Community Use of the GS Libraries in the Fall Semester

August 2, 2020

Due to COVID-19 and in adherence to social distancing guidelines established by the CDC, GPH, and USG, the Georgia Southern University Libraries will remain physically open to only Georgia Southern and East Georgia State College faculty, staff and students. We have a very proud tradition of serving our community and we will continue to do so in a virtual environment. All community members and scholars who need assistance with library resources, including special collections and government documents, should visit the Libraries' website or call the Libraries at the Statesboro campus at 912-478-5647 or at the Armstrong campus at 912-344-3027 to ask questions or to set up virtual appointments. Thank you!

GS Libraries' Hours in the Fall Semester

August 2, 2020

The hours the Libraries will be physically open are currently reduced for the fall semester. The reduced hours will allow us to schedule in-person staff by teams to mitigate the potential spread of COVID-19. At this time, we plan for the Libraries to be open for extended hours during finals. We have increased online services to students, faculty and staff in the fall. Please remember that our staff is available to help virtually and most of our resources are still available online 24/7. If you need assistance, please visit the Libraries' website or call the Libraries at the Statesboro campus at 912-478-5647 or at the Armstrong campus at 912-344-3027. Additionally, during the late evening and early morning hours, Facilities will deep clean all the buildings to further ensure your safety. Thank you!
