for refreshments and gifts.

The new officers for Delta Zeta in 1974-75 are: Persident, Rita Shook; Vice-President of Rush, Carla Evans; Vice-President of Pledge, Dee Dee Bell; Treasurer, Diane Cooper; Corresponding Secretary, Kathy Pate; Recording Secretary, Cindy Leach; Historian, Nancy Hanson; Panhellenic, Joni Banks, Janie Herring; Standards, Sharon Plunkett; Non-Money Making, Merrilee Christie; Money-Making, Janette Johnson; Recommendations, Peggy Thurmond; Song Leader, Kathie Foster; Guards, Leslie Burrell-Sahl, Joan Gory; Philanthropy, Debbie Modellmog; Parliamentarian, Ginny McJunkin; Ritual, Vicky Gunter; Endowment, Mary Sue Kennington; Courtesy, Vicky Sanders; Social, Dana Walker; Scholarship, Marty Nipper.

Kappa Delta

The Sisters had a hot dog sale Feb. 21. The Pledges are planning a bake sale for Feb. 28.

Kappa Delta Big Brother Ed Newsome was initiated into Sigma Chi Fraternity.

Alpha Delta Pi

Black Diamond was held Feb. 9 at the Wanderer on Jekyll Island. Many alumnae attended the dance. The band was Sunhower, and the whole dance was a success. On Feb. 12, ADPi held a Valentine's Party for the sisters, pledges, and big brothers. The new pledge class entertained everyone.

ADPi's Jan Jenkins was elected to be on the 1974-75 Sigma Chi Sweetheart Court. Chantel Beasley and Terri Cason are representing ADPi in the Miss GSC Pageant.

Faculty Evaluation

A survey was then made of approximately 300 students to determine which of these 50 questions were the most suitable. From the results of this survey, a questionnaire with 18 questions was developed.

The committee sent faculty evaluation information and a copy of the questionnaire to all faculty members.

Two hundred ten responded that they would be willing to participate. Sixty said they would not be willing, and 40 said they would like more discussion.

Evaluation packets were sent to both those faculty members who favored evaluation, and to those wishing more discussion.

Candidates for Coordinator of Budgetary Affairs are:

Darryl V. Ott, a Junior Accounting major from Pelham, Ga. Darryl is Chairman of the Pre-Registration Committee, Student Director of the Book Exchange, and a member of the Student Advisory Council to the Board of Regents. He is also a member of the Radio Committee and has held various offices in Student Government in other colleges.

Chuck Berry, a Sophomore Business major from East Point. Chuck is the Grand Scribe of the Kappa Sigma fraternity.

Robert Earl Strickland, a Freshman Political Science major from Statesboro, Ga.

Assistant Attorney General Asks HEW For Information

Al Evans, Assistant Attorney General for Georgia, has requested more information from William H. Thomas of the HEW in the matter of sex discrimination at GSC.

A copy of Evans' letter to Thomas was sent to Pope Duncan, President of GSC.

Thomas is the director of the Office for Civil Rights (Region IV), Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

In January, HEW sent a letter to Duncan, asking that GSC "abolish regulated hours for (freshman) female students or equalize such policy for students of both sexes."

Duncan referred the matter to the Attorney General of Georgia.

The HEW charge of sex discrimination resulted from a letter sent to the HEW by a GSC coed last April.

HEW investigated the complaint and found GSC in violation of Title IX of the 1972 Higher Education Act, which prohibits sex discrimination in educational institutions receiving Federal funds.

G-A Endorses Abbott

After interviewing the candidates, the George-Anne endorses the following people for officers of the CCC.

President—Larry Abbott
Vice-President—Helen McMahon
Co-ordinator of Co-curricular Activities—Jackie Hartley
Co-ordinator of Academics—Erl Davidson
Co-ordinator of Auxiliary Services—Bert Roughton
Co-ordinator of Budgetary Affairs—Darryl V. Ott

The interviews proved to be very enlightening, and I wish that each student who will vote in the CCC elections could have talked to the candidates and had the chance to ask questions and hear their answers. The only easy endorsement to make was for the office of Co-ordinator of Auxiliary Services, and it was easy only because Bert Roughton was running unopposed. Because the George-Anne editorial board did have the chance to question the candidates, we ask that you support the above candidates for their respected offices.

The main reason the George-Anne endorsed Larry Abbott is his dedication to his job. Larry has worked extensively on the student book exchange, which will begin next fall, and took over the Teacher Evaluation committee after Bobby Smith vacated that post. As Larry put it, "I have put so much time and energy into these projects, I can't see giving it up." Abbott has the potential to make a determined, hard-working president.

For the same reason, of determination, the George-Anne supports Helen McMahon for Vice-President. She too has worked on the CCC before and decided to run for an office after working on the faculty evaluation committee, and seeing that there really is a "means for change." Helen is a wise choice for Vice-President.

Erl Davidson is the George-Anne's choice for the Co-ordinator of academic affairs. Erl is very confident and convincing, and seems to have the adequate experience, too, as he was chairman for Pulse of the Students for the past six months.

As for the office of Co-Curriculum, the George-Anne chose Jackie Hartley. Although involved in a fraternity, Jackie Hartley feels that he would certainly have the time needed to be thoroughly involved in the CCC. Jackie seems to be genuinely interested in involving the students of GSC in the affairs of Bulloch County.

The best choice for Budget Affairs is Darryl Ott. Darryl has ahd more experience than is usual for a candidate, running for this office.

Although the interviews proved to be enlightening, they also make it quite hard to choose the best candidate to endorse, so many of the students demonstrated a desire not only to win but to aid the CCC. To all candidates, the G-A again extends its good luck.

