Physicist to speak on decline of education

By Clint Rushing

News Editor

An outspoken critic of the decline of science and math in the classrooms of the United States, Sidney Topol, will address a luncheon audience of civic clubs and teachers at GSC on Monday, April 17th.

Mr. Topol's address is sponsored by the Statesboro Rotary Club, whose members think his message is so pressing that they have invited school officials, representatives from school foundations, and other civic clubs to hear the address.

Mr. Topol speaks on facts which, according to a story which ran in the Boston Globe, show that the United States is trailing other nations in math and science literacy; hence, the advantage the United States enjoys in the world marketplace is deteriorating. Among the facts mentioned in the article: A recent international study ranked American students last in math science skills among 12 nations. The math and science standards of high schools in the U.S. are far below those of Japan, the Soviet Union, and many other European nations. Also, the population of the U.S. has grown by 50 million since 1957, but the pool of qualified math and science teachers has declined during the last decade after increasing during the 1960's and early 70's. And earlier this year, the U.S. was displaced as the number one provider of foreign aid. Japan, using the enormous budget surpluses it built upon its technological prowess, has assumed that role.

Mr. Topol has quite a long list of credentials to his name. Among his many achievements and awards are, his reception of the 1989 EIA Medal of Honor, the highest award in the

GSC's SOAR team heads to workshop

By Clint Rushing

News Editor

The new GSC SOAR team is scheduled to compete in the Southern Region Orientation Workshop slated for this weekend at the University of Tennessee at Knoxville.

The team, which serves as the "welcome committee" for all incoming freshmen and transfer students, will perform the song and skit routines which will be used for summer orientation.

According to Michele McManus, director of the group, "The team will have the opportunity at SROW to gain experience performing in front of large groups and will also have the chance to interact with orientation teams from other colleges."

The skit, whose purpose is to help the new students to become better acquainted with life at GSC, is centered around the theme of "Mission Impossible". The song and dance is a medley of songs from the Beach Boys, including "California Girls" and "Wipeout".

SOAR, which stands for Southern's Orientation-Advisement-Registration, is responsible for coordinating 10 orientation sessions during the summer for students coming to GSC in the fall.

Attending the workshop will be: Anthony and Paul Abbott, Waycross; Christi Ambrose, Forsyth; Jerilyn Binkley, Hinesville; Leslie Bishop, Covington; Jennifer Cooper, Quitman; Jennifer Fisher, Stone Mountain; Joe Flanders, Midville; Stacey Gray, Fayetteville.

Also attending are Michael Jones, Jonesboro; Tony Kemp, Metter; Tom McLean, Statesboro; Natasha Newberry, Statesboro; Kristy Rodriguez, Marietta; Kim Strickland, Statesboro.

Other attendees include Wendy Taratoot, Atlanta; Tammy Wade, Columbus; and Jay Martin Wildes, LaGrange. Also, Tonya Denson from Jacksonville, Florida and Teresa Stough from Dillsburg, Pennsylvania.

According to McManus, "Perhaps no other group of Southern students will have the impact on new students that the SOAR team does. SROW enables the team to have a chance to work together before the actual summer orientations start."

'Passover' celebrates Jews' flight from Egypt

By Malea Shved

Staff Writer

Spring is here and it's the time to celebrate the liberation of Israel from slavery in Egypt over 3,000 years ago. The leader was Moses, the people were the Israelites, and the holiday is Passover.

According to Biblical law, Passover is determined by the Jewish lunar calendar, and begins on the eve of the fifteenth day of the month of Nisan. The English date varies from year to year, falling in March or April.

Jewish law forbids Jews to consume or possess any edible fermented grain products (chometz) or related foods. Matzoh is commonly eaten at this time. It is a crisp, flat, unleavened bread, made of flour and

Off-campus housing service established

By Clint Rushing

News Editor

GSC officials have established an off-campus housing service for the 1989-90 school term. Due to the concern over student/resident issues such as block parties, the service has been implemented to serve as a liaison between the residents of Statesboro and GSC students living off-campus.

According to Shane Cobb, Editor of the GSC yearbook who will be working for the service, "The service was established to help students be better neighbors; we want to foster good relations between the student community and the permanent Statesboro residents."

Operating under the direction of Susan Nelson of the Special Programs Office in the Division of Student Affairs, the organization will employ GSC students to encourage a healthy relationship between GSC students and the Statesboro community.

