CRASH WAS OUTSIDE FAA AIRSPACE:

The midair collision that killed Sen. John Heinz in suburban Philadelphia Thursday was outside airspace controlled by the Federal Aviation Administration tower at Philadelphia International Airport, federal investigators said Sunday. The crash occurred when Heinz's light plane collided with a helicopter checking to see if the plane's landing gear was down.

BAKER IS BACK IN THE MIDEAST:

Secretary of State James Baker returned to the Middle East Sunday to pursue peace. President Bush said he "might well" propose a "comprehensive overall plan" if Baker's trip proves successful. But Baker was much more cautious en route to Turkey. "The trip was not triggered by the emergence of new factors or new developments," the secretary said.

BORDER FORCE SHOULD BE OK'D:

The U.N. Security Council Monday or Tuesday is expected to approve a military force to patrol and monitor the Iraq-Kuwait border, paving the way for American troops to come home. When a permanent cease-fire officially ends the Persian Gulf war, a 1,440-person observation mission will be stationed in a demilitarized zone reaching six miles into Iraq and three miles into Kuwait.

TOWER CRASH IS INVESTIGATED:

Susan Coughlin of the National Transportation Safety Board says the fire that erupted when the plane carrying former Sen. John Tower nosedived in rural Georgia "was clearly a fuel fire." Tower was one of 22 killed Friday. Federal investigators Monday will begin inspecting key parts of the wreckage. The plane did not have "black box" flight data or cockpit voice recorders.

JOCKEY KILLED IN FALL:

Apprentice jockey Rodney Dickens, 19, was killed in a spill during the fifth race Sunday at Chicago's Sportsman's Park. Special Little Guy, a 3-year-old gelding ridden by Francisco Torres, broke his leg and fell. Dickens was riding Rough Pride, which vaulted over the fallen horse. Torres was in critical condition.

HOLMES WINS EASILY:

Sunday night was a day at the beach for Larry Holmes. The former world heavyweight boxing champion whacked out Tim Anderson in one round in his first fight in three years. Holmes dropped the 32-year-old cruiserweight twice in the first round with body shots. Referee Ed Eckard halted the bout at 2:03. Holmes, 41, weighed 236 pounds and Anderson 202 1/4.

SAN ANTONIO BEATS SACRAMENTO:

Reserve quarterback Mike Johnson led San Antonio to 10 points during a three-minute span in the third quarter to power the Riders (1-2) past the Sacramento Surge 10-3 Sunday in a WLAF game. Johnson finished 12-for-27 passing for 164 yards with one interception and the TD pass.

JOHNSON TAKES LPGA EVENT:

Chris Johnson coasted to a four-stroke victory Sunday in the $350,000 LPGA Ping-Welch's Championship in Tucson, Ariz. Johnson, who led Jan Stephenson by three strokes starting Sunday's round, shot par 72 Sunday for a 15-under-par 273 at 6,243-yard Randolph Park North Golf Course. Johnson won $52,500. Runner-up Kris Tschetter shot 66-277 and won $32,375.

24th, 48th arrive home

24th was one of the first units to come home from Gulf war

By KEVIN HUDSON
Staff Writer

The first American soldiers to return arrived at Hunter Army Air Field in Savannah a little after midnight on March 8.

There was a frantic scramble in the press area as a plane was seen approaching. This was, as one unthinking military press person phrased it, "only the 48th," the Georgia National Guard unit which is scheduled to be demobilized now after intensive training in the California desert.

The 24th Infantry Division (Mechanized) arrived a half hour later at 12:25 a.m. The C-141 Starlifter transport plane landed away from the crowd, then taxied back-sporting an American flag by the cockpit window.

The 24th Infantry division had been among the lead elements in the fight against the Iraqi forces.

The first Gulf War veteran from the Middle East to step on American soil was Brigadier General Terry Scott, the assistant division manager and most senior soldier on the flight. Scott, who later took command of Fort Stewart March 11, was greeted at the door of the camouflaged plane in a tearful and exciting reunion.

Scott then stepped to the podium to give a short speech, during which he congratulated and thanked several people for allowing their safe return from a great victory, especially President Bush.

"We're very proud to represent all of the soldiers, airmen and marines. This is just the first of many plane loads to arrive. We're glad to be home with our loved ones."

No one event could have emphasized his point better than what happened next. Before General Scott could finish a five minute speech, the other 103 eager soldiers began rushing from the plane. As they passed the small crowd on their way into a nearby building for a quick bite, they were greeted by a group of top brass officials including Savannah Mayor John P. Rousakis, Hinesville Mayor "Buddy" DeLoach, U.S. Rep. Lindsay Thomas, and members of the military hierarchy.

The soldiers went to the back of the building, ready to turn in the weapons they had carried, cleaned, and fired from time to time during the last nearly seven months. Then it was to the four buses that would carry them to Cottrell Field at Fort Stewart...and their waiting families.

During the 45-minute bus ride, the soldiers were in high spirits, and obviously anxious to get home. Some were talkative about their experiences in the desert and their flight home; others simply asked about what they had missed. One of the first questions asked by the soldiers was surprisingly "Did y'all [GSU] win another national championship?" The affirmative answer brought cheers and high-fives from several of the soldiers.

One serviceman commented "Sometimes mail from families and all is sporadic, but 'any soldier' letters were always there."

