PERRIER TO PULL ALL WATER:

Perrier announced a worldwide recall of its bottled water Wednesday. Source Perrier of France said it will withdraw its bubbly mineral water - 160 million bottles - from shelves and distribution channels in 120 countries. It began recalling 72 million bottles of water from the USA last weekend after traces of cancer-causing benzene were found in Perrier in North Carolina.

SOURCE OF BENZENE IN QUESTION:

Since Perrier's initial recall, small amounts of benzene have been detected in Denmark, Holland and Canada. New questions arose about the source of benzene found. Initially, Perrier said it came from a cleaning solvent used on its Vergeze, France, bottling line. Now they say the it came from a faulty filter on pipes carrying water and carbon dioxide from its natural spring.

BUSH HEADS FOR DRUG SUMMIT:

President Bush heads for Colombia Thursday to attend the drug summit with the presidents of Colombia, Bolivia and Peru. Bush will seek backing from the Andean leaders in the war against drug producers and traffickers, and a commitment to replacing the drug trade with legal commerce. Bush limited his visit to one day for security reasons.

ANDEAN LEADERS MAY WANT MONEY:

Political experts say the Andean leaders are expected to tell President Bush that U.S. money will be more important than U.S. muscle in the fight against drugs. Bush's plan: A five-year deal to provide $2.2 billion in U.S. military, economic and law enforcement aid to the three nations. He will also seek economic assistance in the fight from Japan, Canada and European nations.

QUAYLE TALKS DRUGS AT HOME:

While President Bush discusses the war strategy in Colombia, Vice President Dan Quayle will talk about drugs at home Thursday. Quayle is scheduled to devote his morning to learning more about the impact of illegal drugs in Washington. His plans include a visit to drug-addicted babies at the Greater Southeast Community Hospital.

BOARD DEFENDS WILSON FIRING:

Management style, not race, prompted the firing of Laval Wilson, Boston's first black school superintendent, School Committee members said Wednesday. The 13-member panel voted 7-1 Tuesday to buy out the remaining 18 months of Wilson's two-year contract.

PLAYERS BACK AT PRACTICE:

After the school threatened to dismiss them from the team, Arkansas State basketball players returned to practice Wednesday. The players boycotted for two days, saying they could not deal with coach Nelson Catalina's style. The school promised to "evaluate" Catalina's performance at season's end.

PLAYERS WIN ARBITRATION:

Three major league baseball players won salary arbitration cases Wednesday. The big winner was San Diego Padres catcher Benito Santiago, who will earn $1.25 million. Santiago, an All-Star who batted .236 with 62 RBI, earned $345,000 last season. Also winning: Cleveland Indians catcher Andy Allanson, who will get $410,000, and Pittsburgh Pirates reserve infielder Rafael Belliard, who will get $380,000.

MAGIC WINS IN OVERTIME:

Terry Catledge led the Orlando Magic to an overtime victory over the Chicago Bulls, 135-129, scoring 34 points, seven in overtime. Michael Jordan led all scorers with 49 points. In other NBA games: 76ers 122, Nets 112; Pacers 133, Cavaliers 131, OT; Timberwolves 95, Hornets 86; Bucks 127, Nuggets 117; Celtics 106, Spurs 95; Suns 114, Jazz 103.

Congressman presents museum with coin

By SANDY HANBERRY
News Editor

Lindsay Thomas, the first district representative to the U. S. House of Representatives, presented the GSC Museum with a very rare commemorative silver dollar last Monday.

The presentation ceremony was attended by approximately 40 people. Including GSC president Nicholas Henry, Museum Director Del Presley, Dean of the School of Arts and Sciences Dean Jones, and other dignified guests.

During his short speech Thomas expressed his pleasure at being able to donate the rare coin to the GSC Museum on a permanent loan basis. "This coin is unique because," said Thomas "it was one of approximately 1000 coins struck by members of congress" at the U.S. capitol on the day commemorating the two hundredth anniversary of congress.

At the conclusion of his speech, Thomas presented president Henry with the coin.

Henry accepted the coin on behalf of the GSC museum naming Thomas a "friend" of GSC.

Thomas, and other members of congress who participated in the bicentennial festivities, placed the blanks and struck the silver dollars using presses transported to Washington from the U.S. mint in Philadelphia.

The 8.4 gram silver dollar features the Statue of Freedom and the Mace of the House of Representatives.

The 1989 minting of these coins marked the first time since 1792 that official U.S. coins were struck outside of a U.S. mint facility.

Presley expressed his pleasure at being able to make the coin part of the GSC Museum. "It is an honor because he selected our museum as the place in the (16 county First) District to receive the coin."

Thomas said of his decision to donate the one coin granted to his district to the museum, "this museum is becoming well acclaimed and Statesboro is in the heart of the district. With University status it seemed the most proper place to bestow it."

Silver dollars similar to the silver dollar minted on Capitol Hill are available from the U.S. mint as well as a commemorative five dollar gold piece and a commemorative half dollar which feature other historic objects relating to congress. Profits from the sale of congressional commemorative coins go to the Capitol Preservation Fund.

Three Tulane KAs suspended

By LAURA MCABEE
Assistant News Editor

On a Friday night last January, three Tulane University KA brothers constructed a cross and set it afire in the Kappa Alphas' back yard.

The members were suspended from the greek organization by David D'Herete, the fraternity president. The suspension was pending a hearing during which their status as fraternity members will be considered, D'Herete said.

Lou Stark, assistant vice president of Student Affairs, filed a complaint against the three students with the university judicial officers. The officers will review the case and determine the degree of punishment.

Consequences for this act could range from suspension to expulsion from the university.

"This is a sick act, whether it was done as a joke or not," D'Herete said. "This has no place in an institution of higher education."

Tulane president Eamon Kelly agreed with D'Herete, stating, "I think it demonstrates a combination of stupidity and ignorance."

D'Herete stresses that it was an individual act and was not sanctioned by the fraternity as a whole. He mentioned that 5 to 10 other fraternity members immediately dismantled it and stamped it out.

The size of the cross has not yet been reported.

The members will face both the fraternity's and the university's code of conduct.

The action took place on the property of a university recognized fraternity. However, some questions remain as to the extent of the university's jurisdiction in matters that occur outside campus boundaries.

Stark has studied the Tulane student code of conduct in order to determine which violations the students had committed. He cited a passage that states, "Tulane University... expects and requires of all of its students behavior compatible with its high standards.... Tulane will not tolerate any form of harassment or intimidation including, but not limited to, sexual, racial, religious or age discrimination."

