Lien is placed on GSC stadium by contractor

By DONNA BREWTON
Editor

A lien was placed on the Allen E. Paulson stadium on Feb. 22 by contractor Foster and Cooper, Inc.

The lien states that the Southern Boosters owe Foster and Cooper $262,939.50 plus interest compounded daily since Dec. 12, 1984.

According to Bucky Wagner, athletic director, Foster and Cooper has not completed all the work to be done on the stadium. "When they finish the check-off list, we'll pay them," he said.

"The lien was placed to protect themselves," said Wagner. "It only means we can't sell the stadium."

Foster and Cooper could not be reached for comment.

Cox named acting department head

By STAR HAND
News Writer

Dr. James (Chip) Cox of the Department of Communication Arts has been named department acting head according to an announcement by Dean Warren Jones, School of Arts and Sciences.

Cox, now in his third year at GSC, succeeds Ernie Wyatt at the position. Wyatt, a Journalism instructor for the past 13 years, will return full-time to the classroom. Cox's term of office begins June, 1985 and continues through August, 1986.

Cox, a native of North Carolina, will continue to teach classes and coordinate the internship program as well as conduct administrative departmental affairs.

"I'm looking forward to the job," Cox said. "I've been teaching in colleges and universities since 1974."

The department, one of the largest on campus, plans to begin a nationwide search for a permanent head of department next fall. Staff members are eligible to apply.

Task Force report suggests cuts

By KARA J KING
Assistant News Editor

The Task Force report on Program and Budget Review has recommended the elimination of 19 faculty position in an economy drive that took 15 months to complete.

These proposed cuts would affect several academic departments. The report advised three departments, Chemistry, Sociology and Anthropology, and Communication Arts, to drop one faculty member each.

The Department of Music would eliminate two faculty positions under the report's recommendations.

The Task Force suggested that the department of Home Economics be reduced by three faculty members. The Physical Education department would also be reduced by three faculty positions.

However, this would be accomplished by "transferring the basketball coach, the assistant basketball coach, and the athletic department academic advisor to the Athletic budget," the report said.

The largest proposed reduction would occur in the School of Education, with eight faculty positions eliminated.

The Task Force also advocated several departments be monitored closely and faculty positions eliminated if student credit hours dropped. These departments include Foreign Languages, English and Philosophy, and Political Science, Public Administration, and Criminal Justice.

Reductions in the School of Technology were advised if the second state School of Engineering is not placed at GSC, stated the report.

Several recommendations were made concerning the Department of Nursing including increasing the number of students in each class without increasing the faculty.

The report also advised against considering a graduate program. It states, "The Task Force feels that the cost of such a program will far exceed the benefits derived."

Another suggestion for the Department of Nursing concerned a non-faculty position. The report says "...the Task Force feels that the position of Consultant to the program should be eliminated in fiscal year 1985."

Due to an increase in student credit hours in the School of Business, the Task Force recommends "this unit be given priority for any resources that are made available."

The report said the financial impact of these recommendations is estimated at $500,000 using the average salaries of the respective departments and the number of positions.

Dr. Dale Lick, president of GSC, explained the proposed reduction in faculty positions as being directly related to the "large and sudden shift in enrollment".

"We lost 492 students this year and expect enrollment to drop by 100 to 200 students next fall. These approximately 600 students represent 20 to 30 faculty positions. We obviously have to make adjustments," he said.

Other recommended cuts include the elimination of the Assistant to the Dean of Education and the elimination of the Grants Assistance position under the Dean of Arts and Sciences.

Several recommendations were made concerning the President's Office. The report suggests programs initiated within this office be reviewed every 2-4 years and should be phased in or dropped by the end of the review process.

The Task Force indicated that the office and programs under the Director of Rural Health needed to be reviewed at the present time.

The report stated, "We find no compelling evidence that this office (Rural Health) should continue to be funded at the present level. No tangible link seems to exist between this office and existing academic programs."

Thieves take computers

By SUSAN WITTE
News Editor

Investigations are underway concerning the recent theft of three new Apple computers from the psychology department.

The computers, worth about $4,000, were stolen from room 146 of the MPP building sometime between 4:45 p.m. Thursday, May 16, and 1:45 p.m. Friday, May 17, according to Dr. Gary McClure, department head.

