Mom arrested again

SAN BERNARDINO — The mother of two girls who were kidnapped and abandoned in the Mojave Desert last year has been arrested for investigation of child endangerment in an unrelated incident, authorities said. The girls — Silver Putnam, 7, and Kristina Johnson, 4 — have been placed in protective custody, said sheriff's Sgt. Dennis Casey. The arrest of Linda Johnson, 36, is unrelated to the girls being stranded alone for two days in the sizzling desert last summer. Johnson was taken into custody Thursday by detectives who found the girls exposed to "severe living conditions" while investigating a fatal shooting at a home in the southeastern San Bernardino county town of Landers. Mark Beltz, 36, was shot and killed when he opened the door of his home shortly before 10 p.m. last Wednesday.

Going to bat over taxes

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Tommy Hume went to bat again in Columbus Wednesday, and this time, it seemed the former Reds' reliever and the umpires were in agreement. The umpires in this case are the seven justices on the Ohio Supreme Court. Their decision on Hume's state income tax dispute with the state of Ohio won't be known until later this year. At issue is whether Hume owes the state $27,955 in state taxes. The state says he does. Hume, now a John Deere implement dealer in Palmetto, Fla., says he doesn't. Oral arguments in the case were heard Wednesday.

Hatfield: no favoritism shown

WASHINGTON — Four months after he borrowed $50,000 from co-owners of a Wisconsin cable TV company, Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., voted to deregulate the cable industry. He cast his vote in 1983 in favor of the Cable Telecommunications Act, a version of which became law in 1984. The legislation effectively ended local control of cable fees and gave companies carte blanche to set higher rates. Critics blame the deregulatory measure for permitting runaway cable rates and have launched a movement in Congress to reinstate some control.

Military closings fought WASHINGTON — Rep. G.V. "Sonny" Montgomery, D-Miss., Wednesday denied that political games were played to keep the Meridian Naval Air Station off the Pentagon's list of bases to be closed and labeled as "half-truths" other criticisms of the base raised by a competing Texas town. His statements were made as the Defense Base Closure and Realignment Commission continued hearing testimony from members of Congress who represent areas affected by the Pentagon's plan to downsize the U.S. military 25 percent the next five years.

Bridge over troubled funding

WASHINGTON — With more than 9,600 bridges in need of repair, hundreds of miles of roads that should be widened or resurfaced, and small airports that lack adequate runways, Mississippi is looking to Congress for more money for roads projects. But so is every other state. "It will be one of the real classic battles of the year and may spill over into next year," Sen. Thad Cochran, R-Miss., said of the battle shaping up about the reauthorization of the federal transportation program.

Minority district becomes hot issue in reapportionment plans

By MICHAEL STRONG

Features Editor

The current plans to redraw the district boundaries gave citizens the freedom to do with Liberty County as they pleased in a public meeting at the Southern Center for Continuing Education last Tuesday.

The House and Senate Reapportionment Committees listened to the suggestions and ideas of local politicians and citizens concerning the formation of a minority district within the current 1st district.

"Political power distribution in our state is improving," said Alethia Lewis, president of the Bulloch County Chapter of the NAACP. "But, we are still under represented in the government."

After the 1990 census, Georgia gained an additional seat in the U.S. Congress bringing its total to 12. Initially, the splitting of the 1st District seemed like it would give two votes to coastal Georgia, but critics say that the needs of that area will be ignored.

