BUSH ADDRESSES CONGRESS

"The war is over," President Bush declared Wednesday in an emotional, applause-studded speech to Congress. In the speech, he called for creating "shared security arrangements" in the Middle East; controlling weapons of mass destruction; establishing new opportunities for Israeli recognition and Palestinian rights; and fostering "economic freedom and prosperity."

LAST POWS ON HOSPITAL SHIP

The last known U.S. prisoners of war arrived on the U.S. hospital ship Mercy Wednesday, while U.S. officials continued the difficult task of tracking down service personnel missing in action. The Department of Defense says there are 24 U.S. troops missing in action. Fourteen of them - crew members of a downed plane - are believed dead.

AIR FORCE GUNSHIP FOUND

An Air Force gunship that disappeared during a secret mission Jan. 31 has been found in the Persian Gulf. All 14 crew members, although officially listed as missing in action, are believed to be dead. The plane was based at Hurlburt Field in Florida. A spokesman for the base said the plane was found about a half-mile off the coast near the border of Kuwait and Saudi Arabia.

JOURNALISTS TO BE REPATRIATED

Iraq's U.N. ambassador promised Wednesday his government would do what it could to find and repatriate several dozen international journalists who apparently are trapped in the country. Unofficial counts Wednesday had up to 37 journalists missing in Iraq, most of whom have not been heard from since the weekend. Estimates are that about 10 were working for U.S. news organizations.

ISRAEL SUPPLIED INFORMATION

Israel supplied intelligence information to the USA during the gulf war and was not just an intelligence recipient, Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Arens said Wednesday. Arens did not specify the nature of the Israeli intelligence, but a major U.S. part was the five-minute warning of a Scud attack provided by U.S. satellite. Arens said Israel soon will launch its first spy satellite.

CHIEF'S RESIGNATION SOUGHT

Outraged Californians are calling for the resignation of Los Angeles Police Chief Daryl Gates in the wake of the airing of a videotape of white police officers beating an unarmed black man. More than 1,000 called headquarters Wednesday to complain. The NAACP Thursday is to announce plans for a protest. The Southern California ACLU is placing ads demanding Gates's resignation.

PIVOTAL ROOKIE CARD TRADED

Bryan Wrzesinski, 13, got a good deal for his Nolan Ryan rookie card, but he might have violated a no-trade clause. So says baseball card dealer Joe Irmen, whose lawyer wants a delay in his lawsuit against Bryan. He bought the card for $12 at Irmen's store. Irmen says a clerk misread the card's $1,200 label. But Bryan has traded the card for a 1965 Joe Namath and a 1967 Tom Seaver.

Students have chance to travel to Spain

By KEN WARD
Staff Writer

An international studies program will take place in Spain this summer.

The 15 hour credit program is open to undergraduates and graduates who meet qualifications set by the Department of Foreign Languages.

"I would recommend this program to GSU students because after a basic level of classroom instruction in Spanish, which is an artificial environment, I think it is confidence building to go to a country where the language is spoken," said Dr. Judith Schomber the program's director.

"The students will live in Segovia, where they will not just be a tourist observing the sights. They will actually live within the culture, and the student has an opportunity to see if what they have been learning in the classroom actually works in the real world."

The cost of the program is $3,000 and is open to students who have completed at least four quarters of university-level Spanish, or the equivalent. Students must also have a grade point average of 3.0 in all Spanish work undertaken and a 2.5 cumulative grade point average. Financial aid will be available to students who qualify.

Spring Break: Where to go

By MICHAEL STRONG
Features Editor

Fitting one more bag into the trunk. Checking all the fluid levels in the car. Bringing the confirmation number and phone number for the hotel. 'Tis the season to get sunburnt, it is time to go on Spring Break.

Daytona, Cancun, Padre Island, and many other spots are all competing for the vacation buck of college and high school students. They have placed advertisements in every conceivable magazine, newspaper, and television station in order to get the money of students all over the country.

Daytona is the everpresent center of spring break activity. MTV broadcasts from the city every year and more students go to Daytona than any other Spring Break "spot." The city of Daytona goes out of its way to attract students with a vigorous ad campaign. This year's campaign is entitled "Destination Daytona!"

"Destination Daytona!" is produced by the Convention and Visitors Bureau of Daytona. It has its own 800 phone line (800-854-1234) and sends literature about events, hints, and hotels in and around Daytona to student organizations all over the country.

Cancun is another popular "spot." While the advertising campaign is not as intense as other spots, students seem to flock to the Mexican city. The weather is comparable to that of Daytona, the real drawing point is the lower drinking age.

Since the drinking age is lower, it tends to draw quite a few high school students, in proportion to Daytona. Cancun is in a foreign country, visitors must make sure that they are aware of all local laws. Ignorance is not an excuse for breaking a law and due process tends to be conceptual at best.

The Bahamas and other Caribbean islands are much the same as Cancun, thus the same cautions should be taken. The main difference with the Caribbean is that one must take a cruise to get to these islands. Pack motion sickness pills and be prepared to gain several pounds. Food is free and plentiful on cruises, buffets are accessible at all hours of the day and night.

Padre Island is the newest "hip" spot. It is off the coast of Texas, near the Mexican boarder. Luckily, due process is not a concept here, but the food is pretty much the same. Be warned! It is beginning to hype itself much in the same way Daytona did five years ago. It's patronage is primarily college students-for now.

Cheap packages are available to all of the above locations, but leery of with whom you are dealing. There are many odd requirements to get the cheapest fare that is advertised. The price advertised is rarely the price vacationers can get. Always check with a travel agent to see if the company offering these packages are legitimate.

In a sharp contrast to the other "spots", Hilton Head, S.C. has done its best to discourage Spring

Fraternity cleans up row

G-A Reports

Kappa Sigma fraternity organized a community service project to clean up Olympic Blvd., which is the location of GSU's greek row.