First Lieutenant Michael J. Tobin of New York said he received several of the letters. "The battery got a letter for each guy, that's 120 guys, from a group of

48th spent two months training in Mojave desert

BY STACY GRAHAM
Staff Writer

Over 5,000 friends and family members attended the welcome home ceremony for the 48th Brigade of the Georgia National Guard at Ft. Stewart, March 23.

The ceremony was attended by dignitaries Governor Zell Miller, Senator Sam Nunn, Senator Wyche Fowler and Gen. Edwin H. Barba Jr., commander in Chief of Forces Command.

"Nothing that I will experience as governor will ever surpass this," said Governor Zell Miller as he reviewed the troops from the back of a humvee, the Army's replacement for a jeep. "Your accomplishments may have taken place in California rather than Kuwait, but they contributed to a great victory in a very real way."

Nunn agreed that the 48th deserved great praise.

The brigade, consisting of approximately 4,200 members, spent over two months training in the Mojave Desert.

Sgt. Bill Hensley, a GSU student, felt the brigade needed the training, but not for such an extended period of time. "They should have sent us to Saudi Arabia where we could have trained along with the 24th, and we would have been in the exact environment in which we would have fought in."

and trained with individual weapons.

The 24th Infantry, based at Ft. Stewart, is the 48th Brigade's parent unit.

While in the desert, the 48th trained in chemical warfare, Bradley and tank gunnery,

The brigade also participated in mock battles which provided important information for the allies in the Middle East.

The 48th Brigade was called to active duty Nov. 30 in support of Operation Desert Shield.

The 48th was certified as combat ready Feb. 28-the day President Bush ordered an end to hostilities.

Many soldiers had mixed feelings about not being sent to Saudi Arabia. "By the time I got done with NTC [national training center] training, I wanted to go. I felt like we were combat ready," said Sgt. Edmund Tobin.

"Of course I didn't want to go, but I did feel bad about not going," said Spc. Duane Olson, another GSU student.

The demobilization of the brigade should be complete by April 10.

However, the Army is making exceptions for returning college students.

For many GSU students belonging to the 48th Brigade, their demobilization was completed by April 1, just in time for spring quarter.

Students who served

This is this best available list of those GSU students who had to withdraw from classes to serve because of the Desert Shield/Storm operation as of March 1. We salute them.

Original ancient "Persian Fables" donated to GSU

G-A Staff Reports

The Henderson Library of GSU has received an original manuscript of ancient Persian fables which will be preserved in the Special Collections area.

The manuscript was donated by Gilbert Y. Shahbaz, son of the author, the late Reverend Yonan Shahbaz, and is a compilation of ancient proverbs, stories and other Persian folklore typed in the late 1920's and early 1930's.

The Henderson Library has photocopied the manuscript and placed copies in the Special Collections area for public use between the hours of 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. weekdays.

The collection comes to GSU because of the friendship between GSU professor Emeritus Kemp Mabry and the younger Shahbaz, who met during military service in World War II.

"These fables and folktales predate the Ayatollah Khomeini and the last Shah of Iran to sit on the Peacock Throne by many generations," said Mabry. "They reflect and transmit the ancient culture from beyond the Tigris and Euphrates rivers and from beyond the so-called Cradle of Civilization."

"The Reverend Shahbaz was born in Urmia, Persia in 1870," he said. "His family was part of a Nestorian Christian community in what was--and is still--a predominantly Moslem area. When he was 17 years old, he left his home to visit the Reverend Charles Hadden Spurgeon of London, a renowned British clergyman of the time, but learned enroute that Spurgeon died. He was advised to continue to the United States, which he did."

Once in New York, he contacted Dr. Robert Stuart MacArthur, who was pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church of New York City. MacArthur arranged for the young Shahbaz to attend Princeton Preparatory School and later, Colgate University, from which he graduated in 1897.

The newly-ordained Reverend Shahbaz married the next year and he and his wife went to Geogtapa as Christian missionaries. "Geogtapa was only six miles from his birthplace," said Mabry.

CIA becomes popular career choice for college students

"The whole student body has changed. They're trying to get into the CIA. A lot are calling us to find out how to apply."

By DENNIS KELLY

©Copyright 1991, USA TODAY/Apple College Information Network

In the 1960s and 1970s, it was considered very politically incorrect.

Spies. The Central Intelligence Agency. Ugly American covert operations to assassinate dictators. Or overthrow governments.

How unhip.

But today's college students can't seem to get enough of the cloak-and-dagger world.

Indeed, the growth of courses on intelligence-gathering — the spy business — is one of the little-noticed trends in higher education the past few years.

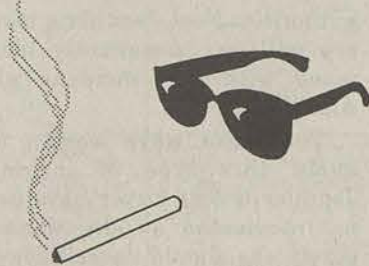

"Absolutely. It's mushroomed," said Roy Godson, associate professor of government at Georgetown University in Washington, D.C. "It started in the late 1970s with just a few courses. Now there are approximately 100 full courses — that we know of."

