GSC student killed in single-auto accident

By CAROL ADAMS
News Editor

Robert Copeland, 18, of College Park, was killed in a single-auto accident at approximately 1:00 a.m. Sunday morning.

Troy Palmer, the driver of the car, has been charged with vehicular homicide. Charges for DUI and possession of alcohol by a minor are pending. He was released on a $5,000 bond.

Palmer, 18, of Augusta, received minor lacerations to the face and arms.

The accident occurred on Chandler Road in front of Johnson Hall where the vehicle left the road and struck two trees. Copeland was thrown from the car and died immediately from head injuries. The rate of speed has not been determined.

There will be a coroner's inquest today on Copeland's death.

Psych. probation lifted

By CHARLOTTE PARRISH
News Writer

The school psychology program has been removed from the list of 46 University programs placed on probation by the Board of Regents and the State Department of Education, according to Anne Flowers, Dean of the School of Education. A "statistical error" was acknowledged for the mistake in evaluating the program.

Last quarter both the school psychology department and the art education program were placed on probation after students did not score a 70 percent pass rate on the first taking of the Teacher Certification Test during the last five years, Flowers said. The art education program is still being penalized.

The State Department and the Board of Regents are setting up guidelines which the school will follow to help upgrade the art education program. If test scores have not improved by spring of 1986, the Regents may discontinue the program.

"We have seen some changes in the art education program during the past three to four years. If we were to take the scores since June 1981, an 86 percent pass rate has already been established," said Flowers.

She further added that all education programs were approved by the National Council for the Accreditation of Teacher Education on every level from Bachelors to Masters to specialists degrees in all areas.

"We have even raised our admission requirements so that we can maintain what has already been established within our programs," she said.

One thing that people fail to realize, she added, is that there is a difference between seeking a degree in education and working for a certificate to teach in public schools.

Anderson Hall closed for repairs

By CAROL ADAMS
News Editor

Anderson Hall has been closed due to damage caused by water pipes which burst during the near zero temperature weather over the Christmas holidays, according to Pat Burkett, director of Housing.

"Sanford, Deal, Olliff, Warwick, and In the Pines also suffered damage from burst pipes, but none was as extensive as Anderson," said Burkett. These dorms were not closed.

Water in Anderson caused ceilings to fall to the floor, along with light fixtures. The carpets were soaked and tiles underneath the carpet buckled, according to Burkett.

The 84 residents of Anderson were temporarily moved to Cone Hall until vacancies were found in other dorms on campus. Because of the circumstances "two or three girls" were allowed to break their housing contract, said Burkett.

Damages are roughly estimated to cost $80,000 in repairs, according to Larry Davis, director of Auxiliary Services. Davis explained that GSC is self-insured by the State of Georgia and that the reimbursement will cover putting the building back into the shape it was in before.

"I feel like it's unfair to me, but there's nothing the school can do either."

—Anderson resident

"Unfortunately," said Burkett, "the school cannot be responsible for any damage to personal belongings. Most students are filing through their parents' insurance."

Davis added, "We are concerned that the State of Georgia does not cover personal belongings." He said that it is for this reason that both the Eagle Eye student handbook and the new housing contracts point this out. He encourages students to get coverage under their parents' homeowner's insurance.

Brighte Miller, an Anderson resident, said of her losses, "I feel like it's unfair to me, but there's nothing the school could do either."

"Residents of Anderson handled themselves very well. Scrapbooks and mementos, along with other personal belongings were ruined, but they pulled together to help each other and were very patient" said Burkett.

Water also damaged 15 apartments at In the Pines, seven apartments at Sanford Hall and two rooms in Olliff Hall, according to Burkett. The Warwick Hall penthouse also flooded due to burst pipes and caused the t.v. area and front lobby to flood. Deal Hall reported leaking in the attic.

Burkett said that Anderson Hall will not re-open until Fall quarter.

GSC stadium low bid accepted

By MARTY NESBITT
Assistant News Editor

The GSC Stadium Committee has accepted a bid of $1.75 million from Foster and Cooper Company of Atlanta to do the stadium general contracting work and construction is expected to begin this week, according to Athletic Director Bucky Wagner.

Negotiations were carried on throughout December and a letter of intent was signed with the company late in the month.

GSC freshman killed in holiday auto accident

GSC freshman Kelly Morrow of Acworth, Ga., died Monday, Dec. 12 of injuries received during an automobile accident.

Morrow remained in a coma for a day after the single car accident that occurred when she was traveling home from school Sat., Dec. 10.

Surviving are her mother, Mrs. Durward L. Rhodes of Acworth; father, Thomas E. Morrow of Atlanta; brother, Charles Morrow of Atlanta; and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John K. Morrow Sr. of Decatur.

Morrow was a 1983 graduate of North Springs High School and a resident of Hendricks Hall at GSC.

A letter of agreement has also been entered into with Dixie Contracting of Savannah to do the utility work for $485,000, said Wagner.

Although some areas of the stadium site have been ready for construction since mid-December, Wagner feels the extra time taken for negotiations did not significantly hamper stadium progress. "We feel that we are on schedule within reason and everything points to the fact that the stadium will be ready in September," said Wagner.

SGA fails to meet quota

By JEAN SATTERTHWAITE
Staff Writer

Despite the stipulation in their constitution which calls for three full senate meetings a quarter, the SGA called only one meeting fall quarter, according to Richard Lane, president of SGA, because they didn't think there was a sufficient number of items to be discussed. The decision not to call the additional required meetings apparently was reached by the Presidential Advisory Committee of the SGA.

