Natalie Hendrix crowned Miss GSC 1986

By LISA DUDLEY
Staff Writer

Natalie Hendrix was crowned Miss GSC 1986 Saturday night in McCroan Auditorium at the 38th annual scholarship pageant.

"I feel wonderful—totally energetic," said Natalie, a 21-year old Statesboro native, shortly after receiving the honor.

This year's pageant, with the theme "Uptown Girls," provided the audience with "24 unbelievably talented girls," commented Gail Bullock Odom, Miss Georgia 1973 and the Mistress of Ceremonies.

Sponsored by Alpha Epsilon Rho Broadcasting Society, Hendrix was crowned by her predecessor, Miss GSC 1985, Tammy Russell.

GSC President Dr. Dale Lick helped present the awards to the winners as the GSC Ensemble band played background music.

Miss GSC and her court include: Natalie Hendrix, Miss GSC 1986; Janet Entrekin, 1st runner up, sponsored by Kappa Delta; Angie Keen, 2nd runner up, sponsored by Kappa Sigma; Cindy Altman, 3rd runner up, sponsored by Johnson Hall; and Valerie Morton, 4th runner up, sponsored by Kappa Delta and Alpha Tau Omega.

The pageant was separated into two parts, each counting 50 percent. The first phase consisted of an interview, a swimsuit competition, and an evening gown competition and the second phase was the talent competition.

The preliminary winners in the pageant included Natalie Hendrix, swimsuit; and Cindy Altman, talent. Altman was also voted Miss Congeniality by her fellow contestants.

The entertainment included Tammy Russell's farewell song, the theme from "Ice Castles." A final tribute to all the contestants was performed by singer Danny Pirkle, a junior at GSC.

Among the distinguished guests present at the pageant was Mr. Joe Dickens, the president of the Miss

The new Miss GSC will prepare for three trips to Columbus, Georgia, home of the Miss Georgia Pageant. In March, Natalie will attend a contestant preparation seminar and the Miss America Ball.

In May, she will attend a contestants' orientation. The final event, in June, will be the Miss Georgia Pageant.

"It's a feeling you can't imagine—I'm very proud to represent GSC since we hold another title in football," commented Natalie.

Faculty Awards for Excellence to be Presented

By AMY WASHINGTON
Staff Writer

The Faculty Welfare and Development Committee, which is responsible for dispensing funds for instructional equipment, travel requests and expenses incurred in upgrading and developing teaching skills, announces two Awards for Excellence in Contributions to Instruction to be presented at the June 1986 graduation in recognition of outstanding contributions to instruction at GSC.

Initiated through the leadership of Vice-President for Academic Affairs Dr. Harry Carter, the awards represent GSC's continuing commitment to quality instruction. The two awards include a stipend of $3000 to enable recipients to present a seminar for their faculty colleagues, administrators and students. This will be the second year these awards have been made. Recipients for 1985 were Dr. Dan Good and Dr. John Parcels.

Recipients are selected from faculty members nominated by faculty, administrators and students. Eligibility for the award entails several factors. First, the nominee must be a full time faculty members. They must be in at least their second year of teaching at GSC, and a person may receive the award only once in a five year interval. Nominations may come from any current or former student or faculty members. Nomination forms are available at the Student Government Office, Reference Desk of the Library and Office of the Deal of the Graduate School.

Criteria for selection as determined by the Faculty Development and Welfare Committee involve excellence in classroom teaching, continued professional development, contributions to overall instructional process, and contributions to overall institutional objectives.

The Faculty Welfare and Development Committee is responsible for reviewing all nominations and making the final selection of the recipients. This committee is also responsible for grants for development of instruction through awards for travel funds and expenses incurred in attendance of professional meetings and seminars, and requests for purchase of instructional equipment.

Students are encouraged to nominate professors who have made outstanding contributions to instruction for this award. Nominations must be submitted by April 1, 1986 for consideration.

Echoes of Skynard, Stones Still Sound at GSC

By JENNIFER JONES
Staff Writer

What do such stars as Simon & Garfunkel, The Rolling Stones, ZZ Top, and Bob Hope have in common? Simple. They all, at one time or another, appeared at GSC.

Many students complain that GSC is a "suitcase college" and it will remain as such until some decent entertainment is brought in. What these people don't realize is that echoes of southern funk and rock and roll still sound in the old Hanner Gym.

Dating back as far as 1967, the CUB, or College Union Board, booked such names as B.J. Thomas and Simon & Garfunkel. The students supported these concerts enthusiastically by packing the gym.