Let My Wife Go

Dear Editor:

Why can't I take my wife to the movies and ball games, etc., at no cost?? The activity fee we pay is outrageous as it is.

MRA

Is Hope Coming?

Dear Ms. Editor:

Recently I entered a stall in the men's room just to have a sign beckon me to hang in there; Josh was coming. Quite apart from the indignities of Josh holding a mass meeting in one stall, the poster had expired by one week. Then, Ms. Editor, I looked around and there were signs and notices posted all over our beautiful campus. Y know what, Ms. Editor? Just about all of them had expired. In fact, so many had expired I rush off the campus to make sure the world hadn't expired.

Then I had this wild idea, Ms. Editor. Why doesn't the student government require those organizations that put signs up to take them down? I thought maybe a fine of say, $10 per sign 48 hours after the event had taken place might encourage neatness. I know it is revolutionary, but, Ms. Editor, we are the ones concerned with litter and pollution—aren't we? Think of the international notoriety that we will gain from having a neat campus.

Another thing crossed my mind. I'll bet deans, department heads, and professors would like people to ask permission before they used their official bulletin boards. boards. My boss actually believes the Finance bulletin board should have financial information on it, and the graduate bulletin board should have graduate information on it. Now, Ms. Editor, that is almost intolerable! However, I bet if organizations were courteous and asked permission, they might let a notice sneak in once in a while.

MARTHA ALICE GIDDENS

Probably two of the biggest scares that have happened recently have occurred in the span of three weeks—the kidnappings of Patricia Hearst in California and of Reg Murphy from Atlanta. Since then I have read some editorials saying who these two kidnappings have brought the country closer, have inspired people in California to give donations to the Hearst family, how many of the people on welfare have refused to accept the food from the Hearsts, how people sent flowers and food to the Murphys. To these

Ms. Editor, just remember what a famous poet once said, "I think that I shall never see a sign as lovely as a tree"—or was it a poem? I can't remember—but I bet someone will put up a sign to remind me. By the way, when is Bob Hope coming?

Independent Strikes Back

Dear Editor:

Last week, in defense of ATO fraternity, Mr. Dosier stated that, "in the future, if Greeks and independents could learn to cooperate rather than criticize, a much more harmonious as well as progressive environment might prevail." The following comments are directed to Mr.

Kidnappings Cause For Alarm

editorialists, I say they are much too optimistic, and personally, the idea of being whisked away in broad daylight with people you love and trust standing in the same room with you cares me.

While at a convention of the Georgia Press Association in Athens this weekend, the two kidnappings was of great concern. The general consensus of opinion was that Patricia Hearst's kidnapping was definitely of more concern and that Reg Murphy's, although just as frightening, was seemingly for money rather than political gain. I tend to agree with this opinion, for the group that kidnapped Murphy poses no real threat to others; but the group in California are the stuff that heroes and martyrs are made of, the dedicated individuals who don't mind losing their lives for a cause. In my lifetime I have seen draft-card burners, draft evaders, the Jesus Freaks, some slight revolutionaries on college campuses, but these do not bother me as does the kidnapping in California.

Much can be said about the tumbling government, that it would be a prime time for another type of rule to take this opportunity to make its move while the people are at complete distrust with their government. Because of space to the CCC candidates, this thought is cut short, but these kidnappings are of such concern that they should not go unnoticed and should definitely not be used as the basis for editorials on country spirit and togetherness. These subjects should not be causes for panic, but also should not be run away from.

Heavens for those Greeks in the minority who feel they are human beings, not gods and goddesses, and treat other students as equals and not lessers.

These reasons may seem trivial to you, being a professor and not a student, but when the majority of students at GSC are Independent and a minority Greek, could there possibly be a hidden, in reality very obvious, meaning as to why the Greeks are a minority.

When Mr. Highpockets and Miss Goodie-Two-Shoes realize that wearing Greek letters on the fronts and backs of their shirts doesn't make them better than their fellow students, then will the Greeks and Independents progressively and harmoniously work together.

conveying the fact that my legs had been aching severely at times, and the main reason I was worried was because I am on the pill. She appeared pleasant and expressed an understanding. She left the room to relay the information to the doctor before he came in to check me. About three minutes later, the "nice" nurse returned with the news that Dr. Anders could not examine me because he did not issue me the pill and did not know its history, so he referred me to my family physician.

My God!! All I wanted him to do was check my legs—pill or no pill. I left slightly peeved, in hopes the pains would disappear.

I decided to make a second trip to the health cottage because the pains in my thighs had gotten much worse. This time I talked to another nurse, who also left the room to confront Dr. Anders, presumably, with the same information, and returned with the same reply: the doctor would not check me because I was on a pill he had not prescribed, and again referred me to my family physician. I explained to the nurse that I had received my pills from a family planning center in my home town, that my family physician knew nothing about me being on the pill, much less my parents, and that, therefore, I was really put in a spot. She said that they were in a spot, too. (I am still uncertain as to what their spot is.)

Agreed, there may be nothing wrong with my legs, but only a doctor can determine the reason for my pain, and I had been led to believe that a Dr. Anders was available at the health cottage to all students of GSC. Have I been misled? I thought that all doctors radiated a genuine concern for patients, and being a GSC student, I am a patient of Dr. Anders, and do not appreciate his attitude, i.e., the fact that he would not even LOOK at my legs.

Since I can't go home to the family planning center where I got my pills, I would like to ask Dr. Anders, publicly, what am I supposed to do if I do have blood clots? I would have preferred to ask him privately, but since he would not even see me, this is my only alternative.

letters to the editor

Dosier.