Outside of the only full meeting, the senate was contacted only on one other occasion; their input was requested to deal with the major budget cuts which affected GSC during fall quarter. According to Lane, a full meeting was not called at that time because he wasn't sure that there was enough time to call a meeting and "there's often a lot of apathy among the senators." The SGA Constitution calls for a minimum of 24 hours to call a meeting.

"During fall quarter we have a lot of different services which we offer," said Lane. "These run all year long, like the t.v. and refrigerator rentals, but most of the work has to be done fall quarter. Most of our time was spent working on these services. We weren't ignoring the senate at all."

According to John Nolen, Dean of Student Affairs, an agenda has already been made which would allow for the required minimum of three meetings for winter quarter. One meeting has already been held.

SADD chapter gains national affiliation

By SABRINA BELLOSPIRITO
News Writer

The Georgia Southern Chapter of Students Against Driving Drunk (SADD), has recently become affiliated with the national SADD chapter. Frank Sanders, a sophomore, is the founder of the GSC chapter and is currently president. SADD is beginning its second quarter of existence at GSC.

Originally, the chapter started out as "Students Against Drunk Driving," but the name had to be changed to become affiliated with the national SADD organization. Sanders feels that the name change will be more effective in that it brings driving drunk down to earth and "includes all of those who drive and drink."

The national SADD organization was started in September 1981 in Boston, Massachusetts. It was not started as an organization against drinking alcoholic beverages, but rather as a way to speak out against driving drunk.

Since then, there have been over 6000 high school SADD chapters and some college chapters started. According to Sanders, "the goal of SADD is to educate students against the dangers of driving under the influence of alcohol."

He also feels that it is important not only to bring the problem to the high schools, but to the colleges as well.

"Driving under the influence of alcohol doesn't stop with high school. It's a problem that includes college students as well," said Sanders. He hopes to get college students involved in the signing of contracts where they will promise not to drive if they had too much to drink.

Registration successful

By GARY TANNER
News Writer

Don Coleman, GSC Registrar said the new computerized registration system went, "extremely smooth." He said there were only minor problems that occurred during registration, and nothing that was not expected. The most common problem was having the control number of a course written incorrectly on the schedule sheet, Coleman said.

Jackie Cooper of the Registrar's office said that there are over 6,400 students registered for classes this quarter at this time. She said that registration for graduate students is still going on.

Coleman said the registration system is just the first part of a complete student information system to be implemented here at GSC.

The new system is not only easier for students, but for registrar's office personnel also, Coleman said. Now when a student goes through the registration line the registrar has an immediate record.

An unscientific survey of students showed support for the computerized registration system. All who responded to questioning approved of the changes.

Freshman John Webster said of the new system, "I thought it went a lot smoother than the first registration." Sharon Ann Montgomery is a transfer student who had computerized registration at her old school. She said of the GSC system, "I liked it. It was much easier than last quarter." Jeff Joyce, a junior majoring in political science said simply, "It was a lot better."

Space technology photos at museum

By DEBRA JONES
News Writer

Advancements into space technology will be shown through the use of photographs of the sun, the planets, and their moons at the Georgia Southern Museum until Jan. 29.

"Exploration of the Planets" presents 31 of NASA's most significant and visually stunning photographs of the planets, their moons, and the sun. Outstanding in the collection are four giant sized photographs of Venus, Jupiter, Saturn, and the sun. Also featured are a view of the Earth taken by the 1972 Apollo mission and a view of Saturn and its rings from the 1980 Voyager I flyby. These photographs are the results from the past ten years of space exploration.

Through evidence gathered from recent exploratory missions, scientists are beginning to understand the nature and evolution of our solar system and have gained insight into the unique characteristics of Earth. Using sophisticated photographic techniques, "Exploration of the Planets" records and celebrates a decade of U.S. achievement in space exploration.

Included with the exhibition are three films entitled Universe, Planet Mars, and Mercury: The Exploration of a Planet. Mercury: The Exploration of a Planet will be shown each Saturday in January at 2:30 p.m. Planet Mars will be shown at 2:30 p.m. on Sundays in January. The films will offer a special insight into the atmospheric and geologic interplanetary space. The Planetarium show will be shown on January 15, 22 and 29 at 3:30 p.m.

Individuals and group tours are invited to come and view this spectacular exhibit.

composition of our solar system. The exhibition was produced by the Association of Science-Technology Centers with the assistance of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. Its tour is made possible through generous support from The General Electric Foundation.

Also included with this exhibit is a free Planetarium show and a replica of the solar system both of which offer a close-up study of the planets and

Staff parking

By MARTY NESBITT
Assistant News Editor

Due to a need for extra staff parking space on campus, the off-campus student parking on Herty Drive from Georgia Avenue to the entrance of "A" lot has been converted to staff parking.

According to Cpt. Sidney Deal of Campus Security, the conversion was approved by the Traffic Safety Committee and became effective this quarter.

Students were issued warning tickets for parking in the area during the first week of the quarter as an informative measure. Signs have been erected designating the area for staff parking only and fines are now being issued for parking there, said Deal.

Fines will also be issued to students parking at Knight Village Apartments located directly across from Oxford Hall. According to Deal, this action is being taken due to several complaints from Knight Village Apartment residents.

An ounce of prevention

The recent tragedy on the campus of GSC really makes one stop and think. Is drinking and driving worth taking the risk of injuring or killing yourself or someone else? It is so easy for a person who has been drinking to ask a friend for a ride, why don't more people do it?

If a person is old and mature enough to drink, then he should have enough responsibility to know when to stop. And if he does drink too much, he should realize that getting behind the wheel of a car is extremely dangerous.

We at the George-Anne would like to encourage everyone to enjoy their time here at GSC, but please do so in a mature and responsible way. If you're going to drink—DON'T DRIVE!!

