GSC hires E.T.'s uncle U.T. as new V.P.

GSC has finally hired a new vice president, and he is out of this world.

Authorities had searched all over the United States for someone to replace the former vice president, I. Want Money, who was recruited by the New Jersey Generals as Herschel Walker's personal bodyguard. No one would even consider taking the job.

"I wouldn't dare travel thousands of miles, just to take a position in the boonies working with a bunch of country hicks," said U.R. Crazy of M.I.T., who was offered the job.

Since E.T. was such a hit with children and adults alike, Statesboro's Ambassador to the Satellites, Stiff Spillburg, volunteered to contact E.T.'s uncle Ultra Terrible about the job. U.T. was very happy to accept the position.

Upon his arrival at GSC, Vice President U.T.'s first comment was "I wish to PHONE HOME!" He was unable to do so however, because all of Statesboro's telephone operators were taking a break. After he settled down, we interviewed U.T.

"My family and I are delighted to be able to come to Statesboro," he said. "Outer-space has become so crowded lately. It's really dangerous, too, because of all of the debris from defective Earth spaceships."

U.T. has many interesting ideas on how to improve GSC. For instance, he intends to break GSC President Rick James from taking bribes, as shown in the picture to the right. President James has been rumored to have been "helping" certain students through school, and U.T. is going to clear up the misunderstanding.

"We are extremely lucky to have U.T. with us," President James said. "He was our last resort. If U.T. had not taken the job, our next offer was going to the custodian who cleans the vice president's office. We figured he knows as much about the job as anyone."

Another reason U.T. was hired immediately for the job is because his salary requirements fit right into GSC's budget. He has no use for money, so he is being paid with cases of beer, and reserves the right to belch out loud in public. At times like these, it may be difficult to distinguish between the new vice president and some GSC students.

U.T. received his education at the University of Mars. He earned his degree in Crater Digging, and did his internship on the Moon. U.T.'s hobbies on Mars included shooting rockets out of the sky, and scrambling the television reception of Earth Stations.

He brings his wife, Snuggles, and three children to Statesboro. Snuggles is employed with the GSC Journalism Department. The three little T's (t,t,t) are enrolled in school at Fido's Canine Obedience School.

U.T. and his family reside at 1001 Sewage Dr., in a modern mobile spaceship, which they also drive to school each day.

GSC's new domed stadium will be second to none

By JIM NASIUM
News Writer

Construction on GSC's new domed stadium is scheduled to begin in May, according to GSC athletic officials. The dome is expected to be comparable to New Orleans' Superdome and Seattle's Kingdome.

Officials have confirmed that Hendricks, Veasey and Lewis halls have been sold as well as the Infirmary.

GSC Vice President Fransworth Barnswarckle said he wasn't concerned where the residents were to move. He added, "I've got better things to do than worry about a bunch of juvenile delinquents. I guess we'll just stuff them in Dorman and Oxford and the sick folks will have to just get over it."

Barnswarckle said there is no definite price fixed for the domed construction. He said bids were around $75 to $80 million. The vice president felt that there would be little trouble getting the money for the stadium.

"The alumni has been great. I think we can pull over one more snow-job and convince them to sell their first born males. With that and their life savings I think we can do it right."

The new domed stadium will house more than just Erk's Eagles. Officials report that they will locate the stadium on the outskirts of Claxton where it won't be extremely difficult to get to. The original proposal was to build the stadium on Tybee Island, a small island outside of Savannah.

The stadium will house the football team, the rifle team, the SWAT team, the swim team, the tennis team, the tiddewinks team, the girls basketball team, the weight room, the chess and fencing clubs and the baseball team.

The community will benefit greatly because the stadium will also house rodeos, kung fu free-for-alls, the Gladiators vs. the Lions and some good old fashioned horseshoe throwing.

Many people were happy to hear about the stadium's final plans for construction and also the sale of the three dorms. One of these is Janitor N. A. Drum, who commented, "Great! I was getting awfully tired of cleaning up Lewis Hall. Them boys are crazy. They get on my nerves over there."

GSC Journalism Professor Ern Wyatt commented, "I want to teach all my classes over there. They better let me, and if they don't, I think I just may get real mad. I also want to be head coach of the horseshoe team. If they don't let me do that I'm gonna call out the Gladiators."

Past George-Anne Editor George Allen commented, "Maybe this means employment for me. I can coach the weed plucking team. I'm one of the best. I'll be back, don't worry. I want that job."