The service will be responsible for familiarizing incoming freshmen who will be living off-campus with problems other students have had in the past such as litter, noisy gatherings, and damage to public and private property. The students will, of course, be expected to abide by local ordinances, which will be discussed in a brochure to be distributed by the organization. The organization is also going to issue a periodic newsletter to keep in contact with the students.

A panel of students, landlords, and other property owners will be organized also, to examine problems and cooperate in the search for solutions to the most prevalent problems concerning the students and community as a team.

The housing service will aid students in the legal aspect of renting an apartment or house and provide them with a forum if the students feel they are

by Jacques de Broekert
Features Editor

A instructional class is being offered for people planning to work at a pool this summer. For those of you who thought that your WSI certification was going to get you through yet another summer, think again.

The Red Cross has instituted a revision of the Water Safety Instructor, Advanced Lifesaving, Lifeguard Training and Lifeguard Training Instructor Certifications that will make other certifications obsolete by 1990.

The class that is being offered is a WSI-NM crossover class for those people that are currently holding a WSI. This class will enable participants to update their WSI to the new WSI-NM allowing certificate holders to teach all swimming classes as well as to teach Lifeguard Training - New Material and to be a certified lifeguard.

The class will be taught in two phases. Both sections can be taken or just one.

Phase I: Allows WSI's, Basic Swimming Instructors and Lifeguard Training Instructors to complete a training program in order to be authorized in the new programs. Training must be completed by Dec. 31, 1990. After Phase I is completed the student will receive the WSI-NM (indicating new material) certification.

Phase II: All instructors completing Phase I who also hold current basic certification in Advanced Lifesaving, Lifeguard Training, or are Lifeguard Training Instructors may take this training to become certified to teach the new Lifeguard Training course. A currently authorized WSI may also participate in Phase II, provided that they have taught an Advanced Lifesaving course within the past two years. Upon completion of Phase II the students will receive the Lifeguard Training Instructor - NM certification.

During the implementation period only instructors who are participating in the updated training that are unable to complete the timed events within the minimum times (25 yard crawl, 10 lb brick carry, etc.) may be authorized as LGI's, provided they can successfully demonstrate the necessary skills. These individuals will NOT receive the Lifeguard Training certification. This procedure will permit a larger pool of instructors to implement the program.

It must be understood that instructors who do not hold a current basic certificate are not qualified to provide lifeguarding services in those locations which require a basic Lifeguard Training Certificate.

In other words if you do not take this course and you have a WSI but not a WSI LGTI-NM, you will not be able to teach swimming or lifeguarding or be a lifeguard starting January 1, 1990. Most likely this summer you will be required to have a WSI LGTI-NM in order to work.

Classes dates are April 24, 25, 28, May 1, 2, 4 from 7-10 pm in the Hanner Pool and the cost is $50 for Phase I, $70 for Phase I and II.

A WSI-NM class is also being offered starting on May 8 for four weeks M-T-TH from 7-10 pm in the Hanner Pool and the cost is $75. For more information contact Coach Buddy Floyd at 681-5740 or Jacques de Broekert at 489-8870.

Mister Fantasy: Chapter One

This week is the first entry of a new advice column that you the students can write to for advice on anything that is troubling you. Your letters will be answered each week by yours truly, Mr. Fantasy. All wisdom passed on to you is guaranteed to get some kind of reaction. So, if you have a problem write to me, Mr. Fantasy, in care of the George-Anne at LB 8001.

Dear Mr. Fantasy, I can't seem to find a date. Every time I see a guy I like, he seems to never get around to asking me out. I am not ugly, fat or stupid. I'm so sick and tired of spending my Thursdays alone. What should I do? Lonely

Dear Lonely, You have asked the right guy. I've seen you on campus and you are a babe, that's for sure. I think the problem is that you look too good. Great looking girls always scare guys away. Mess up the hair, put on too much make-up, act dumb, no matter how smart you are. In general try to look like all the other girls on campus instead of the attractive smart girl you are now. Or call me Mr. Fantasy, at 681-LOVE for your fantasy date.

Dear Mr. Fantasy, I am sleeping with my girl friend's best friend. My girl friend doesn't know about it yet, but if I stop seeing her friend, she says that she'll tell my girl friend. all about us. Help? Sleepless and Exhausted

Dear Sleepless and Exhausted, Your problem is a big one and every guy's dream. First you have to do something quick. This is all your fault so it's up to you to change the situation. You can only have one, and it sounds like you should stay with your girl friend. This other girl sounds like a fruitcake. Tell your girl friend about this and hope for the best.