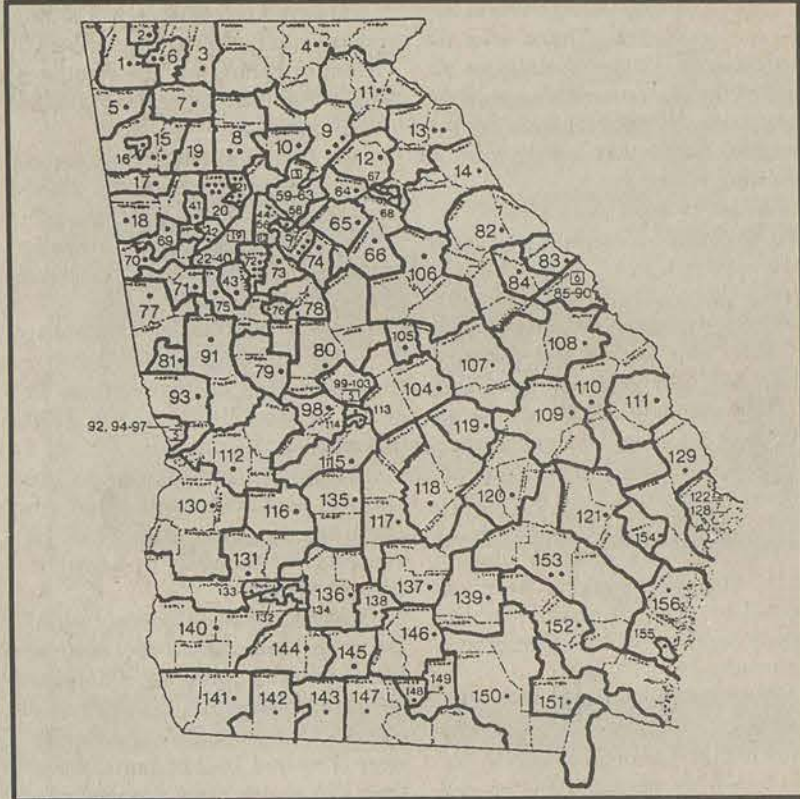

"We have made a lot of progress in the last 10 years," said J. Michael Moore, superintendent of schools for Effingham County. "Making changes [in the district boundaries] would set us back."

The 1st district, which includes Bulloch County, is currently represented by Lindsay Thomas, D-Statesboro, who was supported by most of those who addressed the committee, but the call for a minority district was long and loud.

ROTC holds annual awards ceremony

G-A Staff Reports

"We were in the Eurphrates river valley before the Iraqis even knew we were there," said Col. Burt S. Tackaberry, Commander of the 24th Infantry Division Aviation Brigade and guest speaker at the 1991 ROTC Awards ceremony last Thursday.

Col. Tackaberry, in his speech to the cadets of the Eagle Battalion and their family and friends, described in absorbing detail the experiences of the 24th in the Gulf War.

He told of the deadly efficiency of the Apache AH-64 helicopters in the conflict, and their capacity to hit targets from three to four miles away.

"One Iraqi tank commander told us that his unit was on patrol, and all of a sudden one of his tanks blows up."

"He looked around quickly for whatever hit them. They didn't see anything."

"Then another tank blows up, and then another," said Col. Tackaberry.

The Iraqis quickly decided that discretion was the better part of valor and abandoned the three remaining tanks to be destroyed by their unseen enemy.

Col. Tackaberry's presentation included a short video made of the 24th in training and in conflict in the Gulf.

The awards ceremony also featured Dr. Nicholas Henry, and distinguished guests from the various local organizations that sponsored some of the awards.

One special guest in the audience was Cadet Lafilis

McGill, who had to temporarily suspend her ROTC training when she was sent to Saudi Arabia with her National Guard unit, the 351st Adjutant General Company.

McGill, a sophomore criminal justice major, had just returned to Statesboro the day before the ceremony and was warmly greeted by cadets and cadre alike.

23 ROTC cadets were honored in the ceremony, many receiving multiple awards.

The DA Superior Cadet Award was awarded to one cadet from each Military Science Class with the MS I award going to Cadet Christopher Brown, the MS II award going to Cadet Bradley Butkovich, the MS III award going to Cadet Jaqueline McAuley, and the MS IV award going to Cadet Capt. Mark Parker, the Battalion S-5.

The American Defense Preparedness Award went to Cadet Capt. Dirk Ames, the Battalion S-3.

The Assoc. of the U.S. Army Award was given to Cadet Chris Byler.

The Reserve Officers Association Award was awarded to three of the MS classes, the MS II award going to Cadet Franklin McGrath, the MS III award going to Cadet Michael Tacto, and the MS IV award going to Cadet Maj. Michael Duck, the Eagle

Party presentation declared 'a success'

By KEN WARD
Staff Writer

GSU's College Republicans sponsored a Republican and Democrat platform presentation last Tuesday night.

Will Hurst, Program Coordinator said, "the presentation was a success for all those who attended. Both parties were well represented and presented an educational presentation, which ultimately defined what Democrats and Republicans stand for."

The Republican speakers were Joe Fleming, the National Republican Party Regional Director of Communication and Gabe Sterling, the College Republican Executive Party Director. The Democratic speakers were Ron Fennel, Executive Party Director of Georgia and Jeff Flesher, President of Georgia's Young Democrats.

Fleming began the Republican presentation by stating that "the Republican Party respects, supports and stands for the right of the individual. Republicans work to keep government out of our pockets. We believe in less government, because it allows the individual to be an entrepreneur, to create and to produce without government interference."

"In every economic group, including those who make $20,000 or less a year, voters are beginning to identify themselves as Republican. In fact, nationally among all voters 36 percent identify themselves as Republicans, while 29 percent identify as Democrats. The Democratic Party has got problems."

Fennel then spoke, saying that "the Democrat Party has offered the most candidates and has done more for the state of Georgia than any other political party in any other state in America. We (Democrats) continue to listen to the people, to respond to the needs that are out there and to produce results in dealing with tax dollars."

Each party had approximately 30 minutes to present their views on certain issues. After the presentation of platforms, a 30 minute question and answer session was held. The four political experts fielded questions from the assembled audience, ranging from problems in public education to the deficit.