Plans are underway for construction to begin. Officials have set May as the ground breaking date, but there's no telling. It is anticipated that the amphibious stadium will be completed by the turn of the century.

Armed terrorists seize Administration Building

The arrival of Palestinian Leader, Yasar Arafat and the Billy Carter look alike winner, Billy Bud, to the GSC campus was marred by violence when a group of armed leftist guerillas identifying themselves as STUPID (Student Thugs United to Promote Intellectual Dissentron) invaded the administration building around three o'clock and held Dean Rick and the visiting dignitaries hostage for more than eight hours.

Surprisingly, Dean Rick kept a cool head for the entire time, only pleading for his life when the terrorists poured three gallons of chocolate milk on his $175 jacket, which had just returned from the dry cleaners after the latest food fight.

Rick was quoted as saying, "Please, please take the women and children first, just leave my jacket alone."

The terrorists responded to his whimpering by putting cigarettes out on his jacket, (while he was still wearing it.)

The Billy Carter look alike winner horrified by this brutal atrocity said,

"Well...If ya'll let the li'l feller go, I'll give you some peanuts or how 'bout some Billy Beer?"

The terrorists rejected the offer but did allow the Carter double to be excused so he could urinate on the side of the administration building. When questioned by campus security, who were outside the building, Billy Bud replied, "Well...you don't buy beer you only rent it."

Arafat offered very little help in trying to control the volatile situation by egging the terrorists on, teaching the thugs the latest in Middle Eastern torture techniques, and sang two PLO chants.

Idoo Ludes, leader of the student terrorists, rewarded Arafat for his efforts by teaching him the words to Stairway to Heaven, by Led Zeppelin, and showed him the latest in drug paraphernalia available on the GSC campus today.

After doing a few B.T.'s the terrorists settled down and were ready to negotiate for the release of the hostages. F.U. Pal, the only student to fail developmental english PLO Leader Yasar Arafat and the whimsical Billy Carter look alike winner, Billy Bud, shown after their long ordeal of being held hostage for more than eight hours.

11 times, acted as spokesman for STUPID.

Two hours later the following demands were issued to the Board of Regents:

(1) The Eagles Food Center in Landrum will cease serving yellow rice and spaghetti four days in a row. Spaghetti after two days starts tasting like nylon strings in tomato sauce and yellow rice at Landrum produces the same effects as yellow rain in Afghanistan.

(2) Meal punch cards will be accepted at Wendy's and McDonald's on days Landrum serves fried chicken gizzards or grilled liver.

(3) The Biology department is to be given a two million dollar research grant to be used in the fight against GSC's most dreaded disease, herpes.

(4) People with GSC's most dreaded disease will stop spreading it around.

(5) This spring's annual Oxford Hash Bash will be funded by the hall's activity fees and a grant from the Life Enrichment Committee.

(6) All dorm rooms will be made co-ed and during spring quarter all females will be required to wear bathing suits to class. These bathing suits will consist of no more than one square foot of material.

(7) The Infirmary, or Voodoo Hut as it is known on campus, will quit prescribing codeine and darvocet for everything that ails you and let you write your own prescription.

(8) Oxford Hall will be completely ringed with barbed wire to keep all the stoned and drunken animals from straying off to some other part of the campus.

The Board of Regents convened for an emergency session to hear the terrorists demands. Minutes later the Board issued the following statement:

"We at the Board of Regents will not be swayed by terrorism of any kind. Members of STUPID, we appeal to your humiliating instincts for the release of the hostages. You can keep Rick, if you want to."

After the statement was issued, terrorists quietly left the building and went on to do a mini-series for ABC to be aired this fall entitled, "GSC Held Hostage".

Catastrophe at CE Center lowers enrollment by 200

By HUGH MIDIFIER
News Writer

A mock drill staged on February 8 ended in disaster when county officials failed to put out a fire which was intentionally started in a garbage can in the ladies' restroom of the new Continuing Education Center. Two hundred students were burned to death in the blaze which completely destroyed the building.

The students, mainly sophomores, were in the Continuing Education Center taking the Regents exam. The exam started at approximately 6 p.m. and the mock fire drill was to be performed at 7:15 p.m.

One county official said that apparently the fire got out of hand when the firemen had problems locating the tiny fire. "By the time everyone knew where the fire was half the building was destroyed and we didn't see any sense in saving half a building," said I. B. Mayor.