Stark stated that, in his opinion, the students were not acting in accordance with those rules.

Two of the three students in question claim that they were not trying to harass anyone. "We were drinking beer. We were bored and went outside to burn some trash in a shopping cart. There was no intention to burn crosses," states one KA.

The trash that was burned consisted of wood left over from a pledge project.

"A piece of wood that looked like a cross was put in the fire. People inside saw it, and then a girl started to flip out," the student continued.

The student who put the wood in the fire said that he grabbed a hose and put out the fire immediately. It was in the flames for less than a minute, he said.

"It all happened as a joke," he said. "It wasn't like the cross burning in the movie 'Mississippi Burning.' Even the Ku Klux Klan is protected by its first amendment rights."

Ronald Mason, the Tulane's vice president general counsel, explained that burning a cross in and of itself in that type of setting is not illegal per se. "I can't think of any federal statute or law prohibiting that type of activity in that setting," he said.

With the exception of breaking fire regulations, the issue is more of a moral question than a legal one, said Director of Security Kenneth Dupaquier.

The day following the incident, the students apologized to those they had offended. "People are taking this seriously and they have a right to," the accused said. One KA added that racists and white supremacists are really narrow minded people, and stated that neither he nor his fraternity brothers fit those descriptions.

"We have got to be speedy (with a response)," said Assistant Vice President of Student Affairs Carter. "We will be ready with a response by early next week."

Chris Schenkel tourney canceled

George-Anne staff reports

The Chris Schenkel Inter-collegiate Golf Tournament Committee, citing scheduling problems, has announced that the 1990 Schenkel has been cancelled.

Tournament officials said the scheduling problems arose from difficulties in putting together a competitive multi-conference competition. The tournament, which was started in 1971, was to have been played April 20, 21 and 22 at Forest Heights Country Club.

Annually regarded as one of the premier collegiate golf tournaments in the southeastern United States, the 1990 Schenkel had lost several top teams from fields in past years.

The Atlantic Coast Conference had participated in the Schenkel for 19 years, but this year it chose to hold its own conference tournament during the same week. The ACC tournament would have prevented Wake Forest, Clemson, Georgia Tech and North Carolina State from competing.

Schenkel officials also learned that another tournament the same week, the Arizona State Sun Devil Thunderbird Classic, would have prevented several top teams from the southwest from competing, including six-time Schenkel champion Oklahoma State and Oklahoma.

Schenkel Committee Chairman Ed Eckles said there is a possibility the tournament could be resumed as an annual event in the spring of 1991. This year would have been the 20th anniversary of the event.

Because of the tournament's cancellation, an alternative event has been proposed by GSC and the Savannah Sheraton Inn and Country Club with perspective dates being the same as the Schenkel Tournament dates.

The event would be called the Eagle Invitational and would feature the same field originally scheduled to play in the Schenkel. Those teams would be: host school GSC, defending Schenkel champion Louisiana State, Georgia, Alabama, Auburn, Tennessee, Florida, Mississippi State, Mississippi, Miami, Florida State, East Carolina, Ohio State, South Carolina, Stetson and Tulsa.

The tournament would be held at the Sheraton Savannah course.

New apparell manufacturing program offered at GSC

GSC News Service

A new program offering at GSC - apparell manufacturing - has been tailored to those who want to pursue careers in the manufacturing of clothing.

"We are looking for people who are interested in people," says Charles Perry, a professor in the new GSC program. "Of course they will have to be willing to work hard."

The program, offered through the School of Technology, puts emphasis on industrial management and interpersonal skills. Both are areas of training that the state's apparell plant managers see as needed in their business.

There are nearly 50 apparell manufacturing plants within a 60 mile radius of the Statesboro campus, and some 400 in the state. These plants employ approximately 100,000 people.

Perry emphasized the difference between apparell manufacturing and what is generally termed "textiles." "Textiles is the conversion of raw materials into cloth, while apparell manufacturing is the production of clothing from textiles," he said.

Clothing production in Georgia is mostly in the form of shirts, pants, and undergarments.

The program began last fall, offered under the existing bachelor of science degree in technology, with one major. "We expect interest in the program to rise as word gets out about its availability in this region," says Perry. "We hope that next fall we will see an increase in majors to around 30."

Perry has had extensive experience in the apparell industry and is a candidate to receive his doctorate on vocational education from UGA.

Two June graduation ceremonies planned

GSC News Service

GSC's June graduation will be both a last and a first for the college - its last senior college commencement and its first "doubleheader," with the candidates divided into morning and evening exercises.

The decision to hold two ceremonies June 9 was prompted by projections of a spring graduating class which outnumbers the seating capacity on the Hamner Fieldhouse floor, according to Acting Registrar Mike Deal. The expected 1,200 candidates, an increase of 200 over 1989, will be divided by schools, with approximately half graduating at each ceremony.

Deal noted, however, that when a committee considered alternatives to accommodate the numbers, it was tradition, not space, which became the determining factor in favor of dual ceremonies. The deans, he said, put a priority on preserving "the personal touch" of presenting each graduate's diploma on stage - stretching a single ceremony to three and half hours.

"That was not considered a reasonable length," Deal said.

This class will go out as the largest and the last to be awarded diplomas from Georgia Southern College. Two months later, August candidates will be issued the first degrees from Georgia Southern University. The traditionally smaller summer commencement class will be accommodated in a single ceremony.

The June graduation schedule sets the morning exercise at 11 o'clock, for the schools of Arts and Sciences and of Education. The second ceremony at 6:30 p.m. will repeat the earlier program for the

Cafe still in planning

By SHARON SMITH
Staff Writer

The drawings of the lakeside café are to be completed soon, and will then need to be approved. After approval has been obtained, which will be sometime in April, contractors will be able to bid for the project. By the time GSC students go home to enjoy our summer break, there should be some sign of the café's future home.

The café will be modeled after a food court. There will be 5 paces to eat, thus offering students a greater variety. At one restaurant, students will be able to purchase pizza, at another, hamburgers, and at yet another, chicken.

There will be two floors, and a plethora of windows, which will offer students a beautiful view. There also will be a sunken dining hall, as well as decks overlooking the lake. The size of the café will be approximately 109,500 square feet.

The maximum amount of money allotted for construction will be 1.5 million dollars.

Problems facing GSC both during and after construction will be pollution of the lake, and protection of the ducks. In order to moderate pollution, GSC will attempt to train people and help them gain an appreciation for their environment.