I have been at GSC for four years, and when I was a freshman students participated in Spring Swing as well as Greek Week. The next year Spring Swing was exterminated from student activities, yet Greek Week remained. How should Independents feel towards the Greek system when they have to give up some of their pleasures to benefit the Greeks, who are a minority? Spring Swing included everyone, but Greek Week includes only the Greeks.

Next, being that you are the ATO advisor, you would not by any chance be prejudiced, would you?

You stated that Greeks and Independents should learn to work together more harmoniously and progressively. Yet you insist upon capitalizing Greek and not Independent. This seems to reflect that you think the Greeks are better than the majority of the student body who refer to themselves as Independents, who should equally be capitalized.

You are not alone in your feelings. The majority of the Greeks, fraternity and sorority, feel the same way you do. Thank

Cottage Under Fire

Dear Editor,

I was under the impression that the 10-dollar health fee that I have been paying every quarter for the three years that I've been at GSC permitted me to have medical attention. I also thought that the health fee included a full-time doctor who was on duty to examine any student who needed to see him.

Recently, I had an encounter at the health cottage in which neither the "concerned" doctor (Dr. Anders) nor the "nice" nurses would even examine me, much less offer medical advice. I would like to ask just what the money that I pay each quarter is being used for, because I didn't even receive a "token" aspirin for my visit.

A couple of weeks ago, having had acute, sharper-than-cramp-like pains in my thighs, sporadically, for over a week, being especially curious since I take birth control pills, I decided to ask Dr. Anders to take a look at my legs and hopefully determine that no blood clots existed.

After giving a nurse information necessary, i.e.,

Sees Strengths And Weaknesses

I sincerely believe if any student sat back and took a long objective look at our situation here at Georgia Southern he or she could draw some very interesting conclusions. Some of these conclusions could or should be very positive and accurate and others very negative and likewise accurate.

Let's consider a moment some of the positive aspects. This school is growing rapidly and certainly in the right direction, towards university status. The faculty and administration are first-rate, high-caliber people who, to a large degree, are dedicated and enjoy their work. The student body encompasses more talent than we'll ever know; time in this case will speak for itself. We have a student government which, I believe, goes to great lengths to please the student populace. The output of the school itself is tremendous in community and state phases in terms of service and money. In fact the school is directly or indirectly responsible for more than half of Statesboro's growth. Overall, we have a good thing going here, or it may appear so.

Now let's consider some of the negative aspects of our situation or some of the things we don't have and perhaps should. There exists between faculty and students a fair relationship and points of contact, but the space between them is too broad. One way to narrow the space between the two is to allow a more two-sided evaluation. Students are constantly being evaluated by their instructors in very formal, official ways and up to now the reverse wasn't true. Evaluation of instruction by students is a step in the direction of enhancing or reminding the instructor of his responsibilities towards his students. The two-sided academic coin could tell the truth of the matter in a classroom situation. Who is slack in responsibility, the student or the instructor? This mutual understanding between faculty members and students should and will tend to draw the two groups closer together. Faculty Evaluation started Monday the 25th.

Making use of faculty expertise in any project a group or organization may have is very advisable. One of the main strengths the student government has and should have is faculty knowhow. If you have a large number of students in student government or other campus organizations you naturally have more exposure.

Perhaps one of the biggest problems or needs we have is the lack of student input into the student government. No organization can function effectively without these inputs. How is the group leadership to know exactly what to do or to propose without inputs. Apathy will break any group of any structure. On the other hand, if no power is available to deal with suggestions, requests, or proposals, then all is in vain. However, there are ways and means in our system to effectively deal with student demands. First an organization must make itself very available and sensitive to demands. Second, use its experience, knowhow, student and faculty talent and the workable system to honor demands. Finally, show results of work in forms of policy or physical change. I've seen it done; it works.

Student wants and needs are the key, the student government the handle, the administration not the lock but the door-keeper. There are ways of convincing the door-keeper to allow us the things we want and need. The key must fit.

I would not run for the office of President of the CCC if I didn't feel qualified or ready to take on the responsibility. In the past academic year I've put in a great deal of time and energy into several areas. To name some, I am chairman of the Faculty Evaluation Committee, chairman and founder of the Student Book Exchange Committee, member of the Academic Advisory Council, stage manager for the College Union Board, and Circulation Manager of the George-Anne. If elected, I would channel all this energy into one. Thank you—I would appreciate your vote.

Cites Experience

I am a junior accounting major seeking the office of Coordinator of Budgetary Affairs in the Central Coordinating Committee. I wish to obtain this office because of two personal commitments: one to myself in striving to obtain every possible particle of practical experience in bookkeeping and accounting before I professionally enter the field, and, secondly, to Georgia Southern in providing any and all assistance to efforts directed toward the benefit of the student body.

I qualify myself with the following facts:

1. I have been employed in a bookkeeping position by a public accounting firm in Albany, Ga.—Draffin, Tucker, Bilton and Ruis, a mobile home manufacturer—and also by my father.

2. I have been involved in the Student Governments of the University of Miami, Georgia State University and Abraham Baldwin College, serving in such capacities as Chairman of the Student Activity Budget Committee, Parliamentarian of the Student Assembly, and Chief Justice of the Judicial Branch.

3. And now at Georgia Southern, I am currently heading the Pre-Registration Committee, working strategically in the all-new Book Exchange, and serving as a delegate to the Student Advisory Council to the Board of Regents.

In comprehensively applying my efforts and abilities to various needs of the student body, I identify myself with the following points.

1. I pledge to continue

CCC Officer Present For March 5

Joe Summerour

Seeks Communication

If elected as Vice-President of the 1974-75 CCC, I will sincerely do my best to promote a feeling of cooperation with the other officers, with sacrificing progress, in order to help our student government move forward.

