On October 26, Cheap Trick, a popular Midwestern group with several gold and platinum albums to their credit, performed at the ASC Fine Arts Auditorium to an enthusiastic crowd. Starting off the concert was a Milwaukee based band, Bad Boy. At 8:00 pm, Bad Boy took the stage and gave a rousing performance that got feet tapping and adrenaline pumping. Their blend of hard-hitting guitar licks equally hard-hitting lyrics got the audience both young and older members alike, ready for the electrifying performance of Cheap Trick. Bad Boy really got the place rocking with their rendition of an old rendition of a Led Zeppelin standard. The applause after that number resounded throughout the auditorium, and Bad Boy gained many fans that night, I'm sure!

Then, after a short intermission, Cheap Trick bolted onto the stage with a flash of light, many cheers, and pulsating music that could have started an avalanche.

Robin Zander, lead singer of this world-renowned group, Rick Nielson, jester and guitarist extraordinaire, Jon Brant, subdued but powerful bass player, and Bun E. Carlos, hidden but highly appreciated drummer, played a combination of both their old and new music and kept the audience on their toes (literally!).

After playing one of the songs from their new album “The Doctor”, they would launch into one of their classic hits, such as “I want you to want me” and “Dream Police”. This way, they kept the old fans as well as the new fans rocking all night long.

After ending their set, Cheap Trick was coaxed back onto the stage by the cheers and chants of the audience and gave an encore that rivaled their earlier performance.

The sound level rocked the Fine Arts building, and the surrounding three miles, thanks to the road crew who worked all day to get everything just right! The concert itself ran smoothly because of these dedicated men, from lighting, to sound, to giving Rick Nielson his guitars (and he had quite a few; even one that looked like him!).

Despite all of these compliments, I found fault with one aspect of the concert: the “general admission” arrangement. Actually, this concert was billed as a “reserved seating” performance and many people skipped more important function (such as class) in the hopes of getting good seats. However, “reserved seating” wasn’t meant to be. People began pushing up to the front of the auditorium soon after Cheap Trick took the stage, and in doing so, prevented other people from being able to see who paid to see. We weren’t interested in seeing people dressed up for Halloween a week early, but that’s about all we got to see unless we, too, pushed our way through the throng of fans. But, despite this avoidable-but-expected flaw, the concert was a breath of fresh air after midterm week!!! The Concert Committee of the College Union Board is to be commended for doing such a wonderful job of starting another potentially dull school week with a bang!
Dear Editor,

Recently it came to my notice that a trend has developed on ASC campus which is, for me, quite disheartening. I noticed that a lot of the ATHLETES have girlfriends and a lot of girls have ATHLETIC boyfriends. This is just wonderful for ATHLETES, but for me, I'm left out in the cold, and it's all because I'm a NERD!!

I'm a nerd because I study a lot, I can't shoot a basketball, I couldn't hit the side of a barn with a baseball, my tennis racquet is best used to throw at my opponent, and I can't run except after a few beers.

Sure I know about Cations, Anions, Existentialism, Judicial Process, Differential Equations, and PLATYHELMINTHES and this makes me a nerd or even more so a wimp. I wear glasses, I carry a calculator, and I read in the cafeteria, therfore I'm a nerd, a wimp and a geek. I am lacking in macho, I am not very strong, and I guess you'll say that I'm puny too.

But this puny, wimpy, geeky nerd will get his revenge.

Because in just a few years, these athleteboyfriends will not be calling me "wimp", "geek" or anything of that sort; it's more likely that they will call me, "Sir"; "Mister", et cetera. When my kids are born, they wear cotton diapers while the Kids of Athletes will be wearing jock straps.

Call me "wimp", but the next time an athletic, macho-type guy trots in someone with brains, or the next time a girl turns down a "not-so-cool" guy, I hope they will remember that the NERDS of today are the leaders of tomorrow.

Sincerely,

The Dreamer

A dream is the total realization if your abilities and God given talents. Most people are afraid to dream because there's no sense of security in being a dreamer.

Change can only be brought about through positive thinking and, for disbelievers, there is no middle of the road or what if...

Dreamers exist in a realm of spiritual and mental belief that is unknown by the submissive.

If a dreamer accomplishes a set of goals, he or she experiences anger, Why? Because they know they have the abilities and may never be afforded the opportunity to utilize them.