Members of the fraternity met February 16 and spent the afternoon picking up the trash that had begun to accumulate.

"The fraternity was growing concerned with the garbage problem that had started to pile up along the sides of the road," said Kappa Sigma public relations director Lenny Linardos.

"We were concerned about the danger of broken bottles and other debris that had become an eye-sore to greek row."

According to Linardos, the fraternity collected and disposed of 58 bags of trash.

"We (Kappa Sigma fraternity) challenge other fraternities and sororities to participate in a clean up effort on a regular basis to rid ourselves of a problem that does not have a place on greek row," said Linardos.

Special to the G-A

Many students who go to the beach don't realize how strong the sun's rays can be. After only one day of sunshine, they have a painful sunburn that may ruin the rest of their trip - and their skin.

Don't let this happen to you this year. A conservative approach to sunbathing will assure that your remaining vacation days will be as fun as the first. And you can come back to school with a good tan instead of a itchy peel.

Because Florida is closer to the equator than many northern states, the ultra violet rays are four times

GSU, Willingway adress substance abuse This week's campus announcements

G-A Staff Reports

Responding to a critical need identified in a recent Community Needs Assessment, the GSU Center for Rural Health and the Willingway Foundation have joined forces to address the growing problem of drug and alcohol addiction in rural areas.

Susan Pajari, the former director of education at Willingway, has been hired as Southern's Coordinator of Special Projects in Rural Addiction to Coordinate and disseminate research and educational information about substance abuse.

The new position is funded in part with a private grant to the Willingway Foundation, and is based in the School of Health and Professional Studies' Center for Rural Health on the campus of GSU.

"Nationwide, the incidence rate of substance abuse in rural and metropolitan areas seems to be quite comparable, but with higher rates of alcohol abuse and lower rates of drug abuse in rural areas," said Pajari. "However in Georgia, perhaps because of our proximity to the major sources of east coast drug trafficking, we may not have a lower incidence rate of drug abuse comparatively."

Pajari went on to say that while indications are that overall drug use has declined in recent years, alcohol abuse and its related illnesses are the third leading causes of death in the United States.

"Across the board, alcohol causes more problems than all illegal drug use the leading cause of death for 16 to 24 year olds," she said.

Although substance addiction transcends all socioeconomic levels, treatment for drug and alcohol addiction can be expensive, thus rendering it virtually unavailable to many people.

"There are some good state-funded programs available to help treat substance abuse, and increasing numbers of insurance companies are starting to help pay for treatment -- but without money, it can still be difficult to get help," she said.

"Physically removing the substance from your system doesn't take that long, but recovery from an addiction is much more than a physical process.

Recovery is a long, difficult process in which you learn new coping skills. Research has shown that you can get Crack out of your system in six days, but relapse is based more on impulse than on physical desire -- and that's why the coping skill are so important."

Pajari has been conducting a rural addiction attitude survey among rural family practice physicians to help the doctors recognize preconceptions that any have about substance abuse.

"We've found that many of the doctors we've interviewed are very open-minded about the subject," said Pajari. "The ones whose family or personal life has been touched by substance abuse tend to be more emotional about the subject and sometimes need someone to help them process those feelings.

"We are providing them with research and printed information that will help them further understand substance abuse, because the more they understand about the problem, the better they will be able to help their patients who may suffer from addiction."

Pajari is currently involved in research to document a connection between Crack syphilis and AIDS in order to develop preventative strategies.

"Georgia Southern University impacts strongly on this region in many ways, and it has recognized that rural addiction is a component that must be addressed," said Pajari. "But if we are to eliminate the problem, there is going to have to be a strong commitment from both the public and private sectors.

The Foy Gallery 303 new exhibit, "Places You Cannot Get to From Here," will be on display from March 8 until March 29. The opening reception, held at noon on March 8 will introduce students to all manner of whimsical escapes from reality. Contributing artists include Kevin Cole, Bob Clements, Kathy Yancy, Peggy McBride, Lin Christopher, and Terry Bolling.

Auditions Held

Auditions for the spring musical, Bertolt Brecht's "Three Penny Opera" will be held on next Thursday and Friday at 7 p.m. in McCroan Auditorium. For more information call Dando Kluever at 681-0106.

Shakespeare performed

For those of you who missed it the first time around, Dando Kluever and Rohan Quince will perform Shakespeare: Mask and Meaning at 8 p.m. on Tuesday in Studio 101 of the Communication Arts Building.

Scenes from Richard III, Othello, Hamlet, Richard III, Henry IV, Part I, Romeo and Juliet, As You Like It and The Comedy of Errors will be performed.

New Laser Printer

The LRC has received a new Apple Macintosh laser printer in addition to three new dot matrix printers. The laser printer is only hooked up to a few of the Apple computers, but within time students may be able to print on the laser printer from any computer. For more information, come by the LRC and take a look!

Residents Recognized

Two Statesboro residents were recently awarded certificates of recognition for completing the required 40 hours of training as GSU Area Senior Companions.

Johnnie Mae Love and Mildred L. Yarbrough are now receiving a tax-free stipend of $2.35 an hour for 20 hours per week of work as volunteers who help those needing assistance with daily chores so that they may continue living at home.

The Georgia Southern Area program serves nine counties. It is funded by ACTION, and sponsored by the Center for Rural Health and Research at GSU.

Math Tournament

Some 800 high school and junior high school students will participate in GSU's Third Annual Mathematics Tournament tomorrow in Hanner Field House.

About 65 schools will be represented in the tournament, divided into three categories of competition: varsity, junior varsity and junior high.

The tournament, according to its organizers, is designed to recognize students' accomplishments in mathematics, to allow outstanding mathematics students to meet and compete with each other and to promote public interest in mathematics.