Barriers may have to be created for the ducks' protection. The barriers would keep the ducks a safe distance from the café.

"Dreamgirls" to run Wednesday

Cast of "DreamGirls".

GSC News Service

"Dreamgirls", the musical backstage story of three black female singers - whose career together parallels that of the Supremes - is coming to GSC's McCroan Auditorium Feb. 21 at 8 p.m.

"Dreamgirls" won six Tony awards when it opened on Broadway in 1981, racking up a four-year run before going on to be performed in London, Tokyo and Paris. The show was one of the few to have its original cast album win a Grammy award.

Heading the cast is Daron Davis, who plays the handsome, hard-driving agent/manager of a group known as the Dreams. No stranger to touring, Davis has previously appeared in "Ain't Misbehavin'," "Guys and Dolls," "Pippin" and "West Side Story." The role of the lead singer of the group is performed by Capathia Jenkins. Joining her is Tanesha Gary in a role bearing a strong resemblance to singer Diana Ross.

Though it has plenty of glitter and dazzle, the show offers more than just raw entertainment. "Dreamgirls" emphasizes the conflicts and emotions of the story's characters through their rapid rise to stardom.

"Dreamgirls" will be co-directed by Joy Vandervort and Robert Durkin.

The GSC performance is one of the first in a coast-to-coast, 100-show schedule that will take the cast to 30 U.S. states and Canada.

Free admission tickets will be available in the McCroan Box Office to GSC students with I.D. from 1-5 p.m., Feb. 7-9 and 12-14. Tickets go on sale to the general public Feb. 15-16 and 19-21. Ticketholders are urged to be seated by 7:50 p.m. the night of the performance. Vacant seats will be released for sale at the door at that time.

The show is a production of Daedalus Productions of New York.

Campus Briefs

—As part of the Faculty Recital Series, trumpeter William Schmid and pianist Michael Braz will perform at 8 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 22 in Foy Recital Hall.

—Four tutor counselors are wanted for the GSC Upward Bound Summer Program. Upward Bound is a program designed to motivate and prepare high school students for post-secondary education. Applicants must 1) have achieved college sophomore status, or better, by May 1990; 2) have a 2.30 or better GPA; 3) be available daily from June 11 through July 31, 1990 [no summer school, please]; 4) be committed to working with young people; 5) be conscientious and dedicated. Salary is $1,350 [$900 plus room/board]. applications will be accepted through March 26, 1990. If interested, apply at the Upward Bound office in the lower level of Williams Center or write to Landrum Box 8071 or call 681-5458.

—Recognized as one of the most prestigious collegiate writing contests in the country, the Rolling Stone College Journalism Competition is increasing the cash prizes of the contest from $1,000 to $2,500 for each winning entry. Smith Corona Corporation, cosponsor of the contest for the fifth consecutive year, will contribute a PWP 7000 Laptop word processor to each winning student.

Student journalists can enter the competition in any of three categories: General Reporting (any subject), Entertainment Reporting (profiles and news features on music, film, sports, and personalities), and Essays & Criticism (analytical, evaluative or interpretive compositions on any subject, including reviews).

All entries must have been published in a college or university publication between April 1, 1989 and April 1, 1990. Deadline for receiving entries is June 1, 1990. Each entrant must have been a full- or part-time student in an accredited university or college during the school year in which his or her entry was published.

If you have any questions about the contest, contact Contest Coordinator John Jordan at 212-350-1221. Every entry has an equal chance to win.

Dance South an experience worth waiting for

By ELIZABETH TILLEY and YOLANDA WALLACE
Staff Writer, Features Editor

"Dance is addictive—it's an emotional escape and an enormous physical challenge," said Pat Kelly, choreographer of For Kicks, the premiere presentation of Dance Theatre South that made its debut Sunday.

According to Kelly, the idea for For Kicks came about when some of her more advanced students at The Dancer's Workshop complained of not being able to perform their dances more than once, which was usually at the annual spring concert.

The presentation began with Kelly performing "The Red Hat" to Duke Ellington's "Tenderly." The red bowler was a motif during the entire performance, appearing on a lectern in "By the Riverside," resting on the head of a totem in "Papa Legba," and resting on the heads of the dancers as the end of the show.

The second dance, performed to Scott Joplin's "Solace and Pineapple Rag," was "The Replacements," featuring Olivia Aseron, Brooke Kelly, Alison Lyall, and Kim Reed as ballerinas and Scotty Daffron, David Fraser, Neil Morris, and John Waller as gang members.

"By the Riverside" featured Aseron, Philana Griffith, Heather Johnson, Betsy Kennedy, Lyall, and Reed.

Pat Kelly and Morris' duet, "The Phantom," which was based on and used music from Andrew Lloyd Webber's Phantom of the Opera was well-received by the older members of the audience.

"Papa Legba" with Aseron, Griffith, Brooke Kelly, and Reed employed a song with Latin rhythms by Talking Heads lead singer David Byrne. "Sister Moon" used more traditional music by Sting.

After intermission, For Kicks was performed by Aseron, Niki Bentley, Tracy Brunelle, Griffith, Johnson, Brooke Kelly, Kennedy, Christy Poole, Reed, Steve Cantor,

In Focus...

Daffron, Rob Kelly, Morris, and Young Yu, who electrified the younger members of the crowd with his rap-accompanied routine.

The score of For Kicks, originally composed by Pat Kelly's long-time friend Tom Grose for the Atlanta Ballet, combined rap, rock, and pop music.

The dancers acted out a plot similar to the prom scene in Grease. Girl loses boy to another girl, but eventually regains him when the other girl loses interest. The more modern dances were interspersed with classical solos by Aseron.

At the end of the show, the dancers took their bows and presented Pat Kelly with a bouquet of flowers before running out into the crowd and pulling audience members on stage to dance to rap music.

Kelly received her formal training in New York under instructors like Finis Jhung, who taught ballet with a touch of yoga. While attending dance schools in New York, Kelly taught dance at a studio in Brooklyn.

Although she performed as a chorus girl in "sugar," "Damn Yankees," and "Chicago," she did not like the confinement.

The youngest of 10 children, she grew up surrounded by music and dance.

"In exchange for my mother playing the piano for a dance teacher, all of her children got free dance lessons. When I was a baby, she would place me in my cot on top of the piano while she played," she said. "It seems like when I could get out of my cot, I stepped right into line."

Kelly worked with Theatre South on its production of Grease. By doing so, she developed friendships in the GSC communication arts department. From those friendships, she was able to get college students to participate in For Kicks.