Clark Scott, a GSU senior said, "I feel the platform presentation

TAAC, home losses top '91 letdowns

By PAUL FLOECKHER
Sports Editor

Critics might jump to the conclusion that the 1991 GSU Eagle baseball season was a disappointing one.

There was no College World Series appearance. There was no eruption at Hanner Fieldhouse after the announcement of an at-large bid in the NCAA regionals for the Eagles. There was barely even a winning record.

But it cannot be assumed that the Eagles' 32-27 season was a disappointment.

Just parts of it were.

Absence from post season play

After the Eagles lost three of their top four pitchers from last year, a catcher who hit a team-high .382 and a center fielder who stole 29 bases, they could've been expected to come short of a repeat trip to the College World Series.

But, with six position players back, they also could've been expected at least to qualify for the Trans America Athletic Conference Tournament.

The Eagles finished with a respectable 10-8 TAAC mark, but they were not good enough to qualify for the four-team playoff. GSU missed the tourney for the first time since the TAAC began in 1980.

The possible turning point was GSU's April 6-7 series with Florida International in Statesboro. The two clubs entered the three-game series with identical 4-5 TAAC records.

Southern dominated the first game 11-1 to move a full game ahead of the Golden Panthers. Mike Miller, David Dupree and Todd Greene homered to highlight Jim Carragher's complete-game victory.

However, Greg Mucirino belted a three-run homer to key a 4-2 FIU victory in game two. The Panthers won game three 9-1 to drop GSU to 5-7 in the TAAC.

The Eagles did not sweep a conference series until April 20-21 against Mercer. By then, though, FIU and Stetson had already clinched the two TAAC Eastern Division playoff spots.

Unfriendly confines at Clements

It took the GSU Eagles just four games to lose as many times at home as they did the entire 1990 season.

Simply put, visiting teams did not win at J.I. Clements Stadium last year. Southern won 26 of 29 contests, including 24 in a row, on its home field.

The Eagles looked like they would continue the success as they downed the defending national champion Georgia Bulldogs 4-1 in their home opener. However, after the Eagles were throttled 18-2 in game two of the UGA series, they dropped two straight to Clemson.

GSU's home mark plummeted to 1-6 after two losses to South Carolina-Aiken, an NAIA team, and one to Georgia Tech.

Despite closing the season with eight straight home wins, the Eagles finished only 17-13 at Clements, a nine-and-a-half game drop from a year ago.

Starting pitcher after Hamilton

Junior right-hander Joey Hamilton had the kind of year everyone expected — 12 wins, six complete games, 125 strikeouts and a 3.85 earned-run average.

The kind of year that will make GSU's all-time victories leader a first-round draft pick this summer.

Problem was, the rest of the staff simply gave up too many runs. Not counting Hamilton, the team ERA was 6.42. Even with him it was 5.73.

Right-hander Dave Masi showed promise as a freshman in 1990, going 2-1 and throwing a complete game. But Masi suffered the dreaded "sophomore jinx," tying for the team lead in losses (2-6) while sporting a 7.64 ERA.

Righty Jake Greene didn't allow an earned run in fall practice, but he was roughed up when the action counted. Greene won four games (4-4), but uncorked 17 wild pitches while being touched for a 6.68 ERA.

Ronald Stanford had a rocky first year (2-5, 6:09) and Carragher owned a 10.31 after his first three decisions (1-2).

Low team batting average

In 1990, six Eagles batted .305 or better and two more finished in the .290's. As a team, Southern batted .310.

In 1991, four Eagles batted .305 or better and two more finished in the .290's, but GSU slumped to only

.269 as a unit.

Catcher was the hardest-hit position. Although no one expected Buddy Holder to be the next Fitzpatrick, his average was a let-down. Even with a .348 clip over the last 10 games, Holder could manage only a .227 final average.

The lead-off position also suffered. Kevin Hallman batted .321 through the first 16 games, but slumped badly late in the season to end at .251.

Fennell swings into regional

Bo chosen to represent GSU

G-A Staff Reports

For the second consecutive year, golfer Bo Fennell has been selected to represent GSU as an individual at-large participant at the NCAA I East Regional in New Haven, Conn.

Donna J. Noonan, NCAA Director of Championships, made the selection announcements for the 54-hole tournament Monday.

Play opened yesterday at the par-70, 6,600-yard Yale Golf Club. Second round action is scheduled for today with the final round taking place tomorrow.

Fennell finished the spring as one of the top golfers in the country, recording a 71.60 stroke average over seven tournaments. He enjoyed an exceptional finish, placing first or second in each of the last four tournaments.

In his last 12 rounds, Fennell finished nine under par, averaging 70.25 shots per round. His late-season surge included a 65 in the opening round of the conference tournament (he finished in a tie for first).

He was a third-team Golf Coaches Association All-America choice last spring after finishing 15th at the NCAA I East Regional in Savannah, missing the National Championships cut by just one stroke.