Wind Ensemble Performs

The GSU Symphonic Wind Ensemble will play its first concert of the season Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Recital Hall of the Foy Fine Arts Building.

Spring travel: Some handy tips

By CATHY LYNN GROSS-MAN

©Copyright 1991, USA TODAY/Apple College Information Network

This spring your vacation matters more than ever.

Experts predict that with war and recession, you might not be making as many leisure trips or might travel closer to home.

But go you and it had better be great.

Here are some tips from travel experts on smoothing the way, from cutting expenses a great deal to surviving the horrendous allergy season blowing our way.

Young travelers normally won't face any greater obstacles than other age groups -- except when it comes to renting a car.

Most agencies, for insurance reasons, require drivers to be 25.

To every rule there are exceptions, however. Jerry Cheske of the American Automobile Association says if you are a AAA member age 21-25 and you have a credit card in your name, you can rent with Hertz and Avis in 35 states. Among those excluded: California, Colorado, Florida, New York and Washington, D.C.

Other areas where age may be a factor:

— Most hotels will rent rooms to anyone over 18, but there are exceptions. Cheske says call ahead and be certain you'll be accepted, particularly in spring break havens in Florida, South Carolina and Texas.

— You need to be at least 18 to book your own cabin on most cruise ships. Don't try to fake it -- you'll be revealing your age at boarding when you present your passport or proof of citizenship. Remember, the age limit for drinking doesn't vanish with the shoreline when you set sail: 21 is international limit.

Me'An Mills hopes to put the 'Boro on the music map

By DOUG GROSS
Staff writer

When one thinks of original rock and roll from the state of Georgia, the cities of Athens and Atlanta instantly come to mind as breeding grounds for such successful acts as R.E.M., Drivin' and Cryin', and the Black Crowes.

Our town of Statesboro, on the other hand, isn't generally known for producing successful rock acts, with relatively few local groups gaining enough stature to perform out of town.

In the past few years, however, a handful of Statesboro bands have sought to end this trend by making creative, original music and working like crazy to bring that music to the public. At the forefront of these groups is Me'An Mills, a four piece act which, while currently residing in Savannah, will always consider Statesboro their home away from home.

Me'An Mills was originally formed in the spring of 1988, when lead vocalist and guitarist Dodd Ferrelle and bassist John Mills met guitarist Mitch Turner and drummer Brad Bacon in Statesboro. When Turner moved to Atlanta two years later, Clint Jones, childhood friend of Ferrelle and Mills, stepped in to take over guitar duties.

"Clint and I had always talked about being in a band together," said Ferrelle, who traces the origins of the band back to 1985 when he and Jones got their first guitars and began playing together.

The group's sound combines hard, progressive rock with a "definitely Southern" edge. According to Jones, however, "The music is not original style Southern rock. Our influences come from lots of different places."

The foundation for the group is set by Bacon's hard driving drumming style and the constantly busy fret work of Mills, who is described by Ferrelle as "a genius on the bass." On top of this Ferrelle and Jones add their textured guitar sounds, with the two alternating between lead and rhythm parts. Ferrelle rounds out the sound with his raw vocal style and lyrics often concerning "the everyday Joe out there trying to make his life better."

Another intangible element of the group's sound is the sense of unity "which exists among the band members."

"It's like a line connecting us as people and as musicians," Ferrelle remarked.

"No one has to tell anyone else what to play," adds Bacon. "Whatever anyone is playing at any time, we know that is the best thing he could be playing on that song."

Since moving to Savannah last June for financial reasons, Me'An Mills have established a loyal following there, as well as in towns such as Charleston and Myrtle Beach where the band has played in recent months.

In addition to further touring, the group plans to release a new demo tape in the near future. The tape, which will be available locally at the Emporium, will consist of all new songs. According to Ferrelle the band hopes to capture a "relaxed, live" quality on the tape and to convey the "spiritual sense" of the songs to be recorded.

When asked about future goals of the group, the members expressed a desire to receive a recording contract and to be able to continue making music for the rest of their lives. While there

Little Women plays to big ovations

By CHRISTY JOHNS
Staff Writer

As the house lights go down the audience is transported back to a point in time reminiscent of the civil war. The small, homey looking gingerbread house of the March family stands in between the front of an austere old Federal home and a trellis covered patch of grass. Out come the girls who are so much in character that one might actually believe that they are Jo, Meg, Beth and Amy March.

Theater South's production of Little Women is truly a work of art. The script, adapted from Louisa May Alcott's novel by Patricia Pace, was specially created for the limited stage space of McCroan Auditorium. Pace's play is two acts followed by a brief epilogue. Area children have had the opportunity to see the play over the past weeks while giving the cast and crew ample opportunity to polish all the "rough edges" of the production.

Alcott's novel is semi-autobiographical in that the tom boyish character of Jo March is based on Alcott's own experiences and background. During the 1800's and especially near the Civil War era, it was relatively unheard of for a woman to want to have anything to do with war or of any "manly" things but Alcott did all the same. The novel is about girlhood and growing up. All women seem to relate to it on one level or another.

The set design was the sole responsibility of Gary Dartt and was tricky because of the lack of stage space in McCroan. Despite this, Dartt got rave reviews from Pace as having "done a wonderful job. He built it himself you know." Brenda Dartt, in charge of costumes, created a wide variety of period costumes, each as exquisite and elegant as the next.

The cast are all students at GSU and have done quite a bit of work on the production. Little Women will run from February 27 to March 2 with show time being at 8:00 each evening.

may be thousands of groups in the music world with those same ambitions, you get a sense from spending time with these guys that if anyone can do it, this band may just be the one.

"We all have confidence in the band and in each other," remarked Bacon as the band members relaxed with a twelve pack of their favorite beverage. "One day we will be able to drop everything else we're doing and put a lot more work into the music."