She said that her dance students have learned a great deal from the GSC acting students about communicating with and controlling their bodies.

"They seem to balance the other," she said. "After all, dancing is acting."

She said, "I hope to be able to do this every year. I would like to include dancers from the college, the high schools, and from the Statesboro community."

In order for Dance Theatre South to prosper, it will need a great deal of support. Kelly said the group is depending completely on ticket sales for the first production.

"Being able to choreograph and dance is something that I need to do. I would not be happy if they were not a part of my life. It's exciting to see a student get it [technique] and to be able to help her develop her talent."

A dance starts with an idea, she said, and as you work on it, it seems to take on a life of its own. She likes the idea of being able to use ideas as well as her body while dancing.

"I want the audience to see what is happening on stage and say, 'Wow, I would like to do that.'"

The small screen: martial arts mayhem, part I

By GARY A. WITTE
Staff Writer

KICKBOXER (Rated R; Starring Jean-Claude Van Damme, Dennis Alexio, and a bunch of others)

GRADE: D+

Eric Sloan (Dennis Alexio) is the United States Kickboxing Champion who is invited to Thailand to fight a match with their champion, Tong Po. Tagging along is his little brother and training assistant, Kurt (Van Damme).

Eric is kickboxing's answer to Rocky, an overconfident American whose philosophy is to hit them until they fall down. Well, needless to say, he learns a lesson the hard way.

Not only does the giant Tong Po beat the snot out of him, but he also cripples him for life. This pisses Van Damme off to no end. Thus Van Damme determines to learn kickboxing the Thailand way.

The rest of the movie spirals down through the usual "ancient master teaches student the secrets of the universe" syndrome and the inevitable big fight/revenge against Tong Po scene at the end.

The first 15 or 20 minutes of this movie are very interesting and even emotionally involving. Unfortunately, the rest of the movie does not hold water.

Clichés abound in this movie, from the special forces vet who stayed behind to the innocent girlfriend trapped in the middle. And if you don't already know the ending, you must have spent the past 10 years in a hole somewhere.

The characters are so clichéd and some of the acting is so bad that it is hard to tell if the filmmakers were being serious, or just funny.

The movie does, however, manage to contrast American and Oriental views well and gives us a view of the brutal origins of kickboxing.

In the final fight, the fighters' hands are wrapped in plaster tape and covered with broken glass. It is a death match with no referee.

Van Damme is amusing to watch as the innocent little brother who becomes a lean, mean, fighting machine, but he still needs work as an actor, and he is only hindered by the substandard script.

It is a movie to be watched only by hard-core Van Damme fans who have to watch every movie he is in. All other video addicts should rent Bloodsport instead.

THIS WEEK'S VIDEO TO AVOID:

BLACK EAGLE (Rated R; Starring Sho Koshugi and Jean-Claude Van Damme)

GRADE: F

Sho Koshugi plays Ken Tani, a super-secret agent who works for the US. His vacation with his kids is interrupted by an urgent super-secret mission that they need him for. So, naturally, he brings his kids along.

A US jet plane has crashed in the ocean near a small Italian town, carrying a super-secret onboard laser tracking device.

The Russians also send a team after the plane, hoping to gain the secrets of the device. On their side, they have a stoic secret agent named Andrei (Van Damme).

Both agents are screwed over by their governments, as usual, in their competition for the device.

Things get blown up, people die, and there is surprisingly little martial arts combat.

Koshugi reprises the act that he has used twice too often in his films, that of the dangerous man who is forced to violence when someone threatens his family.

The funny thing is, Van Damme is playing a relatively minor character. The two characters rarely face off, and even when they do, it doesn't satisfy.

So what is left of the movie is a cheap spy thriller with little thrill to it.

GSC's "take back the night rally" set for tomorrow

Special to the George-Anne

A crime awareness rally will be held tomorrow at the Southern Center for Continuing Education on Chandler Road.

In observance of National Crime Prevention Week, Feb. 14-22, a crime awareness program concerning date rape, better lighting, and more effective security will be addressed.

The agenda for the event is planned as follows: from 5-6:45 p.m., Kathy Roberts from the Atlanta-based Citizen Action Team will speak about personal safety and date rape. From 7-8 p.m., the Candle Light March will take place.

The march will begin at the Southern Center, proceeding to Chandler Road and turning left on Georgia Avenue. Going down Georgia Avenue to Herty Drive, the march will turn left and proceed to Sweetheart Circle. After going around the circle, the procession will take the same route back to the Southern Center.

The sponsors of the rally, the GSC Criminal Justice Club, Bulloch NOW, and Revision, would like to encourage the entire campus population to support the program.

"It is in the best interest of providing a safer environment," said Sylvia Colber, president of the Criminal Justice Club. "Ways of helping us to assess the needs of Georgia Southern are by signing the petitions for better lighting, by answering the questionnaires concerning security, and by participating at the seminar."

This is a questionnaire concerning Georgia Southern Campus. By answering the following questions, the administration will be able to assess the needs of the students, faculty, and staff. Remember that your feedback is important!

Return the questionnaire by February 17th to:

Get your hands on a Macintosh before your hands are full.

Homework has a nasty way of piling up, doesn't it? One day, you feel on top of it all—the next, you're behind on your notes, your research, your term paper.

Our advice: Get in front of a Macintosh® computer.

True, it may not turn a lifelong procrastinator into an overachiever. But it will make an enormous difference in how quickly you can write, rewrite, and print your assignments.

Not only will a Macintosh change the way you look at homework, it'll change the way your homework looks—with an endless variety of type styles, and graphics that'll make your professors think you bribed a friend in art school.

And as for all those classroom scribbles, research notes, and assorted scraps of paper that litter your desk, we give you HyperCard®—an amazing new program that provides an easy way to store, organize, and cross-reference each and every bit of information. (HyperCard is included free with every Macintosh.)

So come in and get your hands on a Macintosh today.

Before your homework slips completely through your fingers.

Douglas is the champ!

"Too many cooks spoil the soup" or something like that anyway. Buster Douglas knocks out a man that everyone thought was invincible, but is not given what is rightfully his until three days later. This is disgraceful.

This is also what happens when too many people are into something for themselves when they shouldn't be and are trying to find the best way to keep it that way without it looking that way.

Forget the long count. Both fighters had long counts. The fact of the matter is that Douglas knocked the man with his own video game senseless. A cause for celebration, suddenly the once great heavyweight division has more than one real boxer in it. Everyone begins to think of rematches and Evander Holyfield, the number one contender, and other up and coming fighters that could make the division what it once was, instead of the mockery it is now.