Students were told to ignore all distractions and not leave their chairs no matter what. Students obeyed and despite heavy coughing and problems with breathing most continued with the test. One student, Pete Moss said he finished the test and fortunately left before the smoke completely filled the room. Moss said, "I noticed people falling out of their chairs but all the test officials were screaming for us to remain calm and not leave, so nobody left until they finished the test."

Students, faculty and county officials carried the 200 corpses out of the building the next morning when it was still smoldering. Moss commented, "It was a gory scene. I'll never do anything like that again. We had to wade through burned chairs, carpet, tables and all kinds of other stuff. It was terrible."

City officials had few comments concerning the tragedy. One official commented though, "I guess next time we won't be so stupid and hold a mock drill on the same day that the students are taking the Regents exam, even though they are only sophomores."

New Uniforms

ROTC has just issued new uniforms, according to Lt. Colonel Hare. The new day glow orange striped uniforms require no underwear. Long hair and beards are required along with flip flops and a playmate cooler. Summer wear includes short-shorts.

Rations to start soon

Due to budget cuts, toilet paper will be rationed spring & summer quarters. Sears has donated old catalogs dating back as far as 1947.

George-Anne gets parking

Campus Security ordered the first ten parking spaces in front of Sarah's to be reserved for The George-Anne staff. The decision came when the G-A printed an article praising Campus Security for their outstanding service. The spaces will be padded with red carpet, according to plant op.

Sarah's to be drive-in

A proposal to build a drive-in at Sarah's was made by Will May yesterday to president Rick James. In addition to drive-in, plans are also being made to have take-out service. Microwaves will be attached to the back of delivery cars so the food can be heated upon delivery.

GSC given junior college status

By BETTY DONT
News Writer

The Board of Regents announced yesterday that GSC would be reduced to junior college status next year.

The ruling came as a result of college president Rick James' attempt to "knock some sense" into a Regents member with a baseball bat. James was restrained by other Regents members after he took a swing at the man. Said James, "If I had just one more swing I would've cracked that egg head."

The incident occurred at a Regents Council meeting, held Monday in the President's Mess Hall. The assaulted member, Chester Drawers, who asked not to be identified, said he wasn't shocked at the president's action. "All he cares about is that college," said Drawers. "He doesn't give a hoot about our political aspirations."

The president's reaction occurred after Drawers announced that he didn't think GSC should be given university status. "The college does not meet my definition of a university." According to Drawers, a real university should have an enrollment of 25,000, its colors should be red and black, and it must have an 80,000-seat stadium. Also, it must have at least one Heisman trophy-winning running back.

In addition to the reduction in status, the board announced that the school mascot would have to be changed from the Eagle to the Pigeon. This ruling came as a result of one of the Regents members being "bombed by a bird" while touring the campus.

In order to make GSC look like a junior college, the campus will have to be consolidated. All classes will be held in the gym. The library will be moved to the old gym. Students are encouraged to bring their camping equipment for next year's housing. Students will be allowed to erect their tents in Sweetheart Circle.

College getting hard on herpes

By STAN DUP
News Writer

The 1983-84 Eagle Eye student handbook will have some new rules and regulations governing GSC students.

Because of the high percentage of herpes reported on campus, the student government association has decided to include a rule which would prohibit students from dating. The new regulation does have one clause which allows for men and women to go to the S.U.B. movie if they are chaperoned by a faculty member.

We are a fine upstanding college
—James

According to Rick James, GSC President, "These new rules that the SGA has added are great. Students don't need to be having no promiscuous conduct on this campus," he added. "We are a fine upstanding college."

Starting fall quarter, students will also have to start carrying around a 'hall pass' whenever they walk around the corridors of the buildings. Because of the high rate of graffiti on the walls around campus, this rule will be strictly enforced. "Students caught in the halls without a hall pass will be sent to their dorm room without anything from Sarah's," said James.

The new officers of SGA have gone full strength into the new quarter. Aside from the new dating rule and the hall passes, the SGA has instigated a new policy which would make all students go to homeroom.

"We have never had homeroom at GSC and I think it's high time we did," said A. Wympp, SGA President. According to Wympp, homeroom will allow for students to become better acquainted with each other. "When I was in high school, I loved my homeroom teacher, so I know it will be a blast," said Wympp.

Homeroom will begin each day at 7:50 and last for ten minutes. All students, regardless of their first class of the day, are to report to their appropriate homeroom in September.