With a strong, original sound and a heartfelt dedication to their music and each other, this band of "best friends" has a group of loyal fans looking forward to that day.

Letters to the Editor

Argo belted again

Dear Editor,
I want to commend my sister (Keisha Davis) and my brother (Chris Brown) for challenging Mr. Argo's editorial. It is imperative that African Americans know the contributions of African Americans to civilization as we know it. We as African Americans came together under the desire of one man, Carter G. Woodson (1926), to celebrate the life and struggle of the African American. We had to do it because African Americans were getting trapped in what I would like to refer to as "white ideology."
My brother Chris tapped in on something very important when he spoke of African Americans as the only group in American that has a question mark when asked about their history. Through the process of learning that I have gone through so far, the life of African Americans has been poorly portrayed. This is why there is a great need for Black History Month or Black Awareness Month; I believe in celebrating the lives of African Americans 365 days a year. This is something that is practiced in February because of the significance of that particular month in African American history brought out by my sister Keisha in her reply to Mr. Argo.
I truly believe Mr. Argo, being outside of the culture, would find it hard to understand the struggle and lack of truth in African American Society. If he knew the negative effect this is having in the African American community, he might understand the need. I wonder if he is among the ones who have promoted self-destruction of the black communities referred to by Chris in his reply to Mr. Argo. Then maybe Mr. Argo's interests lie in the destruction of the black community that is; but he does drive me to wonder.

It is a greater need now than ever for African Americans to have knowledge of themselves. This helps to break down the inferiority complex and build up a stronger self-worth. I want to tell my people that it is important to keep struggling for, "Life without struggle is life without progress." I would like to say to Keisha and Chris, thanks for moving forward on the issue when the rest of us just sat back and took the blow. I love and appreciate you both for this effort.

Patrick J. Harrison

Soldier thanks students

Dear Editor,
Recently I received a copy of The George-Anne from a GSU student Chris Lynch. I wanted to thank you all for your thoughts and prayers during this time of crisis. Like Maria Bisso said, "if you don't believe in the war that's fine; if you do believe in the war that's fine." All we ask is to not be treated like Vietnam veterans were when they came home.

We're not asking for parades, parties, nor do we want to be spit upon and called baby killers just because Saddam may use children to fight.

We came here because it was our job, not because we wanted to. We promised to uphold and defend when we took the oath for the armed forces. Then our Commander in Chief President Bush said we were needed. It was our duty.

Yes (the war) may be partly for oil; I could not care less. I am here to help restore freedom that has been taken away from a country. A freedom that we know and enjoy in the U.S. Hussein needs to be taken out. One day he may be a world threat with nuclear weapons. The U.S. may be his target. Yes, there will be loss of life-it is a tragic thing. But freedom isn't free.

When you're sitting at home watching a sporting event on television, partying with your friends, or praying at church, you are exercising your freedom. Kuwait doesn't have that, at least not now.

Once again I would like to thank everyone for their support.

PRSSA applauded

Dear Editor,
The American Association of University Women, Statesboro Branch, would like to thank members of the GSU chapter of PRSSA (Public Relations Student Society of America), STING participants, and a group of selected GSU women students. All served as special mentors at the Career Options Conference held recently on the Georgia Southern campus. Funded in part by the AAUW Educational Foundation, the conference's purpose was to introduce 7th and 8th grade girls to non-traditional career options. A further goal was to bridge the age and experience gap by having these girls spend time with groups of young university women, many of whom were preparing for non-traditional careers.

To a person, these young GSU women were a credit to the organizations and the disciplines they represented. It was a pleasure for our organization to be associated with them through this conference. The excitement, creativity, and enthusiasm they brought to the event not only inspired the 7th and 8th graders, but also our membership. We very much appreciate the time and talent they so graciously shared.

LRC staffer angry

Dear Editor,
I was surprised to find myself quoted so profusely in The George-Anne article of March 5, "The L R C: Things You Should Know."

By paragraph ten the article finally mentioned something I actually said. When questioned about the numerous misquotes, your staff writer, Trey Decker, said the brief list of hints I had given him was too dry. Editorial policy expanded the material to be "newsworthy."

In the future, follow common journalism guidelines and stick to the facts given. If The National Enquirer style is necessary for a story, please use your own name for quotes, not mine.

Watch where you walk!

Dear Editor,
I would like to address the issue of the student cross walks. These zones are clearly marked by white and yellow lines. The idea behind these lines is that students may enter this zone and cars are supposed to give the right of way to the pedestrian.

This is a wonderful idea, so you morons who think that this applies to every inch of road on campus need to get a clue! If you are not in one of these zones and a car is moving at 30 miles and hour and you decide that its ok to step in front of this car when it is 10 feet away you deserve to be chased back up onto the bloody curb!

Mind you this does not apply to every one on campus, just the people around Hanner and the new parking lot over by South Building. If you are going to cross the street and a car is moving at 50 miles per hour and in your general direction and not slowing down, take it as a hint, run across, do everyone a favor. A car moving that fast can serious ruin your life, understand?

I have begun to assign point values to the people who do this: sorority girls are worth 10, fraternity guys are worth 15, any one who looks surprised is worthless, because they are slow and stupid.

Yes, pedestrians do have the right of way at intersections and cross walks and the average driver will give way regardless of where on campus they happen to be, but please don't expect it.

Eagles ousted in TAAC 1st round... again

By JAMES DRINKARD
Assistant Sports Editor

It is a tradition. It must be. Nothing else could explain the fact that for the third straight year Georgia Southern has been knocked out of the TAAC Tournament IN THE FIRST ROUND.

To make matters worse, the Eagles had swept Arkansas-Little Rock, the team that ousted them from the tourney, in the regular season.

Nonetheless, when the final second ticked off the clock, the Trojans had the 70-65 victory, and the Eagles had an early trip home.