To borrow a line from Saturday Night Live, but kknnowwww!!! Don King and his funky looking hair had to reduce the result to something reminiscent of a playground squabble where decide who is "it" and why. King later said that the protest was done to insure that Tyson would get an immediate rematch. The $3 million payoff that Holyfield received should have been sufficient. There was no need to reduce it to that, if you really by that kind of sorry excuse to try to by time to find a loophole that isn't in existence.

Unfortunately, the whole god-awful affair was about money. It was about a man who thought he was legitimately wronged. What's the matter Mike, Robin get more in the settlement than was reported? Or is your car insurance really that high now? King is even lower than Tyson. For another possible $12 million fight, it would be easy to convince Tyson or anybody else to pull a sham like this one. But, King has the rights to both fighters! What kind of money hungry jerk is he? Where has the honor gone in the sport. Douglas beat Tyson fair and square. What he did deserves praise and respect. What he got was much less than that, he earned a title that was tainted by a sham on the public and dishonored by money grubbing cultures.

The public will give Douglas what he deserves and seems to want: acceptance and adulation. Hopefully, that will be enough to bring the heavyweight division back to the lofty status it once enjoyed and longs to regain.

Stability in a world of turmoil: Mom!

For most people, the term "mom" means, to be concise, solace and love; at least that is what I think of when I think of my mom. I am convinced that no one in this world has more patience than my mom, and here's why.

When I was a young boy I was never a delinquent, although I did get into my share of trouble. Whenever I'd get into trouble at school my dad would always try to impose some sort of punishment upon me, only to be shot down by my mom, who always seemed to side with me on virtually any discrepancy I was involved in. After all, I was her first born and only son. And to this day my dad still claims I'm the way I am (whatever way that is) because my mom intervened too much and never let him discipline me his way; oh well.....thanks mom!

From The Editor's Desk
Clint Rushing

The ability to tolerate any form of aggravation, patience, is common among all mothers. My mom has displayed incredible patience through the years. I can remember lying in between my parents at night at the tender age of 2 or 3, relentlessly repeating all through the wee hours of the morning, "I wanna bottle a chocolate milk, I wanna bottle a chocolate milk, I wanna bottle a chocolate milk," until my mom would wake up and go to the kitchen and get me one.

And then, there's the time I decided I didn't like chocolate pudding and spit a mouthful in mom's face. Boy did that tee her off!

Of late (within the past 5 years) my mom has been more patient and understanding than ever. Guiding a young boy into and through the adolescent years is not an easy task. She was always there for me during my high school days to advise me on money, girls, school and any other problems I might have had. She was there for me when I experienced my first heartbreak over a girl in tenth grade. Mom constantly proved to me the fact that she was the one female who'd tell me she loved me and actually mean it. Whatever the problem is, mom is always there to reassure me that troubles will come and troubles will pass, and that everything eventually works itself out. My mom is stability in a world of turmoil.

Whether it is using her typewriter or computer, or if it's a small loan (repayment optional), my mom has the world record for coming through for me. She's never let me down. And I wrote this column to let the world know what a wonderful person my mom is.

Mom, for all those times you listened, understood and tolerated my disorganized and painful dispositions of adolescence, I thank you. You're all a son could ask for in a mother and so much more. To comprehend all the sacrifices you've made for me is probably not possible, but I am trying. I love you. And by the way, Happy Birthday!

Letters to the editor

Reader blasts entire school

Dear Editor,

Several views were expressed in last week's edition regarding some of the problems facing GSC. The editorial staff discussed the unfortunate ratio of needy students to available tutors and the much moaned about but little done about parking problems. One writer wrote to complain about the low salaries paid to the faculty and staff. Another expressed his views about the battle between drivers and pedestrians. At first these things might seem unrelated, but I believe that there is a least common denominator. Our administration has abandoned all sense of responsibility in favor of maximizing the influx of dollars into the system.

Why aren't there enough tutors to help the students who need assistance? The administration has taken in more people than they can accommodate. The problem doesn't stop with tutors. The classes are overly crowded and insufficient in number.

Parking. Enough said but stay tuned. Registration. Advisement. The crowds and associated noise at the library. The lack of computers. The fact that people will kill you at Sarah's over one of those lousy hamburgers. The list goes on. It doesn't seem to matter that all these inadequacies exist. The coffers bulge.

What about parking? I once called up campus security to complain about the fact that the lot behind the blue building was always full of on-campus cars. The person I talked to said that they were doing the best they could; that they were giving between 400-500 tickets a day. As the figure soaked in, I started to forget the reason I called. 400-500 tickets a day! Figure 52 weeks per year, minus 10 weeks in the summer, minus 3 weeks at Christmas, minus 1 week for spring break to equal 38 weeks we are here getting tickets. There are 5 days in a week we are actually here on campus. Considering that tickets are as much as $20, let's assume that the average ticket is $10. Let us also assume, for the sake of argument, that the average number of tickets given in one day is 450. 450 tickets per day multiplied by 38 weeks per year multiplied by 5 days per week multiplied by $10 per ticket equals $855,000 a year generated from parking fines. When I asked this person if anything was being done to alleviate the problem he said that he was on a committee and that they were talking about it but that it would be "several years down the road before anything would actually be done." Talk is cheap. These are just my estimates, but consider the magnitude of what these estimates suggest. I suggest that this is a problem that the administration would rather not solve. Look what they would stand to lose: nearly a million dollars a year.

The students aren't the only ones who are hurting. A high school teacher with a Master's degree makes as much as, or more than, a college professor. With the numbers that the college has taken in have come heavier loads for the faculty.

Farrakhan diminishes

Dear Editor,

The February 9 issue of The George-Anne carried a response to the letter which my wife and I wrote regarding the lecturer who appeared on this campus for Martin Luther King, Jr. Day.

Besides obviously not understanding our letter, Mr. Robertson is guilty of generalization; stereotyping, and prejudice regarding Jews. We shall speak to that issue.

Mr. Robertson evidently has a rather large hole in his education which he has had either no opportunity or a lack of inclination to fill.

Contrary to Mr. Robertson's remark that "Jews and Muslims aren't the best of friends," I, a Jew, do not make friends by any determination of religion, culture, race, nationality, sex, or any other arbitrary criteria. To do so would be (to quote Mr. Robertson) "closed minded."