As the director of communications for the CCC, the Vice-President has the responsibility of keeping the lines of communication open between the Administration, the CCC, and the students.

If elected I will try to activities to keep the students involved.

With 1974 being an election year in Statesboro and in Georgia, now would be a good time to make our presence known in this city by exercising our right to vote. Also, if the referendum for legalized liquor comes up during the 1974 elections, a large enough turnout by the students might bring legalized liquor and needed revenues to Statesboro and Bulloch County. I will do as much as I can to inform the student population about the issues affecting them during these election times. This will be done through the George-Anne. Other important issues facing the CCC this year are the jobs of working with other college representatives on getting a student on the Board of Regents and also on reconsidering Ga-PIRG. The job of meeting with these college representatives on these and other issues falls on the Vice-President. This being so, I will do my best to get in there and help get these projects completed, which would give the students better representation.

Your Voice

The relationship between students and faculty is a special one, and one that is always in question. In considering proposals, the views of both groups should be considered. As Co-ordinator of Academic Affairs, I would bring the student's opinions to the faculty and the faculty's views to you, the student body. One of the duties of Co-ordinator of Academic Affairs is to serve on the Academic Advisory Council. I would be your voice on this council and your views would be well represented.

I feel qualified for this position because of past experience in student government government and my willingness to work. I have experience in the academic area, as I have been scholarship chairman of my sorority. I am a third-quarter sophomore majoring in secondary education—social science. I would like the opportunity to serve you, the student body, as Co-ordinator of Academic Affairs on CCC. Your voice in this organization is that of the executive officers. That is why it is important that you consider the candidates carefully. Your part in CCC now is to exercise your right to vote, so effective officers can be elected.

Erl Davidson

Survey Work Helpful

My decision to run for Coordinator of Academic Affairs came about as a result of my having worked with the CCC for the past six months. During this time I have served as Chairman of the Survey Committee (Pulse of the Students). The Survey Committee has given me some idea of what the students want on this campus in relation to Academic Affairs.

Pre-registration is an important issue that must be instituted here at GSC. If passed it will save students, faculty, and administration time and money, and also make registering for classes a little more bearable.

Students working on extra-curricular activities such as the George-Anne, the Reflector, CUB, and the CCC spend long hours working at their jobs and receive no recognition for their labors. Since these jobs are all related to specific majors, why can they not receive academic credit for the contributions they make to us all?

An argument I often hear on campus is, "Why do I have to take 10 hours of this course when it is not related to my major and I have no interest in it, anyway?" I believe that core courses must be readjusted to a student's wants and needs. Some courses are unnecessary and the hours they take up could be channeled into a student's major or minor.

As a veteran, I know the difficulties vets are facing on the college campus today. Many states pay tuition and books for vets. Why doesn't Georgia? If I am elected to this office, I promise to promote (in conjunction with the rest of the colleges in the University System) a lobby in the state government that will ease the financial burden the vet is now shouldering.

Most of these issues tie into the Academic Advisory Council. This council is comprised of representatives from the faculty, the Administration, and the student body. This is where the Coordinator of Academic Affairs goes to argue an issue on behalf of students, concerning, for example, cut policy. To date the Coordinator has no vote on this council—we are about as powerful as a bulldog with rubber teeth.

The student body deserves and must have a vote on this committee, and if I am elected, I will do all I can to establish equal representation for students in a joint control of academic affairs.

maximum effort to the task of securing a much-needed pre-registration system. As this task is painstakingly slow in its progress, I cannot promise immediate results. But I do promise to work with all expediency, accomplishing whatever is possible.

2. Institution of a student operated non-profit Book Exchange is also high in priority. While much work and effort has already been expended, I promise to insure that the operation, which should commence in the immediate future, will operate at the absolute minimum of overhead costs, and that the exchange will remain as a service and not develop into a business.

3. Although I do not fully agree with all of the practices and treatment of issues by the present CCC, I do, however, recognize the beneficial efforts which the group is now exerting.

I sincerely hope that each of you as students will see fit to support me in my campaign for Coordinator of Budgetary Affairs. I assure you that when I am elected to this position I will serve you according to the best of my capabilities. And since my

CCC Is Channel

One of the main objectives of the CCC is to facilitate an effective communication channel between the Central Coordinating Committee, student body, faculty, and administration. As a candidate for Vice-President, I realize my main duty will be one of communication. This is a very important part of the operation of the CCC. If elected, my primary concern will be to see that students feel free to express their thoughts and ideas to the CCC.

Each of you has excellent ideas which usually are not expressed because you may not realize or

My first encounter with Georgia Southern two years ago was quite different from what I anticipated. I was expecting much more student representation and involvement. Since then I have learned that it is difficult, but not impossible, to bring about significant change. I have organized several community services in the Statesboro area with the co-operation of Family and Children's Services. I feel these experiences along with my involvement in establishing and working in the Student Volunteer Services Committee qualify me for the office of Coordinator of Co-Curricular Activities.

One of my primary concerns is with the civil liberties of students. A lot of hard work has been put into this area, but we still have a long way to go. Intervisitation is a reality but freshman women's curfew is also a reality. We, as students, must unite in order to rise above the oppressive ideas belonging to the past. I plan to try my best to unite students in our effort to achieve our civil rights. The radio station and voter registration committees are very important in keeping a free flow of ideas on campus and in the community so that change may be facilitated. Finally, I feel it is most important for each student to exercise his right to vote, for it is only by speaking out that change will come.

know exactly what you can do to put them into effect, or who you can go to, to voice them. I would like to encourage you to go through the CCC as a channel through which your ideas can be changed into realities.