Spies have come in from the cold and into the classroom. The evidence:

— Georgetown offers four to five courses a year. Godson said there are "literally hundreds" of students who want to take his class, but he limits enrollment to 50.

"The student interest has been overwhelming," he said.

— At the State University of New

— The need among academics to share newfound information about intelligence gathering led to the founding in 1979 of the Consortium for the Study of Intelligence, a group of 20 college professors.

Students and professors say the interest could be part of the conservative trend among students in the 1980s that led them to dump sociology studies for business majors.

They've also come to see the need for intelligence-gathering in the overall scheme of world politics, most recently in the Persian Gulf.

Throw in the aura of James Bond movies and the high-tech spy novels of authors like Tom Clancy, and courses like these seem just too juicy to resist.

Susan Gregg, 21, a junior taking an intelligence-gathering course at Stony Brook, said: "The public perceives the spy business as mysterious. You know, you hear stories, you see movies and you wonder what's true and what's not."

Added classmate Kharis Sepulveda, 21, a Stony Brook senior: "When I first signed up for it, I have to admit I was under the misconception that the intelligence community dealt with materials you found in spy novels and James Bond ...

"In reality, I'm learning and appreciating the amount of effort the intelligence community undertakes to ensure national security."

Indeed, what students may think the intelligence community is about and what they're asked to learn in these courses may hit them like a double-agent deception.

At Stony Brook, Paldy said students are introduced to what he believes is the heart of good intelligence work: research and analysis. They're asked, for instance, to do a paper on the prospects the United States will retain its command of the computer market over the next five years.

Not as glamorous as transporting a microchip hidden in your dental work to a double agent on board a Mediterranean fishing trawler, but just as critical to U.S. policy.

Students also are introduced to the skill of analyzing satellite photos — none of which come from the military or are classified.

Paldy uses only those obtained from civilian satellite companies.

Marjorie Cline of the National Intelligence Study Center said a survey she's doing shows interest has increased.

"The whole student body has changed," she said. "They're trying to get into the CIA. A lot are calling us to find out how to apply."

CIA spokesman Turner said the agency typically has about 1,000 applications for the 100 jobs available each month.

Early stages of AIDS documented

By KIM PAINTER

©Copyright 1991, USA TODAY/Apple College Information Network

The AIDS virus enters the body like a killer lion, but is quickly tamed by powerful natural defense mechanisms, two new studies show.

Identifying those mechanisms — and understanding how the virus eventually escapes them — could lead to vaccines and drugs that prevent HIV infection or stop it before it causes AIDS, say scientists reporting in today's New England Journal of Medicine.

The two teams, working separately, documented what happens at the earliest stage of HIV disease — years before the onset of full-fledged AIDS.

They cultured viruses from the blood of seven patients with symptoms — fevers, sore throat, diarrhea, rashes — that often arise soon after infection.

"We found the level of virus is actually higher than in an average AIDS patient. That was a surprise," said Dr. David Ho, head of the Aaron Diamond AIDS Research Center in New York City.

In lab tests, the viruses proved to be immune cell killers, apparently capable of inflicting the damage associated with later HIV disease, said Dr. Stephen J. Clark of the University of Alabama, Birmingham.

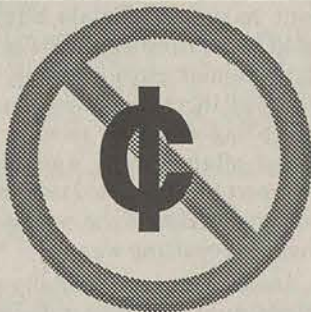

Yet, within a week or two, the patients felt well. And the number of viruses in their blood had dropped dramatically, sometimes 10,000-fold.

"This shows the body has a very effective mechanism for controlling the virus," Ho said.

But researchers don't know which parts of the immune system do the job or why the defense eventually fails, allowing destruction of immune system.

AIDS sometimes develops in a year or two. More often it takes about 10 years.

One theory is that the virus constantly mutates, requiring subtle changes in response from an immune system it is slowly dismantling by killing off key cells. Eventually, the weakened immune system can no longer adapt and the virus triumphs, leaving the body unable to fight off any infection.

Letters to the Editor ATOs Sexists

Dear Editor,

With all due respect to the members of GSU's ATO fraternity chapter, I wish to let that fraternity know that the way in which they chose to promote their 1991 "Valhalla" was objectionable and in very poor taste to the eyes of the self-respecting females on Southern's campus.

Two different "advertisements" prompted this letter. First was the picture of a Viking warrior holding a woman by the hair which was displayed on Highway 67-in front of a church no less!

Recognizing the spirit in which this painting was done, it could have been just as effective, yet done with a great deal more respect to women. Perhaps the women could have been "swooning" at the mighty Viking, as opposed to being held by the hair in submission to him.

Then, in front of Olliff Hall, we found out what the first picture was all about. The second sign pronounced that "Valhalla" would be a time of "raping and pillaging." One can assume that the women being held by the hair have been pillaged and soon be raped.

Now that the entire ATO fraternity is angry at my inferences, I want them to understand that I am objective enough to know that the signs were meant in jest. I hope this isn't an incorrect assumption. However, the ATO's should understand that however innocent the signs were, they offended this female student and others.