Flu bug bites GSC

It's flu season again.

The miseries, stuffy noses and soar throats have already hit the GSC campus. If you don't have it, consider yourself lucky.

Take the necessary precautions now to avoid the flu bug. Wear an extra sweater along with your coat when you go outside, especially if you plan to be exposed to the cold weather for more than just a few minutes.

Not eating right seriously lowers your defenses to sickness. So, if you must eat pop corn and coke for dinner, take some kind of vitamin or supplement to give your body a chance to fight back.

If you've already been stung by the flu bug, take the proper steps to insure a speedy recovery. Don't assume that it will just "go away."

Protect yourself from the flu this quarter. It's worth the trouble.

Stadium will take time

A recent complaint heard around campus deals with the progress of our stadium. Many students feel the work is going too slowly and that little more has been accomplished than a shifting around of piles of dirt.

Come on everybody! It takes time to build a "world class" stadium. We all need to be a little more patient and keep in mind the old adage, "Rome wasn't built in a day."

We at the George-Anne are excited about our future stadium and are patiently looking forward to its completion in September.

Asbestos story untold

Asbestos is a material used in buildings for fireproofing and insulating. It can be found in floors, ceilings and walls.

Asbestos has recently been found to cause cancer. The EPA has determined that any amount of asbestos over one percent can be hazardous to your health.

During the past summer, samples were taken from every building on campus to be tested for asbestos.

After one quarter, GSC students still don't know the results of those tests.

Results from half of those samples have been in since the beginning of fall quarter. Vice-president Bill Cook said that the administration is waiting for the second half of the report to come in before he releases any information on the first half.

The administration also said they could not read the report because it was coded and they did not know how to read it. However, they did know enough to tell reporters from the George-Anne and the Statesboro Herald that those samples showed no threat to GSC students. Specifically, they said that sample reports from dorms were not back yet, and the only levels over one percent were in boiler rooms.

At that time during fall quarter, another source gave me reason to believe that those samples did include dorms and that they were over one percent.

This past Friday, Jim Vandenhoevel, the architect for the University System, confirmed that "we do have asbestos near dormitories." He told me that he has had these test results for "a few weeks."

My question is, "Why didn't the administration tell us this?"

Giving them the benefit of the doubt, let's say they were misinformed. It is a fact that GSC did not receive the second half of the report until January 10. And if, as my source said, the dorm samples were in the first half of the report, the administration may not have been informed correctly about those reports.

On the other hand, maybe the administration just didn't want to be informed. I suspect that they had an idea of what was in the first half of the reports and did not want to be informed of its contents. This would make it a lot easier for them to keep the information quiet and say "I didn't know anything about it."

I'd never go as far as to say they just plain-out lied. Manipulated information maybe, but not lied.

As a newspaper, it is the responsibility of the George-Anne to report any information concerning students. Since we have not been given any information from the administration, we cannot give the students a news story.

The situation of the asbestos report is something that does not need to sit on a desktop unread for a whole quarter. It is something that the students have a right to know immediately.

The administration should have taken the initiative to find out what it said.

In any case, the administration, whether faultless or guilty, has downplayed the presence of asbestos on this campus. They have been sitting on information that should have been made known to students as soon as it was available.

The flow of information should not be controlled by the administration. It is not the administration's privilege to decide what the public should know and what they should not.

The point is, we as students have a right to information about anything on this campus concerning us. It is up to journalists to print it responsibly and accurately, so please allow us!

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Athlete wants PE credit

DEAR EDITOR:

As a member of the Faculty Senate Athletic Committee, the SGA Senate and the GSC golf team, I feel compelled to voice my opinion on a subject that I believe will benefit the student athletes of GSC.

I believe all student athletics should be given one hour of physical education credit for every quarter he or she participates on a GSC varsity team. The time that a team member must set aside for practice could be used to take a PE course if he or she were not on that team. Most sports require many hours a day for practice.

Many people share my view on this subject. UGA has this system, and so does Georgia Tech. How can GSC hope to get better athletes and university status if we do not offer the same benefits as the other two big schools in the state? I'm not trying to get out of work, I just think that the varsity athletes of GSC should be rewarded for the time they put in for GSC athletics.

Matt Barnes

Judicial system decaying

DEAR EDITOR:

On January 25, 1971, the Superior Court of the State of California, in and for the city of Los Angeles, found Charles Manson guilty of one count of conspiracy to commit murder and seven counts of murder in the first degree. Manson was moved to San Quentin Prison to await execution.

On February 18, 1972, the California State Supreme Court announced that it had voted 6-1 to abolish the death penalty in the state of California. The opinion was based on Article I, Section 6, of the State Constitution which forbids "cruel or unusual punishment."

Charles Manson was spared from "cruel or unusual punishment," when the punishment displayed toward his victims was nothing short of barbaric. Voytek Frykowski was one such victim. He was shot twice, hit over the head thirteen times with a blunt object, and stabbed 51 times.

From this time on the judicial system of this country has gone continually downhill. Rudolph Tyner and Charles Manson both deserve to die. Manson was spared, unfortunately, but Tyner got what he deserved.

I do not condone the method by which Mr. Tyner met his fate, but I'm happy his life was not spared. Tony Cimo had every reason to believe that Tyner would never be executed and rightly so. As a US. citizen Rudolph Tyner had the right to appeal and he exercised this right. For an appeal to be processed, through the judicial system, requires mounds of paper work and about eight months. With the backlog of court cases today, could a convicted murderer be allowed this privilege?

One solution would be to limit the number of appeals to a higher court to three. After the third appeal is denied, the execution should be carried out. Until one court has the courage to carry out an execution, senseless killings such as these will never cease to exist.