"I can't drive 55"

65 mile an hour speed limit judged necessary

The somewhat recent increase in the speed limit from 55 miles an hour to 65 on interstate highways has been a smashing success. The increase has made travel on our highways quicker and has not contributed markedly to the number or severity of automotive fatalities.

While many drivers feel that the increase has given them license to drive 75 miles an hour instead of 65, the law actually seems to decrease the problematic situations posed by the slower drivers on the interstates as the flow of traffic seems more organized and orderly.

It has been proven that the majority of accidents, fatal or otherwise, occur on the side roads and on the smaller state highways. Interstate traffic tends to move at a more even pace without the threat of animals, tractors and other impeding objects interrupting the smooth flow of traffic.

We applaud our state's legislature and the national representatives for implementing the 65 mile an hour speed limit. Fifty-five miles an hour is just too slow a speed to handle the growing numbers of automobiles that clog our interstates and make cross state travel such a snarled, frustrating affair.

Bulloch County's liquor laws benefit few residents

Have you ever asked yourself why there is an anti-liquor law in Bulloch County?

There are a variety of theories floating about on the subject (many incorrect) such as the area is too conservative, or college officials advocate the law but there exist few good reasons for county-wide liquor prohibition, i.e., from a business perspective.

If the anti-liquor law was repealed, think of the business opportunities the county could supply for the area. Think of the many people who would benefit if more jobs were created, and think of the accumulated wealth from which the county and its people would also benefit.

Now, with the existing law, think of who benefits.

The two businessmen who, for obvious reasons, profit from the existing law are Sammy Johnson and Landrum Hodges, owners of the County Line Package Store, the closest liquor store to Bulloch County.

But, what other businesses benefit from the absence of this prohibited substance?

From the editor's desk

Cathy McNamara

A survey of restaurants and beer and wine retail stores in the area revealed few people find the law to their advantage.

Although the County Line would lose business, Johnson said he is supportive of abolishing the liquor law. Johnson also owns Johnson's Minit Mart.

Managers of Dingus Magees, Bill's Place, Dixie Food, Southside Beverage, Cork and Bottle, Boyd's Pit BBQ, Archibald's, Bash Riprock's, Pizza Inn, Pizza Hut and Peking Duck said their business would definitely benefit if the liquor law was repealed.

Managers of Allen's, Shoney's, Bunny's said their businesses would not benefit because they do not sell alcohol at all.

Managers of RJ's Steakery and Craig's Deli also said it would not benefit their businesses, but they said they think the county would benefit as a whole for two reasons:

1. Bulloch County would receive the tax revenue from alcohol sales rather than surrounding counties, such as Candler County.

2. Other businesses would benefit, and new liquor stores would create new wealth and employment.

In addition, several of the managers were interested in the opportunities liquor sales would bring. Boyd's manager David Colley said if the liquor law was repealed, "I'd open up a liquor store right next to the restaurant."

So once again, I ask, why is there an anti-liquor law in Bulloch County if most businesses and area business people support liquor sales?

Ask the registered voters.

According to a city hall spokesperson, the last election on repealing the liquor law was a city election on August 17, 1976.

That's amazing.

Over 80 percent of the restaurants and convenience store managers surveyed opposed the law, yet it's still intact.