Bookstore ripped again

Dear Editor,

Quarter after quarter, year after year for the past four years I have been patronizing the GSU bookstore with my business. I have purchased literally thousands of dollars of material from textbooks to clothing to miscellaneous articles for classes from that bookstore; but that's all over now because of an incident which occurred last week.

I was in the bookstore for my usual beginning-of-the-quarter splurge of a hundred or so dollars on books and things. When I reached the check-out counter the lady had already totaled my merchandise (it was $140 for the record) when I discovered I had left my driver's licence and GSU ID in my car at home-I was with a friend in another car.

I pleaded with the girl to accept my check and of course she wasn't authorized to allow a check so she called Carol Sprole (an employee of the bookstore) who looked doubtful about the check and then turned the decision over to Joe Franklin himself-the manager of the University Bookstore. He came up with the excuse that he had already accepted thousands of dollars in bad checks already and that the "accounting department had instructed him to get ID on all checks." I understand this completely, but I have never in four years bounced a check to GSU and this incident really offended me. I offered to bring my ID back if they would hold the check, nothing doing! They needed proof that it was really me writing that check-not that ID can tell Joe Franklin whether or not my checking account balance was sufficient for that amount. I guess I just looked like a forgery case waiting to happen.

In this world of morality-gone-awry it is not uncommon to hear stories I am about to share in this column. The following is actually quite a common occurrence on the GSU campus, in Statesboro, and the entire United States.

A very close friend of mine confided in me enough to tell me her story, and I want to share it with the readers of this publication.

Jennifer (not her real name) is in a sorority here at GSU and fall quarter got a "little brother" as traditional in greek organizations. As per tradition, the night Jennifer was given her little brother a celebration was in order. She went to a party that night where many of her friends were. And of course Albert (not his real name) her new little brother, was to be there.

During the course of the evening Albert, as well as most of the others at the party including Jennifer, consumed a considerable amount of alcohol as the celebration suggests.

As it got later more people began to leave and the party sort of died. Jennifer decided she would walk back to her apartment since it was just down the block from where she was.

Albert, by then drunk, insisted on driving Jennifer home. Feeling suspicious, Jennifer finally agreed to let Albert take her home-with the assumption that she would just get out and go inside for the night. Albert insisted as well that he come in for a while.

Jennifer gave in and let him into her apartment. Albert followed Jennifer into her room and without warning began to touch her and demand that they have sex.

Stunned and afraid for her safety, Jennifer began to struggle and fight back in a desperate attempt to prevent Albert from doing

From The Editor's Desk Clint Rushing

what he obviously intended to do-RAPE HER!

During the struggle Albert ripped Jennifer's blouse off- but by the grace of some higher and merciful being Jennifer was able to escape Albert's grip and was able to avoid becoming another victim of date rape.

It took Jennifer's roommate to finally get Albert out of the apartment. Now Jennifer doesn't speak to Albert and has nothing to do with him, but he still runs free of his actions-still a brother in his fraternity and still a little brother in the sorority Jennifer is a member of. Why? Because when Jennifer reported the incident the next morning no one would help her. She did not report it to police as she should have, instead she told other members of the sorority. Nothing was done about the incident and the would-be rapist still stands as a member of the organization as well as a member of the student body here at GSU.

This story is by no means to reflect upon the entire greek system-it is simply a true story with the scene set exactly as it happened.

This incident was not date rape-but it would have been because Albert refused to leave Jennifer's apartment; had Jennifer's roommate not intervened and made up a story of Jennifer having to leave the apartment immediately, the criminal act of rape might well have taken place.

The point is, things like this happen all the time and no one ever seems to report it to the proper authorities. Now Jennifer's memory will be permanently blemished with this incident with Albert.

There are ways women can avoid this type of incident. Jennifer should never have been as intoxicated as she was-and surely she should never have let the scum Albert into her room by any means. This is certainly not to say that the incident was Jennifer's fault-this incident is the result of Albert's intoxication and violent actions. Jennifer should have been more careful and suspicious when Albert demanded he come in when he took her home.

Most of the time common sense will help avoid any possible date rape situation.

Women should be more wary of their surroundings and the people they are with. Although Albert was a stranger, he was still supposed to be Jennifer's friend. How was she to know that his intentions were to attempt to forcibly have sex with her?

And although Jennifer was in the confines of her own apartment with people in the next room, she was about to be raped. There is no safe place or situation.

Jennifer never reported her incident to police officials but she should have, because Albert is still out there-and quite possibly has succeeded in raping some unsuspecting "big sister" by now.

Most often women wait before they report the attempted rape or the actual rape. This is the wrong way to handle reporting a rape.

According to a nationally recognized publication on rape written by Officers Gale Dres and Marie Tyse of the University of Illinois Police Department, "certain considerations influence the legitimacy of a rape accusation. The time elapsed between the occurrence of the rape and the actual police notification will have a bearing on the victim's credibility. If the victim contacts the police immediately, it may lend credibility to the rape contention. If on the other hand the victim feels too ashamed and does not contact the police until after cleaning up, her contention may be perceived as false and no real effort will be exerted to apprehend the offender." POINT: DO NOT HESITATE TO REPORT A RAPE OR SEXUAL ASSAULT!!

There are sympathizers everywhere-rape victims desperately need attention and counseling. I make an appeal to anyone who has been sexually assaulted to come forward and talk about it. Don't hold it inside-it hurts too damn much.