In the late 60s, Pieces of Eight, The Letterman, The Platters, and The Vogues all gave concerts. In 1968, a little known band was booked in hopes of boosting spirits. They were called the Rolling Stones, and they rocked the house.

The gym soon adopted the name of the "Hanner Hothouse" because of the growing number of people attending. However, that did not deter the students. For example, in 1974 ZZ Top played to a record crowd of 2,500 people.

Homecoming is always a good time to book bands, and in 1974 Ike and Tina Turner turned out to wow many fans. Bob Hope was also asked to perform and oversee the parade. In fact, he attended the next two homecomings.

Posters introducing The Four Freshmen and the Rooftop Singers were not an uncommon sight in the 60s. In the 70s there were such names as Badfinger, Bloodrock, Hour Sin, and the Stomping Suede Greasers.

Rock and roll was not the only form of musical entertainment. Mel and Tim were billed as progressive jazz, and the Religious Activities Board introduced Danny Taylor. Buddy Moss provided the campus with some country blues.

When students tired of musical concerts, CUB provided the ever-popular Harlem Globetrotters. They even brought a circus into town.

However, even the best-lived plans can go wrong. In 1975 Simon & Garfunkel were turned down in favor of The J. Geils Band. Unfortunately, some band members came down with the flu and C.U.B. hurriedly booked The Marshall Tucker Band, R.E.O. Speedwagon, and the Atlanta Rhythm Section.

In the late 70s the students slowed the pace a bit by inviting Jimmy Buffet and The New Christy Minstrels to appear.

Mother's Finest strutted around Statesboro with a record 3,400 people singing "Piece of the Rock," "Baby Love," and "Mickey's Monkey."

When the students weren't listening to "Southern Funk," they were doing the shag to Sha Na Na and B.B. King. Nappy Patch and PDQ Bach were also billed in 1976.

Not all concerts were a complete success. In 1979 SUB booked Chic and ADC. A record low of only 500 people showed. The concert reportedly lost as much as $12,000. One former student reported, "We really didn't hear about it. The band (Chic) only had one really good song out."

Today, students don't see much of these kinds of bands around. Organizers complain of the rising costs of production and fee payments. "Today it would cost us around $13,000 to have Jimmy Buffet perform here" reports Kelly Kilpatrick, SUB chairperson. "The risk is just too great for one organization to take on." Last year SUB brought in the Tams, a well-known group from the 50s.

Pi Sigma Epsilon recently hosted a Beach Bash and presented The Drifters in concert. "We felt confident that The Drifters would be a sound investment," states Tracey Mitchell, an officer of the marketing fraternity.

Whatever the reason for the big bands not being present today, the tradition and the history still live on.

On October 13, 1978, Lynard Skynard performed in front of an all-time record crowd of 4,500 people. Students jammed to "Sweet Home Alabama," "Gimme Three Steps," and "Free Bird."

However, tragedy struck just one week after their performance at GSC, when their plane crashed en route to a concert in Louisiana. Lead singer Ronnie Van Zant, guitarist Steve Gaines and background vocalist Cassie Gaines were killed.

The GSC concert opened the band's fourth month on tour, ironically named the Tour of Survivors, making GSC the last college to see Lynard Skynard perform.

Forensics Team Doing Well in Competitions

By BEN BLAKELY
Staff Writer

The GSC Forensics team recently competed with over 50 other schools at Louisiana State University in the Mardi Gras Forensics Classic. Ken Daniels, a communications major, placed 2nd out of a 150 persons, in the poetry interpretation event.

Also, last November, the team attended a tournament in Tuscaloosa, Alabama, with Aundra Simmons and Ken Daniels qualifying for Nationals in impromptu speaking and poetry.

Team coach and advisor Greg Mullins said, "We compete against some very powerful teams like Duke, Harvard, University of Florida, and University of Arizona. We rank in the top 30 percent nationally of university forensic teams."

Government Waste

Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wisconsin) recently presented his monthly "Gold Fleece" awards, and the proud recipient this time is the Air Force Strategic Air Command.

The "Golden Fleece" is an honor bestowed for what Proxmire describes as the most wasteful use of taxpayers' money. The Pentagon can come up with some very creative methods, this month's award-winner being a luxury airliner to accommodate commanders and generals in style.

This craft, a converted KC 135A tanker jet, has an "enhanced" galley, custom-built furnishings, a distinctive paint scheme, a crew including two flight attendants, and costs us over $600,000 a year to furnish and maintain.

The Strategic Air Command, who denies this jet is a luxury craft, is the bomber leg of our strategic triad. Its purpose is to retaliate in time of nuclear war. Presumably, the military's upper echelon can now do this in relative comfort.