Being a dreamer can make others envy you because they want to think like a dreamer and not experience the trials and tribulations. Some will try to kill you for being a dreamer, but don't fear them, for they see your dreams coming true.

WE shall always have something in common, A Dream.

From the mind of the Peaceful Poet and Philosopher

Hassan Shabazz

Armstrong attends SAC Conference
by Elizabeth Rodgers

This quarter the Student Advisory Council (SAC) Conference was held at Valdosta State College in Valdosta, Georgia. SAC is composed of student government representatives from colleges on the Georgia University System and meets to discuss campus problems, and when necessary, makes proposals to the Board of Regents. Four Armstrong students attended this year’s meeting: Carla English, Donna Borklund, Elizabeth Rodgers, and Jeff Gulle.

The SAC Conference was divided into four committees: Public Relations, Academic Affairs, Student Affairs, and Internal Affairs. The PR committee initiated a voting campaign that would remain active until the presidential election of 1988. A special logo and posters were designed to encourage students to vote in the November 4 election. The Academic Affairs Committee set the qualifications for the student intern who will participate with the Board of Regents. This is a new position open to a junior or above class level who is a member of an SGA in a college under the Georgia University System. The Student Affairs Committee discussed campus issues such as alcohol and drug awareness, campus security, parking violations, voter turnout for SGA elections, and campus instant teller bank machines. Plans for the next SAC Conference at North Georgia College in Dahlonega, Georgia were discussed by the Internal Affairs Committee. It is set for February 7 & 8, then the 9 & 10 SAC will meet with the Board of Regents in Atlanta.

The conference was definitely not all business, no play. VSC graciously provided us with a banquet, a dance, and a VSC football game. Somehow, we also managed late hours, a midnight dip in the Ramada Inn pool, HBO, and a 1:00 am Burger King run.

The SAC Conference is a great way to get more involved in college activities, along with a chance to meet the student government representatives from other schools. When we returned to Savannah, we all were inspired to become more active at Armstrong.

MEMORIAL to Dr. James Land Jones

Jim Jones was a dynamic, gentle, brilliant spirit whose tragic flaw was innocence. He could not believe in evil or violence and felt protected in that belief. It destroyed him. We will always live in the aura of his unique presence. Poet, teacher, philosopher, he could see through leathery jargon and byzantine harangue to the essence and marrow of things. His stunning sensitivity nourished a logician’s cogent and lucid intelligence. He wanted the world, but the vulgar world would not allow it. So this well-bred, genteel, delicate, dear man is lost. And we are lost with him in an ugly dream where we will wish forever to awaken and find some other truth than that of his awful death. He “sang beyond the genius of the sea.”

We will never see his like again.

Big Band Days

Big band jazz will fill the student center cafeteria on Tuesday, November 18th, as the 18-piece Armstrong Jazz Ensemble performs at 12:30. The band plays music in a variety of styles, from traditional swing to Latin jazz and jazz-rock. Jazz Ensemble is a credit course and is one of a number of offerings in popular music for both music majors and non-majors. Others include Jazz Improvisation (to be offered winter quarter) and a survey course, Understanding Jazz. The Ensemble also includes informal small groups which frequently perform student compositions and arrangements. Ensemble Director Randall Reese also invites you to the Ensemble’s free Fall Concert, Monday, November 24, at 8 p.m. in the Fine Arts Auditorium.

Applications for ASC ALUMNI ASSOCIATION SCHOLARSHIPS are currently being accepted

Recipients are selected on the basis of financial need, academic standing, and participation in campus and community activities and organizations. The students selected as semi-finalists will be required to interview with the Association’s Scholarship Committee.

Applications may be obtained from the Office of Alumni Affairs, Administration Building Room 9. All completed applications should be returned to the Office of Alumni Affairs by Wednesday, November 19, 1986.
Writing Center

The Writing Center provides individual tutoring for students working on a variety of writing assignments—from a critical essay about a short story to a research paper in geology to a job application letter and resume.

The Writing Center, located in Gamble 109, is open to all students, faculty, and staff at Armstrong State College. Furthermore, it doesn't cost anything. The Writing center offers its services free to anyone enrolled at Armstrong.