The game started off well enough. Southern took the lead and held it for the first eight minutes of the game. Charlton Young, Emmett Smith and Wendell Charles powered the Eagles to a 11-6 lead with 15:07 left in the first half.

By the 12:45 mark, UALR had narrowed the score to 13-12. At 11:58, the Trojans took a two-point lead.

Nothing seemed to go right after that.

Little Rock guard David Redmond began his strike, nailing some of his seven three-pointers. By the 3:15 mark, Redmond had 12 points and the Trojans had a nine-point lead.

Cal Ferguson nailed a jumper to bring the Eagles within seven points, but Cordell Robinson slipped inside for the layup to once again widen the gap.

With 1:02 on the clock and Southern down 40-33, Monty Noblitt found the open spot and dropped a long three-pointer.

It was to no avail. The end of the first half saw Georgia Southern down 42-35.

Now, to many people, it probably seemed that the Eagles were in serious trouble. Being down at the end of the first half of any basketball game is far less than desirable -- and this was the Trans America Athletic Conference Tournament.

But these people had not seen Southern's come-from-behind victory over Little Rock just five days prior to this contest. They were not there when the Eagles recovered from a 20-point half-time deficit to send the Trojans home feeling abused.

Surely, a mere seven-point disadvantage would not stop the Eagles. These guys had recovered from worse, and they would do it again.

Well, that was then and this was now.

The second half began rather routinely. Georgia Southern attempted to regain the lead or -- at the very least -- tie the game, but the Trojans held firm.

Southern tried forcing the ball inside with the hope that utilizing a consistent post game would help narrow the Trojan advantage.

Little Rock would not allow it. Then, with about 10 minutes left in the game, the Eagles opened up their perimeter game.

That was the key. By 8:46, the score was UALR 52, Georgia Southern 50.

In basketball, a two-point lead is a precious gem. It is fragile... and very valuable.

The Trojans treated their lead with something akin to reverence.

Every time the Southern Five would narrow the margin to two points, UALR would somehow manage to extend it to four, or five, or seven.

Eagle head coach Frank Kerns planned his strategy carefully. As time began to grow short, he began substituting players... constantly. Eagles would come in to play defense while the starting five caught their breaths and got briefed on "new" strategies.

There had to be a weakness somewhere in the depths of this talented team.

With 58 seconds on the clock, the Eagles were down by only four points. But the Trojans had the ball.

At the 38-second mark, Charlton Young fouled Derrick Hall, placing the Trojan on the charity line for the one-and-one. He hit both shots.

Little Rock led 66-60. The Eagles took possession and set up their offense. A shot went up. As the lane collapsed, Monty Noblitt fell to the inside and pulled down the rebound. Pulling out of the pack, he fired a short jumper.

The Eagles closed the margin to four.

Forced into a foul-to-save-time-situation, Tony Windless bumped Hall. Once again, Hall went to the line -- this time with two shots. Both fell and the score was 68-62.

The Eagles took possession, set up their offense and began working the ball around the horn. From the point to the corner and back to the point -- searching...

In the corner... Noblitt was open. The ball was in his hands... the three-pointer was up...

GOOD! UALR 68, GSU 65.

Little Rock inbounded the ball. They eluded defender after defender... the clock wore down. Finally, Noblitt fouled Cordell Robinson to stop the clock at 16 seconds.

Robinson stepped to the line with two shots. The first went up... good. A deep breath... set...

the second shot went up... it bounced on the rim... rolled... and fell out.

Tony Windless grabbed the rebound and fired it down court to Emmett Smith. Too late -- the pack was already there. Smith fired a three-pointer... NO GOOD!

Little Rock's James Scott snagged the rebound and drove. Tony Windless fouled him to stop the clock.

But with only two seconds left in the game, the Eagles down 69-64 and Scott stepping to the line, what chance was there?

Scott went 1-2 at the line, but it didn't really matter.

The game was over, the Eagles beaten 70-65...

... and all that was left was to prepare for a very long ride home.

Fencers qualify

G-A Staff Reports

The GSU fencing team qualified five fencers for national competition at the Division II Qualifiers held at Hanner this past weekend.

Listed in alphabetical order they are: Kevin Cleveland, sophomore chemistry major; Joel Graham, sophomore mechanical engineering technology major; Ron Long, sophomore chemistry major; Trey Martin, senior English major; and Pam Moore, senior criminal justice major.

The two-day tournament, rotated among each club in the state each year, was originally to be held at the Skate-R-Bowl. Leaks in the roof, however, caused the tournament to be moved to a more hospitable location -- Hanner Fieldhouse.

Trey Martin took first in Men's Open Epee. He was undefeated in the opening round, with one loss in the final round.

Ron Long took second place with three victories and two defeats in both rounds.

In Woman's Foil, Pam Moore, the GSU Fencing Club president, gained third place.

Paula Clark and Elizabeth Mills, a GSU graduate student, finished fifth and sixth, respectively.

Men's Open Foil, with 18 entries, had Kevin Cleveland finishing third and Joel Graham following in fourth. Cleveland had only just recently earned

Aerobics classes increased for Spring

By WILLIAM GARRETT
HEABERLIN

Intramurals Publicity Coordinator

A major change in the aerobics program has been the enclosure of Marvin Pittman Gymnasium with proper flooring and air conditioning. However, the program has already expanded and is facing new problems.

What's multi-colored, has 50 heads, 100 legs and is highly upset? A group of aerobics students who have just been turned away from an aerobics class at GSU. Have no fear, all the aerobics overcrowding problems are being addressed and are about to change.

Starting spring quarter, Campus Recreation and Intramurals will be increasing the number of aerobics classes from 20 classes weekly to 24. CR/I is constantly trying to offer more programs to students as facilities are limited.