For your information Mr. Robertson, Jews have lived in the Islamic world for centuries, with much less prejudice than has been the case in the Christian world I might add. The general in charge of the Moorish armies which fought the Christians in Spain was a Jew, as were many diplomats in the Islamic world. Mimonidias, the great Jewish physician and teacher was political advisor to the Sultan of Egypt. When the Jews were expelled from Spain in 1492, the Sultan of Turkey was quoted as saying, "If the Spanish wish to give up their wealth (their merchant and tradesmen class) Turkey will gladly accept it." Jews have lived in all but a few of the nations of the Islamic world in peace and prosperity for centuries.

The Moslems refer to the Jews and Christians as "Nations of the Book." There is respect and tolerance in the Islamic world for their sister religions.

It is only when fanatics USE religion for their own reasons that hate comes to fore. Louis Farrakhan is just such a man. By referring to Judaism as "a gutter religion" as he has done on numerous occasions, he only diminishes himself and his movement; and he certainly doesn't represent Islam!

No, Mr. Robertson, Jews are not against Moslems, people are opposed to fanatics who use religion as a club or a scourge. If you count yourself among those individuals, we certainly pity you.

Thank you for your consideration.

The sun: a sphere of boiling soup

By DAVID SHEPPARD

USA TODAY/Apple College Information Network

SUNSPOT, N.M. — The fiery violence on the surface of the sun reminds Stephen Keil of a pot of boiling soup.

"When the bottom layer gets hot enough, it expands and rises to the surface," the solar physicist said. "It switches places with the cooler soup at the top, which sinks, boils and repeats the process."

Keil, an Air Force scientist at the Sacramento Peak Solar Observatory, was describing a close look at the sun — a computer image from the Vacuum Tower Telescope, the most sensitive solar telescope in the world. The instrument, which reveals incredibly rich detail of the sun, shows columns of gas bubbling near the solar surface between black lines of intense magnetic force.

Those magnetic fields, twisted and kinked, can lead to explosive flares that bombard Earth with powerful blasts of radiation and charged particles.

Researchers using the telescope have accurately predicted flares to within 24 hours. The warnings are critical to help prevent damage to satellites and power supply systems on Earth.

Convection on the sun releases heat that can be seen through a variety of telescopes, but only the vacuum tower can study the mysterious interplay between the granules and the sun's twisting magnetic fields.

"We still don't know exactly how magnetic fields react with the hot gases," Keil said. "To fully understand it, we have to study the physical process on a microscopic scale."

The 20-year-old vacuum tower, located 150 miles south of Albuquerque, works on quite different principles than most telescopes.

Those that examine stars and galaxies are primarily light-gatherers. Their power is measured by the diameter of their mirrors: the larger the mirror, the more light it can gather to see fainter objects.

Solar telescopes don't need large mirrors. They are aimed at the brightest star in our sky. Their power typically is determined by their ability to magnify the image so it can be studied in fine detail.

Large solar telescopes are like telephoto camera lenses: the longer the lens, the larger the image. The vacuum tower could be described as the world's longest telephoto lens.

The telescope — rising 13 stories above the ground and reaching down 22 stories into the mountain — is longer than the Saturn 5 moon rocket.

Astronomer Jack Zirker, a former director of the observatory, said the Air Force built the telescope specifically to improve predictions of solar

Eagles can't out run Murray St. Racers at home 82-79

By MICHAEL STRONG
Sports Editor

The Eagles suffered only their second home loss of the season to Murray State, 82-79, Monday and someone named Popeye had a large hand in the defeat. Popeye must have eaten his spinach before the game because he had 29 points and 15 rebounds and caused all kinds of problems for the Eagles.

The game was a seesaw affair from the start. The Eagles took an early five point lead, 10-5, with Mike Curry and Charlton Young each scoring four points during that stretch, but the Racers came right back. Popeye Jones and Chris Ogden did most of the damage and led the Racers to 14-12 lead. Horace Burton regained the lead for GSC with two consecutive dunks off feeds from Curry that brought the crowd to its feet. The lead would change hands five times in the first half.

Trying to guard Popeye wreaked havoc on the Eagle's starting center Emmett Smith. Smith, who had been averaging 9.7 rebounds and 3.3 blocked shots a game, including a career high six against Arkansas-Little Rock, over his last three games, picked up two fouls early in the half and was ineffective when he wasn't fouling Jones. The Eagles tried to double team Jones, but that was ineffective as well.

The Racers held the lead for a short while, then Mike Harding entered the game. Harding came in and picked up the tempo, running the break at a manic pace. The Eagles built up a six point lead, 27-21, with 5:17 remaining. Harding had a hand in all six points of the 6-0 dash, two points and two assists. The Racers fought back to tie the game 32-32. Harding hit a three pointer with :35 left, but Tommy Williams fouled Paul King just before halftime and he sank both free throws to cut GSC's halftime lead to 35-34.

Jones must have enjoyed the rest at halftime because he went wild in the second half, scoring 22 of his 29 points in the second stanza. The Racers edged out to five point lead over the next 8:28 with Jones leading the way with 14 points, most of those being lay ups. The Eagles tied the score at 58-58 on a 15 jumper from the baseline by Ben Pierce. The momentum shifted toward GSC as the Eagles went on a 10-2 run and a six point lead with 6:39 remaining. Murray State evened the score with 5:05 left on a power lay up by Jones.