The counselors at the GSU Counseling Center are ready, willing, and able to accommodate any date rape victims here at GSU. Audry Campbell, a counselor here at GSU who deals with rape victims, has told me that basically not a week goes by that she doesn't encounter a date rape victim. Surely this is a sign of the times here at GSU. I cannot emphasize the fact enough that such acts need to be reported for the good of everyone involved.

There are psychologically deranged rapists out there and they could be someone we all know but never suspect. Just look at Jennifer's case. She still knows Albert-he still goes to school here, but because she didn't report his actions nothing can be done. I'd venture to say that it is too late for Albert to get legal discipline. That's LEGAL discipline.

Albert, if you're reading this just remember that I know who you are-Jennifer knows who you are, and so does everyone else now. It would do you well to check over your shoulder every now and then.

April Fool's edition praised

Dear Editor,

Ok, you had us all fooled! I am referring to the excellent April Fool's edition of The George-Anne which came out last week. When I read that you had been stabbed 52 times I jumped for joy (only kidding) until I realized that 100,00 ticks had escaped from the tick display-then I got a little skeptical. And what confirmed my skepticism was the news brief about Stormin' Norman's Patriot Missile. That was simply hilarious!

I must admit many people were fooled when they read the headline above your obituary. And although it was kind of eerie it was very funny when the truth was revealed. I would just like to say "good job" on a great April Fool's trick.

Students attend African conference

By TERESA ROACH
Staff Writer

A delegation of GSU students traveled to Washington, D.C. last month to represent the university in a Model Organization for African Unity. The model emulates the Organization for African Unity (OAU), which was started in 1963 to develop and decolonize African nations.

The Model OAU consists of five commissions: social, economic, defense, liberation, and mediation. Each commission concentrates on specific regional problems and works to identify the causes and to formulate possible solutions.

The social commission addresses such problems as health, welfare, and refugees. The economic commission plans for ways to balance the budget. The defense commission deals with defending the nation. The liberation commission works for the emancipation of South Africa. The mediation commission deals with civil war and conflicts between nations.

The Model OAU took place March 6 - 9. Colleges and universities from throughout the U.S., such as the University of Florida, Furman University, and Ohio University, participated in the meeting.

Each school represented a different African nation. GSU represented Mali, one of the poorest countries in Africa, with an average per capita income of $192. Because of Mali's suffering economy, its primary role is that of a mediator between other nations.

GSU sent five students and two advisors to the Model OAU. The students were Nicole Henderson, a political science major; Paul Harris, a graduate student in public administration; Jose Cook, a history major; Kathy Coleman, a physical education major and history minor; and Tony Barner, a political science major.

The advisors were history professor Dr. Alfred Young and political science professor Saba Jallow. The trip was funded by the Student Activities Committee, with the help of the dean of arts and sciences and the dean of political science.

All of the delegations, with the exception of GSU, prepared for the Model OAU by taking a course designed specifically to educate them of the current state of the nation which they represented.

The GSU students however, prepared for the meeting through independent study for which they did not receive college credit. Each student collected research on his own and then met once weekly with the other students and advisors to discuss the information.

GSU's delegation did an excellent job in representing Mali. Two of the members, Paul Harris and Tony Barner, were elected as vice-chairpersons of the liberation and mediation committees, respectively. GSU's showing was remarkable, especially since this was the first year that Southern participated in the Model OAU.

"The meetings are so intense. I got so absorbed in representing Mali that I forgot I was an American," said representative Nicole Henderson.

The advisors are interested in expanding the group for next year's Model OAU. It is open to all majors. According to the delegates, being a representative in the Model OAU was a fun and educational experience.

Psychological thriller opens Wednesday

By INGRID LANING
Guest Writer

"Split Second," a play that was a major hit at its opening in New York in 1983, will be presented by GSU's Theatre South in McCroan Auditorium, April 10-13, at 8 p.m.

This play, originally performed by the Negro Ensemble Company, was brought to GSU by Director Mical Whitaker, a professor in the Department of Communication Arts.

The ever-present feeling of the play is one that reminds us that often, actions taken in a split second can thereafter alter the events of the rest of our lives, according to Whitaker.

"Split Second" is a psychological thriller, whose action comes after a black cop arrests a white car thief. Responding to extreme verbal abuse, the police officer shoots him.

The subsequent stories which the officer tells his friends, father, wife and captain display the internal conflict felt by the man following his actions.

The cast of this play includes Richard Whiten, a senior communication arts major, who plays the part of Val, the black cop; John Waller, a sophomore theatre major who plays the part of Willis, the car thief; Tiffany Gardener, a broadcasting major, who plays the part of Alea, Val's wife; Frank Hart, who has a double responsibility as Police Chief Parker, and as designer of the stage; Paul Frias, a public relations major, who debuts as Val's best friend Charlie; and a non-student, Todd Rhodes, an actual Savannah police officer, who has the role of Val's father.

The designers of the play include Tony Kemp, a senior communication arts major, who designed the costumes, and Dan Prince, a theatre major, who is in charge of the lighting design.

This play contains adult language and situations that may be unsuitable for children.

the eCLeCtic column

Special to the G-A

The Campus Life Enrichment Committee has been hard at work planning an exciting schedule of events for Spring Quarter. Although every date for the departmental programs is not yet set, here are two events to note.