One wonders if the jet is also equipped with last year's famous $640.09 Lockheed toilet seats made for Navy aircraft, which Sen. William Cohen (R-Maine) said "gave a new meaning to the word throne."

Wasteful spending by our nation's defenders is nothing new, as the Defense Contract Audit Agency discovered in May of 1985.

Seven defense contractors were slapped on the wrist for overcharging the Pentagon on such items as duckbill pliers, retailing at the local hardware store for under $9, but on sale last year at Boeing for the incredibly low price of $748 per pair.

The extra $739 was tacked-on overhead for indirect expenses.

Pentagon rules barred reimbursement for company entertainment expenses, but permitted payments for activities that improve "employee morale." Thus, contractors could bill the Pentagon for entertainment expenses by listing them as morale-boosting costs.

Contractors also wrote off a few other extras, including country club fees and the cost of boarding an executive's dog.

Sperry even billed the Defense Department $802,021 for the cost of fighting a Justice Department allegation of overcharges on a weapons contract.

Fie, shame upon these greedy companies, the nation cried! But an atmosphere had been created by the military in which these companies felt comfortable in submitting bills like this. Someone at the Pentagon had to approve these excessive expenditures.

Military retirement is another hotly debated government expenditure, with 1.5 million retirees in the system as of February 5, 1985, receiving pensions equal to 50% of their base salaries. Average age of retirement: 42.

Lawrence J. Korb, an assistant Secretary of Defense, said March 31, 1985, on "Face the Nation" that "pork barrel" waste in military spending costs "the taxpayers at least $10 billion a year... things we don't want, things we don't need, but are in (the budget) to protect vested interest."

And yet Secretary of Defense Caspar Weinberger continues to exaggerate defense spending needs. President Reagan insists on an ever-

'No Pass—No Play' law is fair

Monday, the Supreme Court upheld a controversial Texas law which barred students with failing grades from participating in extracurricular activities.

Students challenged the 'no pass—no play' law, saying it violated their constitutional rights, including their free-speech rights because it would prevent them from participation in the school newspaper or government.

But mainly, the students who challenged the statute were banned from playing on interscholastic athletic teams.

The 1984 law has disqualified temporarily about 15 percent of the varsity football players in Texas' 1,100 school districts.

Generally students who score under 70 in any subject are penalized for a six-week period and unable to participate in any extracurricular activity according to the statute.

We commend the Supreme Court decision in upholding the Texas law and hope other states will adopt similar policies in order to raise the level of education nationally.

Extracurricular activities of any sort should be used incentives for students to achieve academic excellence rather than take precedence over the learning process.

Proposed Budget Cuts Could Hurt Students

President Reagan's fiscal year 1987 budget proposal and the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings act would undoubtedly have a devastating effect on students who want to attend a post-secondary institution in this country. Millions of students rely on federal assistance, either through the Guaranteed Student Loan Program or through various grants, to help pay the high cost of a higher education.

Under Reagan's proposal, these programs would be cut by $3.2 billion from the Fiscal Year 1986 budget.

Under Gramm-Rudman, the state of Georgia could lose up to $20.6 million in higher education funding.

Millions of students from low and middle-income families would not be able to attend a college or university without this federal aid. Three million students may be cut off through reductions in the Guaranteed Student Loan Program alone.

If federal funding is cut to the extent called for in the President's budget or currently projected by the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings law, America will be in serious trouble.

In the future, if these funding cuts are enacted, our higher education system would serve only the upper middle and wealthy classes because those economically below these levels would not be able to afford a higher education.

A. Dallas Martin, Jr., executive director of the National Association of Student Financial Aid Administrators recently said, "If you cut off access to education, it's like eating your seed corn. At some point we all lose. You'll have more people who are unemployed, on public assistance, in prisons, in mental institutions. Believe me, it's cheaper with education."

In addition to the effects that Martin describes, several other adverse situations may come out of substantial higher education funding cuts. For example, the United States

Professors Should Be Required To Give Exams Before Mid-Term

Editor:

This has been on my mind for quite a while and has recently become a concern of mine. At other institutions of higher learning such as Georgia Tech, it is policy that all teachers must give a test grade to all students before mid-term. If they fail to do this they must pass all of their students with a "C" grade or better.

This policy is not designed to help students get at least a "C" in all of their classes. It is designed to give students a chance to decide whether or not to drop a class without penalty. It is fair to assume that if students have at least one grade they have something to base their decision on. In all fairness, if the teacher does not provide this criteria he should not be able to penalize students who were in reality not given a choice of whether or not to drop.