The East Regional consists of 23 teams and five at-large selections. Eleven teams and the top two individuals will advance to the National Golf Championships, which will be held June 5-8 at the Poppy Hills Golf Course in Monterey, Calif.

The five at-large individuals or top players from a non-qualifying team are eligible to make up the two individual slots.

Dean & Darnell join GSU

G-A Staff Reports

Mike Darnell, a 6-2, 190-pound catcher from Goose Creek, S.C., and Mark Dean, a 5-11, 165-pound outfielder from Wadsworth, Ohio, have signed letters-of-intent with the GSU baseball program.

Darnell is a two-time all-state selection. He batted .390 with seven home runs and 26 runs batted in in 1991 at Stratford High School.

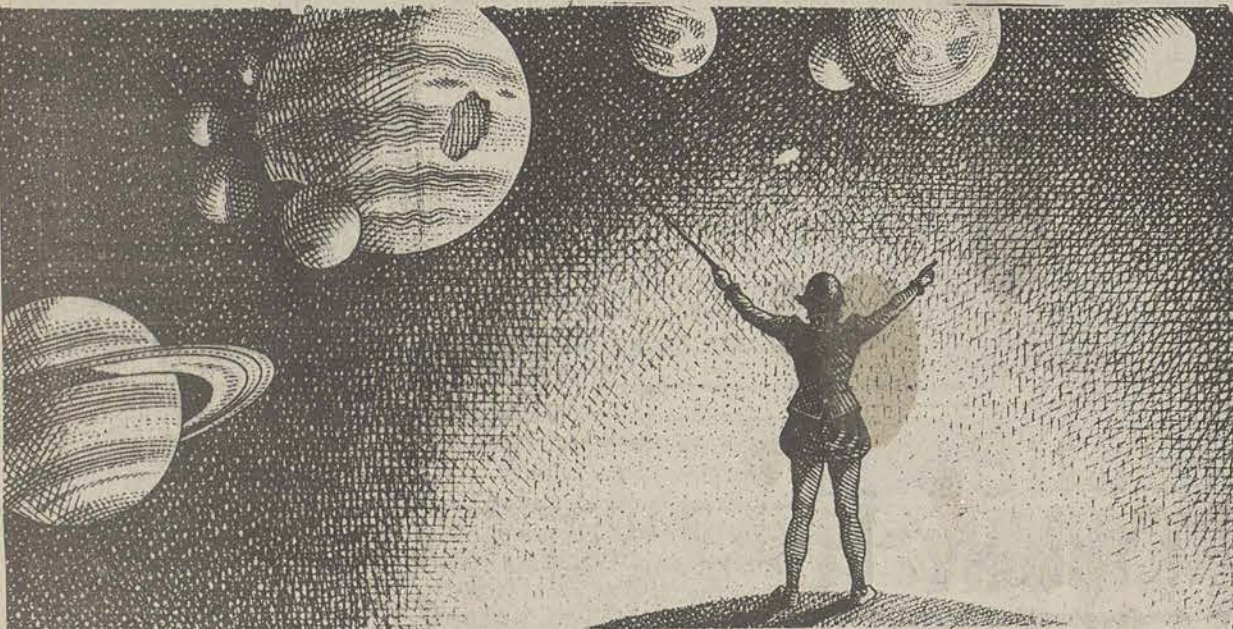

In a three-year varsity career, Darnell hit .376 with nine home runs and 64 RBI. He was also an all-state choice in football at quarterback.

Dean joins the Eagles from Florida Community College in Jacksonville, where he batted .320 as a freshman in 1990 and .301 last season.

Dean drove in 40 runs and stole 47 bases for the Stars over two years.

Darnell and Dean join earlier signees Shannon Snyder, Ron Buffington and Shad Renick.

Battle of the Bands draws dedicated rockers

By DOUG GROSS
Staff writer

GSU's University Union Ballroom was the site for the Campus Activities Board's 1991 Battle of the Bands Monday night, with local progressive rock act Home of Thousands taking first place out of a field of eight diverse and talented bands.

"We didn't think we had pulled it off," said Jason Bueller, Home of Thousands drummer.

Bueller's sentiments were echoed by vocalist and guitarist Brian Bice.

"We're surprised," he said, "I feel both elated and grateful."

Both Bueller and Bice were members of long time local cover band Silent Remarks, but in the past year joined with bassist Ryan Kelley, who is also guitarist for last year's Battle of the Bands winner Jive Socket, to form their current lineup.

"Hopefully now we can be recognized around this campus," said Bice, "we've been around for a while as a 100% original band and maybe this will get people to come check us out."

For placing first the band received five hours of free recording time at Savannah's 20/20 Recording Studios. Members say they plan to go into the studio immediately and record a group of original songs.

Taking second place in the event was Ophelia Daze, who relied on an intense psychedelic sound and the most elaborate stage show of the evening to make their impression on the judges. The band's stage show featured strobe lights, dimmed house lights and soap bubbles emanating from an unknown source to help set the atmosphere they desired.