The computers were purchased for students to use in the statistics lab beginning fall quarter, according to McClure.

"We hope to replace them by the beginning of the fall statistics class," he continued.

Investigation into the theft is still continuing, according to Sgt. Bob Nesmith of Campus Security.

Staff selected for publications and radio station

By CINDY FOSTER
News Writer

GSC's Media Committee held elections on May 9 for the staff selection of the George-Anne, Miscellany, and WVGS for the 1985-86 school year.

Elections were also held earlier in the quarter for the editor's position of the 1985-86 Reflector.

Each student applicant had to send a letter of intent to media committee chairman Dr. James Cox, and then appear in front of the committee for an interview.

Donna Brewton will assume the George-Anne editor's position for the second year. "I just want to carry out what I've already begun," she said. Brewton also stated that she wants to get the business department into better shape, and to get the faculty more involved by writing some editorials.

Amy Swann, the new editor of the Reflector, said that she is already busy with getting the book and ladder planned, and getting organized for next year.

"The main difference in the book for 1986 is that it will be photojournalistic—there will be more copy with the pictures," Swann commented.

Swann also noted that a new position, managing editor, has been added to make the yearbook more efficient. This position has been filled by Kara King.

Gum machines found destroyed

By BO JOYNER
Staff Writer

The remains of two gumball machines, one stolen from the Williams Center and the other from the Foy Building, were found in the middle of Highway 301 South last week, according to a Campus Security spokesman.

Campus Security returned the broken machines to the Student Government Association, the owners of the machines. It is not known if the machines can be repaired.

An eyewitness saw three black males hurl the machines from a moving car on Highway 301, but no one has been apprehended in connection with the incident.

Other sweeping recommendations include the possible discontinuation of Marvin Pittman School and the closure of the building.

The report states, "Maintenance costs of the Marvin Pittman School for fiscal year 1984 were reported to be $101,159.22. This represents a significant potential savings..."

Some Task Force recommendations have already been put into effect. For example, the report suggests reducing Health Center operational hours. This has been approved by the Faculty Senate and will be effective starting fall quarter.

Dr. Herbert O'Keefe, who chaired the Task Force Committee, said of the report, "We accomplished a cross-sectional perspective of the college in this committee."

He explained they were "planning for the future of GSC."

At the April 22 Faculty Senate meeting, O'Keefe said the Task Force report indicated the college will face a

Banquet planned for Lick

By PAULA BARNETT
Staff Writer

GSC faculty, staff and local residents will have an opportunity to express their appreciation of President Dale Lick and his wife, Marilyn, at an upcoming "Roast, Toast and Testimonial."

The banquet, planned for the evening of June 4, is being sponsored by the community and will be attended by friends and acquaintances of the Licks, according to presidential secretary Kirbylene Stephens.

"We prefer to wait until nearer time to let Dr. Lick know who will be there," she added.

A good turnout is expected for the event, noted Ric Mandes, director of GSC's Institutional Development.

"People on the dias will represent areas that Dr. Lick has cultivated, such as rural health, nursing and the outreach into the coastal empire."

"The fun's going to be had when audience members get a chance to make comments," Mandes said.

Such an event has been in the planning stages for the past few years, Mandes explained, but the timing has not seemed right until now, when the community members would like to thank Lick for staying at GSC.

According to Mandes, "We would like to thank Dr. and Mrs. Lick for the past seven years."

Pi Sig holds awards banquet

By SUSAN WITTE
News Editor

Pi Sigma Epsilon, GSC's professional marketing fraternity, held its quarterly initiation ceremony and annual awards banquet Saturday night.

A pledge class of 27 was initiated into the fraternity along with three new educator members, Dr. Harry Carter, Dr. Linda Hamilton, and Dr. Harry Wright.

The ceremony was followed by the awards banquet, which featured guest speaker H.M. Stumpf, Vice President of Marketing at Savannah's Gulfstream Aerospace Corporation.

Among the awards presented were Top Member, which went to Jimmy Quinn, and Best Pledge, which went to Cheryl Hancock. Ten Certificates of Merit were also given for outstanding service to Pi Sig, and the 1984-85 executive board received special awards.