The reason I am so upset is that Georgia Southern does not carry this policy. In two of my three five-hour classes I was not given a test or grade of any sort until after the mid-term so would probably suffer in the global economic battle because there would not be enough educationally-qualified people to fill many important jobs. The unemployment level would more than likely go up while productivity, research and development would suffer. In addition, this country's defense and social welfare systems would probably decline in quality.

BUDGET

If the federal cuts occur, some institutions of higher learning may even be forced to close. In many areas, these schools are a large part of the economic base of the community, and their going under would result in an economically crippling ripple effect.

This dismal picture of the future can be prevented if the American people want to prevent it. At this point, the President's budget is only a proposal, and it will take considerable time for it to become a reality.

Students, their families, and anyone who sees that the drastic reduction of federal aid will have an irreparable effect on our higher education system needs to voice their opinion to our elected leaders now, before Reagan's proposal is passed and it's too late.

A balanced budget is an admirable and much needed goal. But to sacrifice the future of our education system for a balanced budget would be a terrible mistake. A mistake that would haunt our country for years.

I never really had a choice. I just kept the classes and hoped for the best.

I think this policy will place responsibility on the teachers to test and return grades to their students. No teacher wants to be forced to pass everyone especially if they don't deserve it. I feel this is a fair and necessary policy and that Georgia Southern should employ it as soon as possible.

'5th Quarter' to Benefit Whom?

Editor:

What a delight it was to read Ms. Shriver's article about the soon-to-open "5th Quarter" restaurant, to be located high atop the beautiful and world-famous Williams Student Center in Statesboro, Georgia. No longer will we have to trek to Savannah or Atlanta (or Paris for that matter) to purchase a fine gourmet meal. Now we can buy it right here on campus, from the same folks who brought you the internationally-renowned Stuffed Cabbage chez Landrum.

GSC food service is to be commended for so shrewdly parlaying revenue earned by increasing prices and decreasing selection and quality at Sarah's Student Hog Slop, and by denying all the 1-5 and 2-5 meal plan people the Jan. 4 meals for which they had paid, into a sizeable enough nest egg to finance such a winning idea as the "5th Quarter." Kudos also to the Williams Student Center powers-that-be for allowing what Ms. Shiver so aptly calls a "departure from college life" to be located smack dab in the middle of the college. We students wish the "5th Quarter" all the success it richly deserves.

Under the administration's current plan, the U.S. will spend nearly $2 trillion on defense through fiscal 1988, ostensibly to keep pace with Soviet military buildup.

Let's hope the Soviets also indulges in imprudent spending; if not, they may have a slight military advantage—but at least our officers and defense contractors won't be lacking in life's basic comforts during war.

What do a blues singer, a clogger, a harpist, and a black belt in karate have in common?

They have all been recipients of top awards from the largest scholarship organization for women in the country—the Miss America Pageant Foundation.

Over the years pageants have been misjudged by some as all smiles and sequin-covered evening gowns, but former Miss America Preliminary contestants adamantly disagree.

First, let me distinguish between Miss America Pageants and the Miss Tri-County Hog Festival. The whole purpose of these pageants is to further scholarships by awarding financial prizes. Every year over $5 million in scholarships are awarded by the organization.

There are four phases of competition: talent (which counts 50 percent), evening gowns, swimsuit, and perhaps the most overlooked, interview (each of these counting 16.3 per cent).

In the interview contestants are put on the spot for seven minutes while questioned about their opinions on current events and personal goals.

Contrary to popular belief, the questions aren't as simplistic as, "What's your favorite color?", answer—"Blue, because I was color-coded recently and it really goes well with my eyes and hair."

An example might be, "What are your views on Reagan's neutrality stance towards the Philippine election?"

Several of the contestants I talked with agreed these interviews helped prepare them for future job interviews and helped them sharpen their communication skills.

The talent phase often frightens some potential participants because they think you have to be a performing arts major to stand a chance. This simply isn't so; pre-law, pre-medical, business, and education majors have walked away with state titles.

Two examples that come to mind are Becky King, Miss America 1974, who earned her law degree with the scholarship she won, and Honey Castro, recipient of the Allman Medical Scholarship, which is awarded to contestants planning a career in the medical field.

Miss Tattnall County

Some contestants, like me, enter simply because they like to perform. I know the opportunities to sing in Glennville are somewhat limited—the cows don't seem to enjoy my Broadway medley.

So I entered the Miss Tattnall County, won a $1200 scholarship and a chance to compete in the Miss Georgia Pageant in June. Joining me will be the newly crowned Miss Georgia Southern.