Personally, if my parents were murdered, I would be first in line to pull the switch.

Opinions are worth hearing

DEAR EDITOR:

As the song says, "Miki, you don't understand" a few things about academic freedom and the need to hear differing opinions.

I'm willing to concede that there is no call for professors who should be discussing English or history or chemistry to spend twenty or thirty on the GSC football team—or any other irrelevant topic. And in an age of declining enrollments a football team is probably a good way to keep enrollment up—and I'm far from saying that the students attracted by football will be borderline retarded.

But since when is a student not to be exposed to professional opinion that differs from his own? Isn't that part of the reason why people go to college? And as for students' mindless parroting of professors' opinions—well, that happens with issues far more important than football teams and stadiums.

I couldn't help noticing Mike Oswald's dismissal of anti-football opinions as "prejudices" and "letting off steam." Does he need to be reminded that any opinion—pro-anything or anti-anything—that is not founded on facts and reason is a prejudice? Now that may be true of professors who hate football on any pretext, but many of us who like football are disturbed by what we, in good faith, fear may happen as a result of the team. Money for programs and faculty salaries, in fact, is very limited, and football, in fact, is the most expensive of all sports. Furthermore, there are ways of "cooking the books" so that supposedly academic money can be used on the grid iron. And who has not heard about the outrageous, even criminal means that some schools have used to recruit players and of the actual illiterates that have played football and basketball for some schools? Opinions that differ from one's own are not necessarily knee-jerk reactions.

Capitalism made easy

For too long the Soviet Union has been exporting its brand of marxist communism into the free world. The Soviet invasion of Afganistan and their involvement in Central America clearly shows how serious the Soviets are about carrying out their plan for world domination.

But what are we, as Americans supposed to do about this problem that threatens our very existence? Build more nuclear missiles? Stop selling grain to the Soviets? Protest at the U.N.?

Since none of these past policies have ever worked, I think it's time for a new game plan to deal with the reds. Let's start exporting capitalism behind the iron curtain as part of a two part plan.

For the exporting of capitalism to be successful, we have to show the average, everyday, communist worker what he is missing as a result of his government's restrictions. Stage one of this plan consists of mailing, airlifting, and smuggling thousands of mail order catalogues into the Soviet Union.

Catalogues from all American stores such as Sears & Roebuck, J.C. Penney, and Hickory Farms would be the best to start off with. Imagine the looks on the soviet workers' faces when they see all the goods they could ever want right at their fingertips in the form of a Sears catalogue.

Now once the common Soviet people had their catalogues, the people in the ruling class or communist party, as they prefer to be called, would feel a little neglected for not having received their catalogues. But instead of sending them an everyday Sears catalogue, we'd send the old capitalistic standbys such as L.L. Bean, Sax of Fifth Avenue and maybe include an Izod Lacoste catalogue to help promote the ever popular capitalistic image: the preppy look.

I can see it now, "Comrade Yuri, Comrade Yuri, the new L.L. Bean catalogues have just arrived. What should I do?"

"Easy Comrade, bring them to my office so I can place my order...uh, I mean...uh...so I can give the order to have those capitalistic documents destroyed."

But our covert capitalistic blitz couldn't stop here.

Next we'd put stage two of the plan into effect. This would introduce our most secret weapon of exporting capitalism: the broadcasting of American television behind the Iron Curtain.

Game shows would have to be one of the first and most convincing of all our programs that show how the capitalistic system really works. Shows such as Family Feud, Wheel of Fortune, and of course the ever popular Price is Right are enough to get us going. After seeing game show host Bob Barker give away $500,000 in one hour, the Soviet people would have to believe that capitalism has their best interest at heart.

Of course there are some shows we would not want to show right off the bat until most of the Soviets understood the true nature of capitalism. Shows such as Dallas, Falcon Crest, and Dynasty tend to give capitalism a bad name. Watching J.R. try and topple an oil company every week would not make too much sense to someone who has been working for the sole good of the government all his life.

Well, there it is, a nonviolent, two stage plan for exporting capitalism to those less fortunate behind the Iron Curtain. It contains no radioactive ingredients, no grain embargos and no long and unproductive U.N. meetings; just lots of good ole' capitalistic American know-how. A plan so crazy it might just work.

News & Views

By JEAN SATTERTHWAITE

Since this is somewhat after the first of the new year, I'm sure most people have already made their new year's resolutions; many will have already been broken. I must admit to being one of those people who never say what their resolutions are, that way no-one will know if I've kept them or not.

I knew one person who made new year's resolutions easy—she resolved to gain weight, smoke more, and to be nasty to her roommate. I imagine she found it easy to keep such a set of resolutions.

There is another side to the resolutions game—making them for others. These are a few that I'd like to see a few people keep:

President Reagan: That no American soldiers should be killed overseas this year for no known objective or purpose.

The state legislature: To make a point not to pass drinking laws that would have an effect on those in the 19-21 year-old age group who do drink responsibly.

Dale Lick, Bill Cook, and who ever else is involved with GSC's monetary policy: To keep some money from the budget to use as a contingency fund to deal with the inevitable budget cuts.

Campus security and whoever in the administration who deals with parking: To take measures to improve the now poor off-campus parking conditions.

These are just a few ideas, and I'm sure it is easier to make resolutions for others than to make them for one's self.

Curing the winter quarter blahs

By KATHY KENNEY

Features Writer

You can blame the winter blahs on shorter daylight hours and the resulting shortage of vitamins usually given by the sun.

But that may be too technical an explanation for what amounts to mild depression or the "blues".

This most common type of depression is usually brief and doesn't seriously interfere with normal activities.

If you experience feelings of hopelessness, sadness or loneliness you are more than likely depressed.