I will, as well as keeping communication channels open, make every effort to keep the workings of the CCC known and publicized.

I feel that I am qualified for this position because I have previously worked on various CCC committees; I was president of Kappa Delta sorority; and I have a genuine interest in the CCC. Working with these committees and my sorority, I have had many experiences in communication with students, faculty, and administration, which will help me in my office.

I am a junior Therapeutic Recreation major with an emphasis in Art. Although time is needed for my studies, I will have the time necessary to work as Vice-President of the CCC.

Enthusiasm

Enthusiasm makes things happen! Voter registration and volunteer service organization are just two things that the coordinator of Co-Curricular Activities is and has been involved in. If students would take a positive attitude about voter registration we could improve our relations with the community here.

We are in effect residents of Bulloch County for the two or however many years we are in Bulloch County. An all-out registration in Bulloch County could allow us to have a larger voice in the local government, and be able to change what we do not like or at least express our opinions about such things as liquor laws, curfews and social activities (11:30) and other items of interest to our age group. The office of Co-Curricular is involved very much with voter registration.

Volunteer Service organizations are not new and are here now on Georgia Southern's campus. The office of Co-Curricular has been working very hard in this area of providing the underprivileged people with better services. If elected to this office, I pledge myself to continue to work hard

More Student Involvement

Only WE can make the best better!

Never before in this school's history has the student government been in such close contact with the administration and students, and yet never before has there been such a lack of student involvement. I can make this statement because I'm an officer on the CCC this year, and I know it is true. Whether the students know it or not, they're all on the CCC—all 6,000 of them. The student government was reconstructed last year, just for that purpose—more student involvement.

Wants Progressive Environment

I am not running in this election for the title of the office nor for the nameplate that would sit on my desk. I decided to run because of the projects that could be accomplished through the power of this office and because of my strong belief that results can come about when people work together. I want your vote, but more than that I want it to mean something. If you vote for me, I would like it to be in the form of a commitment to my goal, that is, to making GSC a more progressive campus environment.

"A more progressive campus

Strength

The strength of the student body lies directly within the strength of the student government—the CCC. I will do everything within my power to insure that a strong, representative CCC will prevail, thus giving every student increased power in determining the manner by which our college is operated. I intend to be a representative of the student in the strictest sense of the term.

The action I take in regard to my duties, which involves homecoming, food services, housing, and vending services, will be in direct response to the students. Since the responsibilities of my office will directly affect every student on the GSC campus on a day-to-day basis, my office will be your office—your suggestions will be the determining force in the decisions I will make, and the policy I will support throughout the upcoming year.

The six officers that compose the CCC cannot be expected to handle everything that the student body wants, by themselves. It is just not humanly possible. As Coordinator of Auxiliary Services this past year, Homecoming was my major job. Most students don't realize the fact that we started to work on Homecoming the second week in October last year, and they don't realize that just about every day in January we worked anywhere from 10-15 hours—just to pull the whole show off. Don't get me wrong; I'm not complaining, I'm just trying to make a point. Many students would love to see the road barrier on Herty taken down. It's not that I like it up, or does any of the other officers; it's just that the other major issues, as Homecoming, take up our time. That's where involvement comes in, involvement that I want to see come in. There are many students that would love to work on things such as barriers, roads, radio stations, open intervisitation, etc.—the only problem is that they don't know how to get involved.

Even though my platform is one of "more involvement," it is also one of "listening more to the students." I think that whenever a student has a complaint or suggestion, he should be able to go to the student government and talk openly about it—AND BE HEARD. Sometimes it's not knowing what needs to be done, but how to get it done. I promise you that if I get elected president, the student government office will be open to ALL students; and to all student complaints and suggestions.

Don't you think that it's about time that we become realistic about the situation? We all need to work together, to make the best better. I am fully aware of the responsibilities of the position of President of the CCC; and am capable of doing the job. In running for this position I will make the student government before coming to Georgia Southern, and I believe I could put some ideas I have from there to use to make for a better station here at GSC.

A second source of gaining insight into how others feel which has already been used effectively this past year is surveys. Last summer I worked surveying the people of Atlanta on their feelings

Robert Earl Strickland

Pledges 100% Of Self

Winning this election is very important to me because the outcome of this election may be a deciding factor in determining my whole future. So I plead with you to elect me as your Coordinator of Budgetary Affairs.

The other candidates are qualified, I am sure, but I try to always offer just a little more than my opponents. How, may you ask? Well, if elected to this office, my job will be to take care of the bookkeeping department of the CCC, but I plan also to help in any other office that my help may be needed in, too. This is not a requirement of the office, but I believe that when someone is elected by the people he should give 100 per cent of himself to that job. This is what I intend to do.

I have realized since my high school years that if the world is ever going to start changing, it is going to have to begin at home. When I refer to home, I refer to my own self.

We should get involved as much as possible to show the world that the younger generation is capable of producing good work, and that is exactly what I intend to do for you if you elect me as your Coordinator of Budgetary Affairs.

I sincerely ask you to give me this one chance to represent you in the executive office of the Central Coordinating Committee. I promise you that you will not be sorry for casting your vote for Robert Earl Strickland.

If you elect me, I would like to send out a personal invitation inviting you to come by my office in the Williams Center Building and introduce yourself and give me a personal opportunity to thank you for your support.

Thank you for, hopefully, your vote.