When asked how he planned to divide all the students up into homerooms, Wympp replied, "How the h--- should I know; do you guys expect me to do everything around here! Jeez."

Students who cannot deal with these new rules can transfer to another school

—James

Another addition to the handbook will state that students who are caught chewing tobacco in class will have their toothpaste taken away for a week. The rule applies to females also. "Because of the mess made on floors when guys miss their cup, we are enforcing this new policy," said Wympp.

These additions to the Eagle Eye will go into effect beginning fall quarter. "Students who cannot deal with these new rules can transfer to another school," said James.

Awards taken

At the annual Georgia College Press Association awards held in Athens recently, a state college staff walked away with seven awards, literally!

Officials of the GCPA reported that five first place awards, a third place award, and an honorable mention, all in the category for 4 year colleges with enrollment under 7,000 students, were missing prior to the award ceremony.

The awards included general excellence, editorial excellence, layout and design, advertising excellence, features, news, and sports coverage.

The members of The George-Anne staff who attended the ceremony, but had to leave before the conclusion of the presentation, could not be reached for comment.

LANDRUM BAR & GRILL

From the Galleria

By IMA VAL

I was like, at Happy Hour at The Flame, you know like that place is soooo bitchen! But, I was like almost barfing out because this guy you know like spilled beer all OVER me and I said "Ohmigod!! Gag me with a spoon!" So then I like met this guy from Oxford, you know, and he had this bomber zit on his face and it was sooo grody!! I said, "Bag your face!" He asked me to go to Landrum with him to like scarf out, y'know, and I said, "I'M SOOO SURE, NO WAY!!!" I was like freakin' out! I mean, that place is sooo shanky!!!

Well anyway, like they asked me to write my feelings on nuclear radiation and I said, "Oh I'm so sure," like who knows what it is?? Is it a like totally cranking new band in the Valley? This really bitchen beefcake told me that the stuff is really grody to the max and it will totally ruin my hair and make my pink mini skirt turn green! I was like totally FREAKIN' OUT! God, that outfit is my most absolute bitchen outfit, I mean, like it is way totally kill, to the max, cause like I bought it at the Galleria, y'know. Like, a woman's place is in the mall fer shurr.

Like, I dunno, nuclear radiation? It sounds so awesome, but if it's really grody, I say bag it, and then like we won't have it anymore, right? Like the whole thing is so totally lame anyway, y'know? It's like, I dunno, I don't deal with totally awesome heavy subjects, like war and stuff, cause it's like totally uncool to think about junk like that, fer shurr. So like, bag it and make the world a totally tubular place to be!!

Bainbridge gives taste of stone age

By CHUCK WAGON
Features Writer

There has been much controversy among medical officials as to whether the new Bainbridge Diet is safe.

Students who are on the diet are said to be reverting to prehistoric habits. GSC officials report students preparing food over outdoor fires, painting their bodies with war paint, and answering to questions in class with unintelligible grunts.

The diet, which has become rampant among college students, began in Bainbridge and spread through Camilla, Elberton and on to Statesboro, said FDA spokesman Yul Gibbons Jr.

According to Gibbons, the diet consists of ground grasshoppers, smoked ragweed, broiled frogheads, and green lakewater.

Alfalfa Sprout, inventor of the diet and head of the Department of Animal Research and Development at Bainbridge Junior College, accredits its success to the inexpensive foods it requires. "Dieters can get most of the foods straight from their backyards," said Sprout.

Ella Vator, a GSC student who is on the diet, could only respond with, "Umm, digga good." Her roommate, Eacy Underalls, who is not on the diet, said, "Ella has lost 30 pounds this week and 20 last week. She is now down to 200 pounds. Much of her weight is lost trying to catch grasshoppers in the field by University Towne Apartments."

The owner of Buford's Bait Shoppe, Buford, reports that he has sold more grasshoppers in the last month than in the previous year altogether. "Soon as I get some in," he said "these college kids come in here and buy me out. Nobody even has none to fish with."

Campus security was called to the Mail Center last week to inspect a package suspected to be marijuana sent to a student from Columbia. The package turned out to be ragweed for a students Bainbridge diet. Said officer Barney Fife, "These days it's hard to tell whether they're smoking pot or ragweed, which is the midnight snack for Bainbridge dieters."

GSC president Rick James was unavailable for comment. He was last seen by the lake on campus filling up gallon jugs with water to take home to his wife, who is also on the diet.