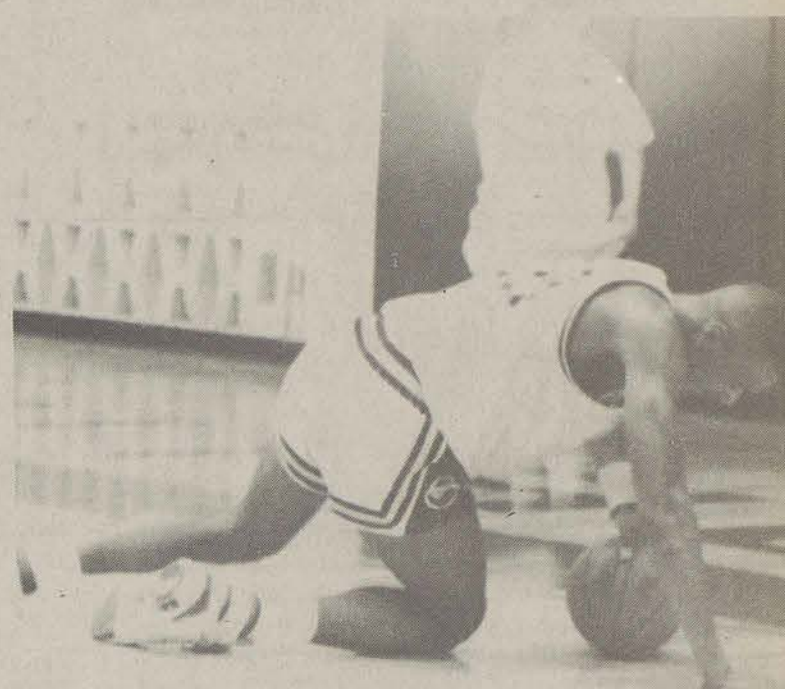

The Racers took a four point lead, 81-77, with just :31 left in the game. Curry brought the Eagles within two, 81-79, with a lay up. The Eagles had their shot, Smith stole the ball at midcourt and Williams was fouled. Williams went to the line, but missed the front end the one-and-one with the Racers getting the rebound. Young fouled King with :11 left and he sank the first of two foul shots for a 82-79 lead. The Eagles took the inbounds pass up court for one last shot, but Pierce's desperation three pointer was no where near the rim and the Eagles lost 82-79.

The Eagles had four players in double figures. Leading the way was Pierce with 15, Horace Burton added 13 and had a strong game defensively. Richard Sherrod chipped in with nine rebounds.

Murray State was led by Jones' 29 points and 15 rebounds, but Ogden also made his presence felt with 18 points and 8 rebounds. The Racers had four of their five starters score in double figures. Murray State raises its record to 17-6 and extend their nation leading winning streak to 13 games.

The Eagles drop to 15-7 overall and 9-2 in the conference. The Eagles will resume conference play this Thursday against Centenary. GSC handed the Gents their first loss of the season the last time they met in Hanner. The game will be in Shreveport, La.. Tipoff will be at 7:30 p.m.

Mike Curry (20) rests after chasing down a loose ball. Curry needs just four points to break the 1,000 point plateau.

The Eagles lost to Murray State 82-79, in a game that went down to the wire.

Lady Eagles pull stuffing out of Teddy Bears, Dreema get 100th victory

By PAUL FLOECKHER
Assistant Sports Editor

Not all of the first 99 came easily, but number 100 certainly did.

The GSC Lady Eagles gave head coach Dreema Greer her 100th career victory Monday with a 92-55 pounding of Mercer in Macon.

A 1979 Clemson graduate, Greer now sports a 100-44 record in four-plus years of coaching.

Before coming to GSC, she posted a 46-15 record at Berry College in Rome. In two years at the helm, Greer led the Lady Vikings to 25-7 and 21-8 seasons and two top 20 finishes in the NAIA rankings.

In Greer's first season at GSC (1987-88), the Lady Eagles soared to a 21-8 finish and wrapped up their second straight New South Women's Athletic Conference title with a 73-66 victory over Florida A&M in the championship game.

Although GSC finished last year's regular season "only" 16-11, the Lady Eagles came on strong at tournament time. GSC wiped out Florida A&M, then routed regular-season champion Florida International to enter the title game against Stetson. The Lady Eagles came up seven points short, but nonetheless established themselves as the NSWAC's dominant team with two championships and two second-place finishes in four years.

With a 15-9 record so far, this year's Lady Eagle squad has pushed Greer's GSC mark to 54-29.

In Monday's romp, the Lady Eagles shot a season-high 60% (31-51) from the field and scored a season-high 92 points.

Greer's biggest chore the entire night was making sure all her players saw action. All 13 Lady Eagles played at least seven minutes and an incredible 12 scored.

As she has on nine other occasions this season, forward Tracy Wilson led GSC's scoring attack. Shortly after being named the NSWAC Player-of-the-Week, Wilson scored 19 points and pulled down five rebounds against the Teddy Bears.

Two other Lady Eagles joined Wilson in double figures. Markisha Vereen poured in 12 points on 5-6 shooting from the field and 2-2 from the line, and Stephanie Christmas, shot a perfect 5-5 from the field and 1-1 from the charity stripe on her way to a season-high 11 points.

Mercer scored the first four points of the night, but the Lady

Eagles answered with a 33-4 run that put the victory away early. At one point, GSC held the Teddy Bears without a point for 8:34.