The World Of Tom Stidham

By RACHEL RHODES
G-A Staff Writer

Have you seen the guy standing in front of the band at basketball games waving his arms, wearing a "Mr. Trombone" shirt? He is "Mr. Trombone" to some people, but to most people he is known as Tom Stidham. As one of the Music professors, he not only directs the Pep Band, but also the Concert Band and Stage Band, as well as teaches method classes, private lessons, Instrumental Practicum, etc.

"Mr. Trombone" is an appropriate name for Stidham, as he plays for the Savannah Symphony and is a free-lance trombonist in Savannah and Jacksonville. As a free-lance trombonist, he has played for such shows as Sonny and Cher, Isaac Hayes, the Ice Show, and the circus. He also claims to have played "on the road" with the Glen Campbell show—the road from Macon to Savannah. He has also played for some commercials for television and radio such as Copeland Sausage Co. in Florida, and "Buggy and Wagon" here in Statesboro. He also functions as a clinician and guest conductor for band clinics and festivals. Stidham will be in Kansas this summer for the Mid-West Band Festival.

Stidham claims to be a native Floridian, but actually, he was born in North Carolina. He received his Bachelor of Fine Arts and his M.Ed. from the University of Florida where he was in Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, Lambda Chi Alpha (a social fraternity) and Kappa Kappa Psi (a band fraternity). Before coming here six years ago, he was the band director at Paxton High School in Jacksonville.

Presently Stidham is active in the Georgia Music Educators Association, is Secretary-Treasurer of the Southern Division of College Band Directors National Association, and faculty advisor to the student chapter of the Music Educators National Conference at GSC. He is a member of the Statesboro Hartley with these two committees.

The Coordinator of Co-Curricular is able to work in many other areas. One which I want to become involved in is consumer protection. We have a Consumer Protection Bureau and a Better Business Bureau here at Georgia Southern. Improving consumer protection for college students is what we need and I will apply myself to this goal. Also in working together with the CUB and helping to improve the student welfare out of the classroom.

The only way I could be able to do any of the things I have mentioned is with the backing and enthusiasm of the student body. Creating this enthusiasm is what I hope to do if I am elected and I will do it not on a 6,000-to-1 basis, but a 1-to-1.

WORK FOR YOU, AND WITH YOU—the students of Georgia Southern College.

You're a member of the student government—you deserve to be heard!

Music Club, a Mason, a Shriner, and a member of The Order of the Eastern Star.

With all these activities he does not have time for any real hobbies, but he confesses that he likes to cook. "I'm a home-made ice cream nut—as you can tell," he said as he patted his ample tummy. His ice cream must be pretty good as his recipe has been published recently in "Secrets from Southern Kitchens", a cookbook written by the faculty and staff of GSC. Most of his other cooking is experimental, meaning that he grabs just anything available and throws it all together. His favorite way of cooking is outside on the grill.

Stidham says that he has always been amazed at how very small incidents have made the greatest difference in his life. While in the seventh grade, his best friend said, "Hey, why don't you join the band? It's fun." Thus his music career began. When he approached the band director about being in the band, Mr. Stidham said he wanted to play the trumpet. The band director asked if he had access to a trumpet. "No, but my cousin has a trombone he said I could borrow," was his reply. This started little Tommy Stidham on the road to fame and fortune as super trombonist and band director of Georgia Southern College, a place he had never heard of until he was offered the job.

Tom Stidham is not the only Stidham in the music scene. Linda, his wife, teaches piano, and their oldest son, Mark, age 6, is one of the assistant bass drummers for the Pep Band. Scott, age 3, will bang on a drum, too, if given the chance, and assuredly, the sounds six-month-old Marcie makes is music to her parents' ears.

on certain city improvements. Again I have some ideas on how to make better survey questions about interesting subjects, and how to make better use of the information gained from them.

Finally, I view the CCC as both a sounding board for student opinion, and the major place for student input in all campus functions. For that reason increased communication is needed directly between the CCC and the students, in the form of (a) newsletters on important happenings, and (b) a more "open-door" policy within the office itself, encouraging any student any time to drop by and either talk or just listen.

It is a fact that we need more representation in Administrative decisions. For students to have at least a voice in all decisions made will be one of my goals.

I have been working on other specific projects with the CCC and would like to see them completed if elected.

I am running for the office of Vice-President because I believe in the power of people. Working together there is no end to what we can accomplish if we try. What we need to do is to reach out to each other and use each other's talents to prove student apathy is indeed a myth.

'Cobblers' Provides Well-Staged Comedy

By MRS. ADELE M. HOOLEY

Last week the GSC Masquers provided four nights of well-staged comedy when they presented The Heath Cobblers to many hundreds of students, faculty, and townspeople. The Finnish play, written by Aleksis Kivi and published in 1864, was translated and very ably directed by Dr. Richard Johnson, with Dr.

Robert West designing the set. This was the first production of the play in the United States.

Settings, costumes, lighting, music—all combined to make one feel he was really in Finland for a while. Dr. West, demonstrating his usual excellence, had designed a realistic set, which was very flexible. The basic set, with minor changes, served as several completely different settings. The costumes looked authentic and were often quite elaborate—one remembers especially the candle-lit headdress of the bride.

Tom Nolan as Esko did a masterful job of acting, remaining beautifully in character throughout the play, up to and including the curtain call.

The character of Esko called for a very expressive face, one which would register child-like innocence, bewilderment, anger, foolishness, remorse, and, occasionally, dignity. Tom had one scene, for example, in which he discovered for the first time both the exhilaration and the panic one can feel when he is drunk. He went easily from exuberant leaping about the stage (undoubtedly choreographed carefully) to despair over the seemingly lifeless body of the tailor whom he has just strangled. One can not imagine anyone else playing the role. Tom's Harpo Marx clown face and excellent acting created a most convincing Esko.