"Depression is an overall feeling," said Audrey Campbell, a counselor at GSC.

It's so overall you may not know exactly what is the matter, she said.

Significant of unhappy events such as holidays, a move or a setback may trigger depression.

Symptoms of depression include changes in behavior, different feelings and physical complaints without cause.

Changes in behavior may mean neglecting responsibilities and appearance, agitation and even irritability about unimportant matters.

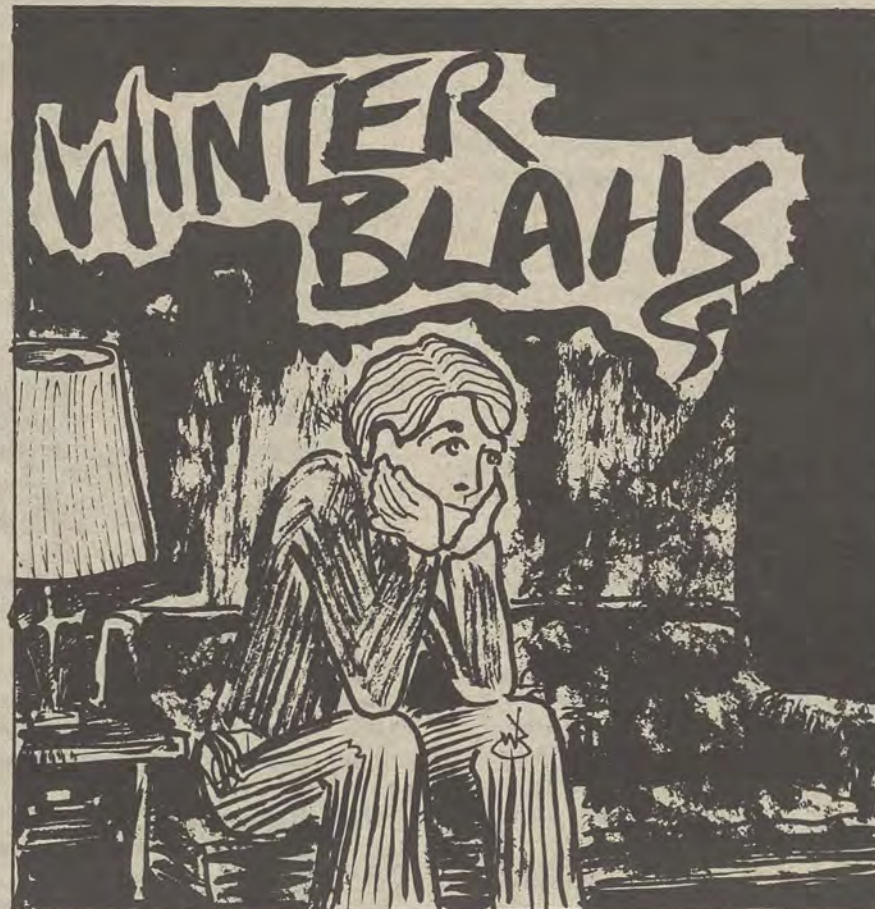

The depressed person may perceive things differently. There could be an emotional emptiness and loss of warm feelings for friends or family. Mixed perceptions may also result in lower self-esteem and even guilt.

Other indications of depression are sleeping disturbances, lack of energy and digestive upsets.

Everyone probably recognizes some of these symptoms within himself but when symptoms are severe and lasting it is time to get help or help yourself.

You can take action to make life run smoother when you feel down.

Seeing a doctor for a check-up and discussion of symptoms is a good idea. There could be a physical deficiency causing depression.

Friends are a good source of understanding. Talking about your problem is a step toward ending depression. If there is a specific problem, discuss it fully with the people involved.

Talking about your depression with a counselor at the Counseling Center in Rosenwald Building is another alternative. They are trained in various counseling techniques to help students cope with their problems.

Before talking about problems, however, the depressed person needs to examine his feelings and decide what it is troubling him. This takes an honest and sometimes painful evaluation of needs.

Students relieve their depression in several ways. The most popular way seems to be visiting friends.

Karen Branyan, a senior, said, "When I'm depressed I like to go work out or visit friends." She said the work out relieves her tension.

Teresa Hendley, a sophomore, said she rarely gets depressed but when she does she sleeps it off by taking a nap.

Scott Bingham and Robert Willis both freshmen have different views about ridding themselves of depression.

Bingham said, "I drink when I get depressed."

Willis said, "I lock myself in my room, listen to Al Jureau and contemplate the problem."

Learning how to cope with depression is important. Understand the facts and recognize the symptoms that demand attention. Know where to get help and seek professional help if depression is severe or persistent.

Mental health clinics, general hospitals and schools provide counseling and referral services.

Depression can lead to achievement if it is handled in a positive manner.

So if the winter blahs are creeping up, go jogging or bicycling or out for an evening. Any activity that relaxes you scares those winter blues away.

Just thinking of how few weeks are left until spring should boost low spirits but if you can't think as far ahead as April then set your sights on February 13-17, which is Anti-Depression Week.

Miscellany focuses on man, technology

How close is "Big Brother" watching? This year's issue of the Miscellany, GSC's yearly publication of students' literary and artistic works, may not have all the answers. But Guy Foulkes, editor, hopes the overall focus of the magazine will examine how accurate Orwell actually was.

"The real thrust this year," said Foulkes, "is the '1984' issue. Man and technology is our theme."

"I believe that the sciences have a lot to offer, even in literature. My colleagues in the biology department have submitted electron micrographs of the skin of a tick to the Miscellany. They almost look like a lunar landscape," said Foulkes. "This is a perfect example of art as revealed by technology."