Professors and peer tutors will work one-on-one with students to improve their writing. In addition to getting help with papers for composition classes, students can use the Writing Center for help on other writing tasks: research papers, lab reports, resumes, and applications for jobs, scholarships, student teaching, and graduate school.

Writing Center tutors won't write, rewrite, or proofread papers, but they will help students improve their own work.

To make an appointment, students can simply walk in the door of Gamble 109. Tutors can provide on-the-spot, immediate assistance.

Those who will be taking the Regents' Exam can pick up a copy of "Tips on Taking the Regents' Exam," write some practice essays, and have the staff review their work.

They can also take advantage of special workshops sponsored by the Writing Center. During the fall quarter, these seminars will be offered:

- Effective Resumes And Cover Letters
  Tuesday, November 18
  6:00-7:30 p.m.

Besides providing workshops and individual tutoring, the Writing Center offers plenty of other resources: all kinds of books on every aspect of writing, dictionaries, thesauruses, grammar exercises, model essays, word processors, computerized tutorials, and a very comfortable atmosphere.

The Writing Center is staffed by professors from English and from other disciplines and by student tutors.

Faculty include Mr. Edwin Richardson, Dr. Richard Raymond, Dr. Steven D. Ealy, and Dr. Lorie Roth, the director.

Student tutors for fall quarter are Jim Brown, Vicki Hill, Kathy Albertson, Katie Hill, and Jane Noonan.

Any student who is a good writer and who enjoys working with others can gain valuable experience by serving as a Writing Center tutor. Those who are interested can contact Dr. Roth.

For more information about the Writing Center, call Dr. Roth at 927-5210.

Finally, one bank in town has designed a checking account to meet a student’s needs and priced it to match a student’s budget.

Most banks charge students a fee for just having the account and charge additional fees for each check written and each time their automated teller machine is used. In a significant balance is required to avoid these charges.

First Atlanta’s student checking account is different. For only $1 your first five checks during any statement period are free. And, Tillie is available for your use free of any additional charges. Since each check written over five is priced at $.50 per check, your student account is designed primarily for those who use Tillie for cash and use checks to cover other expenses.

Get the credit you deserve.

Students who do not have a record of bounced checks during the first six months of activity on their account will be considered for a line of credit. It can be used to cover unexpected expenses or used to insure that a small mistake in your checks won’t result in a large overdraft fee. After the year of properly maintaining a student account, you may also be considered for a Visa card.

Make the Dream’s list and your account is FREE.

Bring us proof that you earned Dean’s List honors and your student account will be free of all regular service charges during three statement periods.

Ebony Coalition

The members of Ebony Coalition would like to announce our existence on Armstrong State College campus. We presently consist of seven members and we are looking to broaden our membership with other students dedicated to serving our school and community. We are working closely with the Minority Advisement Program here at Armstrong State College.

The objectives of Ebony Coalition are to create awareness, confidence and determination among students of ASC through community and social activities. Some areas of interest include: Big Brother-Big Sister program for underprivileged and disabled children, Senior Citizen Services, to attend local church services and perform plays and fashion shows. Moreover, we would also like to give dances, parties and other recreational activities to raise funds.

We will be accepting new members that are willing to participate in all activities, able to attend all meetings and will give 100 percent to his or her assignment. For more information contact your Minority Student Affairs Office on Armstrong State College (912)927-5252.

Come by and meet your student government!

Count Down with WOW

We begin countdown! There are only three more weeks left in this quarter. For those of you who were blissfully unaware of this, those papers and projects will be due sooner that you thought. Now you, too, can join in the panic. (I'm off and running.)

By the time anyone reads this, our Nov 5th meeting will have already taken place. Although I cannot foresee exactly what all it will involve, I do know a few particulars and the rest I can make up. (On second thought, Dr. Martin will read this and she is funny about that kind of thing. Go figure!) Seriously, a one-on-one type of support system, to be established within our network, will be developed. This will further ensure that each new member has a continuing link throughout the quarter. There has also been much activity in the search for scholarships for female non-trad students. Check with any WOW member for more information. Better yet, become a member and receive all of this (and more) in our monthly newsletter - absolutely free of charge! Do it today, you don't have to wait for a meeting.