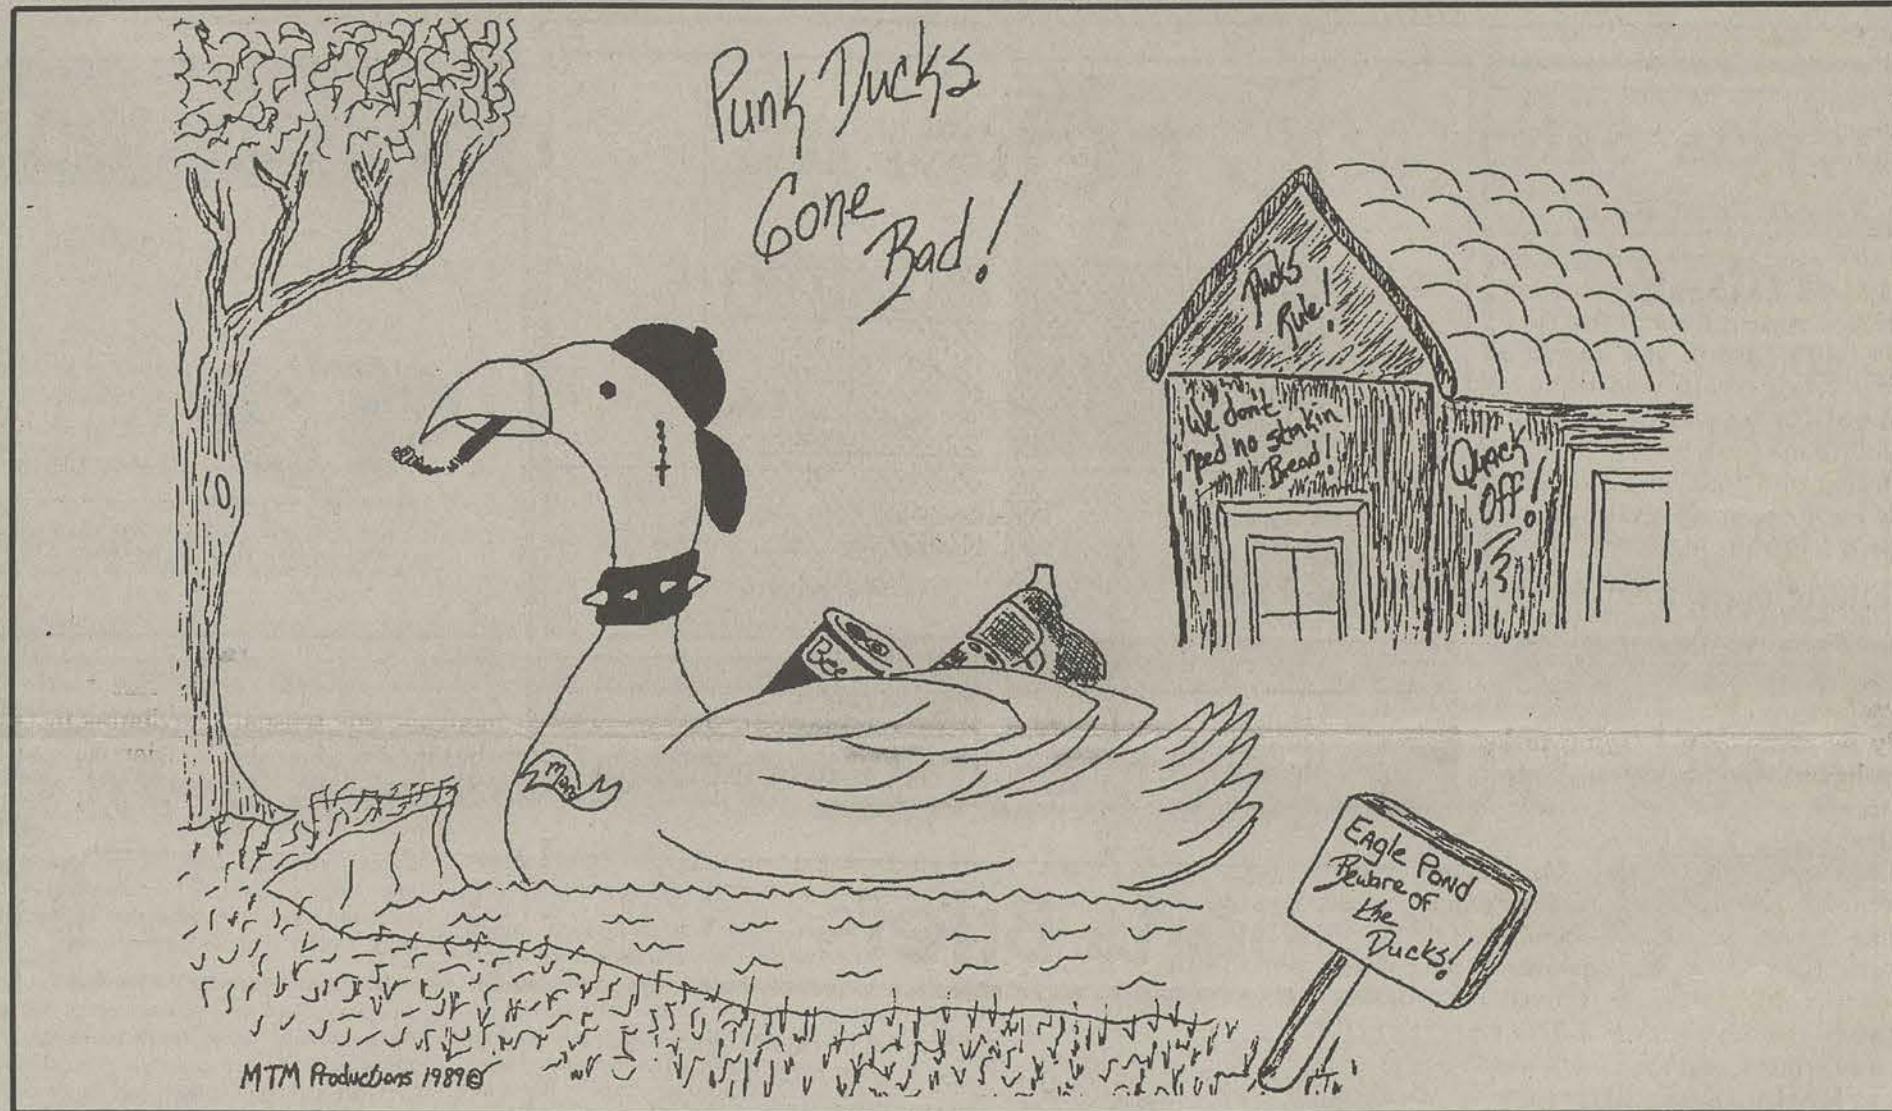

According to County Commissioner Robert Cox, it is not the responsibility of the commission to propose a referendum, but rather it is up to the registered voters in the county.

All you need is 33 percent of the registered voters in the county to sign a petition proposing a referendum. That's approximately 5,000 signatures of the 15,000 qualified voters out of a county of 38,000 residents.

Think of the opportunities liquor sales would create for in-town businesses. Think of the out-of-town business the county would attract. And, think of the business and revenue the county is losing because of this law which so few businesses support.

Now, think of signing a starting a petition.

And, that's a little food for thought.

Various types of discrimination apparent in GSC athletics

Editor,

Okay, enough is enough! I am a GSC alumni who returns frequently to spectate GSC athletics. This year I have frequented many football and basketball games. Lately, I have really noticed the extremes the administration has gone to in order to produce a "select" crew of athletes.

One extreme is the women's basketball coach. The pressure originating from administration has resulted in a "holier than thou" woman who preaches religion, slaps cups out of her players hands, and whistles obnoxiously and rudely. She whistles as if her players were a pack of dogs who do not understand human communication. "Are you a sinner" is a statement that comes directly off her recruitment pamphlet. I fail to see where this is any kind of statement on which to build a college basketball philosophy or team.

After speaking with a couple of the players, I found out that mandatory meetings had to be attended by all players. These mandatory meetings are devotionals and "bible study." Watch out coach, watch out GSC. Remember-Freedom of religion.

Another extreme I've seen is in women's softball. I have heard from members of GSC's staff and others that the women's softball coach has to be very selective. Women who are interested in playing softball at GSC have to send a recent photo or a video tape of herself. Word is (straight from the man's mouth) that ".....the girl can't look like a queer." What about the stocky girl or the athletically built girl who is not queer? More than likely, she will not get an opportunity to play at GSC or even to try out. GSC has enough trouble recruiting top-notch fast pitch players without having to be concerned whether they look queer.