GSC Students bare it all as old fad returns

By SEYMOUR BUTTS
Features Writer

"Hey Ethel! Get your clothes on!" Several years that was the plea of citizens from coast to coast as Americans, both young and old, bared it all in the name of a new fad called streaking.

A few weeks ago, at a TAAC playoff game here at GSC, unsuspecting fans were treated as one adventurous Eagle supporter dared try to dig up the past. During a timeout, a man dropped his covering and dashed across the gymnasium, knocking over a security guard and escaping out the back door where an awaiting get-away car speeded the entertainer away to safety.

Apparently, the man's attempt to revitalize an old fad has worked as the idea has spread like wildfire.

At a recent masquers production of "Don't Shoot the Moon" one student did and more. The improptu performer quickly stole the show as he dashed across the stage with nothing on but a pair of tennis shoes. Said one disappointed member of the audience, "I was waiting on an encore."

Yet another incident was reported in Landrum Center on chicken night. This time it was of the female variety. The girl, wearing only a half shirt and leather Nikes, dashed through the dining hall and almost made it out the opposite door before she was nabbed by Will May. Said the offender, "I didn't break any rule. The sign says shirt and shoes required, and that was all I was wearing. I think all those people wearing pants should be kicked out."

This GSC student was captured while streaking through Landrum. She claimed she was innocent because she was wearing a shirt and shoes.

INNOVATIONS PLANNED FOR GSC CAMPUS

By MAGIC MUSCLES
Features Writer

The pond at GSC is going to be filled in and a massage parlor will be erected in its place, according to Rick James, GSC president.

The process will begin during summer quarter and plans will be completed by winter quarter 1984.

James said that the parlor will be called Mr. Phil Goods. The shop will be completely student run, with one exception—he will be the head masseur.

Professors in the business department are predicting that Mr. Phil Goods will be a great success. Y. R. Uachingo will be the vice president of the center.

Uachingo will begin accepting student applications for positions at the parlor on Jan. 2, 1984. "We will be looking for anyone who has had experience in drug trafficking," said Uachingo. "We don't want to run hard drugs or anything," he added. "We'll just be dealing with acid and PCP." Uachingo said that other qualities he would be looking for in employees included "experience on the street."

"We don't want to be operating a prostitution ring," he said. "But no red blooded Eagle would want to miss out on a little innocent fun." Uachingo also said that the center will offer students salaries of up to $1,000.

Uachingo said that there will even be a VIP parlor club. "VIP's will get 'extras' with their massage," said Uachingo. He said, however, that a GSC mealcard and 50 cents will get any student a 'normal' massage.

Uachingo said that if the massage parlor is a success, he and James may start a pawn shop in place of the Landrum bookstore sometime in 1985. "Then if that is a success, Uachingo concluded, "We may pawn GSC and buy a university."

Security lightens up

GSC Security is taking on a new look this quarter. The officers agree that they have simply been too hard on the students in the past. To make up for the injustices, security has decided not to give any parking tickets this quarter. Students will be allowed to park wherever they please, according to Chief Officer of Security U. Dunit.

All of the speed-breakers on campus will be taken up, so students will be able to drive to classes quicker, with no obstacles. Also, the speed limit for Sweetheart Circle will be raised to 55, Dunit said.

A red light will replace the four-way stop signs near the Newton Building. This decision was made when three security officers ran the stop signs and totalled three security patrol trucks.

Because of the mishap with the trucks, security will now patrol the campus using a squad of the Georgia Power electric cars. Their only reason for patrolling the campus now is to look for damsels in distress.

Erk turns pro; accepts with USFL

By JOE MOMMA
Sports Writer

GSC Head Coach Erk Russell has signed a three year, five million dollar contract to coach the New York Nukes, a new expansion club in the USFL.

The Nukes are owned by Adam Bomb, a democratic senator from Wallawalla, Washington, and the president of a huge anti-nuclear group.

The signing ends weeks of rumor and stipulation over whether Russell would accept the job. Two weeks ago, the coach called a press conference denying reports that he had signed a contract with the team. He called the conference after a big Northeastern paper, The Boston Probe, published articles saying that Russell had signed a contract with the Nukes. The articles said that the contract included a 24-hour escape clause, which Russell apparently exercised.