And coupling art and science is nothing new to Foulkes. In addition to spending a great deal of time studying in GSC's ararology (ticks and mites) group, he has also participated in numerous Theater South (formerly Masquers) productions, as well as submitting various articles to the George-Anne. Foulkes has also submitted entries to the Miscellany for the past two years.

Although Foulkes hopes that the Miscellany will be oriented around technology this year, he emphasizes that the primary goal of the magazine will be to print high quality work.

"The purpose of the Miscellany is to serve as a showcase of the most outstanding student literature, poetry, art and other media," said

Foulkes. "It would be nice if everything was oriented around the theme, but all entries will be considered. Quality is what really counts."

Submissions to the Miscellany can only be made by GSC students, and are judged by a panel consisting of faculty, local residents of Statesboro, and students. Winners will be announced in May, and there will be scholarship checks and first, second, and third place winners in all categories.

In addition to providing cash prizes, Foulkes points out that the Miscellany provides excellent exposure for students' works.

"This is an ideal opportunity for those interested in fine arts to have a publication even before they leave college," said Foulkes. "In fact, if this magazine meets the standards I know GSC students can provide, I intend to enter it in regional and national competition."

Movie Classics

On The Waterfront (Monday, January 23, 7:30 p.m.) Director: Elia Kazan. Winner of Academy Awards for Best Actor, Supporting Actress, Direction, Screenplay, Cinematography, Film Editing, and Art Direction, On The Waterfront is one of the American classics. Marlon Brando's performance as the inarticulate longshoreman, groping towards a new idea, is among the screen's finest.

The Virgin and the Gypsy (Monday, January 30, 7:30 and 9:30) Director: Christopher Milles. This movie version of D.H. Lawrence's posthumously published novel, in deeply striking color, blends the rebelliousness and romanticism of girlhood with the conviction and imagination of young womanhood. "A beautiful and engrossing film. Nothing short of masterly" —Judith Crist, New York Magazine.

The Third Man (Monday, February 6, 7:30 p.m.) Director: Carol Reed. The haunting zither theme music, the cobbled streets and crumbling architecture of divided Vienna, the ghostly script by Graham Greene (from his novel), Orson Welles as Harry Lime—it adds up to one of cinema's undisputed masterpieces.

GSC football Eagles successful in 1983; go 6-5

By GREG CLAY
Sports Writer

Overall, the 1983 football season has to be considered a successful one for Erk's Eagles.

Besides the 6-5 final record, GSC for the most part dominated opponents in team statistics.

In total points, the Eagles outscored opponents 263 to 206, enjoying their biggest win against Mars Hill, 35-9. GSC suffered its worst loss in a 7-4 defeat to East Tennessee State.

In a scoring by quarters, GSC scored 52 points in the first quarter, 81 in the second, 80 in the third, and 50 in the fourth period. The Eagles scored an average of 23.9 point per game, holding foes to only 18.7 points.

Kicker David Simmons made 25 of 27 attempted extra points, and eight of nine field goals for a total of 49 points. In scoring, he was only surpassed by Tracy Ham, who scored 66 points rushing, and Gerald Harris, who led the team with 68 points.

In first downs, GSC led opponents 214 to 169, getting 147 first downs rushing and 53 passing. The Eagles had a third down consistency of 43.2 percent, converting 71 of 164.

The Eagles gained 4,089 total yards, holding opponents to 3,412.

GSC averaged 371.1 yards per game, limiting foes to only 310.1. 2,938 of GSC's yards were gained on the ground, while 1,151 were gained passing. Melvin Bell led the Eagles in rushing average with 5.9 yards per carry, and Tracy Ham led the Eagle passing attack, averaging 94.4 yards per game.

The Eagles also had several impressive season highs. GSC gained 202 yards passing against Valdosta

State, and 353 yards rushing against Catawba. GSC's most yards in total offense came in the Troy State game, when they gained 477 yards. The Eagles also made 25 first downs in that game.

GSC's largest touchdown play came against Troy State when roverback Hugo Rossignol intercepted a Trojan pass and returned it 95 yards for the TD.

Among individual season highs, Melvin Bell had the longest run from scrimmage for a TD—73 yards against Central Florida. Trach Ham hit Monty Sharpe for 47 yards for GSC's longest pass for a TD.

Britt Barker had GSC's longest punt; a 55-yard effort against ETSU.

Gerald Harris led the team in TD's in a game with three against Presbyterian.

Freshman Clint Harper rushed for 178 yards against Savannah State to lead the Eagles in rushing yards, and Ham had 240 total offensive yards against Valdosta State.

Against the same Blazers, kicker David Simmons attempted and made three field goals.

GSC and head coach Erk Russell are eagerly anticipating the start of the 1984 Division I-AA football season, and the completion of the new stadium.

UALR hands Eagles first TAAC loss

By JONATHON DUKES
Sports Writer

GSC found nothing but inhospitable hosts in Little Rock this year as the Eagles fell 79-66 to UALR in their first conference road game of the season.

The Eagles dropped to 9-5 overall and 2-1 in the TAAC with Arkansas-Little Rock moving to 6-3 and 2-0.

The Trojans jumped to a lead in the first half, stretching their advantage to 12 with 10 minutes remaining.

Behind Eric Hightower and Tracy Myles, the Eagles roared back and drew within two at 31-29 on a Myles layup with four minutes left in the first half.

The Eagles trailed 35-30 at intermission.

The foul-marred second half belonged to the Trojans as they hit 14 of 18 free throw attempts to GSC's three of seven to put the game on ice. UALR was just as accurate from the field on the final 20 minutes, hitting 15 of 19 shots for a whopping 79 percent.