Sure appearance is important. It is important to the school, the team, and the players. The baseball coach wants his players clean shaven and clean cut. But then again think about the football player most people would consider big and fat. If he does his part on the team, no one really cares about the fact that he's fat or to put it nicely, overweight. Or how about the physical education graduate assistant who was extremely

Media inaccurately depicts all guns as crime weapons

Dear Editor,

Recently the news media has caused a lot of hype about "assault weapons." The headlines scream that "it fires 650 rounds in one minute" and most readers think that is bad because they don't know what that means. I am a gun owner and have been for years. I have carried guns in my work as a Military Policeman and I was a unit armorer in the Army. I was brought up around guns and I still continue to target shoot now. I believe I am qualified to explain some of these inaccuracies found in the recent news media stories.

This whole topic was brought on by the tragic events in Stockton, CA. In review, a drifter who apparently hated orientals shot up in a schoolyard and killed five oriental children. Then the media heard about the AK-47 used, a Russian designed rifle that was used against us in Vietnam. And the feeding frenzy began. "It fires 650 rounds a minute" they said. That means that if an unlimited number of cartridges were available, it would chamber and fire 650 of them in one minute. I have fired an AK-47. It has a magazine that holds only 30 rounds. If it did have 650 rounds to shoot in one minute, by about round number seven it would be firing straight up in the air. Six hundred and fifty rounds of cartridges would weigh almost eighty (80) pounds. Not to mention that the gun would be too hot to hold in your hands by then and the barrel would probably melt by round 350. Now you can see how misleading the above statement is.