Now maybe you'll take a closer look at pageant queens and know there is more than hair spray and bobby pins holding up that crown; there's a sharp mind under there too.

Alpha Phi Omega: A 'Different' Fraternity

By JENNY OLIVER
Staff Writer

What do you get when you cross a boy scout with a fraternity? Answer: Georgia Southern College's new chapter of Alpha Phi Omega.

Student Government president Bobby Jenkins is one of the main pioneers behind getting the organization started. "We need a different type of club on campus," he said, "one with the main function being service. Alpha Phi Omega stresses having a good time while doing worthwhile projects."

Alpha Phi Omega was founded by the Boy Scouts of America about sixty years ago. Although it is an extension of the Eagle Scouts, females and non-scouts are invited to become members. Georgia Southern's former chapter, called Nu Epsilon, folded in 1969. Now, the re-activation process is in effect.

The only requirement for membership in the club is a willingness to serve. "Money is no factor," Bobby reassured. "Dues for a lifetime member are only going to be about $60.00, and we will raise the money for anyone who cannot afford to pay."

The club has four service requirement areas, which must be fulfilled each quarter: self, campus, community, and nation. Alpha Phi Omega is looking for unique and useful ways to begin these projects.

John Glenn, Terry Hart, and Gerald Ford will be contacted and asked to be GSC's honorary members. All three were former Eagle Scouts.

Musical Notes

By Popeye Maloney
Music Critic

In my diligent research I have compiled the best of 1985 in music. O.K., so I don't have anything to write about this week, but don't turn to the sports page yet. Here is the first annual George-Anne list of music for 1985. Rolling Stone does it, the AP and UPI do it all the time, so why not Popeye? To add some dimension to this list (it doesn't have Bruce or Prince or even Madonna in it), here are some groups and artists that don't have an action figure on the toy market and haven't been in a major motion picture:

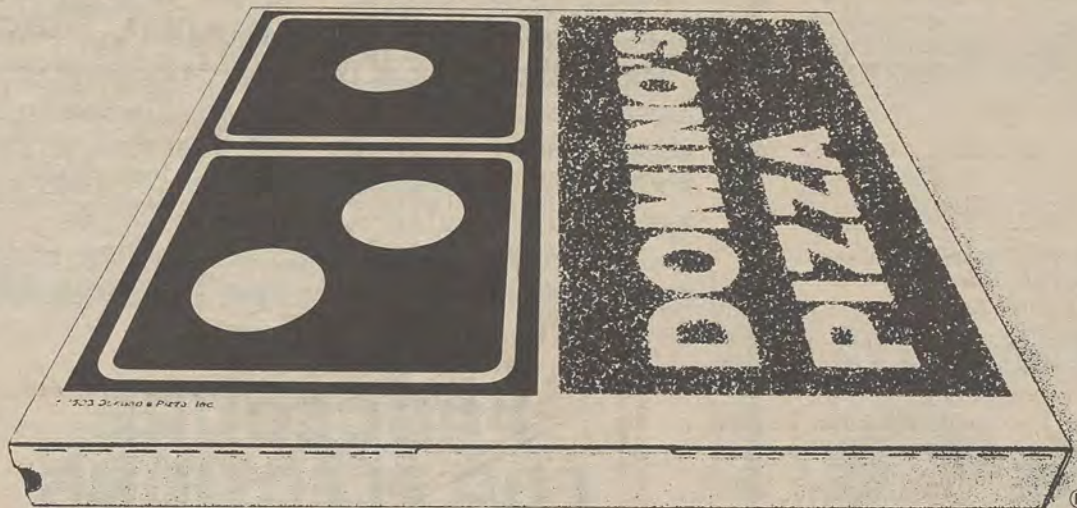

1) The Three O'Clock - This group hasn't received the attention they really deserve (maybe one video on MTV.) For people exploring the latest craze in the music scene psychedelic this group does a good job (better than Prince)

2) Stewart Copeland - Yes, the drummer for the Police didn't get as much fanfare for 'The Rhythmattest' as did Sting on his solo album. Too bad. The Rhythmattest is years ahead of its time, and the subject matter is fascinating.

3) The Smiths - actually, they did get some airplay in some major markets in the states with their '85 release 'Meat is Murder.' They are very big in England, but then again so is Slim Whitman.

There you have it, the list. These artists are well worth your time to check out and add to your record collection. Next week I will have a real review to hand in.

Landrum's Lady

KATHY COTTRELL

Features

Dressed in bright green and smiling thoughtfully, Mary Woods explained why she likes living in Statesboro and working at GSC as Food Service Manager better than her previous job at the University of Michigan.