WOW PERSPECTIVE

In the early stages of a college education, non-trad students frequently feel out of place and disconnected with other students. Of course, belonging to WOW is a ready remedy. However, there is further action a non-trad can take. For example, make it a point to frequently visit the department of your major. (or visit the ones of the majors you're considering.) To contain an already bursting schedule: frequent, but short visits. What to do once there? Questions! (And there are no stupid ones.) Faculty members welcome them. This is a good basis for becoming acquainted with your advisor.

Also, all the departments have materials concerning the degrees each offers, graduate school and job opportunity information. (Again, frequently - there's tons of it.) If you borrow something, be sure to return it promptly.

All of this is meant to familiarize you with the faculty in your major department and they with you. Once into your major, you will find that your uneasy perspective has changed. Your department will become your second home. (You think I'm kidding?) But, you don't have to wait until then to feel at home!

WOW Trivia 1
At the aforementioned bobbing for Godiva Chocolates, which faculty member would be first in line?
(The prize was to be a box of Godiva Chocolates, but we can't find it.)

WOW Trivia 2
Which WOW member's nephew married another WOW member's sister in an OCT. 18th nuptial bash?
(The winner will receive several gallons of left-over, warm champagne punch and a wilted centerpiece.)

Anne Bultimer-Gay

Until next time, Alpha Gam Annie

Alpha Gamma Delta

Alpha Gamma Delta and Phi Mu enjoyed a Panhellenic covered dish supper at the home of the Panhellenic Advisor, Patti Deau, on November 2. This gathering gave each of the two Greek organizations a chance to meet the other group's new pledges and alumnae. Thank you Patti for hosting this event.

Undergraduate and alumnae are gearing up for a family picnic on November 8. Happy Birthday wishes go out to Carol Breflton (Nov. 3) and Julie Simmons (Nov. 5) Best wishes are extended to sister Page Failgent and Kenny Sellers as the exchange wedding vows on November 22. Best wishes are also extended to sister Cindy Rogers and Andy McCumber on the announcement of their engagement.

Energies are starting to turn towards Gamma-Rho's annual Kidnap-for-caums. Con- senting (we hope) professors and organization leaders will be kidnapped on November 20 and held for "ransom" in the cafeteria. Everyone is urged to bring canned goods, non-perishables, or donations to free your favorite "fugitive." All contributions will be administered to help make the upcoming holiday season a brighter one for local needy persons. So be sure to look for our maximum security jail in the cafeteria!!

Phi Alpha Theta

Phi Alpha Theta, the Sigma Theta chapter of Phi Alpha Theta, is looking forward to an active year at Armstrong.

This year's officers are:

President, Karen Clark
Vice-President, Connie Smith
Secretary, Deborah Crosby
Treasurer, Alfred Owens
Historian, Evelyn Snence
Faculty Advisor, Professor B. Komaksey
Membership chairman, Dr. Janet Stone

Phi Alpha Theta is planning their Fall meeting for Sunday, November 16th, at the Georgia Historical Society. Dr. Lewis Bellard, Director, is scheduled to make a presentation at the meeting.

Phi Alpha Theta is an Honor Society for students with an interest in History.

Student Recitals

Several Armstrong State College Army ROTC Cadets attended the United States Army Airborne School at Fort Benning, Georgia, last summer. No doubt you have heard "jump stories" about Airborne, some of its history and accomplishments. In the history of military development, there has been nothing as revolutionary as the em­ployment of paratroopers. The Armstrong Cadets who attended Airborne Training may never utilize their skills as paratroopers, but if nothing else, they have increased their self confidence in their abilities to meet personal challenges. Believe it or not, the need for a force such as the paratroopers was first recognized during the Revolutionary War. Benjamin Franklin once asked the question: "And where is the Prince who can afford so to cover his country with troops for its defense as that ten thousand men descending from the clouds might not in many places do an infinite deal of mischief before a force could be brought together to repel them?" Since their establishment in the early 1940's, Airborne units have compiled a distinguished record of valor in defense of our nation.

If you are enrolled in either the Basic Course or Advanced Course of Army ROTC, you may be eligible to attend Airborne Training next summer. The Basic Courses of Army ROTC, either 100 or 200 level courses, and Airborne Training do not in any way obligate you to remain in ROTC and ultimately seek a com­mission as an Officer. Since, however, you have to have taken three basic courses or received advanced placement credit for MS I, the freshmen year, prior to September 1986.

If you are interested contact the Military Science Department (927-5206) for further details.