"We really enjoyed the competion," said drummer Ann Clayton. "Even if we hadn't placed, I feel we had a strong performance and had lots of fun."

Ophelia Daze plan on using the three hours of recording time awarded for second place to record a live demo tape which they hope to have released before the end of this quarter.

The third place band in the contest were Trip and Fall, the only band finishing in the top three to perform cover songs. The band played a set of both original songs and covers such as Jimi Hendrix's Fire and Hard to Handle, a song originally written by Otis Redding and more recently recorded by Atlanta's Black Crowes.

Aside from playing in the contest, Trip and Fall also donated their sound equipment, none of which was provided by CAB, for many of the bands to use.

For third place, the group received a gift certificate to Deloaches Music.

Other groups competing in the Battle of the Bands were: Crashin' Abbey, Daddy Was a Preacher, Jokers Wild, Midnight Sun and Threshold. The amount of parity among the competing bands was greater than ever in the history of the event, creating a difficult situation for the judges forced to decide upon three superior bands.

"It's incredible," said Dr. Russell Dewey, faculty advisor at campus radio station WVGS and a judge for the Battle of the Bands, "This fall I judged a battle of the bands for Pi Sigma Epsilon and there were four bands entered. Tonight there were eight totally different bands, which means there are at least twelve good bands in Statesboro, some of which are really good."

International Studies offer global opportunities

By ANA LUCIO
Staff writer

Many foreign students have come over from several different countries to study at GSU, and now we Americans have the chance to travel to other countries and study. If you feel the ability to be cultural is over powering you then go with your feelings. Of course, a second language is necessary in order to be able to communicate on your own with people of the country that you are visiting.

The International Intercultural Studies Program is the home base from which all of the many different programs came about. Each program has several different tours and excursions for all of the students who love to go sightseeing.

One of the trips to Montpellier, France includes round trip airfare, a six-week academic program, accommodations in dorm rooms, two meals daily, program related excursions, and 13 to 15 undergraduate credit hours all for $3,395. In order for a student to go he must have a 2.5 overall grade point average and a 3.0 average in his most recent French classes.

Another type of program is in Quebec, Canada. A total of 10 to 15 undergraduate hours can be earned in this program. Accommodations are with Quebecois families for a total of 6 weeks. No course pre-requisites are needed but beginners may only sign up for a two-week course only. The total cost which is $2,550 includes all of the above along with transportation, excursions, and two meals a day.

These overseas studies programs are not only for the foreign-speaking students. Anyone who wants to go is more than welcome to apply. The IISP also has programs like journalism, nursing, history, theater, and business majors. These programs are offered in countries such as England, Paris, London, Australia, Italy, and Mexico.

One of GSU's more recent programs has to do with the high school students. Jeanne Haegmann, a present french teacher is accompanying a group of students who are in high school but yet attending GSU for college credit. These privileged students will be earning regular college credits overseas.

In order to apply a student must have a completed application form, a $200 deposit, two letters of recommendation from an instructor familiar with the student's work, and official transcripts with seal from each college attended, sent directly by the registrar to the IISP office.

To be eligible to study abroad a credit-seeking student must have a minimum cumulative grade point average of 2.5. Some programs may require a slightly higher average.

Basically all of the programs offer similar activities, benefits, and accommodations. Price does vary with each program but financial aid is available.

"Wolves" and "Lambs" appear on the big screen

By TREY DECKER
Staff writer

THE SILENCE OF THE LAMBS

Starring: Jodie Foster, Anthony Hopkins, Scott Glenn

Silence comes in loud and clear!

Hailed by Entertainment magazine as "The best thriller ever made" The Silence of the Lambs has become this year's top movie. Based on the best-selling suspense/thriller by Thomas Harris, The Silence of the Lambs tells of a young FBI trainee, Clarice Starling (Jodie Foster) who collaborates with a former serial killer (Anthony Hopkins) by the name of Hannibal "The Cannibal" Lecter to help catch a serial killer that kills his victims and uses their skin so as to create a female body for himself.

As she taps into the mind of Lecter, Clarice Starling is able to track "Buffalo Bill" (the killer), who holds his victims in a dry well in his house before he kills them, and also finds out some things about herself. The movie, directed by Jonathan Demme, is extremely faithful to the book, which means, in my opinion, that the book is perfect. I read the book in the Financial Aid line here at GSU and I hardly ever looked up.

The Silence of the Lambs is the second in a series by Thomas Harris about Hannibal Lecter. The first was Red Dragon (which is #3 on the best-seller list) and Thomas Harris has said that a another "Hannibal" book will follow. Although the movie does not really deal with Hannibal Lecter and his reign of terror, Anthony Hopkins does a superb job as one of the world's most dangerous men.