With seven minutes left in the game, GSC drew within six at 57-51, but Kerns' Eagles could get no closer. The Trojans used accurate shooting down the stretch to hold off the Eagles.

Hightower led GSC with 18 points. Morris Hargrove scored 14 before fouling out and Myles add 11.

Entering the second half of the season, head coach Jeannie Milling is very optimistic. The return of starters Beverly Wilson and Debbie Myers and reserves Faye Baker and Monique Porter add much needed depth. Another boost is the play of senior center Trina Roberts, who leads the club in scoring (18.6) and rebounds (13.8). Jean Garriss is also turning in an outstanding performance directing the offense and leading the team in assists with 45. Recent action saw the Lady Eagles at the Central Florida Invitational in Orlando. In the first round, GSC defeated Western Carolina 77-65 to advance to the second round. The Lady Cagers then faced a strong UCF team, losing 54-51 and went on to lose another heartbreaker to McNeese State 59-56.

Soccer all stars

Three GSC players have been named to the All-Eastern Division Trans America Athletic Conference Soccer Team in voting done by Eastern Division coaches. Goalkeeper Jerry Greer and midfielders Scott Bauer and Mark Churchwell were picked to the select squad for their performances during the 1983 season. Bauer, the leading scorer in 1983 for GSC, was one of six members chosen unanimously for the 11 member squad. TAAC Champion Georgia State led with five players on the team while Mercer added three to complete the team. This marks the first time any of the three SGC players has been named to the All-Conference team. Other GSC players receiving votes were team captain Scott Barnard and Donnie Gorbondt.

Fencing Club

The GSC Fencing Club is sponsoring the 12th Geoff Elder Open fencing meet January 28-29 in the old Hanner Gym. Registration for the meet begins at 8 a.m., Saturday, January 28.

GSC's Dr. Frank French is the tournament director. For further information regarding the meet, call French at 681-2159.

Alumni Golfers

Three former GSC golfers earned their tour cards at the recent PGA tour qualifying school in Florida. Counting former alumnus Mike Donald, the total of former GSC golfers on the pro tour is four. Donald finished 57th on the money list in 1983. With his standing on the list, Donald automatically qualified for next year's circuit. Earning their cards at the school were Jodie Mudd, Rick Stallings, and Gene Sauers. Mudd finished in the top five at the tour school tournament to earn his card for next year. Stallings, who played at GSC in 1980 and 1981, earned his card by finishing in the top 100 at the tour school. Sauers was GSC's top golfer last season and earned his tour card in his first attempt at the qualifying school. Sauers shot the low round of the final day of the tournament with a 69.

Rugby season opener

The GSC Rugby Football Club starts its 1984 season against a tough Auburn club Saturday, January 21. The GSC Ruggers, who went 6-4 in regular season play last quarter and fell into second place at the CATS tournament, are looking forward to continuing their success as a winning club in the coastal area.

The match will be played in Statesboro at Oxford Field, kick off will be at 1:00 p.m.

Golf team prepares

This week the GSC golf team started their first week of practice. They are working on the short game now.

"We want to work more on short games because that's usually what needs the most work after a break," said Coach Doug Gordin.

Gordin is hoping that the weather will clear up so the team can practice more.

The golf team has three matches this quarter starting in February. February 17-19, Hilton Head Invitational. March 2-4, Imperial Lakes Invitational in Lakeland, Florida. March 23-25, University of South Florida Invitational.

Furman too tough

By CLIFF PROCTOR
Sports Editor

GSC's men's and women's swim teams journeyed to Greenville, S.C. last weekend to meet Furman. Both teams were soundly defeated by strong Furman squads.

"They were overwhelming," said men's coach Buddy Floyd regarding Furman's team. "We really didn't expect to be faced with such stiff competition."

Last year, Furman's lady swimmers were ranked seventh nationally.

In men's action, the Eagles fell to Furman 42-60. Although the Furman swimmers did dominate the meet, there were a few bright spots for GSC.

In the 500-meter freestyle event, Kevin Ryan placed first and Paul Neuzil came in second with times of 5:09:58 and 5:39:00 respectively.

Brian Murray and Billy Nixon paced the 200-meter breaststroke event with times of 2:24:28 and 2:36:53.

GSC's best showing of the meet came in the 200-meter freestyle relay, as the team of Voss, Duggleby, Ambrosini, and Ryan won the event with an impressive time of 1:32:06.

Despite the poor showing overall, Floyd was pleased with the spirit of his swimmers. "We had six guys who were sick that weekend, but they gave it their best effort under such adverse conditions," he said.

This Saturday, the Eagle swimmers host College of Charleston at Hanner Pool at 2 p.m. Both teams are preparing for the season championship, the Seahawk Invitational, at UNC-Wilmington in February.

Eagles lose in squeaker

By JONATHON DUKES
Sports Writer

Nail-biting finishes have become the rule and not the exception for GSC basketball. Saturday night against Samford, the Eagles finally saw what it was like to be at the short end of one of those finishes. Two free throws by Bernie Matthews with two seconds left were the difference as the Bulldogs put down the Eagles 63-61.

With their second consecutive conference road loss, the Eagles went to .500 in the TAAC at 2-2 and 9-6 overall.

GSC bolted to a quick 10 point lead six minutes into the game and held a nine point advantage with 10 minutes gone.

At that point, Samford found the range from the new three point line. Four three-pointers and a layup turned a nine point GSC lead into a two point deficit. The Bulldogs carried that margin into the locker room.

The Eagles fell behind 51-44 with 10 and a half minutes left but began a comeback of their own. A Travis Filer layup gave GSC its first lead since the first half with six minutes on the clock.

With the Eagles down by two, Filer canned a 10 foot jumper from the baseline to knot the game at 61.