"People here tend to be more laid back, and the students are friendly."

Woods, a registered dietitian, has been working at GSC since August 19, 1985. Some of her responsibilities include planning weekly menus, scheduling employees, checking food quality, and introducing new menu items.

Comparing the food services at GSC to the University of Michigan, Mrs. Woods says, "For the money, Georgia Southern has much more to offer their students. The staff has pride in the way they prepare and serve their food, and they feel good about their jobs."

As far as her job is concerned, Woods has not encountered any major problems. She did express her opinion however, that the students eating in Landrum should make more of an effort to put their empty trays on the conveyor belt! "This is only a minor problem, but it does affect the students directly. If the college has to hire more people in Landrum to clean up, then the students will end up paying for it out of their tuition."

Moving from Ann Arbor, Michigan to Statesboro has been quite a change for Mary Woods and her family. She enjoys the warm weather in the South and feels it to be the major adjustment.

"Statesboro has many cultural and recreational services to offer. Living in a small college town will also give my two daughters many educational opportunities," she explained.

For Woods, the ultimate goal would be to get the menu in Landrum computerized, and this is already in the budget within the next three years.

"Here in Landrum, we want the students to feel as if it is their kitchen away from home, and we try to please most of the people most of the time!"

Mary Woods, GSC's New Dietitian.

Newton Sparks GSC Past Houston Baptist

By DON WEBB
Sports Writer

The GSC Eagles used an aggressive defense to jump out to a 30-21 halftime lead, then held on down the stretch to record a 62-49 TAAC win over Houston Baptist last Thursday night. The victory was especially gratifying for Coach Frank Kerns, because it marked the first time since he took over the program that an Eagle squad has returned from Houston with a win.

Kerns remarked after the game, "I had a little feeling we might give a good show. The kids gutted it out and we got a really good effort by a lot of people."

Two Eagles who responded with major efforts were Brian Newton and Ben Bailey. Bailey provided the team with some key outside shooting in the second half and helped to open up the middle for the team's inside offense. Newton poured in 21 points, 14 of them coming in the second half to hold off the Huskies' charge.

In the first half the Huskies had to battle a stingy GSC 3-2 zone defense that limited the home team to a 23.9 shooting percentage from the field. In the second half, Southern had to hold off several rallies by Houston Baptist, the last one coming midway through the half. After Houston's Fred Goporo hit a short jumper in the lane to bring his team within three at 42-39, GSC responded with consecutive baskets by Fred Jones and Michael Stokes.

Down the stretch, the Eagles played poised basketball as they nailed down the victory with free throws. Said Kerns, "Tonight was the first time we protected a lead...this was a win we really needed."

Ben Bailey—GSC's only senior—added 14 points, and he and Newton each pulled down 8 rebounds to lead the Eagles in that department.

Eagles Win Series With Dolphins

By CHRIS NAIL
Sports Editor

The GSC Eagles bounced back from their disappointing series with Western Carolina as they took 2-out-of-3 games from Jacksonville University on February 18th and 19th.

Coach Jack Stallings' squad split a doubleheader with the Dolphins on Tuesday (GSC 10 - JU 3 and JU 9 - GSC 7) and took the rubber game on Wednesday, 10-6, in a contest that produced a combined total of 13 errors.

"I don't know what you can say about 13 errors" (5 by GSC) Stallings commented afterwards. "A game like this was probably good for the fans. There was plenty of action, but a lot of it was bad action."

The Wednesday game looked at first as if it were going to be the Kevin Meier show as the big righthander threw 5 2/3 innings of no-hit ball against the Dolphins, while his teammates put 6 runs on the scoreboard. However, Jacksonville reached Meier for 3 runs in the seventh, and added 3 more in the eighth off Meier and reliever Chip Hoffman to tie the game at 6.

GSC pushed 4 runs across the plate - with the help of 3 Dolphin errors and a 2-run single by Dan Gealy - in the bottom of the eighth and Hoffman shut JU down in the ninth to give the Eagles the win.

Hoffman was the winning pitcher and Craig Cooper and Jim Cunningham (along with Gealy) were the offensive heroes. Cooper had 2 doubles and 3 RBI's, and Cunningham hit his second home run of the season.

Shortstop Jeff Shireman's grand slam homerun led a 14-hit attack in the first game of Tuesday's twinbill. Craig Cooper led GSC with 3 hits, while Shireman, Cunningham, Greg McMullen and Greg Goodermote each had 2 hits. One of McMullen's hits was his second homer of the season. Scott Luman pitched 6 innings - giving up just 5 hits - to record his second victory.