In my opinion, Silence of the Lambs is a movie that has to be seen and once you do see it you might think twice about borrowing a cup of sugar from your next door neighbor. I think even Alfred Hitchcock is turning over in his grave.

DANCES WITH WOLVES

Starring: Kevin Costner, Rodney Grant

This movie dances away with seven academy awards and doesn't miss a step!

Dances With Wolves, directed by Costner himself and based on the best-selling novel by Michael Blake, turned audiences' heads everywhere and made them regret the historical wrongs done to the Indians by the white man. At least, it made me think. Kevin Costner (Field of Dreams, Bull Durham) stars in this motion picture epic about one man who joins the Sioux Indian.

After arriving at his post Costner finds it abandoned, but stays anyway. He soon comes in contact with some Sioux Indians and becomes friends. He gives up his life as a soldier and becomes a member of the Sioux tribe. However, when Costner returns to his post for a notebook, he is captured and treated like any other Indian.

The movie tells the tale of a race that was never really understood and therefore driven out because of their "strange" ways. It tells of a society that tried to destroy and conquer the Indians instead of making peace. With a wonderful cast, including Rodney Grant who plays an Indian friend of Costner's, the film portrays one man's finding of himself and his realization of the truth about a society that he once thought of as the ideal society.

Although the novel is not as entertaining as the movie, if it can inspire a film like this it must have something that I did not find when I read it. Dances With Wolves is all the Indian movies ever combined and then some... but then what else would you expect from Kevin Costner.

Don't just sit there...

Letters to the Editor

Wade off base in letter

Dear Editor,
This is a response and tangent spawned by Kristin Wade's letter to the editor in the 5-17 edition of the G-A.

First of all, this chick must not know very much about world politics. Sure the blacks over here in North America may refer to Africa as the homeland-that indeed may be true-but Kristin says "When we do leave....." as if she and her friends, relatives whomever are going to go back one day. First what part of Africa is the motherland? It's a huge continent-is any country considered the motherland? South Africa is ruled by a racist white minority-I doubt Kristin will want to go back there. Nearly every other nation on the continent is in economic shambles, why go back? Like life over there is more pleasing and efficient there. Kristin, you live in the greatest nation in the world-remember the Bill of Rights? Well it doesn't exist in Africa.

Next Kristin refers to someone as "Keebler," what the hell is that anyway? If it refers to white people then Kristin is a hypocrite preaching "no racism" then alienating whites in her letter by calling them "Keeblers." Give me a break.

And Kristin goes on to insinuate that she (as well as other blacks) are fighting a war against whites. That "with allies like you, we don't need enemies..." comment leads us all to believe that you are fighting a war. There is no war. It ended back in 1865. Sure there may be a struggle for racial equality, but it hardly qualifies as a war.

Malcolm X is infamous for his ideology "By any means necessary," meaning that racial equality will be achieved any way possible, via violent revolution or whatever-but whatever happened to peaceful reform?

There is no war. I am not your enemy Kristin, no one is. Stop being so defensive and get on with your life-like the Traveling Wilburys say "But it's alright, remember to live and let live."

Bikinis confuse

Dear Editor,
I am a college freshman, and I am writing in response to your article "The Importance of the Bikini" 5-17-91. Before starting school here at GSU, I was deathly afraid of college rape. After reading this article, I was confused about my fears.

Don't get me wrong, I enjoy sunbathing and beach parties just as much as the next person. However, I feel a woman may be inviting trouble when she buys a swimsuit and sunbathes for the soul purpose of arousing men. I do not believe a woman asks to be raped, but many women need to be a little more self-conscious about the clothing they wear.

Now my fears have been put to rest because I do not dress to arouse men. Rapists may not be affected by a woman's style of dress, but I am one woman who is not going to take the chance.

Wade letter addressed

Dear Editor,
This letter is addressed to Kristin Wade.

After reading your letters to the editor, I feel compelled to give you a few of my own observations. Kristin, in your letter you refer to "Keebler," are you referring to white people? And if you are I want you to know that I never called a black person a "nigger" or "coon."

If you want racism to end then do not cause it yourself. It is human nature to fight back. If you say something mean to someone expect them to say something right back. I think a lot of this supposed racism is conjured up in your head! But I am not saying that racism does not exist.

Recently, a friend of mine was discriminated against in the Union. He has no desire to go back to his mother country of Scotland.

About this mother country thing Kristin, you said, "When we do leave....." can you honestly say that your life here in the United States is so bad that you would move Africa? Did you know that millions of people are starving to death over there? There are civil wars being fought, and in South Africa, the blacks are ruled under white control. This is where you would rather live? Do you think your letter would be published in a newspaper in South Africa?

In South Africa you would probably not even be in college. Or is the Africa you are talking about somewhere else? Is it a black thing I would not understand?

Here at GSU do white students harass you? In your letter you said, "Don't patronize us" well DON'T PATRONIZE US EITHER!! You also forgot that white men fought for black people. Believe me when I say that I am embarrassed at the way white people have treated black people; I don't think the blacks have been treated fairly.