National Alcohol Awareness Test

Forget the S.A.T.s, L.S.A.T.s and G.M.A.T.s. Here's a chance to really test your smarts on a subject most of us think we know: alcohol.

This test won't get you into grad school, but it might help ensure you'll be around to enter. It's called the "National Alcohol Awareness Test."

The "Test may seem simple, but the answers can effect your health and safety:

1. Typical servings of beer, wine and liquor:
   a) contain the same volume of liquid;
   b) vary in alcohol content;
   c) are equal in alcohol content.

2. When you think you've had too much, what do you do?
   a) stop drinking and eat something;
   b) wait 30 minutes before your next one;
   c) drink black coffee and go out for some fresh air;
   d) none of the above.

3. True or false. Switching drinks during the evening will get you more drunk than staying with one type of drink.

4. How do you pace yourself at a party?
   a) moderate the amount you drink;
   b) drink only beer or wine;
   c) switch from liquor to beer.

5. True or false. When you want to drink "lightly," it doesn't matter if you have beer, wine or a mixed drink.

6. To slow down the effect of alcohol:
   a) drink more slowly;
   b) eat something substantial beforehand;
   c) snack while you drink;
   d) all of the above.

7. Labels on beer, wine and liquor:
   a) describe the alcohol "proof" of the beverage;
   b) list the alcohol content as a percentage of total volume;
   c) vary in the kind of information they give you.

ANSWER

1. All of these drinks contain equal amounts of alcohol (c). Typical servings of beer (12 ounces), wine (5 ounces), and distilled spirits (1 1/4 ounces) all contain the same amount of pure alcohol: 0.5 ounces. This is Alcohol Equivalence. A drink, is a drink, is a drink. No matter what you drink.

2. If you think you've drunk too much, stop. Then eat something (a). Only time will solve the problem. A 30-minute wait isn't enough time; neither coffee nor fresh air can speed the process. So the best thing to do is to drink water or milk and eat something substantial - and wait it out. Above all, don't attempt to drive: if you want to go home, get someone reliable to take you. And next time, remember to pace yourself.

3. False. When drinks are consumed at the same pace, and assuming typical servings, switching has no more effect than not switching; your alcohol intake remains the same. As for feeling terrible, it may happen, not necessarily because of the alcohol, but because of the mix of non-alcoholic ingredients.

4. To pace yourself, moderate the amount you drink (a). Whether it's in beer, wine, or liquor, alcohol requires no digestive processing. Moments after your first sip, alcohol passes through the walls of the stomach and small intestine directly into the bloodstream. In a few more moments, it reaches the brain. If you take several drinks in one hour, for example, you'll quickly feel the effects and your Blood Alcohol Content will rise above the acceptable level.

Blood Alcohol Content directly correlates to the amount of alcohol you consume, whether it's a glass of beer, wine or liquor. So, never drink fast to catch up when you join a party late. And remember, it's just as important not to "chug" three beers in a row as it is to avoid three "quick-ones" of liquor.

5. True. Drinking "lightly" means moderating the amount you drink, not what you drink. Beer, wine and liquor are all beverage alcohol. The typical servings of each can have the same effect on you. Don't think of wine or beer as substitutes for alcoholic drinks. They are alcoholic drinks. And they're no "lighter" than a cocktail. Remember, a drink is a drink, is a drink.

6. All three activities slow down the effects of alcohol (d). All are responsible ways to drink at a party. On the average, the body needs about one hour to "burn off" any typical drink, whether it's wine, beer or liquor. So pace yourself accordingly. Eating something substantial is one of the best ways to slow the body's absorption of alcohol into your bloodstream - preferably food high in fat and protein - 15 or 20 minutes before you drink.

Some people think that wine and beer are foods. Actually, the nutritional value is too small to matter. Eating solid food is just as important when you drink wine or beer as it is with liquor.

7. Labels on beer, wine and liquor vary in what they tell you (c). Beer labels usually don't tell you alcohol content. Wine labels record alcohol content by percentage of volume. Liquor labels record their "proof," a term derived from the "proving" of alcohol content in test distillers used centuries ago.

College life is a mixture of educational and social experiences.

Inherent in this college experience is our ability to accept responsibility for our decisions.

And when it comes to decisions regarding alcohol, you are ultimately responsible. It's all up to you. Please make responsible decisions.