The second game of the day saw a GSC rally over the last two innings fall short, as the Eagles cut a 9-3 deficit to 9-7.

Tennis Team Still Undefeated

By REINER BECKER
Sports Writer

The Georgia Southern men's tennis team won both their matches this past weekend at home as they downed Florida Junior College, 8-1, on Saturday, and Charleston College, 7-2, on Sunday.

Against FJC, an exhibition match, east 2-set wins were scored in singles play by No. 2 seed Ian Fudalla, No. 3 Ryan Blake, No. 4 Michael Rice, and No. 5 Chris de Marta. No. 1 seed Gary Meanchos made a comeback to defeat his opponent in three sets, while freshman Wagner Periquive lost at No. 6.

In doubles, the teams of Meanchos/Rice at No. 1, Becker/Fudalla at No. 2, and Belker/de Marta at No. 3 all won.

On Sunday against Charleston, GSC won 4 out of 6 singles, losing just at No. 4 (Rice) and No. 6 (Periquive). Blake at the No. 1 spot added another win to his outstanding season.

The two victories raised GSC's unofficial record to 5-0 of the season, while their official record stands at 3-0 as two of the wins were in exhibition matches (both against FJC).

Ladies Are on Win Streak

By ANTHONY DASHER
Assistant Sports Editor

After wins over Stetson and Mercer last week, the GSC Lady Eagles had hoped to use Saturday's game with Clark College as a tuneup for next week's New South Women's Athletic Conference Tournament. But unfortunately the game was forfeited to GSC after Clark arrived 30 minutes late for the scheduled 7:30 tip-off.

Although there is a chance the game could be rescheduled, it is doubtful because of their various NCAA rules concerning forfeits.

"I was disappointed that we didn't get to play since we really needed to," stated coach Jeannie Milling. "We've had a little too long off between games."

Against Mercer last Thursday in Macon, the Lady Eagles were clicking on all cylinders as they shot 64.1 percent from the field and rolled by the Teddy Bears 111-91.

Sharon Thomas paced the Lady Eagles attack with 23 points. Regina Days and Julia Krebs chipped in 22 points apiece while Phyllette Blake added 20.

The game against Stetson, February 17th was never in doubt as GSC ramblbed by the Lady Hatters 92-78.

Thomas lead four GSC players in double figures with 25 points. Days, who still leads the nation in field goal percentage, scored 17 points despite playing only 14 minutes due to her injured ankle.

GSC, whose record stands at 11-12 pending the result of the Clark forfeit, and 5-4 in the New South Conference, will play Florida A&M tomorrow night in Tallahassee in their final regular season game. They will compete in the conference tournament to be held March 6-8, also in Tallahassee.

NOTE: Regina Days was named the Atlanta Journal-Constitution college player of the week for her performances against Stetson and Mercer. Days averaged 19.5 points per game and 9.3 rebounds, despite playing only 13 minutes against Stetson because of a nagging ankle injury. Days made 16-19 field goal attempts in the two games and still leads the nation in FG percent. Among those Days nudged out for the honor was her own teammate Sharon Thomas, who averaged 24 ppg. last week.

The GSC rugby team is off to a great start with a 4-0 record and No. 2 ranking behind Georgia Tech among Georgia schools. GSC will host Auburn this Saturday at 2 p.m. on Oxford Field.

EXCELLENT WAGES and INCENTIVES

GSC Faces Samford in TAAC Playoffs

By CHRIS NAIL
Sports Editor

Coach Frank Kerns and his GSC Eagles will travel to Birmingham, Alabama this weekend to take on the Samford Bulldogs in the opening round of the Trans America Athletic Conference playoffs Saturday.

GSC has played much better of late as Kerns has shuffled his starting lineup after a humiliating loss at home to Arkansas Little-Rock on Feb. 13. The starters now usually consist of five of the following seven: Fred Jones, Jeff Sanders, Brian Newton, Willis Holliday, Ben Bailey, Anthony Forrest, and Michael Stokes. The two who don't start usually see almost as much playing time as the other five. Kerns feels this combination has his team playing its best basketball of the season.

"We're playing good now," Kerns said, "probably better than we have most of the year in certain areas. We're playing with more intensity and using better judgement."

The Bulldogs have already defeated GSC twice this year (73-72 in Birmingham, 54-52 in Statesboro), and Kerns knows it will take a strong effort for his Eagles to win.

"They're very experienced," Kerns said. "They play very smart. You take away one thing from them and they usually do something else. We'll have to handle their changing defenses, and we'll have to rebound well. I think we'll be prepared."