A foul on Filer sent Matthews to the line for his last second heroics.

The TAAC's new three point line proved to be the difference as Samford connected on seven of eleven tries while the Eagles hit only one of five attempts.

Eric Hightower again led GSC 18 points. Bill McNair added 10 before fouling out.

Lady Eagles down nationally ranked Gators

By KARLA REDDING
Sports Writer

The GSC Lady Eagles may have suffered a defeat against Valdosta State Friday night, but victory was the only feeling in the Hanner Fieldhouse Saturday night after the ladies defeated nationally ranked University of Florida Lady Gators 51-66.

The Lady Eagles started displaying excellent teamsmanship and continued to use man-to-man defense to prevent Florida from scoring. However, the Lady Gators also proved to be experienced with defense. But this did not stop forward Beverly Wilson from scoring 13 points in the first half. Debbie Myers, who has been injured most of the season, was substituted for starting player Cathy McNeil, but was taken out shortly after her leg injury began to give her problems. However, Myers was able to contribute two points before returning to the bench.

Even though the Lady Gators matched GSC in rebounding, they were glad to see the first half come to a close. GSC's Beverly Wilson ended the 22-35 quarter by scoring two points at the buzzer.

Coach Jeannie Milling took her ladies into the locker room feeling very confident. "I told them to make a few adjustments on offense so we could get the ball downcourt faster,"

Lady Eagles work on Florida.

Milling said. This adjustment certainly helped make the second half more exciting than the first. The Lady Eagles kept the ball in their control most of the quarter. Once again, Beverly Wilson, along with teammate Trina Roberts, came back making excellent lay-ups. Guards Lisa Poller and Jean Garris also contributed to the victory by scoring six and eight points respectively.

By the time the score was 58-47 with the Eagles out front, the Lady Gators began to foul their opponents left and right. This served as only an advantage to the Lady Eagles because out of the 24 foul shot attempts made, 20 of those led to a 51-66 victory over Florida.

GSC's Lady Eagles are 7-8 so far, and have had a fairly good season. With ten games and a tournament left to play, they could end up with a championship season.

Miller HIGH LIFE COLLEGE BASKETBALL REVIEW Al McGuire

College basketball has seen only four modern dynasties-by modern I mean in the last 25 years-and they would be UCLA, Kentucky, Indiana and North Carolina.

The dynasty is the school that does not recruit, but selects. When they call the blue chip high school, the phone is always answered. They are usually THE school in the state as far as tradition and prestige, the school that is habitually on national television.

Most obvious, of course, is the world created by John Wooden, The Wizard of Westwood, at UCLA. Nobody won more than John Wooden. Starting in 1964, he won 10 NCAA titles in 12 years, a record that will never be matched. This makes him the Caesar of college basketball, and Larry Farmer his disciple, Marc Anthony, is carrying on today.

The Bruins usually go nine deep with every kid being an all-stater and potential first round draft choice. They normally win more than half their games during warm-ups. Their cheerleaders are better known than the winning teams of some major conferences.

Second is the University of Kentucky, which started with The Baron, Adolph Rupp, who won 880 games in 41 seasons, and is being continued today by Joe B. Hall. The Wildcats seat 23,000 for every home game at Rupp Arena. They have done more damage to the Southern Conference than Sherman did when he went through Atlanta.

The Wildcats are true thoroughbreds. They have won the NCAA championship five times, and probably run the best college basketball program, in the nation today. Basketball in Lexington is a way of life, socially oriented, the Park Avenue sport for the in-crowd. Joe B. Hall is just one of hundreds of thousands who bleed blue in the commonwealth.

At Indiana, again the baton has been passed, this time from Branch McCracken, who won the national title in 1953, to Bobby Knight, who has won it twice since 1972, when he took over for McCracken. Basketball in Indiana is Hoosier Hysteria that makes football take a rumble seat and light up the moonlight on the Wabasha.

Bobby Knight's dictatorial style of yesterday is also the envy of every coach who has a fear of administration, parents and ballplayers. Knight is his own man, the master chef of his own restaurant. He tells you what to order, cooks the food his way(...) and it's so good the customers keep coming back for more!

Rounding out the magic four are the Tar Heels from Chapel Hill, who have won everything in sight with the dynasty starting with Frank McGuire in the 1950's when North Carolina was NCAA champion in 1957. Now they have broken through the sound barrier under Dean Smith, who made it to the final four six times and finally grabbed the brass ring last year.

BASKET

Now just what makes a dynasty? As I said, the school has to be THE school in the state, it has to govern its conference, and it's always the team the other seven or eight schools vote against. It has to come from a basketball state, which all these four do, and it has to be THE sport in the school. It also has to get network exposure.

The coach of a dynasty is a power broker inside his own school, and many times in his home state; a guy everybody wants to see run for governor. If he has a basketball camp in the summertime, it's always SRO, without any big advertising campaign. He has his own TV and radio show, and is a key clinic speaker-a guy his fellow coaches want to hear.

The last, and most important criteria of a dynasty, is it has to repeat over and over. The four teams I mentioned-UCLA, Kentucky, Indiana and North Carolina-have won the NCAA championship 20 times between them. UCLA 10 times, Kentucky five, Indiana three, and North Carolina two. The NCAA is 26 years old, which means these four have won it more than half the time.

Now that's consistency.

There is one school, in my opinion, that's knocking on the door to join the dynasty club, and that's Louisville. All the ingredients are there: Denny Crum has brought the Cardinals out of the shadow of Kentucky, they're almost there, they've come close. But they still don't have the key to the executive washroom yet, because of the Wildcats of Kentucky, who are in the process of building their own Ming dynasty.