Next headline was "it is easily converted to full automatic." I can convert my car into a tank using steel plates too, does that mean we outlaw all cars? Of course not. It is just more media hype to toss on the pile.

Another much used headline is "anyone off the street can come into a store and buy a fully automatic weapon." Automatic weapon purchased are very strictly controlled by the government. People who want to own one are very strictly checked. What the media don't tell you is that of the 192,633 legal, fully automatic weapons owned by licensed people in the United States, not one has ever been used in the commission of a crime. NOT ONE.

Another misleading statement by the media is that "the mere presence of a gun will cause violence." That is garbage. The problem is that many of the people who use guns in "the heat of passion" just don't know or don't care about what will happen if they use that gun. They have no respect for other human life. Some even say that is the real problem with today's society.

The other argument against assault weapons is that the drug gangs are using them. The killing in LA and DC is bad. But other things could be done about the situation. The police there are handcuffed by the courts. The police arrest someone and later that day they are back out on the streets. God forbid if the

THE SECOND COMING OF brother jim?

I was right in the midst of creating an article about the letter-to-the-editor written by Christopher Leverett, whose theological piece criticizes Pi Kap and the fraternity-sorority system itself, when a co-worker of mine informed me that Chris was down stairs in Sarah's eating his dinner. I decided to make the most of the opportunity and venture down to ask the Vice President of the GSC Bible Study some questions.

The first question I asked him was a very basic question expecting an open response, and boy did I get one. Why did you write the letter?

"Because God told me to write. He spoke to my spirit that it was time for the Church to stand up and set forth a standard. I was not trying to belittle or hurt anybody, but the Word is there-take it as it stands."

Pretty heavy stuff huh? But wait, there's more.

"Like with brother jim (I refuse to capitalize his name), he was very harsh. The prophets in the Bible were very harsh. His (brother jim) whole message was 'wake up and walk in the right direction'."

Well, thank you for enlightening us with that direct message from God. Now, could you possibly tell us if Oral Roberts is going to die if we don't send him our money? Is he involved in any of this? Has Jimmy Swaggart given himself a hand with anything lately or should we read the next Penthouse?

By no means am I trying to be sacrilegious, and I hope that I haven't thus far.

The timeliness of Chris' letter is not his fault. The George Anne received his scripture lesson before spring break, so the Pi Kap-Van Tassell episode at the basketball game was still in the papers. Unfortunately, the junk mail from Leverett was printed, and that was a very wrong decision. Of course, this is only my opinion obviously not shared by our dear editor. If this makes it to print, I will be very surprised.

First of all, whether or not the fraternity is living up to the standards of God is up to Pi Kap and God, not the Vice President of the Good News Bible sensory board. If the fraternities and sororities on campus base their beliefs on Christian ideals that is their choice. If they do not walk as you or I may think Jesus would have walked, then that is totally up to them to judge, not us. If you or I were in the fraternity then we could feel free to comment or to pass judgment because we are a part of the group.

YE WITHOUT SIN, CAST THE FIRST STONE

Secondly, even though Mr. Leverett decided to pack his letter full of scriptures does not make him any more knowledgeable or sanctified than anyone else. Even the devil himself knows the scriptures of the Bible.

Even though, I do not agree with Chris' letter (not in the least bit), I more strongly disagree with it even being printed in the first place. There is no need for such garbage of self-religious promotion on the pages of our college paper. The Pi Kap-Van Tassell crap has already been stepped in, and it is not up to The George Anne or a brother jim worshiper to rub it into the carpet of our fraternities' (sororities') reputation.

I hope that Leverett's letter does not hurt the reputation or the efforts of some of the other Christian organizations on campus. A few that come to mind are the Fellowship of Christian Athletes (FCA), the Wesley House and the Baptist Student Union (BSU). These are strong groups with a lot of support and I hope their efforts aren't made more difficult because of negative reactions from someone who decided that they could cast the first stone.

George Smith brings strength to coaching

By Sandy Hanberry
Sports Writer

George Smith has arrived on the GSC sports scene. He comes here from South Carolina and holds the position of head strength and conditioning coach.

As strength and conditioning coach, Smith's duties include presiding over the athletic weight training facility and helping make GSC athletes stronger, faster and less prone to injury.

George arrived at GSC prior to spring quarter and has already worked with several athletic teams and prepared workout schedules for them. His dedication to weight training and his knowledge of how lifting can aid in sport activities mark him as a true professional.