Rape rumors are unfounded

Recent rumors on campus about a rash of rapes and attacks are unfounded, according to officials from Campus Security and the office of Student Affairs.

If attacks on campus are happening they aren't being reported. This year no rapes have been reported to Campus Security, while only one complaint about an attack has been lodged. The complaint came from a girl who was harrassed by three males near Marvin Pittman School. Both offices encourage anyone who is victimized by a rape or an attack to report the incident.

While there is not a problem with rapes on campus at this time, GSC is taking steps to make sure the problem does not start. The college sponsors several programs each year on rape awareness and prevention to help students who may find themselves in a potentially dangerous situation.

Vandalism must be stopped

Since when do the symptoms of spring fever include foolish pranks and vandalism?

Lately, GSC has been victimized by students out "looking for a good time." Everything from stealing to destroying college property has occurred.

This nonsense must stop before someone gets into serious trouble.

Behavior of this sort not only makes life difficult for average students, it ruins the reputation of the college as a whole.

If you are one of those destructive individuals whose curriculum includes childish, destructive behavior, you do have one career option—imprisonment.

Eagles had a good season

Coach Jack Stallings and his Eagle baseball team are to be highly commended for the season they put together. Coming off a 32-37 season (first losing season in Stallings' career), the 1985 Eagles put together a 41-23 record. That's a 23-game turnaround, even though Southern lost such outstanding players as Ben Abner, Dave Pregon and Jeff Geer from the "84" team.

The Eagles ended the season by winning the Trans America Athletic Conference championship, therefore GSC is the TAAC champion in both baseball and basketball for the first time in the school's history.

Lawyers crave money

Many years ago, I thought that possibly I would like to become a lawyer. It seems like a perfect career for any motivated, enthusiastic young person prepared to do some hard work. It is certainly a prestigious job and the pay happens to be pretty good. More importantly, America has had an image of lawyers like Perry Mason and Gregory Peck in "To Kill A Mockingbird" who are both sharp minded and exceedingly moral. My own perception of lawyers, like America's perception however, has changed as I have matured.

Simply, I have come to realize attorneys tend to work for whomever pays them the most. Attorneys often receive a percentage of the reward when their clients sue wealthy businesses or individuals. No matter how just the cause, the lawyers want the money. A professor recently commented to me that attorneys are forced to "prostitute their minds." That is, they sell their wits to the highest bidder. As a seeker of the truth, I despise those who use their intellects for other purposes. Like the Greek sophists, lawyers often use their wits to argue cases for their own interests rather than in the interest of truth. Now, thank goodness, I'm set on earning a doctorate and teaching at a college where I can be true to my reasoning.

Defense attorneys are committed to argue the case of their clients whether or not they are, in fact, guilty. Likewise prosecuting attorneys are often less interested in the guilt or innocence of the accused than in getting him convicted. Prosecutors have been known to withhold evidence which could exonerate a client. An even worse thought is that attorneys may even forget the difference between any objective notions of wrong or right.

What happens, we might wonder, to the attorneys best at "prostituting their minds?" They gain so much publicity and popularity in the community that they run for public office, becoming makers of the law. Even better lawyers go on to become state and federal judges. Meanwhile, the best sophists of all presumably end up as one of the nine justices on the Supreme Court. Anyone ambitious enough to go through law school is likely to have the courage and ambition to run for public office or campaign for a judgeship.

"Like the Greek sophists, lawyers often use their wits to argue cases for their own interests rather than in the interest of the truth."

Wait...wait...what am I saying?: Perry Mason and Dave Wallace (another aspiring attorney) are both nice fellows. Well, maybe I went a bit overboard. At any rate, let my thoughts stand, not as a condemnation but as a warning: Cling to your beliefs and morals as you fight your way though law school and into a law practice, my sharp-minded aspirants to the legal field.

Students thank two teachers

DEAR EDITOR:

The Communication Arts students here at GSC would like to say THANK YOU to Ms. Robin McCullin and Mr. Alex Chrestopoulos for the outstanding job they have done for us during their stay here at GSC.

Both Robin and Alex will not be returning next fall quarter and we hope they realize how greatly they will be missed by us. There can't be a price put on the knowledge we have gained through their unique teaching techniques because it is priceless. We would like to wish both of you the best of luck and that your futures be bright ones.