First on the schedule is a CLEC/Mathematics Department program titled "Some Mathematical Questions in Cryptography." The lecture will be at 4 p.m. in room 209 of the Math Building. Dr. Joel Brawley is Alumni Distinguished Professor of Math Sciences at Clemson University.

The REALLY BIG EVENT of the quarter is going to occur April 23 when jazz artists Toshiko

Akiyoshi, Lew Tabackin, and their quartet will perform in the University Union Ballroom at 8 p.m.

This last event of the year in CLEC's Performing Arts Series should prove to be one of its most exciting because Toshiko, composer and arranger is said by the New York Times to be "the most physically articulate conductor in jazz since Duke Ellington."

She is one of today's best jazz pianists, winning several Down Beat Readers Polls against competition such as Quincy Jones and Stevie Wonder. Included among her many awards are eight Grammy nominations for Best Big Band Performance and three Grammy nominations for Best Arranger.

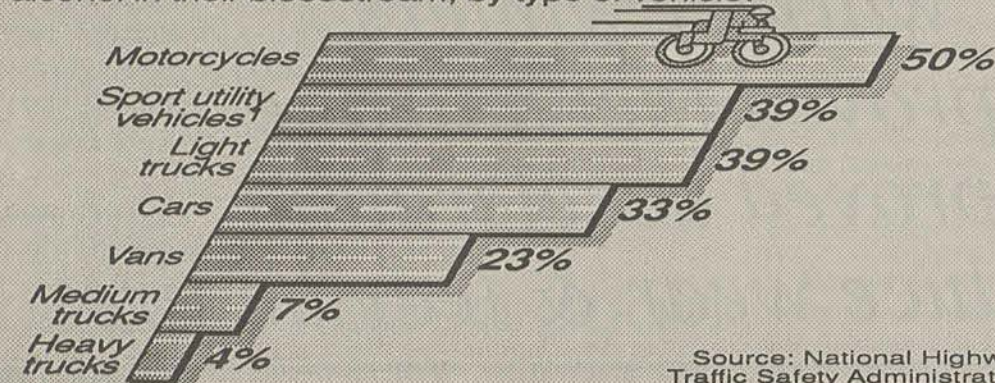

Along with Toshiko, we will have the pleasure of hearing her husband Lew Tabackin, whom the Los Angeles Times says is "surely the premiere tenor saxophonist and arguably the finest flutist on today's jazz scene."

Tickets for this event are free to GSU students, faculty, and staff, and may be obtained from the Union Information Desk beginning April 9. Non-GSU personnel may purchase tickets from the CLEC office, room 111, Foy Building.

The various departments are providing their spring quarter program information to the CLEC office daily, so be sure to watch this column and bulletin boards for updated program announcements.

Eagles dropped in battle for second

By PAUL FLOECKHER
Sports Editor

The weekend just kept getting worse for the GSU baseball Eagles.

After bombing Florida International 11-1 in the first game of Saturday's doubleheader, the Eagles lost the second game 4-2. Sunday the Golden Panthers mauled the Eagles 9-1 at Clements Stadium.

The losses dropped GSU to 17-22 overall and 5-7 in the Trans America Athletic Conference, good for third place in the TAAC's Eastern Division. FIU improved to 32-15 and 6-6.

The only bright spot for the Eagles Sunday was Todd Greene's first-inning home run, which gave Southern a short-lived 1-0 lead. The blast over the right-field wall was Greene's 16th of the season.

Otherwise, FIU starting pitcher Todd Lange silenced the GSU bats. Lange, a junior southpaw, held the Eagles to one earned run and four hits to earn the complete-game victory.

FIU broke open a 2-1 game with three runs in the top of the fourth. With two outs and Gary Haight on second, Mandy Pelaez singled to left to score Haight. One batter later, Michael Warner drilled a two-run homer to right to put the Golden Panthers up 5-1.

FIU added single runs in the fifth and sixth, and two runs in the eighth to secure a one-game lead over Southern in the race for second place in the division.

In the fifth, Greg Mucerino singled up the middle with one out. The FIU first baseman scored when William Scalzitti doubled over David Dupree's head in center field.

The sixth inning proved it was not GSU's day. Mark Panther opened the inning with a bunt single. Pelaez followed with a bunt single of his own, and Panther took third when no Eagle covered the base. Panther scored on Warner's sacrifice fly to center.

Other than Greene's long ball, Kevin Hallman, Mike Miller and Dupree collected GSU's only hits, all singles.

Sports Editor

GSU's baseball Eagles split a doubleheader with the Florida International Golden Panthers at Clements Stadium Saturday, winning the first game 11-1 and losing the second 4-2.

Ga. Southern 11, FIU 1

Thank goodness for FIU doubleheader games last only seven innings -- it could've been worse.

The Eagles rapped 12 hits, including four home runs, GSU pitcher Jim Carragher held FIU to three hits and the Golden Panthers committed four errors.

After the dust cleared, GSU owned an 11-1 home victory and briefly held sole possession of second place in the Trans America Athletic Conference Eastern Division with a 5-5 mark, compared to FIU's 4-6.

Southern's balanced attack was led by Todd Greene, Mike Yuro and David Dupree, who all homered and drove in two runs. Kevin Hallman also collected two RBI, while Mike Miller blasted a homer and scored twice.