Other members of the cast did very creditable jobs of acting also, most notably Marilyn McKinney as Martta, Mike Warren as Topias, Andy Walton as Mikko, A.J. Cohen as Sakeri, and Carl Dukes as Nikko.

The staging of the play was quite effective, with the aisles becoming noisy avenues by which the characters often entered or left the stage. This technique, which seems to involve the audience in the action, was quite effective.

Although the play was too long and even dragged a bit at times, it did come across, for the most part, as lively comedy which contained some very funny lines and scenes.

Coffeehouse Presents Jay Boy

By MELISSA RICE

During his return to GSC, Jay Boy Adams presented what was certainly the finest Coffeehouse program that we've had at Mississippi John's this year. Although his performance at the ZZ Top concert was good, the informal sitting and extra polish of Jay Boy's material combined this time to make a most enjoyable evening of sitting back and listening.

The first set was opened with Jay Boy alone, but he was soon joined by bass guitarist David Bentley and Paul Culver on piano and acoustic guitar. It was already evident that Jay Boy is quite capable of performing on his own, but this addition provided depth and richness through both their music and their harmonies.

It would seem pretty dangerous to take on Jackson Browne's material, but Jay Boy did great jobs with such Browne compositions as "Take It Easy", "Our Lady of the Well", "These Days", "A Song For Adam", and "I Thought I Was A Child". (For anyone unfamiliar with Browne, the selections were from Saturate Before Using and For Everyman—both excellent albums well worth the investment.) As for Jay Boy's original material, the drawback was the brevity of almost all his songs except two fine ballads,

"Nine Hard Years" and "The Legend of Jack Diamond."

I guess you can't expect musicians, including Jay Boy, to be satisfied to keep playing in places like Williams Center, but wouldn't it be nice if we could consistently have performers of this quality?

Tennis Team Has New Faces

Netters Crush Mercer

With hopes of becoming the best in Georgia Southern's history, the Eagle tennis team opened its 1974 campaign against Mercer University last Saturday, on the GSC varsity courts, winning easily, 9-0.

A strong blend of five returning veterans and three talented newcomers highlight the 1974 net team. Tops on the list of returnees is sophomore Charlie Ellis, who posted a 17-5 record in '73 at the number one position. Ellis, a native of New Albany, Ind., is former holder of the number one men's singles ranking in Indiana and the number 10 junior doubles ranking in the United States.

Also returning will be fellow sophomores Bunner Smith of Sarasota, Fla., and Bill Charles of Lakeland, Fla. Smith, who was ranked number 11 in the Florida junior ratings in '73, is the current Georgia State Junior Champion.

The list of veterans is rounded out by the team's only two seniors, Drew Fiumano of Syracuse, N.Y., and Ted Dansby of Marietta, Ga.

The three newcomers include junior college transfers Chuck Cicchese, of Miami, Fla., and Oliver Scott of Jesup, Ga., and freshman Danny Gladman of Lakeland, Fla. Cicchese was a 1973 Junior College All-American from Miami-Dade North Junior College, while Scott was a two-year All-State and All-Region performer at Abraham Baldwin College. Gladman captured the Florida State High School number three singles title in '73 in helping his Lakeland High School team to the state championship.

Charlie Ellis

In the match, the Eagles had little trouble as Number 1 Charlie Ellis posted a 6-3, 6-1 victory over Mercer's Tom Wilson. Chuck Cicchese defeated Anders Hultin a hard-fought match 7-5, 7-5. Number 3 Oliver Scott went three sets with Terry Price before defeating him 5-7, 6-1, 6-2.

Number 4 Danny Gladman defeated Brock Field easily, 6-4, 6-2. At number 5, Bunner Smith put away Hal Wilson 6-0, 6-0. and Number Six Drew Fiumano also blanked his opponent David Blackshear, 6-0, 6-0.

In doubles action GSC had a pretty easy time of it as the team of Ellis and Scott defeated Tom Wilson and Hultin 6-3, 6-2.

Cicchese and Gladman defeated Price and Field 6-4, 6-4, and Smith and Fiumano defeated Hal Wilson and Andy Knot 6-1, 6-2.

"Mercer was tougher than I thought they would be," said Coach Vishnu Maharaj, who is in his first year as head of the Eagle tennis team.

The Eagle netters now prepare for two all-important matches coming up with South Carolina and Appalachian State. These two schools are regarded as powers in Southern tennis and should provide some great entertainment for the area tennis fans. The match with South Carolina is this Saturday, March

2, and the Appalachian State contest is Monday, March 4. Both matches are at home and start at 2 p.m.

Intramural Roundup

There were no major upsets in intramural basketball last week, as Delta Tau Delta, the GSC Pistols, Sanford Team A, and Phi Epsilon Kappa remained undefeated in their respective divisions.

On Monday, Feb. 18, there were three games played in each league. In the independent league, the Bullets topped Brannen Hall 50-33; the Soul Crusaders blasted Barnette's News Stand 38-13; and Delta Sigma Pi clipped the Hawks 58-43. The three fraternity games were fairly close, as Sigma Chi kept its hopes alive for a playoff berth by beating ATO 54-50; Sigma Nu, also looking for a playoff berth, knocked off Sigma Pi 31-26; and the league leading Delts were almost surprised by Kappa Alpha, but held on for the win 26-25.

In independent action on Tuesday, Feb. 19, Snake Smith beat the Statesboro Blues 54-44; Pete's Pistols look good for a playoff berth as they downed the Brotherhood of A.H. 87-27; and Phi Epsilon Kappa continued to roll as they clipped the Bengals 42-25. In Tuesday's fraternity action, the Delts rolled to a big win over Phi Delta Theta 55-33; Pi Kappa Phi slipped past ATO 35-33; and Kappa Sigma knocked off Sigma Pi 43-23.