Kristin if you keep all that anger and resentment inside for the rest of your life you will be one unhappy person. Don't dwell on the past or you won't get anything accomplished in the future. But I am not saying forget your history.

The most disturbing part of your letter was the ending. "Please stay on the other side because within allies like you, we don't need enemies." Kristin if you want racial equality then don't fight with whites, blacks, greens, or whomever. Try to accept people no matter what their color, then they might try to accept you. I am not your enemy. If you want racial equality as bad as I do then you need to break down your barriers of hostility and work with me. There are no enemies or sides to pick. Come on now, it is a human thing we all need to understand!

Letters not correct

Dear Editor,
This is a response to the response to the original response to Logan's column which appeared some weeks ago in the G-A.

I hate racists, no matter what color they happen to be. I noticed in Kristin D. Wade's letter in the last issue she made three references to "Mr. Keebler." I am just wondering how Nabisco figures in to the whole issue of racism? I also was not aware that we had cookie-baking elves in the GSU History department telling stories and not teaching history. This is a serious problem that needs to be addressed.

In regard to Gracie M. Sharpe's letter, I agree some racism is caused by some whites who strive to hold on to their "Old South" dream. I am ashamed of the Kappa Alpha Fraternity and all other whites who have the back-woods mentality about other races different from their own. Oh sure, they'll shout "we're not racists, we're not racists!" Sure. Ask them if they would allow a black student to become a brother in their fraternity. Yeah, that's what I thought. I wish there was something I could do to get rid of organizations like the Kappa Alpha Order and the KKK. But this is America, and we must allow ignorance to thrive to keep everything in balance.

Now wait a minute Ms. Sharpe, seventy-five percent of racism is caused by whites. Where did this statistic originate? Come on people, let's stop labeling everything and look at the person next to you for what he or she is....a human.

What is this "Keebler," "Nigger," "Chink," "Beaner," crap? So I guess everybody has a cute little nickname to degrade others with. How nice. By the way, I am white but I guess I should start calling myself a European-American since it seems everyone is compelled to regionalize themselves. Oh, and I would sign my name to this but I fear that a certain race would give me a lot of flack. Sadly enough, it's my own race that I fear. Oh I am sure the members of Kappa Alpha and the KKK would be mature enough to take my criticism without striking back at me, but just to be safe I will remain anonymous.

Disgusted with racism-

Foul play in SGA?

Dear Editor,
I could be wrong, but I believe a great injustice has been done to certain students here at GSU. Recently, the winners of the SGA scholarship were announced and ironically enough the newly elected SGA President won one of the two scholarships given. How fair is this? Do you smell a rat? I was a candidate for those scholarships and I feel like I deserved the scholarship at least as much as Chris Clark did. Maybe he has some friends on the committee who voted on the winners, I don't know. I cannot help but suspect that some foul play went on in the determination process-perhaps your newspaper can do an investigative article on this ordeal and print it. If the process was fair I'll back down, but prove it first.

South lot needs paving!

Dear Editor,
Why in the hell can't the South Building parking lot be paved? Why can't there be smooth asphalt put down there so that students' cars don't get filthy with wet mud and clay, or paint nicks when that damn gravel kicks up on the cars? The pot holes there are atrocious! There's a hole in the lot that's at least eight inches deep and everyone has to drive through it every day because it is unavoidable!

The inclement weather is no help either. When sand and gravel are rained upon for days at a time the results is not conducive to a car's upkeep. Give the students a break GSU administration! I bet the parking lot would be paved in no time if Dr. Henry or the Southern Boosters had to drive through that damn crater ridden terrain each day!

McCroan Sux!

Dear Editor,
TheatreSouth put on a wonderful performance of The Threepenny Opera last week, but it might have been more enjoyable if everyone in McCroan Auditorium didn't have to combat dehydration and heat stroke during the show!

I commend TheatreSouth for doing their best to make the conditions better by running the fans during the intermissions, but that is just not enough. We built a new parking lot, the University Union, and new gates for the faculty parking lots, but we couldn't install a bloody air conditioner for a theatre that is used frequently! Does someone have to literally die in there to get one installed? It cannot be a new problem as the Administration Building is one of the original buildings that the campus built! Think about it tightwads.

Doyle Alexander

I felt so bad about not giving Alonzo McGhee credit the last time I ran a football picture, and for saying that it was Joe Ross (after Sports Information told me it was!). I have decided to run this picture of another spectacular catch he gave us.

Braves a contender?

Yes sports fans, the Atlanta Braves are flirting with first place in the National League West. Who knew? At press time they are a half a game out of first behind the LA Dodgers.

If you followed the Braves past five or six seasons (much less the 1970's) you'll realize that skepticism abounds the Braves and most of us think they will screw up soon. So we at The George-Anne pledge our support to the Braves and stand behind them....., as long as they win!