Right now the demand for aerobics is one of the largest issues facing Campus Recreation and Intramurals. Currently 15 aerobics instructors and four assistants are leading the masses.

With results back from a previous evaluation among aerobics attendants, the leading complaints were that the classes were too crowded and that more classes were needed. But as far as the total aerobics program goes, the majority of components reward excellent ratings.

"I feel totally irate when I get turned away," said senior Tracy Kelley, a Resort Management major. "The capacity is not accessing to students who want to take aerobics. I'd come no matter what, no matter what time."

Tracy is one of many students who often get turned away from aerobics classes. Usually each class has to turn away 20-40 students due to overcrowding. Each class has the capacity to hold only 110 students.

Students who do not present their GSU I.D.'s also are immediately rejected. Strict policies abound in the aerobics classes to prevent outsiders from taking the place the students in the aerobics classes.

Laurie Lester, aerobics supervisor, and Lydia Sutherland, gym attendant, both tell of extremely upset students who get turned away. Many of the students leave angry and do not come back, but most just return to the next class.

Winter quarter is the biggest quarter for aerobic attendance, with nearly 400 students a day utilizing the program. Often many of the girls are trying to tone up or lose a few pounds, allowing that hot bikini to fit by springtime.

Also about 10 guys show up for each class. Aerobics is not only a See AEROBICS, page 7

G-A Staff Reports

The GSU softball team split a double-header with Charleston Southern Tuesday at the GSU Sports Complex.

The Lady Eagles dropped the opener 2-0, but rebounded to take the second game 3-2.

In their second-game win, the Lady Eagles scored three runs in the first inning, then withstood a Charleston Southern rally.

GSU took advantage of four consecutive first-inning errors by the visitors to score all the runs they would need. Seniors Mickey Paul, Christy Hill and Beth Williams crossed home for Southern.

The Lady Eagles were held to two hits, one by Paul and one by Cathy Stinson, but benefitted from Charleston's five errors.

Charleston mounted a fifth-inning comeback, cutting the score to 3-2 on runs by Heather Lynch and Sandra Brown.

GSU pitcher Gretchen Koehler went the distance, allowing no earned runs to raise her record to 2-2. Koehler gave up six hits and walked none.

Charleston pitcher Tracy Bloomberg (5-2) suffered the loss despite allowing two hits, no earned runs and no walks.

Bloomberg's strong pitching carried over from her win in the opening game. In the 2-0 GSU loss, Bloomberg held Southern to four hits and no runs.

GSU's Carrie Collins struck out six while allowing two earned runs, but again suffered from a lack of offensive support from her teammates.

Charleston scored single runs in the fourth and seventh innings.

Williams, Collins, Stinson and Heather Olejak each collected one hit in the opener.

THREE MORE EARN BERTHS

Three more teams earned berths to the NCAA men's basketball tournament Wednesday. St. Francis (Pa.) earned its first berth as Joe Anderson had 32 points to lead the Red Flash past Fordham 70-64. Anthony Jones scored 21 points and had five steals as Northeast Louisiana earned a berth with a 87-63 win over Florida A&M. Also, Coastal Carolina got in with a 78-59 win over Jackson St.

PURDUE UPSETS OHIO STATE

Ohio State is in the NCAA men's basketball tournament. Purdue wants to join the 64-team field and took a big step Wednesday night with a 72-67 upset of the No. 2 Buckeyes in a Big Ten game. Ohio State (25-2, 15-2 Big Ten) has clinched a share of the conference title, but Purdue (16-11, 8-9) at least postponed an outright title for the Buckeyes, while helping its chances for an NCAA bid.

KNICKS DOWN PISTONS

Trent Tucker made a three-pointer at the buzzer as the New York Knicks beat Detroit 102-99 and sent the Pistons to their sixth loss in seven games. In other NBA games: Boston 126, Miami 117; Orlando 89, LA Clippers 86; Utah 104, Washington 93; Philadelphia 97, Dallas 92.

NORTH STARS TOP OILERS

Brian Bellows had a goal and an assist to become the first player in North Stars history to score at least 60 points in seven different seasons as Minnesota dominated the Edmonton Oilers 5-1. In other NHL games: New Jersey 3, Buffalo 3, tie; Montreal 5, Chicago 3.

GRABB UPSETS MCENROE

Unseeded Jim Grabb upset No. 12 seed John McEnroe 7-6 (9-7), 7-5 in Wednesday's second round of the Newsweek Champions Cup at Indian Wells, Calif. Also upset: No. 5 Goran Ivanisevic, No. 6 Thomas Muster, No. 8 Andres Gomez. Also, No. 4 Jennifer

Diamond Eagles sweep N.Y. Tech

By PAUL FLOECKHER
Sports Editor

J.I. Clements Stadium finally became "home sweet home" for the 1991 GSU Eagles.

The Eagles, who finished 26-3 at home last year, dropped six of their first nine games in Statesboro this season. Included in the losses were two-game sweeps by Clemson and USC-Aiken.

However, this week Southern began to re-establish its dominance at home by sweeping three games from the New York Tech Bears.

The GSU bats came alive as the Eagles scored 29 runs and pounded out 31 hits over the three-game domination.

GSU 9, New York Tech 6

The Eagles blasted four home runs to erase a 5-0 New York Tech lead and take a 9-6 win Wednesday night.

With their fifth straight win, the Eagles improved to 8-10. Tech remained winless at 0-6.

GSU right-hander Dave Masi picked up his first win of the year, raising his record to 1-3. In relief of starter Jim Carragher, Masi struck out two and allowed just one run through six innings.

Masi was aided by homers by Chad Sumner, Todd Greene, Kevin Hallman and Mike Miller.

Sumner needed just one swing to ignite Southern's comeback. With Tech ahead by five runs in the third inning, Sumner launched a David Rodriguez pitch over the left field wall for a grand slam.