Activity fee is unfair

DEAR EDITOR:

As a senior here at GSC, I am extremely upset with the rise in fees almost every quarter. Because I am a PR (Public Relations) major and required to do an internship, I still have to pay tuition. However, I can't believe that I have to pay the activities fee of $94 when I won't even be on campus to use it! Much less in Statesboro (Thank God)! Why do we have to pay these fees when we are doing internships and not able to use them like regular students? It's a shame to have to pay almost $100 for nothing!

Phi Kappa Phi's Essay Winner Erika Dismer shares thoughts

Editor's Note: Erika Dismer was the 1985 Phi Kappa Phi Essay winner.

By ERIKA K. DISMER

Although the metaphors of time as a river and as a pendulum suggest images which can be grasped by most Westerners, neither metaphor adequately describes this phenomenon with which each individual must come to grips. Time is viewed with individual perspectives, experiences, and beliefs in mind; in other words, time means different things to different people.

While there are many influences on a person's view of time, his understanding of death often affects how he chooses to spend time and how he values it. Various belief systems and cultures would dictate metaphors which differ from the river and the pendulum.

Since most of us view time from a completely Western perspective, it is difficult to place ourselves in a culture which, for example, views time as a circle, constantly rotating with repeating events. In addition, some Eastern faiths include successive lives for each person. Some Hindus believe these things, and they are able to picture death as a passageway from one life to the next. Some Oriental systems include a belief that a person's spirit continues on earth and carries on life outside of the body. Often this belief is portrayed in Japanese and Chinese literature, especially.

Since time and even life are repeated, the Hindu's view of time is not as sharply focused as it might be in a Western system of thought. Another Eastern religion, Taoism, actually might view not only time, but all of life, as a river. The stillness of deeply moving waters is an exemplary symbol to the Taoist. He might consider death, like all other events, a movement along a well-worn path, again, the sense of urgency which is a part of Western life is nonexistent in this faith. The river suggests a continuity which is not found in Western experience.

The Western perspective has been influenced by the technology and innovation which has occurred here. Increasing the hope of longer life for the Western man has decreased in ability to accept death. In the West, there are always concepts that life is what one makes of it, that there is only one chance to make one's mark in the world, and that if an opportunity is lost, it is lost forever. The concepts are reflected or are even dictated by Western religious or philosophical beliefs.

Judeo Christianity has promoted the view of life as a pathway and the view of time as a finite phenomenon. Apparently time will end with life as one enters the timeless existence of God. The metaphor of a pathway is used throughout the Bible; the narrow gate by which one enters leads to a straight and narrow path.

The scriptures speak of encumbrances one may encounter on this path; all these references merely highlight the verse which speaks of the road's end. The mission of believers in Christianity is to make the most of the time they have on the path. The judgement which is also promised to believers of this faith indicates that one's use of time will be evaluated; one is to be held accountable for every moment's action or inaction at the end of time, the end of the path.

Time is probably taken most seriously by authentic believers in atheistic existential thought. By coming to accept the fact that every person faces death at some point, the existentialist learns to cope with his own death. When he understands that life, personality, and awareness all end with one's last breath, his time becomes much more valuable. Existentialists may consider their actions more carefully than others, since they believe that any action they commit becomes one for which they are responsible.

The metaphor of time as a pendulum might fit an existentialist's view, because the awareness of responsibility for action is often a growing experience. As the end of life approaches, the pendulum swings closer to cut off one's being. One's use of time becomes exceedingly important.

In any case, the individual's experience must be taken into account when describing his perspective of time. His understanding of life as an infinite or as a finite experience obviously colors his picture of time in essence. Every man might make his own metaphor, and each one might be different.

New S.U.B. members are selected

Special to the George-Anne

GSC is proud to present Kool and the Gang . . . Huey Lewis and the News . . . The Commodores . . . Jimmy Buffet. These top performing groups may be a part of SUB's special programming for the 1985-86 school year. But this special event would have to be organized by a hard-working group of people. According to outgoing SUB Chairman Diane Pope, SUB 1985-86 could very well be the group.

New Student Union Board members have been selected for the 1985-86 year.