Carragher continued his impressive work on the mound. Five days after shutting out Armstrong State 5-0, Carragher struck out five Panthers while allowing just one earned run and three hits through seven innings.

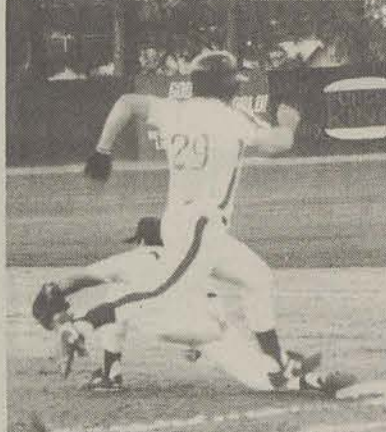

"He's pitched awfully well the last two starts, and he pitched well the last time before that down at Florida in relief," said GSU Head Coach Jack Stallings. "So he's given us three good outings in a row and you have to like that."

With his second straight complete-game victory, Carragher improved to 3-2 on the year.

Carragher's counterpart, FIU left-hander Jason Abramavicius, struck out 10 Eagles while allowing only one walk, but surrendered eight earned runs and 12 hits in just six innings.

Abramavicius' problems started in the first inning, when GSU took a 1-0 lead. Chad Sumner's grounder to second scored Hallman, who had doubled to right and moved to third on Chris Petersen's bunt single.

The Eagles added all the inurance runs they would need in the next inning. With two outs, Craig Cassidy lined a single to right and Buddy Holder lined one to left. After a wild pitch moved both runners into scoring position, Hallman hit a two-run single for an early 3-0 GSU lead.

The Eagles' version of "Home Run Derby" began in the third inning, and didn't end until Southern held an 11-0 lead in the sixth.

With one out in the third,

Miller lofted his 10th homer of the season over the left field wall. The junior outfielder turned on a 2-1 pitch and left little doubt that the ball would wind up among the trees past the fence.

Four runs in the fifth sealed the conference win for the Eagles. Following a surprise bunt single by the power-hitting Greene, Sumner lined a double to the left-center field gap, scoring Greene all the way from first. Sumner scored on a wild pitch to Miller.

Miller eventually reached first when FIU third baseman Rob Kallage bobbled his slow grounder. Dupree blasted his ninth homer of the year on a 3-2 pitch, scoring Miller ahead of himself.

The Eagles' ninth run came from a familiar sight over the last two years -- a Greene homer. The sophomore All-American candidate went deep to left with the bases empty for his team-leading 15th dinger.

An error and a strikeout later, Yuro got into the act with a two-run homer.

Carragher came within two outs of a two-hit shutout, but gave up a home run to designated hitter Gary Haight in the seventh.

FIU 4, Ga. Southern 2

GSU shut out FIU for five innings, only to see the Golden Panthers rally for three runs in the sixth and one more in the seventh for a 4-2 TAAC victory.

The hero for FIU was first baseman Greg Mucerino, who blasted a two-out, three-run homer over the Sigma Chi sign in right field to erase a 1-0 GSU lead.

With Michael Warner on second, pinch-hitter William Scalzitti singled off pitcher

Ronald Stanford's glove. Stanford's tough luck continued as Mucerino then went deep with an 0-1 pitch.

"It wasn't that bad a pitch," GSU Head Coach Jack Stallings said. "The ball was down, and the guy just happened to go down and get it."

The Eagles had held a 1-0 lead since the first inning, when Chad Sumner's sacrifice fly scored Kevin Hallman. Hallman opened the inning by walking on four straight pitches, went to third on Todd Greene's hit-and-run single and came home on Sumner's long fly ball to right.

Southern closed to within 3-2 in the sixth, but squandered a "golden" opportunity to tie.

After Mike Miller opened the inning with a double down the third-base line, FIU Head Coach Danny Price replaced starting pitcher John Fantauzzi with relief ace Jerry Santos.