Buddy Holder opened the GSU third with a single to right. After Hallman and Greene walked to load the bases, Sumner took the first pitch he saw out of the park for his fourth round-tripper of the year and his second in as many nights.

Tech scored a run in the fifth to grab a 6-4 lead, but the biggest play of the inning was a run that didn't score.

With Al Watson on first, Wade Ledbetter drove a Masi pitch over Hallman's head in center field. Watson tried to score on the hit, but Hallman gunned the ball to shortstop Chris Petersen, who relayed to Holder for the easy out at home plate.

From that point, Tech was held scoreless while Southern scored five runs, all on homers.

Greene evened the score in the fifth with his team-leading ninth home run. Following a Petersen walk, Greene lined a 3-1 offering that left Clements in a hurry.

The game remained 6-6 through the sixth, but Hallman re-started the home run derby in the bottom of the seventh.

The freshman from Absecon, N.J., hit a one-out, solo homer to put Southern ahead to stay. Hallman's homer, off the scoreboard in right-center field, was his second of the year.

With all the power hitters in Southern's line-up and with the wind blowing out, somehow you figured the Eagles still weren't quite done launching four-baggers.

Not to disappoint, Miller clinched the win with a two-run blast in the eighth. Simply put, Miller saw a pitch he liked and lost it over the left field fence.

Sumner got the eighth started by doubling to left. After moving to third on Mike Yuro's grounder, Sumner simply stood on the base and admired Miller's third dinger of 1991 as it soared out.

The Bears scored two runs in the first, one in the second and two more in the third to take the early 5-0 lead.

GSU 9, New York Tech 1

Throughout the opening games of the 1991 season, the Eagles rarely benefitted from both strong hitting and solid pitching on the same night.

However, both came together Tuesday as GSU crushed New York Tech 9-1 at Clements Stadium.

Freshman pitcher Jake Greene allowed six walks, but struck out eight in six innings to earn his third win of the season.

Greene (3-1) has struck out 18 over 12 innings in his last two starts. Matt Sheppard pitched the final three innings to notch his first save.

Mike Yuro and Mike Miller each scored three runs while David Dupree drilled two hits and drove in two runs. Chad Sumner added two hits, a run and an RBI.

Southern took advantage of three hits and a walk to score three runs in the second inning.

With Yuro on second base and one out, Miller tattooed an 0-1 pitch off the wall in right-center field. Yuro scored easily on Miller's triple.

After Doug Eder doubled home Miller and Dupree grounded a single up the middle to plate Eder, the Eagles owned a 3-0 lead.

The onslaught continued in the fourth. With Yuro again on second base, Miller was hit by Matt Connolly's pitch. After an Eder fly out, Dupree lined a single to left to score Yuro.

One batter later, Tech catcher Pete Polis tried to pick off Dupree, but his throw missed first base and went down the right field line. On the error, Miller scored for a 5-0 Eagle lead.

The throwing error was just one part of a frustrating night for Polis. Polis, who entered the game hitting a mere .167, committed three errors behind the plate and finished 0-3 with two strikeouts at it.

Sumner highlighted a four-run sixth inning with his third home run of the year. The Eagle third baseman scorched an 0-1 pitch over the Southern Sound sign in left to erase any thoughts of a Bear comeback.

Scott Hatten ruined GSU's shutout with a run-scoring double in the eighth.

GSU 11, New York Tech 3

Georgia Southern gave New York Tech a hint of what was to come by pounding out 15 hits in an 11-3 series-opening win Monday.

Possibly the most impressive aspect of the win was the balance in the GSU line-up:

Kevin Hallman, Chris Petersen and Chad Sumner all collected three hits, with Todd Greene and Mike Yuro each adding two.

David Dupree drove in three runs, with Greene, Sumner and Yuro all contributing two RBI.

Hallman scored three runs, Sumner scored twice and six other Eagles crossed home once.

Leading just 5-3, Southern erupted for four runs in the seventh inning to break open a close game and send Tech starter Jim O'Connor to the showers.

Yuro singled to right to score Sumner, who opened the seventh with a double. After an error put another Eagle on base, Dupree crushed a long three-run homer to left-center field.

Tech scored two runs in the fourth to pull within 3-2, but the Eagles answered right back with two in their half of the fourth.

Thanks to a single by Hallman and an error by the pitcher on a Petersen bunt, the Eagles opened the fourth with runners on second and third. Greene and Sumner lifted sacrifice flies for a 5-2 Eagle lead.

Joey Hamilton (3-3) earned his second straight win. The junior from Statesboro gave up three hits and three earned runs over five innings.

MADDUX TO OPEN FOR CUBS

In National League spring training news: Manager Don Zimmer said pitcher Greg Maddux will open the Cubs' exhibition season Friday against the Giants; Ailing Chris Sabo of the Reds missed a second consecutive day of work Wednesday. Sabo, suffering from upper-back spasms, was put on anti-inflammatory drugs. The Dodgers open their spring season Thursday home against the Tigers.

SUIT OVER RYAN CARD CONTINUES

Bryan Wrzesinski, 13, got a good deal for his Nolan Ryan rookie card, but he might have violated a no-trade clause. So says baseball card dealer Joe Irmen, whose lawyer wants a delay in his lawsuit against Bryan. He bought the card for $12 at Irmen's store. Irmen says a clerk misread the card's $1,200 label. But Bryan has traded the card for a 1965 Joe Namath and a 1967 Tom Seaver.

Free classified ads should be written in 25 words or less. The advertiser's name, Landrum Box, and the classified category (listed below), must be included with your ad copy. All communication regarding free classified ads must be in writing (absolutely NO free classified ads will be accepted by phone... at this price we don't take dictation). Free classified ads will be inserted into the newspaper in four consecutive issues, unless we are instructed otherwise. Ads must be resubmitted in writing for additional insertions. Free ads should be non-commercial in nature. Free classified listings should be mailed to The George-Anne, Landrum Box 8001, GSU, Statesboro, GA. Deadline is noon TUESDAY or noon FRIDAY one week prior to publication.