George started lifting when he was 12 and by age 14 he was involved in powerlifting competitions. At ages 18 and 19 he won two national powerlifting championships. During this period he set a teenage record in the deadlift of 745 pounds, which stood for several years before being broken.

His lifting continued through his collegiate football days at South Carolina. While at USC, he took time to build and define his body.

In 1984 George underwent reconstructive surgery on his right knee. The surgery was made necessary because years of powerlifting and three years of football had aggravated a little league baseball injury and caused the knee's structure to deteriorate.

After a program of self rehabilitation he took the job as assistant strength coach at USC, where he spent three years performing his duties and working on a bodybuilding career. He won Mr. Junior South Carolina in 1986 and Mr. USC in 1987.

After his years at USC, George took a job at a four-year high school in South Carolina, where he served as head strength coach for two years.

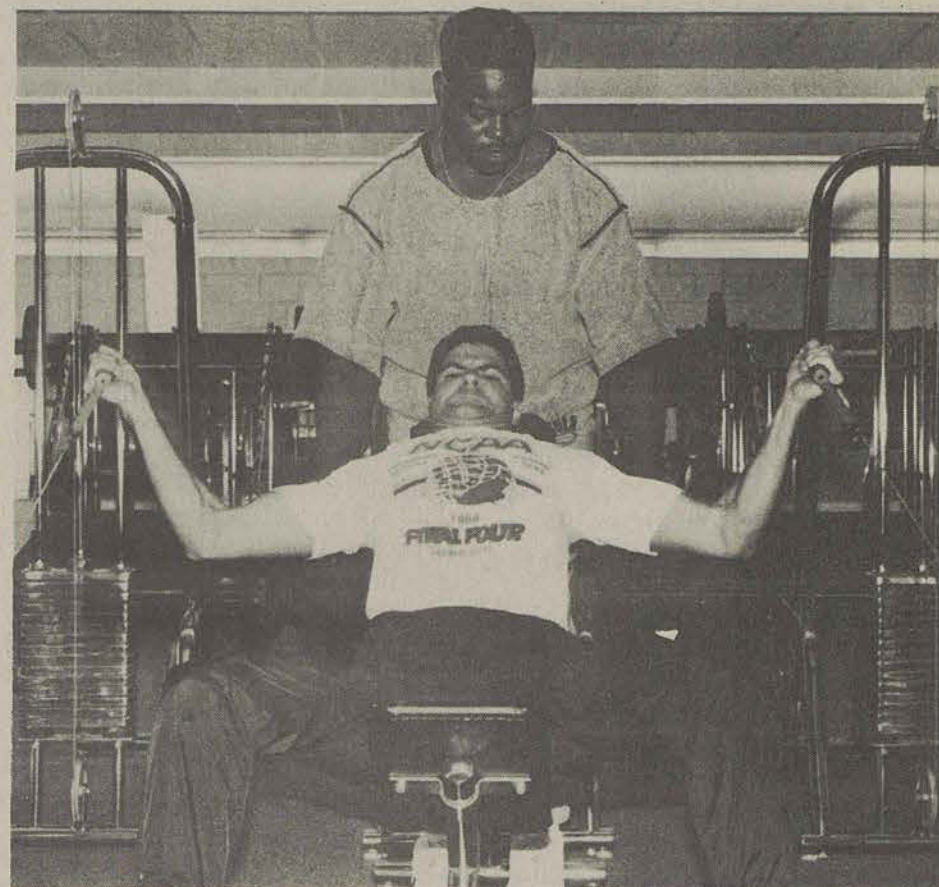

George comes to GSC to give athletes more professional and structured weight training. Prior to his arrival it was the team coaches' responsibility to set up training programs for their athletes. Smith's job relieves the coaches of these duties and allows them to concentrate more fully on their individual sports.

George's objectives are to teach athletes why weight training is important and to teach discipline that can be carried onto the field. He said the reasons athletes train are to cut down on injuries, to speed up recovery of injuries and to attain peak performance.

Smith believes the expertise he brings to GSC will help accomplish these objectives. He also hopes to help the athletes reach their peak performance by instituting a program which he calls the Iron Eagle, which is designed to inspire athletes to strive for a degree of lifting excellence.