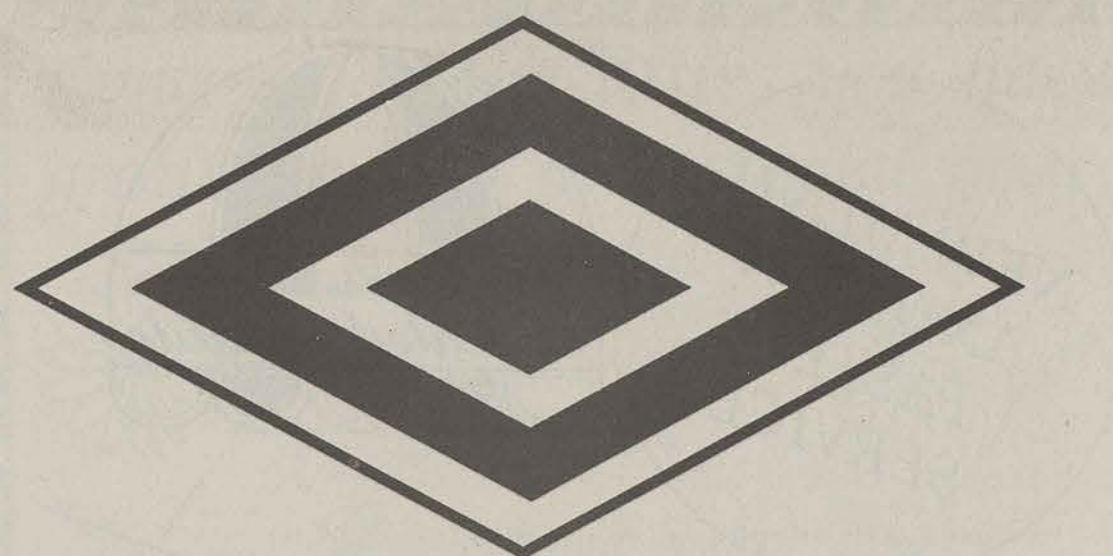

Mike Yuro drilled a line-drive double to left field to score Miller and close the gap to one run, but GSU's fun ended there. Two batters later, Yuro was thrown out at third on a failed sacrifice bunt attempt.

Santos, who entered the game with a 3-1 record, six saves, a 1.22 ERA and 34 strikeouts in 22 innings, showed how he earned those numbers.

Just look at how GSU's last five batters fared against Santos' heat: Johnny Brown struck out swinging, Hallman struck out swinging, Chris Petersen was called out on strikes, Greene struck out swinging and Sumner struck out swinging.

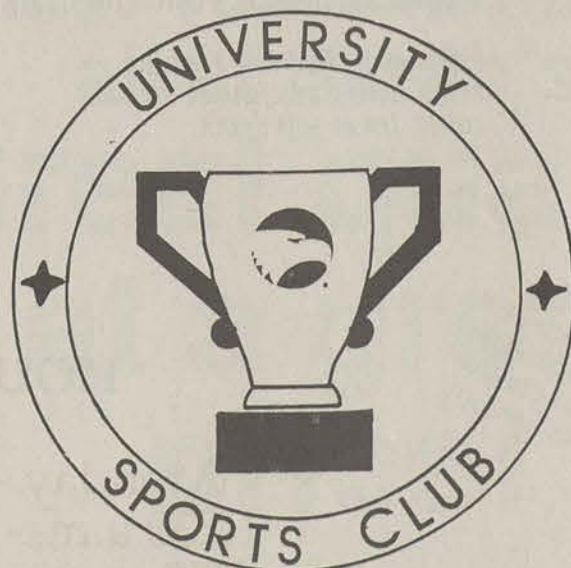

"The guy's got great stuff," Stallings said. "The guy just threw some outstanding pitches."

To say the least.

GSU bombs UGA

By PAUL FLOECKHER
Sports Editor

The GSU Eagles pounded out 20 hits and seven doubles, both season highs, on their way to a 14-3 rout of the Georgia Bulldogs Wednesday in Athens.

David Dupree led the way with four hits, including his eighth home run, four runs batted in and one run scored. Chris Petersen added four hits, three RBI and two runs, while Chad Sumner tallied two hits, three RBI and two runs.

On the mound, Joey Hamilton earned the win to raise his record to 6-4. The junior from Statesboro allowed two earned runs and struck out five Bulldogs through eight innings.

The Eagles took a 4-0 lead in the second inning thanks to four straight two-out doubles. With Johnny Brown on first after a walk, Kevin Hallman lined a double into the right-field corner. Petersen followed with a two-bagger down the third-base line that scored Brown and Hallman with the game's first two runs.

After Todd Greene's double to right scored Petersen for a 3-0 GSU lead, Sumner drilled a double to the right-center field wall to plate Greene.

The Eagles used another two-out double in the fourth inning to up their lead over the defending national champions to 6-1. Following a walk to Sumner and an infield hit by Mike Yuro, Dupree drove in both runners with a double to right.

Two more runs in the fifth added up to an 8-2 Eagle advantage, but Southern wasn't finished with its power surge. Dupree and Mike Miller both pounded homers to turn the game into a laughter.

Dupree slapped a solo homer over the left-field wall in the sixth and, an inning later, it was Miller time. After Sumner singled off the shortstop's glove, Miller lined a Steve DeBlasi pitch over the fence in right field. The round-tripper was Miller's ninth of 1991.

Even with a 12-2 lead in the eighth, the Eagles were still hot enough to mount a two-out rally. Buddy Holder lined a single to left, moved to third on a single by Hallman and scored on Petersen's infield single.

With their second loss in four games against the Eagles this year, the Bulldogs fell to 21-11.

Georgia Southern students...it's a great morale booster."

Upon arriving at the welcome home celebration, the troops were put in marching formation near the busses, about 100 yards from the stands. As the group moved parallel to the grandstands, they turned to face the cheering crowd as the final chorus of God Bless the USA began. They then took the last steps of their long march home.

As General Scott released the troops, the search began. Some families found "their" soldier immediately. Others rushed through the crowd hugging each soldier while looking for another. One lady searched with teary eyes for her husband. A boy who looked about ten years-old came running up frantically hollering "Mommy, mommy, I found him! I found him!" The two raced through the crowd to what was only one of dozens of reunions.

Whether one knew a soldier or was there just to see "The First to Fight" return, there were few dry eyes on Cottrell Field that night.

Over the past several weeks, thousands of soldiers, airmen, and other service personnel have returned to the United States. Some have arrived to larger celebrations, and some to smaller gatherings, but no one homecoming has been any more or less exciting to the families and service-people who are together again.