• COMMERCIAL LISTINGS - are available at $5.50 per 50 words for two insertions in consecutive editions. Classified display advertising is available at $5.50 per column inch per edition, with a one inch minimum size required. Payment should accompany ad, unless advertiser has established credit. Tear sheets will be mailed upon written request. Contact the Advertising Department: ADS, L.B. 8001, GSU, Statesboro, GA 39460 or call 912/681-5418.

• GENERAL CLASSIFIED POLICY - The advertiser is responsible for proofreading ads upon publication. Any errors will be corrected upon written notice. Ads should be in good taste, and are subject to standard editing procedures. The editors reserve the right to refuse any classified ad.

increased appreciation and understanding of the humanities—historical, literary and philosophical studies of human experience—provide funding in support of the humanities.

Dr. Krug was honored as the Foreign Language Association Teacher of the year in 1987, received the Governor's Award for contributions in the Humanities in 1988, was nominated for the Florence Steiner Rice Award for the Foreign Language Education in 1990, and that same year received the Pioneers in Collaboration Award from the President's Forum of the Carnegie Foundation.

She has had extensive experience in the national and state humanities support programs in the area of foreign language teaching that have had backing from a variety of national funding sources.

Dr. Krug is currently director of Academic Alliances in Georgia, an organization for foreign language teachers.

She has served as associate director of "Strengthening the Humanities Through Foreign Language and Literature Studies," a national program based at the University of Pennsylvania; was co-director of "Teaching for Proficiency: An Intensive Program for French Teachers," based at GSU in 1986; was director of GSU's "Focus on Proficiency from 1987-89," and is the associate director of "Teaching Foreign Languages Through Studying Literary Texts," a national project based at Marymount College in New York.

Dr. Krug has participated on U.S. Department of Education and National Endowment for the Humanities panels on critical languages, postsecondary education, elementary-secondary education and the Eisenhower Competition in Mathematics and Science.

She received her baccalaureate in French from James Madison University in 1968, her M.A. from Michigan State in 1970, and her Ph.D. in French from Michigan State in 1978. She has been a member of the faculty at GSU since 1978.

Up Next

The Eagles and Bears conclude their five-game series tonight with a 7:00 game at Clements Stadium. The South Carolina Gamecocks will be in town for a 7:00 game Monday and a 3:00 contest Tuesday.

Spain

The dates for the trip are June 11 through July 24. The program is integrated with excursions to areas around Segovia such as Toledo, Madrid and Lagranja.

"The goal of the program depends upon what the goals of the students are," Schomber said. "We have all kinds of majors in the program. Some students want to improve their level of ability in the language and some want the exposure to the history and culture of the civilization."

Because the program lasts around six weeks it gives the student a chance to get adjusted to the new environment and see if they can actually survive in Spain."

Schomber added, "The students will be staying with Spanish families: two students to a family. We expect between 15 and 20 students to go on the trip. This is a good size because we need a small group so each person can get individual attention."

I would like to underscore the fact that you don't have to be a Spanish major to do this. In fact, most people who go on the trip are not Spanish majors."

The program is approved by the International Intercultural Studies Program (IISP); however, it is not funded by IISP. Dr. Schomber's program is totally supported by GSU.

Tanning

stronger. This means you can tan four times faster or burn four times faster, depending on your sun-sense. Local skin specialists, life-guards, and sun lotion manufacturers recommend the following guidelines for Spring Breakers:

Day 1 - Use Sun Protection Factor (SPF) 15 or higher everywhere skin is exposed, especially on the face and delicate areas where skin is thinnest and more sun sensitive.

Fencing

Women's Open Epee saw GSU representative Dianne Wisham finish third.

Trey Martin made a second strong showing with a third place in Men's Open Sabre. Dr. Frank French, the Fencing Team advisor, finished fifth.

The team will be taking their weapons on the road this weekend at the Fayetteville Open.

Day 2 - Continue with same SPF you used on day 1

Day 3 - If you started with an SPF higher than 15, drop down to 15. If you started with 15, stay there for one more day.

Day 4 - Depending on your natural skin tone and the color of your base tan, you may move on down the SPF ladder as follows:

- Very fair to fair - stay with SPF 15
- Fair to medium - Drop down to SPF 10
- Medium to light tan - Try SPF 10 or 8
- Tan to olive skin - Should be safe with SPF 8 or 6
- Deep tan to dark skin - Use SPF 4

Day 5 and beyond - Follow Day 4's advice for the rest of your stay. As your tan increases, drop your SPF gradually so that you maintain a beautiful tan with no burning or peeling.

Always keep a higher number SPF on your face. This prevents wrinkling later in life. Zinc oxide in different colors is a fun alternative to lotion or oil. Pack skin protectors in your soft drink cooler and apply when cold to soothe hot skin.

Another tip: Take a break from the sun for a day or two. There are a great deal of indoor activities and attracts during Spring Break when the sun gets too intense.

Breakers. Last year the city council outlawed drinking on the beach. This year, in apparent attempt to reinforce the idea, the city council sent a letter to all the colleges and universities in South Carolina, North Carolina, Georgia, Tennessee, and Florida informing the students of the new law. A strict enforcement policy has been put forth to discourage "party animals" from vacationing there.

There are other places to go as well, Ft. Lauderdale, Orlando, and nearby Savannah will all be happy to take your vacation dollars. But they are not quite as geared for spring break as the other locations are, as their economies aren't as dependent on that revenue. Events that you would normally expect from Daytona or the others may not occur in these places. Have fun!