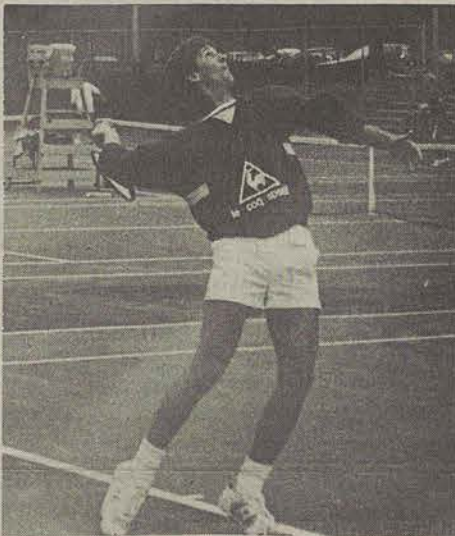

Coach Smith holds a bachelors degree in Criminology and a masters in Education. George also teaches three weight training classes per

GSC netters friendships result in 10-6 record

The 1989 GSC men's tennis team, with a record of 10 and 6, consists of six very dedicated young men: Harry Anderson, J.J. Cherry, Anibal Gomez, Jerker Hansson, Jerome Lopez and Alex Porcella.

Six of the team's losses were very close matches, with scores of 5-4. The most challenging match was with Southeast Louisiana, who defeated them 5-4.

Jerker, who has only lost two matches this season, contributes to the team. The team's close friendship has also been a contribution to its success.

"They don't come here with their social groups already formed," Coach Joe Blankenbaker said. "They come here ready to form new friendships, so I'd say they have strong relationships with each other because they have to, since they spend so much time together."

Coach Blankenbaker blames the team's close losses on its lack of intensity. "Too often the intensity isn't there, so we've lost a lot of matches we should have won."

Though they have a winning record, Blankenbaker said they are a little disappointed with the way they have been playing. He said the team's overall performance will be determined in the conference (TAAC) tournament.

The Eastern Division conference championships begin in Macon today, with the finals being held next weekend.

The second game, against Georgia State, went to extra innings after a 2-2 tie after seven innings. GSC's Liz Brechin hit a bases-loaded sacrifice fly in the ninth inning to score Koehler with the winning run. South Carolina held GSC to two hits in posting a 13-0 win in the tourney finale. The Lady Eagles meet Georgia State in Atlanta today.

Now the NAACP in Savannah is demanding The Savannah Police Department fire and/or prosecute this officer. I do not have all the answers. No one person does. But I do know that some phony "assault weapon" ban isn't going to help. It is a waste of time. Why? Because if the drug dealers can get so much cocaine in to the country then they can get "assault weapons" into the country. But the ones they will bring in won't be semi-automatic versions of these rifles. Oh no. They will bring in the original version. selective full automatic. water, which is baked before the dough has time to rise. During Passover, matzoh is the only type of bread Jews may eat. It commemorates the unleavened bread eaten by the Jews when they left Egypt so quickly, for there was no time for the dough to rise.

On the evenings of the 19th and 20th, Jews all over the world will conduct a Passover Seder. This is a ritual banquet that re-enacts the Exodus, held on the first and second evenings of Passover.

The reading of the Haggadah is the major of the Passover ritual. The Haggadah describes in detail the events of the Exodus of the Jewish people from ancient Egypt. It is complete with the symbolic re-enactments using Kosher wine, matzoh, and bitter herbs, which commemorate the harsh conditions of slavery in ancient Egypt.

Four cups of wine consumed during the course of the event to remind

Jews of the redemption of their people, the sanctity of the holiday, and events related in the Haggadah. At the end of the service, a universal prayer, for the goodness of everyone is recited; it states, "My Zion be blessed with peace, and may our brethren and all mankind live in harmony and contentment."

I have witnessed these extremes affecting GSC's athletics in a BIG negative way. The morale and togetherness of the basketball team STINKS, and the competitiveness of the softball team is very poor. •FORMER GSC GOLF STARS- GSC graduate Jodie Mudd made quite a showing at the Masters last week. Mudd shot a blistering round of 66 on Sunday, giving him a four-day total of 287 (1 under par) and sixth place, right behind Mike Reid and Seve Ballesteros. As you probably know by now, Nick Faldo defeated Scott Hoch on the second hole of sudden death after Hoch blew a two-foot putt on the first hole to win it outright. If you can't remember how to pronounce Hoch's name, just remember, it rhymes with "choke."

Former Eagle golfer Mike Donald hasn't done too badly of late either. Donald, while yet to win a tour event, lost in sudden death to Jim Booros at the PGA Deposit Guaranty Classic in Hattiesburg, Miss., Sunday. He also came in fifth at the Independent Insurance Agent Open week before last after leading throughout much of the tournament. Earlier this year, Gene Sauers, another former Eagle standout, won the Hawaiian Open by chipping in from off the green on the 18th hole.