The Student Government Association selected board members for the new year on the basis of an application, interview, and the ability to work with others. SUB members selected are Kelly Kilpatrick, chairman; Tony Lloyd, special events chairman; Greg Marion, films and video chairman; David Newman, SUB Gallery chairman; Joe Mills, sound and productions chairman and Pat Albuquerque, publicity chairman. Kay Holton will be special events assistant along with Russell Brannen and Brent Robinson as publicity assistants.

Assistant Dean of Students for Special Programming Dr. Jane Thompson said that she thoroughly enjoyed working with the outgoing SUB board and "learned a great deal about what the students wanted and needed for weekly as well as weekend entertainment for the coming year." Dr. Thompson and the new board will be travelling to Charleston, S.C. in late September to attend the NACA (National Association of Campus Activities) conference to view entertainment and talk with programming agencies for the 1985-86 school year.

The new SUB members are busy at work in creating new events for the fall quarter. SUB Gallery Chairman David Newman wants to bring outdoor art shows to Statesboro because he feels that the college and community need to become more aware of the talent within the coastal community, especially here at GSC.

As for upcoming movies, Films/Video Chairman Greg Marion has worked very hard in lining up such favorites as "Vacation," "Raiders of the Lost Art," and "Animal House" for the summer. Fall movies include "48 Hours," "The Razor's Edge," "The Shining," "Halloween," a "Star Wars" weekend, and "Ghostbuster," plus many more.

Kelly Kilpatrick, incoming SUB Chairman, will see to it that special activities are scheduled on the weekends. For example, Kelly wants to plan several Saturday afternoon concerts by the lake after football games. Also in the making is a remake of "The Dating Game" where students have an opportunity to select the "Date of his or her choice" and be given a "Night on the Town" compliments of SUB.

If you have any suggestions to make for upcoming events or would like to be on major concert committee, please stop by the SUB office or call 681-5442.

SUB wants to know what you want!

ATTENTION!

The Reflector Staff regrets to announce that the 1985 Reflectors will not be available until fall quarter. We will mail the books to spring and summer graduates. Please fill out the following form with your correct mailing address and return to the Reflector office (across from mail center). If no one is there, slide them under the door or place them in the dropbox.

Student-Athletes honored

Courtesy of Sports Information

Tennis player Sandy Smith and swimmer Scott Farmer have been named Georgia Southern's Student-Athletes-of-the-year, according to an announcement from Athletic Director Bucky Wagner. This is the first year that this award has been presented to both a male and female athlete.

Smith, a junior from Comer, Ga., has compiled a cumulative 3.88 grade point average in three years at GSC. She has had a 4.0 GPA in her last seven quarters. Smith is majoring in Public Relations.

Smith led the women's tennis team to a winning season this year. Playing at number three singles, she compiled an individual record of 12-8, her second straight winning season. Outside of sports, Smith serves as President of GSC Public Relations Society and is an Academic All-America nominee.

Farmer has compiled a 3.6 GPA in Physical Education. This honor is one of several won by Farmer who has been awarded the GAHPER Scholarship, the Million Scholarship and been named in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

This past season Farmer led the swim team to one of its finest years including a first place finish in the Atlanta Invitational. In 'that meet, Farmer set one individual school record and was on two relay teams that set school records. Farmer broke the school record in the 100 butterfly in a time of 52.18 seconds and was on the 400 medley relay team that set a school record with at time of 3:33.09 and on the 400 freestyle team that set a record of 3:12.60.

Farmer and Smith named 1984-85 winners.

Cross country report

Special to the George-Anne

The GSC cross country team is looking for both men and women runners. The team, led by seniors Shawn McCormick and Rhonda Elrod, is looking extremely strong for the upcoming fall season.

However, according to Coach Sean McCormack more runners are needed to solidify the team. "We have a strong nucleus for both the men and women. I am very optimistic about this year, but we are still searching for interested runners. I see quite a few students who run regularly and this is an excellent opportunity for them to participate on the collegiate level. I think that many students would like to come out, but they are afraid of running with more experienced runners. Running is just like any other sport where you have athletes that perform at different skill levels. Fortunately, the team is small enough that each athlete can get individual attention and guidance."

If anyone is interested, please contact Coach Sean McCormack at 681-6574.

