Today's issue: Federal spending

Get to know Warnock and Walker's stance on federal spending as a means of promoting economic growth.

What's new: As reported by votesmart.com:

- Walker: "After a 15-year professional football career, Herschel decided to build his own business from the ground up. What started as a small operation has grown to be one of the largest minority-owned food suppliers in the United States. He knows firsthand the struggles of owning a business, balancing a budget, and dealing with government red tape. He will fight for lower taxes, fewer government regulations, and more free-market capitalism." (www.teamherschel.com)
- Warnock: "In the Senate, Reverend Warnock will advocate for: Repairing our crumbling roads and bridges, that create good-paying jobs; Innovation in air, water and ground transportation, such as creating high speed rails to connect Metro Atlanta and South Georgia, and the expansion of our coastal ports; [...] Increasing funding for local project developments in historically underserved areas and communities of color; Investing in technology like broadband to connect Georgians to critical services like telemedicine and virtual classrooms; Protecting major transportation hubs that are critical to our economy, like Hartsfield Jackson Airport and the port of Savannah; and Researching and investing in infrastructure around clean energy and transportation."