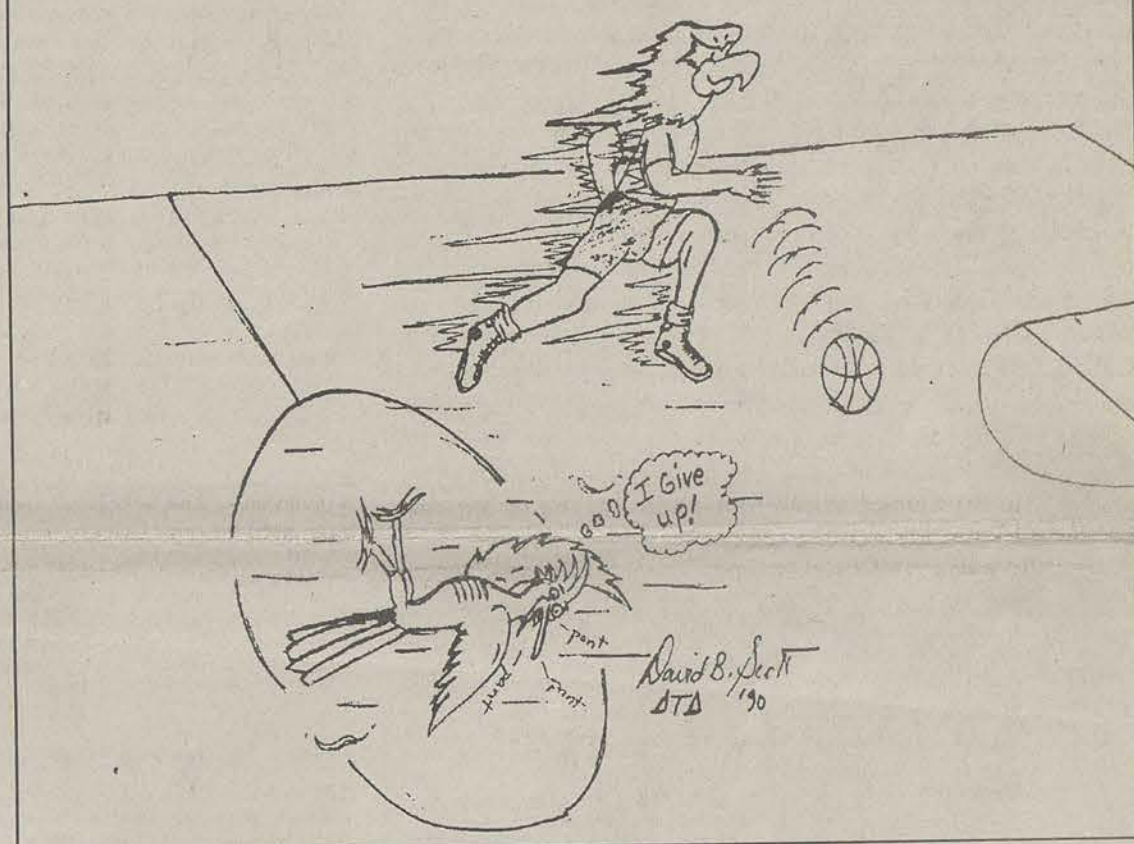

Although Mercer closed the first half by outscoring GSC 12-9, the Lady Eagles held a commanding 42-20 lead at the break. At the half Mercer had only three players in the scoring column, led by Donna Braswell's 10 points. By halftime eight Lady Eagles already had scored, with Wilson's 16 leading the way.

GSC was equally impressive in the second half, outscoring Mercer 50-35 and dropping the Teddy Bears to 5-17 overall and 2-8 in the NSWAC.

The night that belonged to Dreema Greer and the Lady Eagles was nothing short of a disaster for Mercer head coach Ed Nixon. Nixon was whistled for two technical fouls and saw his record at the school fall to 116-160.

Greer and company will shoot for victory number 101 Saturday against NSWAC foe Central Florida in Hanner Fieldhouse. The UCF game will kick off GSC's final homestand of the season, a stand that also will include Stetson and Florida A&M.

Baseball team plays well vs. ranked foes

By MICHELE ROSS
Sports writer

The Eagles faced the 17th ranked Florida Gators for a three game series last weekend.

On Friday, GSC topped the Gators 7-5. Pitcher Joey Hamilton went six innings giving up five hits and four walks while striking out 12. Right fielder Todd Greene led the Eagles scoring three runs on two hits.

The Eagles took a 1-0 lead in the top of the second. Catcher Rob Fitzpatrick scored on a passed by Gator catcher Jim Bell. Fitzpatrick finished Friday's game with two RBIs coming off a two run homer.

Florida took the lead in the bottom of the second scoring three runs. Hamilton walked third baseman Joe Russo and DH Tim Vannatta. Bell then singled to score Russo and Vannatta. He then stole second and scored on an error by the Eagles.

In the bottom of the third, Russo hit a double and Vannatta tripled to give the Gators a 5-3 lead.

In the top of the fourth, DH Mike Miller and the shortstop both walked. Greene came to the plate and picked up two RBIs. The gave the Eagles the push they needed to fly by the Gators.

JUCO transfer Matt Horn took over for Hamilton in the seventh inning and struck out three to earn the save.

The Eagles finished with seven runs, eight hits, and three errors. The Gators had five runs, five hits, and three errors.

With Saturday's game called off because of rain, the teams played a doubleheader on Sunday. This was not to be the Eagles day, winning 5-3 in the ninth inning, Florida tied it up and won in the tenth, 6-5.

Florida left fielder Eric Martinez led off the tenth with a single. With one out, Russo hit a double, with Martinez advancing to third base. Pinch hitter Jeff McAndrew walked to load the bases. Catcher Mario Linares singled giving the Gators the win.

Eagle pitcher Jay Berkner went nine innings giving up five runs on eight hits. Berkner walked four and struck out five. Russ Russell took the loss, giving up one run on three hits in the tenth.

The second game was never even close.

The Eagles started Peter Bouma. Bouma gave up two runs in the first inning and three runs in the second. GSC bit the bullet in the fifth inning. Greene hit a two run homer followed by Fitzpatrick with a solo shot. That was as close as the Eagles would come. Florida scored their final run in the bottom of the eighth, defeating the Eagles 6-3.

The Eagles met another top ranked team on Monday and Tuesday when the 21st ranked Georgia Bulldogs came for a visit.

The Bulldogs started freshman pitcher Stan Payne, who was a second round draft pick straight out of high school. The left hander gave up two runs on six hits and struck out four.

In the bottom of the first, the Eagles tried to start a rally. Lead off hitter Chris Abner, started with a single. Doug Eder followed with a double. Right fielder Todd Greene singled up the middle, but hit Eder on his way to third, so there was one out. Rob Fitzpatrick was next up. Georgia turned the double play ending the inning.

In the fourth, Eder had his second double of the game and advanced to third on a sacrifice fly by Fitzpatrick. Eder then scored on a Georgia error.

Bulldog DH Brian Jester hit a solo home run. Two more runs followed on a fielder's choice and a wild pitch in the fifth.

Eagle DH Steve Seibert hit a dinger to right center to score the Eagles last run.

Matt Harn gave up four runs in the fifth inning. He gave up seven for the game on seven hits, four walks, and and one strikeout.

The Bulldogs ended up with a 9-2 win over the Eagles.

The Eagles evened up the series on Tuesday, defeating the Bulldogs 8-4.

Pitcher Joey Hamilton got win number two giving up four runs on four hits, two walks, and six strikeouts.

In the bottom of the third, Georgia pitcher Mike Rebhan walked two men to start the inning. Shortstop Jeff Coughlin drove in one with a sacrifice fly. Fitzpatrick then followed with a single to score two runs. The Eagles led 3-1.

Third baseman Chad Sumner hit a towering home run over the centerfield wall. GSC scored two more runs before Rebhan was replaced by Tracy Wildes.

In the sixth inning, Steve Seibert hit his second home run of the season, both against Georgia. After giving up a homer in the eighth, Hamilton was replaced by Jay Berkner, who finished up.

GSC's next home games are against Georgia Tech. this weekend at Clements Stadium at 2 p.m.

The dual ceremonies may be only an interim adjustment, however, as officials contemplate ever-growing classes of graduates.

Students who began enrolling in record numbers at GSC in 1985 are now graduating in large numbers - and bringing record crowds to commencement ceremonies. Last year's June class of 1,000 graduates drew an overflow audience of 7,500 family members and well-wishers.

"Dividing commencement into two ceremonies allows us to keep the presentation of degrees on a personal basis in a reasonable time and to provide a much more comfortable atmosphere for families and friends who wish to attend," Deal said.