GSC baseball is back

By CHRIS NAIL
Sports Editor

The 1985 baseball season was an excellent one for GSC as the Eagles won 41 games, which put them into a 4th-place tie with the 1981 team for most wins in a season in GSC history. The one sore spot on the season was the recent road trip that cost the Eagles a NCAA bid.

However, even without the bid, Coach Jack Stallings is well satisfied with the year his team had. "This was an enjoyable season," Stallings commented. "Naturally it would have been more enjoyable if we had gotten a bid, but I'm well pleased with the effort our team put forth. They're a good group and they really worked hard. One thing that really stood out was the improved team unity."

Although Southern lost its two biggest offensive threats (Ben Abner and Dave Pregon) from the 1984 team, the 1985 team improved in almost every offensive category. The "85" Eagles scored 512 runs (6 short of the team record), stole 101 bases (compared to 30 in 1984), and their .313 batting average was four percentage points higher than last year's .309. Of the 512 runs, 32 came in one game against Samford, which broke the old record set in 1955. Also GSC pounded out 138 doubles this season breaking the old record of 123.

Coach Stallings fielded a vastly improved team this season.

The Eagles put together their 41-23 record against some very tough competition. Six of GSC's opponents (Western Carolina, South Carolina, LaSalle, Florida State, West Virginia and Ga. Tech) are in the NCAA playoffs.

Home cooking was very good to Southern as its record was 34-9 at Eagle Field, but only 7-14 on the road.

Volleyball!

Special to the George-Anne

There will be a women's volleyball organizational meeting tonight at 7:30 p.m. in Hanner Building in room 153. Women's volleyball will be an official National Collegiate Athletic Association varsity sport at Southern next season, as the NCAA now requires its schools to have six varsity sports for females.

This will be just an organizational meeting to see who would be interested in playing on the team next fall, and to develop a correspondence with them. Any female interested in being on this team is encouraged to attend the meeting.

Practice will start in the fall, followed by a 19-match season.

Despite the fact home run production fell from 80 last year to 57 this season, Stallings was pleased. "The home runs this season were spread out among more players," Stallings said. "Last year Abner and Pregon combined to hit 48, and although Aiken did 11, no one else hit many home runs. The homers were more even among the team this year."

According to Stallings, the key to rebounding from 1984's record of 32-37 was the pitching and defense. "We definitely improved in pitching," he stated. "Kenny Roberts and Phil Dale were more consistent, and we got some good efforts from the rest of our staff. But I feel that the most dramatic improvement was in our fielding. Our infield and outfield were very solid this year." By comparing the statistics, one quickly sees what Stallings is saying. The "85" Eagles made only 79 errors, compared to 118 in 1984. The 4.92 earned run average compiled by the pitching staff this season was a dramatic improvement from last year's 7.10 ERA.

In the individual category, no single player stood head and shoulders above the rest. "We had a total team effort," Stallings stated. Sophomore Mike Shepherd (transfer from Middle Ga. Junior College) led the team offensively in several categories. His .363 batting average, 90 total hits, 3 triples, and 61 runs batted in topped GSC in those categories. First baseman Craig Cooper led in home runs with 14. Catcher Greg McMullen stroked 20 doubles to give him a career total of 53, just two short of the team record. Second baseman Luis Ramos led in runs scored with 69, center fielder Gary Supinski stole 21 bases, and left fielder Bobby Aiken coaxed 50 walks from opposing pitchers.

Senior pitchers Phil Dale and Kenny Roberts each won 11 games to pace the pitching staff. Roberts finished his career in third place on the GSC all-time-victory list with 30 and Dale is in fourth place with 29. Dale now holds the career record for innings pitched, and is second in strikeouts. Roberts is the career leader in pitching appearances, and third on the strikeout list.

Stallings is concerned about replacing Roberts, Dale, and Steve Stringer on next year's staff, but he feels he has some young pitchers who will contribute a lot more than they did this season. Seven of nine regular players should be back, with Ramos and Aiken being the only two major losses.

When asked what was the biggest disappointment of the season, Stallings thoughtfully replied, "the five-game road trip to Jacksonville and Georgia Tech. Those five losses cost us a NCAA bid."

With the returning players and incoming recruits he will have next year, Stallings hopes to receive that bid in 1986. Along the way he should pick up his 800th career coaching victory (he now has 778), a standard that only five coaches have reached previously.