As the Georgia Tech's Technique stated earlier, "Soon they'll reach that point on the schedule where it says 'Fold Here', and the Braves will oblige as usual."

So if you know what's good for you, you'll get up to Atlanta and take in a few games while the Braves are in a trance; drink some beer. (those who are legal) and eat a hot dog or two. Taste the roasted peanuts and enjoy what it is they call the American Pastime-but be cautious when deciding whether or not to buy an $18 Braves cap-remember they may not be winning for long!

A reminder

Spring quarter is coming to a close. The George-Anne staff is winding down the year and preparing to close up shop again until the summer issues come out. This is just a reminder to all advertisers and those wishing to address any issue in the letters-to-the-editor section of the opinions page: there are two issues left for spring quarter-May 28 and May 31. Get your ads or letters in soon if you want to see them printed this quarter!

drawn," said Reverend J. C. Shipman of Midway, "It should have a 50 percent minority population."

Districts for the state House and Senate which are also being redrawn were hot topics as well. The population shift to north Georgia forces some districts in south Georgia to be combined to meet the necessary quota for a General Assembly district.

This led to the constant shifting of Liberty County from one district to another by representatives of the various districts.

"We would like to stay in the 129th District," said Henry Wilkins, speaking on behalf of the Effingham Chamber of Commerce. "We would rather lose Liberty County to stay there."

Battalion Executive Officer.

The American Legion Award for Military Excellence went to Cadet Leon Moore from the MS III class and Cadet Capt. Warren Hilburn from the MS IV class.

The American Legion Award for Scholastic Excellence was given to Cadet Jacqueline McAuley and Cadet Capt. Gary Witte, the Eagle Battalion S-1.

Cadet Capt Robert Cox, the Battalion S-4, was awarded the Veterans of Foreign Wars Award.

Cadet Capt. David Casey was the recipient of the American Veterans of WWII Award.

The Eagle Battalion Commander, Cadet Lt. Col. Alprentice Smith, recieved the General Dynamics Award.

The National Sojourners Award was given to MS II Cadet Daniel L. O'Neal.

The Sons of the American Revolution gave Cadet Stacie L. Deal their award.

Cadet Bradley Butkovich recieved the Daughters of the Founders and Patriots of American Award.

The AUSA Military History Award was given to Cadet Capt. Mark Parker.

Rep. Clinton Oliver offered three options to the committee to keep his district, the 121st, intact. Two of the three involved begrudgingly taking citizens from Liberty County.

The committee held 13 meetings throughout the state and will take the results into committee meetings starting June 1. The committee must present the new district boundaries to the General Assembly for approval on Aug. 19.

was a great chance to learn more about each party, and what they represent. The four speakers were well educated on the subject matter, and I learned a lot."

The Military Order of World Wars Award was given in three classes, the MS I award going to Cadet Stacie L. Deal, the MS II going to Cadet Franklin McGrath, and the MS III being awarded to Cadet Jaqueline McAuley.

MS II Cadet Kevin Welch was awarded the Society of the War of 1812 Award.

Among those cadets being honored for having been awarded a Bothwell A. "Snag" Johnson Scholarship were Cadets Kevin Welch, Capt. Warren Hilburn, Jaqueline McAuley, Col. Alprentice Smith, and Lori Brantley.

Those cadets being honored for having earned a Army ROTC Scholarship were Cadets Stacie L. Deal, Lori Brantley, Bradley Butkovich, Franklin McGrath, Richard Stinson, and Chris Byler.

Cadets being named as Distinguished Military Students were Cadet Maj. Norman G. Blackburn, Cadet Maj. Michael Duck, Cadet Lt. Col. Alprentice Smith, and Command SGM Denise McPhail.

The ceremony was held in the Ballroom of the University Union.

Eagles

ToddGreen finished above .300 again, their averages were down from a year ago. Yuro dropped 50 points (.358 to .308) and Greene fell 43 points (.348 to .305).

When the starters slumped, GSU Head Coach Jack Stallings could not turn to the reserves for help. Back-ups Craig Cassidy (.176), Bryan Wiggins (.167) and Karl Garcia (.043) were a combined 8-for-64.

Low batting averages for first-year starters or seldom-used reserves are not unusual, but one player's struggle at the plate came as a complete surprise.

Doug Eder's sub-.200 average

The Eagles began the season with question marks at pitcher and catcher and in center field, but surely they thought they were set at second base.

Doug Eder started 65 games at second base in 1990, batting .305 with 12 doubles, six home runs and 44 runs batted in.

But his junior year was a drastically different story.

Eder hit just .093 (5-54) through the first 16 games, and never recovered. After a drop from second to seventh in the batting order didn't help, he saw Chad Sumner take over his position.

Eder improved slightly after being moved to designated hitter in the second half of the season, but he managed to finish the year with only a .167 average, one homer and 13 RBI.