After announcing that he would be leaving GSC for the USFL, Russell admitted to having signed the initial contract. He said, after signing it, he took a walk around the campus to ponder the decision. The coach said he walked by the lake and threw rocks at the floating art work. He then went by Sarah's and won five bucks playing pool. Finally, he stopped by to eat at Landrum, where he started a food fight. "After such an exciting afternoon," Russell said, "I thought, how could I leave this place?"

Two weeks after backing out of the first contract, Russell called yet another press conference announcing that he would start next spring as head coach of the New York club.

Local reaction to the coach's departure was mixed through the nation. Vince Dooley, head coach at the University of Georgia, where Russell coached before coming to GSC, wasn't shocked that the USFL got Russell. "Heck, when they want something, they'll go to any lengths to get it," said Dooley. Dooley is already showing his support for Russell's team, as he was wearing a "Nuke the USFL" button.

President Reagan called to congratulate the coach. He said that he thought the Nukes had gotten a great coach and wished Russell the best of luck in his first season. The president dispelled rumors that players for the Nukes would be made ineligible for the draft.

GSC players were shocked when they learned the news. Eagle quarterback Willie Makeit was quoted as saying, "I just don't know how I'm gonna get fired up for the games now without a good butt of that sweaty bald head."

Plans are already being made for opening game ceremonies for the New York team next spring.

Presently, the plan is for Russell to butt heads with a nuclear warhead on the 50-yardline before the opening toss of the coin.

As a signing bonus, Russell was given some 200 acres of land. Part of the land is located on Pennsylvania's Three Mile Island where it is said the coach will live. The rest of the real estate is at Times Beach, Missouri.

Asked if he fears the possibility of radiation leaks near his new home, Russell replied, "After eating at Sarah's for a whole year, I believe I'm immune to radiation poisoning."

Following the successful 1983 campaign, the GSC Basketball Eagles are looking forward to even better advances next season. Coach Kerns has recently announced the signing of five new recruits.

LeRoy Johnson, a 6'4" guard from Flint Michigan Junior College has signed with GSC. Johnson, the brother of Los Angeles Laker star "Magic" Johnson, is expected to step in and start for the Eagles. He averaged 31.2 points, and dished out 11 assists a game this season. "I hope he can contribute to the team, and give us 30 minutes a contest," said Kerns.

Billy Awesome, a seven footer from Columbia, South Carolina will adequately replace the departing Reggie Fears and David Wright. Awesome was a first team All-American his last two years in high school. He is known for his exceptional shot blocking ability and scored 66 points in a South Carolina playoff game in 1980.

Sharp is the finest athlete we could ink. We battled North Carolina, UCLA, and Notre Dame for him.

Tommy Nixon, a standout from S.W. Macon High School is another outstanding recruit. A 6'2" point guard, Nixon will add solid depth to an already strong bench. Nixon is a honorable mention All-American and another in the long line of athletes from S.W. Macon. "He has the potential to be another Eric Hightower," said Kerns.

Ray X. Marsh is the fourth signee. Marsh is a 6'6" forward from Thomson High School. "He will push Denver Bird and Aaron Rucker for playing time," said Kerns. Georgia's top high school prospect, Marsh should pitch in 10 to 15 points a game for the Eagles.

The newest recruit is I.M. Sharp. Sharp comes from the nation's premier prep school, DeMatha H.S. in Washington D.C. "Sharp is the finest athlete we could ink," said Kerns. "We battled North Carolina, UCLA and Notre Dame for him," he said. Sharp has tremendous size, 6'10" 240 pounds. He should be able to muster 15 rebounds a contest, and has outstanding passing ability.

GSC would not have had the chance to sign these hoopsters, if it were not for there advancement in the NCAA tourney. The administration is planning to expand the Hanner Fieldhouse to 9,000 before the 1983-84 season. "We're setting our goal for the national championship," Kerns said.

GSC basketball coach Frank Kerns works out with one of his new recruits. Kerns is setting his sites on the 1984 National Championship.

To make it a fair contest, GSC will field their girl's intramural flag football champs.

They said it . . .

Before the TAAC Championship, Arkansas-Little Rock assistant coach was heard to comment: "My men are all packed and ready for Dayton."

Nate Hirsch, after Eric Hightower sank a last second shot to beat UALR in the TAAC final: "And I thought Moses parting the Red Sea was a miracle."

Atlanta Braves slugger Bob Horner, when asked about his weight problem: "I'm not overweight, I'm under-tall."

Leeman Bennett, former Atlanta Falcons head coach, when informed he would be let go: "You can't fire me. I quit."