In independent action on Thursday, Feb. 21, saw the Gators blast the Meat Grinders 73-20; Sanford Team B beat the Trojan 49-27; and the Space Cowboys rolled past Barnette's News Stand 47-30. In fraternity action, TKE beat Kappa Alpha 39-33; Sigma Chi clipped also beat KA 40-37; and the Delts upped their record to 9-0 by rolling past Pi Kappa Phi 47-32.

The fraternity league teams with the best chance of going to the playoffs at the end of the year are Delta Tau Delta, 9-0; Sigma Nu, 8-1; and Sigma Chi, 7-2. The three leading independent league teams are the GSC Pistols, 4-0; Sanford Team A 5-0; and Phi Epsilon Kappa, 5-0.

End Season Friday

Eagle Cagers Stop Ball State

The GSC Eagles used strong rebounding and clutch second-half shooting by senior guards Richard Wallace and Perry Warbington to down the Ball State Cardinals 82-77, in Muncie, Ind., Saturday.

The Eagles led by only five 34-29, at the end of the first half, as both teams were cold from the floor. Only senior forward Johnny Mills seemed to be able to find the range for the Eagles, as he threw in 16 first-half markers.

GSC led by as much as nine on numerous occasions in the game, only to have the Cardinals come back to take the lead for the only time at 59-58. But Wallace and Warbington took control of the tempo of the game, and little by little extended the Eagle lead.

Mills led all Eagle scorers with 26 points. Warbington hit for 14 second-half points, finishing the game with 18, after being injured much of the first half. Wallace had 14 points in the game, with eight of those coming in the closing moments of the game.

Wallace also led all rebounders with 12 in the contest. Ball State was led in scoring by senior guard Larry Bullington with 28 points. Chris Collins added 18 in the Cardinal's losing cause.

The victory upped the Eagles' record to 8-7, while Ball State's chart dropped to 14-10 for the year. It was only the second time that Ball State had lost on their home court this season.

The Eagles completed the regular season Friday night as they take on the Georgia State Panthers in Atlanta.

Baseball Again

The Georgia Southern baseball Eagles kick off their 1974 season and their drive for a national championship with a three-game set with the Clemson Tigers, starting tomorrow at 3 p.m.

The Eagles, after posting a 43-12 record last season, with a NCAA district three championship and a trip to the College World Series, boast an impressive list of returnees. Some of the top players returning are third baseman Jim Morrison, a Senior from Temple Terrace, Fla. and a transfer from South Georgia College; Mike Cash, a Senior second baseman from Decatur; John Butler, Senior outfielder from Ft. Lauderdale and Carl Person, first baseman-outfielder from Miami. The GSC pitching staff returns seniors John Gibson, Hollis Griggs, Ken Kruppa, and Frank Read.

Some of the new faces to look for are shortstop Steve Garcia, from Miami Dade Junior College and pitchers Barry Beck, Bob Gerdes, Ronnie Morris, and Jack Vandersluys.

Georgia Southern's main attraction however, is the NCAA Coach-of-the-Year, Ron Polk, who recently added another to his numerous awards by recently being named collegiate Coach-of-the-Year in the state of Georgia.

Ron Polk

Golfers Open March 1

The Georgia Southern Eagles golf team opens a tough eight-tournament schedule March 1 in Tallahassee, Fla. The first tournament on the Eagle schedule is the prestigious Seminole Classic, in which some of the finest college teams in the South will be participating.

The Eagles, coached by Ron Roberts, will be trying to improve on their 11th place ranking in the University division of a year ago; and a win in this tournament should assure them of at least that high a ranking this early in the season.

Buddy Alexander is expected to provide the Eagles with a strong contender for medalist honors in tournaments during the season. Alexander is the number one man on the squad. He was the Florida Junior College champion of 1973 and was the winner of the Chris Schenkel Golf Scholarship Award presented annually at GSC.

Another Eagle golfer expected to provide fans with some exciting moments will be veteran and senior, Jim Ferelle. Ferelle was the Golden Isles Champion of 1973 and will play the number two position for the Eagles.

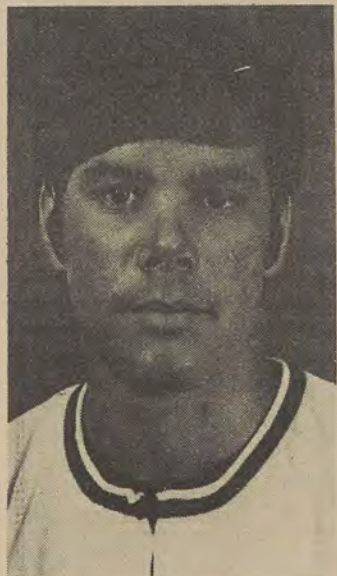

There are only two senior members on the team, Ferelle and Ray Wells of Thomaston. Junior members of the team include Dean Alexander of Franklin, Ind.; Gary Oliver of Mt. Dora, Fla.; Billy Mitchell of Buddy Alexander will be in number one spot for the Georgia Southern golf team when they begin their season March 1 in the Seminole Classic.

Princeton, Ken.; and Howard Wills of Columbia, S.C. David Nelson of Atlanta is the only sophomore member of the team.

There are three freshmen on the team. They include Joey Kaney of Warrenton, Ga.; Ken Krieger of Aurora, Col.; and Dennis Mowery of Mansfield, Ohio.

Jack Vandersluys is expected to start one opening game against Clemson this weekend.