If GSC were to defeat the Bulldogs they would then travel to Little Rock, Arkansas the following weekend for the TAAC "Final Four." The winner of the tournament receives an automatic bid to the NCAA playoffs.

Other opening round matchups this weekend include: GA State at Arkansas Little-Rock, Centenary at Houston Baptist, and Mercer at Hardin-Simmons.

The Eagles won last year's regular season TAAC crown, but then lost to Little Rock in the tourney (67-65) in one of the wildest games ever viewed at Hanner Fieldhouse. In '83 GSC won the tournament, and earned their first ever trip to the NCAA playoffs.

Eagles Drop Two Out of Three to Clemson

Mark Biegert's two out, 10th inning single drove in the go-ahead runs as the Clemson Tigers edged the GSC Eagles 12-10 Sunday afternoon at J.I. Clements Stadium.

Clemson, which took the series two games to one, won on Saturday by the score of 12-9 while GSC won Friday 9-3.

For coach Jack Stallings, Sunday's game was a repeat of earlier contests as the Eagles couldn't get the key hit, although they had what Stallings called "the right people at the plate."

One bright spot for the Eagles was switch hitting shortstop Jeff Shireman who demonstrated his power by blasting two home runs, one from each side of the plate. Craig Cooper also homered for the Eagles. Freshman Chip Hoffman took the loss in relief.

Like Sunday, Saturday's game was another slugfest as the Tigers opened up a seven run lead in the fourth inning only to have the Eagles battle back with eight runs of their own, the key blow being Dan Gealy's grand-slam homer.

However three Clemson runs in the sixth inning sealed GSC's fate. Keith Richardson was saddled with the loss in relief after starter Scott Luman was given an early shower after giving up the Tigers first seven runs.

Friday's game was a different story as the Eagles pounded the Tigers 9-3 despite losing right fielder Mike Shepherd to a knee injury.

The Eagles scored two runs in the first inning on a two-run homer by Shepherd who dislocated a knee cap on the swing and had to be pinch run for.

"It scared me when I saw my cap on the other side of my knee," Shepherd later commented, "Right now it's a day to day thing on when I'll play."

Cooper had another big day for GSC as he connected for two home runs good for five RBIs.

However pitching was the big story and Stallings was extremely pleased with Billy Brooks who pitched 8 1/3 strong innings to pick up his first win of the year. "Brooks pitched extremely well," the veteran coach stated. "He got tired in the ninth inning but that's going to happen early in the season."

The Eagles, who played host to defending ACC champions Georgia Tech last Monday and Tuesday, travel to Deland Florida tomorrow for a three-game set with Stetson before returning home Sunday to host the annual Hall of Fame Tournament. Teams participating in the event are GSC, Ball State, William and Mary, and Eastern Michigan.

Cowboy Rally in Second Half Downs GSC

In a hard-fought contest in Abilene, Texas last Saturday night, the GSC Eagles lost to the Hardin-Simmons Cowboys, 48-46. In the process the Eagles lost the chance to host a first-round TAAC playoff game this weekend. GSC will now have to travel to Birmingham, Alabama to take on the Samford Bulldogs Saturday night.

Despite the loss to Hardin-Simmons, Coach Frank Kerns felt his team played well.

"It was a hard-fought game that could have gone either way," Kerns said, adding that he was proud of his team's efforts.

Both teams played a tenacious first half as the Eagles led at intermission, 24-21. GSC then opened up a 28-21 lead to begin the second half, but saw the lead quickly evaporate as the Cowboys ran off a 15-2 streak to take a 36-30 lead. GSC never regained the lead, but did manage to tie the score at 40 with 5:16 left, and the game stayed close the rest of the way.

With the score 47-46 in favor of the Cowboys, the Eagles attempted to take the lead on a shot by Ben Bailey. However, Bailey missed the shot and Hardin-Simmons rebounded with just a few seconds left on the clock. Then in a freakish turn of events the Eagles were called for a foul, but no one, including the official timekeeper, heard the referee's whistle, as the last five seconds ran off the clock. After an official's meeting two seconds were put back on the clock. Hardin-Simmons went to the free throw line and made the first shot, but missed the second. GSC rebounded the miss, but a desperation shot by Anthony Forrest at the buzzer fell short, leaving GSC with a 15-11 record—6-8 in the TAAC.

Willis Holliday and Brian Newton led GSC in scoring with 12 points each, while Fred Jones and Ben Bailey both had 10. Jeff Sanders led in rebounding with 11, but missed all four of his field goal attempts as he failed to score. Michael Stokes ran the Eagle offense effectively as he handed out 10 assists.

GSC closed out its regular season Tuesday night at Augusta College.
